taining. Eileen Creelman"

+ — Nation p10 Ap 11 '36

"[H] has been animated by a facile group of players and may, as easily, be dismissed as another pleasant, if incurably romantic, bit

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + -- Fair; + + Mediocre; + Poor; + Exceptio nally Poor of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. There were moments when it might have been considerably more and we permitted ourselves the luxury of anticipating another 'Alice Adams' or 'Kitty Foyle', then jumped the plot-binders.' P. S. Nugent

"Although the material is familiar, the treatment is keenly in evidence. Take this 'Small Town Girl' as a moderately amusing romp that should enjoy a fair amount of springtime success. It should be well liked and well attended with a genrous share of amusing incidents.'

"Small Town Girl' is a sprightly film, well acted, directed, and produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and is ambitious to be a genticous share of amusing incidents.'

"[The story] is told unaffectedly and often quite entertainingly.
"— Stage p10 My '36

Time p14 Ap 20 '36

"Modern Cinderella story with the usual happy ending, this is better than average entertainment for audiences. It is an intelligently produced, well directed and adequately acted Family Movie.

"— Box Office p15 '36

"'Small Town Girl' is one of the Real pictures to flash onto the screen this year, and one which is bound to be a great box-office attraction.

"— Canadian Moving Pict Digest p6 My '36

"With some judicious cutting and the action speeded up a bit thereby, this will be very appealing entertainment. Perhaps it will be more successful in the smaller situations but it is a fine light comedy-drama for anybody's theatre.

"— Film Curb p12 Ap 25 '36

"Robert Taylor and Janet Gaynor are presented in an enjoyable piece of comedy-drama which should appeal to the masses, and appearing to them means box-office. It may be a Cinderella story but it is very modern and so well written and directed that it can't help pleasing most everyone. The working girls, especially, won't want to miss it.

"— Film Daily p12 Ap 2 '36

"It should bring satisfactory results everywhere. In addition to a plot with wide appeal the picture has the personality by Janet Gaynor which should place her anew in the front rank of name attractions. Teamed with Robert Taylor, Mrs. Gaynor offers a characterization which, while similar, is at the same time different from her previous efforts and demonstrates conclusively her complete understanding of acting nuances. Aided by the benefit of newspaper serialization, plus the strength of the picture itself, top results seem assured.

"— Motion Pict Daily p12 Ap 1 '36

"Modern in atmosphere and tastefully produced, this looks like a show to engage the attention of both patrons and exhibitors. Previewed in Wilshire Theatre, Los Angeles, first run house, it meets the approval of its members. The film, adapted from a Broadway play, is a good comedy, well played, and promises to appeal to the masses.

"— Motion Pict Herald p54 Ap 11 '36

"Backed by a national newspaper serialization, with star names to sell, 'Small Town Girl' is an exploitable picture that should account for itself nicely. . . . Estimate: good program anywhere."

"— N Y Exhibitor p14 Ap 25 '36

"'Small Town Girl' is romance with nice comedy sequences and with a well-balanced cast. All classes short of the hard boiled minority will accept it on its own terms. Story seems well told and the cast well placed along standard formula. . . . This is not a critic but a classification.

"— Variety (Hollywood) p15 Mr 15 '36

"'Small Town Girl' has the poignant quality which, coupled with impressive production and name appeal, spells reliable box office. . . . Picture will amply please the Gaynor admirers, plus the growing rank of Robert Taylor fans, and holds particular strength for women audiences in its galant and romantic story.

"— Variety (Hollywood) p3 Mr 31 '36

SNOWED UNDER. Ap 4 '36 63min Warner

Players: George Brent, Genevieve Tobin, Glenda Farrell, Patricia Ellis, Frank McGlah

Director: Raymond Enright

See issue of March 30, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Although just a light bit of nonsense the film is quite funny.

"— Bks & Films My '36

"A: mediocre; Y and C: no.

"— Christian Century p753 Je 3 '36

"Mature."

"— Jt Estimates Mr 1 '36

"Objection: the whole moral tone is bad—the divorce angle and the suggestive remarks. Objectionable in part.

"— Nat Legion of Decency Mr 22 '36

"Though it is an artificial little comedy, treading on delicate ground at times, it is well done. Mature.

"— Sel Motion Pict Ap '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The play moves at a merry pace. Not important, but definitely cheerful.

"— Canadian M p61 My '36

"'Snowed Under' is full of those things that are always happening in the movies and that seldom happen in real life. The only ambition of pictures like this is to fill out the bills on the end of double-feature bills. With bank nights, national incidents and theDependencies of an erstwhile playwright, relates the story about a smart, engaging, unassuming young woman whose every effort is spent in trying to help 'Snowed Under' should accomplish its little task.' (2 stars) Beverly Hills Daily News

"In retrospect one doesn't know whether to laugh or yawn at the entertainment. It certainly strains for effect, and its theatrical situations are definitely phony, yet its antics remain reasonably hilarious, and some of its bright lines are actually bright." Marguerite Tazelea

"— N Y Herald Tribune p10 Mr 30 '36

"It must have struck someone in Hollywood as funny to cooperate in a snowbound Connecticut farm, a playwright, two of his exwives, a miserable housekeeper, a deputy sheriff, and an allimony-demanding lawyer.

"The film, badly in need of witty lines and amusing characters, gets instead some minor slapstick. Even that helped. . . . 'Snowed Under' is one of the saddest slapstick and farce which doesn't come off." Eileen Creelman

"— N Y Sun p21 Mr 30 '36

"Only a strong sense of duty, coupled with the grim realizations that things could not possibly take a turn for the worse, kept us chained to a seat in the Strand yesterday watching one of the Warner stock companies struggling as best they could with a loud, witless, and tiresome farce called 'Snowed Under'."

"— N Y Times p17 Mr 30 '36

"Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
SNOWED UNDER—Continued

"Although the central idea of 'Snowed Under'—three women going out to get their man—may have good possibilities for routine entertainment, the uneasy writing and the awkward acting spare the audience excessive pleasure. If it were competently written and if the actors less self-conscious, audiences going into the Strand might be fairly well served. But those who do will be greeted with slyly and speeches, slapdash direction and a quite artless little series of complications involving all the staple elements of farce. Indeed, they have the power to prove its absolute futility for 'Snowed Under' is just another transient visitor at that theater." William Boehner
— NY World Telegram p33 Mr 30 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Amusing farce which, due to fast pace, will please average patron in spite of weak plot, flippant dialogue and slapstick comedy. Family." Box Office p27 Mr 25 '36

"Farce comedy, this majors in ingredients that ordinarily make customers laugh. The humor is sometimes broad, sometimes subtle, yet always it has the power to please in its objective... Fast moving, not bothering with inconsequential, but devoting itself solely to the basically amusing, nonsensical, the show has plenty to interest the comedy fans." Motion Pict Herald p40 Mr 21 '36

SONG OF CHINA
Players: Lim Cho-cho. Shang Kwah-woo. Li Shoh-shoh
Director: Lo Ming-yau
A silent film with musical background produced in China with Chinese and English subtitles. "[It] unfolds as a naive saga of filial devotion. Covering family life for four generations, it shows the second and fourth sons devoted to the Chinese tradition of parental respect, with the third son a prodigal who goes to the city for a period of riotous living, but is future repentant at the end." (Motion Pict Daily)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The lives of several generations of a fine Chinese family are followed through discontent, disobedience, and redemption, in a beautiful manner in the very best of taste. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Outstanding, and an educational picture for all ages. Notable for manners and customs, use of silences, the beauty and suitability of the musical score, the photography, and because entirely home Chinese. Mature-family Excellent." DAR

"'Song of China' is a picture of great dignity and charm. Family." Nat Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul Je 6 '36

"The remarkably fine characterizations of the actors make this a picture to be enjoyed and long remembered. Adults & young people." LA Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) My 27 '36

"The acting is superb in its restraint, symbolism is used throughout, and while the story moves at snail's pace according to American standards, it has a distinct artistic and educational value. Adult audiences, 12-16: worth while; children, 8-12: tiring." Motion Pict R Je '36

"Entirely different in tempo it cannot be compared with American and English productions... Interesting for the entire family." Nat Council of Jewish Women My 27 '36

"[It is], an excellent production. General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Je 11 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"I was surprised by the high degree of excellence achieved in its making. In Hollywood we have a smug sort of view of ourselves as picture makers. We are surprised when someone working somewhere else sends us something as good as our best... Before the first reel has been run you will cease wondering at the fact of its being a wholly Chinese creation and become aware you are looking at one of the finest motion pictures it ever has been your good fortune to see. It is a production for intelligent audiences and will appreciate. Our audiences, however, trained by the general run of Hollywood films are not only a lower order of intelligence than 'Song of China' demands for its full appreciation, may not accord it the welcome its artistic merits entitle it to." + Hollywood Spec p7 Je 6 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"For the art theaters and for houses that have a large Chinese following, this picture should be good fare. Produced, directed, written, photographed, and played by the native Chinese, it makes an interesting novelty. The picture was made as a silent and with explanatory titles, one can follow the plot without any difficulty." Film Daily p6 My 26 '36

"This odd and interesting feature-length picture, produced in China by Chinese and brought to this country by Douglas MacLean, will find a special welcome among the art theater and among young students everywhere. It will do well as a cultural novelty to fill out neighborhood houses. It's a bill where the lower order of school patronage and can, as a rule, best be exploited through educational groups... Apart from the naive charm of its rather slow-moving story it has study interest in its glimpse of old Chinese manners and customs, and of the later infiltration of western ways." Hollywood Reporter p3 My 22 '36

"[It] may hold interest as a novelty in metropolitan centers... A musical background accompanies the action which will please some Westerners but grate on others. The photography is surprisingly good and the acting and direction have a strong professional flavor." Motion Pict Daily p7 My 26 '36

"Excellent for Chinese, art houses, only." Phil's Exhibitor, Paper & Poster My 15 '36

"'Song of China' might just as well have stayed in the Orient for all the good it will do at the box office in this country. Truly this is a poignant drama of life in the far east—but only everyone in America knows much more of the situation currently than is displayed, let alone portrayed... For a novelty it's okay, but not in a theater where people pay good coin to see something... The music score carries it along beautifully... In fact, if it weren't for the music people would walk out on it. Secondly, the photography is excellent..." Variety (Hollywood) p5 My 22 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
SONG OF THE SADDLE. F 22 '36 63min First national Players: Dick Foran, Charles Middleton, George Ernest, Bonita Granville, Alma Lloyd
Director: Louis King
See issue of March 30, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings
"This is a western drama, constructed on familiar lines. Suitability: family."
Mo Film Bul p30 Ja 27 '36
"Adolescents, 12-16: not recommended; children, 8-12: unsuited."
Motion Pic R Ja '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"Not since the glorious days of Bill Hart, Tom Mix, Harry Carey et al. has there been a sagebrush drama as full of action as [this] Warner production. . . [H] is a horse opera embodying practically all of the elements which distinguished the rip-snorting silent films of the covered-wagon days in the West." T. M. P. + N Y Times p13 Mr 21 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"A better than average Western, good enough as program fare for even those who don't usually go for this type of film." + Film Daily p8 Ap 29 '36
"The vengeance motivation of 'The Count of Monte Cristo' animates this western drama in which Dick Foran manages, between stagecoach holdups and similar dramatic incidents, to sing a couple of song numbers which do not detract from the earnestness of the plot presentation."
Motion Pic Herald p56 Ap 11 '36
"Warner Bros. has a sprightly bronc from the western corrals, and one that will do well at the box office. Title is a misnomer because no hint of glowering action and spirited abandonment found in this sagebrush Robin Hood tale. . . Absence of name draw will make real selling essential. But properly sold, word-of-mouth should help to lure bet for dualers and may stand alone in some spots." + Variety p63 Mr 23 '36

SONG OF THE TRAIL. F 24 '36 65min Ambassador Players: Kermit Maynard, Evelyn Brent, Fuzzy Knight, Antoinette Lees
Director: Russell Hopton
Based on novel of same title by James Oliver Curwood. A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A, Y and C: regulation Western." Par M p50 Je '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"Regulation horse opera that contains its full share of what it takes to make a Western. One novelty is a male chorus who do one song in good style."
+ Film Curb p4 Ap 4 '36
"This Western isn't all fighting, chasing, and gun play, although there is enough to satisfy the action folks. In one of the sequences, Kermit's antics reminds one of Douglas Fairbanks with his flying, jumping, and sliding. Maurice Conn has given this production more entertainment value than is usually found in products of this classification and on that score, the picture might play some dates in the better bracket." + Film Daily p9 Mr 27 '36
"Though constructed on a routine action formula, this picture offers a cast headed by Kermit Maynard, Evelyn Brent and Talon Brent and the name of James Oliver Curwood as author of the original story to attract followers of hard-riding drama."
+ Motion Pict Daily p2 Mr 25 '36

SONS O' GUNS. My 30 '36 82min Warner
Players: Joe E. Brown, Joan Blondell, Beverly Roberts, Eric Blore, Winifred Shaw, Josephine King. G. P. Huntley, Jr. Director: Lloyd Bacon
Based on a musical comedy, Tin Hats, by Fred Thompson and Jack Donahue. "Story deals with Joe E. Brown, an actor, a slacker during late war, who's drafted into the army because he happens to come out of the theater wearing a stage uniform. In France he gets mixed up with a spy, goes to prison, escapes with the aid of a British officer's uniform. Sent to his regiment, he learns to manage an entire regiment of German soldiers, returns to find himself a hero." (Variety Hollywood)

Audio Audience Suitability Ratings
"A, Y and C: amusing." Christian Century p355 Je 10 '36
"Family." Am Legion Auxiliary
"Adults: good; 14-18: good; 8-14: good. Family & junior matinees." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers
"This picture has several genuinely funny sequences and is spiced with bits of clever dialogue, but there is too little substance to keep it from being a bit drasy new and then Family." Nat Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs
"Splendid entertainment for the family. (Objections to Y.M.C.A. entertainment episode)." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women
Fox W Coast Bul My 16 '36
"All ages & Junior matinees.
Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) My 7 '36
"As a rollicking satire on the assininity of war from the point of view of the actual combatants, this film is priceless. As a Joe E. Brown comedy it is one of his very best... Enthusiastically recommended for family groups on any other audience. Family." + Jt Estimates My 1 '36
"Another Joe E. Brown picture in the typical Joe E. Brown style—perfectly silly and yet it may be some of real value in that It joins the 'Veterans of Future Wars' movement in making fun of war, and very few men or things can be riled up against it. . . . Seniors, 12-16: amusing; children, 8-12: yes." + Motion Pic R My '36
SONS O' GUNS—Continued

"Family—junior."

Nat Ed of R M Je '36

"Full of humor and hearty laughs, this satire on war, which might serve as peace propaganda, is clever and delicious while it puts no tax on the mentality will prove real relaxation for the entire family.

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women My 6 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency My 21 '36

"Family—junior."

Wkly Guide My 16 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"'Sons O' Guns' may be just another funny film to the unobservant, but a closer scrutiny of its make-up day shows there is much light and a clear evaluation of our emotional thinking. . . . Of course Joe Brown's ability needs no commendation, but his amazingly consistent successes elugeize him beyond anything I might add. Joe Brown is simply Joe Brown. There is no other comedian who can replace him." Paul Jacobs

+ Hollywood Spec p13 My 9 '36

"Sons O' Guns' is often quite amusing, in fact more than I have any right to be." (2½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p50 Je 13 '36

"Out in Hollywood, where the picture has been released, there is an impetuous desire to class it with some of the best of Chaplin, notably that superlative comedian's 'Shoulder Arms.'" Variety May agree with that, most won't. None, however, is likely to find the film anything but first rate. It is a very funny motion-picture, it definitely is Joe E. Brown's best picture."

+ Lit Digest p20 My 9 '36

"It is the typical Joe E. Brown comedy of making faces, emitting odd noises and managing to be an altogether ridiculous buck private, an achievement that kept the Strand audience yesterday in stitches over his one-man show. . . . The wisecracking dialogue is bright, and while the story is pretty outmoded by now because serious on the war and farces about war having been run into the ground, the absurdity of war is made sharply evident even in so sly a trick a thing as this." Margaret Tazelaar

+ N Y Herald Tribune p19 My 15 '36

"The plot gets pretty rough-and-tumble before it's over, with the slapstick humor fading into silliness at the end. Mr. Brown's fans will undoubtedly like it all, however, and the picture has some really funny episodes. Not all the gags are fresh, but Mr. Brown performs his antics with a contagious enjoyment." Eileen Creelman

+ N Y Sun p25 My 14 '36

"[It is an] apparent attempt at a war film to end all war films. It is only fair to assume that such a consummation was what Director Lloyd Bacon desired, because the war he has produced for Warners is just the silliest business in the world. Not a single soul goes west." J. T. M.

+ N Y Times p29 My 14 '36

"This is a routine vehicle. . . . It emerges from Warner Brothers' studios a Model T job, creaking with hoary gags and hokum humor, and is in no way for Mr. Brown. He is forced to spasms in his heroic attempts to redeem it. There are some sequences that do razz the score of combatting nations. It is a minor film tragedy that nothing is done about it to make them effective and they appear in the episodes meant to be funny. A little more punch and a little more point would have resulted in a clever satire of humanity's meanest side. Douglas Gilbert

+ — N Y World-Telegram p16 My 16 '36

"Joe E. Brown rushes into No Man's Land and returns scarred, but in a better-than-expected condition. . . . Like most of this comedian's films, 'Sons O' Guns' is nearly a one-man job but in this instance Jerry Wald and Julius Epstein have manufactured a series of gags, mainly delivered by Mr. Brown with a gun rapidity. . . . Eric Blore is immensely humorous as a valet who finds it difficult to forget that he's been a gentleman's gentleman." H. S.

+ Script p11 My 23 '36

"People who are amused by the fact that Joe E. Brown's mouth and an unobserving, one-man job will not mind this version of a musicomic in which the late Jack Donahue danced in 1933-34 and panned pantomime to the point that he is to be shot, rehearsing the way he will smoke a last cigarette with heroic nonchalance."

Time p50 My 25 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

Rampant with extraordinarily clever situations and perfectly, this is by far Joe E. Brown's best. . . . The story, unlike those of most Brown vehicles, gives the gentleman of the gargantuian mouth a real chance to emanoe."

+ Box Office p25 My 9 '36

"It's highly amusing from start to finish. As a vehicle of the A.E.F., Joe E. Brown is chosen. He puts over his stuff as only he can do it. His fans will be delighted with this one."

+ Film Daily p15 My 23 '36

"Joe E. Brown's comedy riot is a knockout for laughs; at the box-office it should ring with the best of the Browns. The screenplay is loaded with hilarious situations, a wealth of gags, and dialogue that is brisk and clever. . . . The material allows Brown to run the gamut, display his abilities among them being singing, dancing and control of a funny English and 'Dutch' dialect, all being outstandingly funny."

+ Film Daily p9 Ap 29 '36

"It is richly gagged for steady laughter and the best he has ever turned out for Warners. It can be counted on for universal popularity and should be a substantial money-maker at almost all box offices."

"The film is played and directed to accent its fun-plus-potentialities. It is different from the usual Brown vehicle. It has novelty that ought to be popular, unless their pictures are made to show up as a taboo on the comeback side. The personal popularity of the star should assure satisfactory grosses where they like him."

+ Motion Pict Herald p50 My 2 '36

"Comedy is the essence of the attraction. There are only a few conflict scenes and they are treated to accentuate the motivating quality. The picture may be sold with that asset in mind, with the maximum amount of attention devoted to Brown."

+ Motion Pict Herald p50 My 2 '36

"The result is entertaining program that ought to hit home in sections where the Brown antics mean box office; they are plenty."

+ Phila Exhibitor p17 My 15 '36

"As a starrer for Joe E. Brown it is a lightweight product. [The] scripters resorted too often toEMALE, radio-murdered file jokes. It's 'Sons o' Puns' now. Book got by on the stage because it was simply the foundation for a musical. As picture it's non-musical, despite the insertion of a couple of songs, and the book, regardless of the refurbishing, still lacks substance enough for straight playing."

+ Variety p12 My 20 '36

"'Sons o' Guns' is tip-top fare for the star. His followers will see him doing everything they fancy and that's enough for any Brown picture. . . . What the story lacks is made up in

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
gags. Toppers are Brown's apache dance, his scene with the drunk or mumps, his capture of the Germans. Brown is in every scene, works harder than usual, is himself throughout."
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ap 25 '36

SOVIET NEWS. Ap 10 '36 70min Akiniko
A compilation of Russian travelogues with English narration and French and English subtitles.

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The most interesting feature of 'Soviet News' is the reel which depicts the Jewish State Theatre's fifteenth Jubilee presentation of 'King Lear.' Our only regret is that the filmed chronicle of this Shakespearean comedy was not more comprehensive." T. M. P.
N Y Times p19 Ap 11 '36

"Frankly, there is nothing particularly striking about 'Soviet News' either in the material it shows or the manner in which it has been compiled. Parts of it are, of course, interesting, but on the whole it is a fairly undistinguished offering with very little in it except for those whose interest in everything that comes from Russia knows no limits." William Boehnel
+ N Y World-Telegram p29 Ap 15 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Highly interesting but obviously one-sided travelogues of Soviet Russia, good for program coupling."
Film Daily p6 Ap 13 '36

"The material may be considered as correlated by association and sequence, although it is taken from various sources and is not otherwise unified."
Motion Pict Herald p1 Ap 25 '36

SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR. M 8 '36 60min IREO
Players: Richard Dix. Margaret Callahan. Joseph Sawyer
Director: Louis King
Based on a novel of the same title by Erle Stanley Gardner. "As the story opens [Richard Dix] has just won a case as attorney for a racketeer and has been sharply censured by a judge. A short time later his brother, a G-Man, is shot by a gang that has robbed a bank of gold bullion." (Motion Pict Daily)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: fair of kind: Y: doubtful; C: no."
Christian Century p387 Je 17 '36

"An ordinary gangster picture of which we have had too many. Adults."
Am Legion Auxiliary

"Mature." DAR

"A well-chosen cast and good direction brings this a little above the usual run of 'gangster' pictures. Constructive, perhaps, in that it may have a salutary effect on criminal lawyers wondering whether or not criminals shall help criminals evade the law. Mature." Nat Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Dramatic, tense and well acted, the film nevertheless offers little that is constructive or worthwhile in the audience. Adults." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Good story, well told and will prove interesting to those who like this type of picture. Mature." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul My 2 '36

"Interesting in its kind, this picture deals with the awakening of the public and the judiciary to the part criminal lawyers play in the releasing of guilty criminals through brilliant defense. Adults & young people." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ap 22 '36

"Adult." Jt Estimates My 1 '36

"The rapid fire of slangy dialogue interspersed with revolver shots keeps up a high pitch of excitement; there are no unnecessary scenes, no tedious digressions from the plot. Most children would thoroughly enjoy the thrills in this short film. Suitability: family."
Mo Film Bul p39 My '36

"The success of this picture is a tribute to clever direction and camera work and an excellent use of suspense. The story with an obvious and hackneyed plot is so dramatically told that it seems new. Adolescents, 12-18: no, because of too sordid atmosphere; children, 8-12: no."
Motion Pict R My '36

"Family." Nat Bd of R M My '36

"A fairly interesting picture, with a good cast and direction but little suspense. Fair for family."
+ Nat Council of Jewish Women Ap 22 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Ap 30 '36

"Adults & young people." Sel Motion Pict My 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Happily very little chatter was canned along with the plentiful action."
Science Monitor p15 My 2 '36

"This piece is above average of its kind, which is possibly due to Cliff Reid's production and the speed and color of Louis King's direction. For not putting much strain on one's intelligence, the story holds attention, due to its brisk pace, its suspense and the very simplicity of its plot. The outdoor sets too, with dusky mountains in the distance and spacious freedom confronting the cameras, capture the imagination." Myrtle Fazliclar
+ N Y Herald Tribune p10 Ap 26 '36

"The picture, aside from being technically spotty, with much poorly concealed splicing and patching, is a reasonably adequate bid for the Times Square pedestrian trade." B. R. C.
+ N Y Times p21 Ap 25 '36

"Though nothing exceptional, 'Special Investigator' has enough zip and thrills in it to hold the interest of the movie-goer who likes fast-moving underworld films." William Boehnel
+ N Y World-Telegram p4c Ap 25 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"An adequate melodrama built around a story that is much better than its adaptation. Fair." + Box Office p33 Ap 25 '36

"The action is fast and exciting. Wherever melodramas of this type are liked this one seems bound to please. Dix gives one of his best performances and is successful as the gang leader."
+ Film Curb p12 Ap 18 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; ++ Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR—Continued

"Good program picture with 'G-Man' theme in outdoor locale is interesting throughout."
+ Film Daily p8 Ap 27 '36

"Bordering upon a screen expose of still another facet of radio, this 'Speed' remains a minor effort for all concerned. It is not expected to achieve anything higher than the lower half of double bills. The entire affair bears aspects of a tale too often told."

"By shrewdly mixing western small town and ranch backgrounds with city atmosphere Radio has given Richard Dix a vehicle that furnishes appeal to both types of fans—the Western enthusiasts who like the girls who see him dolled up by high-priced tailors. The picture ranks well up among Dix's recent efforts."
Motion Pict Daily p11 Ap 14 '36

"The tracking down of a gangster and his affiliates covers a wide geographical area and the plot is worked out in complete seriousness without comedy relief. The love story, likewise, departs from routine channels."
Motion Pict Herald p33 My 2 '36

"Off the horse for the first time in several pictures, Dix turns in a fair performance but the net result is nothing extraordinary."
+ + N Y Exhibitor p29 My 10 '36

"Richard Dix's name is the only thing that saves the picture. It's doubtful that the audience can do much toward overcoming its shortcomings where the box office is concerned. On merits, the picture is as flat as the desert革olls. Louis King's direction manages to keep things alive for sixty minutes and the pace is typical of the average Western."
+ - Variety p15 Ap 29 '36

"Following somewhat familiar formulas, with hero and heroine somewhat different angle injected this 'Speed' Rebel picture featuring Richard Dix falls short of being satisfactory box-office fare."
- + Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ap 18 '36

SPEED. My 8 '36 65min MGM

Players: James Stewart, Una Merkel. Ted Healy. Wendy Barrie. Weldon Heyburn
Director: Edwin L. Marin

"There is no one who understands the motor car industry and it deals with the struggles of a test driver to perfect his automobile invention. He is a failure at the Indianapolis speedway races, his car crashing. Through the intervention of a girl, he is backed by his firm in a second try at these tracks. The picture moves this invention but again lands in the hospital."
Hollywood Reporter

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: poor; Y: perhaps; C: if it interests."
Christian Century p87 Je 17 '36

"[It is a] picture that will hold the attention and be the topic of conversation for the men and become a hit with the kids released. Family & junior matinee." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Family." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Interesting for mature audiences." DAR

"This picture has some sequences of daredevil drivers testing new models of automobiles at the factory and auto races, but is otherwise undistinguished. The 'shots' of the automobile plant, showing manufacturing, tests, assemblies, etc., are interesting. But the picture is too exciting for children or grown-ups."
Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"The film is well acted and thrilling but over-excitement for children. Adults & young people. Nat Soc of New England Women

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + - Fair; + - Mediocre; Poor; Exceptionally Poor

"Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"It is always interesting to peer behind the scenes in a great industry and when that industry, as in the case of this picture's background, appeals to popular interest as the automobile, a uniqueness of appeal is assured. Enough comedy to offset the tense atmospheres. Moments for the sensitive children. Family."
Mrs T. G. Winter
Fox W Coast Bul My 9 '36

"Family. An unusually interesting [picture] which will have wide appeal. Family & Junior matinee."
Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)
Ap 27 '36

"Family & junior matinee."
Exciting My 7 '36

"Adolescents. 12-16: of special interest to boys, children. 8-12: too exciting."
Motion Pict R Je '36

"Family."
Nat Council of Jewish Women My 1 '36

"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency My 14 '36

"Exciting for small children. Family & junior matinee."
Sel Motion Pict Je 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Even three love affairs do not suffice to lift this melodrama out of the machine-made rut for those not interested in details of auto building and testing, as ingredients for entertainment films. The picture has the air of a good short educational subject mistakenly padded into a feature."
+ Christian Science Monitor p15 Je 13 '36

"Stewart, with a personality which could gain him recognition as perhaps the most sympathetic young player on the screen, one who could fill theatres if given wholesome, gentle, human roles, is here a roughneck mechanic. There is no excuse for the characterization given him. Wendy Barrie, in the leading feminine role, lacks the personality and ability to make it appealing. She walks through the part without displaying appreciation of its values. The picture presents a striking example of how close-ups should not be used."
- Hollywood Spec p10 My 9 '36

"Although it is made with material which suggests exciting screen possibilities, 'Speed' is a very ordinary Hollywood stencil... There is a passage depicting the mechanical miracle of an assembly plant that has been so maladroitly directed and photographed that it is boring to watch. It might have been accorded a more fitting treatment. With the exception of Mr. Healy, the acting neither relieves nor accentuates the banalities of 'Speed,' Howard Barnes

+ + N Y Herald Tribune p8 My 16 '36

"The story of this one will arouse the envy of no playwright. Its routine sentimentality is interrupted by some breathtaking races and a really funny characterization by Ted Healy. 'Speed' is a fair program picture."
Eileen Creelman

+ + N Y Sun p10 My 16 '36

"James Stewart and Wendy Barrie take their followers on a respectful tour through an automobile plant in the new film, 'Speed.' Edifying as it all unquestionably is it does not prevent 'Speed' from being an essentially minor motor opera, in which a carbuilder is the hero. Ted Healy is in considerable demand. [It is not] moe than a passable program picture."
F. S. Nugent

+ + New York Times p11 My 16 '36

"The film is as fast as its title, sequence after sequence is admirably shot, the dialogue is smart."
Douglas Gilbert
+ N Y World Telegram p13 My 18 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + - Fair; + - Mediocre; Poor; Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

"Speed" (is) a very, very slow film, with a great deal of talk about the problems of burheters and jealousy." John Mosher
— New Yorker p80 My 25 '36

"Speed" is an example of the proficiency of Hollywood studios in taking an obvious yarn, and, through deft writing, acting and production, converting it into a worthy worthy evening whil-bearer. Herb Sterne
+ Script p10 My 23 '36

"Speed" is an incredibly hackneyed story. Adequate acting by James Stewart and Wendy Barrie give "Speed" its only tinge of interest.
— Time p50 My 25 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Lacking somewhat in story, good production saves this from falling far below the usual M-G-M standards presented by Stewart. Not only lacking, but becomes confusing, Family." + Box Office p63 My 2 '36

"Contains plenty of exciting and dramatic scenes and has some very fine comic and character work. garden not only lacks, but becomes confusing. Family." + Film Daily p9 Ap 29 '36

"As a program number for the action and excitement fans, this picture meets the requirements. Using the Indianapolis Speedway and the race course at Muroc Dry Lake, the show has working backgrounds that lately have been in the news. With the Chrysler plant in Detroit as another spot where the action is laid, they make useful and interesting production values.
+ Film Daily p9 Ap 29 '36

"Seriously handicapped by a slim, inadequate story and the gross miscasting of an important character, "Speed" will just get by, even as a program attraction. The plot has little that is new to recommend it. James Stewart's performance is the only significant off key by the heavy histrionics of Weldon Heyburn, playing a motor engine whose interred Jennifer of Stewart. In Heyburn's hand, the part is so weak that even the climaxing rescue does not give it strength." + Hollywood Reporter p8 Ap 24 '36

"An engaging individual performance by James Stewart against the fascinating background of a motor factory gives this production some status as a program picture. The interesting factory scenes and exciting race-sequences are well spotted in the screen play.
+ Motion Pict Daily p6 Ap 27 '36

"Fast moving as the title would indicate, the picture packs plenty of excitement, as well as love interest, comedy and drama. Previewed in the Westwood Village Theatre. Audience reaction was favorable to both efforts of players and production values.
+ Motion Pict Herald p50 My 2 '36

"Family action drama. Directed from the action angle, with not too much romance, the show will be too enjoyable, with "Speed" exceeding expectations, should prove program entertainment for the lesser runs." + Phila Exhibitor p46 My 15 '36

"With an automobile race as foundation; Wendy Barrie, Una Merkel and Ted Healy, as the marquee lures; and overhead on newsreel clips, the prospects of this one are not overbright. It offers a new romantic lead, but film shoppers are not interested in debuts, generally. Off to a slow start and not up presently, but there is little to motivate the audience. The play develops much of a thrill until the speed test."
— Variety p12 My 20 '36

"Here's a B picture that should be able to hold its own in many places, can major on any thin bill. Picture has action and an interesting story, but most of all it has James Stewart, who is sure to hit stardom. Lad has personality not unlike Fred MacMurray, a natural, pleasing delivery which will gather him a host of fans." + Variety (Hollywood) p8 Ap 24 '36

SPEED REPORTER. (Release date not determined) 55min Reliable Players: Richard Talmadge, Luana Walters.
Richard Cramer
Director: Bernard B. Ray
"The story is an actionful newspaper yarn, with Talmadge as a reporter who exposes an underworld gang in control of a reform organization, and wins a sob sister for a wife." Film Daily

SUNDOWN SAUNDERS. Mr 25 '36 60min Superior Players: Bob Steele, Catherine Cotter, Earl Devire
Director: Robert N. Bradbury
A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency My 7 '36

SUTTER'S GOLD. Mr 30 '36 65min Universal Players: Edward Arnold, Lee Tracy, Binnie Barnes, Katharine Alexander Director: James Cruze
Based on the novel of the same title by Blaize Cendrars. "General Johann August Sutter... was once the most powerful landowner in all the vast Mexican northwest... In 1849, gold was found on his property; bold and reckless men descended on his estates like devastating locusts; and all the Sutter wealth and power were humbled in the dust. In the most literal sense of the word, the curse of gold wrecked the fortunes of the first great California multi-millionaire." (My Herald, Tribune)

+ ++ Exceptionally Good; ++ Good; + Fair; ++ Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
SUTTER'S GOLD—Continued

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Edward Arnold does not have the chance he would Jim Jarmusch. This is a significant work he accomplished in that picture but he makes the role impressive; does all that could be done for a successful film."

"Family & junior matinee." Am Legion Auxiliary.

"Possible for family." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Excellent. Mature—family." DAR

"Family." E Coast Preview Committee

"Family." Nat Bd of R

"Mature." Nat Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Deficiencies of the script prevent the clear cut characterization of the title role which we have come to expect from Edward Arnold. Family, exclusive of young children. Nat Soc of New England Women

"The story is based partly on history and partly on legend, and many incidents are included that are not relevant to the narrative. It gives a fairly graphic description of a stirring period in California history. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coastal Bull Ap 11 '36

"Family. The picture is understandingly directed, notably fine in photographic and scenic effectiveness. High praise [should go] to the make-up artist for his masterly skill in aging the characters. Fascinating entertainment, vivid and stirring in all respects.

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Mr 30 '36

"The actual life of Captain Sutter was so colorful and the historical events during this period so thrilling, it seems unnecessary and even regrettable that so many liberties were taken with the accepted history. Family."

— + Jt Estimates Ap 1 '36

"Sutter's Gold' represents a lost opportunity. With careful research and adherence to detail these might have been a valuable historical drama of one of the greatest figures in the development of California. . . The story has been checked and falsified occasionally; it occasionally resembles the ordinary Western. To say that it is without merit is of course untrue. . .

Adolescent: fair; children, 8-12: no.;

— + Motion Pict R My '36

"The story deals with a most interesting period of history, the direction is slow-moving but expert, the photography is beautiful and the atmosphere of the time is maintained throughout. Family."

— Nat Council of Jewish Women Ap 1 '36

"General patronage.

Nat Legion of Decency Mr 22 '36

"A and Y: biographical drama of the days of '49 being great because of narrative confusion; C: historical interest."

Bp p615

"A production highly recommended both for its historic interest and its exceptional entertainment value. Family."

— + Sel Motion Pict Ap '36

"Family"

Wkly Guide My 28 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Edward Arnold makes the colorful historical character John Sutter live and breathe again as he did the equally interesting though vastly different 'Diamond Jim' Brady. . . For those who like this type of movie, 'Sutter's Gold' is going to prove a delightful feast of romantic adventure."

Laura Elston

Canadian M p59 My 36

"Though the picture is, of necessity, episodic, it is well constructed and filmed. A strange adventure. Binnie Barnes and Lee Tracy emerge with striking portraits. And because 'Sutter's Gold'—like 'The Life of Louis Pasteur' and 'The Prisoner of Shark Island'—treats of a real man, it is full of the breath of life." (3½ stars)

Liberty p97 My 9 '36

"Mr. Cruze must have shot a million feet to get 7,000, and the picture must be somewhere in the cutting room. He is missing his center and missing from the screen, as would be its usually competent star, Edward Arnold, if he had used his better judgment this time."

Don Herold

Life p26 Je '36

"This film occasions little more than regrets. Most to blame in all probability is the dull and oblique scenario. Cruze's direction is rather wooden, a quality reflected in the cast's performance. Some inconsistencies make it even more difficult to accept 'Sutter's Gold' as a commendable movie."

— N Y Theatre p36 My 30 '36

"It seems a dramatic story and one could wish that it were more effectively narrated than it is in the current film version. . . The loose-jointed structure and the rather diffuse treatment of the story and the strange lack of vitality in the writing do, however, have the unlucky effect of transforming what might have been a rich and colorful chronicle into a rambling and unimpressive series of episodes dealing with nothing. . . His role, but he makes the passive Sutter a rather credible and sympathetic figure, even when his good fortune has gone to his somewhat confused head."

Richard Watts, Jr.

— N Y Herald Tribune p10 Mr 27 '36

"The plot occasionally gets in the way, with clumsily written scenes to check the flow of good pioneering action. It doesn't check it disastrously often. This is a consistently interesting picture, revealing a little known angle of American history. . . 'Sutter's Gold,' not always up to the high mark it set for itself, is an ambitious, dull and often exciting story of a man who made history and was, in turn, destroyed by historical events."

Edison Cronon

— N Y Sun p55 Mr 27 '36

"Little of the bitter irony latent in the tragic career of John Sutter emerges from 'Sutter's Gold' and the ambitious attempt to make a good Western picture based on his life. . . Such is the stuff of 'Sutter's Gold'—stuff that anyone would relish in the cinema, actors and audience alike. But, although the stuff of greatness is there, the manner in which it is projected is astonishingly insignificant. It is Waiters too often and its loosely constructed drama, which is rendered even looser by soft direction, and its writing not only misses the heights of its fulfilled subject." William Boechel

— N Y World-Telegram p27 Mr 27 '36

"'Sutter's Gold' should have been one of the good historical pictures. The character is there, and the background. . . One feels merely that a lot of good material has been lost track of somehow. . . Even though Edward Arnold . . . and Arnold, the Swiss pioneer who founded a kind of kingdom for himself on the western coast in the days before the gold rush, this great adventure is out of focus throughout the film. This is not so much any fault, I feel, of Arnold's as it is of the general vagueness of the narrative."

John Mosher

— New Yorker p88 Ap 4 '36

"As adapted by its screen writers and directed by Cruze it diminishes to a series of unrelated episodes in the life of a half-prophetic."

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair;

—+ Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor half-philanthropic individual who is never allowed to assume any credible dimensions at all. The actors try valiantly to overcome a sterile script, but it's no go. Sutter's Gold has been a jinx ever since Universal bought the story. That jinx is still in evidence."

-- Stage p10 My '36

"...The efforts involved in getting 'Sutter's Gold' on the screen seemed last week as misdirected as the celebration over its opening was unjustified. Harassed by a script that characterized its hero variously as paragon and sconderel, pinchpenny and profligate, altruist and profiteer, without ever making him a human being, the best producer Edmund Grainger could offer the public was 85 minutes of dignified boredom, which suggested that the producers of 'Sutter's Gold' had wearedied the performance before it began."

-- Time p15 Ap 6 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"(It) makes a bid for a place among the epicson of American empire building and property exploited, should bring a golden stream to the box office. Family."

-- Box Office p37 Ap 4 '36

"It has been given a colorful production, directed with ability and enacted by a capable cast headed by Edward Arnold. Swell picture for exploitation."

-- Film Curb p19 Ap 4 '36

"As screen entertainment this picture is stirring and arresting stuff. It is a big picture and will have a wide theater audience appeal. It is rich in exploitation angles and its strong box-office draw from top to bottom is unquestionable."

-- Hollywood Reporter p8 Mr 26 '36

"It's powerful material but the continuity falters. James Cruze has pieced his episodes together instead of making them blend into a moulded whole. The romance falters. It has its gripping moments, but it leaves the beholder with confused impressions."

-- Motion Pict Daily p1 Mr 27 '36

"Arnold's work and the vivid chapter of American history involved in the picture are its principal selling points."

-- Motion Pict Herald p41 Mr 28 '36

"Offering is an important box office entry and should play to fairly healthy returns, in addition to adding production prestige to Edmund Grainger and Edward Arnold who had part and parcel in its making. Picture shows painstaking production at every step, is lavish in scope and will stand alone on high entertainment standard at almost any spot."

-- Variety (Hollywood) p8 Mr 26 '36

over the fact that a girl is accused of having stolen the lover of another girl."

Bks & Films Ap '36

"A: very fine of kind; Y: good but mature; C: no."

Christian Century p518 Ap 1 '36

"Adults." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Expertly directed and technically noteworthy, this picture is keyed to a high intellectual note, and will prove interesting film fare for adult audiences."

-- Calif Council of Par & Teachers

"No one can see this film without realizing the results of malicious gossip and the effects of falsehood, which suggested that the producers of 'Sutter's Gold' had wearedied the performance before it began."

-- Time p15 Ap 6 '36

THESE THREE, Mr 6 '36 83min United artists-Goldwyn

Players: Miriam Hopkins, Merle Oberon, Joel McCrea, Bonita Granville, Marcia Wolfe, J. G. Ballard

Director: William Wyler

See issue of March 30, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The angle in the play, 'The Children's Hour' by Lillian Hellman that might prevent libraries from cooperation is entirely lacking in the film version, titled 'These Three.' This means a weakened film, but the children, since community do not, in these days, grow unduly excited

T

NEWSPAPER AND MAGAZINE REVIEWS

"All the way through, Hollywood has done a first class piece of work. 'These Three' is a film of high quality and remarkable power."

E. F. Melvin

-- Boston Transcript p4 Mr 25 '36

"The production as it presently stands may best be described as a quietly understanding though powerful performance. Directed and played with impressive restraint that is inspiring in its delicateness. The compelling portrayal of the pupil, Bonita Granville, aged twelve, stands out as the high point of an unusually fine and superbly balanced motion picture."

-- Commonwealth p630 Ap 3 '36

"If do know that this picture, per se, is well done... It seems a shame, however, that there can't be some strictly adult movies. It is rather sad to think that all movies must be brought down to the level of children and nursery grown-ups. "The Children's Hour" was a gripping study of a bitter, unpleasant

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + - Fair; + - Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
THESE THREE—Continued

subject, a terrible, worth-while, magnificent evening of torture in the theatre. In comparison, 'These Three' seems something that has just come off the wash, all full of bluing and starch. (Not for children.)"—Don Harold

+ Life p13 My 36

"These Three' succeeds rather well in translating 'The Children's Hour.' The drama in this case depends very much for its effect upon the acting of the Juveniles. The pace of the play have not surprised in my experience by any children of the American studios. They are in fact superior in power to the children who behave the part languently but who never give the illusion that the school in which they are supposed to be teachers is actually a school for adults.

Mark Van Doren

+ Nation p492 Ap 15 '36

"It makes quite a fair film—nothing extra, but the play itself was no world-beater anyway. Will its somewhat problematic tone．loses in point, movie morals not being the morals of the legitimate stage by quite a margin. All one can say, can make the hint of abnormality, was what kept 'The Children's Hour' together, giving the ordinary a touch of picaresque and making everything as dead and impossible after the crash as it was shown to be on the stage. Whereas a similar result—enough to show in a whole picture, causing many of the difficulties to seem artificial, some attitudes squeamish and silly."—Olive Ferguson

+ New Repub p225 Ap 1 '36

New Statesman & Nation p658 My 3 '36

An unusual concurrence of writing talent (Lillian Hellman, good direction by William Wyler), and stunning performances (especially Bonita Granville and Marcia Mae Jones) makes 'These Three' worth seeing. The earnestness and maturity of Miss Hellman's transcription from her own 'The Children's Hour' forces the situation and involves the sympathies of her audience."—Robert Stebbins

+ New Theatre p23 Ap 36

"Quite a good piece of work has been done with the somewhat problematic play. I rather wish that Hollywood could have waited until Florence McGee could have been spared for the film. No one else an actress, can make the little hellcat of the school who causes all the trouble. Nor, I suspect, for the adults, they—the three major ones anyhow—do well enough. I can't say that I thought the Hopkins was profound, or O'Brien ever looked like schoolmarm for a moment, nor, scandal or no scandal, could I imagine them losing in business."

—Los Angeles Times

+ New Yorker p71 Mr 23 '36

"I have seldom been so moved by any fictional film as by 'These Three.' After ten minutes or so of the usual screen sentiment, quaintness and exaggeration, one began to watch with incredulous pleasure nothing less than life. Never before has childhood been represented so convincingly on the screen, with an authenticity guaranteed by one's own memories—"Graham Greene

+ + Spec p791 My 1 '36

"From one of the finest and most compelling dramas ever shown on Broadway has been made a film of equal or slightly dilatory power. . . . The changes made in the scenario detract very little from the impact of a tragic story. Lillian Hellman has written nothing but casting his production with popular screen personalities. The performances are unusually impressive."

+ + Stage p10 Ap '36

"Brilliantly directed by William Wyler and acted by an admirable cast, 'These Three' remains on the screens that 'The Children's Hour' is on the stage—a calmly bloodcurling investigation of what several honorable adults can suffer at the tender mercies of one dishonest child. . . . 'These Three' may presage a year in which child actresses will provide their own antidote to Shirley Temple and, inarguably unforeseeable, should win Author Hellman next year's Academy prize for adaptation."

+ Time p33 Mr 30 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This is a Sam Goldwyn picture. Ordinarily that means a spectacle, and in this case a box-office success. It is quite in Goldwynian vein, but the material, 'These Three,' is not strong. The picture is photographed, recorded, paced, edited, acted, and directed exceptionally well."

+ + N Y Exhibitor p31 Mr 25 '36

"[These Three] is a thoroughly fine cinematic transmutation of Lillian Hellman's dramatic smash 'The Children's Hour,' ('30), to the Gibraltar box office for above average returns. . . . These Three' is ultra in every department." + + Variety p15 Mr 25 '36

THINGS TO COME. Mr 13 '36 110min London films—United artists

Players: Margaretta Scott, Raymond Massey, Ralph Richardson

Director: William C. Menzies

See issue of March 30, 1336 for other reviews of this film

A Guide to the discussion of the photoplay, Things to Come, based on a scenario by H. G. Wells is obtainable from Educational and Recreational Guides, Inc, 125 Lincoln Avenue, Newark, N. J., at fifteen cents. In preparing the Guide, Alfred F. Mayhew considered the technique, photography, sound effects, and the explanation of the story. Also written a Guide which will enable students to understand more fully this motion picture.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"[It] is an impressive and technically magnificent anti-war spectacle. War is the villain of the story, war itself. No race of people is made the enemy; war is an unseen monster that devours everything in its road of terror. . . . 'Things to Come' does not fall in the category of conventional entertainment; but the subject on which the film is based and the technical skill and creative genius which have gone into its production, make it an outstanding and unique creative contribution to the advancement of motion picture art."

+ + Bul on Current Films Ap 15 '36

"A: outstanding; Y: thrilling; C: mature."

Christian Century p179 My 13 '36

"Scenery is far in advance of modernistic imagination, as are given full play. True H. G. Wells's manner in this long, exciting picture suitable for adults."—Am Legion Auxiliary

"Quite plausible, in the face of our own time's political and social unrest, are the earlier scenes of chaotic war. The aftermath of civilization's return to barbarism is also within the realm of reason. If the latter artfully constructed and beautifully photographed sequences of a machine-made world stray into fantastic fields, the film remains marvellously engrossing to the end. Human threads are forgotten in the stupendous rhythm of the whole, the examples of the limitless capacities of the film medium. "—Calif Cong of Far & Teachers

"Mature—excellent."—DAR

"Superlatives are in order in speaking of this Maurice Chevalier, Korda production. Considered as entertainment, it provides a stupendous spectacle, astoundingly realistic, with many a scene of imposing features: thoughtful and thought-provoking plea to a world apparently bent upon self-destruction, it is one of the most impressive of the screen. Family."

East Coast Premiere Committee

"Family, aloth too intense and too long for children."—Nat Soc of New England Women

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + + Mediocre; — Poor; — + Exceptionally Poor
"The expert direction of Alexander Korda and a remarkably fine cast make this an outstand- ing picture. "Matinee." (Church Council of Fed Church Women)

+ Fox W Coast Bul Ap 25 '36

"(It) is transcribed to the screen in a sweepingly powerful and dramatically pictorial form. ... An intensely interesting picture. Adults & young people.

† + Motion Pict R My '36

"Highly imaginative, the film will appeal to the eye rather than to the emotion, since the stage settings and theories are emphasized rather than the characterizations. Family."

Nat Council of Jewish Women Ap 1 '36

"Objection: the Wellsian theory of a mechani- cal revolution and expansion of science and a Higher Being is expounded in this film. Objec- tionable in part."

Na Nation of Decency Ap 12 '36

"It is a picture to make one pause and ponder human folly and stimulate a searching analysis by all who see it of accepted concepts of prog- ress. To see the picture and see for yourself. It is worthy of your inspection, despite a number of dull conversational stretches during the third phase."

S. M. Mulcahy

§ Scholastic p22 My 16 '36

"Family."

Sel Motion Pict My 1 '36

"Unusual and thought-provoking—a remark- able picturization of Wells' familiar ideas and theories. Suggested for school, church, and li- brary use. Worth keeping permanently available. Family."

† + Wkly Guide Ap 18 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Things to Come" is an unusual film and an ambitious undertaking, carried with a large degree of success. To the average audi- ence it may be suspected that the mechanical devices and the wild speculation will be the chief sources of interest. But Mr. Wells does have something to say that is deserving of attention. By choosing his words he will extravegetal language. That may not add to the impressiveness of his future dreams but it does not detract from the seriousness of the warning." E. F. M.

Boston Transcript p4 My 9 '36

Reviewed by Laura Elston Canadian T. p5 My 5 '36

"It lacks logic. ... Mr. Wells' film is an inadequate statement of its thesis, but it is nevertheless successful in a rather crude way in its presentation, itself a sense of sight and hearing," Harold Hobson

Christian Science Monitor p10 Mr 24 '36

"Taken as an experiment in advanced mechanics applied to the art of picture making, Mr. Korda's contribution in "Things to Come" is impressive, in its potential greatness impressive in its skillful imaginative fulfillment of the au- thor's hobby of prying into the future. ... The merit of the spectacle reverts that old de- scription, "It must be seen to be appreciated. There can be no criticism of it as a piece of craftsmanship. The scale is as enormous as the method is convincing." J. P. Cunningham

† + Commonweal p664 Ap 10 '36

"It is an extraordinary technical accomplish- ment. Do not miss it. It is physically, "Things to Come" is screen history."

"This astonishing British film is going to do more things: it is going to make the British think they could do it to 2056, and it is going to frighten adolescents. Mr. Wells is extra- ordinarily right about its having gone one hundred years. ... The problems in making the film were back-breaking. And in solving them, Eng- lish picture makers have outdistanced Holly- wood."

† + Lit Digest p29 Mr 25 '36

"The whole picture was for me intolerably prosy and humorless. I was confirmed in a former suspicion, namely, that the future is the dullest subject on earth. ... The actors seemed to know this better than Mr. Wells or Mr. Korda did, for they were unable to say their lines as if they meant them; they stared into the abominable blank- ness around them and said their pieces like children on parents' day. But perhaps the men behind the picture knew too well. It was all very unsatisfactory, like the chimeras of the ancients." Mark Van Doren

New York p586 Ap 24 '36

"Typical Welisian conjecture, it ranges from the reasonably possible to the reasonably fan- tastic; but true or false, fanciful or logical, it is an absorbing portrayal of a future specifically staged production which does credit to its maker, Alexander Korda. ... "Things to Come" is an unqualified failure, a farrago of two-hour, with overtones of the Buck Rogers and Flash Gordon comic strips. But it is, as well, a pic- ture with an idea which has been expressed dramatically and with visual fascination." F. S. Nugent

N Y Times p29 Ap 19 '36

"The first half of it is a bitter, thrilling, graphic, animated picture of the devastation that the next world war will bring in its wake, as well as a reasonably contemptuous composite portrait of all dictators; the second half is a wild-eyed, pretentious, boring, pseudo-socio- scientific extravaganza—and that must be my opinion of "Things To Come." While I am willing to respect it and honor and shout the praises of several of its parts, I must also groan over some of the stilts speeches and episodes which convert it into a pretentious cartoon and classify it as a potentially great film that never quite comes off." William Boehnel

† — N Y World-Telegram p7c Ap 18 '36

"Two hours of papier mache models and that goes for the actors. ... We're afraid Mr. Korda, the producer, has purposely given his film too much trouble and expense. Two million dollars was too great an outlay to prove that Mr. Wells was in his memoirs correct."

Robert E. Hobbs

New Theatre p25 Mr 25 '36

"The film is another Alexander Korda achieve- ment: the William Cameron Menzies direction is expert, Raymond Massey and the various other actors are good, though submerged in the detail of a spectacle which is huge but, sad to tell, won't settle the smug." John Mosher

New Yorker p61 Ap 25 '36

"The dialogue beside the impressive action sounds trivial and once or twice grotesque. Mr. Wells being a stickler, it could have been better with him on account of aesthetic flaws. If this film fully came off it might knock one flat; it does not. It goes off better between conflict between moral and poetic intention. It tries to be too comprehensive; its aims are conf- used. "Things To Come" is from this point in the memory. It should be seen for its rolling boldness, the excellency of its lighting, its naivety, its music and the unforgettable beauty of some of the shots."

Sight & Sound p10 Spring '36

"The entire production is executed unreal, photographed and printed. There are many loose-jointed moments, but the grandeur of it cannot be discounted." Stage p10 My 3 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; +— Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
Things to Come—Continued

"[It] seems, at first glance, daringly original. Originals rarely differing only by connotation with Hollywood's timid preference for doing, insofar as possible, only what has been done before. But the film is highly imaginative, and a source of great entertainment and a tribute to the soundshowmanship that has made Producer Korda the king in England's booming cinema industry. . . It differs from all predecessors in its class by demanding a cerebral rather than an emotional response.

Trade Paper Reviews

"A courageous picturization of a man's philosophy, conceived and executed on a really massive and imaginative scale. Span from the cloth of pure speculation, it often is tiresome, seldom is exciting. Yet it achieves interest shrewdly shownmen can sustain. Adults."

Hollywood Reporter p2 26 '36

"Alexander Korda and H. G. Wells have striven mightily . . . but they have not been entirely successful. It seems to have been too much of a task. The result is confusion, generalizations, that are effective scene by scene, but unimpressive as a whole as entertainment. . . Settings that are overpowering in scope, magnitude and creative imagination. . . . Give a credit to Korda and the able group of technicians. They are magnificent. Imagination cannot reach the spectacular effects that have been achieved. . . . As a screen writer [Wells] has delivered a subject that for general audiences is unpalatable, unpleasant and unrelieved by anything that touches ordinary motion picture patrons."

Box Office p65 My 1 '36

"The film has strong selling points. The Buck Rogers atmosphere will appeal to the young, curious; the message will appeal to intellectual groups; the picture as a whole is attractive to children and middle class; the trick photography, the settings, the intelligence are practically irreproachable."

Variety p14 26 '36

"It quite obviously will need selling but will be a cinch to sell. The elements are there for the ballyhoo . . . Picture throughout lacks warmth or feeling. It is an exposition of one man's philosophy which while interesting and colorful is also unpleasant and unbelievable. Ponderous and difficult while Wells is establishing his premise, the picture is interesting. . . From there on there isn't a spark of human, vitality or life. It's an impressive but dull exposition of a bad dream."

TIME p4 22 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A and Y: good melodrama with the plane's forced landing in a snowstorm the highlight; C: thrilling."

Par M p52 Je '36

"Skillful direction and fine photography of air flight effects. Family."

Sel Motion Picture Ap 23 '36

"Family.

Wkly Guide Mr 21 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Good camera work and a brisk casualness of direction are important factors in making '16 Hours by Air' an excellent entertainment. The film is a sequel to 'It Happened One Night.' In airplanes instead of buses, and with gangsters instead of clowns."

Boston Transcript p4 4 '36

Good—mature. DAR

"Family."

E Coast Preview Committee

"It's too many cooks spoil a pudding—but too many writers and too many plots make a confused and illogical picture. Family."

Nat Fed of Women's Clubs

"Good entertainment for family groups."

Nat Soc of New England Women

"This fast-moving, beautifully photographed picture, [is] good entertainment for the whole family."

Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"Adults & young people," Mrs T. G. Winter

FOX W Coast Bul Ap 11 '36

"Outstanding in its entertainment value is this picture distinguished by the breath-taking beauty of the scenery and photography, the notably fine director who has so effectively blended his material that we are given a picture that runs the gamut of all human emotions. Family."

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)

"Suitability: family."

Mo Film Bul p59 My '36

"Adolescents, 12-16: good; children, 5-12: probably too exciting."

Motion Pict R Ap 30 '36

"Family."

Nat Bd of R M Ap '36

"Expert direction, excellent camera work and fine photography, and well balanced co-operation on the part of a capable cast, together with a nice distribution of humor and suspense, make of this trivial story fast-moving, interesting entertainment. Family."

Nat Council of Jewish Women Ap 1 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency Mr 22 '36

"A and Y: good melodrama with the plane's forced landing in a snowstorm the highlight; C: thrilling."

Par P p52 Je '36

Currently using a plain text representation of the document. No changes needed.
"Mitchell Leisen had everything to work with when he started this picture, an interesting script, a good cast and a scenic location, but it comes out just another ordinary class B production because of the direction given it. Most distracting weakness is the manner in which the dialogue is spoken. Most of the lines merely are parroted. Otherwise it's a somewhat exciting adventure piece. First flaw in the film is its lack of movement. The second and more damaging drawback is that while the passenger list includes more interesting characters than anything since 'Grand Hotel,' the audience doesn't learn enough about them until the picture is almost over." (2 1/2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p14 My 2 '36

"It has interludes of extravagant excitement and an effective crescendo of violent incident, but on the whole it proves an implausible mesh of plots and sub-plots that unravel as soon as they are built up. All the action takes place on the French Riviera in a carefully wrought motion picture, but one on which craftsmanship has been readily expended. It is not a film that can be recommended."

"Thirteen Hours by Air" has two definite weaknesses. Otherwise it's a somewhat exciting adventure piece. First flaw in the film is its lack of movement. The second and more distracting weakness is that while the passenger list includes more interesting characters than anything since 'Grand Hotel,' the audience doesn't learn enough about them until the picture is almost over." (2 1/2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p14 My 2 '36

"There is no disputing the liveliness of the melodrama. The device of tossing a miscellany of humans and motives together on a bus, plane, train or airliner and letting them work out their story is as formula ridden as the Director's Guide and has been used as often, but Bogart Rogers's and Frank Mitchell Disney's story is better written and directed than the average mode of pace, with a purposeful preservation of suspense and a knack for comic interlude." F. S. Nugent

--- N Y Times p17 Ap 30 '36

"It is an exciting and fairly convincing story that bears comparison with the best of the numerous variations of the 'Grand Hotel' theme. There are plots and counterplots without number, and so many persons are interested in getting to San Francisco for one reason or another that if the story does get a bit absurd in spots its action and situations are thrilling enough for you to forget its minor cracks. Although the plot puts quite a strain on the credulity of the observer, '13 Hours by Air' is not only lively entertainment but it also throws some interesting sidelights on how large passenger planes are directed from the ground in their long flights across the country." William Roehnel

--- N Y World-Telegram p29 Ap 30 '36

"'Thirteen Hours by Air' should have been funnier than it is, and far more exciting. It has its moments, however." John Mosher

--- New Yorker p57 My 9 '36

"Original moves in any story formula as tightly established as the Grand-Hotel-in-Motion picture must necessarily consist of variations so stylized that, like the moves in chess, they are sensational chiefly to the initiated. Outstanding performance is Bonne Bartlett's as the bad boy who at a crucial moment squirts fire extinguisher fluid out of his pistol into the gangster's eyes.

--- Time p43 Ap 6 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Entertaining offering dealing with passengers thrown together for thirteen hours of air travel. Family." Box Office p27 Mr 28 '36

"Splendid entertainment." L. S. Niemeyer

+ Canadian Moving Pic Digest p7 Mr 28 '36

"Action takes place on plane between New York and Frisco and is a yarn of intrigue that holds the interest. Joan Bennett and Fred MacMurray do exceedingly well in the lead roles. All members of the cast, in fact, turn in good performances. The story is above the average. . . . All in all this is very satisfactory entertainment." Film Curb p11 Mr 21 '36

"Good popular appeal entertainment is provided by this combination of crook activity, romance and comedy, taking place almost entirely on a cross-country plane."

--- Film Daily p8 Ap 30 '36

"A sort of Grand Hotel on a transcontinental air liner, this one has all that it takes for grand mass entertainment—a rich compounding of romance, comedy, and thrills, served de luxe, with names and everything. Its box office success is assured. It will make money from storks to sticks.

--- Hollywood Reporter p3 Mr 14 '36

"Timely as streamlining, this comedy-drama of crooks and intrigue moves rapidly with all the panache of a plane between New York and San Francisco. . . . The production offers many exploitation angles and should be sold readily.

--- Motion Pic Daily p5 Mr 16 '36

"Fast moving, blending its qualities of romance, melodrama, comedy, excitement, thrill and intrigue so that there are no leddowns in the actual or implied action, the show is very different from the formula air adventure thriller. Opportunities for unusual interest creating showmanship are present in adequate quantities to suit almost any kind of commercial requirements."

--- Motion Pic Herald p40 Mr 21 '36

"This one falls right into the groove between the good and the bad, with some snappy dialog its best technical recommendation and a cast sufficient to keep it at least on the moderate side of the ledger where the box office is concerned. Story has its points, but it worked out poorly, and indications are that a better writing job was possible."

--- Variety p15 Ap 8 '36

"Vigorous playing, plenty of comedy and melodrama kept close to the farce edge, counterbalance certain obvious faults and familiar story ingredients to build this into reliable entertainment with good business prospects all along the line."

--- Variety (Hollywood) p3 Mr 14 '36

(s)THREE LITTLE WOLVES. (Release date not determined) 8min United artists prod.; directed by Charles M. Jones

One of the Silly Symphony Series. "The Big Bad Wolf and offspring nearly make away with two of the Little Pigs." (Wkly Guide)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Family—junior. Outstanding." + + + Nat Bd of R M My 3 '36

"Family & junior matinée." Nat Council of Jewish Women My 13 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The new Walt Disney color cartoon 'Three Little Wolves,' should not be missed. It is a memorable chapter in the great series of Silly Symphonies. . . . It is a Disney masterpiece."

Howard Barnes

--- Film Daily Tribune p12 My 29 '36

+ + + Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; + + Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
THREE LITTLE WOLVES—Continued

"It is a grand Disney cartoon." Eileen Creelman

+ N Y Sun p15 My 28 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"[It is] a natural for audiences everywhere." + Box Office p23 My 25 '36

"In anticipation of the natural and provocative question: 'Is it as good as 'The Three Little Pigs?' the answer is emphatically: 'Yes!' Although 'Pigs' had the edge because it was original, for all commercial purposes the sequel is slightly better." + Film Daily p4 Ap 8 '36

"The Three Little Pigs' of unforgettable box office memory return in all their pristine porcine rotundity and charm as intended victims of three little wolves coached by their vengeful parent, the Big Bad Wolf himself. . . . The subject is a sheer triumph for Disney, who must have known the hazard involved in returning 'The Three Little Pigs' in a manner to circumvent the almost inevitable anticlimax expected in view of their original success. 'Three Little Wolves' is the eminently qualified result. It is immensely satisfying, manifestly advertised, altogether excellent." + Motion Pict Herald p60 Ap 11 '36

THREE OF A KIND. My 20 '36 78min In-viceable

Players: Evalyn Knapp, Chick Chandler, Berton Churchill, Bradley Page

Director: Phil Rosen

"A yarn of a headstrong daughter of wealth, a young man who has his own ideas of how to get into the money," and three amusing crooks, this [features a] series of complications, mistaken identities and romance." Motion Pict Daily

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Je 4 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"It's all good, clean fun and should find it easy going in the smaller spots. Excellent fare for the twin bills." + Film Curb p6 My 23 '36

"A number of laughs and several good performances make this independent picture entertaining fare, which should serve excellently on dual bills and perhaps be able to stand alone in the smaller situations." + Motion Pict Daily p11 My 15 '36

"Estimate: for neighborhood houses, twin bills." + Phila Exhibitor p22 Je 1 '36

THREE ON THE TRAIL. Ap 24 '36 67min

Sherman-Paramount

Players: William Boyd, Jimmy Ellison, Onslow Stevens, Muriel Evans

Director: Howard Bretherton

Based on the novel, Bar 20 Three, by Clarence E. Mulford. A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"[It is the] best of Hop-a-long Cassidy series. Family." E Coast Preview Committee

+ Fox W Coast Bul My 16 '36

“Family.” Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) My 6 '36

“A commendable Western." + Nat Legion of Decency Ap 30 '36

“Family.” Sel Motion Pict My 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"This latest of Harry Sherman's Westerns for Paramount release is not as entertaining as the one he preceded it, but it still has considerable entertainment value. . . . Producer Sherman has managed to point names when he must consider how long the same scenarist, the same director and the same cast can continue to try very different each time they unite in making a picture." + Hollywood Spec p12 Ap 25 '36

"Howard Bretherton has directed the piece satisfactorily, although he does not achieve the color, speed or suspense of the best of the old time Westerns, but he has interspersed the yarn with a number of good comedians. [William Boyd] cannot now in the dazzling sunshine of adolescent hero worship, Hop-a-long is a great fellow: we hope his public will never fail him." F. S. Nugent

+ N Y Times p36 My 5 '36

"It is recommended to all and sundry who get a kick out of good, old-fashioned thrillers. And, frankly, who doesn't? I say that there ought to be more Western melodramas like 'Three on the Trail,' because it is a decided superior item of its kind and because this is the sort of thing that the movies still do superlatively well when they want to." William Boehnel

+ N Y World-Telegram p29 My 6 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Fifteenth and best of Producer Harry Sherman's Hop-a-long Cassidy series, this one is crammed with enough fast action to thrill even the most rabid of Western fans. Family." + Box Office p23 Ap 8 '36

"This latest of the Hop-a-long Cassidy series is fully up to the high standard of those that have preceded it. It is far above the average of Westerns and will please any Western fan who likes his outdoor dramas. Contains plenty of fast action and excitement." + Film Curb p10 Ap 13 '36

"Presenting Bill Boyd as the cool, quick-on-the-trigger gentleman, and his handsome reckless pal, Jimmy Ellison, at the helm, another classy A Western from the Hop-a-long Cassidy series is brought in. With a minimum of gun play and fighting, the picture is built between two scenes with a nice smattering of comedy. As true of the previous Hop-a-longs, wherever it is at all possible to play Westerns, this should do well." + Film Daily p10 Ap 14 '36

"Each of these Hop-a-long Cassidy Westerns seems a bit more entertaining than the last. The imperturbable 'Hoppy' and his impulsive young buddy, Jimmy Ellison, are enduring themselves to a growing audience and this latest one is sure of good returns wherever Westerns are preferred fare." + Hollywood Reporter p3 Ap 9 '36

"Better production values, a more gripping story and the usual high acting standards make this the best of the Hop-a-long Cassidy series to date. As a class action picture the production should please generally.

- Motion Pict Daily p8 Ap 10 '36

"Soundly produced, its drama, romance, comedy, villainy, suspen- sion, action and excitement being particularly well blended, this latest of the Hop-a-long Cassidy series raise up as, of more than acceptable entertainment values.

- Motion Pict Herald p35 Ap 18 '36

"Estimate: good."

- N Y Exhibitor p28 My 10 '36

"If it's action the exhibitor is looking for in his Westerns, he'll find more than the customers demand in Three on the Trail. Besides being loaded with plenty of menace, shooting and riding, the picture has some comedy, plus love interest of an acceptable grade."

Variety p18 My 6 '36

"Fifth in the Hop-a-long Cassidy series, Three on the Trail" upholds the high standard set by Harry Sherman for these productions, justifies the designation Western in the best entertainment sense, and will satisfy in all spots where this type of picture is relished. In its class it should prove a top money maker, and all who shared in the making may join with pride to the result."

Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ap 9 '36

THREE WISE GUYS. My 15 '36 72min MGM Players: Robert Young, Betty Furness, Raymond Walburn, Thurston Hall, Bruce Cabot

Director: George B. Seitz

Based on a short story of the same title by Damon Runyon. "The playboy son of a wealthy man marries a girl who is really the third member of a gang of three crooks. She falls in love with her husband and determines to get rid of the crooks. The crooks are so entranced that she shan't. The lad's father cuts him off without a penny and the boy, after a summer of futile farming, gets a $25-a-week job that involves him in a safe robbery and arrest."

(Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Family."

Nat Bd of R M Je '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency My 23 '36

"Family."

Sel Motion Pict Je 1 '36

"Lively and entertaining, with many pleasant individual touches. Family."

Wkly Guide My 16 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Scripted, directed, played and photographed well, the offering is one destined not for a place of importance among the year's Cinemas, but one certain to experience popularity with the average patron. Emerging as just what it obviously was intended to be, a program piece of the B caliber, the picture, because of its lightness, is excellent for summer presenta-

- Allan Herbst

+ Hollywood Spec p12 My 23 '36

"The Three Wise Guys' is an awkward melange of sentiment and melodrama. Although it has never at any time been as bad as it is at this moment, there has been a production and moments of excellent dramatic excitement, it is a hodgepodge entertainment for many months without establishing one of them significantly." Howard Barnall

+ N Y Herald Tribune p8 My 23 '36

"The Three Wise Guys' is not conspicuously successful as either a tear-jerker or as a comedy. The plot formula is too familiar for suspense, the characters slightly fantastic, and the comedy too sparse. It is not a bad little picture; it just isn't out of the run-of-the-mill class."

- Ellel Cress

+ N Y Sun p12 My 23 '36

"The picture ... is superficially successful, thanks to more than the usual dash of first-rate secondary players. The Three Wise Guys', adroit scene adaptation and unusually discriminating casting have neutralized the story's almost-cynically formalistic pattern."

B. R. C.

- N Y Times p23 My 23 '36

"Betty Furness as Claribelle is a swell screen looker. But Raymond Walburn, as 'Doc,' steals the show. He's funny, delectable in a farcically role, and makes the most of the best lines. The cleverest part of the production is that they give them to him."

Douglas Gilbert

N Y World-Telegram p4b My 23 '36

"Raymond Walburn, as a roguish old crook, provides practically all the life there is in the film."

John Moshier

New Yorker p71 My 29 '36

"Three Wise Guys' is another one from the private dream world of Damon Runyon... This is a better-than-average program picture."

+ Time p22 Je 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Brigh average fare produced as B product. Will serve its purpose well. It is an inspired and shows that if more time were taken for production, the continuity would have been improved with the picture. Family."

- Box Office p17 My 16 '36

"Laugh and dramatic sequences follow one another swiftly. Ought to please in most any theatre anywhere. Production is up to standard. A better than average program feature."

+ Film Curb p6 My 16 '36

"Chalk this up as another hit from the type-writer of Damon Runyon, who has turned out a clever crook comedy romance filled with his original touches."

+ Film Daily p7 My 23 '36

"A modern fantastic comedy of crooks and Christmas, produced in the B category and shrewdly aimed at the family trade. As a holiday release it would be distinctly helpful to neighborhood box-offices and it will give fair satisfaction in its class throughout the year."

- Hollywood Reporter p3 My 6 '36

"Here is good average entertainment. The George Seitz direction keeps action going at a good pace, establishing a story background with swift, sure shots. Harry Rapaf's production is well up to the M-G-M standard for average entertainment."

+ Motion Pict Daily p6 My 7 '36

"The show is nicely paced, situations move to the tune of engaging dialogue and action, and a spirit is created that gives the picture an unusual amount of human interest."

+ Motion Pict Herald p29 My 16 '36

"Pleasant, played nicely for laughs as well as pathos. It is pleasant."

+ Phila Exhibitor p46 My 15 '36

"This one gets pretty boresome as one improbable sequence leads to another. After unsuppressing for almost forty-five minutes, it fails to make its characters believable or its situations stand up. It has been dressed lavishly with production values, but this cannot disguise the essential phoniness of the superficial and ultimately unsuccessful rendition into celluloid terms."

Variety p14 My 27 '36

"This is a forgettable, light comedy romance that makes for good program fare. It is topped with a slight dash of drama climaxing a plot of subplots and intrigues between three wise guys of the easy-living school."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 My 6 '36

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; - Exceptionally Poor
TILL WE MEET AGAIN. Ap 17 '36 82min Paramount Players: Herbert Marshall, Gertrude Michael, Lionel Atwill, Rod La Rocque.
Guy Bates Post
Director: Robert Florey
Based on the play Reunion by Alfred Davis. "[It is the story of] a man and a woman deeply in love, [who] find themselves pitted against each other as spies. The ineluctable course of events that requires them to deliver each other to death and they avoid the dilemma only by escaping from Germany, with the secret service at their heels, to accept internment in Holland." (Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings
"The adroit handling of the story does not glamorize war."...Bul on Current Films Je 6 '36
"A and Y: fine of kind; C: hardly suitable."...Christian Century p119 My 13 '36
"This trite tale lacks sincerity... The escape from the Nazi train, nearly makes a comedy of this negative film. Adults."...Am Legion Auxiliary

"An interesting slant on present day psychology is offered when, at the picture's finish, an heroic gesture on the part of the enemy is the means of promising a happy ending. This film is well directed and has human interest plus the eternal drama of war. Mature."...Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Good-mature."...DAR

"There is no undue emphasis on the glorification of war; its power to destroy personal happiness and its effects on the individual are clearly shown. Family-mature."...Nat Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"A good story, occasionally overdrawn, but on the whole, very real and convincing. Mature."...Nat Soc of New England Women

"Mature."...S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul Ap 25 '36

"[It is] an extremely interesting picture with unusually effective background. Adults & young adults."...Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ap 24 '36

"Adults & young people."...route of JY Estimates Ap 15 '36

"The plot is old and is weakened by the happy ending but the development has been so well handled by both actors and director that interest is sustained. Adolescents, 12-16: mature; children, 8-12: too exciting."...MOTION Pict R My 8 '36

"Family."...Nat Ed of R M My '36

"Although the theme of this picture is somewhat melodramatic and original the cast is a good one, the direction sympathetic and the interpretation honest. Adults."...— Nat Council of Jewish Women Ap 15 '36

"General patronage."...Nat Legion of Decency Ap 13 '36

"A: good espionage drama with Great War background; Y: questionable in spots; C: no."...Par M p82 Je '36

"Adults & young people."...MOTION Pict My 1 '36

"Family."...Wkly Guide Ap 11 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"It is played with such poignant grace by Herbert Marshall and Gertrude Michael and directed so expertly by Robert Florey that the essential white story takes on validity and charm."...M. E. P.

"BOSTON Transcript p4 My 2 '36

"This picture is one of Paramount's class B offerings, not one of the big productions upon which the studio brain concentrates... If Paramount this season or next does not make a picture less genuinely entertaining than 'Till We Meet Again,' it can go up to the attic, blow the dust off its slogan and display it once more to the world that if it's a Paramount picture it's the best show in town."...Hollywood Spec p27 Ap 26 '36

"Though the film is never fully as vital as the acts would like to have you believe, it does have sequences of excitement and occasional moving moments. Still, 'Till We Meet Again' would be much more believable if any one of the cast relaxed a bit. The picture insists that the reunion of an English actor and his Austrian sweetheart was the greatest single outcome of the international struggle."(2½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p35 My 16 '36

"A spy melodrama with no nuances to distinguish it from hundreds of others."...Robert Stebbins

"NEW Theatre p36 Je 36

"The fanciful narrative is translated to screen and microphone in definitely exciting terms and a cumulative suspense is achieved that makes for a diverting entertainment of the pipe-dream school."...Howard Barnes

"N Y Herald Tribune p8 My 9 '36

"It is one of the few spy dramas with a happy ending... As a love story, the picture is no great shakes. As a tale of adventure, it manages quite a bit of well directed, if fairly routine, filmmaking... the whole is a fairly well produced, competent entertainment."...Eileen Creelman

"N Y Sun p7 My 9 '36

"Of its kind, 'Till We Meet Again,' is a few closely spaced notches above the average... We find ourselves unable to work up any great enthusiasm [for it]. When we and the espionage film meet again we hope it will be in color of third-dimension to beguile us to believing it is something new,” F. S. Nugent

"[It] is an admirable film—a compact and moving melodrama of war-time espionage ab- sorbingly told. In performance, direction and dialogue it is one of the swelliest pieces of celluloid reeled out of Hollywood in many a grind and rates as one of the best of the season’s cinematics. Douglas Gilbert

++ N Y World-Telegram p5 My 9 ’36

"Espionage and passion surge through ‘Till We Meet Again,’ so it can hardly be called light, yet it belongs in the pretty world of shear entertainment, and succeeds there well enough. The story is familiar but often bright.” John Muther
++ New Yorker p79 My 16 ’36

"This spy story of the World War overcomes the mediocrity of its plot by the splendid performances of Herbert Marshall, Gertrude Michael and Lionel Atwill and a thoroughly well-directed production.”
++ News-Wk p12 My 16 ’36

"Till We Meet Again has the suspense proper to pictures where the issue is not who makes love to whom but whether those who want to make love are to live or die by doing so. Although its handling of secret service technique will suffer by comparison with more carefully authenticated spy stories, notably M-G-M’s ‘Rendezvous,’ it contains two memorable scenes.”
++ Time p58 My 11 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

“A class film, admirably directed and enacted. Box-office potentialities are high if picture is properly merchandised. Adults.”
++ Box Office Ap 11 ’36

"It is attention holding and is realistic melodrama. Most fans will like it. As played by Herbert Marshall, Gertrude Michael and the fine supporting cast it provides an hour or so of genuine entertainment, a bit above the average.”
++ Film Curb p11 Ap 11 ’36

"The plot is much like the previous spy and espionage pictures. Some new twists are tried in this one, but they hardly seem believable. . . Robert Florey's direction of the players is outstanding, and he has done a marvellous job, considering the material.”
++ Film Daily Ap 4 ’36

"A romantic drama of rival intelligence services in the Great War that will keep every sort of ticket buyer on the edge of the seat and that will garner comfortable box-office profits all the way from the deluxe houses to the littlest neighborhoods.”
++ Hollywood Reporter p5 Ap 1 ’36

"This romantic melodrama, well produced and acted, will appeal strongly to those who like spy stories. . . Exploitation should feature the production as a spy story rather than a war tale since no battle scenes are shown.”
++ Motion Pict Daily p12 Ap 2 ’36

"It's a spy story, but it is not a war story even though all action is projected against the turmoil of the World War.”
++ Motion Pict Herald p57 Ap 11 ’36

"Made in an intelligent manner, filled with suspense. ‘Till We Meet Again’ is program that will find no complaints from but which will probably turn in merely a programmer’s grosses.”
++ N Y Exhibitor p13 Ap 25 ’36

"Routine spy story played well and nicely produced, but too lacking in cast pull or other punch to get name attention, as a grosser. As entertainment it’s moderate.”
++ Variety p14 My 13 ’36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor

"Somewhat outmoded in originality of plot and theme, it can be well catalogued as an artistic presentation of life studded against a background of intriguing espionage and warfare, its box office success might be hampered by the artistic and sophisticated way in which it is handled.”
++ Variety (Hollywood) p5 Ap 1 ’36

TIMES SQUARE PLAYBOY. My 9 ’36 61min
++ Warner
Players: Warren William, June Travis, Barton MacLane. Gene Lockhart. Kath-leen Lockhart
Director: William McGann
Formerly known as Broadway Playboy
See issue of March 30, 1936 for other reviews of this film under title of Broadway Playboy

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: fairly amusing; Y: perhaps; C: hardly.” Christian Century p79 My 15 ’36

"Adults, if they have time to waste.” Am Legion Auxiliary

"Possible for family.” Calif Cong of Fair & Teachers

"Mediocre. A waste of time. Adults.” DAR

This mediocre, tiresome comedy completely lacks entertainment value because of an un- inspiring story, unimaginative direction and the utter bewilderment of a good cast, to which are added objecitnoble inuendoes and uncall for drinking.” Nat Council of Jewish Women

"It is hoped the power of suggestion is not too strong for, if it is, the audience will come away ‘dizzy’ from watching the continuous drinking of members of the cast. Adults.” Nat Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs

"Some acceptable comedy for adult audiences but there is an over-abundance of drinking which fills no requirement of the plot. Mature.” Nat Soc of New England Women

"Unnecessary drinking. Family.” Calif Council of Fed Church Women
++ Fox W Coast Bul Ap 4 ’36

"The entire cast is well chosen and the direc- tor has nicely blended dramatic action, music, song, and dance but there is much more drinking than is necessary to carry the plot.” Gen Fed of Women’s Clubs (W Coast) Mr 21 ’36

"Adults.” Jt Estimates Ap 1 ’36

The hard work of Gene Lockhart lends it a certain amount of humour and it ruffles along at a good pace but it cannot be said to get anywhere in particular. Suitability: adults & adolescents.
++ Mo Film Bul p57 My ’36

"To the accomplishment of endless trays of cocktails the principals quarrel, are reconciled and quarrel, and no one cares very much how the altercation ends. Adolescents, 12-16: no; children, 8-12: no.”
++ Motion Pict R p3 Ap 1 ’36

"The comedy is a bit repetitious but the picture is amusing throughout. Family.” Nat Bd of R M ’36

"Adult.” Sel Motion Pict My 1 ’36

TUESDAY SQUARE PLAYBOY—Continued

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"As a stage play the incident of the friend who interferes with a marriage for good but mistaken motives was too thin to make a suitable basis for a full-length entertainment and it still is a short portion."

— Christian Science Monitor p15 Je 13 '36

"To those who are fond of a photographic reproduction of good stage technique, this will provide enjoyment... [It] is the sort of film that bores me exceedingly. Not for a score of seconds during the entire unreeling does the stream of chatter cease... Leaving the theatre where it was previewed, I heard several spectators voice their disapproval of the enormous amount of dialogue, as a result of which, I gather, the offering had not pleased them. The cinema is an art form that should be ninteenth pictorial. Incessant talking in it is out of place." Allan Hersholt

"The new photoplay suffers in the main because it is too reverent an adaptation of the parent work. For how else explain the static quality of 'Times Square Playboy,' a noisy comedy which manages to be alternately amusing and dull... Most of the time the camera is focused on the bickering Lockharts, whose constant bumbling becomes a bit boring." T. M. P.

+— New York Times p11 My 2 '36

"Sometimes it's funny, sometimes it's not—and that's the best that can be said of 'Times Square Playboy.'" Unfortunately, either the director or the players, or both, thought it wasn't funny enough. So they occasionally stress their lines and characterizations to the point of progressively worse. These excesses are more injurious than helpful, but the film still manages to remain reasonably entertaining." William Boehnel

+— N Y World-Telegram p25 My 5 '36

Trade Press Reviews

"Snappy farce comedy of the in-one-door-and-out-the-other type, aided by bright dialogue which keeps the laughter going. Family." +— Box Office p27 Mr 21 '36

"It is interesting in the Mr. & Mrs. angle, by the Lockharts, and we predict this couple will be good in other clean, homely pictures which will appeal to the tired family who want to go for complete relaxation, and see how the other half of the world is supposed to live!" L. S. Nimeyer

Canadian Moving Pict Digest p7 Mr 28 '36

"This is an entertaining comedy that will do best in the neighborhoods. Gene Lockhart, as the man who breaks up an engagement and then tries his hardest to patch it up, practically carries the picture. He is excellent."

— Film Curb p7 Mr 21 '36

"Excellent comedy good for all audiences. [It] boosts Gene and Kathleen Lockhart as a comedy team." +— Film Daily p11 My 1 '36

"The show moves fast and builds its situations so that the element of surprise occupies an unusual importance. While there are fairly good names to use for primary interest stimulating purposes, a campaign that sells the story of the show and what it means for those who like fast and furious fun should be productive of best results." +— Motion Pict Herald p10 Mr 21 '36

"[It] makes a weak bid as double bill material, but it was spent on 'Times Square Playboy.' The material, as evidenced by what's come to the screen, suggests that it offered little to begin with, no matter who was placed in the cast and who directed."

— Variety p19 My 6 '36

TOO MANY PARENTS. Mr 20 '36 Timlin Paramount

Players: George Ernest, Frances Farmer, Lester Matthews, Porter Hall

Director: Robert F. McGowan

See issue of March 30, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: fairly good; Y and C: good."

Christian Century p883 Ap 15 '36

"Good." DAR

"Family." E Coast Preview Committee

"A rather weak plot but the acting of the boys is excellent. Family & Junior matinee." Nat Ed of R

Fox W Coast Bul Ap 4 '36

"Family.—mature." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Family." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Some feel we should have more such pictures—that it is good for everyone to be so entertained and subtly chastised: others feel it is [is] sentimental—that the children [are] put up against adult reactions rather than childish emotions, which makes their acting stiffened and unnatural. Family." Nat Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Entertaining for any audience and thought-provoking for adults." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul My 2 '36

"An appealingly interesting picture, based on a well developed human interest story, heart warming in its naturalness."

+— Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ap 15 '36

"Family." Jt Estimates Ap 15 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Mr 15 '36

"The effect of military school life upon young boys, especially those sent away to provide greater freedom to their parents, is sympathetically presented." S. M. Mullen

Scholastic p28 My 2 '36

"A highly creditable production. Family." +— Sel Motion Pict Ap '36

"Juvenile." Wkly Guide Mr 21 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"I have a deep and painfully-earned distrust of all child pictures; they either make me downright ill, or just plain mad. Depends on whether they are impossible, or good enough to be merely boring... one spent me away sincerely touched and thoughtful. A shower of encomiums at the feet of Robert McGowan. The cast is perfect. There is not one out-of-character portrayal, and that, in a production entirely about children, is something my brief experience has never encompassed until now." Paul Jacobs

+— Hollywood Spec p13 Mr 28 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; —— Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

TRAiL OF THE LONESOME PINE. Mr 13 '36
95min Paramount.
Players: Sylvia Sidney, Fred MacMurray, Henry Fonda, Fred Stone. Spanky McFarland
Director: Henry Hathaway
See issue of March 30, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings
"The color photography is exquisite; you almost get the smell of the earth and the trees; when the water ripples, it becomes real water. You get the effect of actually being in the scenes as well as of looking at them."

"The simplicity of the story's character, the quiet conviction of its plot, together with the technique of its making spell excellent direction and provide both insights for that precious step-child of the arts, the Motion Picture. Family." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers
"Excellent. Mature-family." DAR
"Adults & young people." E Coast Preview Committee
"A triumph in the use of color, with its vistas of mountain and valley so wonderfully photographed in soft natural tones, as to be breathtakingly beautiful." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)
"Family." Nat Bd of R
"The direction is vigorous and sustained and lifts the sentimental, old-fashioned story into the realm of excellent entertainment. Family." Nat Council of Jewish Women
"Mature." Nat Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs
"It presents a distinct advance in cinema technique and a theme of universal appeal. Family." Nat Soc of Varied England Women
"A great improvement has been made in the use of color; nothing harsh and gaudy, but soft and natural, and yet not overbalancing the plot and action. The only thing at fault is the over-yellow tinting of the faces, and in the dialogue, a lack of Southern accent. Excellent direction and cast. Entertaining and gripping." Mature, S Calif Council of Fed Church Women
"So many scenes are worthy of comment and so many bits of acting are notably fine that a brief review cannot do them justice. Family." Mra T. C. Whitaker
"Family." Jt Estimates Mr 1 '36
"The story is fairly long; and, as often with films derived from other media, it shows certain tendencies towards the episodic. There are also one or two long-drawn passages of angry or hysterical declamation between characters... The use of colour in photographing natural scenery on a large scale is interesting, if not always fully successful... The process is an advance on previous ones, but by no means the last word. The story as such can stand on its own feet. Suitability: adults & adolescents." Mo Film Bul p90 My '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"Technicolor provides the chief claim to distinction of 'The Trail of the Lonesome Pine.'... Without the color photography to distract attention, the narrative would be more obviously the artificial stuff that it really is." E. F. M. Boston Transcript p4 Mr 21 '36
"Paramount didn't use Technicolor as a crutch in 'The Trail of the Lonesome Pine.' They forgot the color and went ahead and did as good a picture as they could. The color was just so much velvet," Don Herold

"Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE—Continued

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" advertised as '100 per cent natural color,' seemed to me to hit 75 per cent, especially in its browns and blues." Mark Van Doren

+ Nation p360 Mr 13 '36

"Although the best outdoor color rendition to date, the process still leaves much to be desired. In general the tints are exaggerated and uncontrolled... As for the film proper, director Hathaway has managed to enliven the old story and there are good performances by Sylvia Sydney, Fred MacMurray and Henry Fonda." Robert Siebbings

+ New Theatre p31 Ap '36

"The picture manages to give a faithful representation of inanimate objects, and it is only now and again that the view resembles a picture postcard." The Mark Forrest

Sat R p640 My 16 '36

"It is just bad bright picture-postcard stuff, and if one sometimes forgets its picture-postcard quality, it is only because the images move." Graham Greene

Spec p575 My 15 '36

TREACHERY RIDES THE RANGE. My 2 '36 55min Warner

Players: Paula Stone, Monte Blue, Dick Foran

Director: Frank McDonald

See issue of March 30, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"An exciting Western. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"A stirring drama of stage-coach days deviates from the stereotyped Western formula to a degree which affords excellent family entertainment. Family. Superior. & Junior matinee." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Mediocre. Mature-family." DAR

"Family." Nat Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"The film has a plausible plot, magnificent settings, wonderfully photographed, with some very good singing and stirring views of Indians and stampeding buffalo. Heartily recommended for family & Junior matinee." Nat Soc of New England Women's Clubs

"No drinking, and the only objectionable feature is the ruthless shooting of the Indian braves, for which the buffalo traders are justly punished. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul Mr 14 '36

"Family."

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Mr 1 '36

"Family."

Jt Estimates Mr 1 '36

"The end is abrupt and becomes less convincing because of the sudden pacification of the Indians. The Indian scenes are well done and the method of interpreting by signs is interesting to watch. Jt. Suitability: family." + — Mo Film Bul p69 Ap '36

"This is more valuable than the usual Western because of the good use of historical background. Adolescents, 12-16: good; children, 8-12; very exciting." + — Motion Pic R Ap '36

"Family—junior."

Nat Fed of R M My '36

"A mediocre cast, stock shots, and only fair direction. . . Suitable for very unspiritualized audiences."

— Nat Council of Jewish Women Mr 4 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

“General patronage.”

Nat Legion of Decency Mr 29 '36

"Family."

Sel Motion Pict Ap '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Set against a picturesque background of rolling hills, 'Treachery Rides The Range' moves smoothly from beginning to end and is nicely acted by Mr. Foran and Paula Stone, who provide the romantic interest." T. M. P.

+ N Y Times p7 My 30 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Soldiers and Indians, instead of the perennial cowboys and cattle rustlers or gold mine crooks, are brought back into service as the principals in this Western melodrama. It not only offers a welcome change, but the story material given [the cast] also rates higher than average." + Film Daily p8 My 29 '36

"Estimate: good Western." +

— N Y Exhibitor p30 Mr 25 '36

"Picture brims with horsemanship and gunplay, has a telescopic buffalo sequence and plenty of mesa scenery, but is deficient on comedy and merely purrs romance. Notwithstanding, it is superior to most of its type, ought to be okay in the twin bill corrals." + Variety p54 Je 3 '36

TROUBLE FOR TWO. My 22 '36 83min MGM

Players: Robert Montgomery, Rosalind Russell, Frank Morgan, David Holt, Virginia Weidler

Director: J. Walter Ruben

Based on the short story, The Suicide Club, by Robert Louis Stevenson. A prince and a princess of mythical kingdoms, seeking to avoid pledged marriage, set out separately on incognito adventures and find themselves involved in a fantastic suicide club where death is dealt out for a price and with decent decorum for those tired of life." (Variety [Hollywood])

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A and Y: good; C: little interest." Christian Century p577 Je 17 '36

"The direction of this purported Robert Louis Stevenson tale, gives a confused hodge-podge of bewildering horror, some comedy, and a new mood every few feet. Adults. Definitely not for children." Am Legion Auxiliary

"[It] provides good family entertainment." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Disappointing treatment of this story handicaps the fine actors. Mediocre-mature." DAR

"This screen version of Robert Louis Stevenson's 'The Suicide Club' is a bit confusing and certainly more exciting. Mature." Nat Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Mature." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul Je 6 '36

"This skillfully directed picture provides all the necessary elements of entertainment; romance, intrigue, daring, bravery and humor, and will prove most fascinating. Adults & younger."

+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) My 27 '36

"The idea of a secret society which deals out death is too blood-chilling for children, but for those old enough to accept it as a modern
"Family."
Nat Bd of R M Je '36

"It is a most entertaining and amusing film..." Adults & young people
Sel Motion Pic J 1 '36

"Beautiful production and many clever actors. Suggested for schools and libraries. Family."
Wkly Guide My 30 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Little of the flavor of Mr. Stevenson's 'Suicide Club' story, but the film maintains enough of the original plot to be unusual..." Occasionally, that it might become convincing and the direction is so slowly paced that interest lags. Family.
Nat Council of Jewish Women My 27 '36

"A highly diverting offering, excellently written, directed and acted. Its chief virtue is the manner in which its mood is sustained, its fidelity which we have come to consider a stylistic trade-mark of England's master melodramatist, Alfred Hitchcock. The screen play is the same story, but it contains much which could have made us accept another story about a country gentleman."
S. Nugent
N Y Times Je '36

"'Trouble For Two' is all plot and no play. Throughout Mr. Montgomery wears his uniforms and evening dress with the aplomb of a musclemen manikin; Mr. Morgan gives another of his delightful performances, the stately and dignified Miss Russell is as radiant as she can be in a screwy part." Douglas Gilbert
N Y World-Telegram My 17 '36

"I don't suppose that Robert Louis Stevenson's 'Suicide Club' stories belong to the mystery-story grouping any more. They're too gentle. You may feel that they are too polite and dainty (and tedious) as they come out on the screen in 'Trouble for Two.' Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell can't quite manage to be faneful, nor will the story let them seem very stirring, either." John Mcdonald
New York Sun p33 Je '36

"Novelty on the screen is rare and this picture has neither predecessor nor parallel. Fantasy that manages more genuine amusement than anything glimpsed in a picture... The tang and impish mood of the original have been captured, with the writing, acting, costuming and net result being as perfect as things can be in this particular Vale." Herb Sternie

"It may not stamp Stevenson as the Damon Runyon of his period but, even with the addition of Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell it is more ladylike than usual, it is an adroit and pleasantly sinister blend of romance and melodrama. Director J. Walter Ruben's handling of the film shows that he has studied and almost mastered the technique perfected in his two models by London's master of cinematic horror, Alfred Hitchcock."
Time p42 Je 8 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Other than having the advantage of two box-office names, this has little to recommend it. Family."
Box Office p69 My 30 '36

"This is a bit gruesome here and there and therefore may not be acceptable film fare in some situations. However, it is splendidly played but really fine cast. " Can hardly make the grade for the big spots."
Film Curb p7 My 23 '36

"'It is a solid box-office attraction combining romance, adventure, and intrigue..."
Film Daily p8 Je 1 '36

"Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell are a team draw that cannot be denied, but whether the movie is worth the price of admission is another matter, which gives it the appearance of being badly editor." L. L.
Boston Transcript p4 Je 6 '36

"Though this is a bizarre combination of comedy, odd love interest, melodrama and mystery it is the kind of picture necessitating intensive selling to assure popularity. Previews have been received in London with sufficient confidence, which demonstrated that it was ahead of the story all the time and knew pretty well just what was going to happen and how it didn't seem to be either interested or impressed."
Motion Pic Daily p4 My 19 '36

"Estimate: fair program."
Phil Exhibitor p23 Je 1 '36

"Metro has done a swell job of dusting off Robert Louis Stevenson's museum piece, but the chances are that not many of the regulars will care. Metro's Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell the film has two advantageous selling points, but the pair have been clad in costuming that is not particularly personal. But what really counts is past performances. Mechanics of Stevenson's plots make farfetched probabilities on the screen. Good direction, casting and the rich mounting the production has received aren't strong enough to completely overcome these defects."
Variety p15 Je 3 '36

"Trouble For Two" is [is] superior entertainment which should find exhibitor welcome almost anywhere for substantial grosses. It avoids the common formula, and cliches of the screen death-dealer but carries grim and bizarre elements along with constant twist to baffle TROUBLE FOR TWO—Continued.

even the most practiced of the puzzle fans. At the same time it provides constant amusement in sparkling comedy of line and situation." + Variety (Hollywood) p3 My 18 '36

TUDOR ROSE. See Lady Jane Grey

TWO AGAINST THE WORLD. JI 18 '36 65min Warner-First national Players: Humphrey Bogart, Beverly Roberts, Linda Perry, Carlyle Moore, Jr.
Director: William McGann

Based on the play, Five Star Final, by Louis Weltzenkorn and previously filmed under that title. ["The] story [tells]... how resurrection of an old murder trial results in wreckage of the lives of a father and mother and the happiness of their daughter when a broadcasting station operating on the fringe of legitimate serializes the case." (Variety [Hollywood])

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Family-mature." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Adults: fair; 14-18: dull; 5-14: no." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Mediocre-adults." DAR

"This timely picture has an interesting, well-constructed plot, convincing direction that shows intelligent appreciation of values and well-balanced acting,—hence, a very satisfying picture for its type. Mature." Nat Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"This film is a timely protest against muckraking radio programs. Although tragic in tone, it is thought-provoking, well constructed and very real. Mature." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Although the picture has its ethical value, it is too tragic for any but the mature. Irrelevant drinking is objectionable. Mature." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul My 16 '36

"The picture, a pitifully tragic one, is vividly portrayed and intensely interesting: It is exceptionally well cast and forcefully directed. Adults & young people." + Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) My 5 '36

"Mature." Jt Estimates My 1 '36

"Adolescents, 12-16: poor; children, 8-12: no." Motion Pict R Je '36

"While the picture might be considered a protest against much of the material which comes over the radio, nevertheless it proves sordid and unpleasant entertainment. Adults." Nat Council of Jewish Women My 8 '36

"Objection—two suicides. Objectionable in part." Nat Legion of Decency My 21 '36

"[It is] a very good film for mature audiences. Although tragic in tone, it is thought-provoking, well constructed and very real. Mature." + Sel Motion Pict Je 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"'Two Against the World' is not going to be hailed as one of the season's masterpieces. Teamed with a comedy on a dual bill it will fit in. It is not grossly sensational to give it alone. William McGann's direction strives heroically to alter for the poor story material." — Hollywood Spec p5 My 25 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Plenty of punch-packed situations and much dramatic action, coupled with a fine plot and good dialogue make this an above the average picture. The yarn moves swiftly to an exciting climax and no attempt is made to change the tragic tone. Family." + Box Office p60 My 30 '36

"Holds the interest and should fare well in most spots... Fans who like their drama in the raw will appreciate this one." + Film Daily p31 My 29 '36

"[It] cannot be sympathetic enough that will put it over in good style with popular audiences everywhere... [The] forceful, though rather obvious, screenplay and a good all-around job of production puts this above the B-class average." + Hollywood Reporter p3 My 12 '36

"This is sensational, grim melodrama... Stark in context and carrying no comedy relief, but contrasted by an appealing love interest situation, the show is of that quality that made such pictures as 'Front Page' interesting." Motion Pict Daily p6 My 13 '36

"One does not have to look long before seeing that this is a revamp of 'Five Star Final.' Previewed in Warner's Downtown Theatre. Though audience indicated a familiarity with the story, it evidently was not ingrained in the dramatic manner in which it was narrated by a new group of players." + Motion Pict Herald p4 My 22 '36

"Estimate: program, depends on handling." — Phila Exhibitor p22 Je 1 '36

"Picture is well made within limits set, but method of telling is so stern, accusative and uncompromising that entertainment will be restricted even among audiences where it will share program spotting." + Variety (Hollywood) p3 My 12 '36

TWO IN REVOLT. Ap 3 '36 60min RKO
Players: John Arledge, Louise Latimer, Moroni Olsen
Director: Glenn Tryon

See issue of March 30, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Family & Junior matinee." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Family & junior matinee." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Amusing; engaging. Family. Good." DAR

"The escape of the race horse from thieves and his meeting with a herd of wild horses give opportunity for some very instructive scenes and an animal life that is as contrasting with the domestic. Family." E Coast Preview Committee

"Excellent for the family & junior matinee." Nat Council of Jewish Women

"Family." Nat Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"The story strains one's credulity but it is nevertheless very appealing and very well directed. Photography is remarkably skillful and the production is one which will delight friends of animals of any age." Nat Soc of New England Women

"With animals as stars, this picture with its glorious background of wild scenery, and its beautiful interpretation of the love and affectionately expressed animal sympathy will prove highly entertaining as well as instructive. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul Ap 4 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; +— Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
"Family & junior matinee."

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Mr 21 '36

"Family."

Jt Estimates Mr 15 '36

"The story is occasionally absurd, though there are many good natural touches, but the direction and cutting are very good. Suitability: family; especially for children under 15."

Mo Film Bu1 p90 My '36

"The remarkable histrionic genius of the two chief actors and their exciting but plausible adventures will hold the interest of all who cherish sympathy and kinship with horses and dogs. Adolescents; 12-16: excellent; children, 8-12: excellent."

- Motion Pict R Ap '36

"Family-Junior."

Nat Bd of R M Ap '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency Mr 15 '36

"Family."

Sie Motion Pict Ap '36

"A horse, a dog and love story. [It is] one of the most satisfactory of its kind. Alive and likeable all through. Family. Junior."

+ Wickly Guide Mr 14 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Good entertainment of its kind."

+ Christian Science Monitor p15 Je 13 '36

"[It is] a thoroughly entertaining and heart-warming little film. ... If 'Two in Revolt!' is not enormously exciting, it is at least striking and entertaining throughout and a credit to its producer, Robert Sisk, who has a way of bringing stories that matter to the screen."

William Boehm

+ N Y World-Telegram p17 Ap 27 '36

"This picture must have been difficult to make and Tryon has done a fine job. ... If you like animals and scenery this can be recommended."

H. S.

+ Script p11 My 16 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Possessing more than average appeal for animal lovers, this entertaining story of a dog and a horse, both animals on the same day and whose friendship endures through a long estrangement, will please young and old."

+ Box Office p217 Mr 21 '36

"Varying tastes can come to agreement on this one. Presenting a horse and dog of remarkable intelligence, 'Two in Revolt!' shows the escape to nature made by both animals in an effort to find adjustment."

+ Film Daily p8 Mr 19 '36

"Exploitation based on the widespread and earnest human admiration for dog and horse is suggested by the picture content. Special attention might be given to the early sequences, depicting the infancy of the featured animals, and the subsequent equine combats which take place when they escape to their primitive associations with their kind."

Motion Pict Herald p53 My 2 '36

"Neighborhood audiences should like 'Two in Revolt.' For 'A' time de luxeers, it will have little appeal despite the fact that the production was given evident sincerity. Handicapped, the picture probably will be relegated to twin bills, dish nights, but it deserves a better fate."

N Y V Exhibitor p31 Mr 25 '36

"A horse, a dog and a small cast figure in 'Two in Revolt' which is half-Western and half of the racetrack variety. It is moderate entertainment of its kind and will go best before audiences that like animals racing and western desert backgrounds. Hardly strong enough to get anything but dual dates. Story is rather thin."

- Variety p13 Ap 29 '36

UNDER TWO FLAGS. My 1 '36 100mn 20th century-Fox

Players: Claudette Colbert, Ronald Colman. in Victor McLaglen, Rosalind Russell

Director: Frank Lloyd

This is the third screen version. Based on the novel of the same title by Ouida. "The predominating theme is the love of Miss Colbert as Cigarette and Miss Russell as Lady Venetia for Colman, who fled a jail sentence in England as a result of shielding his wayward brother. McLaglen [plays] the commander of the Legion post at Algeria who becomes insensibly jealous of Miss Colbert's affection for Colman. The picture carries a dramatic impact when Arabs declare war and McLaglen sends Sergeant Colman into almost certain death among the Arab tribes to assuage [his] Jealous emotion." (Motion Pict Daily)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"I thought this the best desert film I have seen; even better than 'Beau Geste,' which we all considered an exceptionally fine film."

+ Bks & Films My '36

"[It is] translated to the screen with pomp and ceremony of old-fashioned 'glory of dying on field of battle.' Decidedly militaristic and outmoded; the 'heroic' French Foreign Legion protecting the lives of white men and women against the 'barbarous' Arabs. One expects any tale of the Foreign Legion to abound in bloodshed and violence—and 'Under Two Flags' is no exception."

Bul on Current Films Je 6 '36

"A and Y; very good; C: too exciting." Christian Century p73 My 20 '36

"This epic of the screen is a spell-binder, and shows that Zanuck's personally produced attempt has exceeded all expectations. Family. Am Legion Auxiliary

"Family." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Excellent-mature. Beautiful photography of African desert; marvelous, terrifying battle-field riding of Arabs, tragedy and comedy skilfully blended." DAR

"Family." E Coast Preview Committee

"Claudette Colbert's 'Cigarette' is ardent and tempestuous, but has been toned down to meet present-day sentiment towards roles of this kind, and therefore much that might have been found objectionable has been eliminated. Family—Women's Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"This story of the little French girl who gives her life for the legionnaire whom she loved so simply and wholeheartedly is delicately and beautifully handled and so far above the average of motion pictures that it stands in a class of its own. A family film, altho possibly the battle scenes will be too exciting for young children." Nat Soc of New England Women

"For those who love action, its vitality and its brilliant production qualities place it among the best of its kind. Family." Mrs T. G. Winter

- Fox W Coast Bul My 9 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + - Fair; - - Mediocre; Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
UNDER TWO FLAGS—Continued

"Family. The production is distinguished by notably fine photography, effective musical scoring, a star cast, flawless in their characterization and expert and forceful direction."

+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) My 5 '36

"Outstanding: Family—mature."

+ New York Times My 1 '36

"My feeling is that 'Under Two Flags,' an excellent film version of the Ouida novel, will have the greatest appeal to children and adolescent- ists. The story is a scene from adventure...[It] is both pictorially and dramatically a fine production."

+ Motion Picture & Family p5 My 15 '36

"Proving that unadulterated hokum can be incorporated in a picture without marving its effectiveness, 'Under Two Flags' tells an improbable yarn so sincerely and so touchingly that even hard-boiled audiences will cry and like it. For tender-hearted or emotional more of a story like ought have been able to meat, but as a stirring tale of romantic adventure this is ace high entertainment. Adoles- cents, 12-18: very exciting; children, 8-12: no."

+ Motion Picture R My '36

"Family."

+ Nat Bd of R M My '36

"Arab raids and soldiers' romances keep the film moving at a fast pace. Adults."

+ Nat Legion of Decency Ap 30 '36

"The story is reminiscent of 'Beau Geste' and carries all the stark drama, glamour, braving the teneur sentiment of that famous story. Family."

+ Sel Weekly My Picture My 1 '36

"Very good battle scenes. Family."

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Though the cast bears the names of such players as Claudette Colbert, Victor McLaglen and Rosalind Russell, it is [Ronald Colman] who carries off the honors. If there had been been more of a story like ought have been able to set forth a full-length study in character in- stead of the pleasing projection of himself that partially rejuvenates a worn-out formula, of fighting, even to those who may be skeptical about some of the details which lead up to the battle scenes, unusually exciting. Rarely does Hollywood set its myrmidons charging at each other in such headlong fashion."—E. F. O'M. My 17 '36

"Superlatives, thousands of extras, a desert locale that would keep the Foreign Legion itself guessing, added to Frank Lloyd's expert direction, combine to make this picture splendid entertainment."

+ Canadian M p11 Je '36

"Ouida's old romance brought forward 30 years in time without removal of its glowing impression of imperialism and its ancient caste dis- tinctions; given a sprightly comedy treatment that partially rejuvenates a worn-out formula, of Magnificent desert vistas and sanguine battle scenes, with many horses trained to tumble, or trained to permit the spectators with thrills."

+ Christian Science Monitor p15 My 2 '36

"It is gripping screen entertainment for its entire length, a closely knit narrative which will satisfy completely the most discriminating audience."

+ Hollywood Spec p8 My 9 '36

"That this picturesque narrative of life in the Foreign Legion, though undeniably enter- taining, never attains its potential heights, is due, I suspect, to its selective indulgence...[It is] commendable movie fare—and a disappoint- ment in not being something more." (3½ stars)

+ Motion Picture News My 6 '36

"A waste of excellent cast, proficient photography, and your good hour and a half. Robert Stebbins—New Theatre p36 Je '36

"The striking pictorial beauty of 'Under Two Flags' does not cloak a multitude of dramatic sins in the film. Liberties have been taken with Ouida's['] purpose and some- what literal bow to the French Foreign Legion, but the narrative still creaks embarrassingly to the photographer's effective and extensive cutting. It is probable that no amount of retouching would serve to invigorate the mundane story. The confusion of melodramatic adventures and im- probable love affairs that defy a plausible screen plot is the most formidable flaw."

+ N Y Herald Tribune p12 My 1 '36

"'Under Two Flags' is a romantic melo- drama which might easily have turned recellular or dull, or both. It is new, however. However it may have seemed at the turn of the century, the plot is no longer new...The pictorially the film is magnificent, kept to black-and-white photography, for which this department thanks them. This is black-and-white fine, photography. Even the screen's one new high in desert warfare and we refuse to believe it could have been made without several of the combatants sustaining real injuries."—Eileen Creel- man

+ N Y Sun p21 My 1 '36

"Twentieth-Century-Fox has not stinted on its production nor on a cast which would do full justice to a venerable piece of stage property. It is, as anyone can see, a pleasant cast, but, under Frank Lloyd's direction, to hold our interest during the quieter interludes wherein the Legion is not defending the Tri-color. That battle scene toward the film's end is a new high in desert warfare and we refuse to believe it could have been made without several of the combatants sustaining real injuries."—F. S. Nugent

+ N Y Times p19 My 1 '36

"Except that it is much too long, 'Under Two Flags,' is the best amalgamation of melo- drama, romance and adventure that the screen has offered since 'The Lives of a Bengal Lancer.' Even those reclamaitors, who are not convinced that any rule under the French rule is the most beneficial in the world will have to admit that the film is full of excite- ment and chivalry. It tells the Foreign Legion's exploits in Africa. 'Under Two Flags' is superior entertainment."—William Boehm

+ N Y World-Telegram p29 My 1 '36

"Many people have to see Claudette Colbert in anything she does, and therefore won't want to see 'Under Two Flags.' It's about the Foreign Legion, but it's no 'Moroc- co.' Too much sand."—John Mosher

+ New Yorker p87 My 9 '36

"This grand old hokum drammer needed a lot of humanizing to make it live again, but Ray Griffith, producer and Frank Lloyd, di- rector, have done justice. I must confess, however, that my interest began to sag with the big- production stuff, and I'm terribly tired of seeing innumerable horses tripped right in front of the camera."

+ Script p10 My 16 '36

"[It is] one of the major disappointments of the season, dueprimarily to an outmoded theme of love and sacrifice under an African sun. Authentic, powerful background, sincere performing, creditable photography by yet time two or more of the characters get to- gether, the phoniness of the situations brings the ending way below its normal level."—+ Stage p10 Je 1 '36

"The current version, costly, handsome and overlong, offers a concession to modernity. The magnificently-photographed battle is the film's best feature."—Time p56 My 11 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

Trade Paper Reviews

"A superlatively spectacular and thoroughly excellent production, this cannot miss being one of the top money-getters of 1936." + Box Office p31 My 23 '36

"Whether or not 'Under Two Flags' will win the Academy award for 1936 is something that we would rather not prophesy, but when the list of the ten most outstanding productions this season is compiled I feel sure that you will find 'Under Two Flags' well in the van of that list." + Canadian Moving Pict Digest p8 My 9 '36

"The best picture this outfit has produced in some long time. It is quite a satisfactory version of the famous story. Of course there have been many yarins of the Foreign Legion since this one was written and several have reached the screen. All of which rather takes the edge off another tale of the same variety." + Film Curb p14 My 2 '36

"Action drama of the Foreign Legion, big in scope and with many excellent performances to give it real box office draw." + Film Daily p4 Ap 28 '36

"A magnificent pageant of love and action in the Foreign Legion that is unforgettable in the thrilling beauty of its production and the gorgeous galaxy of its individual performances, but that nevertheless misses entertainment greatness, though by a narrow margin. Its many outstanding merits, however, will make it a very big money-maker. The two faults that tally against it for real greatness are inherent in the story as written by Ouida. The central male character switches his devotion from one woman to another in the middle of the story and the dramatic issue, which is the love of two women for the one man, is not stated or its results precipitated until several reels of introductory narrative have passed." + Hollywood Reporter p2 Ap 24 '36

"Combining all the available showmanship angles into one dramatic unit, Ouida's famous tale of love, sacrifice and bravery in the Foreign Legion comes to the screen with an effective pictorial translation assuring huge grosses. . . . The film surmounts all the African Foreign Legion chronicles to date." + Motion Pict Daily p2 Ap 25 '36

"Showmen will find many effective angles with which to market it. . . . On strength of cast, quality of story and excellence of production 'Under Two Flags' is entertainment for any kind of audience." + Motion Pict Herald p39 My 9 '36

"Backed by four names, with one punch scene, 'Under Two Flags' should do better than average business. The story's familiarity is overcome by some romantic bits, but on the whole the yarn doesn't seem to deserve the attention given it. With the names, however, this disadvantage can be overcome." + N Y Exhibitor p23 My 10 '36

"The classic 'Under Two Flags' is still sturdy fare. The film's 111 minutes count against it a bit because it drags up better with 20 minutes or more elided. . . . General technic bolsters a now familiar pattern. . . . The production's highlight is the pitched battle on the desert between the marauding Arabs and the handful of Legionnaires." + Variety p18 My 6 '36

"'Under Two Flags' marches to the box office as swaggering melodrama of sure-fire value. Pict looks special bound throughout for 105 minutes and indicates healthy box office, with appeal for all types of audience." + Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ap 24 '36

UNGUARDED HOUR. Ap 10 '36 90min MGM
Players: Loretta Young, Franchot Tone, Lewis Stone, Robert Young, Dudley Digges, Henry Daniell
Director: Sam Wood

Based on the Hungarian play of the same title by Ladislaus Fodor, translated by Bernard Merivale. "Franchot Tone is about to reach the summit of his career, having been assured an appointment as airmen general when his wife, Loretta Young, receives a blackmailing threat involving some letters written before his marriage by Tone. The payment of the money on the Dover cliffs involves Miss Young as the witness needed to clear a man of murder." (Motion Pict Daily)

Audience Suitability Ratings

Bks & Films My '36

"A: excellent; Y: good; C: no interest." Christian Century p783 Je 3 '36

"Adults and later teens." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Mature." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Mature." DAR

"Adults & young people." E Coast Preview Committee

"Mature." Nat Bd of R

"Family—mature." Nat Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"A mystery story which holds one spell-bound from start to finish. Family, exclusive of young children." Nat Soc of New England Women

"This picture has weight and appeal for the mature audience. Outstanding work by Roland Young in his usually interesting characterization." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul Ap 25 '36

"The picture is cleverly directed with psychological factors stressed and although it starts out along the beaten path, it soon takes on new angles which are refreshingly different. Family—mature." + Jt Estimates Ap 15 '36

"The film as a whole cleverly keeps one's attention, though it is somewhat spoilt by the weakness of the conclusion. Suitability: adults & adolescents." + — Mo Film Bul p90 My '36

"Ninety per cent of the laughs go to Roland Young who has the best lines and effects such natural comedy relief that a normal attitude is maintained, and the film never becomes what it easily might have been, the morbid story of two crimes. Adolescents, 12-16; too sophisticted for children, 12- no." + Motion Pict R M '36

"Perfection of cast, direction and suspense are responsible for the rare entertainment qualities of this picture. Adults." + Nat Council of Jewish Women Ap 15 '36

"Adults." Nat Legion of Decency Mr 29 '36

"A: mystery drama of London life and its criminal court; Y: sophisticated; C: no." + Par M p52 Je '36

"Family—mature." + Sel Motion Pict My 1 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; +— Fair; +— Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
UNGUARDED HOUR—Continued

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[It] is diverting rather than impressive." B. H. Boston Transcript p4 My 16 '36

"This is real drama, with a punch and plenty of thrills right up to the last minute. The climax unprepared and well thought out by director Sam Wood knows how to get every bit of suspense out of this type of plot." Laura Ellen

+ Canadian M p61 My '36

+ Loretta Young and Franchot Tone, with Roland Young and Lewis Stone, work well together in this dramatically interesting, closely-knit play. . . The crime is committed with a minimum of morbidity and is solved by natural sequence of cause and effects, rather than by high-school dramatics of Hawkshaw deduction. J. F. Cunningham

+ Commonweal p724 Ap 24 '36

"Franchot Tone is to me one of the most pleasing actors on the screen, but he is handicapped in 'Unguarded Hour' by the unconvincing with which he is served up. The hero, as played by Tone, is a manly enough to make a good story out of a poor one. The picture's assets are its pictorially impressive and wellakened, its strong cast and Sam Wood's capable direction; its liability, an illogical story. . . If you want to check your emotions at the box-office before going in, you may get some satisfaction out of it. I did." — Hollywood Spec p25 Ap 11 '36

"For an evening of brisk mental gymnastics the film is rigorous exercise. Though the plot is too neatly evolved to be realistic, Director Sam Wood's unswerving study and the complicated workings, so suavely proves his point, that the film is arresting diversion." (2½ stars) Liberty p38 My 9 '36

"A number of pleasant players are engaged in a lot of exceptionally silly activities concerned with murder and blackmail in [this] picture. . . There is an excellent physical production and, as already suggested, the players are helpful. I fear, though, that the implausibility which surrounds the entire narrative and the unreal quality of the motivation keep 'The Unguarded Hour' from being a credible or an absorbing screen picture. And I think that the dialogue can be set down as exactly helpful." Richard Watts, Jr. — N Y Herald Tribune p10 Ap 4 '36

"[It is] an entertaining melodrama in spite of its dependence upon the well known set of curious chances. . . 'The Unguarded Hour' becomes, however, one of the best plots that has come to the screen, a murder-mystery story without any of the usual hokum devices to lead one astray. I defy anybody to guess the outcome." R. W. — Script p90 Je 6 '36

"As designed by the production staff, the film becomes a most typical romantic melodrama and static, lightened here and there by the inherent excellence of the writing and the accuracy of the acting." + Stage p10 My '36

"For a melodrama containing two violent deaths, 'The Unguarded Hour' is chiefly remarkable for its sincere and realistic handling which Franchot Tone's yawns, head scratchings and frowns to denote the weight of great affairs, do little to dispel." — Time p32 Ap 13 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A polite murder mystery with the story built amid a reserved atmosphere. Situated in an English drawing-room locale for the first reel, the plot finally gains enough momentum to make it both interesting and exciting. Family." + Box Office p25 Ap 11 '36

"The mystery angle of this drama of London life is cleverly worked out, with plenty of suspense, several tense emotional climaxes, and with a cast that gets every ounce of effect from the roles." + Film Daily p4 Ap 1 '36

"As well-mannered a mystery as has come out of Hollywood since 'Interference,' 'The Unguarded Hour' is due for satisfactory business anywhere. . . To win and hold interest, it has a plot of many unexpected twists, purposefully designed to keep the spectator off guard and faultlessly played by all concerned." — Hollywood Reporter p2 Ap 1 '36

"The stage origin of this story of English aristocracy has been apparently dressed out in the extensive use of dialogue to describe off-stage action, but the result is pleasant entertainment. The cast is perfectly meshed and the situations neatly handled. It lacks in basic story values is made up for by smart handling of the actors who do their level best for it. But, I fear, not even their level best is enough for 'The Unguarded Hour'." — Motion Pict Daily p11 Ap 4 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; —— Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
"Combining a quartet of marques names with a closely-knit and suspenseful plot in which the indispensable murder is consummated with a minimum of morbidity, this picture is susceptible to the best type of exploitation suitable for features of its kind."

Motion Pict Herald p40 Ap 4 '36

"Without the expert cast that's been wrapped around it, this English drawingroom [mystery] would have made a stodgy, meandering talkfest. Even as it stands, the production offers little action or suspense, while the few punch moments that are found themselves crowded into the final reel... The results should fluctuate around an average mark."

Variety p16 Ap 8 '36

"Supervision, writing and direction have fashioned 'The Unguarded Hour' into top-notch film fare and were it not for these contributions, picture might have wound up as just another melodramatic affair. [The] picture should get money."

Variety (Hollywood) p5 Ap 1 '36

---

WE ARE FROM KRONSTADT. My 1 '36 Mosfilm

Players: V. Zaichikov, C. Bushuyev, N. Ivakin, O. Jakov

Director: E. Dzigan

Russian dialogue film made in U.S.S.R. with English sub-titles. "It tells the part that the Kronstadt sailors played in saving Petrograd from the White and foreign troops." (N Y World-Telegram)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: perhaps; Y: no; C: no."

Christian Century p877 Je 17 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"'Kronstadt' is an excellent picture and should be seen. It is difficult to understand, however, why the Soviets, who have achieved near perfection in most departments of cinematic-making, should display such little knowledge of the technique of continuity. It was often difficult to interpret the military action."

Fred Stein

Hollywood Spec p14 Je 6 '36

"Reviewed by Mark Van Doren

NATION p68 My 27 '36

"The test of a successful work is whether it has accomplished what it set out to do. The fervent applause that everywhere greets 'Kronstadt,' and the deserved oclamations heaped upon the film's director, Dzigan, permit little argument on that score. 'Kronstadt' will win the Russian film many new adherents."

Robert Stebbins

New Theatre p15 Je 3 '36

"[It is] a notable addition to the magnificent series of Soviet revolutionary films. Superbly staged and photographed and brilliantly acted, 'We Are From Kronstadt' is a motion picture in the true sense of that term. It is not as tautly dramatic as 'Potemkin' or 'Chapayev,' but it has an irresistible sweep and power that take it of the cinema's first-rank achievements... E. Dzigan, who must be ranked with Eisenstein and Pudovkin for his imaginative and masterly direction of the work, has realized every implication of the script. Working for three years with Vishnevsky on the film, with all the resources of the Soviet navy at his command, he has achieved memorable effects in the whole range of cinematic technique."

Herald Tribune p8 My 2 '36

"From Russia has come a brilliant companion piece to last year's 'Chapayev.' "We Are From Kronstadt" contains some of the most important motion pictures and the boldest direction the screen has provided this year. All told, the new picture comes pretty close to being the equal of the Soviet Studios have made."

F. S. Nugent

Y Times pl2 My 2 '36

"In the superior tradition of 'Potemkin' and 'Chapayev,' this 'We Are From Kronstadt' is one of the mightiest films that have come out of a country noted for its productions of direct and persuasive motion pictures—physically exciting and engaging film, 'We Are From Kronstadt' is, further, notable for its brilliant photography, superb direction and admirable characterizations."

William Boehne

Y World-Telegram pl7 My 4 '36

"One of the finest pictures going is the Russian 'We Are From Kronstadt.' It's a Russian film with humor, which is news always, I guess—a humor straight from the barracks, but often gentle and to the point. And certainly if you're sick of the routine movie stuff, you may be glad to see a report of a crisis in history which is not employed merely as a background for romance. It's a film to be respected."

John Mosher

Y New Yorker p35 My 9 '36

"Cameraman N. Naumov-Straj turns in a magnificent piece of cinematography when he articulates the progress of this remarkable revolutionary battle piece... [It is] a picture which has been made for photography since 'The Informer,' has certainly not been equaled for military realism since 'Chapayev.'"

Time p56 My 11 '36

---

Trade Paper Reviews

"[It is a] fine action picture with strong working class influence."

Film Daily p8 My 2 '36

"'We Are From Kronstadt' is strictly limited in its appeal to patrons of the arty theaters, Friends of the Soviet Union, and students of motion picture technique. This is mainly due by the elemental effects achieved through the Russians' great sincerity. Of general entertainment value. It is little matched for photography since 'The Informer.' Has certainly not been equaled for military realism since 'Chapayev.'"

Hollywood Reporter p8 My 22 '36

"It glorifies the revolution and may be of interest to the audiences who raptly attend the 'little' theaters for their entertainment. The situations are well done after the Russian fashion and the camera work, particularly the scenes on the battlefields, is superb."

Motion Pict Daily p15 My 6 '36

"Reviewed at the Cameo theatre, New York, which exhibits Russian films exclusively, where a May Day audience of near capacity received the picture without audible manifestation of reaction."

Motion Pict Herald p32 My 10 '36

"Estimate: for art houses."

Phil Exibitor p37 Je 1 '36

"It's another drab sermon in favor of the revolution and Communism. Being nothing more than sugar-coated propaganda, something from which the Soviet screen is free and the boldest escape, it has appeal only for those who are Communismically-minded or still get a kick out of the flap-waving of the U. S. R. over its revolution."

Variety p19 My 6 '36

---

Exceptionally Good; Good; Fair; Mediocre; Poor; Exceptionally Poor
WELLINGTON PIKE GOES WEST. 55min
O'Neill-State rights
Players: Russell Gleason. Jack LaRue. Virginia Carroll
Director: Maurice G. O'Neill
A western melodrama.

Trade Paper Reviews

"This Western to kid all Westerns is built on a droll idea that wins a good quota of laughs but slowly builds up the full development of its possibilities. In its present form it will surprise and satisfy on those lower neighborhood levels where the wild-mind takes any Western as normal fare."

+ -- Hollywood Reporter p3 Je 9 '36

"Typical wild west, production of which takes a satirical twist, this is aimed directly at the patronage contingents that enthuse to cowboy-tenderfoot-badman stuff. . . Impressionable youngsters and imaginative Western addicts probably will find much to thrill and amuse them, but the quality of the entertainment probably will not excite run-of-the-mill theatre-goers."

+ -- Motion Pict Daily p21 Je 12 '36

"Little to recommend this one, outside of Russell Gleason's performance for anything but the Saturday and Sunday juvenile trade. Poorly written, produced and directed, it is a minor independent effort. . . Virginia Carroll, poorly photogaphed, and with little to do, contributes little. Direction and production are careless throughout."

- -- Variety (Hollywood) p3 Je 9 '36

WHITE ANGEL. JI 4 '36 75min Warner-First national Players: Kay Francis, Ian Hunter. Donald Woods.
director. Charles Crockér-King. George Curzon
Based on a chapter, Florence Nightingale, in Eminent Victorians by Lytton Strachey. "The screenplay . . . tells of the conditions existing in hospitals in the time of Queen Victoria and the determination of Florence Nightingale to rectify such conditions. She is a woman reared delicately as women were in those days and her efforts are rebuffed, given by the doctors. Then comes opportunity to serve in the Crimean War, and her winning of recognition after almost incredible hardships and suffering." (Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Warner Brothers has given us a picture whose sincerity, and verity will be, a deep source of satisfaction to all. . . . The film is restrained and dignified and is a fine contribution to inspirational biographical drama. Adolescents, 12-16: fine; children, 8-12: harrowing in parts."

+ -- Motion Pict R Je '36

"[It is] presented with feeling and simplicity. General patronage." + -- Nat Legion of Decency Je 11 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"When Kay Francis, as Florence Nightingale, walks between the long ranks of beds upon which wounded soldiers lie—a figure gliding quietly in the still night, unaccompanied, a lamp in her hand—the audience is going to witness one of the greatest moments in the history of silent entertainment. And that is but one of the several great moments in 'White Angel.' The picture is a dramatized heart-throb. It takes its place beside The Story of Louis Pasteur as a Warner Brothers contribution to the dignity of science and service."

+ + Hollywood Spec p7 Je 6 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A brilliant depiction of the life of Florence Nightingale, one of the best beloved characters in modern history, 'White Angel' firmly establishes Kay Francis as one of our most beautiful and talented stars. This picture is unquestionably destined for important grosses at fall in the wild, of all classes. Should be a success wherever played."

+ + Film Curb p6 Je 6 '36

"Warner-First National have again turned out history—and the result is an important contribution to the screen. 'White Angel' is a sincere, moving document."

+ Film Daily p25 Je 2 '36

"It is a triumph shared equally by Kay Francis, whose performance is her most graceful, and by William Dieterle, directing a subject worthy of his steel. Even were 'White Angel' less than the great picture it is, the exploitation possibilities of its story would make it a surefire box-office attraction."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 My 27 '36

"Kay Francis, cast in a title role, captures the indomitable courage of the character and gives a performance which stirs the emotions. It will appeal particularly to feminine audiences. . . A selling campaign similar to 'Pasteur' seems indicated and should produce satisfactory results in all situations."

+ -- Motion Pict Daily p7 My 29 '36

"It is an exploitation show that places in the hands of exhibitors countless opportunities to indulge in soundly constructed interest-creating and business-building campaigns . . . It's the kind of show that exhibitors can take to the opinion creating forces in any community and demand that they support it in such a manner that it will be brought to the attention of every potential patron."

+ -- Motion Pict Herald p56 Je 6 '36

"Estimate: good production; should do well."

+ -- Phila Exhibitor p25 Je 15 '36

"Challenged by a strong, stirring story of an heroic, self-sacrificing and significant episode in humanitarian progress, Kay Francis steps into a high niche as an important actress in her second portrait of Florence Nightingale. With the Kay Francis name to magnetize the marquee, a moving drama powerful on its own merits, subject matter and treatment which has special appeal for women everywhere, without neglecting masculine appeal, and a plenty of exploitation material, the picture presses sure box office of prosperous proportion."

+ + Variety (Hollywood) p3 My 28 '36

WILDCAT SAUNDERS. (Release date not determined) 55min Atlantic
Director: Harry Fraser
A western melodrama

Trade Paper Reviews

"Well balanced cast and a touch of romance with several comedy highlights."

Film Curb p12 D 15 '35

"Estimate: good for neighborhoods; twin bills."

+ -- N Y Exhibitor p46 Ja 25 '36
WINGED CHAMPIONS. Mr 13 '36 10min Paramount
Players: Ted Husing
One of the Grantland Rice Sportlight Series.
"Artistic glimpses of various birds on the wing" and motion views of pelicans in flight." (Sel Motion Pict)

Audience Suitability Ratings

Trade Paper Reviews
"Slightly unorthodox, this one leaves the athletes for birds, thus limiting audience appeal to photography, which is satisfying enough. Ted Husing does a good job with the narrative." + Film Daily p36 Ap 28 '36

"Fine camera work shows the natural flying ability of the birds as they land, take off and glide. Husing's illustration at its best when the comical pelicans are shown." Motion Pict Daily p6 Ap 15 '36

"Ted Husing's glib narration contrasts effectively with the often superfluous shots of birds on the wing. The information given is interesting in itself and the camera achievements are noteworthy. A well rounded, all-purpose Spotligh." + Motion Pict Herald p90 Ap 11 '36

WITNESS CHAIR. Ap 24 '36 66min RKO
Players: Ann Harding, Walter Abel. Douglass Dumbrille
Director: George Nicholls, Jr.
Based on the novel of the same title by Rita Weiman. "Miss Harding is secretary to Walter Abel, with whom she is secretly in love. His partner, Douglass Dumbrille, plans to elope with the firm's money after falsifying the books to place responsibility on Abel. He plans also to take Abel's only daughter with him. Discovering the plans, Miss Harding, at the point of a gun, insists that Dumbrille sign a full confession. This leads to a struggle in which Dumbrille is killed." (Motion Pict Daily)

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A: disappointing; Y: not the best; C: no." Christian Century p87 My 6 '36
"The murder trial shows fine direction, and the entire cast gives a smooth, careful performance. Adults." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Ann Harding sets an agreeable precedent for herself in this melodrama by the restraint with which she handles her role. Adults: interesting; 14-15: fair; 5-11: beyond." Calif of Par & Teachers

"While Miss Harding's admirers may feel disappointed in this film, in that it does not provide much scope for her dramatic and emotional powers, it is to be commended for its technical excellence, Family—mature." Nat Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Ann Harding's dramatic but not exaggerated portrayal of restraint are the high lights of a complicated but entertaining plot, which shuns sex appeal in a refreshing manner. Mature." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"Best Coast Bui Ap 18 '36
"Adults & young people." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ap 6 '36

"A tensely dramatic story with some comedy relief. Interestingly developed, well acted and ethically satisfactory. Adults." + Jt Estimates Ap 15 '36

"American Courts of Justice are gaining, through this Lenox film, a sinister reputation for callousness and for what appears to British eyes as irregular procedure. This weakly constructed story gives the wrongs, Ann Harding and Walter Abel, little to do, but presents to two or three lesser characters opportunities that are admirably taken: the snub-nosed office-boy in particular makes a good comedy impression. Suitability: adults & adolescents.

—+ Mo Film Bui p91 My '36

"Due to an artificial method of telling the story by flash-backs, and the use of dialogue rather than action, this film is rather tedious. Adolescents, 12-16: no; children, 8-12: no."

—+ Motion Pict R My '36

"Family." Nat Bd of R M My '36

"Adults." Nat Legion of Decency Ap 13 '36

"A and Y: murder drama with the audience as just the killer's identity and the motive are withheld until the final moment: C: no interest.

Par M p52 Je '36

"The film's story, although fairly well told, never rises above the hackneyed comedy scenes, assigned mostly to the office boy, seems superfluous and often fall flat. Adults & young people."

—+ Sel Motion Pict My 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"Logical and interesting courtroom drama, presented skillfully, this is recommended without reservation. The direction reveals fine taste, sound knowledge of cinematic art and entertainment; the players are altogether convincing; the scripting is of high order and the photography effective. . . Again the magnificent Ann Harding gives a characterization that will delight spectators who find pleasure in perceiving acting. She has invested her role with an aura of realism, living the character during her every move before the camera."

"The Witness Chair" emerges as a lucubrious and mediocre film. This, however, appears to be less the fault of the players or the director than of its author, Rita Weiman, and of the persons who devised the screen play and are responsible for the extravagant plot manipulations. "—T. M. P."

—+ NY Times p19 Ap 15 '36

"Ann Harding suffers in this carelessly fabricated, rather shopworn mystery melodrama. . . But, then, the fault is nothing unusual for Miss Harding. The greatest sufferer, silent and otherwise, that the screen has known, Miss Harding has shed so many tears in her Hollywood career that if laid end to end—oh well, it really doesn't matter." William Boehnel

—+ World-Telegram p19 Ap 21 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; + Mediocore; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
WITNESS CHAIR—Continued

"Announced as Ann Harding's last American picture, it is no notable departure. The patch-job court room drama reeks with implausibilities. After all, a capable actor under most trying circumstances, is badly miscast as an accused murderer.

Trade Paper Reviews

"At the time this was written it was a crack-jack mystery yarn but the plot foundation has been used many times since then. It is the familiar courtroom murder trial stuff."
+ Film Curb p13 Ai 11 '36

"Although this one effects strong economies in being limited to few settings, smart dialogue, direction and smooth playing make it a good fare. The courtroom questioning and cross-questioning is of the better variety, especially in the instance where defense counsel proves a witness has memorized her testimony from the stand."
+ Film Daily p8 Ap 17 '36

"Ann Harding has little to do but worry and suffer in her characteristically restrained and dignified manner. Her conduct is above reproach, from a social standpoint, but admirable poise alone do not make a picture and 'The Witness Chair' fails to deliver the necessary dramatic punch."
+ Motion Pict Daily p12 Ap 2 '36

"Outstanding showmanship availability is the theme the picture follows. Though Miss Harding gives a characteristic dramatic performance and the work of the supporting players is of high class, the idea of withholding the motive for the crime and the identity of the killer until concluding sequences is an impossibility for exhibitors to invite audience into the court-room and let them be deprived."
Motion Pict Herald p8 Ap 11 '36

"It is unlikely that [it] will prove a strong grosser in spite of its star and in spite, too, of a good all around production. It's just that trial stories never did pack much appeal even when they were newer."
+ Variety p11 Ap 22 '36

"The Witness Chair" has been a model for many courtroom murder films, but the strength of the original has not been lessened by its imitators. The device by which the testimony of witnesses is photographed in retrospect is still cleverly exploited. The swift pace of the action held the audience intent. "The Witness Chair," will find playing time in the all-class film marquees.
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ap 1 '36

WOMAN ALONE. 90min Garrett Klement-British Players: Anna Sten, Henry Wilcoxon. Viola Keala
Director: John Garrick

Anna Sten portrays a Russian peasant girl who becomes a nursemaid for the child of a Guardian-fiance. Erwin Frenke strikes the officer when his suspicions are aroused about her relations with the officer and as a result, he is court-martialed as a political agitator. At his trial, the girl saves his life by testifying, untruthfully, that she was the officer's mistres.
Later the officer, now divorced, and the girl are united.

Trade Paper Reviews

"The film has all the earmarks of a big box-office operation. It is all a fine tribute to British production and should have no trouble in getting American bookings."
+ Hollywood Reporter p3 My 19 '36

"Story values are strong and of a popular type and backgrounds are colorful and original in a picture which shows no obvious signs of its British origin; technically it is up to Hollywood standards... This is audience material of a decidedly popular type, with plenty of action, novelty and variety of setting. The woman appeal should be strong."
+ Motion Pict Daily p3 Je 9 '36

"Even without Anna Sten and Henry Wilcoixon, 'A Woman Alone' would offer story values of exceptionally popular kind. These two stars are, as it happens, very well cast... 'A Woman Alone,' which does not advertise its British origin by any defects of technique, tempo or accent, is audience material of well-proven kind... Over and above the story and "problem" angles, there are very considerable spectacular values to exploit. The dancing, by the Leon Woizikovsky ballet, is admirable, and the peasant songs, the balalaika music and the stage sets, all lend variety and color."
+ Motion Pict Herald p60 Je 6 '36

WOMEN ARE TROUBLE. 60min MGM
Players: Stuart Erwin, Paul Kelly, Florence Rice. Margaret Irving
Director: Errol Taggart

A crusading editor, his crack reporter and a girl cub reporter expose a gang of liquor racketeers after sundry adventures, including kidnapping. In the end the reporter marries the cub and the editor who loved her returns to his divorced wife.

Trade Paper Reviews

"This comedy-drama may not be one of M-G-M's specialties, but ITCR it is a very enjoyable show. Although a traditional newspaper yarn, its light-hearted treatment, new twists and clever lines are so different from similar pictures that it should click nicely as a better program offering."
+ Film Daily p4 Je 13 '36

"A fast-moving reporter-vs-gangster story results in neat entertainment for program runs... [It] was produced with an obvious eye on the budget. But so well is it performed, and so ably is it directed that the picture is lifted considerably above the average of limited-cost fare. It will please audiences everywhere."
+ Hollywood Reporter p3 Je 10 '36

"The result is pretty fair amusement for average audiences. Nothing that is new or different is introduced in the story, but the familiar stock stuff abetted by all-around acting and smartly contrived dialogue, situations and actions, are interesting and attention-holding."
+ Motion Pict Daily p8 Je 11 '36

"It clicks from first to last frame and should be welcome on any man's program as a laugh leaver and an apparently healthy grosser, one the customer is inside the portals, a show."
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Je 19 '36

YELLOW CARGO. 70min Pacific-Grand national
Director: Crane Wilbur

A gang of smugglers operating as a bogus motion picture company are rounded up by an undercover agent for the immigration department and a persistent girl reporter.
Trade Paper Reviews

"Clever yarn that travels at moderate tempo throughout. Direction and script are of high calibre, although production falls a bit below average."

+ — Box Office p23 Je 13 '36

"While it has its exciting and dramatic moments it boasts of some really fine comedy."

+ — Film Curb p5 Je 12 '36

"Swift-moving program picture presenting dramatic situations in a novel manner."

+ — Film Daily p7 Je 6 '36

"There are enough fresh twists and gags in its formula story of crime detection to keep average audiences at close attention and Conrad Nagel makes an earnest, pleasing and believable crime detector, who will make friends in the role. All in all the picture is well above average in its class."

+ — Hollywood Reporter p3 Je 2 '36

"A new twist in a smuggling story gives value to the first of a series of eight [films] starring Conrad Nagel as a Government undercover man. ... The entire cast makes a smart showing and the film should build interest for the rest of the series. Emphasize the new angle in a smuggling melodrama."

+ — Motion Pict Daily p12 Je 4 '36

"Estimate: independent program; perhaps more with selling."

Phila Exhibitor p29 Je 15 '36

"When tightened up to program release footage this will turn out to be a pleasing, fast-moving comedy drama that should click with the average audience. Crane Wilbur, author and director of the picture, has delivered an admirable piece of work in transferring to the screen a story that is different from the general run of fan fare."

+ — Variety (Hollywood) p3 Je 2 '36

YELLOW DUST. F 22 '36 62min RKO
Director: Wallace Fox

See issue of March 30, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"This is just another Western livened by a plot, commonplace in itself, but interestingly presented, and the good looks and vital acting of Richard Dix."

Bks & Films Ap '36

"A: hardly; Y: harmless; C: perhaps."

Christian Century p751 My 26 '36

"The treatment is more romantic than is usual in Wild West films but is so well-handled that it enhances the pleasure of the film. The dialogue is good. Suitability: family."

+ — Mo Film Bul p52 F 24 '36

"It is only mildly entertaining because in spite of violent action, none ever doubts the outcome. Adolescents, 12-15: yes; children, 8-12: questionable."

Motion Pict R Mr '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Much of the typical blood and thunder element conspicuous in the average Western has been substituted here by a well-developed plot, some especially good performances, nice vocal renditions on the part of Leila Hyams and a pleasing sprinkling of romantic interest. It sums up as mighty pleasant outdoor drama, and also contains some bits of good comedy. Family."

+ — Box Office p13 Mr 14 '36

"Exploitation logically may include all the tricks in the barrel labeled "sure fire Western," from stage coach ballyhoo to bullion lobby displays. Testimonials from local oldsters, to whom the picture should bring back plenty of memories, might prove especially valuable. Performances by the three players named above warrant any reasonable use of their names."

Motion Pict Herald p44 Mr 25 '36

YOU MAY BE NEXT. F 6 '36 65min Columbia
Director: Albert S. Rogell

See issue of March 30, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Trade Paper Reviews

"Exciting melodrama dealing with a novel attempt at hijacking big radio stations will interest generally and prove particularly good fare where audiences demand fast action and thrills galore. Romantic element is comparatively slight and when dragged in only results in retarding the story development. Family."

+ — Box Office p25 Ap 11 '36

"Although not a pretentious effort by any means, the picture does have several action and thrill packed sequences upon which showmen may well capitalize."

Motion Pict Herald p41 Mr 28 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
INDEX

Under the names of the leading actors and actresses will be found the productions listed in this number in which they have taken part.

Under the director’s name will be found a list of the films in this number which he directed.

Under the headings Books, Plays and Short Stories (Adapted) will be found the author, title of published work and the title of the film. When the title of the film differs from the title of the book, the film’s title is given in parenthesis, thus:
Eberhart, M. G.
From this dark stairway (Murder of Dr Harrigan)

ACTORS & ACTRESSES

Abel, Walter
Fury
Astor, Luise
Witness chair
Acuff, Eddie
Arlen, Harold
Boulder dam
Adair, John
Criminal within Adler, Luis
Dancing pirate
Albertson, Frank
Anderson, Roy
Fury
Astor, Luise
Boulder dam
Bogolybov, Ivan
Bogolybov, Ivan
Silver screen
Roses, the diamond master
Armstrong, Robert
Ex-Mrs Bradford
Arnold, Edward
Sutter's gold
Arthur, Jean
Rhodes, the diamond master
Astaire, Fred
Let's sing again
Ashcroft, Peggy
Meech, the diamond master
Astin, Robert
Cardinal
Atwill, Lionel
Absolute quiet
Aynsley, Lew
Leathernecks have landed
Baker, Benny
Panic on the air
Balfour, Betty
Born for glory
Ballew, Smith
Palm Springs
Bancroft, George
Ball ship Morgan
Mr Deeds goes to town
Barber, George
Early to bed
Preview murder mystery
Barnes, Eliz.<n Small town girl
Sutter's gold
Barnett, Vincenzo
Captain calamity
Dancing feet
Barric, Wendy
Speed
Barrymore, Dolores Costello
Little Lord Fauntleroy
Barrymore, Lionel
Road to glory
Bartolomew, Freddie
Little Lord Fauntleroy
Barton, Buzz
Red of the west
Barton, Finis
Secret patrol
Bassegio, Cesco
Alpine love
Batobrina, G.
Children of the revolution
Baur, Harry
Baxter, Alan
Case against Mrs Ames
Parole
Beecher, Janet
Love before breakfast
Beery, Noah
Crimson circle
King of the damned
Beery, Noah, Jr.
Parole
Beery, Wallace
Message to Garcia
Bell, Rex
Too much beef
Bellamy, Ralph
Roaming lady
Benchley, Robert
How to behave
Bennett, Joan
Big brown eyes
Thirteen hours by air
Berten, Connie
Too much beef
Bernard, Paul
Pension Mimosa
Berry, W. H.
Once in a million
Bickford, Charles
Pride of the Marines
Billo, Camillo
Lorenzo de Medici
Blondell, Joan
Bullets or ballots
Borden, William
Colleen
Bore, Eric
Ex-Mrs Bradford
Bosley, John
Sons o' guns
Bosley, John
Blue, Monte
Treacherous rides the range
Boardman, Virginia True
Crime patrol
Borgart, Humphrey
Bullets or Balls
Two against the world
Bogolybov, N.
Seven brave men
Boland, Mary
Early to bed
Boles, John
Message to Garcia
Bolivar, Hans Heinz
Frasquita
Bolognesi, Gina
Millizia territoriale
Bond, Ford Julia
Thrills with daredevils
Bond, Ward
Cattle thief
Pride of the Marines
Bondi, Beulah
Case against Mrs Ames
Moon's our home
Booth, Charles
Golden arrow
Snowed under
Bryan, Mary
Once in a million
Brice, Fanny
Great Ziegfeld
Brissac, Virginia
Murder by an aristocrat
Broderick, Helen
Murder on a biddle path
Brohmberg, J. Edward Crime of Dr Forbes
Sins of man
Brophy, Edward
Rogues of the range
Brown, Joe E.
Kelly the second
Browne, Charles A.
Federal agent
Brown, Johnny Mack
Desert phantom
Brown, John C.
Rogue of the range
Brown, Tom
And sudden death
Brown, William
Gentle Julia
Browne, Charles A.
Federal agent
Browne, Charles A.
Federa agent
Brown, W. H.
Lorenzo de Medici
Brown, William
Gentle Julia
Browne, Charles A.
Federal agent
Browne, Charles A.
Federa agent
Brown, W. H.
Lorenzo de Medici
Brown, William
Gentle Julia
Browne, Charles A.
Federal agent
Browne, Charles A.
BElieve, Earl
Sundown Saunders
Dietrich, Marlene
Desire
Dietz, Lillian
La canzone del sole
Diggins, Dudley
Unguarded hour
Dinehart, Alan
Human cargo
Parole
Dix, Richard
Devil's squadron
Special investigator
Yellow dust
Dodds, Claire
Case of the velvet claws
Murder by an aristocrat
Navy born
Donley, Brian
Half angel
Human cargo
Thirty hours by air
Dondelly, Ruth
Fatal lady
Doran, Ann
Little red schoolhouse
Doran, Mary
Bridge of sighs
Douglas, Catherine
Poppy
Douglass, Melvyn
Speed and so they were married
Downing, Maryan
Desert Justice
Downs, Johnny
Everybody's old man
First baby
Doyle, Maxine
Rio Grande romance
Drake, Frances
And sudden death
Florida special
Dreyer, murder mystery
Draper, Paul
Colleen
Dugan, Alfred
Crimson circle
Dudley-Ward, Penelope
I stand condemned
Du Maurier, Gerald
Scotland Yard mystery
Dunbrille, Doucass
Mr Deeds goes to town
Princess comes across
Nobles
You may be next
Duna, Patricia
Dancing pirate
Dunbar, Dixie
Educating father
Dunn, James
First baby
Dunn, Maxine
Hearts in bondage
Dunne, Irene
Shoebox
Duprez, June
Cardinal
Crimson circle

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST 159

Bruce, Virginia
Great Ziegfeld
Bunchuk, Yasha
Moscow moods
Burke, James
 Forgotten faces
Leathernecks have landed
Burnette, Smiley
Comin' round the mountain
Singing cowboy
Burrud, Billy
Cowboy and the kid
Pride of the Marines
Bushman, Francis X., Jr.
Caryl of the mountains
Bushyev, C.
We are from Kronstadt
Butterworth, Charles
Half angel
Byington, Spring
Our home
Byington, Spring
Educating father
Byron, Walter
Bridge of sighs

Cabot, Bruce
Don't gamble with love
Fury
Robbin Hood of El Dorado
Three wise guys
Caine, Georgia
White angel
Callahan, Margaret
Last outlaw
Poppy
Calloway, Cab
Singing kid
Carey, Harry
Last outlaw
Carrillo, Leo
Moonlight murder
Carroll, Madeleine
Case against Mrs Ames
Secret agent
Carroll, Virginia
Wellington Pike goes west
Cavanagh, Paul
Champagne Charlie
Cavanagh, Hobar
Love begins at twenty
Cawthorn, Joseph
Brides are like that
Hot money
Cellier, Antoinette
Ourselves alone
Chandler, Chick
Three of a kind
Chaney, Lon. Jr.
Singing cowboy
Chase, Alden
Rogue of the range
Chase, Charley
Kelly the second
Chevalier, Maurice
L'homme des folies bergère
Chystall, Belle
Scotland Yard mystery
Churchill, Burton
Three of a kind
Churchill, Marguerite
Dracula's daughter
Murder by an aristocrat
Clarke, Mae
Hearts in bondage
House of a thousand candles
Clyde, Andy
Yellow dust
Clyde, June
Forgotten women
Cobb, Irvin S.
Everybody's old man
Cody, Bill
Outlaws of the range
Cody, Bill, Jr.
Outlaws of the range
Coghill, Frank, Jr.
Little red schoolhouse
Cobert, Claudette
Under two flags
Collins, Charles
Dancing pirate
Collins, Cora Sue
Harvester
Collins, Monte
Just speeding
Colman, Ronald
Under two flags
Compton, Betty
August week-end
Dragnet
Millionaire kid
Connolly, Walter
King steps out
Coch, Donald
Girl from Mandalay
Showboat
Cooper, Gary
Desire
Mr Deeds goes to town
Corbett, Leonora
Living dangerously
Corradi, Nelly
Alpine love
Cossart, Ernest
Palm Springs
Craze, Catherine
Outlaws of the range
Sundown Saunders
Crabbe, Larry (Buster)
Desert gold
Cramer, Richard
Speed reporter
Crazen, Frank
Harvester
Croker-King, Charles
White angel
Cromwell, Richard
Croesman, Henrietta
Girl of the Ozarks
Our home
Cumminnes, Robert
Border flight
Desert gold
Forgotten faces
Curtan, George
Scotland Yard mystery
White angel
Dale, Esther
Farmer in the dell
D'Arcy, Monte
Millizia territoriale
Danieli, Henry
Unguarded hour
D'Arcy, Roy
Revolt of the Zombies
Darro, Frankie
Born to fight
Darwell, Jane
First baby
Little Miss Nobody
Davidson, William
Murder by an aristocrat
Davies, Marion
Hearts divided
Davie, Bette
Golden arrow
Hard luck dame
Davie, Owen, Jr.
Bunker Bean
Desane, Shirley
Educating father
Dee, Frances
Half angel
De Haviland, Olivia
Anthony Adverse
Delamare, Lise
Pension Mimosas
Delaney, Charles
Millionaire kid
De Mille, Katharine
Sky parade
Denis, Mario
Lorenzino de Medici
Denny, Rezinid
Prevail murder mystery
De Sica, Vittorio
La canzone del sole
Devere, Earl
Sundown Saunders
Dietrich, Marlene
Desire
Dietz, Lillian
La canzone del sole
Diggins, Dudley
Unguarded hour
Dinehart, Alan
Human cargo
Parole
Dix, Richard
Devil's squadron
Special investigator
Yellow dust
Dodds, Claire
Case of the velvet claws
Murder by an aristocrat
Navy born
Donley, Brian
Half angel
Human cargo
Thirty hours by air
Dondelly, Ruth
Fatal lady
Doran, Ann
Little red schoolhouse
Doran, Mary
Bridge of sighs
Douglas, Catherine
Poppy
Douglass, Melvyn
Speed and so they were married
Downing, Maryan
Desert Justice
Downs, Johnny
Everybody's old man
First baby
Doyle, Maxine
Rio Grande romance
Drake, Frances
And sudden death
Florida special
Dreyer, murder mystery
Draper, Paul
Colleen
Dugan, Alfred
Crimson circle
Dudley-Ward, Penelope
I stand condemned
Du Maurier, Gerald
Scotland Yard mystery
Dunbrille, Doucass
Mr Deeds goes to town
Princess comes across
Nobles
You may be next
Duna, Patricia
Dancing pirate
Dunbar, Dixie
Educating father
Dunn, James
First baby
Dunn, Maxine
Hearts in bondage
Dunne, Irene
Shoebox
Duprez, June
Cardinal
Crimson circle

Esbesen, Dagmar
Sawyer's - dirt
Ebsen, Buddy
Captain January
Enonne, Maurice
Doughnuts and society
Ellers, Sally
Don't get personal
Florida special
Elliott, Gordon
Case of the velvet claws
Ellis, Mary
Fatal lady
Ellis, Patricia
Boulder dam
Love begins at twenty
Snowed under
Ellison, Jimmy
Leathernecks have landed
Three on the trail
LaRue, Kortner, King, Khorosh, Kent, Kendall, Kennedy, Kelly, Kelton, Kelly, Keith, Keene, Keeler, Keats, Keating, Keane, Karns, Jones, Jory, Jones, Jolson, Jewell, Wellington Pike goes west

Jewell, Isabel
Leathernecks have landed
Jolson, Al
Singing kid
Jones, Allan
Showboat
Jones, Buck
Cowboy and the kid
For the service
Jones, Marcia
Three, three
Jory, Victor
Hell ship Morgan

Karns, Roscoe
Border flight
Keane, Edward
For the service
Kings, Fred
Thirteen hours by air
Keats, Viola
Pian alone
Keeler, Ruby
Colleen
Keene, Tom
Desert gold
Keith, Ian
Don’t gamble with love
Kelly, Patsy
Kelly the second
Private number
Kelly, Paul
Country beyond
Women are trouble
Kelly, Walter
Laughing Irish eyes
Kelton, Pert
Kelly the second
Kendall, Cy
King of the Pecos
Kennedy, Tom
Just speeding
Kent, Robert
Country beyond
Crime of Dr Forbes
Khorosh, S.
Children of the revolution
Kibbee, Guy
Big noise
Captain January
I married a doctor
Little Lord Fauntleroy
Klepura, Jan
Give us this night
King, Joseph
Sons o’ guns
Knapp, Evalyn
Laughing Irish eyes
Three of a kind
Knight, Fuzzy
Song of the trail
Kofoid, Jack
Thrills with daredevils
Koroleva, Galli
Children of the revolution
Kortner, Fritz
Abdul the damned
Kruger, Otto
Dracula’s daughter
Living dangerously

Land, Elissa
Amateur gentleman
Lane, June
Country doctor
Road to glory
Lange, Matheson
Cardinal
Lancaster, Frances
Palm Springs
La Rocque, Rod
Eugene
Prevent murder mystery
Till we meet again
Lafite, Jack
Born to fight
Bridge of sighs
Wellington Pike goes west

Latimer, Louise
Bunker Dean
Two in revolt
Laurent, Eric
Skaergaards-flirt
LaVoli-Volpi, Giacomo
La canzone del sole
Lawford, Betty
Love before breakfast
Lawrence, Rosina
Neighborhood house
Lederer, Francis
One rainy afternoon
Lee, Billie
And sudden death
Lee, Dorothy
Silly Billies
Lees, Antoinette
Song of the trail
Leiber, Fritz
Hearts in bondage
Lewis, Joe
Private number
Li, Shoh-shoh
Song of China
Lim, Cho-cho
Song of China
Linsker, Kay
Girl from Mandalay
Lind, Eric
Robin Hood of El Dorado
Lindsay, Margaret
Law in her hands
Lister, Bruce
Ourselves alone
Lister, Francis
Living dangerously
Livanof, Boris
Dubrovsky
Lloyd, Alma
Big noise
Song of the saddle
Lloyd, Doris
Brilliant marriage
Lloyd, Harold
Milky way
Lockhart, Gene
Brides are like that
Times Square playboy
Lockhart, Kathleen
Brides are like that
Times Square playboy
Loder, John
Ourselves alone
Lodge, John
Ourselves alone
Lombard, Carole
Love before breakfast
Princess comes across
Loring, Anna
Robin Hood of El Dorado
Lorre, Peter
Secret agent
Louise, Anita
Anthony Adverse
Brides are like that
Loy, Myrna
Great Ziegfeld
Petticoat fever
Luke, Keye
Charlie Chan in Shanghai
Lund, Lucille
Rio Grande romance
Lupino, Ida
One rainy afternoon
Lyon, Ben
Dancing feet

McCoy, Tim
Border caballero
Lichtnin’ Bill Carson
McCrea, Joel
These three
MacDonald, J. Farrell
Florida special
McFarland, Spanky
Trail of the lonesome pine
McGinnis, Niall
Luck of the Irish
Ourselves alone
McGowan, J. P.
Secret patrol

McCullough, Frank
Bullets or ballots
Moonlight murder
Snowed under
Mark, Helen
Milky way
MacKay, Barry
Born for glory
McLaglen, Victor
Under two flags
MacLane, Barton
Bullets or ballots
Jailbreak
Times Square playboy
MacMurray, Fred
Princess comes across
Thirty hours by air
Trail of the lonesome pine
McWade, Robert
Living dangerously
Makarova, T.
Seven brave men
Matt, Gina
Jack of all trades
Manners, David
Hearts in bondage
Mannors, Sheila
Desert phantom
March, Fredric
Anthony Adverse
Road to glory
Margaretson, Arthur
Broken blossoms
Marlowe, John
Brilliant marriage
Marmont, Percy
Secret agent
Marsh, Joan
Brilliant marriage
Dancing feet
Marsh, Marian
Countercid
Marshall, Herbert
Forgotten dangerously
Massary, Raymond
Things to come
Matthews, Jesse
It’s love again
Matthews, Lester
Too many parents
Mauch, Billy
Anthony Adverse
Maynard, Ken
Cattle thief
Maynard, Kermit
Song of the trail
Mehaffey, Blanche
Wildcat Saunders
Menjou, Adolphe
Milky way
Merivale, Philip
Give us this night
Merkel, Una
Speed
Metcalf, Bradley
Millionaire kid
Michael, Gertrude
Forgotten faces
Till we meet again
Middleton, Charles
Song of the saddle
Miljan, John
Criminal within
Mills, John
Born for glory
Lady Jane Grey
Milton, Ernest
It’s love again
Mitchell, Genevra
Cattle thief
Crimp, Grant
Parole
Mitchell, Julien
Last journey
Mix, Art
Lucky terror
Moisei, Alessandro
Lorenzino de Medicl
Smith, C. Aubrey
Little Lord Fauntleroy
Schoenker, Hans
Annette in paradise
Sondergaard, Gale
Anthony Adverse
Sothern, Ann
Don't gamble with love
Hell ship Morgan
You may be next
Standing, Lionel
Mr. Deeds goes to town
Standing, Sir Guy
Palm Springs
Stanwyck, Barbara
Message to Garcia
Starratt, Charles
Mysterious avenger
Secret, patrol
Steele, Bob
Sundown Saunders
Sten, Anna
Woman, alone
Stevens, Onslow
Bridge of sighs
Three on the trail
Yellow dust
Stewart, Athole
Jack of all trades
Stewart, James
Stiff, Maria Vincenza
Don Bosco
Stone, Dorothy
Revol of the Zombies
Stone, Fred
Farmer in the dell
Trail of the lonesome pine
Stone, Lewis
Small town girl
Unguarded hour
Stone, Paula
Treachery rides the range
Stuart, Gloria
Crime of Dr Forbes
Poor little rich girl
Prisoner of Shark Island
Stuart, John
Abdul the damned
Sullivan, Margaret
Moon's our home
Summerville, George (Slim)
Captain January
Country doctor
Swarthout, Gladys
Give us this night
Swickart, Joseph
Caryl of the mountains
Sydney, Basil
Rhodes, the diamond master
Talbot, Lyle
Boulder dam
Law in her hands
Murder by an aristocrat
Talmadge, Richard
Speed reporter
Tashman, Lilian
Frankie and Johnny
Taylor, Forrest
Too much beef
Taylor, Kent
Florida special
Sky parade
Taylor, Robert
Private number
Small town girl
Taylor, Godfrey
Last journey
Teasdale, Verree
Milkary way
Temple, Shirley
Captain January
Poor little rich girl
Thors inline, Sybil
Lady Jane Grey
Thurston, Oliver
Snowed under
Tomlin, Pinky
Don't get personal
Tone, Franchot
Big steps out
Unguarded hour
Torres, Raquel
Red wagon
Tracy, Lee
Sutter's gold
Tracy, Spencer
Fury
Travis, June
Jailbreak
Times Square playwright
Treacher, Arthur
Case against Mrs. Ames
Hard luck dame
Hearts divided
Tree, Dorothy
Bridge of sighs
Trevor, Claire
Human cargo
Tyler, Tom
Last outlaw
Roamin' wild
Vaughan, Dorothy
Love begins at twenty
Veit, Conrad
King of the damned
Passing of the third floor back
Viarnio, Enrico
Milizia territoriale
Vinson, Helen
King of the damned
Viva, Sim
L'homme des folies bergere
Von Eltz, Theodore
Below the deadline
Wahlberg, Gideon
Skaergaards-flirt
Wahlom, Nils
Eaagen, det aar jag det
Wakefield, Hugh
Crimson circle
Forget me not
Walburn, Raymond
Absolute quiet
Three wise guys
Walker, Ray
Brilliant marriage
Crime patrol
Walsh, Kay
Luck of the Irish
Waters, Luana
Speed reporter
Walthall, Henry B.
Hearts in bondage
Last outlaw
Mine with the iron door
War, Irene
Criminal within
Federal agent
O'Malley of the Mounted
Washburn, Bryant
Millionaire kid
Wayne, John
King of the Pecos
Weidler, Virginia
Girl of the Ozarks
Trouble for two
Weldon, Heyburn
Speed
Westley, Helen
Half angel
Whalen, Michael
Country doctor
Poor little rich girl
Wheeler, Bert
Silly Billies
Wilcox, Henry
Woman alone
Wild, Lois
Caryl of the mountains
Singing cowboy
William, Warren
Case of the velvet claws
Hard luck dame
Times Square playwright
Williams, Emlyn
Broken blossoms
Williams, Gran (Big Boy)
Kelly the second
Williams, Hugh
Last journey
Williams, Roger
Cattle thief
Wilson, Frank
Green pastures
Williams, Karl G.
Raggen, det aar jag det
Winninger, Charles
Showboat
WITHERS, Grant
Let's sing again
WITHERS, JANE
Gentle Julia
Little Miss Nobody
Wood, Helen
Champagne Charlie
Woods, Donald
White angel
Woods, Harry
Billy Billies
Woolsey, Robert
Silly Billies
Wray, Fay
Roaming lady
Wuest, Ida
Annette in paradise
Wynndham, Carol
Roamin' wild
Yacouelli, Frank
Lucky terror
Young, Loretta
Private number
Unguarded hour
Young, Robert
It's love again
Secret agent
Three wise guys
Young, Roland
One rainy afternoon
Unguarded hour
Zaichikov, V.
We are from Kronstadt

BOOKS (Adapted)
Allen, A.
Anthony Adverse
Baldwin, F.
Moon's our home
Burnett, F. H.
Little Lord Fauntleroy
Burns, W. N.
Robin Hood of El Dorado
Campbell, R.
Tiger valley (Girl from Mandalay)
Cendrars, B.
Sutter's gold
Comnolly, M.
Lady Smith (Palm Springs)
Curwood, J. O.
Country beyond
DeBenedetti, A.
Milizia territoriale
Eberhart, M. G.
Murder by an aristocrat
Eden, E. pseud.
Dancing feet
Farnol, J.
Amateur gentleman
Ferber, E.
Showboat
FINN, J.
MURDER IN THE BIG HOUSE
(JAILBREAK)
FORESTER, C. S.
Born for glory
BOOKS (Adapted)—Continued

Fox, J. Jr. — Trail of the lonesome pine
Furnas, J. C. — And sudden death
Gardner, E. S. — Case of the velvet claws
Special investigator
Grey, Z. — Desert gold
Hubbard, E. — Message to Garcia
Jesse, F. T. — Lightning strikes twice
(Half angel)
Kelland, C. E. — Opera hat (Mr Deeds goes to town)
Kyne, P. B. — Born to fight
Lewis, S. — Main street (I married a doctor)
Lippincott, N. — Murder at Glen Athol
Criminal within
Millin, S. G. — The life of Rhodes (Rhodes, the diamond master)
Monroe, N. M. — Dr Samuel Mudd (Prisoner of Shark Island)
Mullford, C. E. — Bad 20 Three (Three on the trail)
Nicholson, M. — House of a thousand candles
Ouida, pseud.
Under two flags
Palmer, S. — Murder on a bridle path
Porter, G. S. — Harvest time
Pushkin, A. — Dubrovsky
Richards, L. E. — Captain January
Roche, A. E. — Captains against Mrs Ames
Roget, L. L. — The duchess (Princess comes across)
Roth, J. — Job (Sins of man)
Rowan, A. S. — Message to Garcia
Saunders, L. pseud. — Snowed under Shepard, K. — I will be faithful (Human cargo)
Stong, P. — Farmer in the dell
Strachey, L. — Eminent Victorians (White Angel)
PARKINGTON, B. — Gentle Julia
Templin, E. M. — Boulder dam
Wallace, E. — Crimson circle
Weiman, R. — Witness chair
Wells, H. G. — Shape of things to come
(Things to come)
Widgery, Günner
Raggen, det aer jag det
William, E. A. — Small town girl
Wilson, H. L. — His majesty
Bunker Bean (Bunker Bean)
Wright, H. B. — Mine with the iron door

DIRECTORS

Alessandrinii, G. — Don Bosco
Alexandre, R. — Clovered
Augis, A. — I stand condemned

Aires, L. — Hearts in bondage
Sons o' guns
Barton, C. — And sudden death
Bauman, S. — Raggen, det aer jag det
Beaudino, W. — Forgotten women
Bennett, S. G. — Castle thief
Scotland Yard mystery
Besozzi, M. — Little Miss Nobody
Bonnard, M. — Millizia territoriale
Bornbusch, A. — Skaergaards-flirt
Breton, F. — Desire
Hearts divided
Bromby, R. N. — Sundown Saunders
Brahm, H. — Broken blossoms
Brench, H. — Girl from Mandalay
Leathernecks have landed
Three on the trail
Brignon, G. — Lorenzino de Medicil
Brown, O. — Sins of man
Butler, D. — Captain January
Cabanon, C. — Last outlaw
Capra, F. — Mr Deeds goes to town
Clemens, W. — Case of the velvet claws
Law in her hands
Collins, A. G. — Nobody's fool
Collins, L. D. — Connelly, M. — Green pastures
Conigran, L. — Dancing pirate
Cromwell, J. — Little Lord Fauntleroy
Cruze, J. — Sutter's gold
Cummings, E. — Crime patrol
Cummings, I. — Poor little rich girl
Del Ruth, R. — L'homme des folies bergères
Private number
Denham, R. — Crime circle
Desmond-Hurst, B. — Ourselves alone
Dietrich, W. — Hard luck dame
White angel
Disney, W. — Three little wolves
Dupont, E. A. — Forgotten faces
Dwan, A. — Human cargo
Dugan, E. — We are from Kronstadt
Enright, R. — Snowed under Erskine, C. — Frankie and Johnnie
Ettre, M. — Alpine love
Feyder, J. — Pension Mimosas
Fitzmaurice, G. — Petticoat fever
Flood, J. — Everybody's old man

Flory, R. — Preview murder mystery
Till we meet again
Ford, J. — Prisoner of Shark Island
Forde, E. — Country beyond
Forde, W. — Born for glory
King of the damned
Fox, W. — Yellow dust
Fraser, H. — Peud de the west
Wildcat Saunders
Freelend, T. — Amateur gentleman
Frenke, E. — Woman alone
Friedlander, L. — Parole
Grozovov, S. — Seven brave men
Green, A. E. — Golden arrow
Grinde, N. — Jailbreak
Grune, K. — Abdul the damned
Gusman, E. — Il re burlone
Guilf, F. — Silly Billys
Hale, A. — Neighborhood house
Hall, A. — Give us this night
Halperin, V. — Captvof the Zombies
Hamilton, W. — Bunker Bean
Murder on a bridle path
Hathaway, H. — Trail of the lonesome pine Hawks, H. — Road to glory
Herman, A. — Desert gold
Hill, B. — Rio Grande romance
Hill, R. — Too much beef
Hill, S. — Cardinal
Hillery, L. — Dracula's daughter
Hitchcock, A. — Secret agent
Hogan, W. — Desert gold
Holmes, B. — Farmer in the dell
Hopton, R. — Song of the trail
Howard, W. — Mine with the iron door
O'Malley, The Mounted
Howard, W. H. — Princess comes across
Hubert, J. — Jack of all trades
Hutchinson, C. — Born to fight
Ivanovsky, A. V. — Dubrovsky
James, A. — Lucky terror
Jones, B. — For the service
Kane, J. — King of the Pecos
Keighley, W. — Bullets or ballots
Green pastures
Singing kid
Kenton, E. C. — Counterfeiter
Devil's squadron
Kilty, E. — Bunker Bean
Murder on a bridle path
King, H. — Country doctor
Neumann, K.
Let's sing again
Newfield, S.
Border caballero
Federal agent
Lichtin' Bill Carson
Nicholls, G., Jr.
Witness chair
Nigh, W.
Don't get personal
Nugent, E.
And so they were married
Ohai, M.
Annette in paradise
O'Neil, M. G.
Washington Pike goes west
Pedity, D.
Lucky of the Irish
Rait, G.
Sins of man
Ray, E. B.
Cary of the mountains
Millionaire kid
Moon's wild
Speed reporter
Reinhardt, J.
Capitan calamity
Roberts, S.
Ex-Mrs Bradford
Rogers, A. S.
Roaming lady
You may be next
Roose, P.
Bridge of sighs
Brilliant marriage
Three of a kind
Ruben, J. W.
Trouble for two
Sandwich, M.
Follow the fleet
Santry, J.
Dancing feet
Harvester
Laughing Irish eyes
Saville, V.
'tis love again
Scotto, A.
Palm Springs
Seller, L.
First baby
Seiter, W. A.
Case against Mrs Ames
Moon's our home
Selz, G. B.
Absolute quiet
Three wise guys
Selman, D.
Mysterious avenger
Secret patrol
Shea, W.
Girl of the Ozarks
Stelm, P. L.
Red wagon
Stevenson, R.
Jack of all trades
Lady Jane Grey
Strayer, F.
Criminal within Summers, W.
Ourselves alone
Sutherland, A. E.
Poppy
Taggart, E.
Women are trouble
Taylor, R.
Cowboy and the kid
Thingil, J.
Champagne Charlie
Educating father
Tryon, G.
Two in revolt
Viel, B.
Passing of the third floor
back
Rodriguez, the diamond master
Von Sternberg, J.
King steps out
Vorhaus, B.
Last journey
Walsh, R.
Big brown eyes
Watt, N.
Navy born
Wellman, W. A.
Robin Hood of El Dorado
Small town girl
Whale, J.
Showboat
Wilbur, C.
Yellow cargo
Wilcox, H.
Peg of old Drury
Williams, L.
Desert justice
Wood, S.
Unguarded hour
Woods, A.
Once in a million
Wright, M.
Comin' round the mountain
Singing cowboy
Wyler, W.
These three

PLAYS (Adapted)

Arlen, M.
Dream princess (Golden arrow)
Burnett, F. H.
Little Lord Fauntleroy
Chambers, J.
King of the damned
Cohan, G. M.
Home towners (Times Square playboy)
Connelly, M.
Green pastures
Connors, B.
Applesauce (Brides are like that)
Davis, A.
Reunion (Till we meet again)
Decsey, E., and Hohn, G.
Clasy (King steps out)
Dixon, C.
Secret agent
Dodd, L. W.
His majesty, Bunker Bean
(Bunker Bean)
Donnelly, D.
Poppys
Flavin, M.
Broken dishes (Love begins at twenty)
Fodor, L.
Unguarded hour
Gates, E.
Poor little rich girl
Gibson, W.
Scotland Yard mystery
Hammerstein, O.
Showboat
Hellman, L.
Children's hour (These three)
Jerome, J. K.
Passing of the third floor back
Kinkead, C.
Common clay (Private number)
Kirkland, J.
Frankie and Johnnie
Lehar, F.
Frasquita
Mack, W.
Dragnet
Marischka, H., and E.
Clasy (King steps out) (opera)
Osborne, H.
Drama (Follow the fleet)
Parker, L.
Cardinal
Potash, P., and R.
Monstre sans gene (One rainy afternoon)
Reed, M.
Petticoat fever
Root, L., and Clark, H.
Milky way
Simpson, R., and Gregory, F.
Living dangerously
PLAYS (Adapted)—Continued
Sturrock, D., and Scott, N.
The trouble (Ourselves alone)
Szekely, H., and Stemmle, R. A.
Pearl necklace (Desire)
Thompson, F., and Donahue, J.
Tan hats (Sons o' guns)
Totheroh, D., and O'Neill, G.
Mother lode (Yellow dust)
Vulpius, P.
Youth at the helm (Jack of all trades)
Weitzenkorn, L.
Five star final (Two against the world)
Young, R. J.
Glorious Betsy (Hearts divided)

SHORT STORIES (Adapted)
Addington, S.
Bless their hearts (And so they were married)
Bourbon, D.
Roaming lady
Bradford, R.
Ol' man Adam an' his chil-lun (Green pastures)
Brennan, F. H.
Matron's report (Little Miss Nobody)
Burke, T.
Chink and the child (Broken blossoms)
Grant, J. E.
Hahsit, Babe, and Big brown eyes (Big brown eyes)
Kelland, C. B.
Recreation car (Florida special)
Maugham, W. S.
Ashenden; or the British agent (Secret agent)
Runyon, D.
Three wise guys
Scott, E.
Border flight
Squier-Lindsey, E.
Glorious buccaneer (Dancing pirate)
Stevenson, R. L.
Suicide club (Trouble for two)
Tinsley, T. A.
Five spot (Panic on the air)
Worts, G. F.
Absolute quiet
Directory of Producers

Academy, Academy Pictures, Inc, 4516 Sunset Blvd, Hollywood, Calif.
Ajax, Ajax Pictures Corp, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.
Amkino, Amkino Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.
Associated British. Associated British Corp Ltd, Film House, Wardour St, London, W. 1
Atlantic, Atlantic Pictures Corp, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.

Beacon. Beacon Films, Inc, 729 7th Av, N.Y.
Beaumont, Beaumont Pictures, Inc, 846 E 6th St, Los Angeles
British & Dominions. British & Dominions Film Corp Ltd, Empire House, 117 Regent St, London, W. 1
Burroughs-Tarzan, Burroughs-Tarzan Enterprises, Inc, 1270 6th Av, N.Y.

Capitani. Capitani-Films, Via XX, Settembre 3, Rome
Capitol. Capitol Film Productions, Ltd, 28 Brook St, London W. 1
Celebrity. Celebrity Productions, Inc, 723 7th Av, N.Y.
Chesterfield. Chesterfield Motion Pictures Corp, 1540 Broadway, N.Y.
Commodore. Commodore Pictures Corp, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.
Conn. Conn Pictures Corp, Tallman Studios, 4516 Sunset Blvd, Hollywood, Calif.
Criterion. Criterion Film Productions, Ltd, 25 Brook St, London W. 1

Darmour. Darmour Studios, 5823 Santa Monica Blvd, Hollywood, Calif.
Deka. Deka-Film, Berlin SW. 68, Hedemann-Straße
Diversio. Diversio Pictures, Inc, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.
DuWorld. DuWorld Pictures, Inc, 729 7th Av, N.Y.

Educational. Educational Pictures, Inc, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.
Empire. Empire Film Distributors, Inc, 723 7th Av, N.Y.

First division. First Division Pictures, Inc, RKO Bldg, Radio City, N.Y.
First national. See Warner Fox. See 20th century-Fox France-film. France-Film, 66 5th Ave, N.Y.
Futter. Futter Films, Inc, and The Futter Corp, 1426 N Beachwood Drive, Hollywood, Calif; Paramount Bldg, N.Y.

Gainsborough. Gainsborough Studios, Poole St, Islington, N. 1, London
Gaumont British. Gaumont British Picture Corp of America, 1600 Broadway, N.Y. Gaumont British Picture Corp, Ltd, 142-150 Wardour St, London, W. 1
General foreign sales. General Foreign Sales Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.
Goldwyn-United artists. See United artists
Hoffberg. J. H. Hoffberg, Co, Inc, 729 7th Av, N.Y.

Imperial. Imperial Distributing Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y. Invincible. See Chesterfield
Lenauer. Jean Lenauer, 250 W 57th St, N.Y.
Mascot. Mascot Pictures Corp, 1776 Broadway, N.Y.
MGM. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corp, 1540 Broadway, N.Y. Moscow film studios. See Amkino
Olympic. Olympic Motion Picture Corp, 325 W 44th St, N.Y.
Paramount. Paramount Pictures Inc, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.
Republic. Republic Pictures Corp, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.
RKO. RKO Radio Pictures, Inc, 1270 6th Av, N.Y.

Spectrum. Spectrum Pictures Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.
Studio Photosonor. Studios Photosonor, 17 bis Quai de Seine, Courbevoie, Paris Supreme. Supreme Pictures, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.
Swiss-Praesens Films. Praesens Film A. G., Zurich, Switzerland

20th century-Fox. 20th Century-Fox Film Corp, 44 W 56th St, N.Y.
Twickenham. Twickenham Film Studios, Ltd, Alliance Studios, St Margaret's, Middlesex, England

UFA. UFA Films, Inc, 729 7th Av, N.Y. United artists. United Artists Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.
Universal. Universal Pictures, Inc, 1250 6th Av, N.Y.

Van Beuren. Van Beuren Corp, 1270 6th Av, N.Y.
Victory. Victory Pictures Corp, Fox Studios, Culver City, Calif.
Vitaphone. Vitaphone Corp, 1277 E 14th St, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Wardour. Warner Brothers, Inc, 80 W 44th St, N.Y.
Wilcox. Herbert Wilcox Productions, Ltd, Imperial Studios, Boreham Wood, Elstree, Hertfordshire
How to Use the Motion Picture Review Digest

Sample Entry

Night at the Opera. N 15 '35 96min MGM Players: Groucho Marx, Chico Marx, Harpo Marx, Kitty Carlisle
Director: Sam Wood
"A musical slapstick farce in which the Marx Bros. succeed in placing their musical proteges in a Metropolitan Opera performance." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)

Audience Suitability Ratings
"Mad clowning, clever dancing, pleasing vocal and instrumental music are entertaining features of this picture which will please the Marx Bros.' fans. Family and juvenile matinee."
+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) O 30 '35
+ "Very good for type. Family."
+ Jt Estimates N 1 '35

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"A boisterous, rowdy, and thoroughly delightful piece. A Night at the Opera hits a swift pace from the opening and never slackens under the barrage of puns, songs, dancing, and insane antics that come tumbling on top of each other. Following the same general lines of their earlier hits, the Marx Brothers' new film is imbued with an undeniable freshness and enthusiasm that sweeps crazily, but none the less triumphantly, through the whole affair." Beverly Hills
+ + Liberty p46 N 30 '35

Trade Paper Reviews
"[This] probably will go down in history as the best the brothers have contributed to the screen."
+ + Film Curb p14 N 1 '35
"Family farce."
N Y Exhibitor p30 N 10 '35

Starting at the beginning, the title of this picture is A Night at the Opera. It was released on November 15, 1935. It is 96 minutes in length. The producing company is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The list of principal players and the director will require no explanation.

Next comes a brief note describing the picture, its nature, and plot. Sometimes these notes are written by our staff. In other cases they are quoted from a published source. In such cases the source is given.

Following the descriptive note, the excerpts from reviews begin. Following each review the source is given, with date of issue and number of the page on which the review appears.

It will be noticed that plus and minus signs sometimes precede the sources. These indicate the degree of favor or disfavor of the review as a whole (not just of the quoted excerpt). The meaning of the various combinations of these signs is as follows:

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

The signs are omitted when a review merely reports on a film without expressing a definite critical opinion.

In interpreting these signs, it will be well to remember that their precise significance will vary somewhat according to the source. In general there are three types of sources represented in the MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST: (1) audience suitability ratings by special reviewing organizations (women's clubs, religious groups, and the like); (2) general newspapers and magazines; and (3) trade papers. The purpose of the audience suitability ratings by the special reviewing organizations is chiefly to pass on questions of morality and propriety and to report on suitability for children of various ages. The purpose of the reviews in general magazines and newspapers is to inform the adult patron of artistic and entertainment qualities. The purpose of the trade paper reviews is to inform the exhibitor of probable commercial value.
This is a cumulated issue. It includes all reviews published since No. 28. It supersedes Nos. 29-40. DISCARD Nos. 29-40.

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

Vol. 1

September 28, 1936
No. 41

(Superseding Nos. 29-40.)

Pictures Reviewed in This Issue
(arranged alphabetically)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Picture</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Aces and Eights</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All American Chump</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>And Sudden Death</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anna</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anthony Adverse</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Arizona Raiders</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August Week-End</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Avenging Waters</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Back to Nature</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beloved Vagabond</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Below the Deadline</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bengal Tiger</td>
<td>7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Big Noise</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Blackmailer</td>
<td>9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Blind Girl of Sorrento</td>
<td>9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Border Flight</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Border Patrolman</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bride Walks Out</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bulldog Edition</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bunker Bean</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cain and Mabel</td>
<td>13</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Captain's Kid</td>
<td>14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Case of the Velvet Claws</td>
<td>14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Changing of the Guard</td>
<td>14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charlie Chan at the Race Track</td>
<td>15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>China Clipper</td>
<td>16</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Counterfeit</td>
<td>17</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Craig's Wife</td>
<td>18</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crash Donovan</td>
<td>18</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crime of Dr. Forbes</td>
<td>19</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crooked Love</td>
<td>20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crouching Beast</td>
<td>20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dancing Pirate</td>
<td>21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dark Hour</td>
<td>21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Devil Doll</td>
<td>22</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Devil Is a Sissy</td>
<td>23</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dizzy Dames</td>
<td>24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Don't Turn 'Em Loose</td>
<td>24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Down the Stretch</td>
<td>24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Down Under the Sea</td>
<td>25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Draegerman Courage</td>
<td>26</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Early to Bed</td>
<td>27</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Earthworm Tractors</td>
<td>27</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Easy Money</td>
<td>28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Educating Father</td>
<td>29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Everyman's Law</td>
<td>30</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

(Continued on inside front cover)
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Fatal Lady</td>
<td>30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Final Hour</td>
<td>30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>First Baby</td>
<td>31</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Follow Your Heart</td>
<td>31</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Forgotten Faces</td>
<td>32</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frankie and Johnnie</td>
<td>32</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fugitive Sheriff</td>
<td>33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fury</td>
<td>33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>General Died at Dawn</td>
<td>34</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gentleman from Louisiana</td>
<td>35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Girl of the Ozarks</td>
<td>36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Girls' Dormitory</td>
<td>36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Give Me Your Heart</td>
<td>38</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Glory Trail</td>
<td>39</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Go Get-'Em Haines</td>
<td>39</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gorgeous Hussy</td>
<td>40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grand Jury</td>
<td>41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Green Pastures</td>
<td>42</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Guns and Guitars</td>
<td>44</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Guns of the Pecos</td>
<td>44</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gypsies</td>
<td>45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Half Angel</td>
<td>45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harvester</td>
<td>45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Heart of the West</td>
<td>46</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hearts Divided</td>
<td>46</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Heroes of the Range</td>
<td>47</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>High Tension</td>
<td>48</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hill Tilles</td>
<td>48</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>His Brother's Wife</td>
<td>49</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hollywood Boulevard</td>
<td>50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hot Money</td>
<td>51</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Love You Only</td>
<td>52</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Stand Condemned</td>
<td>52</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Was a Captive of Nazi</td>
<td>53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Germany</td>
<td>53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I'd Give My Life</td>
<td>54</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Idaho Kid</td>
<td>55</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Isle of Fury</td>
<td>55</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>It Couldn't Have Happened</td>
<td>55</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>It's Love Again</td>
<td>56</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jailbreak</td>
<td>56</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Der Kampf</td>
<td>57</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kelly of the Secret Service</td>
<td>57</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>King of the Royal Mounted</td>
<td>57</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>King Steps Out</td>
<td>58</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lady Be Careful</td>
<td>58</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Last of the Mohicans</td>
<td>59</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Last of the Warrens</td>
<td>61</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Last Outlaw</td>
<td>61</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lawless Nineties</td>
<td>62</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lion's Den</td>
<td>62</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Little Miss Nobody</td>
<td>62</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Love Begins at Twenty</td>
<td>62</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mary of Scotland</td>
<td>62</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Master Will Shakespeare</td>
<td>65</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meet Nero Wolfe</td>
<td>65</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mine with the Iron Door</td>
<td>66</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mister Cinderella</td>
<td>67</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M'liss</td>
<td>67</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moving Day</td>
<td>69</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mummy's Boys</td>
<td>69</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Murder in the Red Barn</td>
<td>69</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Murder with Pictures</td>
<td>70</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>My American Wife</td>
<td>70</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>My Man Godfrey</td>
<td>72</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Navy Born</td>
<td>73</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Neighborhood House</td>
<td>73</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>News of the U.S.S.R.</td>
<td>73</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nine Days a Queen</td>
<td>74</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Old Hutch</td>
<td>75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Our Relations</td>
<td>75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paa Solsidan</td>
<td>76</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

(Continued on back cover)
Motion Picture Review Digest

Vol. 1 SEPTEMBER 28, 1936 No. 41

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY
THE H. W. WILSON COMPANY
950-972 University Avenue, New York City

Terms of Subscription and Advertising. Full information on request.

Publications from which Digests of Reviews are made

Audience Evaluation Publications
Am Legion Auxiliary—American Legion Auxiliary. See Fox W Coast Bul
Bks & Films—Books and Films. $1, Mrs Ina Roberts, 11118 Clifton Blvd, Cleveland, Ohio
Bul on Current Films—Bulletin on Current Films, National Council for Prevention of War, 830 W Washington St, D C.
Calif Cong of Par & Teachers—California Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc
Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs—California Federation of Business and Professional Women’s Clubs (Los Angeles District)
See Fox W Coast Bul; Jt Estimates; Motion Pic Guide; Sel Motion Pic
Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs—California Federation of Business and Professional Women’s Clubs (Los Angeles District)
See Fox W Coast Bul; Jt Estimates; Motion Pic Guide; Sel Motion Pic
Christian Century—Christian Century, 84 Christian Century Press, 440 S Dearborn St, Chicago
DAR—National Society Daughters of the American Revolution
See Fox W Coast Bul; Jt Estimates; Motion Pic Guide; Sel Motion Pic
Endorsed Motion Pic—Endorsed Motion Pictures. Publication discontinued
Fox W Coast Bul—Fox West Coast Theatres Corporation Bulletin, 1937 S Vermont Av, Los Angeles
(This publication contains evaluations by the following organizations: Calif Cong of Par & Teachers; Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs; Calif Fed of Cath Alumnae; Nat Fed of Cath Alumnae; Nat Council of Jewish Women; Nat Soc of New England Women; S Cali Council of Fed Church Women; Women’s Univ Club, Los Angeles
Gen Fed of Women’s Clubs (W Coast)—General Federation of Women’s Clubs (West Coast), Bulletin, Mrs Wm A. Burk, 359 N Bronson Av, Los Angeles
See also Fox W Coast Bul; Jt Estimates; Motion Pic Guide; Sel Motion Pic
Int Fed of Cath Alumnae—International Federation of Catholic Alumnae
See Fox W Coast Bul; Nat Legion of Decency
(This publication contains evaluations by the following organizations: Calif Cong of Par & Teachers; Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs; DAR; Gen Fed of Women’s Clubs (W Coast); Nat Council of Jewish Women; Nat Soc of New England Women; S Cali Council of Fed Church Women; Women’s Univ Club, Los Angeles
Mo Film Bul—Monthly Film Bulletin. Issued to members only. British Film Inst, 4 Great Russell St, London W C 1

Motion Pic Bul & Family—Motion Picture and the Family. Free. Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc, 23 W 44th St, New York

Motion Pic Guide—Motion Picture Guide. 50c. Mrs John Waido, Am Assn of Univ Women Motion Pic Com, 330 E 47th St, Indianapolis
(This publication contains evaluations by the following organizations: Calif Cong of Par & Teachers; DAR; Gen Fed of Women’s Clubs (W Coast); Nat Council of Jewish Women; Nat Film Estimate Service; Nat Soc of New England Women; Women’s Univ Club, Los Angeles
Motion Pic Rev—Motion Picture Reviews. $1. Motion Picture Reviews, Women’s University Club, 347 S Figueroa St, Los Angeles
Nat Bd of R M—National Board of Review Magazine. $2. National Board of Review of Motion Pictures, 70 Fifth Av, New York
See also Fox W Coast Bul; Wkly Guide
Nat Council of Jewish Women—Los Angeles Section, National Council of Jewish Women, 417 S Lucerne Blvd, Los Angeles
See also Fox W Coast Bul; Jt Estimates; Motion Pic Guide; Sel Motion Pic
Nat Film Estimate Service—National Film Estimate Service
See Motion Pic Guide
See Fox W Coast Bul; Jt Estimates; Motion Pic Guide; Sel Motion Pic
N Y Archdiocese—Motion Pic Guide—New York Archdiocese Motion Picture Guide
See Nat Legion of Decency
Parents’ M Parents’ Magazine. $2. The Parents’ Institute, Inc, 9 E 40th St, New York
Scholastic—Scholastic. $1.50. Scholastic, Chamber of Commerce Building, Philadelphia, Pa.
Sel Motion Pic—Selected Motion Pictures. West & Pacific Motion Picture Review Committees.
Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America, Inc, Will H. Hays, Pres, 25 W 44th St, New York
(This publication contains evaluations by the following organizations: Calif Cong of Par & Teachers; Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs; DAR; Gen Fed of Women’s Clubs (W Coast); Nat Council of Jewish Women; Nat Soc of New England Women; S Cali Council of Fed Church Women; Women’s Univ Club, Los Angeles
S Cali Council of Fed Church Women—Southern California Council of Federated Church Women
See Fox W Coast Bul; Jt Estimates; Sel Motion Pic
Wkly Guide—Weekly Guide to Selected Pictures. $2.50 yearly, with Magazine. $1. National Board of Review of Motion Pictures. 70 Fifth Av, New York
Women’s Univ Club, Los Angeles—Women’s University Club, Los Angeles, Calif
See Fox W Coast Bul; Jt Estimates; Motion Pic Guide; Motion Pic R; Sel Motion Pic

Newspapers and Magazines
Boston Transcript—Boston Evening Transcript. $355. (Wednesday and Saturday). Boston Transcript Co, Inc, Pub, 324 Washington St, Boston
Canadian M—Canadian Magazine. $1.50. Hugh C. MacLean Pub, Ltd, 347 Adelaide St, W Toronto
Liberty—Liberty. §2. Liberty Publishing Corp, 1326 Broadway, Lincoln Sq, New York
Life-Life, §1.50. Life Magazine, Inc, 50 E 42d St, New York
Lit Digest—Literary Digest. §1. Funk and Wagnalls Co, 351-560 Fourth Ave, New York
New Yorker—New Yorker. §5. F-R Publishing Corp, 25 W 46th St, New York
Sat R—Saturday Review. 30s. Chawton Pub Co, Ltd, 18-20 York Blvd, Adelphi, London
Sight & Sound—Sight and Sound. (Quarterly) §2 ed. British Film Inst, 4 Great Russell St, London, W 1 C
Spec—Speculator. 30s. The Speculator, Ltd, 99 Gower St, London, W C 1
Stage—Stage. §5. Stage Publishing Co, Inc, 50 E 42d St, New York
Trade Papers
Box Office—Box Office. (Eastern sectional ed) §3. Associated Publications, Inc, 4704 E 9th St, Kansas City, Mo.
Canadian Moving Picture Digest—Canadian Moving Picture Digest. §5. Canadian Moving Picture Digest Co, Ltd, 259 Spadina Av, Toronto, 2
Film Daily—Film Daily. §10. The Film Daily, 1850 Broadway, New York

Explanations
After the title of the film, the producer is given, next the running time in minutes and then the date of release.
Under Players, only leading members of the cast are listed.
For system of evaluating favor or disfavor of the reviews, see note at bottom of pages. The evaluating symbols indicate the degree of favor or disfavor of each review as a whole, not just of the quoted excerpt.
In the reference to the magazine, the number of the page is first given, followed by the month, day and year.
An index will be found at the end of the quarterly cumulated numbers which includes actors, actresses and directors for the productions indexed; also books, plays and short stories from which the movies have been adapted.
Only those foreign films which are likely to be generally shown are listed.
In evaluating films, the women's organizations use the "maturer" or "adult" when films are unsuitable for children; "family" when suitable for all the members of a family; "young people" when suitable for adolescents from 15 to 20 years of age; "children" for those under 15.
Abbreviations of producers' names and their addresses will be found in the Directory of Producers at the end of the number.
(*) This symbol denotes a short feature.
When the date of release is omitted, it has not been determined by the producer.
The running time as given is tabulated after projection room showings and is only an approximation of the actual release length in communities where state or local censorship may result in deletions. For final information, consult your local exchange.

Key to Abbreviations
a adults
Ag August
Am American
Ap April assn association av avenue bd board bks books blvd boulevard bul bulletin
c children (under 16 years)
Cal Calif California
Cath Catho Catholic co company
com committee
Conc Congress
Dec December
e east ed edition
F February fed federal gen general inc incorporated inst institute - ion
int international
Jan January
June
July
Jul
July
Lee
Lita Limited
Lit Literature mag magazine min minutes
Mon monthly
March
May November national
New York
Oct October p page par parent picture Philadelphia
pub publisher review
S Republic
Sep September
Sund Saturday ser selected soc society
Spec Spectator
st street univ university vol volume w west wkly weekly
y young people (15-20 years)
Motion Picture Review Digest

Devoted to the Valuation of Current Motion Pictures

September 28, 1936

ACES AND EIGHTS. Puritan 62min Je 6 '36
Players: Tim McCoy, Wheeler Oakman, Rex Lease. Luana Walters
Director: Sam Newfield
A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings
"[It is] a fair Western, General patronage."
+ — Nat Legion of Decency Je 11 '36
"A, Y and C: fair Western."
Parents' M p33 Ag '36
"A Western of a not unfamiliar type, but it manages to catch a good deal of the glamour of the old dime-novel Western yarns. Juvenile.
+ — Wkly Guide Je 27 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"Tim McCoy delivers another satisfying routine of Western action entertainment in his latest outdoor melodrama. With a good supporting cast, a story that holds interest very nicely at all times, and well-paced direction, the production should give satisfaction to the general run of fans who go for this type of picture."
+ — Film Daily p3 Ag 8 '36
"Estimate: good."
+ — Phila Exhibitor p72 Jl 1 '36
"Tim McCoy without a gun. But his supporting cast flash enough rods to shoot the release into the dependable Western rating, destined for the twin shops."
+ — Variety p19 Ag 12 '36

ALL AMERICAN CHUMP. MGM 70min
Players: Stuart Erwin, Betty Furness, Robert Armstrong. Edmund Gwenn
Director: Edwin L. Marin
"The story centers around a human adding machine, Stuart Erwin, who is grabbed from a $15 a week job in a bank, by a smart carnival trio, whose carnival has gone on the rocks. They try to sell the chump to the public on the basis of his quick calculations, but that does not prove much of an attraction. Forced into a bridge game, the chump brings into play his 'digger' brain, beats the champion and in a payroll, with plenty of dough bet, wins the tournament and the girl." Hollywood Reporter

AMO TE SOLA. Italian title of I love you only

AND SUDDEN DEATH. Paramount 67min Je 19 '36
Director: Charles Barton
See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A and Y: thought-provoking; C: too strong."
Christian Century p1143 Ag 26 '36
"Impressive, and not gruesome, is this story of reckless driving, drinking, and their horrible consequences. Timely and valuable. Good. Mature-family." DAR
Fox W Coast Bul Je 26 '36
"Adults." Am Legion Auxiliary

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"Lawrence Kimble's original screen play contains all the elements which make for success, a central idea that is highly amusing and enough subsidiary complications to sustain the comedy for the full length of the picture. But on the way to the screen the story values were lost. The producers and director obviously lack the sense of humor the author displayed. . . The chief weakness of Edwin Marin's direction is his handling of the dialogue. The lines are spouted with little regard for their comedy values, as if they were something to get rid of as rapidly as possible."
+ — Hollywood Spec p13 S 12 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"Laugh laden farce highlighted by Stuart Erwin's droll characterization, this unusual and clever original by Lawrence Kimble comes to the screen as highly pleasing fan fare. Family."
+ — Box Office p25 S 5 '36
"[It is a] swell laugh number with well-handled fast comedy appealing to audiences generally."
+ — Film Daily p7 Ag 29 '36
"In the 'All American Chump' Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has a top 'B' picture, deserving of 'A' ranking and certainly as nice a piece of entertainment as any ticket buyer would expect, even from a picture with twice this cost and a hit buildup. . . Put this one down on your booking sheets as far better than average entertainment."
+ — Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 26 '36
"Here is an unusually bright and different variation of the old theme in which the hitch triumphs over the city slickers. . . The screenplay is just giddy enough to please on any dual bill."
+ — Motion Pict Daily p3 Ag 27 '36
"Here is fresh and volatile farce to fill the laugh spot on any well-ordered bill. . . Offering has high laugh content and will hit box office level aimed at as cream of the B product."
+ — Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 26 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor
AND SUDDEN DEATH—Continued

"This picture . . . has a constructive educational value. Adults: good; family: good; 14-15: good; 8-14: good." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers.

"The original idea was an excellent one, but the manner of presentation and the ending caused it to become a very ineffective one. Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs.

"Adults & young people." E Coast Preview Committee.

"Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women.

Fox W Coast Bul Ji 4 '36

"Adults & young people."

Jt Estimates Ji 1 '36

"Suitability: adults & adolescents."

No Film Bul p14 Ji '36

"The lesson, to make it more palatable to movie audiences, is sugar-coated with a love story, and the ethical value is somewhat vitiated by the fact that the leading lady plays heroine when she shields her brother from just punishment. However, since any attempt to correct the existing evils of bad driving is worthwhile, the film may be commended for its purpose. Adolescents, 12-16: yes; children, 8-12: no."

+ — Motion Pict R Ji '36

"The suspense is maintained throughout, the direction is smooth and understanding, and the photography is exceptionally good, while the acting is sincere and not too melodramatic. Family."

+ — Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 24 '36

"A splendid lesson which every motorist should see. A story that is well chosen and the cast an able one for a topic of great importance. Adults & young people." + — Nat Legion of Decency Je 25 '36

"A and Y; timely and suspenseful drama of this motoring age; C: tense." Parents' M p35 Ag '36

"Although the story is evidently manufactured to bring home the intended lesson, the suspense is keen, the incident is well chosen and the cast an able one for a topic of great importance. Adults & young people." + — Sel Motion Pict Ji 1 '36

"An excellent picture for safety campaigns. Family."

+ — Wkly Guide Je 20 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Unadulterated propaganda directly from Hollywood to aid in the promotion of safe automobile driving. Produced in the usual feature length, in the style of a glorified story-lecture." J. P. Cunningham

Commonweal p216 Je '36

"Paramount illustrates its sermon with a human touch which I am afraid you will find difficult to take. . . . Paramount makes an honest attempt to provide entertainment you will like. It is a picture crammed with action and physical thrills to compensate in a measure for the unpleasant and unconvincing story." + — Hollywood Spec p10 Je 20 '36

"'And Sudden Death' might have been one of the most devastating pictures of the year. . . . The film begins as an eloquent plea against reckless driving, but ends up as no more than a rather puerile little melodrama that neither preaches an engrossing sermon nor provides an abundance of cinema excitement. . . . You drive cautiously home after seeing 'And Sudden Death,' but you won't have seen a memorable film. (2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p17 Ji 18 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; +— Fair; +— Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

"It fails to be very effective. It shows, it is true, shots of horrible motor accidents—cars overturning, clacking, skidding and being flung from high places—but it never manages to be really moving, and its object lesson is so elementary as much of the public is lost, for sophisticated minds, at least. Besides, an anemic romance sugarcoats its stern moral rather annoyingly, and the continuity is uneven, so that the sum total fails to be either entertaining or particularly instructive." Marguerite Tazelaar — N Y Herald Tribune p6 Ji 18 '36

"A certain heavy-handedness of direction causes several of the film's more violent scenes to lose much of their effectiveness." T. M. P. — + N Y Times p18 Ji 18 '36

"It would be a privilege to write favorably of 'And Sudden Death.' What makes reviewing this well-intentioned film an ungrateful business is the fact that after the first reel or two its honorable denouncement of reckless motorists is thrown to the winds and it becomes a hackneyed melodrama, indifferently written and directed by William Boechner."

— N Y World-Telegram p20 Ji 20 '36

"The film isn't as violent a lecture as you might expect, and it is considerably padded with the gentle romance between the officer in charge of traffic and the beautiful heiress who likes to hit seventy. In spite of its substantial subject matter, the picture is pretty much on the slight side." John Mosher — + New Yorker p65 Ji 25 '36

"Not being an advocate of propaganda in the entertainment field I was a little wary of what the film might do with the theme. I hadn't been, for clever Madeleine Ruthven, with the aid of co-authors Reeves and March, turned out a vehicle which is dramatic as well as an admonitory. . . . Randy Scott's work impresses by its sincerity; it's doubtful whether I've ever liked him as well. It's pleasant to report that Frances Drake has improved immeasurably—she's less the manniquin than heretofore." Herb Sterne + — Script p12 Ji 25 '36

"It does not venture to translate into pictures much of the lusty and horrifying blood-thirsty chase, etc., which the article [by a reporter] but it does present, within conventional limits, an energetic little sermon on good highway manners."

Time p10 Je 29 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This starts off like a house afire, but calms down in time to make it a fairly decent excuse for using the basic subject. Family." + — Box Office p45 Je 20 '36

"Subject of manslaughter by automobile has been done on several occasions previously as film fare, and much more effectively than in 'And Sudden Death.' And with better all-around entertainment effect as well as with a more satisfying cast. Houses which play this solo will be in the minority. Thin name draw and the likelihood that it won't build will keep its activities rather limited. 'Sudden Death' is a story not well put together, but the worst faults are the irregular and unsteady pace, sporadic camera work and largely and dull dialogue."

— Variety p17 Ji 22 '36

ANNA. Amkino 90min Ji 15 '36

Director: I. Paryof.

Dialogue film in Russian with English subtitles. The story revolves around the marriage of a young Soviet worker to a stranger from Siberia who turns out to be a traitor to the cause.
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[It shows] little sign of the 'classicism' Eisenstein predicted for his native cinema."

National p10 Jl 25 '36

"...The film is a tripe theatrical and, while striving for color, does not exactly ring true. Mosfilm evidently are trying to combine propaganda with Hollywood plots, and in their desperation to be picturesque they strike instead something verging on the ridiculous, if some of the scenes from 'Anna' are samples. Both in performance and treatment the picture resembles our own outmoded film souvenirs, although the subject dealt with is up-to-date enough to excite interest..."

Variety pl 17 Jl 17 '36

"'Anna' is pretty mediocre both as propaganda and entertainment. ...About the only pleasant thing that may be said about it is that you don't have to see it unless you want to..."

William Boehnel

+ + N Y World-Telegram p10 Jl 21 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"[It is] entertaining counterpart of old-time American melodrama."

+ Film Daily p7 Jl 15 '36

"In effect, and in part by reason of very ordinary achievement in performance and production, the film is adaptable only to those audiences for whom a film from Russia is an event."

Motion Pict p12 Jl 17 '36

+ An 'Anna' is strictly for the devout. And even for this category it will be about as easy to take as compulsory rhythmic dancing. Cast throughout wears ghoulish makeup which, in the love scenes, looks like a tete-a-tete among Hallowe'en skeletons. It's assuredly not entertaining and, as good propaganda on this side of the Volga, it is doubtful. Background settings, obviously quickie, are often too apt to give the impression that the party members, even their elite, live in surroundings which resemble huts. Unraveling is slow and plodding. Film has to go down as a weakie, even adjudged by Russian normals..."

— Variety p3 Jl 22 '36

Anthony Adverse. Warner 138 min Ag 29 '36

Director: Mervyn LeRoy

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Althea a long picture, the audience is held to the very finale, and lives with the actors through their turbulent fateful lives. Adults." Am Legion Auxiliary

"A picture which, like the novel, holds interest despite excessive length by reason of its colorful pageantry and beauty, spice, and thrills. Adults: excellent; 14-18: very good; 5-14: mature." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"A dignified and impressive picturization of the novel, sans the more sensational features, so understandingly directed and intelligently acted it will satisfy the most exacting and discriminating. ...Beautifully mounted with a delightful musical score which adds to and intensifies each variation of mood and with brilliant acting and unique settings which complement and aid the theme, this is one of the most important pictures of the year. Adults." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Warners deserve praise for the dignity, meticulous thoroughness, and high dramatic quality of this engrossing production. ...This biographical study of Allen's ill-starred hero is thought-provoking fare for adults. Excellent." DAK

"The dominant character trait of 'Anthony Adverse' and its effect on others is constructive of ethical standards. The delicate situations are handled with dignity. The photography and musical score are very good. Without a doubt this picture will receive general approval, setting as it does a new high mark of achievement in cinema art. ...One leaves the play with sorrow that race prejudices, illegitimate sex relations and crime still are too flagrant, but thankful a play such as this one shows their futility and degradation. [It shows the] ability of the director to [transform] a rather unattractive character [into] one bidding for and receiving the sympathy of the audience. Mature." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"One of the pictures that you cannot afford to miss. An extraordinary production from every point of view—story, acting, staging, photography and beauty of production, smooth-flowing direction. The famous novel comes to the screen as a notable picture for family. Mrs T. G. Winter

+ + Fox W Coast Bul Je 13 '36

"Outstandingly engrossing in every detail is this notably fine production based on Hervey Allen's lengthy novel. Warner filmmakers have achieved real greatness in the art of picture making, presenting a screen play of flowing, forceful action in which is woven a poignant portrayal of the life of a man born without a name and buffeted by fate, yet, done without the open frankness of the book. Adults & young people."

+ + Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Je 1 '36

"Beautifully mounted with a delightful musical score which adds to and intensifies each variation of mood, with brilliant acting and unique settings which complement and interpret the theme, this is one of the most important pictures of the year. Adults."

+ + Jet Estimates Je 1 '36

"Excellent taste and fine discrimination have been displayed by the producer in omitting those elements of the book which were considered objectionable. General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Jl 9 '36

"A: outstanding period drama, absorbing entertainment; V: excellent; C: mature."

Parents' M pl 5 Ag 29 '36

Scholastic pl 7 S 19 '36

"This is one of the most important pictures of the year. Adults: Outstanding."

+ + Sel Motion Pict Jl 1 '36

"Mature. Outstanding. Recommended to the Committee on Exceptional Photoplays."

+ + Wkly Guide Jl 18 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Movie fans who protested that a novel of gargantuan proportions as 'Anthony Adverse' could never be reduced to one night's entertainment, are frankly on their wrong...[It] makes a spectacular picture. ...There are ninety-eight speaking parts in 'Anthony Adverse' and that with the various changes of locale, the vast number of costumes and extras used, the amount of research involved, could only make the most important ever produced." Laura Elton

+ + Canadian M p34 Ag '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; ++ Mediocre; — Poor; ++ Exceptionally Poor
Anthony Adverse—Continued

Christian Science Monitor p17 S 5 '36

"Filming of 'Anthony Adverse' was preceded by no little speculation concerning the daring moral tones of substantial parts of the source novel, and by frank acceptation of the risk that threatened in properly and sufficiently applying the many-sided essentials of the unusually richly drawn and philosophic novel. The author's concern that it would be consistent with the original. The trepidations, however, are now found to have been wholly unnecessary. Anthony Adverse emerges triumphantly from Hollywood's workshops retaining the full, vigorous dramatic essentials, and adding a new dimension of significance to the story's richly textured drama of life, love, and tragedy. The features are well cast, and the acting is first-rate. Allison Jones, as a young Tony, in a role that demands great subtlety, is marvelously effective both in the full-fronted expressiveness of the role and in the more subdued and significant parts. Madeleine Carroll is deftly distilling the essence of genuine, noble beauty in her portrayal of the woman who is to prove Tony's great love. This is a performance that demands the highest of acting abilities. The author has been admirably served by his fellow workers in all capacities. The production is a credit to Broadway and the screen alike. "—J. P. Cunningham

"Running about twice the length of the average picture, Anthony Adverse' has its inevitable lapses. These, however, come not so much from any fault in the film as they do from inability of an audience to assimilate a long sitting, all that this intriguing full-blown tale has to offer... All in all, [it] comes as a pulchritudinous but hardly engrossing." (3 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p43 Je 27 '36

"(It is a) handsonde and spectacular production. Populated with a huge cast and bulging with picareseque adventure and romance, it richly deserves one of Hollywood's favorite and highest accolades... The exposition is as disjointed as you might have expected, but the photography is always visually exciting and has far more suspense and compulsion than its original... The performance of the work, on the other hand, is as rather baffling by the exigencies of a characterization which had scant dimension... As Walter Pidgeon as Anthony is equally ill at ease as Angela." Howard Barnes

N Y Herald Tribune p13 Ag 27 '36

"Somehow it has been done, and well done, too. Hollywood tackled 'Anthony Adverse' and conquered it, a triumph for 'Anthony Adverse' as well as for Hollywood. Sheridan Gibney extracted the marrow of Hervey Allen's novel, as gigantic in size as in popularity; the Warners made a movie and the book... And the production is as venturous, romantic, complicated, swashbuckling best-seller, as you may see for yourself at the Screen." Anthony Adverse, the title role, is rather baffling by the exigencies of a characterization which had scant dimension... As Walter Pidgeon as Anthony is equally ill at ease as Angela." Howard Barnes

N Y Herald Tribune p13 Ag 27 '36

"If size is your deity...then you will relish it!" Speaking for ourselves, we found it a bulky, richly endowed and indecisive production which has not merely taken liberties with the letter of the original but with its spirit. Mr. Allen's novel was both picareseque and philosophic. An arrant adventure story, it was at the same time a profoundly significant, moving characterization of a man's search of life... Anthony Adverse, the title role, is rather baffling by the exigencies of a characterization which had scant dimension... As Walter Pidgeon as Tony, the author's man... "—Elleen Creelman

N Y Sun p10 Ag 27 '36

"Anthony Adverse' is not now the story of a favored child of the gods. It is a spectacle of morals and manners of the eighteenth century life. This certainly is no condemnation. Perhaps Paul Muni could have made the fabulous King of the Railroad, a role which a younger Anthony Adverse could, or even Leslie Howard. In March's hands, Adverse is merely a romantic figure, a hub of devotion and a soul around which the whole film revolves. The cast—hundreds of them—coordinate their performances into a vast canvas of pageantry, and give the production authentic feeling and color. An amazing vital portrayal is given by Olivia de Havilland... The picture is a triumph of direction, a story of impressive, a strong story told in strong terms."—Stage p10 S 5 '36

"Whether even the qualities of the picture itself will cause the LeRoy version of 'Anthony Adverse' to equal the success of the Allen version is another story. As Adverse this film has played to perfection by Claude Rains... Billy Mauch is an admirable 16-year-old Anthony, but Fredric March is a thoroughly spiritless Anthony, the man...Altogether too much talent to be wasted through a pointless script and unimaginative direction." F. S. Nugent

N Y Times p18 S 5 '36

"I should be a carping fellow indeed if I kept insisting upon such a pettish matter as the episodic treatment this huge novel has received. This film is more fortunate in the acting of its lesser roles than in its principal parts. As Anthony, Fredric March seems sometimes excessively confused and aimless, though the whole he carries off the part with considerable success, and Olivia de Havilland is especially lovely as Angela. But it is Claude Rains as Don Luis, Edmund Gwenn as John Berryhewer, Louis Hayward as Denis Moore and Gale Sondergaard as Faithe who offer performances to watch and applaud." William Boehme

N Y World-Telegram p10 As 31 '36

"In general [it] sustains a fair degree of the usual interest a lively costume piece can provide. It is an extraordinarily florid affair, individual in its color, different as regards each one, and one not necessarily found when actors have to wear fancy clothes... I don't think I have seen a script which has had so little to do with historically accurate clothing of the period as the film of which we are speaking. The costumes are a trifle too sumptuous for the moment, and we seem to have been surrounded by a new and lovely variety of people... The acting is not wholly above reproach but it is never entirely bad. "—John Mosher

"Adapter Sheridan Gibney's job wasn't one to be envied, and he's acquitted himself creditably though his script never attains dramatic form...Antony's psychological development is impressively handled... And Claude Rains, as a master of sadomasochistic neurosis, plays his part to the letter... The opening sequences are a full-flavored sample of high romance at its best, a colorful panorama of eighteenth-century Europe... The picture achieves its peak with incisive, textured performances by Claude Rains and Edmund Gwenn... As the name character achieves maturity, sweep and fluidity languish, and though we dog Anthony's footsteps and let him make it his own, it is clearly only his shadow that we see... the man's career is interesting but never touching... "—John Mosher

"As Anthony Adverse unfolds, the movie makers... the screen adaptation of Hervey Allen's novel... the greatness of the film lies in its realizations of the life and love and tragedy of the character. The sequences are a full-flavored sample of high romance at its best, with a colorful panorama of eighteenth-century Europe. Here the picture achieves its peak with incisive, textured performances by Claude Rains and Edmund Gwenn. "—Howard Barnes

N Y Sun p10 Ag 27 '36

"Gale Sondergaard's performance is one of the picture's most striking aspects, as is that of Claude Rains... Her performance is as impressive, a strong story told in strong terms."—Stage p10 S 5 '36

"But the production is a triumph of direction, a story of impressive, a strong story told in strong terms."—Stage p10 S 5 '36

"Whether even the qualities of the picture itself will cause the LeRoy version of 'Anthony Adverse' to equal the success of the Allen version is another story. As Adverse this film has played to perfection by Claude Rains... Billy Mauch is an admirable 16-year-old Anthony, but Fredric March is a thoroughly spiritless Anthony, the man... Altogether too much talent to be wasted through a pointless script and unimaginative direction." F. S. Nugent

"Anthony, the man... Altogether too much talent to be wasted through a pointless script and unimaginative direction." F. S. Nugent
Trade Paper Reviews

"There is much to be said about this film pro and con, but one thing is fairly certain, and that is that the picture will wind up with pleasant grosses in most spots and do just average business in a lot of others. It may not set up any long-time box office figure, but it will do well enough that way to make more than recoup the producers for the head-ache involved in manufacturing it... 'Anthony Adverse' as a film is a longish bitter-sweet woman's yarn with a lot of marquee strength and, as such, the exhibitors won't have anything to worry about. Considering the prob- lem and handicaps involved, the job is a good one. Mervyn LeRoy, in his directorial assignment this summer, has made a topnotch job, managing to get pace and action out of the story."

+ Variety p18 S 2 '36

Arizona Raiders. Paramount 61min Je 26 '36

Players: Larry (Buster) Crabbe, Raymond Hatton, Marsha Hunt, Johnny Downs

Director: James Hogan

Based on the novel Raiders of Spanish Peaks by Zane Grey. A Western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Well selected comedy, good music, and magnificent parade of horses in action show director Hogan's skill in varying the pattern of the usual Western. Family." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"A thrilling sequence of stampeding horses, romance and bits of hilarious comedy make this picture above the average in Western entertainment. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Mediocre—mature." DAR

"The stampede is too exciting for small chil-dren. Family." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul Jl 4 '36

"Family." Jt Estimates Jl 1 '36

"About all that one can say of this picture is that it is a Western with the usual scenery, shooting and skilled riding... Adolescents, 12-16: yes; children, 8-12: exciting."

+ + Motion Pict R Jl '36

"Thrills, suspense, beautiful scenery and unusual photography are combined to make this Western wholesome entertainment for the family. Family & Junior matinees."

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 24 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency Jl 2 '36

"A and Y: entertaining for those who like Westerns: C: exciting."

Parents' M p31 S '36

"Distinguished by excellent photography, fine riding and beautiful horses, as well as an unusual amount of good comedy, the screen version of Zane Grey's novel suffers, however, from a routine plot which is somewhat loosely constructed. Family."

+ + Sel Motion Pict Jl 1 '36

"Entertaining for those who like Westerns. Family."

+ Wkly Guide Je 27 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; + Exceptionally Poor

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"'The Arizona Raiders' has more comic touches than is usual in a picture of this virile type. As a matter of fact, the show is often most hilarious when it is being grimly serious."

('15 stars) Variety Jl 18 '36

"Liberty p47 Jl 25 '36

"'Zane Grey (un-Limited) continues turning out his yarns like hot cakes, but this time the barrier is distinctly thinner. Action, is the breath of life to Westerns but this tumbleweed saga doesn't achieve even a zephyr to propel it along until close to the final fade-out.'"

Herb Sterne

Trade Paper Reviews

"Family."

Box Office p23 Jl 11 '36

"This is one of the most amusing Westerns that has come to the screen in many months. Raymond Hatton is grand in a comedy role, while Johnny Downs also supplies many laughs."

+ Film Daily p14 Je 30 '36

"'Zane Grey stories have their audiences cut out for them, but as far as screen fare goes, 'The Arizona Raiders' may even be an improve- ment on Grey. The western atmosphere and adventure the [children] love come right out of the book, but the studio stepped pretty hard on the comedy throttle, with the result that there are plenty of legitimate laughs, which Grey didn't think of. While the addition of comedy isn't likely to lift this one into big time houses, it ought to increase the take in its own league."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 Je 20 '36

"This offers an unusual amount of comedy in a routine plot, but the laugh sequences are constructed for surprise and deserve special emphasis."

+ Motion Pict Daily p6 Je 22 '36

"Estimate: good."

+ Phila Exhibitor p65 Jl 1 '36

"Only way this one rates [as] acceptable entertainment for the Western fan is [as] an out-and-out farce, and it is so written and directed that audiences may take [their] choice in this respect. And besides, the production values of the routine horse opera situations, with all the standby elements loaded in, aims at it at the juvenile-audience where it should be glibly relished. For those who like their sage brush sagas straight it will be pretty much of a washout."

Variety (Hollywood) p3 Je 20 '36

At the Race Track with Charlie Chan. See Charlie Chan at the race track

August Week-End. Chesterfield 61min Ap 25 '36

Players: Valerie Hobson, G. P. Huntley, Jr.

Director: Charles Lamont

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Trade Paper Reviews

"'[It] has been given a competent production and a capable cast that works hard, although not always successfully, to make the melo-dramatic situations convincing. Family."

+ Box Office p29 Ag 1 '36
AUGUST WEEK-END—Continued

"It is just one of those obvious conglomerations that embrace a lot of incidents but lack a single definite punch.

— Film Daily p7 JI 18 '36

"[It] makes an okay supporting feature. It's deficient in marquee names but, otherwise, this ordinary exposition of love and living among high society should prove good amusement fodder for those who aren't particular."

+ — Variety p34 JI 22 '36

AVENGING WATERS. Columbia 56min My 8 '36
Players: Ken Maynard, Beth Marion, Ward Bond
Director: Spencer Gordon Bennett
A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency My 7 '36

"A, Y and C: well photographed outdoor drama of good days."
Parents' M p34 JI '36

"The plot is logically developed against a fine Western background. It is well directed and carries a nicely sustained interest. Family."
+ Sel Motion Pict Je 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Familiar but generally acceptable outdoor action stuff that should please the Maynard followers."
+ — Film Daily p9 JI 8 '36

"Made up to the same good Maynard standard, this will please Western advocates. Family Western."
+ Phila Exhibitor p22 Je 1 '36

B ACK TO NATURE. 20th century-Fox 56min S 18 '36
Players: Jed Prouty, Shirley Deane, Dixie Dunbar, Tony Martin, Spring Byington
Director: James Tapply

This is the third of the Jones family series and contains the same cast. The Jones family start off on their vacation in an auto trailer after a frantic ordeal in packing and closing their house. Papa Jones plans to go to a druggist convention alone while the family stay at a farm, but he finds he is mistaken.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Family," Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Amusing and wholesome. Family. Good."
DAR

"A domestic comedy very well directed and interesting from start to finish for young and old. American audiences will revel in it and in more of its kind. A particularly good family picture." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Good wholesome entertainment for the family. S Calif Council of Fed Church Women + Fox W Coast Bul Ag 22 '36

"A nice blending of humor, excitement and adventure makes this engaging entertainment for the family."
+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ag 10 '36

"Family."
Jt Estimates Ag 15 '36

"Naturalness on the part of the cast, some lovely photography of the out-of-doors, clean comedy and a good story are the outstanding features of this very human production. Family. Special merit."
+ Nat Council of Jewish Women S 1 '36

"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency Ag 27 '36

"The Jones family... continues to amuse admirers with its whole-hearted enjoyment of life. . . Family."
+ Sel Motion Pict S 1 '36

"The most entertaining picture of the series so far. Family."
+ Wkly Guide S 5 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The eternal pleasure of seeing ourselves mirrorized, the actions and adventures of ordinary people skillfully utilized by the Jones Family in this perennially refreshing account of Mr. Average Man's domestic adventures and misadventures, and in this, 'Back to Nature' illustrates a vital cinematic law. The production itself is unpretentious, its direction at times careless, its acting often mediocre, and its plot hackneyed, but—it is deeply thematic. It tells its entire story in terms of day-to-day reality." Paul Jacobs
+ — Hollywood Spec p9 Ag 15 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"America's favorite film family scores again in another of their laugh hits. Surpasses in general excellence the two previous Jones pictures. Family.
+ Box Office p31 Ag 22 '36

"Plenty of action and excitement for the family trade. Good program fare."
+ Film Daily p6 Aug 14 '36

"[It] is a tip-top program picture. . . It is geared in on the out-of-doors great vogue for auto trailers, affording exhibitors plenty of opportunities for smart exploitation stunts."
+ Hollywood Reporter p4 Ag 8 '36

"The adventures of the appalling and appealing Jones family are continued in this [third] of the series, which looks like a success based on the unqualified delight with which a family audience greeted it. . . The entire appeal of the film is wisely based on the comic quality of everyday domestic incidents to which all families are heir."
+ Motion Pict Daily p11 Ag 10 '36

"Back to Nature [is] made for twin bills, devoid of name strength, but okay for family, neighborhood trade."
Phila Exhibitor p36 Ag 15 '36

"Designed primarily for family audiences, neighborhoods, and subsequents, this will be no great shakes in many class spots except in dual alignment. As such it serves its purpose in providing homey comedy-fare as secondary feature. And there seems to be no question but that the series is building for spots where patrons are not too regular."
+ Variety p21 S 2 '36

"[It is the] most entertaining of the Jones family series of features being produced by 20th—Fox. By dint of this the series should have gained sufficient sales momentum to mean something at the box office. In neighborhoods, properly exploited, this picture should be the sustenance of any twin bill."
+ Variety (Hollywood) p8 Aug 8 '36

+ — Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
BELoved Vagabond. Tooplitz-Columbia 78min
Players: Maurice Chevalier, Betty Stockfeld. Margaret Lockwood. Desmond Teather Director: Kurt Bernhardt
Music: Darius Milhaud
Based on the novel of the same title by W. J. Locke. Filmed in England. This is a second version of a silent film which starred Carlyle Blackwell. "Chevalier [portrays] an insensuous renegade from the sober respectability of Eaton Square, [who] hitch-hikes his way to happiness down the popolar-lined byways of Southern France. Romance in the guise of a little gipsy strolling player, Blanquete, comes to rout a lingering attachment to the old school tie traditions across the Channel." Hollywood Reporter

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"Maurice Chevalier charms as usual in a film which dips lightly into la vie bohême, and would probably be something less than mild were it not for M. Chevalier and his competent teammates." Christian Science Monitor p11 S 12 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"Although hampered by a loosely knit script and direction that lacked the courage to break away from tradition with any show of decisiveness, Chevalier comes across with a sincere performance and a rush of high spirits that works transformation tricks in bridging gaps where continuity is apt to sag. Treatment, moreover, has a freshness and originality that gives the picture character and a certain sense of realism." + Hollywood Reporter p7 S 9 '36

"Chevalier, moustached, has lost some of his old fire and there is only one moment in his several songs when the old vibrant irresistible quality gets over. . . It's a picture to be sold on its book and star value." Motion Pict Daily p4 S 9 '36

"This is a picture which should not fail. . . The plot wouldn't bear serious analysis in the light of modernity. Dialogue and the star-participates snaps and cracks. One cannot help but fall under the spell of the Chevalier charm. Direction isinema technique at nearly its best, and the support acting is more than satisfactory. + Variety p17 S 9 '36

BELOW THE DEADLINE. Chesterfield-Grand national 64min Je 8 '36
Players: Cecilia Parker, Russell Hopton. Theodore von Elitz
Director: Charles Lamont
See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A: fair crook melodrama; Y and C: no."
Parents' M p38 Ag '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"[It is] third rate melodrama." E. C. S
— Christian Science Monitor p13 Je 20 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"A decided pick-up in action toward the climax plus the average amount of suspense and thrills throughout enables this detective film to fulfill its purpose—program entertainment. Production values are good but the cast goes through their paces in routine fashion with only Theodore von Elitz emerging with dramatic honors. Family." + Box Office p75 Je 27 '36

"A pedestrian warm-over of the standard crimeplay formula. . . It is meticulously and deliberately detailed so that any child can follow the course of crime and the methods by which a big robbery can be pulled off right under the nose of the metropolitan police. 'Below the Deadline' is an average independent offering for sub-standard spots and on that level will doubtless do its bit." + Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 17 '36

"Containing a title with exploitable possibilities and a second-rate story that follows familiar patterns, this rates for a double bill." + Motion Pict Daily p14 Je 26 '36

BENGAL TIGER. Warner 63min S 5 '36
Players: Barton MacLane. June Travis. Warren Hull. Paul Graetz
Director: Louis King
"Its title refers to Satan, a magnificent tiger, billed as a killer and known to the circus folks as a 'hopelessly bad cat,' but which Barton MacLane, strong-willed trainer of the cats, insists on subduing. There is war throughout the story between the two and in the end the tiger gets its man, thus clearing up a romantic triangle that is the heart of the tale." Hollywood Reporter

Audience Suitibility Ratings
"Too much brutality and drinking. The tense, breath-taking acting is marvelous but too realistic for comfort or entertainment. Adults only." Am Legion Auxiliary

"While this picture has much that is different and does hold one's interest, there are sequences too terrifying for the average theatre-goer. Barton MacLane does a fine piece of work with an unsympathetic role. Adults." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Much drinking. Adults. Mediocre." DAR

"Some rather coarse and brutal scenes mar a film which its best is too exciting for family audiences or nervous adults. A group of circus characters, fairly well impersonated, unbelievable English and excessive liquid refreshment "throughout the film." Nat Soc of New England Women

"[It] stresses the importance of abstinence from drink which lessens man's supremacy and obdurates willpower in conquering the beast he faces. Scenes of daring rescue, with a good strong cast, provide suspense, but the picture was marred with disgusting drinking episodes, that the ethical value was reduced to almost nil. Mature." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bui Ji 25 '36

"[It is] too brutal and nerve-racking to be very entertaining. Though there is much emphasis on unpleasant detail, the animal sequences have been handled in a masterly way. Adults & young people." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ji 15 '36

"Adults only." Jt Estimates Ji 15 '36

"There is very little excuse for this picture. It is a series of hair-raising scenes of a wild animal tame in the cage with a particularly sullen and unkind trainer. Oh, the entertainment! How many crimes are committed in thy name! Adolescents, 12-16: horrible; children, 8-12: absolutely impossible." — Motion Pict R Ji '36

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
BENGAL TIGER—Continued

"An excellent characterization by Barton MacLane... in which he came to his role crude power, brute strength, and an amazing vitality, lends some conviction and puts him unquestionably in the front rank of first-rate actors. Tense direction and good photography add to an otherwise gruesome and lurid production. Adults."

Nat Council of Jewish Women J1 15 '36

Adults.

Nat Legion of Decency Jl 30 '36

"A: heavy circus melodrama; Y: debatable; C: impossible."

Parents' M p31 Jl 36

"[It is a] routine story. . . Adults & young people.

+ — Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

"An exciting drama of circus life, not wildly original in theme but well done. Family."

+ — Wkly Guide Ag 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"This picture will appeal strongly to all except people with instincts of decency. . . To those organizations which use the Spectator reviews as a guide to determining what pictures to recommend to their members, I would suggest that in each community an effort be made to enlist the support of the Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in an effort to prevent the showing of 'Bengal Tiger.'"

— Hollywood Spec p7 Jl 15 '36

"Though much of the film is of standard studio fabrication, there is undeniable force in the gripping climax that has the savage cat finally settling the human difficulties once and for all. (5% stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p33 Ag 15 '36

"The piece has been produced with a minimum of artistry, and probable expense, although Mr. King has used imagination in his direction and Barjon MacLane's tussles with Satan prove spectacular. . . The scenario is a tripe whiskey and might have been brushed into a more modern version, since it was being resuscitated." Marguerite Tazelaar

— N Y Herald Tribune p12 Jl 31 '36

"'Bengal Tiger' is a hard-boiled circus story, related as toughly as the modern screen will allow, not very toady and offering quite a bit of excitement. The censors have evidently bitten out one large portion of conversation in a scene between June Travis and Warren Hull. Somehow, although the continuity jumped about suddenly here, it didn't seem to matter. The story of 'Bengal Tiger' is not one to worry over." Elileen Creelman

— N Y Sun p9 Jl 36 '36

"The chief distinction of 'Bengal Tiger,' aside from the glimpses it affords of circus life, is that it introduces to the screen a new and handsome heavy called Satan—a tiger who does far and away the best job of acting in the picture. [It is the kind of Bengal Tiger that will not bear analysis, but which is more or less saved by the fact that no one would be bothered trying to analyze it, anyway.]" B. R. C.

N Y Times p22 Jl 30 '36

"The new one at the Strand is pretty bad. . . For the most part the film was of no interest to me, and while I do not think of 'Bengal Tiger' to myself, but since it is the bountiful duty of screen reviewers to tell all, even the worst, I shall adopt an attitude of tolerance and merely report that 'Bengal Tiger' is a pretty bad melodrama. It all seems to me to be a lot of silly bother about some trivial melodramas no more significant than the usual romantic highjinks found in penny shockers and a pretty awful waste of such talented players as Barton MacLane, June Travis, Warren Hull and Paul Graetz." William Boehnel

— N Y World-Telegram p10 Jl 30 '36

"'Bengal Tiger' is a pretty good, if routine circus story." Russell Maloney

— New Yorker p55 Ag 8 '36

"Louis King, director, manages to extract a speedy, well-acted picture, from pretty thin story material. . . The circus background is handled in a routine fashion, but the fights between trainer and animal carry real punch." Molly Lewin

— Script Ag 8 '36

Time p26 Ag 10 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Tense action and heavy melodrama that will appeal to the juvenile members of the audience are the highlights of this circus picture that will make good secondary entertainment. Family."

— Box Office p23 Jl 11 '36

"First rate action picture with thrilling sequences and interesting characters."

— Film Daily p6 Jl 7 '36

"An exciting romantic melodrama of circus life that is well above the average of Warners' productions and can be counted on to attract substantial returns on and off Main street if properly exploited. . . There is a spectacularly effective fire episode in winter headquarters and plenty of exciting and realistic footage of the training of the big cats."

— Hollywood Reporter p3 Jl 1 '36

"This is a thrill-action melodrama with romance, told against a circus background. While the familiar plot is interesting, Barton MacLane does a nicely polished characterization as a roistering, drunken lion tamer, with a heart of gold."

— Motion Pict Daily p4 Jl 2 '36

"Made for the neighborhood trade, this has little that isn't familiar, although backgrounds are interesting."

— Phila Exhibitor p27 Jl 15 '36

"'Bengal Tiger' has all the earmarks of a melodrama that got a quick going over, with sound and fury far outweighing dramatic substance and the plot leaving hardly a single known emotional reaction untouched. It's grade-B entertainment for the children who may like the film's exhibition of cat-teasing and man-mauling and might enjoy the jumble of story twists, one more obvious than the other, that have backfired situations to make the production an oldtime serial holiday."

— Variety p18 Ag 5 '36

"Satisfactory B picture that could have afforded much more entertainment if another ending could have been fashioned. . . Picture contains a lot of strong meat for most audiences, has its share of suspense and thrills. Picture please the (children, should do fairly well as a dud."

— Variety (Hollywood) p8 Jl 1 '36

BIG NOISE. Warner 57min Je 27 '36

Director: Frank McDonald

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: mediocre; Y and C: no."

Christian Century p999 Jl 15 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
"It is a] well-produced but quite unoriginal film... yet another example of the lack of character and individuality accorded to younger actors, [who] have only to look young and register attraction for each other, while all the brains and personality are handed over to the older generation. It would have been pleasant to see a wonderful couple who had more than sex appeal to recommend them. Suitability: family." — D. E. E.

"This comedy drama of romance and racketeers manages to be deeply amusing. General patronage." — Nat Legion of Decency J1 2 '36

"A fairly breezy satirical comedy; Y: possible; C: uninteresting." — Parents' M p34 J1 '36

"Family." — Wky Guide Je 27 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Summer brands of entertainment appear to be with us again... Guy Kibbee plays another of his homespun roles with characteristic and rustic humor, enhancing the part of a retired millionaire. Lightweight and trite as the story is, the naturalness of the performance and the comedy lines keep it from being a bore, although not from being just a mediocré production." — T.M.P.

— + N Y Herald Tribune p6 J1 6 '36

"Guy Kibbee's usually animate countenance bears distinct signs of stoical resignation in this platitudinous comedy. The Big Noise" seems to have been produced solely as a field day for this amiable and always amusing buxom of the Warner stock company. But if this is to be his reward for years of yeoman service we are inclined to commiserate with Mr. Kibbee, who is one of the cinema's grand personalities and is deserving of better things." — Motion Picture Daily p6 J1 8 '36

"The Big Noise"... makes for light, pleasant and satisfactory midsummer entertainment... "— N Y World-Telegram p19 J1 8 '36

"Without the presence of Guy Kibbee 'The Big Noise' would be something in the nature of that inelegant razzoo known as the Bronx Cheer. With his faculty for comedy the picture's bulk, despite its slim story silhouette, is mild entertainment patched for those who fervently believe that life begins after sixty..." — Script p12 Je 29 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"It will make a satisfactory filler on a double bill with a heavy drama, but will find it tough going as a single... Too slowly paced at the introduction and tires before the laughs begin to come..." — Variety p18 J1 4 '36

BLACKMAILER. Columbia 86 min J1 to '36

Players: William Gargan, Florence Rice, H. B. Warner, Nana Bryant

Director: Gordon Wiles

"When a blackmailer becomes the unwelcome and uninvited guest at a dinner party little does he realize the fate that awaits him, Nat Legion of Decency..." — p34

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Good, material poorly handled. General patronage." — Nat Legion of Decency J1 23 '36

"The nonsense of the detectives is so overdone that a good mystery plot is almost lost in a series of farcical antics and comments. Adults & young people..." — Sel Motion Pic Ag 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"A cellar-position choice for a dull evening..." — Christian Science Monitor p14 Ag 15 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Fans who go for murder mysteries will get a moderate amount of satisfaction from this one. Although it's just a run of the mill production, it manages to hold suspense and maintain interest..." — Film Daily p7 J1 22 '36

"The title gives no indication whatever of the character of the production, which appears suitable for the smaller situations chiefly... The mystery is almost forgotten as comedy, which at times descends to a point of downright nonsense, holds audience..." — Motion Picture Daily p6 J1 8 '36

"Estimate: for neighborhoods, twin bills..." — Phila Exhibitor p34 Ag 1 '36

"It provides sufficient chuckles for warm weather audiences who may laugh at the sheer absurdities. Only when it strives to become serious does 'Blackmailer' become harrowing. But even as farce verging on light burlesque this will get by only in dual fields. If by mistake it is billed as a mystery chiller, patrons will be disappointed because the film is anything but that: Exhibitors will have to overlook most of the press book on this picture and plug it entirely as a farce comedy..." — Variety p14 J1 29 '36

BLIND GIRL OF SORRENTO. Nuovo Mondo 72 min Ag 1 '36

Players: Dria Paola, Dino di Luca. Anna Magnani. Mario Steni

Director: Nunzio Baklanamma

Dialogue film produced in Italy with English subtitles. Based on a novel La Cieca di Sorrento by Francesco Mastrianni. "The action begins in 1914 with the murder of the mother of little Beatrice Rionero by Ernesto Basileo, a young lawyer who gambles. The shock of losing their mother to death makes the child blind. Circumstantial evidence sends the gallows Ferdinando Balderi, a nobleman and revolutionary leader, who dies rather than betray his comrades by revealing where he was on the fatal night." — N Y Times

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Although not one of the outstanding Italian films, this is a fair melodrama, judged by standards for Continental productions. These Italian talkies are not yet up to Hollywood standards, however, handled honestly and simply enacted by a good-looking cast. If it has neither subtlety nor humor, then neither has its vulgarity nor a straining after false effects..." — Selelman

— + N Y Sun p17 Ag 4 '36

"[It] gives an interesting picture of customs and life in Naples at the reign of the notorious 'King Bomba.' It also confirms the technical advances being made by the Italian film producers... Doping strictly in period, both in setting and the romantic style of acting, the appealing old melodrama moves along smoothly from one tense situation to another, arriving at the inevitable dénouement in a way likely to surprise persons unfamiliar with the novel..." — H. T.

— + N Y Times p11 Ag 3 '36
BLIND GIRL OF SORRENTO—Continued

Trade Paper Reviews

"[It is an] entertaining production... Picture has been efficiently handled technically and is well acted."
+ Film Daily p7 Ag 4 '36

"This latest importation is an entertaining, well-produced drama. The use of English subtitles makes the story more understandable, and yet, not strikingly outstanding, it is perhaps suited only to audiences who understand the Italian language."
+ Motion Pict Daily p11 Ag 7 '36

"Yarn is strong on melodrama of the ultra-heavy sort, and when turned into celluloid additionally takes on costume aspects. Under Malasomma's direction, coupled with a nifty casting and acting job, the net results look nicely saleable in the U. S. Italian market. Beyond that there aren't any chances."
+ Variety p17 Ag 5 '36

BORDER FLIGHT. Paramount 65min My 15 '36
Players: Frances Farmer, John Howard, Roscoe Karns, Robert Cummings
Director: Otoh Lovering

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Suitability: adults & adolescents."
Mo Film Bul p115 Jl 3 '36

"A and Y: run-of-the-mill air drama with spectacular finish: C: thrilling."
Parents' M p34 Jl 3 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"All screen aviators annoy me because they are so heroic, and I am so cowardly. The aviator heroes in 'Border Flight' are especially irritating. 'Border Flight' has many other irritations, in its repetition of the ancient Cagney-O'Brien, McLaughlin-Edmond Lowe act—two guys pretending to hate each other for six reels, then coming out with a disgusting burst of nobility and affection."
Don Herold
— Life p28 Ag 3 '36

"A story of aviation smuggling and Coast Guard romance. 'Border Flight' is the heir to the oldtime Western, replete with danger and desperadoes. Moving rapidly across the screen, its colorful exploits include some amazing glimpses of planes shot down in the air, burning ships, and stunt. The way it is done is often breathless, if not always believable or entertaining. But in substance the piece offers little more than the old Hoot Gibson or Tom Mixes."
Marguerite Tazeelar
+ — N Y Herald Tribune p10 Je 22 '36

"With all due respect to the Coast Guard, which probably will be as upset about some phases of 'Border Flight' as we were, we hope that this will be the last of the 'service' films. It seems that, no matter which branch of the government is shown Hollywood tackles, it always is stumbling upon one patriot and one chump who thinks the uniform is so much spinach... Note 'Border Flight' as just another program picture."
F. S. Nugent
+ — N Y Times p22 Je 22 '36

"Although the central idea of 'Border Flight,' having to do with coastguards and smuggling, is relatively sound, the story is a rather weak melodramatic entertainment, the writing and direction are unsteady. If the piece were competently written, patrons might be fairly well served, But as it stands now the film is an infantile account of the doings of the men who fly in the service of the Coast Guard."
William Boehnel
+ — N Y World-Telegram p8 Je 22 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Highlights of this production are a number of thrilling air stunts performed in the course of a story dealing with the Coast Guard and its pursuit of a gang of fur smugglers. Otherwise the story has the familiar ingredients of service films... Producer A. M. Botsford used a familiar theme in this story of the aerial activities of the U. S. Coast Guard, but followed it well in providing a good cast, good direction and a fast-moving script. Result is an action film that can be sold for nice results in the duals, production not being heavy enough to stand on its own in the keys."
+ Variety p23 Je 24 '36

BORDER PATROLMAN. 20th century-Fox 60min Jl 3 '36
Players: George O'Brien, Polly Ann Young, William P. Carleton, Roy Mason
Director: David Howard

A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency Jl 16 '36

"A and Y: fairly amusing taming of a fraction; C: good Western."
Parents' M p81 S 30 '36

"Adults & young people."
Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

N Y Times p11 Je 29 '36

"Although 'Border Patrolman' is not up to the standard of 'The Lawless Nineties,' it has plenty of gun play, fast riding and thrilling moments. It is distinctly none-too-particular film of this sort of entertainment... There is plenty that is funny in the film and plenty that is exciting, but not enough to make it Grade A entertainment of its kind."
William Boehnel
+ — N Y World-Telegram p17 Je 30 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Characterized by a sense of restraint and good taste seldom found in action pictures, yet losing none of its appeal to the dyed-in-the-wool Western fan, this film starring George O'Brien turns out to be highly satisfactory."
— Box Office p75 Je 27 '36

"The picture should appeal to the army of O'Brien fans and should hold its own on most any program. The piece is handled in a fresh, breezy manner. Built on the lines of O'Brien's 'Cowboy.' Will it appeal to the same type of audience, O'Brien's character is a very likeable one and he does his work in fine style with..."
+ Film Daily p7 Je 20 '36

"Fresh story angles, a smart note of modernity and a class production put this last of the George O'Brien Westerns in with the Century-Fox contract well to the top. It can safely be welcomed to almost any double bill."
+ Hollywood Reporter p3 Je 17 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; +— Fair; +— Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
in which the bride, her millionaire admirer and even the firm-minded husband participate at frequent intervals. Sparks and Helen Broderick, entered to supply more comedy, are ineffectual in raising the entertainment value to a tolerable level of audience.

— Motion Pict R '36

"An excellent cast and clever repartee assist materially in saddling of this improbable story and hackneyed theme a social comedy which proves pleasant entertainment. . . Excessive drinking.

— Nat Council of Jewish Women J1 8 '36

"General patronage."

"The Walks of Decency'16 '36

"A: unconvincing if entertaining; Y: poor; C: no interest."

Parents' M p31 S '36

"Very light entertainment for those easily satisfied."

Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

"[It is] a bright comedy. Family."

+Wkly Guide J 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[The Bride Walks Out'] impressed me as being an actuality of a sort of social ability and charm of Barbara Stanwyck and the established talents of the rest of the cast. Roy Hunt's photography, particularly of some close-ups, is of high quality, but, on the whole, the picture is a sorry piece of entertainment.

— Hollywood Spec p19 J1 4 '36

"One of the wittiest pieces of the season. "The Bride Walks Out' raps merrily through the series of emotional entanglements that befall a struggling young married couple. Paced by Robert Young, who completely steals the show from its stars, Barbara Stanwyck and Gene Raymond, the picture sprints with a delightful abandon that abounds in easy laughter. Though he gives this ray comedy its sprightliest moments, Robert Young throws the story away off balance. For his characterization has so much more intelligence and charm than the dullworthiness of Gene Raymond's that the intended happy ending is really just an acquittance to movie convention. (3 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p28 Ag S '36

"The marital psychologies in 'The Bride Walks Out' are about as subtle as a stuffed club. This is a comedy of good company, and is too tough even for the summer season. Miss Barbara Stanwyck and Mr. Raymond, the heroines of their picture with her customary directness and sincerity, if without any notable comedy skill. Mr. Raymond, is frequently occasional while Mr. Young as an amiable alcoholic menace has a few pleasant moments. Miss Stanwyck lacks the spark of Barbra Stanwyck, dramatic actress whose excellent work is usually dismissed with the description 'sincere,' borne steps out into comedy and gets along nicely, too." Eileen Creelman
BRIDE WALKS OUT—Continued

+ — N.Y Sun p7 Jl 10 '36

"A noisy little summer item... While the picture is not particularly distinguished, it does provide a welcome for Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Young a chance to wear becoming high hats and to spend a great deal of stage money in whimsical fashion." J. M. M.

+ — N.Y Times p15 Jl 10 '36

"In case you aren't too particular about your screen entertainment on these sultry midsummer days you should find attending 'The Bride Walks Out' a reasonably diverting way to pass an hour or so." William Boehnel

+ — Variety p31 Jl 15 '36

"Barbara Stanwyck is the drearily average American girl in 'The Bride Walks Out.' Nothing could be more inconsiderable than this little effort, which is relieved only by the acidulous humor of Helen Broderick and Ned Sparks." John Mosher

+ — Variety p19 Jl 15 '36

"'The Bride Walks Out' but the audience won't and if you fail to walk in to the theater showing this you'll miss one of the most satisfactory of the season's romantic comedies... A great deal of the merit is due to Leigh Jason. His touch is deft, is discernible in the whip-like timing of the gags, in the terse flicks of brilliant hilarity. Not a big picture but an extremely funny one." Herb Sternine

+ — Script p12 Jl 11 '36

"Cheers, the few we can muster for such an occasion, go unreservedly to those valiant players whose names will not appear on the marquee, but whose inherent buoyancy gives 'The Bride Walks Out' moments of true comedy. "Mr. and Mrs. Robert Young and Miss Stanwyck. If they didn't everybody would walk out."

Stage p120 Aug '36

"The moving picture business—whether because producers feel that the season will excise shortcomings or diminish profits—has long manufactured a staple known as 'summer fare.' 'The Bride Walks Out' is a fair sample of it, one of the minor discomforts of the housewife." Time p36 Jl 20 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Crammed full of bright lines and uproarious gags, 'The Bride Walks Out' is one of the smartest comedies turned out by Hollywood in many a moon. It is sophisticated, but just enough to make it a winner with every type of audience, and it should account for itself substantially at the box-office. Family." + — Box Office p31 Jl 18 '36

"Sprightly comedy, well directed and acted, which should please all types of audiences." Movie p8 Jl 11 '36

"Pure unadulterated amusement from beginning to end, 'The Bride Walks Out' is just what the doctor ordered for vacation box office. It is imaginative, funny, makes a little sense, but packing a full quota of honestly obtained laughs. Its very innocuousness guarantees that it will be enjoyed by any house anywhere... The basic plot is lightweight and motivations of central characters confounded. But farce comedies, like gift horses, need never be examined too closely. It is in the development of the story with other dialogue and clever situations that the writing job is superior." + — Hollywood Reporter p26 Jl 27 '36

"As whimsical fare, this one relies on dialogue for the most part to sustain situations which would otherwise fail somewhat short. Intelligent cutting will speed up the tempo and heighten the comedy, dramatic and entertainment values. The film rates as only fair, with the cast names of Barbara Stanwyck, Gene Raymond, Robert Young and Ned Sparks the only outstanding exhibition angles." + — Motion Pic Daily p5 Je 29 '36

"Estimate: fair." + — Phila Exhibitor p26 Jl 15 '36

"Mark this one down for fair business, if it [the one] some help on the selling end. What helps the picture a lot is fine team-work along comedy lines by Helen Broderick and Ned Sparks, both doing their usual characterizations." + — Variety p31 Jl 15 '36

"It's tough to make entertainment out of this story" but P. J. wolfson and Philip G. Epstein have contributed a smart screen play with their dialog making the difference between a lark and a picture that has a chance to do good business. Edward Small has cast the picture with a number of marquee names. Direction by Leigh Jason is expert, giving the comedy a pace that never lags." + — Variety (Hollywood) p3 Je 27 '36

BULLDOG EDITION. Republic 55min S 20 '36

Players: Ray Walker, Evalyn Knapp. Regis Toomey, Cy Kendall

Director: Charles Lamont

"Yarn is constructed on the premise of a circulation war between two rival newspapers. One paper is selling all the sales until racketeering raises its ugly head. The plot is somewhat tied into the weaker sheet." [Variety (Hollywood)]

Trade Paper Reviews

"Melodramatic and slightly unbelievable, this newspaper-gangster yarn nevertheless possesses its enterprising moments. funny." + — Box Office p23 S 12 '36

"This one went to the post loaded with intriguing possibilities, most of which, we reluctantly report, were not adequately developed. The net result is a fair offering for the twin-bill neighborhood houses." + — Hollywood Reporter p3 S 5 '36

"Melodrama, romance, comedy, gangsterism and thrill action are included in this different type of newspaper story that has a circulation war for its premise. Supplemeting the dominating melodrama is a fresh etnicated vein of romantic conflict that establishes the film as acceptable, mature audience entertainment." + — Motion Pic Daily p1 S 3 '36

"Built on a threadbare story, aided by some good acting, and decidedly helped by showman-like direction, 'Bulldog Edition' is another double-biller from Republic which should satisfy the neighborhood trade. The picture has action and hokum combined in speedy fashion. Light fare 'Jl 11. We should please if spotted on a menu with a draw names." + — Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 5 '36

BUNKER BEAN. RKO 65min Je 26 '36

Directors: William Hamilton. Edward Killy

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediore; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
A. Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: perhaps; Y: amusing; C: no interest."

Christian Century p98 Jl 15 '36

While built on the premise that 'Action is the soul of progress,' RKO has offered a very slow-moving comedy. Family. Am Legion Auxiliary

"(It is) obviously designed for less discriminating audiences. Mature: fair; 14-18: fair; 8-14: mature. Family." Calif Cong of Par & Church Women

"Modernized, but with the basic idea retained, this version of the oft-dramatized Harry Wilson tale is technically well done, but the quaint charm, the original humor, the gentle satire—everything that makes the book a classic of its type, is lacking. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

A good lesson in this slow-moving, well-acted picture. Mature-family. Good. DAR

There are many good comedy situations, although the production drags in spots. Family. El Comite Mexicanos del Arte

"Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

FEB W Coast Bul Je 13 '36

"Family +."

Jt Estimates Je 1 '36

"A and Y: comedy with good psychology; C: possible."

Parents' M p38 Ag '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Owen Davis, Jr. . . . makes 'Bunker Bean' a warmly human and amusing hero in a picture which, while somewhat indifferently produced, has retained much of the comedy of the story. . . . While the picture has not been produced with special care or originality, it offers poignant characterization and hilarious comedy, especially in some of its convulsing lines." Marguerite Tausigual + — N Y Herald Tribune p8 Je 29 '36

"The central rôle affords enviable possibilities for a fine character portrayal and a polished execution. Despite the weak efforts, however, they seem to be behind the grasp of Owen Davis, Jr. However, he is credited with a competent performance." T. M. P. — N Y Times p21 Je 27 '36

"A moderately amusing little trifle that can be taken or left, depending on one's mood these sultry summer days. It offers Owen Davis, Jr., an actor not unknown to Broadway stage audiences, in the title rôle."

"Indifferent" best describes 'Bunker Bean.' William Boehnel — + N Y World-Telegram p10 Je 29 '36

"Harry Leon Wilson can't be blamed for the fact that in writing his novel, the theme of the turning worm has been paraphrased in countless comedic dialogues. . . . But RKO can be censured for assuming that a thoroughly familiar material makes good screen fare. And the scribes who turned out the screen play can be reproached for failing to entertain the audiences with no surprises, endorsing their story with no fresh treatment." Molly Lewin — p8 Je 36

"Admirers of Harry Leon Wilson's famed 'Merton of the Movies' will find in Wilson's 'Bunker Bean' another introvert so thoroughly frustrated that this past neglect by picture-makers seems inexplicable. . . . Possibly because of its unimportant cast and modest aspirations, 'Bunker Bean' is not technically perfect; hot-water entertainment."

+ Time p48 Jl 6 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Made in '18 by Paramount and in '25 by Warner Bros. but a new and improved version by Radio with decidedly happy results. With no names or marquee draw it is probable that the present version will not get all it deserves, but it will be in the money where word of mouth advertising can spread the tidings, and it will find a great backer-upper for a feature with name draw but a poor story when coupled on a double bill. It will make good with those who have no need for lack of names does not mean absence of acting and story value." + Variety p12 Jl 1 '36

CAIN AND MABEL. Warner 92min S 26 '36

Players: Marion Davies, Clark Gable, Roscoe Karns, Allen Jenkins, David Carlyle. Walter Catlett

Director: Lloyd Bacon

Dancer: Jo Connolly

Music and lyrics: Harry Warren. Al Dubin

Music director: Leo F. Forbstein

Based on a short story of same title by H. C. Witwer. "The story tells of a love affair between a musical comedy queen and a prize-fighter, an affair manufactured for publicity purposes by the girl's press agent. The object is not matrimony but boxoffice, for the girl's show hasn't caught on and the fighter, although champion, isn't cashing in. Of course, the puritans don't begin by betting each other slowly to fall in love and when they plan a secret elopement, have to be separated by more publicity." (Hollywood Reporter)

C

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor
CAIN AND MABEL—Continued

"Try far the best for Marion Davies in many a dozen times, but this is a most unimpressive role which was made to order. ... The whole thing [is] fine and beautifully photographed." L. S. Newell

+ Canadian Moving Pic Digest p10 S '36

"Tacked with entertainment for all types of audiences, 'Cain and Mabel' is ticketed for the sure-fire hit. It is easily the most amusing vehicle in which Marion Davies has recently appeared. And don't overlook the sock box-office of Clark Gable, her co-star. For eye and ear, there are two gorgeous numbers superbly staged by Bobby Connolly."

— Variety (Hollywood) ps S 9 '36

CASE OF THE VELVET CLAWS, Warner 62min Ag 15 '36

Players: Warren William, Claire Dodd. Winifred Shaw, Gordon Elliott

Director: William Clemens

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Another Perry Mason murder mystery which moves so fast that many of its absurdities do not become apparent until the lights have gone up."

Christian Science Monitor p17 S 5 '36

"Improbability, in films of this type, rears its head in every scene, but to happy and ingenious film-goers such lapses are no impediment to the enjoyment of the exciting program of stories. ... The Case of the Velvet Claws' is brawny melodrama at its best for the people who are fortunate enough to be able to accept illusion at its face value." Lucius Beebe

NY Herald Tribune p5 Ag 29 '36

NY Times p16 Ag 29 '36

"How Perry [solves the murder] frankly, is a little bit confusing to this reviewer, who had difficulty trying to piece together all the loose ends. ... Though far from the best of the Perry Mason films, 'The Case of the Velvet Claws' is just about thrilling and amusing enough to taper off the dull summer season." William Boehnlen

+ — N Y World-Telegram p13 Ag 29 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Largely because it has been panned up with excellent material, this latest in the series of murder melodramas results in generally satisfying entertainment for the followers of the 'gues who did it' mysteries. The story itself is just another routine setup designed to conceal the identity of the culprit until the finish, and in this case this denouement is somewhat of a neat surprise."

+ — Film Daily p7 Ag 29 '36

"Latest of the Perry Mason [mysteries] goes wackier with every reel. It promises a fair share of entertainment once the onlooker gets into the spirit of the thing and gives up all expectation of seeing sense blended with credulity. Past vogue of the series should be sufficient to make 'The Case of the Velvet Claws' fairly attractive on a double setup. While the narrative proves a jumble of farfetched situations and the dialog frequently takes to nonsense, it is hard to find anything wrong with the pace of the production."

+ — Variety p21 S 2 '36

("0") CHANGING OF THE GUARD, Warner 20min Je 6 '36

Players: Sybil Jason, Halliwell Hobbes, Sidney Bracey

Director: Bobby Connolly

Produced in Technicolor. An old man tells his grand-daughter his memories of his army life.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A beautiful and educational film."

+ — Motion Pic R J1 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor

CAPTAIN'S KID. Warner-First national 68min O 31 '36

Players: May Robson, Sybil Jason, Guy Kibbee. Jane Bryan. Fred Lawrence

Director: Nick Grinde

"[A] simple old Yankee skipper has a gift for tall stories with which he entertains the devoted Sybil. But Sybil has a terrifying memory as well as a knack for mischief and when the old man gets into trouble the shooting of a crook in self-defense she unwttingly turns the tall stories against him, almost to his undoing." Hollywood Reporter

Trade Paper Reviews

"Over-familiar hokum is the main ingredient of this comedy drama of the New England coast. Suitable for the neighborhood trade, it will save itself there by good individual performances and a recurrent thread of homespun humor. The names of Guy Kibbee, May Robson and possibly little Sybil Jason will help with the family clientele, but nothing startling can be expected."

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 9 '36

"Comedy and drama more artful than homespun is this film's principal motivation. Despite its unpretentious production and never-better-than-average quality, it has some natural humor that is gayly exciting in spots, endowing the picture with considerable amusement value. The romantic angle which involves Jane Bryan and Fred Lawrence, both newcomers, is handled in such a manner as to appear generally irrelevant to the main theme and as a result is hardly noticeable."

+ — Motion Pic Digest p3 O 31 '36

"Warners has churned out another class B grinder. Bolstered by some expert acting and aided by isolated spots of good dialog, the picture never reaches further than the class trade at which it is pointed. Containing all the tricks known to the trade, including the chase, the picture, in its present state, is a conglomerate jumble and takes at least three reels to get into the meat of its theme. As a program double biller. 'The Captain's Kid' will fill, but certainly will not draw any coin in the till unless teamed with a picture that can add to the big screen."

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 9 '36

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST
“A brilliant color showing of drilling and dancing, Excellent, Family & color matinee.”
+ Sel Motion Pict JI 15 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Another production of which Warners have reason to be proud. . . Here we have color where it belongs, and just about enough of it for one entertainment. The house is a picture house. ‘Changing of the Guard’ is high class entertainment. . . The thrill of the swirl of bargains is constant, although it is in the excellent and the acting of high quality. . . It is a production that will dignify any program.”
+ Hollywood Spec p13 Je 29 '36

“The color is sumptuous, particularly in the banquet scenes. The officers are dressed in red mess jackets, the table is aglow with candlelight. Here’s something that couldn’t be as thrilling in black and white. . . Duke Green’s camerawork is sheer 100 per cent!”
+ Script p12 Je 29 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Sylvan Jason performs in the military formations and sings a specially arranged version of ‘Grenadiers’ just as well as her diminutive competitor [Shirley Temple].”
Variety p19 Ag 12 '36

CHARLIE CHAN AT THE RACE TRACK.
20th century-Fox 70min Ag 21 '36

Director: H. Bruce Humberstone

The film is based on the character Charlie Chan created by Earl Derr Biggers. “We find Chan in Honolulu. His friend, a racing stable owner in Australia, is the victim of foul playing. On his way to meet Chan, he is murdered. There are several plausible suspects, but Chan, as usual, finds the one the audience least suspects.” (Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A and Y: good of kind; C; probably good.”
Christian Century pl175 S 2 '36

“Excellent entertainment for the entire family.”
Am Legion Auxiliary

“It is alternately spotted with intense dramatic action and monotonous sage sayings of Charlie Chan. Adults.” Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

“These Charlie Chan mystery films are among the best of their kind, full of swift movement, humor, suspense, and thrills. Family.” Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs

“Absence of gruesome details makes this film good entertainment, but it is not exclusive—only young children.” Nat Soc of New England Women

“Charlie’s deductions bring results, with a big surprise which completes a detective job which will prove good entertainment for those with a penchant for that type of picture. Adults & young people.” 8 Calif Council of Fed Church Women
+ Fox W Coast Bul Jl 25 '36

“One of the best of this series, fast moving and consistent. . . Well produced and directed. Family.”
Gen Fed of Women’s Clubs (W Coast) Jl 15 '36

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; + Exceptionally Poor

“Family.”
Jt Estimates JI 15 '36

“The star is charming and delightful as ever and his quaint epigrams continue to amuse while his clever sleuthing maintains suspense and interest throughout.”
Nat Council of Jewish Women JI 15 '36

“General patronage.”
Nat Legion of Decency Jl 30 '36

“Family.”
Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

“A good deal of novelty in this Charlie Chan exploit with a mystery that is likely to keep people guessing. Family.”
+ Whky Guide Ag 7 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

Christian Science Monitor pl13 Ag 29 '36

“Did you ever stop to think that the screen has but two character institutions—Charlie Chaplin’s tramp and Warner Oland’s Chinese detective? Both, apparently, could go on forever. I do recall a ‘Chan’ story, that was notable as an example of screen writing, but I cannot recall a ‘Chen’ picture which did not enter entertainment. The question is, however, that the picture is good entertainment chiefly because of Oland’s always excellent performance.”
+ Hollywood Spec p7 Jl 18 '36

“There are a multitude of clues, and the surprise climax is based on reasoning that plays fairly to the audience, although only the sharpest of fans will be able to foretell the ending. Warner Oland is given able support by Kye Luke, who plays his enthusiastic but blustering son.” (2½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p37 Ag 29 '36

“Charlie Chan at the Race Track’ unfortunately, is not one of the better Chan thrillers. Its methods are far-fetched, its conclusions fairly obvious. Mr. Chan can’t do better than this; but his audience can. It should have been dashed off in a few days between more cherished productions. . . [His] is, as indeed it always is, a polished performance. But not even a Warner Oland, not even a Charlie Chan can carry an entire picture by himself.”
Eileen Chang
+ N Y Sun p17 Ag 17 '36

“[It is a] wholesome film document. . . We say ‘wholesome’ because the film follows Hollywood’s latest adaptation from Greek tragedy, dictated that we should know Mr. Oland’s Office, of having its murders done onstage somewhere. You may have noticed that the cloutching hand has become a cinematic archaism, that no longer do daggers descend from crannies in haunted walls and that the death rattle has unaccountably been replaced in pictures by the radio news flash and the newspaper headline.”
J. T. M
N Y Times p6 Ag 15 '36

“Although [it] is by no means one of the friendly Chinese detective’s greatest exploits, it is, in a quiet, definitely minor way, passable entertainment. I doubt that, if I fear, is pretty nearly the best—indeed, better than the best—that I can say for it. If you are a Chan admirer—an able radio and TV show—shouldn’t be considered a minor pleasure in watching this great cinema gemshoe.”
William Boehnel
+ N Y World-Telegram pl5a Ag 17 '36

“Devotees of this sleuth’s past screen adventures will find the current exhibit a soupcou superior to most of the series, due to H. Bruce Humberstone’s efficient handling of plot and race track locale.” Herb Sterne
+ Script pl1 Ag 22 '36

“Charlie Chan at the Race Track’ is the twelfth and one of the best assignments which that familiar family man and sleuth, Charlie Chan (Warner Oland) has received.”
+ Time p14 Ag 17 '36

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; + Exceptionally Poor
CHARLIE CHAN AT THE RACE TRACK—Continued

Trade Paper Reviews

"Charlie Chan scores again. With an abundance of incident that has the flavor of making up a tip-top mystery story, plus the polished performances of Warner Oland, Keye Luke, and G." 이용, this picture qualifies as Chan's best effort in his current series. Family.

Box Office p31 Jl 18 '36

"The latest of the 'Charlie Chans' is one of the best in the entire series. It makes grand entertainment with its mystery, comedy and clever talk. With the race track as the scene of action, the layout is an interesting one. The identity of the killer and his motives are revealed at the very end and with a well developed build up, the piece holds one every foot of the way. Warner Oland gives his usual splendid characterization, but the real joy of the picture is Keye Luke as his impetuous son."

Film Daily p11 Jl 14 '36

"A grand Charlie Chan, with Warner Oland at his very best, this tops the series to date with a finished product that will make a lot of extra coin at the box office. Chan is consistently excellent, but here, in a story that fairly bristles with breathless excitement, he emerges a little more polished, more believable and more entertaining. It is certain to click not only in the recognized Chan spots but in many a class A house where an excellent entertaining second feature is needed."

Hollywood Reporter p4 Jl 10 '36

"Skulduggery at the races, with millions to win or lose keeps the resourceful Charlie Chan busy in this third of a quintet, coming on the heels which will be rated high by the Chan addicts."

Motion Pict Daily p4 Jl 9 '36

"The most recent addition to the Chan sleuth pictures is the happiest of the last several. Warner Oland, at his best, has a fairly credible story, slick direction, even support and fast tempo. It will please the Chan fans and should satisfy others who go for crime-detective thrillers."

Variety p58 Ag 19 '36

"Top notch thriller of the race track... 'Charlie Chan at the Race Track' is earmarked for substantial grosses in all spots... Warner Oland offers usual excellent characterization as the Chinese detective. Keye Luke amuses with his antics and finesses in handling the clever dialog."

Variety (Hollywood) p8 Jl 8 '36

CHINA CLIPPER. Warner-First national 85min Ag 22 '36

Director: Raymond Enright

"A dramatization of the gradual development of the Sea Plane culminating in a colorful version of the Trans-Pacific flight of Pan-American's great flying boat." Nat Legion of Decency

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A and Y; fine of kind; C; exciting but good."

Christian Century p175 S 2 '36

"This picture which follows closely the development of the American Airline is unusually entertaining, educational, and has universal appeal because of its timely plot. Adults, family, 1-15. " excellent." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"This lacks the personal drama of 'Ceiling Zero' but is every bit as thrilling and will undoubtedly find general popularity... The picture is excellently directed, photography fascinating, and cast admirably selected. Family."

Calif Fed of Better Pro's Women's Clubs

"A stirring history of the development of aviation, stressing the courage and high purpose which activated the pioneers of the air."

Nat Soc of New England Women

"This is a production all will enjoy. Family."

S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

FOX W Coast Bul Ag 15 '36

Fox W Coast Bul Ag 15 '36

"This picture engrossing in its entertainment value, merits wide acclaim."

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) 1936

Family. Best of the month."

Jl Estimates Ag 1 '36

"Thrilling and interesting is this absorbing picture. The entire cast is noteworthy for its fine performances, but particularly fine are the portrayals of Pat O'Brien, Ross Alexander, and H. B. Walthall. Family & junior matinees."

Nat Council of Jewish Women Ag 5 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency Ag 13 '36

"Family. Outstanding."

Sel Motion Pict S 1 '36

"A matter-of-fact story, in which lies its strength. Well photographed and handled with much accuracy. Suggested for schools and libraries. Family-Junior."

Wky Guide Ag 15 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

Reviewed by J. F. Cunningham Commonweal p467 S 11 '36

"Inspired by the commencement recently of regular Trans-Pacific flights between the United States and China, 'China Clipper' reaches the screen with far more success than I awaited, the greatest credit for this going to its director, Raymond Enright. So intelligently, so sincerely has he treated the material provided him, so human has he made all characters, so real and engaging each situation, so deftly has he handled the elements of drama, romance and humor that the audience is completely satisfying and ranks with the most notable of recent months. It has much artistic quality throughout and is the possession of an air of authenticity." Alan Hersholt

Hollywood Spec p9 Ag 15 '36

"'China Clipper' is a rather hysteric, spasmodically exaggerated fabric with stock shots of flying and transportation, the picture swings along at a neat clip and climbs to a fairly engaging peak, though it is more quite as tingled as the tense actors would like to have you believe. (2½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p16 S 19 '36

"Up to now Hollywood's genuflections before the modern giants of transport have been fumbling and anemic... The Warner manufacturers, accustomed to fly-fishing screen stories out of present-day events and facts, do better with an obeisance to the China Clipper, than did their air-passes rivals. For all that the romance is not a precisely new plot and that the great flying boats are made to do things they have not yet been able to do. 'China Clipper' is a forthright, interesting, often pictorially lovely motion-picture on an exciting modern subject."

Lit Digest p24 Ag 22 '36

"Some good aerial shots and the beautiful Frisco-Honolulu plane. The flesh and blood principal props for the plane's magnificent performance."

New Theatre p23 S '36

"I am afraid that I must be captious enough to suggest that the later in the film photoplay is a greater tribute to the press agents of the Pan-American Airlines than it is to the men who produced it. There is a line somewhere

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; -- Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
"China Clipper" is an aviation picture without the usual thrills. It fictionizes recent history and places too much stress on the technical phase of flying, with the result that its values as entertainment, as documentary, or as a saga exceed its entertainment merits. Pat O'Brien is the only cast name with draft, and whether O'Brien or his studio can come off for complete box office purposes is doubtful.

LA CIEGA DI SORRENTO. See Blind girl of Sorrento

COUNTERFEIT. Columbia 72min Je 12 '36
Players: Chester Morris, Margot Grahame. Marian Marsh, Lloyd Nolan
Director: Erle C. Kenton

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Trade Paper Reviews

"A surgia saga of commercial aviation's adventure will do much to hold interest of young audience, which the picture will do quite well along to important money and enthusiastic fan reaction. Family." +

Box Office p31 Ag 22 '36

"[It is a] strong box-office attraction combining action, drama, and dramatic entertainment with big exploitation possibilities." +

Film Daily p9 Ag 12 '36

"Not only on its title, but for sheer, smash entertainment, 'China Clipper' will draw them in to the box office and will satisfy all types of audiences in any spot. Here is a picture that, no matter how critical or technically-minded one may be, still has that box-office label stamped across it from start to finish: It is...packed solidly with audience appeal. Its showmanship possibilities are unlimited. ..." Zop this out with a well-written and carefully orchestrated score from Forbush and you have 'China Clipper'-one of the best general audience pictures that Warners has turned out." +

Hollywood Reporter p8 JI 31 '36

"Splendid team work by director, cast and producer turns this aviation adventure time after time into a spectacle that should hold any audience. ... Frank Wead's story, while admittedly fiction, may eventually be accepted as the true story of the Clipper, so powerfully is it written." +

Motion Pict Daily p4 Ag 6 '36

"Well entitled, topical because of the always-present interest in the China Clipper Pacific flights, with star values as well, 'China Clipper' should appeal to all audiences... Estimate: good program." +

Phila Exhibitor p83 Ag 15 '36

"'China Clipper' is an aviation picture without the usual thrills. It fictionizes recent history and places too much stress on the technical phase of flying, with the result that its values as entertainment, as documentary, or as a saga exceed its entertainment merits. Pat O'Brien is the only cast name with draft, and whether O'Brien or his studio can come off for complete box office purposes is doubtful." +

Variety p16 Ag 19 '36

"With due respect for names in the billing, the plane, the China Clipper, is the star of this picture, and the offering is so shrewdly played as to achieve genuine thrills and emotional thrills that the plane on the China Clipper itself, once its passenger service gets started."

Variety (Hollywood) p4 Ag 5 '36

"Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; -- Mediocre; - Poor; --- Exceptionally Poor"
COUNTERFEIT—Continued
"Photographed with the evident cooperation of government departments, the production carries a realistic atmosphere that is lacking in hokum, and the entertainment and pleasantly educational. Adults & young people."
+ — Sel Motion Pict Jl 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"Strong adult entertainment, this one seeks a somewhat belated appeal through exposing G-men methods of tracking down queer-money makers. Although 'Counterfeit,' by stressing the basic plot, might have been made a super, it nevertheless will lend strong support to any double bill." — Paul Jacobs
+ — Hollywood Spec p18 Jl 4 '36

N Y Times p11 Jl 20 '36
"If 'Counterfeit' were the first—or even among the first—of the cycle of screen dramas devoted to the government's war on the underworld, the entertainment would be a good deal more thrilling. But it is exciting for a casual mid-summer afternoon or evening in the cinema, in spite of the expertly produced sharply spoken, two-fisted racketeer melodramas that have preceded it." — William Boehnel
+ — N Y World-Telegram p20 Jl 20 '36

"G-Men not only have to be good detectives but convincing actors as well. If one is to judge by their portrayal in the biographies, Paul's initial guys are invariably expected to masquerade as this, that and the other F. P. [Federal Prov.]. As has turned out a bang-up programmer and Erle C. Ken- ton's direction deserves a liberal portion of the credit."
— Herb Stover
+ — Script p13 Jl 25 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"Spectacular exploits of T-men, special agents of the Treasury department, make 'Counterfeit' an action-packed screen exhibit but even with the producer resorting to all sorts of excuses for action and suspense, it totals up mildly. Due to lack of box office names and questionable pull of G-men or T-men pictures, accounts will have to exert exploitation pressure to put this one over for moderate results or better and in the editing, there hasn't been enough manipulating, with result 'Counterfeit' drags in spots."
— Variety p34 Jl 22 '36

CRAIG'S WIFE. Columbia 75min S 25 '36
Director: Dorothy Arzner
Based on the play of the same title by George Kelly. "Realistic, sometimes almost grim, it is a vivid story of the working of a selfish, self-centered woman's warped mind. Loving only her home, seeking always to bend others to her will, she causes unhappiness to relatives and neighbors and finally drives her husband from her side." (Motion Pict Daily)

Trade Paper Reviews
"Essentially a character study, lacking practically all the components of orthodox cinema, the box office fate of this will remain a mystery until the last booking has been checked, depending, as it must, strictly on artistic merit, of which it has plenty. Well-directed, well-acted, handsomely produced, it is deviation from the run-of-the-mill stuff that we believe will pay off, and on which any exhibitor should take a chance."
+ — Hollywood Reporter p3 S 11 '36

"A radical departure from the regular run film merchandise is made here. . . It is a woman's picture placed in the hands of exhibitors many things outside of the usual formula. It has personnel angles with which to bid for general adult support. If possible, the film should be seen before being presented to get ideas for stimulating business."
+ — Motion Pict Daily p2 S 12 '36

"To put so much of general audience appeal into what has been regarded as a play of limited class interest, and to do the job without distorting its essential character, is a token of sound showmanship in Columbia production ranks, a credit to the adapting writer and a fine feather in Dorothy Arzner's directorial cap. Picture may stand alone in the discriminating spots and will complement with distinction on any program."
+ — Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 11 '36

CRASH DONOVAN. Universal 60min Jl 12 '36
Director: William Nigh
"Holt, daredevil motorcycle trick rider in a carnival, meets two old friends, both highway patrolmen, and King's fiancée, Miss Gray. At a holdup in a tavern, Miss Gray is doublecrossed, and Holt spectacularly brings in the gang. He joins the patrol [and] falls in love with Miss Gray, but, realizing she loves King, gives up the thought of her." (Motion Pict Daily

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A: mediocre; Y: harmless thriller; C: exciting;"
Christian Century p1143 Ag 26 '36
"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency Jl 25 '36
"A. Y and C: timely, story of the training of our motorcycle police."
Parents' M p31 S '36
"[It] includes an excellent description of the organization and training of the police patrol and a timely lesson for motorists on careless driving. Family."
+ — Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

"Family."
Wky Guide Jl 11 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"Of special interest are episodes showing how the high-powered teams are trained."
Christian Science Monitor p13 Ag 1 '36
"Considering that the romantic subplot has been carried pleasantly by two newcomers, John King and Nan Gray, and that Eddie Acuff has a comic rôle, we should not be too severe. The picture is lively and undemanding; like peanut brittle and a pulp-paper magazine, it has its time and place." F. S. Nugent
+ — N Y Times pl0 Ag 10 '36

"No permanent harm to the welfare of the cinema has been accomplished by the production of 'Crash Donovan,' an innocuous little romantic melodrama. 'Crash Donovan' is one of those films that you may be wounded with safety, if you are contemplating a siesta hour on these dog days."
William Boehnel
— N Y World-Telegram pl5 Ag 11 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"Shooting, running sights, and motorcycle stunt riding feature this action-packed drama that will attract the youngsters, and make a good family attraction for the double-bill."
+ — Box Office p25 Ag 8 '36

"This is a short and fairly snappy affair, with action coming along at a rate that is sufficient to offset most of the story weaknesses. Excellent trouping by Jack Holt also is a big help, and the comedy efforts of Eddie Acuff are another asset."
— Film Daily pl0 Ag 11 '36

+ — Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
"Strictly program, 'Crash Donovan' is something of a glorification of the motorcycle cop. It abounds with half-breath chase sequences that bring squalls of delight from the [children], a section of the audience that will doubtless vote it the best picture since the last Q-man drama. Adults are likely to be less enthusiastic. It is double bill fare at best. May think a speciality number that should come out, as should the laughter-getting moment when the cops break into song with a 'Hi-Hi-Highway Patrol' march. This may be police custom, but it is ridiculous in a movie."

— Hollywood Reporter p4 J1 9 '36

"A punch-laden action picture of the duties, dangers and drama of life in the California motorcycle highway police patrol, this should find a ready and highly pleased audience among those who like their films with plenty of speed and action."

+ — Motion Pict Daily p16 J1 10 '36

"Estimate: program."

+ — Phila Exhibitor p85 Ag 1 '36

"Jack Holt is the main bulwark of 'Crash Donovan'. He provides the occasional smart moments. Otherwise it's routine ... for the double-headers."

+ — Variety p19 Ag 12 '36

"As a saga of the state police, any state police throughout the union, this picture will stack up grosses for the family and [juvenile trade] if properly played. It must have exploitation. Jack Holt, the topper does his best, he has to carry the film."

+ — Variety (Hollywood) p3 J1 9 '36

CRIME OF DR. FORBES. 20th century-Fox

 Players: Gloria Stuart, Robert Kent J. Edward Bromberg, Sara Haden

 Director: George Marshall

 See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: hardly; Y: doubtful; C: no."

Christian Century p107 J1 29 '36

"Adults." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Altogether an entertaining if sometimes harrowing picture for adult audiences." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"The cast is a very capable one, with J. Edward Bromberg, as the injured surgeon, perhaps a shade better than the others. Nature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Good. Adults." DAR

"The highest standards of human relations and behavior dominate the entire film. Aside from harrowing scenes which strengthen the motivation, the picture is satisfying, artistically and ethically. Adults." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Although mature in theme, this picture will have interest for young people. Adults & young people." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

+ Fox W Coast Bul Je 27 '36

"The controversial theme of 'mercy killing' is food for thought. Adults & young people."

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Je 14 '36

"Adults."

Jt Estimates Je 15 '36

"The leading parts are sincere and well sustained. However, the interspersion of a number of scenes of comedy with raucous laughter and tiresome jokes makes it a little difficult to readjust oneself to the moments of tragic importance. It is one of those pictures which have some excellent points but are not well-balanced productions."

+ — Motion Pict R J1 9 '36

"Full of false premises this effort to sensationalize the 'mercy killing' performances by doctors constitutes a mediocre picture. The tale is well constructed except for the ending which serves definitely as an anticlimax. Adults." Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 17 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency J1 9 '36

"A: forceful drama; Y: pretty strong melodrama; C: well acted. Parents' M p21 S '36

"This is a dramatic presentation of a timely subject, 'mercy killing,' with the final decision left to the audience. Adults."

+ — Motion Pict J1 11 '36

"Mature."

Wkly Guide J1 4 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"It is a 'thrill drama,' and although treated with sincere dignity, the 'mercy killing' subject of the theme makes it a highly controversial matter." Commonweal p507 J1 17 '36

"Here the spectator is treated to distinctly realistic, strong, at times uncommonly powerful dramatic action in every respect. This offering merits merit attention and praise. A beautifully mounted production, in places thrilling in its drama and humor, charmingly amusing, appealingly human and always absorbing, it rightfully achieves high favor with its recent preview audiences and that it will succeed as both entertainment and commercially wherever publicly screened, is my firm belief. Don't fail to view the picture." Allan Hersholt

+ Hollywood Spec p14 Je 20 '36

"This unusual theme—Should doctors kill hopelessly doomed patients?—has been treated with quiet intelligence. And as there is no playing up of the more sensational elements certain to appear in a story of this type, the film comes as a worthwhile offering for those who want occasional respite from the boy-meets-girl formula. (254 words) Beverly Hills Liberty p24 J1 25 '36

"'The Crime of Dr. Forbes' is an unusual picture, an unexpectedly intelligent picture. It has a certain amount of the half-baked, superficial stuff that the movies always get into when they start to play with test tubes and X-Ray negatives, but it is far from the sap picture that you might expect on this theme. On the whole, it is dignified, careful and articulate. It does not presume to answer the question of mercy killings, but it does a satisfactory job of speaking out of the responsibility." Don Herold

+ Life p25 S '36

"The first half of this film is unanticipatedly adult and ably played. ... [Later] however, the film bogs down in the platitude of a Hollywood murder trial and never comes up again. Edward J. good. Berg's author, and the investment of the title role is the first opportunity he has had to show his talent and Group Theatre training." Robert Stevens

New Theatre p22 Ag '36

"Director George Marshall and an extremely competent cast have produced in 'The Crime of Dr. Forbes' an engaging melange of emotion, suspense, amusing and absorbing by turns—a stride, of course, but a most entertaining one. The picture, despite the fact that it fails to sustain a serious mood, is nicely blended by tricks of script writing and direction, so that it becomes good entertainment even though it lacks impact." J. T. M.

+ — NY Times p11 J1 6 '36

+ — Exceptionally Good; + — Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor
CRIME OF DR. FORBES—Continued

"The Crime of Dr. Forbes' is ingenious front-page stuff, brightly and scathingly written, cunningly put together and acted to the hilt by a band of sure-fire players. Aside from its bitterness at the way tragedy is converted into comedy by the callousness of our nation, it is a good show with traces here and there of good drama. . . Although it falls in its chief attempts to take a definite stand on the matter of mercy killings, the film is vastly entertaining and permits the audience to have a vivid and exhilarating time." William Boehnle

+ N Y World-Telegram p15 Jl 7 '36

"This is the best picture the Western Avenue studio has turned out in some time. A great deal of thought and imagination have been used on this small budget picture and some of the 'touches' are worthy of more pretentious photoplays. . . Authors Frances Hyland and Saul Elinkin have constructed a canny screenplay that has surprise, suspense and pace." Herb Sterne

+ Script p14 Jl 11 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"The timely and highly controversial subject of 'mercy killings' gives this Sel Wurtzel production a marked appeal to more-than-average audience appeal. Adults." + Box Office p75 Je 27 '36

Reviewed by L. S. Nielsen

Canadian Moving Pict Digest p19 Jl 4 '36

"Estimate: fair, depends on selling." + Phila Exhibitor p72 Jl 1 '36

"The dramatic weight of 'Dr. Forbes,' coupled with cast performances and good comedy relief, entitle it to a fair chance despite lack of names among the players. Its appeal is distinctly adult." + Variety p75 Jl 8 '36

CROOKED LOVE. Nuovo mondo 76min Je 29 '36

Players: Nelly Corradi, Fosco Giacchetti. Raimondo Van Riel

Director: Adolqui Millar

Italian dialogue film with English sub-titles. Filmed in Rome. Also called Luci Sommmerse and Rendering Love. The adventure of a notorious gentleman jewel thief who makes the Riviera his headquarters. There he meets a former employee of a banker who decides to reform. He is afraid that if she knows his true identity, she will not marry him. After a battle with his former underworld pals, he wins her.

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Cropped Love" is the Italian version of a play about a reformed thief, 'Lord Spider,' and while its attempts to imitate the jaunty ways of Hollywood are valiant, they are scarcely successful. In fact, compared to some of our own 'Screen Souvenirs,' composed of early silent films, they would make a shabby showing. . . Cutting and editing may partly account for the ludicrous results at Teatro Cine-Roma. (The New York Tribune): Marguerite Taschner — N Y Herald Tribune p14 Je 23 '35

"The feature is a heavy-handed drama of the old school, with a plot not unlike those of the very motley ancient Pickford films. . . This is not so much as a story; nor does the production improve it. The pace is slow, the photography dull, and the acting a series of grimaces and poses." Eileen Creelman

N Y Sun p21 Je 31 '36

"The picture is well made technically, and the acting is generally good." H. T. S. + N Y Times p22 Je 22 '36

"Although it grieves me to say so, this is among the least interesting of Italian films that have recently been shown on Broadway. Some of the complaints that might honestly be made against it are that it is slow, shaming, feeble and boring." William Boehnle — N Y World-Telegram p24 Je 24 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"[It is a] generally well made and well acted drama-romance, laid in attractive Riviera backgrounds." + Film Daily p7 Je 23 '36

"This is to be considered definitely one of the less conspicuous of the importations of Italian product. . . In general, the film is of the type which probably will appeal to audiences understanding the Italian language . . . but to few others." + Motion Pict Daily p14 Je 26 '36

"With a story hung on the old Raffles formula, this import has its moments of effective drama. Neither the direction nor the acting is of an especially high order, but the film has a star, Nelly Corradi, who packs everything when it comes to face and figure. + Variety p23 Jl 1 '36

CROUCHING BEAST. Olympic 56min Ag 21 '36

Director: W. Victor Hanbury

Based on a novel Clubfoot by Valentine Williams. Dialogue film produced in England. "It's a yarn about British spics in 1915 Turkey, with an American girl getting into all kinds of jams with the beast, Ahmed Bey, because she bofriends an English spy." (N Y World-Telegram)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Adults." Nat Legion of Decency S 3 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

Christian Science Monitor p17 S 5 '36

"In terms of what Mr. Dudley Nichols calls escapat entertainment, 'The Crouching Beast' may be just what you are looking for. It does not pretend to make much sense. . . No one can say the picture lacks plot—that's the trouble with it, it has too much and also plenty of action. What it needs is a lot of things, but what it really has is a really superb performance by Mr. Kortner, whose poisonous creation invokes a spirit of evil, and produces a suspense every time he puts in an appearance." Margaret Trelawny — N Y Herald Tribune p6 Ag 22 '36

"The heroine is our own Wynne Gibson, who used to get into lots of similar scrapes for Paramount. Fritz Kortner, schooled in the cinema tradition of Turkish terrorism by playing such roles as Abdul the Danned, clubfeet through this one with ease." J. T. M. + N Y Times p6 Ag 22 '36

"[It is] a lot less murderous than its title. . . I was chagrined at Fritz Kortner's Ahmed Bey. In 'Abdul the Danned' he did a swell job, but he plays the Turkish beast like a Bronx salesman giving the heat to a customer." Douglas Gibert — N Y World-Telegram p13 Ag 24 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

An intensely dramatic spy story located in and around war-torn Constantinople, this will carry a fair measure of interest for thrill fans. Adults." + Box Office p23 S 12 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
“This drama of wartime spy activities . . . is a generally suspensive and engrossing performance of Fritz Kohner in the title role and by Wynne Gibson.”

Film Daily p4 Ag 22 '36

“This is a feeble and inconsequential tale of spies . . . The dramatic content, while attempting to reach a serious vein, borders on the unconscious; humor.”

Motion Pict Daily p12 Ag 24 '36

“Spy story that has the benefit of an American name, a nice performance by Fritz Kohner, this should prove fair entertainment. Although Fritz Kohner in Britain, it should hold interest, having been edited so that it moves more rapidly than similar importations.”

Phil Exhibitor p44 S 1 '36

“Between covers, [this mystery] was a particularly sinister one; but this filmization of one of Williams' mystery melodramas still leaves plenty to be desired. An English production, it holds practically nothing for the American market—even though if co-stars an American personality, Wynne Gibson, with Fritz Kohner, Austrian character actor. Picture is extremely weak on almost every front, its deficiencies notably lying in the script and direction. The spotting of personalities with heavy Piccadilly accents in the roles of German spies, a World War setting . . . makes the entire production appear ludicrous; hardly desirable fodder for even slightly intelligent audiences.”

Variety p21 S 2 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Rather a novel twist to this newest of all technicolor films, makes it interesting. A novelty that will interest many lovers of songs and dance is a spectacular Indian war dance performed by [Collins] in order to win over to his cause a band of natives. Laura Elston

Canadian M p32 JI '36

“'The Dancing Pirate' is a feast for the senses rather than the intellect . . . The libretto, painfully whimpered Charles Collins dominates the show, Hilas in a 19th Century setting to Fred Astaire Hollywood has yet discovered. And, charmingly scored by Alfred Newman, Collins' debut is an amusing and novel take for the eye and ear.” (3 stars) Beverly Hills

Liberty p49 Je 20 '36

“'Dancing Pirate,' the first all-technicolor dancing musical, is quite delightful, or perhaps it would be more correct to say highly enjoyable, un-finkly evenings at the movies. Some may say that it is nothing but a succession of pretty colored postcard shots, but even that is excusable in a musical, and the shots this time are scrumptuous, as colored postcards go . . . The fun is of a much better sort than you might expect of a production with a series of picture postcards.”

---

TRADE PAPER REVIEWS

“As the first all-technicolor dancing musical, 'Dancing Pirate' has exploitation possibilities, despite the fact it went haywire. Save for potentialities that Charles Collins suggests, Pioneer's 'Pirate' is too comic operetta to qualify as 1936 film fare . . . 'Dancing Pirate' is a weakie.”

Variety p29 Je 24 '36

DARK HOUR. Chesterfield 64min Ja 15 '36

Players: Ray Walker, Irene Ware. Hobart Bosworth, Berton Churchill

Director: Charles Lamont

Based on novel, The Last Trap, by Sinclair Gluck. A murder mystery in which a killer attempts to slay a man who is already dead. Two of the last one of the old school and one of the new, are pitted against each other to find the solution.

Trade Paper Reviews

“Take a murder mystery containing all the usual ingredients, such as an evil old man, a mysterious butler, a wise-cracking young detective and a much belated upon heroine, cast with a group of capable players and place in a satisfactory production—the result will be an average programmer well-suited to double-billing, family.”

Box Office p31 Ag 22 '36

“With a better story and handling than is found in the majority of murder mystery dramas coming out of the independent shops, this production ought to satisfy the grind clientele. It goes for the 'guess who did it' melodramas.”

Film Daily p7 Ag 1 '36

“Ponderous and talkative, this mystery drama is quite average. The featured players handle their roles well, but they work with a melodrome story.”

Motion Pict Daily p17 Ag 21 '36

“This [mystery] may have made good reading and made for a very good version; but it fails to approach even the jelling stage. Only for minor secondary dual spots. Aside from the lack of names, bad casting, faulty acting and indifferent direction wreak what possibilities the story ever had.
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

DARK HOUR—Continued
— Variety p17 Ag 5 '36

DESTINY UNKNOWN. See Passaportorosso

DEVIL DOLL. MGM. 70min. J1 17 '36
Players: Lionel Barrymore, Maureen O'Sullivan, Frank Lawton, Rafaela Ottiano, Juanita Quigley, Arthur Hohl
Director: Tod Browning
Based on the novel, Burn, Witch, Burn, by Abraham Merritt. "An escaped convict... encountering a mad scientist, learns of a process to reduce human beings to doll-like sizes. The scientist dies and the Sawyer decides to use the process in his campaign for justice. With one living doll to do his bidding, he disguises himself as an old lady and opens a doll shop in Paris. His first enemy is captured and transformed into a doll; the second is stabbed by the girl doll; the third tortured by mysterious happenings until a confession is obtained." (Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A: good of kind; Y: better not; C: no."
Christian Century p1047 JI 29 '36
"Adults." Am Legion Auxiliary
"Adults: excellent; family: good; 14-18: no; 8-14: no."
Calif Cong of Par & Teachers
"Good-mature." DAR
"Adults & young people," Nat Soc of New England Women

"As a mystery melodrama, it is unusual and tense, but only suitable to a mature audience."
S Calif Council of Fed Church Women
Fox W Coast Bul JI 18 '36
"A strongly dramatic story which is consistent and holds the attention throughout. Adults." + Jt Estimates JI 1 '36
"Melodrama at its best... The predominant mood is heavy and morbid, though there is some attempt at comedy relief. Excellent for adults." + Nat Council of Jewish Women JI 8 '36
"Objection: revenge theme and implied suicide. Objectionable in part."
Nat Legion of Decency JI 23 '36
"A and Y: intriguing novelty; C: hardly."
Parents' M p51 S '36
"Adults."
Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36
"Fantastic but unusual. Family." Wkly Guide JI 11 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"It is an ingenious and entertaining film. The plot has sufficient suspense as first one and then another of the enemies capitulates. Even better are the tricks of photography. It is pleasant to see the screen remembering again some of its skill with optical illusions and double exposure." E. F. Melvin + Boston Transcript p8 Ag 1 '36
"The Devil Doll is a first class mystery-drama, such as Lionel Barrymore is delighted to perform in... [It] has all the elements of exciting and thrilling screen entertainment." Laura Elston + Canadian M p38 Ag '36

"Well done of its kind, for those who like chillers however mechanical."
+ Christian Science Monitor p19 Ag 1 '36
"The mighty interesting results accruing from Tod Browning's latest directorial effort bring conclusive proof of the appropriateness of the title, 'Master of the Macabre,' which has variously been ascribed of his best work. Thoroughly dramatic mystery horror that is strikingly out of the ordinary." J. P. Cunningham + Commonweal p47 JI 31 '36
"The camera really is the hero of 'The Devil Doll,' and the demonstration of its powers makes the picture well worth seeing, though the story is unpleasant and will leave you with a bad taste in your mouth. It is all weirdly extraordinary, but the same devices should have been used in the manufacture of a comedy to which you could have taken children. No. No. New things are the order of your several lives. As we have it, however, do not take the children."
+ Hollywood Spec p6 JI 18 '36
"Lionel enjoys an actor's holiday in a role that lets him disguise as a woman, gives him many long speeches and a dazzling variety of scenes. The rest of the cast, headed by Arthur Hohl, takes the bizarre doing much more serious stuff than will any audience."
(2½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p32 Ag 15 '36
"'The Devil Doll' [is] warranted to terrorize the self-possessed. ... Lionel Barrymore plays the escaped convict. His transformation, achieved after weeks of Hollywood putting, into an aged, seemingly kind crone, is astonishing, not only as make-up but as a performance... The bizarre story places 'The Devil Doll' somewhere between an out-and-out horror picture and a novelty... No. No. Nothing is so haunted by it, but the effect during actual screening is powerful."
+ Lit Digest p19 JI 18 '36
"In 'The Devil Doll,' Mr. Browning is hardly at his best. Yet it is a dramatically intense story that is too much given to health and vitality, it is always pleasant to run across one of his slyly unwholesome melodramas if only for the sake of contrast. 'The Devil Doll' is second-rate Tod Browning, but it is pretty good fun anyway... 'The Devil Doll' is technically excelling. Unfortunately, though, in the business of creating the photographic horror mood... —Engaged in bidding for the ticket are quaint rather than horrible. 'The Devil Doll' isn't likely to scare any one but children, whom it might affect most seriously. It is, for those over twelve, a fairly entertaining novelty. It is rather fun, on the whole, and Mr. Barrymore, disguised as an old lady, is astonishingly believable."
Eileen Creelman + N Y Times p19 Ag 8 '36
"[It is] a photoplay which is grotesque, slightly horrible and consistently interesting. A freak film, and one which may overburden Junior's imagination, but an entertaining exhibition of photographic hocus-pocus for all that..."
S. Nugent + N Y Times p19 Ag 8 '36
"Although he has hit upon a chilling theme for his latest film, Tod Browning, ace of horror-film directors, has not produced quite such a chilling film. But the moments of terror are tense and thrilling and leave one pale around the Gills with excitement. But it also has its limping moment and I suspect you will find its movement slow at times and its language offensive to many." William Boehnel + N Y World-Telegram p14a Ag 8 '36

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
DEVL IS A SISSY. MGM 92min S 18 '36
Director: W. S. Van Dyke.
"Circumstances force the cultured Freddie Bartholomew into association with Jackie Cooper and Mickey Rooney, tough mugs in the city slums. Domestic affairs of the youths' parents are not conducive to the best welfare of the trio. They are led into petty crime through the desire of Mickey to buy a tombstone for his electified father. With a tolerant juvenile judge setting the boys on the right track, young Rooney would backslide. But following a brush with the law during which young Bartholomew endangers his life, the tragedy of his threatened death opens his eyes to the right way of living."

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

"The idea is good, but the finished product is probably of more interest to movie technique students and to me. This column is no parent-teacher's forum, but I must tell you that I would be pretty nervous about taking the kiddies to see it. It's concerned with one of the favorite phobias of childhood, and realistically produced and hysteric reactions. Still, maybe your kiddies would just laugh at it."
Russell Malone.

New Yorker p53 Ag S '36
"If you have a taste for screwy horror-drama this is fun. . . . Cameraman Leonard Smith has the unusual assignment of making the trick photography really makes this show." Herb Sterne

Film Daily p6 J1 7 '36
"Intriguing as a novelty, 'Devil Doll' is exceptionally well made with all concerned contributing to the excellence of the fantastic plot. It is difficult, however, to predict box-office for such an attraction. Responsibility for its success will rest entirely on how it is sold. All a reviewer can say is that 'Devil Doll' is well worth the selling. Its horror is kept completely objective, never transcending the bounds of entertainment. . . . Lionel Barrymore delivers a superb performance in an exciting role. His impersonation of an old lady is amazing and he wrings all sympathy possible from his character."" Hollywood Reporter p3J1 15 '36
"The responsibility for the success or failure of this film rests with exhibitors, since much depends on the way the advance exploitation is handled. Rarely have exhibitors an opportunity for ingenious campaigns and stunts, for it is strikingly out of the ordinary."

Motion Pict Daily p8 J1 6 '36
"As an illustration of the photographic art, 'Devil Doll' is interesting, although not very practical. The technical aspects may provide diversion to the limited number of people who are interested in such things, but in general appeal the exploitation is lacking. Through its basic 'idea,' the picture is in the home market and has an adult-scaring need except scenario. The fault lies with the failure of the scenarists to fortify the 'idea' with a helpful and credible plot."

Variety p15 Ag 12 '36
"'The Devil Doll' is a weird sort of screen concoction which bids for entertainment on concepts. It is directed by a master of realistic melodrama. . . . Picture will hold interest and create comment wherever imaginative treatment is possible, and for its experimental nature and handling as entertainment off the beaten track, Edward J. Mannix deserves ample credit for the accomplishment."

Variety (Hollywood) p8 J1 3 '36
"Outstanding in dramatic and commercial worth is 'The Devil Is a Sissy,' rich in humanity and fantasy. It has a youth appeal and will have wide audience appeal for men, women, and children. . . . W. S. Van Dyke, directing with sensitive hands, blends the two to make a perfect choice for the material—guides his charges with deep and sympathetic comprehension of the treatment and youthful heart and pride."

Variety (Hollywood) p8 S 5 '36

Audience Suitability Ratings
"Although featuring young boys, it is a story containing much interest for youngsters. General patronage." + + Nat Legion of Decency S 17 '36
"Remarkable for the naturalness and humanism of its treatment. . . . it is very much a modern, city film Sawyer. The acting of the three boys is excellent. Family. Juvenile." + Wkly Guide S 12 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"A tailor-made vehicle for the screen's three foremost box-office attractions, this picture will reap a rich harvest in laughs, tears and revenue. Family." + Box Office p23 S 12 '36
"With neither fuss nor feathers, ballyhoo nor bombast. MGM-G.M has launched a winner in this picture. And any preconceived notion that it is only a kiddie attraction. . . . Acted by youngsters it is, but with a feeling for the human emotions of comedy and drama that vies with the work of the most seasoned player. From every production angle, casting, writing, acting and directing, it is practically flawless. It is fresh in story and treatment, rich in paths of humor, and will appeal to every class of audience and every age." + Film Daily p11 S 9 '36
"From its arresting title to its laughable final scene, this comedy-attraction is grand entertainment for all ages and all classes. Its humor, its humanity and its superb enactment, with Freddie Bartholomew headlining the admirable cast, will make it a box-office bellringer from top to bottom . . . It was a swell piece of showmanship to have brought these three gifted and popular boys together in one picture. Its box office results will be important."

Hollywood Reporter p8 S 8 '36
"Drama with a heart sock, possessed of powerful human interest and told with forceful directness, this picture held a preview audience's rapturous grip. Although the three juveniles are featured, the picture is absolutely true to human life. While it is much to the interest of that audience, segments of the theme should stir adults deeply. . . . It is an intelligent study of a timely and vital subject."

Motion Pict Daily p4 S 8 '36
"Outstanding in dramatic and commercial worth is 'The Devil Is a Sissy,' rich in humanity and fantasy. It has a youth appeal and will have wide audience appeal for men, women, and children. . . . W. S. Van Dyke, directing with sensitive hands, blends the two to make a perfect choice for the material—guides his charges with deep and sympathetic comprehension of the treatment and youthful heart and pride."+ + + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; — Exceptionally Poor Poor
DIMMED LIGHTS. See Crooked love

DIZZY DAMES. Liberty 65min J1 16 '36
Players: Marjorie Rambeau, Florine McKinney. Lawrence Gray, Inez Courtney
Director: William Nich
Music and lyrics: George Wagner, Howard Jackson

Based on the short story, The Watch Dog, by P. G. Wodehouse. The film was produced in 1935 but has just been released in the metropolitan territory. A former actress, now running a theatrical boardinghouse, tries to keep her daughter who is away at school in ignorance of her career. When the daughter returns for a surprise visit she falls in love with one of the boarders. After complications, the mother allows the young lovers to marry.

Trade Paper Reviews

"It is a semi-back-stage yarn with nothing out of a more or less routine order, best suited for the minor spots.

— Film Daily p7 J1 15 '36

"One glance at the cast promises a musical of some proportions, but it is all held down... Over half of the principals are from the music stage, and are given sparse flings at doing their stuff, but it ends there. Mild story is leisurely told by this group, with none of stellar pull big enough to lift it out of the duller category. Title never quite lives up to its name.

— Variety p17 J1 22 '36

DON'T TURN 'EM LOOSE. RKO 66min Ag 28 '36
Players: Lewis Stone, James Gleason, Bruce Cabot, Louise Latimer, Betty Grable
Director: Ben Lyon

Based on the short story Homecoming by Thomas Walsh. "[The] story... deals with [a] ruthless, murderous outlaw son who is liberated by father as member of parole board and is then shot to death by the father as the son is about to commit another killing."

Variety (Hollywood)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Adults." Am Legion Auxiliary

"The acting is uniformly good, the subject timely, the film vigorous, the style spirited, which all lends conviction to the story. Mature. Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs.

"Good. Mature." DAR

"A tense drama vividly acted, which holds the attention and presents a needed and downright right message without mincing matters. Adults & young people. Nat Soc of New England Women

"The picture rings true with a potent lesson. Adults & young people." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

— Fox W Coast Buil S 5 '36

"Timely and powerful indictment against the misuse of the parole system, in releasing hardened criminals. A thought-provoking and grippingly interesting picture. Adults & young people.

— Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ag 25 '36

"This is a convincing story... Thoroughly reliable cast turns in a most satisfactory performance with Lewis Stone, as the father, giving one of his finest portrayals of this type. Bruce Cabot maintaining a sadistic touch throughout.

— Nat Council of Jewish Women S 1 '36

"A terrible indictment of our parole board system. (Too tense for children.) Adults."

Nat Legion of Decency S 10 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor

NEWSPAPER AND MAGAZINE REVIEWS

"Don't Turn 'Em Loose' is one of the most expertly handled class B's it has been my good fortune to see. There are not a dozen irrelevant lines of dialogue; it is terse, fluent, and acts solely as a camera support... 'Don't Turn 'Em Loose' can be summed up in one sentence: one seldom deserved word—excellent.'

Paul Jacobs

— Hollywood Spec p11 Ag 29 '36

"It is to be doubted if, for sheer slam-bang heart-trapping, the Hollywood cinema has filmed a more thumping scene than that in which the parole official, newly elected to the Parole Board, confronts his notorious, murderous son... It is straining things a little to believe the ending; in which the father, seeing his boy about to kill a detective, shoots the son down. Scenarists Harry Segall and Ferdinand Trottaint hit the dangerous mean to this conclusion about two paces in advance of credibility.

— lit Digest p23 S 5 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"As stark and tragic a drama as has ever been filmed in Hollywood. The story builds without wavering to a climax that is terrific. It blasts with stunning force at our most critically considered system of paroles, and leaves no doubt as to the punch that can be attained with proper directing and acting.

— Box Office p25 Ag 29 '36

"It's strong stuff and very, very fine."

L. S. Niemeyer

— Canadian Moving Pic Digest p19 S '36

"Abuse of the prison parole system here furnishes the subject for a second vigorous melodrama. The first was Universal's 'Parole,' reviewed a few weeks ago. The two pictures are, however, with plot different in point, the one will stand on its own feet as beefsteak entertainment apart from its preachment and is strong enough to top almost any double bill to box office advantage... The production under Robert Sisk is satisfyingly excellent from first to last."

Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 20 '36

"The most sordid aspect of graft and corruption in its relation to parole boards is heavylv emphasized in this unpleasant melodrama which is an impassioned preachment against easy parole... Emphasize the problem of easy parole for criminals in society."

— Motion Pic Daily p17 Ag 21 '36

"Another story about parole for criminals, this has the benefit of an action title as well as a fast moving story, though short on names... Estimate: program."

— Phila Exhibitor p41 S 1 '36

"Don't Turn 'Em Loose' presents vigorous, provocative treatment of the dangerous gambles involved in current parole practices as news headlines and police records relate them... Bitter and sombre much of the way, it yet is close enough to big social problems of the day to have positive entertainment value and should prove good program complement in most spots, especially where the customers can stand thoughtful, thematic fare.

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 20 '36

DOOMED CARGO. See Seven sinners

DOWN THE STRETCH. Warner-First national 67min S 7 '36
Players: Patricia Ellis, Mickey Rooney
Director: William Clemens

Mickey Rooney, the son of a once-famous jockey, escapes from St. Vincent's, turns to racing, but is placed under the custody of the owners of a horse stable. Engaged as a jockey, he.
rides in the climax race in London, holding back his mount to let the owners of the stable, now poverty stricken, win the race.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Family" Am Legion Auxiliary

"It is regrettable that a question of race track ethics makes this dubious entertainment. Adults: fair; family: doubtful; 14-18 and 8-14: no." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Questionable ethics. Good-mature." DAR

"A question of racing ethics is involved which lowers Mr. Delaney's clean sport will regard as inadequately handled. Family." Nat Soc of New England Women

"There is a good story which will entertain all who admire a good sport and fine horses. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul J18 '36

"Adults & young people." Jt Estimates J1 '36

"The ending leaves the audience sympathetic but a little doubtful of the ethics involved, a problem which might well offer opportunity for discussion among students evaluating the social value of horse racing. Adolescents, 12-16: entertaining; children, 8-12: yes." Motion Pict R J1 '36

"Family." Nat Council of Jewish Women J1 S '36

"Exciting and convincing track atmosphere. General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency J18 '36

"A and Y: fast moving race-track comedy; C: entertaining." Parents' M p31 S '36

"Adults & young people." Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Mickey Rooney is one of the finest actors appearing on the screen. Despite some obvious drawbacks, 'Down the Stretch' is well worth seeing on account of Rooney's contributions. The chief weakness of the story is its ending. On the whole, Bryan Foy, producer, made a passable job of it." Hollywood Spec p4 J1 '36

"Formatted to please the family trade, to entice laughter and tears, 'Down the Stretch' achieves its aim due to the talents of young Mickey Rooney and colored Willie Best. Mickey is cast in a role that is years too mature for the mite's appearance; it's difficult to be convinced when he smokes and frequents gambling clubs. The kid's sincerity carries him through and his dramatic scenes have punch." Herb Sterne + Script p12 JI 25 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Superb comedy furnished by a colored boy, William Best, a race track plot with a decidedly different twist, and the names of Patricia Ellis and Mickey Rooney make this a picture that will please every audience. Family." Box Office p31 JI 18 '36

"'Down the Stretch' is a formula racing yarn that should please most audiences but its talking in draw names." + Hollywood Reporter p3 JI 8 '36

"Here is an interestingly developed race track comedy which unfolds at a swift pace with maximum humor and pathos. It should be adequate in all spots. The picture should show profitable results in both first run and neighborhood houses." + Motion Pict Daily p4 JI 9 '36

"Estimate: for neighborhoods, twin bills." Phila Exhibitor p34 Ag 1 '36

"This is fast-moving comedy-drama backgrounded by the race track that furnishes many thrilling and exciting moments balanced with sufficient pathos and comedy to make it all highly entertaining for every audience. Bryan Foy has given the production many lavish settings combined with employment of two large sets, is built to the theme of self-sacrifice and centers about the professional careers of two friends who love the same girl." Hollywood Reporter

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency J1 36 '36

"A: sea life melodrama; Y and C: exciting and educational." Parents' M p31 S '36

"Family." Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

"Suggested for schools and libraries for educational value. Family." Wkly Guide J1 18 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Principal values are in the unpretentious actualities in the lives of the heritage-steeped inhabitants in the Greek fishing colony of Tarpon Springs, and their thrilling deep-sea divings for sponges off the stormy Florida Keys. The movie was done. All too obvious are the stagings which were forced into this otherwise interesting pictorial record, injected under the producer's own brand of padded plot of perceptible artificialities is necessary and that theatrical dramatization is essential." J. P. Cunningham

+ — Commonweal p425 Ag 28 '36

"The under-sea shots in the new picture are well worth a visit, but as for the story, a veil could be drawn over certain of its sequences without great loss. Had the picture included less of these plotty doings and more of the diving interludes, it would have been a better production, both from an entertainment and educational point of view." Marguerite Tazwell

+ — N Y Herald Tribune p9 Ag 10 '36

"The most engaging quality of 'Down Under the Sea,' is its cheerful pretense to authentically. It may be better expected in its telling astonishing and its dénouement absurd, yet Republic Pictures preserves the demeanor of a man who not only expects to be believed but considered an authority... The picture plunges away on a wild-eyed pursuit of villainy, murder, mayhem, sharks and death-bed nobility." F. S. Nugent

+ — N Y Times p10 Ag 10 '36

"[It is] a meager and unassuming little melodrama. If you have better things to do you may enjoy watching [the cast] attempt to make something fresh and thrilling out of commonplace melodrama and farce that make up the film. But I fear that you will hardly be excited by the proceedings." William Boehnel

+ — N Y World-Telegram p12 Ag 10 '36

Exceptionally Good; Good; — Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
DRAEGERMAN COURAGE. Warner-First national 60min O 24 '36
Players: Jean Muir, Barton MacLane, Henry O'Neill, Robert Barrat. Addison Richards
Director: Louis King
"Tartan MacLane [is cast] as the hero, driving drageerman who is fired from his mine job, and prefers the guts and the glory of the sea; but is safe conditions in the shaft, but comes back to head the rescue squad when his former employer, East Coast Photographer, says the trend is to use pictures instead of personnel. Addison Richards: and the village doctor, Henry O'Neill, are caught in a second cave-in of a deserted mine. Variety (Hollywood)"
EARLY TO BED. Paramount 75min Je 5 '36
Players: Mary Boland, Charlie Ruggles, George Barbier, Gail Patrick
Director: Norman McLeod
See issue of June 25, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings
 "Family." Am Legion Auxiliary
 "Adults; good; 11-18; good. Family," Calif Cong of Par & Teachers
 "The picture is a series of good comedy sequences and the dialogue particularly clever and funny. Family," Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs
 "Mediocre-mature," DAR
 "Amusing situations, skillful direction and expert acting are combined to make wholly enjoyable entertainment. Family," E Coast Preview Committee
 "Family," S Calif Council of Fed Church Women
 + Fox W Coast Bul Je 20 '36
 "Enjoyable entertainment for the family." + Jt Estimates Je 15 '36
 "Suitability; family." Mo Film Bul p116 Jl '36
 "This is capital fun. ... Many lines provoke laughter, the entire cast joins wholeheartedly in the action, and there is never a dull moment. Adolescents, 12-16: amusing; children, 8-12: probably too mature." + Motion Pict R Jl '36
 "Family." Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 10 '36
 "A and Y: light comedy; C: if interesting." Parents' M p17 Ag '36
 "Enjoyable entertainment for the family." Sel Motion Pict Jl 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
 "Those two nice, tame people, Mary Boland and Charles Ruggles ... make a thoroughly entertaining full-length comedy out of the theme of sleepwalking. ... [They] are no doubt so successful at this because they do not try very hard. A little too much pressure, and this picture could have been one of the colossal chucks of the year." Don Herold + Life p30 S '36
 + New Theatre p23 S '36

"While [it] is not as distinctive or substantial a piece as 'Ruggles of Red Gap,' Miss Boland and Mr. Ruggles once more prove a diverting married couple. ... The picture, while not a masterpiece in any sense, is gay and amusing and deftly done. Norman McLeod keeps it going at a smart pace and blends his comedy scenes together skillfully and tellinglily." Marguerite Taxelh
 + N Y Herald Tribune p12 Jl 16 '36

"The picture is much more amusing when it forgets the plot and concentrates on the personalities of its comedians. As background for Mr. Ruggles' sleepwalking antics and Miss Boland's hysterical efforts to protect him from his subconscious self, the story serves very well. 'Early to Bed,' besides welcoming Miss Boland and Mr. Ruggles back as a co-starring team, is this excellent hot-weather entertainment." Eileen Creelman + N Y Sun p12 Jl 16 '36
Reviewed by B. R. C. N Y Times p26 Jl 16 '36

"'Early to Bed' is, frankly, purely porous-knit entertainment. It neither solves nor pretends to solve anything, and about its only reason for being is that it manages by fits and starts to provide considerably more than just a mere umumber of funny—sometimes more than just merely funny—lines and situations." William Boshn
 + New York Post-Telegram p15 Jl 16 '36
 "'Early to Bed' is perfect fare for the summer boarders. ... In fact, I should say they'll be lucky if they find 'Early to Bed' on the screen rather than most of the pictures that have been turning up these hot days. ... Personally, I was more amused by some of the minor touches than by the broad farce of the Ruggles night excursions." John Mosher + New Yorker p56 Jl 25 '36

The two comedians are as funny as they always have been. It's not belittling them to say that this picture is a triumph for director and writers. 'They're probably just as grateful as their public is to be handed such inspired material.' Molly Lewin + Script p14 Jl 11 '36
 "[It is] a rather frolicsome piece ... and [has] moments of sure-fire merriment." + Stage p120 Ag '36

Trade Paper Reviews
 "Mary Boland and Charlie Ruggles individually are excellent comics, and together they're twice as good. Give them a break in the way of story and dialogue and they'll produce as many laughs as any team that Hollywood boasts of. 'Early to Bed' gives them such a break and they make the most of it. Picture is a corking comedy and should do nicely on business." + Variety p17 Jl 22 '36

EARTHWORM TRACTORS. Warner-First national 61min Jl 15 '36
Players: Joe E. Brown, June Travis, Guy Kibbee, Dick Foran, Carol Hughes
Director: Raymond Enright
Based on the Saturday Evening Post series of short stories by William Haslett Upson. In this hilarious comedy, Joe E. Brown portrays a super-salesman with an inflated ego who tries to sell tractors to a confirmed tractor hater. After tremendous odds he succeeds not only as a salesman, but wins the customer's fair daughter as well.

Audience Suitability Ratings
 "A: feeble; Y and C: harmless fun." Christian Century p1071 Ag 8 '36
 "[I]t leaves you breathless with laughter. Fine support under smart, brisk direction. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary
 "Good fun for the family, Family & junior matinee." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers
 "Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs
 "Good. Inimitable Joe E. Brown makes you laugh and forget your troubles. Family." DAR
 "Good entertainment for the family." Nat Soc of New England Women
 + Fox W Coast Bul Je 27 '36
 "A rollicking comedy that will delight the entire family." + Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Jl 18 '36
 "For a house of fun, relaxation and unabashed laughter try 'Earthworm Tractors." Adolescents, 12-16: good; children, 8-12: good." + Motion Pict R Jl 36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; ++ Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
EARTHWORM TRACTORS—Continued

"Family & junior matinees. Joe E. Brown, this time as a Swampon Tractorist, brings with him a many a hearty laugh." + Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 17 '36

"General patronage." + Nat Legion of Decency Jl 2 '36

"A hilarious Joe E. Brown comedy, filled with absurd situations and breathless laughs for fans of this comic. Good entertainment for the family. Recommended." + Sel Motion Pict Jl 1 '36

"Family-juvenile." Wkly Guide Jl 11 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"'Earthworm Tractors' is Joe E. Brown's best picture to date and if you like the wide-mouthed star, you'll love his Alexander Botts, high-powered salesman and lover." Laura Elston + Canadian M p30 S '36

Reviewed by J. P. Cunningham Commonweal p307 Jl 17 '36

"It is a hilarious picture and no one who sees it is going to feel he did not get a run for his money." + Hollywood Spec p12 Je 20 '36

"Given admirable support by Gene Lockhart as a rival salesman, the pretty June Travis, and Carol Hughes. Brown's latest gag-fest shines through—his long suit is more subdued than usual. Although, as we have shouted, there is nothing new in 'Earthworm Tractors,' the picture remains a speedy bit of diversion." (2½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p24 Jl 25 '36

"'Earthworm Tractors' is a typical Joe E. Brown vehicle, showing him as the meek, kind-hearted country fellow he always is. He lends to the performance, one of his characteristic touch of the clown which laughs while his heart is breaking. The picture is entirely his, although Guy Kibbee, as a Rich Comedy prospect, is excellent." Marguerite Tansler N Y Herald Tribune p6 Jl 25 '36

"The title role of 'Earthworm Tractors,' is filled by a huge mechanical monster; with Joe E. Brown as a mere substitute. This sudden burst of comic havoc... 'Earthworm Tractors' is a lot more fun than most of the summer offerings." Eileen Crehan + N Y Sun pl3 Jl 27 '36

"Guy Kibbee, as a suffering prospect on whom Joe, the demon tractor salesman, inflicts the endless nightmare of his torrific demonstrations, holds up his end of the picture superbly, but it is Joe who is still the overloaded coole of comedy, the staggering, pottery-draped peon of pantomime... Joe himself, of course, is better, more important, larger and funnier, than any picture he has yet appeared in, including even 'Earth as the Great,'" R. C. + N Y Times pl6 Jl 25 '36

"With nothing to go upon except a boisterous personality and a hackneyed idea Joe E. Brown manages by neat work to survive the hour which 'Earthworm Tractors' requires to unear itself. For fully three-quarters of its unreeling 'Earthworm Tractors' strolls for time and sets up the framework for the climax, which is a mad tractor ride up hill and down dale. Just when 'Earthworm Tractors' seems to be breathing its last flail life away, the authors and the director stage a furious tractor ride across the picture side. The sudden burst of energy wakes up the film and the audience at the same time and provides about the only real excitement you will find in it... 'Earthworm Tractors' is at best a routine comedy." William Boehnel + N Y World-Telegram pl5a Jl 25 '36

"Joe E. Brown... does a good job of proving what a thing a horse power junko jumper caterpillar tractor really is... Brown's next to last picture for Warner, it ranks with his finest." + Time pl1 Jl 27 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Joe E. Brown in all his hilarious history has nothing up to this picture so uproariously mirthful. The adaptation and direction of the widely-read William Hazlett Upson stories are nothing short of perfect, affording the wide-mouthed comic an opportunity to ride to a new high in popularity and bring forth a picture that shrinks them and the audience laugh and gives the customers double their money's worth in laughs. Family." + Box Office p75 Jl 27 '36

"'It's a riot." L. S. Niemeyer + Canadian Moving Pict Digest p10 Jl 4 '36

"Again Joe E. Brown crashes through with a show that is a riot of fun. It is enough of the clowning Brown to satisfy his regular fans and, with a higher type of comedy than usual, a wider audience will find the picture. The comedy is hilarious and affords the audience a swell piece of box-office entertainment." + Film Daily p24 Je 16 '36

"Brown drops his buffoonery to play almost straight through a rollicking comedy of situation that will keep a good deal of audience laughing and yooing for a full seventy minutes. It is Brown's best box-office bet to date and that means money everywhere." + Hollywood Reporter p3 Je 11 '36

"With vigorous hilarity as his keynote, Joe E. Brown here brings Alexander Botts, the famous tractor salesman of William Hazlett Upson's magazine stories to life... The picture should add to Brown's following and click generally." + Motion Pict Daily p21 Je 12 '36

"Estimate: good." Phila Exhibitor p68 Jl 1 '36

"'Earthworm Tractors' is far from a 100% job. The writing of the screenplay evidently is too much on Brown's character. They laded the hokum on gobs, giving everything a hornpipe and spoke and repeating on their situations. Result is mild humor where there could have been strong comedy, in spots appearing to be just another instance where screen writers have substituted their own ideas for another's. For children, the picture is a setup. The hokum is such as to appeal more to the juveniles than to the adults, which is not saying, however, that the grown up will not be at least partially amused." + Variety p14 Jl 29 '36

"This is box office prescription not alone for the confirmed Joe E. Brown fans but for a much wider audience. 'Earthworm Tractors' is suited to the comic's character, 'Earthworm Tractors' is probably Brown's best from audience standpoint and should fare prosperously." + Variety (Hollywood) p8 Je 11 '36

EASY MONEY. Invincible 70min Je 10 '36

Director: Phil Rosen

"A story of racketeers who make their money out of insurance companies through fake ac-
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

EDUCATING FATHER. 20th-century-Fox. 55min J1 10 '36
Players: Jed Prouty, Shirley Deane, Dixiefilm, DunkeByington, Kenneth Howell
Director: James Tinling

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings
"Family," Am Legion Auxiliary
"Amusing dialogue and situation makes good film fare of the familiar. Adults; good: 14-18: good; 8-14: good. Family," Calif Cong of Far & Teachers

"Entertaining, but rather thinly convincing in spots, it will furnish an evening's amusement to the entire family." Calif red of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Suitable for family & junior matinees." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Audience Suitability Ratings
"Family, and "Junior matinees;" Sel Motion Pict J1 1 '36

"Here is light, wholesome comedy with plenty of suspense and good acting... [It] should please family audiences. Adolescents, 12-18: good, children, 8-12: entertaining." + Motion Pict R J1 '36

"A: light domestic comedy; Y and C: wholesome."
Parents' M p47 Ag '36

"Family & junior matinees."
Sel Motion Pict J1 1 '36

"Family,"
Wkly Guide Je 27 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"[It is a] mildly agreeable piece."
— + Christian Science Monitor p13 Ag 1 '36

"[It] presents entertainment, possibly a little dull because of the subject matter, but still humorous, matter-of-fact, and realistic... Mr. Prouty is fine as a somewhat dyspeptic father, and Spring Byington is too in the role of the devoted mother. In fact, the whole cast is fine." Marguerite Tazelaar
— N Y Herald Tribune p10 Je 22 '36

"The suburban Jonases who made their screen début a few months back in 'Every Saturday Night,' present the further adventures of what we sincerely hope is not the typical American family in 'Educating Father.'... A shade or two more melodramatic than the first episode, but still relying for its appeal upon its humorous reflection of small-town domesticity, the picture is tolerably amusing in an entirely inconsequential way... [The cast] strive, and rather successfully, to catch the spirit of a small-town tribe; but that, in itself, is not too important an enterprise." F. S. Nugent
— N Y Times p22 Je 20 '36

"[It is] a likeable but slightly old-fashioned farce about a typical American family... designed especially for that large public that likes and enjoys homely, humorous, folksy American films... The members of a large cast contribute to make 'Educating Father' amiable and pleasant, if unimportant entertainment." William Rofm
— N Y World-Telegram p8 Je 22 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"Agreeable entertainment for the family trade, but sadly out of place in the de luxus. Just a quiet little domestic story with no love interest other than one sequence, where a determined young flirt is brought in to create

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
EDUCATING FATHER—Continued
a situation and then conveniently forgotten. In the lesser houses this series will click nicely and probably build up into a money-maker.”
+ Variety p45 Je 24 ’36

EVERYMAN’S LAW. Supreme 62min
Players: Johnny Mack Brown, Beth Marion.
Frank Campeau
Director: Albert Ray
A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

“[It is] a dashing Western. General patronage.”
+ Nat Legion of Decency Jl 23 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

“This Johnny Mack Brown Western has the ingredients that should make it a very good number in the action houses and those playing outdoor fare. The pace set is a rapid one, there are the fights, shootings, and chases, and although the plot is of the regulation type, it is handled in such a manner as to maintain one’s interest throughout.”
+ Film Daily p11 Jl 21 ’36

Phila Exhibitor p38 Ag 1 ’36

“Rip-snorting Texas cowhand drama, this one will keep the family, particularly the children, on the edge of their cushions and will add much to Johnny Mack Brown’s prestige through his characterization of the law-abiding cowboy.
It’s better than average for the money spent, cleverly written and well acted, produced and directed.”
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 18 ’36

F

FATAL LADY. Wanger-Paramount 73min
My 15 ’36
Players: Mary Ellis, Walter Pidgeon, John
Halliday, Ruth Donnelly, Norman Foster.
Guy Bates Post. Allan Mowbray
Director: Edward Ludwig

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews
of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A and Y: very good of kind; C: not for them.”
Christian Century p951 Jl 1 ’36

“Mary Ellis’s part calls for only a limited portion of her acting ability, although it gives her fine singing opportunities. Suitability:
adults & adolescents.”
Mo Film Bul Je ’36

“A and Y: good mystery; C: mature.”
Parents’ M p47 Ag ’36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Passable melodrama for adults and the notable W. E. C. S.
+ Christian Science Monitor p13 Je 20
’36

“The sleuthing side of ‘Fatal Lady’ is capably assembled and, as it turns out, logically motivated. . . . The sources of the film’s appeal is not in its deadlier phases. For it is when the picture is showing such beguiling scenes as the opera company’s rehearsal on board train—scenes which have nothing to do with the kid— that ‘Fatal Lady’ becomes entrancing film fare. Unfortunately there aren’t great [many] of these liming interludes.”
(3 stars) Beverly Hills
Liberty p44 Je 27 ’36

“‘Fatal Lady’ is one of those ‘Music is my Life’ pictures, and it is terrible tripe, in spite of the presence therein of several capable ladies and gentleman of the silver screen, . . . The murders get to be pretty funny before the evening is over, and the place sounds like a shooting gallery at times. Every line is a speech, and you’d better not stop to think about some of the lines, or you’ll guggle out of turn. Not for children.” Don Herald
Life p30 S ’36

“(Miss Ellis) was highly effective on the stage in ‘Children of Darkness’ and ‘The Dybbuk,’ but I fear that she is not in her most comfortable mood in the cinema. This, however, is a tribute to her taste, if not to her Thespien skill, for ‘Fatal Lady’ is hardly the sort of vehicle to appeal to so expert a performer. . . . Some of the singing in ‘Fatal Lady’ is excellent, but it is to be feared that the quality of the plot doesn’t quite keep up with it. Such performances as Miss Mowbray, Norman Foster and the brilliantly suave John Halliday provide a breath of life to the proceedings, while that handsomely exaggerated comic, Edgar Kennedy, brings a note of heroic humor to a minor role.” Richard Watts, Jr.
+ + N Y Herald Tribune p6 Jl 11 ’36

“Some of the unhappiest features of a number of stock movie themes are combined in ‘Fatal Lady.’ As a prima donna’s vehicle . . . the film is perhaps at its lethal worst, . . . It is in the old-fashioned category of vampirism that we must place ‘Fatal Lady.’” R. R. C.
N Y Times p11 Jl 11 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

“‘Fatal Lady’ doesn’t figure much for the box office. A hedgepodge of entertainment, this film will deliver spotty business at best.”
+ + Variety p31 Jl 15 ’36

FIAT VOLUNTAS DEI. See Your troubles are mine

THE FIGHT. See Der kampf

FINAL HOUR. Columbia 50min Jl 7 ’36
Players: Ralph Bellamy, Marguerite
Churchill
Director: D. Ross Lederman

“Ralph Bellamy goes to pieces when his wife gets a divorce, and when a girl, sought by the police, hides in his apartment, he saves her. Later, a wandering drunkard, she sees him in a cafe in which she works, and helps him. The ex-own er, in love with her, aids in putting Bellamy back on his feet.” Motion Picture Daily

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A: hardly; Y: unsuitable; C: no.”
Christian Century p1173 S 2 ’36

“Adults.”
Nat Legion of Decency Ag 6 ’36

“A somewhat routine plot has an exceptionally good opening scene, some exciting running tricks cleverly used to give punch to the unexpected climax. Adults & young people.”
+ Sel Motion Pic Ag 1 ’36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
"It's a cross between 'The First Year' and 'Bad Girl,' with bits of many other domestic comedies worked in. Somehow Lamar Trotti, author, and Lewis Seiler, director, have managed to evoke tenderness from their threadbare material. Sentimental, of course, but honest, sincere and pretty." Molly Lewin

FOLLOW YOUR HEART. Republic 85min S 5 '36
Director: Aubrey Scotto
Music: Victor Schertzinger
Distributor: Talking Pictures

"The plot concerns the adventures of a mad theatrical family. . . . Of this group, Miss Talley seems to be the only person approaching normalcy of effort. When Alberni trouble is added to the mix of a priceless stage troupe Michael Bartlett, manager of the company, literally drafts the girl for a single performance given to raise funds. Eventually he wins her heart and persuades her to continue with the company as prima donna." Motion Pic Daily

Trade Paper Reviews
"Melodrama with plenty of action that makes average entertainment."
— + Box Office p29 Ag 1 '36

"For the minor spots, this yarn will get by on the strength of conscientious work by the cast under Ross Lederman's direction, although the story itself is pretty much along beaten lines."
— + Film Daily p7 Ag 1 '36

"Incredible but fairly tense entertainment that is undistinguished in any department, be it story, performance, direction or cast. For the money spent on this production it is to be supposed that Columbia did as well by it as it could have been expected. . . . Hollywood and Colurica can consider this just a fair day's work."
— + Hollywood Reporter p4 Ag 6 '36

"This film is active and entertaining fare. Rather routine in its conception and background, it contrives to be fast moving and holds the attention. In the lesser spots it shows a lack of satisfactory."
— + Motion Pic Daily p9 Ji 6 '36

"Estimate: neighborhood program."
Phila Exhibitor p26 Ji 15 '36

"Elemental stuff, slow, humorless and verbose. A formula picture, the double deckers. . . . Some of the players don't fit the roles and there is hardly a convincing character in the picture."
— Variety p16 Ag 5 '36

FIRST BABY. 20th century-Fox 75min My 22 '36
Director: Lewis Seiler

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings
"General patronage."
— Nat Legion of Decency S 3 '36

"Lovely music permeates the entire production, which is a wholly charming one. Adults & young people."
— Sel Motion Pict S 1 '36

"Well up among the good musical romances, with some of the best singing to be heard on the screen. . . . An elaborate production, and a very good one. Family."
— Wkly Guide Ag 22 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"The special significance attached hereto is in the making of the first elaborately mounted musical comedy by Hollywood's top movie producers. The results accruing from this piece of independent play pioneering are not all that could be expected if production had the benefits of the more expensive talent and less limited exchequer of Hollywood's richer fields, but they do conform to the standards of a musical romance pattern." J. P. Cunningham
— + Commonweal p23 Ag 25 '36

"Unfortunately, the music stops now and then to make way for the plot. Miss Talley sings well, talks with a Kansas twang, and acts not at all.
— + Wkly Wk 29 Ag 22 '36

"When Marion warbles, a subtle artifice is visible; her eyes become luminous, her gestures meaningful; there is a panoramic view of an artistry very much in command of a great gift. But handling mere dialogue seems to bore this young lady who obviously finds words of considerable less importance than melody, for without music the Talley personality becomes negligible; her face assumes a series of petulant or surprised contortions. All felicities are forgotten . . . or at least forgotten . . . when our prima donna scales the scales, and her rendition of 'Je Suis Titanie' from 'Mignon' is a treat for tired ears. . . . Larry Ceballos directed a ballet that is enchanting . . . Michael Bartlett is excellent. In magnificent voice, he impresses with a deft performance . . . As a singing actor Bartlett has few equals on the screen." Herb Stern
— + Script p11 Ag 29 '36

"Standard pattern of operatic cinema is the story of a pretty U. S. nobody with a glorious voice who rises from obscurity to a triumphant début at the Metropolitan. Since Soprano Marion Nevada Talley actually had such a

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST 31

NEWSPAPER AND MAGAZINE REVIEWS

"A second-rate program filler."
— Christian Science Monitor p13 Ag 29 '36

"A reasonably interesting murder mystery is showing at the Rialto with an unusual angle in the respect that a group of beggars and 'coats' make up the guilty party in a surprise ending. . . . The film is good run-of-the-mill entertainment with Ralph Bellamy and Margaret Sullavan teaming satisfyingly aided by a helpful supporting cast."
Marguerite Tazelaker
— + N Y Herald Tribune p6 Ag 1 '36

"For a brief spurt in the beginning when some straight shooting takes place, 'The Final Hour' moves along fairly competently. Then it begins to encounter difficulties and towards the end it practically surrenders, calls off the dogs and lets the customers walk out of the theater much the same as they came in. . . . The performance of the entire cast . . . is fair enough under the circumstances. But in spite of the noble efforts of the film the must be set down as another screen disappointment."
William Bochmel
— + N Y World-Telegram p15a Ag 1 '36

"For the minor spots, this yarn will get by on the strength of conscientious work by the cast under Ross Lederman's direction, although the story itself is pretty much along beaten lines."
FOLLOW YOUR HEART—Continued

career, it might be expected that her first picture would follow the same trite formula. "Follow Your Heart"'s director assecd, and said: 'It does not. Definitely wooden as an actress, [Miss Talley] displays a Midwestern twang which at first blush seems out of place in these arias from 'Mignon' and 'Les Huguenots, besides which the popular concoctions written for the film fail to seem unusually hollow.'

'Time' p31 8 14 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"The most lavish production ever recorded by an independent, this musical extravaganza, introduced in New York, already has been rung up by Republic with its production of 'Follow Your Heart.' It is the tops of class entertain- ment, and should bring to Republic plenty of shekels for its effort and satisfy exhibitors that big pictures can be made at a little money. They have the desire (and the money) to go after them. Marion Talley in her screen debut and Michael Bartlett play the leading roles, and their solos and duets will be a delight to lovers of music."

'Pro Film Daily' p10 Ag 11 '36

"Here is Republic's most lavish offering to date. The real showmanship employed in its production makes it a class attraction that will hold its own with all but the most elaborately配备 productions. Endowed with both mien and class appeal, the picture should click generally."

'Motion Pict Daily' p3 Ag 8 '36

"It is a feast for the eye and ear. ... Marion Talley and Michael Bartlett play the leading roles, and their solos and duets will be a delight to lovers of music."

'Box Office' p31 Ag 15 '36

"This is the most ambitious effort ever recorded by an independent. The musical 'Follow Your Heart' has been rung up by Republic with its production of 'Follow Your Heart.' It is the tops of class entertain- ment and should bring to Republic plenty of shekels for its effort and satisfy exhibitors that big pictures can be made at a little money. They have the desire (and the money) to go after them. Marion Talley in her screen debut and Michael Bartlett play the leading roles, and their solos and duets will be a delight to lovers of music."

'Motion Pict Daily' p3 Ag 8 '36

"Republic shot the works on its No. 1 show on the 1933-34 schedule, with the result, a creditable production that will depend on the Talley-Bartlett show for its success. Production is A-1, best from the company. Miss Talley is a new name in pictures, though getting an air of success, she has a lot to catch up as she was somewhat out of the public eye. Regardless, Republic can well be proud of its achievement. Estimate: creditable job; deserves strong sell- ing."

'Phila Exhibitor' p36 Ag 15 '36

"Most pretentious and ambitious of Nat Levine's Republic effords, 'Follow Your Heart' has superb tonal quality and pictorial beauty and sets a new high for the organization which compares well with the best of musical productions. It has high entertainment calibre and will unquestionably justify its showmanship labors at the box office, with especial in- dication of hit returns in the class houses. Miss Talley is in fine voice and utilizes to the fullest range provided by combination of classics and modern songs."

'Variety' p3 (Hollywood) p3 Ag 7 '36

FORGOTTEN FACES. Paramount 72min My 8 '36

Director: E. A. Dupont

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

"Audience Suitability Ratings

'E. A. Dupont's direction is a good job of work and Herbert Marshall, in turn gummy, convict and butcher, is easy to watch; Ger- trude Michael is not convincing as a thoroughly disreputable character. Robert Cummings and Jane Rhodes, as the delightful young couple, supply the few bright moments in this de- pressingly sordid picture. Suitability: adults."

'Mo Film Bui' p105 Je '36

"A: stark drama of hate between husband and wife; Y: sordid; C: no."

'Parent's M' p44 Jl '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[1] is so perfect a blend of visual effect-iveness in its direction and humor in its story that it is noteworthy, especially since it provides such captivating entertainment. ... Her- bert Marshall and Gertrude Michael seem like strange puppets of destiny, sealed in a vacuum from which they cannot escape. Their actions and behavior are fascinating because they are so patently fiction, and pulp-magazine fiction at that. Yet never does one's attention stray from them and the working out of their illu- sionary problems. It is not alone their per- formance that is poignant as they are, which makes for this illusion; it is Mr. Dupont's uncanny use of the screen to tell a story absorbingly. ... Mr. Marshall is excellent; Miss Michael as the worthless woman gives a marvelous performance. While there are faults in the piece, it has much prize-told tale." Marguerite Tazelaar

'N Y Herald Tribune' p6 Jl '36

"Mr. Marshall gives one of his usual in- gratiatingly portrayed performances and somehow spins a weak, story that is capable of making his wife's lover the way he does. ... [1] makes a passable though, alas! more than prize-told tale." E. R. C.

'N Y Times' p13 Jl '36

"Nothing startling, to be sure, is this drama of a murderer ... but good enough in every respect to keep you engrossed from beginning to end. ... There is nothing sensational about the film, but it has enough moments of suspense and excitement to hold above the average run of pictures."

'William Boehnel

'N Y World-Telegram' p11 Jl '36

"A minor melodrama, 'Forgotten Faces,' though not especially over-rated and somehow spin- ally weak characterizations. A thoughtful and sincere performer, nevertheless, he does not impress you as being sufficiently involved emotionally to shoot his wife's lover over the way he does. ... [1] makes a passable though, alas! more than prize-told tale." E. R. C.

'New Yorker' p55 Jl 11 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This is the second try for Herbert Marshall and Gertrude Michael as a picture team, and once again the results are far from satisfactory. ... 'Forgotten Faces' could easily have been first rate. But, for several reasons, it isn't. It won't fit, it doesn't work at the box office."

'Variety' p15 Jl 8 '36

FRANKIE AND JOHNNIE. Republic 57min My 1 '36

Players: Helen Morgan, Chester Morris. Lilian Tashman, Florence Reed

Director. Chester Erskine

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

"Audience Suitability Ratings

'A: hardly; Y: and C: no.'

'Christian Century' p1071 Ag 5 '36

"A: Extraordinarily Good; +: Good; —: Fair; +++: Mediocre; —: Poor; ——: Exceptionally Poor
“The acting and the singing are good, and the settings create an appropriate atmosphere of unreality. The photography is uninspired. Suitability: Family.”

Mo Film Bul p103 Je '36

“A: slow-moving tale; Y: objectionable; C: no.”

Parents’ M p44 Ji '36

Trade Paper Reviews

“The classic ballad of the dance-hall girl and the gambler who ‘done her wrong’ has been so thoroughly whitewashed since it was first filmed two years ago that it now emerges as only fair screen entertainment. Adults.”

+ — Box Office p15 Je 20 '36

FUGITIVE SHERIFF. Columbia 55min Je 1 '36

Players: Ken Maynard. Beth Marion. Walter Miller

Director: Spencer Gordon Bennet

A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

“Family.” E Coast Preview Committee

Fox W: Coast Bul Ji 18 '36

“General patronage.”

Nat Legion of Decency Je 18 '36

“A, Y and C: mediocre Western with good scenery.”

Parents’ M p47 Ag '36

“[It is] a stereotyped plot. . . Story, direction and acting are second-rate, but the skilful riding and beautiful scenery found in nearly all Westerns will be enjoyed. Family.”

+ — Sel Motion Pict Ji 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Estimate: standard Maynard.”

Phila Exhibitor p24 Je 15 '36

FURY. MGM 90min My 29 '36

Director: Fritz Lang

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A: strong; Y: too strong; C: no.”

Christian Century p912 Je 24 '36

“The excellence of the mob scenes and those of the courtroom action with their individual character types attests to the artistry of the director. Thought-provoking entertainment. Adults & young people.

+ — Jt Estimates Je 1 '36

“This fine picture is an indictment of lynching law but it is only propaganda by inference and English audiences will find it a very moving drama. Fritz Lang’s direction is ingenious and wholly admirable . . . A picture to see. Suitability: adults & adolescents.”

Mo Film Bul p100 Ji '36

“A: gripping indictment of lynch rule: Y: pretty realistic; C: too brutal.”

Parents’ M p47 Ag '36

“Adults & young people. Outstanding.”

+ — Mag Pict Ji 1 '36

“Recommended to the Committee on Exceptional Photoplays.”

+ + Wkly Guide Ji 18 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“(It) is presented so realistically as to terrify one. . . beautifully, and exceedingly strong drama admirably done.” Laura Elston

+ Canadian M p36 Ag '36

Reviewed by J. P. Cunningham

Commonwealth p246 Je 20 '36

“These gripping scenes, in which Director Fritz Lang shows how human beings cease to be individuals and become part of a mad mob, display an opening of power. That the film slips off to an ending that loses much of its earlier punch does not prevent this courageously unvarnished document from being a nonpareil blast against mob rule.” (3 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p44 Je 27 '36

“Fury” is a harrowing and stirring picture to see. . . . It is a good film for a Hollywood cutting-room. . . . The second half of the film almost renders invalid its object by shifting the emphasis of guilt from the lyncher to vengeful Spencer Tracy. . . Lynching has an economic and racial background that is necessary to a complete understanding of the problem and the film was faulty for the want of it. . . . Apart from these weaknesses, in all probability comprised by demands par the box-office experts and not of Lang’s making, “Fury” is the most forceful indictment of lynching justice ever projected on celluloid. (It is) a memorable example of film making at its apogee.” Robert Stebbins

+ + — New Theatre p11 Ji '36

“In making ‘Fury’ a eloquent, grim anti-lynch picture—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer dropped all the formulas. . . . The splendid acting and photography are of small part to the picture’s merit. Because of the integrity with which it presents the subject, ‘Fury’ is one of the most praiseworthy films ever produced. Unmistakably, it shows the effectiveness of the motion picture for educational propaganda.”

+ + — Pwkr p34 Ji 12 '36

“There is no time or space here to sit down and choose the magnificent subjective vignettes which will justly represent the quality of a great film and at the same time titillate the doubters to rush away and see it. . . I should say that no film of this year will touch it short of a miracle . . . . The Hollywood and the American censors must go irrevocable credit for turning out about their own country a movie that in any other part of the civilized world would have been instantly banned as subversive, disorderly, and a subterranean growth from the Communist party. Best film of the quarter.” Alistair Cooke

+ + — Sight & Sound p26 Summer ’36

“‘Fury’ is astonishing, the only film I know to which I’ve wanted to attach the epithet of great. . . . Any other film this year is likely to be dwarfed by Herr Lang’s extraordinary achievement. Even an honest, interesting and well-made picture, suffers by comparison, and seems half-way to the stage. . . . Lucky the man who has been able to see . . . the work of the greatest director.”

Graham Greene

+ + — Mag Pict Ji 3 '36

“This picture is being acclaimed one of the most courageous ever attempted by the American cinema industry. That’s a little far, but”

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

FURY—Continued

we think. . . It is disheartening to record that 'Fury' sold itself down the river of regret. It practically apologized for its intention. It took back everything it said, and ended on a note of fine fellowship and all's-right-with-the-world, which we know from the first four reels isn't so.’

Trade Paper Reviews

“The picture has been especially well cast, by Tracy, in particular, gives a memorable performance, one that will stand out in your memory for a long, long time. ‘Fury’ is a picture that will not be easily forgotten, both because of the fearlessness of its theme, and because of the excellent manner in which it is presented.”

+ Canadian Moving Pict Digest p6 JI 4 '36

G

GENERAL DIED AT DAWN. Paramount 95min S 4 '36

Players: Gary Cooper, Madeleine Carroll. Akim Tamiroff, Dudley Digges, Porter Hall. William Frayley. J. M. Kerrigan

Director: Lewis Milestone

Based on the novel of the same title by Charles G. Booth. "[It is] a grim, dynamic drama. . . Too strong fare for children. adults.”

Audience Suitability Ratings

“[A] good of kind; Y: probably too strong; C: no.”

Christian Century p1239 S 16 '36

"[It is] a grim, dynamic drama. . . Too strong fare for children. adults.”

Nat Legion of Decency S 10 '36

"A thrilling drama of rebellion in China. . . The photography is excellent and the acting of Akim Tamiroff and General Yang and Gary Cooper as the American is likewise excellent. Mature.”

+ Wily Guide S 5 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"This shrewdly wrought melodrama . . . sustains the spectator's interest and Mr. Odets is to be congratulated on eschewing anything of intrusive levity. Hence the action story for the most part rings true. . . although it is always a relief to witness Mr. Cooper and Miss Carroll together, and there is nothing but praise for their performances, the role which carries most weight is that of General Yang, superbly played by Akim Tamiroff.”

Mordaunt Hall

+ Boston Transcript p3 S 5 '36

"The General Died at Dawn' is an exciting melodrama, with Lewis Milestone sometimes overplays the melodramatic note.”

Christian Science Monitor p17 S 5 '36

"Clifford Odets is a brilliant playwright and he turned out a screen play of high literary merit. Lewis Milestone put it on the screen with superb artistry. Paramount provided a splendid cast, and a most impressive production. Unfortunately, however, the picture succeeds only in being illustrated literature and not screen entertainment. Some of the picture screen values are constantly sacrificed to theatre values, as could be expected from a script prepared by a man with no screen experience and trained only to express himself in the language of the stage. Gary Cooper's name has box-office strength, but I am afraid it is not strong enough to counteract the effect of adverse word-of-mouth criticism the slow pace of the production will promote.”

+ + Hollywood Spec p11 S 12 '36

"Vividly staged, tensely acted and punctuated by freshly arresting dialogue, 'The General Died at Dawn' is an intriguing if somewhat mannered melodrama, not without the benefit of talented collaborators. Doing his first job for the screen, Clifford Odets has adapted it imaginatively, writing some of the most provocative and provocative speech that gives depth and power to the character to do and situation. In the production proves confused and even pretentious at times, it is largely because so much stylized technique and overwhelming dramatic effect frustrate the intentions of the script. Mr. Odets, the most talented of our younger playwrights, has had remarkable success with his first feature. There is so much excellence in 'The General Died at Dawn' that its faltering moments are more disturbing than they would have been in a run-of-the-mill production. Brilliantly acted, it is a play that will win your attention if you do not expect great things from the entertainment.”

Howard Barnes

+ - N Y Herald Tribune p12 S 3 '36

" 'The General Died at Dawn,' an action thriller of the 'Shanghai Express' school goes slightly arty at times, which is a strange thing for a thriller to do. This picture is filled with excitement too much of the time, as punches telegraphed ahead seldom register with the expected force. Partly because of its cast and director, but quite as much because of its provocative title, 'The General Died at Dawn' had been anticipated as one of the season's important productions. It is instead, although a film picture, one of the season's first disappointments. Actor and director have each proved they can do better than this, although most of the film's faults may be laid to stilted dialogue and a deadly slowness of pace." Eileen Creelman

+ - N Y Sun p16 S 3 '36

"An out-and-out adventure tale, with far less 'social consciousness' than Mr. Odets' admirers will believe, it is active, preposterous, hair-raising and entertaining in equal and generous measure. Mr. Odets' script is vigorous and colorful, even if it is not dedicated entirely to the class struggle, and Mr. Milestone's direction is as dynamic and thorough a monument of his craft. The players are faultless: Madeleine Carroll and Akim Tamiroff."

+ - N Y Times p17 S 3 '36

"So much undoubtedly has been expected of Clifford Odets' first screen play, 'The General Died at Dawn' ... that this report is likely to sound disheartening. For although Mr. Odets has much to say about oppression and the glories of the times to come, he has not said it in this reporter's opinion, with the full substance and vitality that have characterized his writings for the theater. . . But whatever else Mr. Odets may have said or left unsaid, he and his director, Lewis Milestone, have brought a freedom, a flow and an imaginative treatment to their work seldom achieved in the cinema. Although dullness is not lacking in the film— it should have been expected to some extent the production is, by the sheer excess of its invention and treatment, more effective than it deserved."

N Y World-Telegram p25 S 3 '36

"The beautiful lady, the soldier of fortune, and a surrounding assembly of sinister little yellow faces, all have precious few lines in the drama; and they are most satisfactorily exploited in 'The General Died at Dawn.' The film is a thoroughly lovely one, and distinguished, too: lifted above the average of its kind by the general handling of Lewis Milestone. Clifford Odets' script contains so much action, that the behavior and performance not only of Gary Cooper and Madeleine Carroll but of the subsidiary Orientals and Occidentals involved. . .

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; - Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
Dressed up to kill in Milestone's richest fur-below, all this adventure and excitement should provide almost anyone with a snug hour and a half. ~ John M. New York p94 S 12 '36

News-Wk p42 S 12 '36

"Leftist admirers of Playwright Clifford Odets may find it a little hard to get excited over the issues he raises in his first screenplay. If they were inclined to inquire what last week's 'Odets, where is thy sting?', sophisticated cinemaddicts were less surprised at the spectacles, which are especially stimulating, but different story. The situations were shocked by Playwright Odets to modify his creed, thus that attention which Playwright Odets has obviously acquired Hollywood's technique. Directed in somewhat over-ostentatious style by Lewis Milestone. 'The General Died at Dawn' remains a first-rate melodrama, vividly penned, performed and photographed." ~ Time p26 S 14 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"The thoroughly splendid and natural performance that fans have learned to expect from Gary Cooper and a supporting cast of general excellence through a still-packed, stimulatingly different story under effective direction, make this unadulterated entertainment from the union of a first rate money picture in any situation. Family." ~ Box Office p23 S 12 '36

"Excellent performances by Gary Cooper, Madeleine Carroll and Akim Tamiroff in the title picture from the complete oblivion which it otherwise deserves, and to which the author of the screenplay apparently intended it to descend. Here is one of the most outstanding cases where an excellent novel is slaughtered to make a moving picture. The situations and dialogue are at times so ridiculous that you are reminded of the old 'Hoss Opera' days, in spite of the intelligent treatment and revision. Lewis Milestone, the director, has been responsible for many fine pictures, but he too seemed to be held down by the material during the making of this picture, for several of the faults of the picture can be accounted for only by poor direction. This picture is not recommended as box-office, but will probably get by on the strength of its names and the Canadian Moving Pict Digest p5 S 12 '36

"Paramount steps into the spotlight with a magnificent melodrama of intrigue, drama and action. The story is well enough told for a major box office wallop. Not least of these is a superb performance by Gary Cooper, that not only keeps him right up where he landed in 'Mr. Deeds Goes to Town' but that will add to his prestige and his value. The novel by Charles G. Booth has been brilliantly dramatized by Clifford Odets. This is his first produced screenplay and it proves him a master of structure, of incident and characterization. Except for one or two florid speeches the dialogue has drive and enormous vitality." ~ Hollywood Reporter p3 S 1 '36

"Developing a romance which is contrasted with the dramatic theme, the story is told in a series of suspenseful situations which action and dialogue are forcefully combined to create an atmosphere of danger and tragedy. The novel was rigorously edited and abridged in the film's romantic content should aid in arousing audience interest in the production among women patrons." ~ Motion Pict Daily p3 S 3 '36

"Here is hokum on the half-shell, laid on thick with a quick shaggy-satirical drollery by expert Mr. Tamiroff's bit too long, a tiny bit too ponderous but real entertainment withal and cinch box office. At first contact it is rather a shock to realize that Clifford Odets, the white-haired boy of the radical element in New York theatricals and Lewis Milestone's breathlessly artless but extremely astute producers have combined their talents to turn out lurid melodrama. Nevertheless, that is what this picture is—and the boys have done a swell job of it. It's Odets first film attempt and his hand is distinctly visible throughout." ~ Variety p16 S 9 '36

"Oriental in its motivations, settings and pace, inclined to be ponderous and sombre, and naturally more of a men's audience picture than women's, 'The General Died at Dawn' may expect a return to the Gary Cooper-Madeleine Carroll selling label, and will need small exploitation to cash for full value on its merits. Neither of the plays within the material will put limitations on its appeal, although production is a bit handbellied in parts. It is a course of action to keep the laughs, a little tender humor and compensating lightness for its deadly involvement. " ~ Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 1 '36

GENTLEMAN FROM LOUISIANA. Republic. 76min. Ag 17 '36

Director: Irving Pichel

"The story is built around episodes in the life of Tod Sloan. It is the tale of a clean-hearted lad with a love for horses and a burning ambition to succeed as a jockey. He, like Sloan, is the invention of a modern race seat and with it he rises to spectacular heights." ~ Hollywood Reporter

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: mildly amusing; Y and C: good of kind." ~ Christian Century p1175 S 2 '36

"Romance and racing blend harmoniously to make a grand picture.~ Nat Legion of Decency Ag 27 '36

"Skillfully directed and well acted, with Chic Sale and Eddie Quillian deserving of special mention. Family." ~ Sel Motion Pict S 1 '36

"A tender and moving story of a jockey's love for his horse, nicely acted especially by the young hero. Several exciting horse races add to the film's enjoyment. Family-junior." ~ Wky Guide Ag 22 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Eddie Quillian would get somewhere if producers would give him a chance to display his wares... Quillian has a rather conventional part, which he succeeds in making ingratiatingly humorous and appealingly likable, and it provides him with an opportunity to display a wide range of emotions. The story is rather obvious: we know what is going to happen, and our attention is kept alive by our interest in watching how the obvious end is to be reached. It is fundamentally sound dramatic construction to let the audience know what is going to happen. It permits it to take an intelligent interest in each step of the progress toward the known end. For that reason I found the little picture entertaining." ~ Hollywood Spec p9 Ag 29 '36

"Eddie Quillian is one of the most persuasive juveniles on the screen. His incisive naturalness, a gift for visual comedy and song-and-dance routines lifted 'The Sophomore' and a host of other pathé comedies into the realm of entertainment and box-office smashes... The costumes add a new note to the comedy, and director Irving Pichel draws pace and human interest from a stereotyped formula that demands a nose-to-nose track finale." ~ Herb Stern

Script p12 Ag 22 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Paced by the splendid performances of Eddie Quillian and Chic Sale, and booted down the back stretch by a top notch story of early race" + + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; - - Exceptionally Poor
GENTLEMAN FROM LOUISIANA—Continued track days in the old South, this life story of Tod Sioane is a commendable first effort on the part of Director Irving Pichel. Family.
+ — Variety p31 Ag 22 '36

"It makes a very nice program number and should appeal to regular audiences. The [children] will like it, as the horse racing atmosphere is exciting and allows for a lot of action. The director has captured the simplicitly of the piece and he conveys its mood in a most pleasant manner.
+ Film Daily p7 Ag 15 '36

"This human and unpretentious offering,
while not continuously exciting, has many mer-is and will express a child's dual harness.
+ — Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 12 '36

"The story offers entertaining excitement played against the background of the sporting world in the 'Gay Nineties.' Throughout the story such characters as 'Diamond Jim' Bradly, Steve Brodie and John L. Sullivan enter the background adding to the picture's appeal.
[II] wide appeal and should fit happily on most programs.
+ Motion Picture Daily p41 Ag 13 '36

"Estimating a pleasant neighborhood program.
+ — Phila Exhibitor p41 S 1 '36

"The Gentleman from Louisiana [is] a fast-moving sympathetic picture which is good entertainment in any program division.
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 12 '36

GIRL OF THE OZARKS. Paramount 67min
Je 19 '36
Players: Virginia Weidler, Henrietta Crossman, Leif Erikson. Elizabeth Russell
Director: William Shea
See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews
of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Too sad for children. Adults." Am Legion
Auxiliary

"Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"A production made outstanding by the remarkable performance of Little Girl, Virginia Weidler, whose naturally and convincingly portrays the gamut of emotions and who with simplicity and conviction expresses a child's frustration and despair... The plot is routine with a very weak and abrupt ending, but the child actress and her supporting cast, as well as the beautifully photographed mountain scenery, lift the picture far above the ordinary, Family." E Coast Preview Committee

"A sad little story, overloaded and not entirely consistent. It offers, however, some good characterizations but its ethical value for family audiences is debatable." Nat Soc of New England Women

"With a theme concerning the salvaging of an underprivileged and misunderstood child this picture presents a somewhat sentimentalized and at times, unconvincing story of the child of a poor Ozark mother. This social drama is well adapted for the enjoyment of the family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women
Fox W Coast Bui Je 27 '36

"This true picture of a primitive people in our own land is depressing but starkly realistic in its human interest and convincing acting by the entire cast, Family." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)
Je 19 '36

"Family." Jt Estimates Je 15 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

"The picture's weakness is that it is too consistently depressing. Though we are trained by progressively to associate tragedy with the people of this locale, the introduction of a lighter note would be welcome. Adolescents, 12-16:
+ — Motion Pict R Ji '36

"A trivial story is ably directed and appealingly portrayed. Family, but too sad for small children.
+ Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 17 '36

"At: sentimental drama of mountain people;
Y and C show interest if somewhat depressing.
Parents' M p69 S '36

"Family." Sfi Motion Pict Ji 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"The results appear favorable in terms of Miss Weidler, but less auspicious from a box office angle. Selection of little French star, erkings was no mistake, but the hill-billy flubdub is just a bit too seedy and the title makes no attempt whatsoever to warm up. With a family and juvenile audiences there won't be any trouble. Bigger houses, however, are out, and dinner has to be taken for granted."
+ — Variety p18 Ag 12 '36

GIRLS' DORMITORY. 20th century-Fox 65min
Ag 7 '36
Players: Simone Simon, Constance Collier,
Ruth Chatterton, Herbert Marshall
Director: Irving Cummings

Based on the play, Matura, by Ladislaus Fodor. The plot concerns a young school girl in a strict German girls' school who falls in love with a middle-aged professor. He in turn is loved by an older teacher. When the young friend finds this out, she is heart-broken and runs away to Paris. The professor gives up the woman who has loved him for years and fol-

dows the young girl.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: excellent; Y: doubtful value and effect."
Christian Century p1119 Ag 19 '36

"The outdoor fencing scene is one long to be remembered. P1111 little French star, erkings was no mistake, but the hill-billy flub-
dub is just a bit too seedy and the title makes no attempt whatsoever to warm up. With a family and juvenile audiences there won't be any trouble. Bigger houses, however, are out,
and dinner has to be taken for granted."
+ — Variety p18 Ag 12 '36

"The story is not a particularly profound one, still the production has a certain haunting quality due entirely to the personality and facility of the vivacious little French star, Simone Simon. ... Simone has unusual ability and responds to moods as does a delicate instrument. Herbert Marshall and Ruth Chatterton give excellent performances—better than the story warrants. Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Good. Inappropriate title. Mature." DAR

"An artistic and skillfully directed production with a very fine cast and careful attention to detail. Vivid and entertaining for mature audiences." Nat Soc of New England Women

"A thoroughly psychological and convincing social drama. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"Deft and understanding direction and a gifted cast again prove their importance in the making of a distinguished photoplay, and a story that might easily have been ordinary is
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

37 lifed to superior heights by the artistry with which Agnes Cumming has handled her adolescent nature; children: no." Women's Univ Club, Los Angeles

Fox W Coast Bul Ag S '36

"A rarely beautiful picture distinguished by unusually fine camera work. Especially fine directorial effects give the picture unusual entertainment value. Adults & young people." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Jl 28 '36

"Best of the month. Mature." + JT Estimates Ag 1 '36

"The story is well developed by a capable cast General Flour. Nat Legion of Decency Ag 20 '36

"Outstanding." + Sel Motion Pict S 1 '36

"The new French star has an attractive personality, and is much helped by her co-stars and some excellent minor characters. Family." Wkly Guide Ag 15 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Mlle. Simon has an unspoil'd and ingenious manner. She is a most consistently pleasing actress. Her performance is expected to play... The moments when the picture resembles 'Maedchen in Uniform' most clearly. The attitude of a delicate study of adolescent girlhood are the best parts of the picture, but those moments are not so frequent. It is high time this picture should be seen."

+ Boston Transcript p6 Ag 15 '36

"If you like romantic drama, well acted, with a touch of European juvenile psychology running through the throes of adolescence, you will enjoy 'Girls' Dormitory.' " Laura Elston Canadian M p56 Ag '36

"Simone Simon, capable in both comedy and drama, she can become anything. She appears to deserve the outcome of the picture. The outcome should satisfy the demands of judges others." Christian Science Monitor p11 Ag 15 '36

"Simone Simon has the divine spark. If Hollywood, which has destroyed more star material than it has made stars, will treat this girl with ordinary common sense, will put her in but few pictures and select the few wisely, she can become within a short time one of the three or four leading box-office magnets. 'Girls' Dormitory' is in every way a satisfactory picture. Irving Cummings has given it masterly direction." + Hollywood Spec p8 Ag 1 '36

"European in setting, 'Girls' Dormitory' is also the censorable sort of story that the European studios generally contrive with more adult intelligence than Hollywood is willing to dare. Though, in bald outline, 'Girls' Dormitory' is no more than a mild variation of the perpetual triangle theme, the film has moments when it is truly outstanding." (3½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p15 S 19 '36

"Critics are accepting Mlle. Simon enthusiastically, even taking pains to assure readers that correct pronunciation of her name is 'See-nee-Moon-see.' Nothing Simon can do, nothing any critic will write, can help her so much as her first American picture, 'Girls Dormitory.'" Lit Digest p29 Ag '36

"Mlle. Simon's American screen debut is auspicious. Endowed with a vivid and arresting personality, she is capable of swift changes of mood, she dominates the picture in no uncertain manner. She is not conventionally pretty and she can make a convincing charm of a young girl with the intriguing glamour of a new talent in the world. Less work has gone into the creation of this role than in affording a setting for the new star. It pays scant heed to credible motivation or characterization. The atmosphere of the schoolroom where summation is given has been caught in too precise outline and the teachers typed to a point of caricature... If 'Girls' Dormitory' is far from being a brilliant work, this does not alter the fact that it has given birth to a star. Howard Barnes + N Y Herald Tribune Aug 29 '36

"Mlle. Simon... does not, probably because the script could not make up its mind about the film's final mood, emerge as a great actress in this her Hollywood production. She'll need a stronger picture than this to launch her into stardom, if and when she is ready for that. 'Girls Dormitory' satisfies it by much before the implications of its story. It pulls up at the brink of tragedy and laughs off, with a scene that must have been added after the final cutting, all the emotion that had gone before... There was material for a really fine picture. Some of it the cast and director have realized. There are sensitive moments, and some delicious bits of comedy. Elson Creelman + N Y Sun Ag 31 '36

"Officially this has no weight, but we suggest that Congress cancel a substantial part of France's debt in consideration of its gift of Mlle. Simon. We should not be surprised if Hollywood is known here before the picture was screened, she had become a star of the first magnitude at its conclusion. There are signs the film is inevitable occurs, even to the scene of renunciation... and a decidedly unsatisfactory happy ending. For this slight, however, as it stands, is all a poignant tale of breathless young infatuation and tragic despair." S. Nugent - N Y Times p16 Ag 29 '36

"[Mlle. Simon's] appeal is a languid kind of come hither, rather startling in her role of a teen age student, but showing a potential depth film that will fail to its picture. Her employers should take off her pinafores—make her act her aze, and go to work on her towal huskiness. 'Girls Dormitory' is, however, in the latest book 'Maedchen in Uniform' but with a happy outcome. It is an earnest travelogue of Young Woodley's 'Theater of Tyrol. It could have been a beautiful story and it still is, but the Fox people were unwise even to think of grinding it. It is a pity, it is true, that the films can do nothing about the tragedy of adolescence seen impressed in adult language. These things should be left to the unuttered stage, where they can talk grown-up." Douglas Gilbert + N Y World-Telegram p69 Ag 29 '36

"The whole thing, the quality of youth all over the place, the Herbert Marshall performance and以上内容。" in master, Ruth Chatterton's presentation of the instruction book. It is an eye on her superior, the adult note of Constance Collier and J. Edward Bromberg, and a newcomer, Simone Simon, as the whole, all shape into something unusually nice... It's a smooth and polished and touching affair. This Mlle. Simon is a childish and expert little thing who has just run over, I believe, from Paris." John Mosher + New Yorker p67 S 5 '36

"Twentieth-Century-Fox hasn't provided much of a story, but a whole of a cast makes a lot out of it. In her first American film, Miss Simon puts and puts about as productively, rather like a high-brow Clara Bow. Her acting is perfectly innocent, but her sex appeal makes up for that." News-Wk p31 Ag S 5 '36

It has received tacit and ingratiating treatment from the press. Gene Markey gives it a splendid writing job. Irving Cummings' direction is laudably delicate, causes events to flow smoothly and gracefully, continue to develop characters... A picture to be recommended and seen. Herb Sterne + Script p10 S 12 '36

"The picture is meant to be a tour de force for the new European importations. This actress named Simone Simon. The impulse to present this fresh personality in all its vitality

+ exceptionally good; + good; + fair; + mediocre; + poor; + exceptionally poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

GIRLS’ DORMITORY—Continued

Just about took the producers off their feet. We see [Herbert Marshall] in the year’s most distressing dénouement, proposing to and being accepted by [Darryl Zanuck].

Stage p10 S ’36

“Although Herbert Marshall and Ruth Chatterton are billed above her, Simone Simon is the star of this picture. Producer Darryl Zanuck designed it expressly to provide a vehicle for his U. S. debut, and Screenwriter Good May, a leading lady, has intelligently fitted the material to her talents... Helped by U. S. lighting and No. 25 makeup, Simone is more eminently convincing than in her last French picture to reach the U. S. (Lac aux Dames).”

+ Time p30 Ag 24 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

“A competent cast, Irving Cummings’ usual convincing direction and a smart adaptation of Gene Markey give the youthful Simone Simon an impressive background for her American screen debut, a result which are promising well for her box office possibilities. Family.”

+ Box Office p25 Ag 8 ’36

“So far as the advance ballyhoo placed in back of this little French actress, it looked as if, they were out of their minds. But...”

+ Film Daily p7 Ag 29 ’36

“The film is particularly notable for the magnificent playing of its co-stars, Ruth Chatterton and Herbert Marshall, and the American debut of Simone Simon, a young French actress destined to go far. Hers is a performance unequalled in Hollywood productions. Fresh, bright and alive, her face mirrors expressions of tremendous significance. Consciousness or unconsciousness of her native talent is distinctly out of the ordinary and she is certainly to attract much attention from American audiences.”

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 Jl 25 ’36

“Miss Simon shows exceptional promise and her debut is aided considerably by the accomplished work of Marshall and the sympathetic cooperation of Miss Chatterton. The scenes reflecting the life of the girls’ school contrast pleasantly with the story’s weighty theme.”

Motion Pict Daily p6 Jl 27 ’36

“The picture should appeal to women, but its draw depends on the Simon-Chatterton-Marshall and Chatterton and Chatterton are star material. 20th Century-Fox has given the show a nice production...the picture is okay, familiar story has been well handled.”

Phila Exhibitor p36 Ag 15 ’36

“Few imported players ever were given a more auspicious buildup than this newcomer [Simone Simon]. No good reason why she should not at once become a drawing attraction. Chances are all in her favor. No Herbert Marshall does not always get the most out of his assignment as the headmaster. He is stiff and unresponsive in spots. On the other hand Ruth Chatterton is best assignment she has had recently and infuses her part as the assistant with a tenderness and understanding she has not always been permitted to reveal of late.”

+ Variety p15 S 2 ’36

“Simone Simon was launched at the Chinese last night by 20th-Fox and her launching was in much the same fashion as the Queen Mary. The French importation has everything desirable in a young screen star. With an impish naiveté that is refreshing, ability and looks that are compelling, she should reach the top in a few strides. Darryl Zanuck has made no mistake in this initial appearance. Though he surrounded her with the toughest opposition, she comes through with honors. Screen play by Gene Markey is an excellent job of writing and dialoging.”

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 25 ’36

GIVE ME YOUR HEART. Warner 88min Jl 18 ’36

Players: Kay Francis, George Brent, Roland Young, Patrik Knowles, Frieda Inescort

Director: Archie L. Mayo

Based on the play, Sweet Alesse, by Jay Mal- lory. [Kay Francis] is the mother of a child born out of wedlock. Influenced by Roland Young, she surrenders the infant to its father’s custody. For 3 years, married to George Brent, her life is a tragic torment. On the verge of a mental crackup, which would wreck her hopes for happiness, young Brent goes to New York. Miss Francis and [Brent’s wife], Miss Inescort, visit the sleeping youngster. At peace with Miss Inescort, for whom she has always had nothing but violent, and sure that the suffering she has undergone has not been in vain, she dedicates her life to being Brent’s true wife.” (Motion Pict Daily)

Audience Suitability Ratings

“This possible but not probable chapter in high-class society gives Kay Francis an excellent opportunity to be emotional to the nth degree. It is doubtful if her efforts will prove entertaining to the usual run of theatregoers. Adults.” Am Legion Auxiliary

“The social sin is here made to appear desirable because of a situation beyond the control of either participant; hence it is destructive to ethical and social values and has a haphazard taste; family: no; 14-18: no; 8-14: no.” Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

“The picture starts with a bad situation and works its way into a solution that requires an entire new school of thought in order to appreciate it. Mature.” Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women

“Entertaining psychological drama, Adults. Good.” DAR

“Perhaps the relation between an invalid wife and the mother of her husband’s child is a theme untried to the wide distribution of the motion picture but certainly this finished production with its adroit handling of situations, its philosophical humor, its real sanity in human predicaments will delight discriminating adults.” Nat Soc of New England Women

“[It is] a dignified social drama from point of portrayal but of a sophisticated type best suited to adult audiences.” S Calif Council of Fed Clubs

“Entertaining psychological drama, Adults. Good.” FOX W Coast Bul Ag 1 ’36

“The picture is artistically produced with the interesting background of two continents, beautiful dresses and lovely music. Adults & young people.”

+ Gen Fed of Women’s Clubs (W Coast) Jl 18 ’36

“Adults.” Jt Estimates Jl 15 ’36

“Though unconventional in theme [it] nevertheless makes absorbing drama. The cast is an exceptionally well chosen one and the direction of Archie Mayo is skillful and understanding. Adults.

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
+ Nat Council of Jewish Women JI 22 '36
+ "Delicate situations competently handled by a strong cast. Adults.
+ Nat Legion of Decency JI 30 '36
+ "A: good social drama; Y: sophisticated; C: no."
+ Parents' M p68 S '36
+ "It's wise dictum that to overcome a bogie one must face it rather than bury it. It is valuable. Adults."
+ Sel Motion Pic Atg 1 '36
+ "A difficult subject handled with admirable delicacy. Maj."
+ Wkly Guide S 12 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

Christian Science Monitor p14 S 12 '36

"The picture is an intelligent use of talkie technique, one of the best examples of it ever to reach the screen. The delicate theme, which so easily could have been made censurable, is handled throughout with the best of taste, there being nothing in it to offend the most narrow-minded purist. Archie Mayo's direction is superb."+
+ Hollywood Spec p5 Jl 18 '36
+ A restrained, sleekly articulate study of thwarted lives, this is a picture of woods rather than action. And though it is at times rather dull, there is a quietly powerful emotion about the whole thought and affair that should appeal to a great number of women. . . . (It is) gently tearful diversion. (2 1/2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p39 Ag 22 '36
+ "It is) a mild moral lesson that one sin doesn't make a sinner... Somewhat daring in plot. It is to be hoped that the movie-public youth, the film-drama presages sympathy for the woman with a past."+
+ News-Wk p31 Ag 8 '36
+ "We remember being rather stirred by the heroine's plight on the stage. We remember being amused by Miss Francis' emotional antics on the screen. Roland Young has some fine Morley lines to say, and his disposition of them is certainly worth your hearing."
+ Stage p10 S '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Ultra modern and sophisticated problem drama, which affords Kay Francis an opportunity to occupy a superbly-enacted emotional role, this will have a particular appeal to women. It will be generally acceptable to all. Adults."
+ Box Office p25 Jl 25 '36
+ "This will appeal especially to women. Its delicate subject has been handled with good taste and intelligence. It gives Kay Francis a strong emotional role and she does unusually good."
+ Film Daily p11 Jl 14 '36
+ "An intelligent and penetrating problem play of society lightened by a due proportion of real comedy and produced with fine insight and dignity, it gives Kay Francis a highly sympathetic emotional role in which she triumphs and it adds to the provocative ingenius elements that will make it strong box office, especially on the class level."
+ Hollywood Reporter p8 Jl 10 '36
+ "This is a fine class picture. It is a serious dramatic problem play. Based on a delicate, intimate theme, it is carefully prepared and directed with intelligent good taste and impressively acted. Essentially an adult attraction, its appeal is broadened through a spine-tingling patronage. Yet, blending distinctive drama with engaging comedy, it is of a character almost certain to make a forceful impression upon generally mature audiences."
+ Motion Pic Daily p3 Jl 11 '36

"Drama that women will like, this is adult stuff that has been handled with good taste... What the picture does depends on the women's draw."
+ Phila Exhibitor p8 Ag 1 '36
+ "Following her top performance in 'White Angel' with a role even more exciting in its dramatic demands, Kay Francis will win a new audience and increase her value as a Warners star asset in this picture. . . . Among women especially it should receive much word-of-mouth."
+ This drama, with its title name, an exceptionally fine supporting cast and an impressive production in every respect, should register substantially."
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 10 '36

GLORY TRAIL. Crescent 65min
Players: Tom Keene. Joan Barclay
Director: Lynn Shores

"With the end of the Civil War, an unsurrendered band of Confederates, headed by Tom Keene, goes to settle in the West. On the way they meet a group of northerners of which Joan Barclay is a member. There is a natural animosity, but under Keene's leadership, everyone is being on good terms and Joan are falling in love. . . . The lovers marry in a wholesale marriage ceremony to which the southern boys have brought their girls from back east."
+ Film Daily

Trade Paper Reviews

"All of the desirable bang-bang of a typical Western, but with a story structure which takes it out of the formula category, this first E. B. Derr production of his Tom Keene series augurs well for Crescent's future as a producer of good action films. Family."
+ Box Office p25 Jl 25 '36
+ "In using the unsurrendered rebel Confederates, in the settling of the West, the producer struck on an interesting and novel idea. It makes for forceful action and dramatic entertainment. With its historical setting, audiences generally should like [Glory Trail] and [children] especially should go for it in a big way."
+ Film Daily p8 Jl 10 '36
+ "An outdoor action picture combining much that is novel with standby elements, this picture is an interested sinuates story. The picture should appeal to those who like to see their entertainment move."
+ Motion Pic Daily p4 Jl 13 '36
+ "Estimate: good."
+ Phila Exhibitor p39 Ag 1 '36
+ "Built on substantial story, with interesting motivation and away from the cut-and-dried Western pattern, without neglecting the surefire action ingredients, 'The Glory Trail' offers good entertainment for audiences at which it is directed."
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 8 '36

GO GET-'EM HAINES. Republic 62min Je 15 '36
Director: Sam Newfield

A mystery tale in which a reporter who boards a steamer for a story about an absconding financier finds himself involved in a murder mystery.

"Objectable in part. Objection: the killer, realizing he is trapped, commits suicide."
+ Nat Legion of Decency Je 11 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; + Poor; + + Exceptionally Poor
GO GET-'EM HAINES—Continued

"A and Y: fair; C: not recommended."

Parents' M p47 Ag '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Estimate: good action murder mystery."

+ Phila Exhibitor p27 Ji 16 '36

GORGEOUS Hussy. MGM 105min Ag 29 '36

Players: Joan Crawford, Robert Taylor. Lionel Barrymore, President Tomalin, Melvyn Douglas. James Stewart. Beulah Bondi

Director: Clarence Brown

Based on the novel of the same title by Samuel Hopkins Adams, "The story ... concerns the political turmoil of states' rights and Union rights in 1823 when America was still young and 'not yet beyond an occasional growing-pain. The historical characters and events revolve—in this fictionalized version—about the Highland Boys as 'a pipe-smoking, hard-drinking inn-keeper, and finally First Lady of the White House as the niece of President Andrew Jackson."

("Pilm Daily"

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: fine of kind; Y and C: doubtful interest."

Christian Century p123 B 16 '36

"It is very well cast and all [the cast members] contribute to the interest for the role of the historical drama. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Family." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"This picture is certainly popular entertain- ment. Order. Nat Allied Fed Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"This engrossing fiction has an exceptionally convincing historical background, fine charac- terizations and expert direction. Mature. Excellent." DAR

"A worthwhile historic drama, valuable for its visualization of a day that is past and as a vital human document. Family, exclusive of young children." Nat Soc of New England Women

"This charming mixture of history and fiction should be greatly interesting to all. Family." Calif Council of Fed Church Women

+ Fox W Coast Bul S 5 '36

"Family-mature."

New York Aid of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ag 25 '36

"Best of the month."

+ + Jt Estimates Ag 15 '36

"An all-star cast lends glamour to this very interesting and thrilling portrayal of life in the days of Andrew Jackson. Lionel Barrymore makes 'Old Hickory' live again in a performance which outshines all of his past successes, and Beulah Bondi as his pipe-smoking spouse is superb. Family. Special merit." + Nat Council of Jewish Women S 1 '36

"Any deviation from history may be forgiven a film which is an admirable recreation of the times, beautifully acted and superbly mounted. General patronage."

+ Nat Legion of Decency S 3 '36

"Magnificently produced and attention-compelling is this fascinating picture of love, jealousy and intrigue. . . . Almost unparalleled is the brilliancy of Clarence Brown's direction: meticulous attention to every detail has given beauty, life and power to his work. A dis- tinguished cast, each expertly chosen for his or her part, each giving a skillful and noteworthy characterization so realistic one really lives the story. Truly a great picture. Family mature."

+ + Sel Motion Pic S 1 '36

"Suggested for schools and libraries. Family. Outstanding."

Wkly Guide Ag 29 '36

Newsprint and Magazine Reviews

"Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have produced a most engaging picture. . . It is a happy blending of fact and fiction, a film which, although it may have been more dramatic had truth been adhered to, but, one that is, nevertheless, intriguing. with the longest characters and incidents and cleverly written dialogue. The film cannot be weighed as an historical document, certainly not as a certain portrayal. However, it is a diversion, it is highly satisfactory. And so this Peggy, so long as one does not refresh one's memory by digging up the facts." Mor- daunt Hall

+ + Boston Transcript p4 S 12 '36

"Many fine qualities flavor 'The Gorgeous Hussy,' a vivid play of human life that skillfully blends dramatic and romantic American fact with fiction. . . There is evidence everywhere of authenticity of reproduction, and it is well-rounded entertainment by an excellent cast."

J. P. Cunningham

+ + Commonweal p457 S 15 '36

"'The Gorgeous Hussy' is, I believe, the most expert job Director Brown has turned out. . . Clarence gives us a new Joan Crawford, an attractive, senior and gentle girl without false eye-lashes and extravagant make-up that in previous pictures suggested the actress playing a part. . . Barrymore never appeared on the screen to better advantage. Beulah Bondi gives a superb performance, by long odds the greatest career on screen career."

+ + Hollywood Spec p10 S 12 '36

"It cost a sum to turn a counting-house clerk pale, it surrounds Joan Crawford with a failure-proof cast. But it accomplished the filming of a glamorous, quaint incident in American history and gave Miss Crawford the best opportuni- ty she ever has had in motion-pictures. Fact and fiction have been expertly meshed to make the story of impetuous Peggy Eaton a cinema romance of impressive stature. Barrymore was never better than in this rôle. The younger men are no less powerful. Director Clarence Brown is another actor who often in his usual cunning. It emerges [as] one of the finest pictures of the year, actually the best Miss Crawford has made. Her dignity and composture are noteworthy."

+ + Lit Digest p17 S 12 '36

"A colorful and heart-warming saga of Amer- ican history has been re-captured on the screen in 'The Gorgeous Hussy.' The Handsome Red-headed regulars of the stage and screen are again brought to life. The production is well staged and persuasively acted, the motion pic- ture translation of Samuel Hopkins Adams's sad but true novel forms a rich and entertaining pageant of life in the Andrew Jackson era. . . There has been no great adherence to docu- mentary evidence in the work. . . As a matter of fact, it is Andrew Jackson and his pipe-smoking wife, Rachel, who dominate the most captivating passages in 'The Gorgeous Hussy.' . . In the title role Joan Crawford is handsome, although century-old costumes do not go well with the daintily powdered air of person- ality. . . Mr. Brown has staged the piece with a keen eye for its color and pageantry, per- mitting it to achieve a romantic and attractive interaction as they will with the recreated history in a show that is rich with trappings and supported by moments of moving intensity. Howard Barnes

+ + N Y Herald Tribune p6 S 5 '36

"'The Gorgeous Hussy' is regulation MGM box office stuff . . . what with a bit of flag wav- ing here and there. 'The Gorgeous Hussy' is no bad picture either for a glossy pulp-paper fiction type of show. The story of Mrs. Eaton and her lovely daughter is not even very interesting as Miss Crawford plays it. The drama of Andrew Jackson and his Rachel is real. This picture in the plot really belongs to these two characters, to the fire- eating frontiersman who became a president, and to the pipe-smoking backwoods woman who married him in Cicero can.

It's 'Gorgeous Exhibitors'. Variety "Gorgeous'. The NY Hollywood. President NY Douglas with of physical 1823. Andrew best lack ers ever in romantic Peg. Peggy bit less to 'That It mature impressive impressive of screen's the 1- year-old 5 of joins and gives her portrayal of Fothouse Peg? Well, just a bit. What we have here, and you might as well make the best of it, is a thoroughly romantically censored biography in which Miss Crawford is gorgeous, but never a hussy... Miss Crawford's Peggy is a belligerent Anne of Green Gables, a persecuted Pollyanna, a dismayed Dolly Dimple... Most of it has an incredible ring and the players never are quite convincing in their political or emotional arguments." F. S. Nugent

+ NY Times p7 S 5 '36

"That hectic era when Andrew Jackson became seventh President of the United States... serves as a colorful and exciting setting for an entirely melodramatic melodrama. Whatever the film lacks in historical accuracy is more than made up for by the entertainment its romantic and colorful story provides. After a slow beginning the film gets under way in full stride and its interest never flags for a moment." - New York World-Telegram.

Reviewed by John Mosher
New Yorker p95 S 12 '36

"In Joan Crawford's latest, Robert Taylor, the screen's No. 1 glamour boy, forsakes his usual role of a doctor for that of a sailor of 1823. Fortunately, he dies early in the picture. Miss Crawford, perfectly cast as Peggy O'Neal... The film is a bad adaptation of a Samuel Hopkins Adams novel."

+ New York Post S 12 '36

"In this picture a large group of early Americans became living, breathing people. Two, especially—John Randolph and Daniel Webster. Both play old Andrew Jackson up to the hilt, his performance somewhat edited by a too-faithful attempt at physical resemblance, resulting in an oversized wig and putted brows that sadly interfered with his facial expression... It is Joan's finest part in years and she enacts it superbly. Not the least of her triumphs is her makeup, or lack of it... Douglas not only gives the best performance of his career but just about the best in the picture. He makes you believe his uncompromising political opinions. The big band songs to Clarence Brown, director, and Joseph Mankiewicz, producer." - Rob Wagner

+ Script p16 S 5 '36

"[It] forms a pattern which balances in entertainment whatever it may lack in educational value. Surrounded by youthful matinee idols who seem a shade too chipper in the roles of Lionel Barrymore's main players, Peggy O'Neal and Beulah Bondi as Mrs. Jackson, the film is a p42

Trade Paper Reviews

"Boasting enough stars for six pictures and with a patriotic and historic background, this picture will register solidly at the turnstiles. While Joan Crawford has top billing and gives an impressive portrayal, Lionel Barrymore's depiction of President Andrew Jackson is undoubtedly the high spot of the film." + Box Office p23 S 12 '36

"This is a superb production in every department... It gives Miss Crawford the best acting opportunity she has had in a long time and she takes full advantage of it. However, she is surrounded by such able supporting performers that this review is devoted to the patrons who so far have not been '\'Gussey'." - Film Daily p5 S 1 '36

"In 'Gorgeous Hussy', Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has a fine picture and a swell piece of entertainment for its stars, Joan Crawford and unquestionably a box office hit. 'Gorgeous Hussy' will certainly bounce Joan Crawford back to top fan favor, as this is easily the best picture she has had for some time, giving her acting opportunities that brought out the real Crawford and should invest any box office with record ticket sales. She has a well-written part cast with a cast whose combined performance and fan magnetism would be hard to equal in another picture."

+ Hollywood Reporter p4 Ag 25 '36

"This film is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful and most pictorial examples of entertainment yet produced. Rich in color, heart interest, drama, humor and action, it is a film so emotional, it is headed for glorified rendezvous at the nation's box-offices... Exhibitors throughout the country who have seen the film, foretell for the first time a name drawn from a human story which fully lives up to the name power of the picture."

+ Motion Picture Daily p5 S 1 '36

"Exhibitors should look at the star assembly to find out whether this is a box office click. The answer, apparently, is that it is. With Taylor at a peak, with Crawford top money, with the other names as insurance, with a production that rates with Metro's best, 'The Gorgeous Hussy' is a sure thing."

+ Phila Exhibitor p10 S 1 '36

"With four marquee names topping the cast, an historical fictional story that's familiarly known, and a particularly clay money-making name, 'Gorgeous Hussy' is a money picture. Beyond the names of Joan Crawford, Robert Taylor, Lionel Barrymore and Franchot Tone, the film was well supported with interesting male and female players and the almost unbelievable angles for special exploiting. Once the story gets over the trivia of slow-moving costume moments, it builds up with a swell without let-up. Picture is primarily Lionel Barrymore's... He's the Barrymore of old in the best role of his career in a long time."

+ Variety p16 S 9 '36

"'Gorgeous Hussy' is gorgeous entertainment, superlative in every dimension, destined to rank among the best pictures of the season and a money offering of smash caliber by every right of draw names, story and directorial merit and showman's intelligence. Challenged by dramatic opportunity in rich roles of a superb screen play, Joan Crawford and at least half a dozen brilliant stars and supporting players turn in their top performances... Miss Crawford displays a new compusre, dignity, ripeness which opens up entirely new channels for her at Metro and which will enhance her box office value still more. For emotional power she has never done anything to touch this role."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 25 '36

GRAND JURY, RKO 60min Jl 24 '36
Players: Fred Stone, Louise Latimer, Owen Davis, Jr. Moroni Olsen
Director: Albert S. Rogell

The plot turns on a small town citizen who undertakes single-handed to round up a band of murderous gangsters who have taken over control of the town.
GRAND JURY—Continued

Audience Suitability Ratings

“..."A: amateurish; Y: harmless; C: little interest."

Christian Century p1026 S 9 '36

“A: a trite story of the gangster versus the citizenry dutifully directed and indifferently cast except for the brilliant work of Fred Stone. Fair entertainment for adults & young people. calif cong of parents teachers.”

“It is] a mildly entertaining newspaper-gangster picture. Family.” Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs

Fred Stone’s wholesome commonsense and the pertinent facts involved make this worth seeing. Mature.” DAR

“Adults & young people.” Nat Soc of New England Women

“A rather hackneyed, over-acted, non-ethical picture, yet not demoralizing enough to exclude it from the family.” S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

“The production is fair entertainment. Adolescents; passable; children: no.” Women’s Union Church of Los Angeles

Fox W Coast Bui Ag 8 '36

“While the picture lacks conviction and is slow moving, the work of Fred Stone is humbly satisfactory.” — + Gen Fed of Women’s Clubs (W Coast) Jl 25 '36

“Mature.”

It Estimates Ag 1 '36

“General patronage.”

Nat Legion of Decency Ag 6 '36

“Family.”

Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Fred Stone deserves a better story assignment than repeated presentation as an elderly homespun gentleman who isn’t as bright as could be expected, considering Mr. Stone’s own intelligence... Entertaining after its own too simple fashion.” Christian Science Monitor p13 Ag 8 '36

“The proceedings at the Palace this week, where ‘Grand Jury’ is the new screen offering, are not of a kind to rout a filmgoer’s ennui and infect him with the pleasant fervors of expectation. The results are far from satisfactory. Nor do the players help matters much.” William Boehnel

— N Y World-Telegram p12 Ag 3 '36

“Grand Jury” is just another weak link in a long chain of sissy cop-and-robbers operas. The film leans heavily on the likeability of Fred Stone, a chap who can squeeze appeal from even the holiest material.” Herb Sterne

— + Script p12 Ag 8 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Below-average racket expose film which will have a struggle carrying its end on even an average dual program. Family.”

— Box Office p25 Ag 6 '36

“Nice wholesome entertainment for the entire family, combining human interest, comedy and romance.”

— Film Daily p7 Ag 1 '36

“(It is] a synthetic crime comedy... The trite story is tricked out with amusing gags for a fair grit of laughs, but they do not raise it above the level of average program fare. Fred Stone plays his part for its comedy moments, but it has not breathed into it the breath of life and will scarcely add to his laurels. A good supporting cast is similarly obscured in a world of stock unreality, few of the characters being clearly enough drawn to register anything much.”

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 Jl 25 '36

“This is one for the Fred Stone fans who like his brittle brand of humor. He uses his opportunities well.”

Motion Pict Daily p6 Jl 27 '36

“Fred Stone again comes to the fore in a program designed to please small towns, neighborhoods. Cast is filled with feature faces who will insure satisfaction for audiences.”

— Philadelphia Inquirer p1 ag 1 '36

“Below par production. Story is silly to start with and grows worse as it unfolds... It’s jerky continuity throughout and the villains are never believable. Handling of the actors is stiffled and awkward and even the camera angles are old-fashioned and abrupt. Stock material, sloppily reworked, do not produce either laughs or tension.”

— Variety p16 Ag 5 '36

“The combination of a fast-moving, logical story, not at all cast and capable direction makes ‘Grand Jury’ a better than average picture in every respect. It is the type of entertainment the whole family can enjoy.”

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 J1 25 '36

GREEN PASTURES. Warner 90min Jl 25 '36

Players: Rex Ingram, Oscar Polk, Eddie Anderson, Frank Wilson

Directors: Marc Connelly, William Keighley

Choral music: Hall Johnson Choir

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

A Photoplay Study Guide on Green Pastures, prepared by Mabel A. Bessey, is obtainable from Educational and Recreational Guides, Inc. 125 Lincoln Avenue, Newark, New Jersey, at fifteen cents a copy. The guide is one of a series of aids to the critical appreciation of photoplays.

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A: notable; Y: very good; C: probably beyond them.”

Christian Century p1047 Jl 29 '36

“This month brings us another epochal film. Needless to say, ‘Green Pastures’ will make its advent through the sponsorship of Negro women’s clubs, civic organizations and church groups throughout the United States. Pastors will refer to suitable occasions for screening. Teachers will draw ethical lessons from it for the benefit of their students, for ‘Green Pastures’ has a simplicity, a richness of thematic material and an underlining philosophical soundness and sweetness that take it far out of the class of an ordinary film.”

+ + Motion Pict & Family Je 15 '36

“A and Y: grand entertainment; C: Bible story graphically told.”

Parents’ M p14 Jl 36

“This picture... has been the subject of some criticism on the part of people who hold that the screen should not trespass on religious grounds in this manner. On the other hand, there are those who see, not an offense against religious feeling, but a thing of great beauty and celestial charm in this simple narrative of what heaven is like when pictured by a Negro Sunday School teacher to his class of little children.”

+ Scholastic p17 S 19 '36

“Here is as unusual a film as one is likely to come across, because of its material. A great deal of the film, from a quality that is usually called ‘squalid’ or ‘vulgar,’ in a tender and lovable way; but much of it is profoundly moving, touching fundamental things in the human heart. It is a film that every teacher and every parent should see. It may seem, out of it comes a conception of the Creator in the throes of creation, always evolving onward to something higher, that has its place in every religious instinct, of whatever creed.'

+ Wky Guide Ag 7 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Under the guiding hand of Marc Connelly, 'The Green Pastures' has been brought intact to the screen, preserving the simple quality, the imaginative humor and the homespun element of unaffected 'goodness'—there is no other word for it. When the characters achieve the characteristic marks of the original work. Even for the stage 'The Green Pastures' was an illusion of form. Here the picture a slight carbon-copy quality, but it avoids the potential pitfalls admirably and the result is that the characters have a simple magnificence that the drama possessed is never lost. I admired the work of every actor whose name appears in the cast of over thirty and had not been properly played the work of all of them would have been in vain. The whole production of the 'Warner Brothers.' Richard Watts, Jr.

+ + N Y Herald Tribune p16 Jl 17 '36

"If motion pictures needed any justification, the Music Hall's current picture provides enough to last for a decade or so. Not only Marc Connelly, all three Warner brothers, and W. G. Van Schmus can point with pride this time. The whole human race may like itself, and understand itself, quite a little better after watching the 'Warner Brothers'.' William Keighley, with a wisdom that should surprise none who knows his work, refuses the temptation to squelch. Here is no spectacle, no Hollywood glamour, or varnished lavishness. The cast is, as might be expected, the portrait of the di-appearing in the original play. The character, the directors, they deserve all praise for the making of a 'Warner's' masterpiece, and the direct exciting cause was the fact that no profane hands have been allowed, in the words of the Second Cleanng Angel, to 'gold up' its marvelous and unforgettable felicities. It still has the rough beauty of homespun, the irresistible compulsion of simple faith. H. E. Connelly.

+ + N Y Sun p7 Jl 17 '36

"That disturbance in and around the Music Hall yesterday was very much the olution, and the sound of motion-picture critics dancing in the street. The occasion was the opening of the novel of Marc Connelly's, naive, ludicrous, sublime and heart-breaking masterpiece of American folk drama, 'The Green Pastures.' The and the directors of the original have been transferred to the screen with fidelity... That no outstanding camera imagination has gone into the screen transformation of this beautifully wrought Biblical story will not be denied here. But therein, it seems to me, lies the secret of its great power and beauty. Given just such a simple and heart-warming story and every other director—well, nearly every other director— 'In Hollywood would have gone off on a camera angle spree.' William Boehnel.

+ + N Y World-Telegram p25 Jl 22 '36

"The 'Green Pastures' is a careful photograph of the play. Above all, it didn't see the original and who want to know what all the excitement is about. Those who have seen the play are aware of the value of preserving the picturesque qualities, the quaint attributes, but not the power of the play. Either because of screen liberties or not. The picture is a patriarchal Richard E. Harrison but the much younger Mark Herron, who plays the part, is no such stirring climax in 'even a God must suffer' as there was in the stage production. This is directly and passionately; and no tremendous sensation.' John Mosher.

+ + New Yorker p18 Jl 18 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
GREEN PASTURES—Continued

"It is to be doubted whether the film version of Marc Connelly's legend is an improvement over the stage version. This is mainly due to the role of De Lawd, which Rex Ingram played with dignity and restraint but with total lack of conviction. He could have, with profit, traded some of his pictorial sweetness for an adequate share of internal force. . . Green Pastures' will have an interest in history. We must consider it as an adventure in the art-film classification. But regardless of its success or failure at the boxoffice, it must stand as a major achievement of William Keighley, the director." José Rodríguez

Script p19 Ag 22 '36

"The film, with but few concessions to the camera's inexorable demands for scope, has preserved most of the simplicity and appealing grandeur of the play, and the present, as near as it is humanly possible, an honest interpretation of a great story in another medium. . . The Green Pastures' is a notable film achievement, and an inspiring one."

+ + Stage p8 Ji 1 '36

"One of the strong features of the play was the poverty-stricken bareness of the Heaven it portrayed. One of the principal dangers of the cinema was that Heaven would either be improved beyond any Southern pickaninnny's dream or else the whole thing might seem condescending. The producers have avoided both these pitfalls. Heaven has been improved, but only slightly."

Time p38 Je 29 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"[It is] a production that is certain to make screen history. Your reviewer was one of a very few who did not care for the play, but for ten hours and a half I sat in the private screening room at the Film Exchange here in Toronto, spell-bound as I watched a beautiful production, masterfully directed, capably acted and artistically mounted."

+ Canadian Moving Pict Digest p7 Ji 4 '36

"Not only has 'Pastures' been motivated into a prestige film for the Warners, but it's a simple, enchanting, audience-captivating cinematic fable which should reach the masses and surpass the theatre history-making run of the show. . . Pastures' in cooler weather would be a mop-up hit for a summer release, even as a summer release, it's headed for big grosses, fortified by the fact that the current dearth of stock film product gives it an exclusive for concentrated attention. . . It's a critic's picture if ever there was one, and that's not going to hurt, either. That doesn't mean that 'Pastures' can coast in, sans selling. It'll require plenty of ballyhoo, considering the two major mass-mentality handicaps—the all-colored cast and the complete absence of anything resembling a marque name."

+ + Variety p17 Jl 22 '36

GUNS AND GUITARS. Republic 56min Je 19 '36

Players: Gene Autry, Dorothy Dix, Smiley Burnette. Tom London

Director: Joseph Kane

A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency Je 25 '36

"It follows the customary action picture formula and presents fine outdoors photography, presents little that is new to that type of cinema. Family."

+ + Sel Motion Pict Jl 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"With an abundance of the usual cowboy story elements which make this a cut-and-dried Western, Dick Foran succeeds, by his pleasant manner, in adding a note of class to the picture. Family."

+ — Box Office p25 Ag 8 '36

"This tale of the Texas Rangers in the early days of their history, adds considerably to the gun play and hard riding. .. Foran renders his songs pleasingly and may build into a popular singing star with somewhat better story material."

+ — Motion Pict Daily p6 Ji 27 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
"The trouble with Foran is that he hops in, out of the saddle, appearing in the better Warner productions, then hopping back into the stands and having it come back in the saddle to be built up. If Foran is to become a Western dancer, he will have to stay away from the society dramas, etc. While the Westerns in which he is appearing are okay from the production, musical, etc., standpoint, Foran, himself, is the problem."

— Phila Exhibitor p33 Ag 1 '36

"Texas locale with the rip-snorting shooting range will not help this one at the box office. Dick Foran and Eddie Acoff try hard to make the best of things to aid the yarn, but it is a weakening in Harold Fackler's screen play from the original of Anthony Coldeway is a little amateurish. It's been done too many times, and the Texas' line lacks the glamour not hissed and sneered at many of the episodes."

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ji 26 '36

Gypsies. Amkin 53min Ji 29 '36

Directors: E. Schneider. M. Goldblatt

Russian dialogue film with English sub-titles. "'Gypsie's' tells about the efforts of a member of a ragged band of Gypsies to settle down and become collective farmers. Loath to give up their freedom, the gypsies listen patiently to the government representative and eat the food given them by the authorities, but make no real effort to give up their wandering life." (N Y World-Telegram)

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"All done in good humor, with delightful acting—especially that of Alexander Granach, a German exile. . . . It is a film decidedly worth seeing."

— Nation p166 Ag 8 '36

"With all its faults, the most wholesome movie fare of the month. . . . To say that the Russians are past masters at this sort of thing is to put it trivially. . . . The film has faults— at times, bad continuity, a discontinuity of acting styles although the actors are all in their way superb . . . but these faults are as nothing in the face of its fine lyrical qualities, and the greatness of its theme—the regeneration of a people."

— New Theatre p23 S 8 '36

"While presented in plot form, the piece is really thinly propagandized. Although its performance is theatrical enough, since the cast includes chiefly professional actors. But it lacks that tradition attaches to it, and the emphasis laid on the Kolholz (Collectivists) in their reform of the wandering nomads strips it of even elementary enchantment. However, every now and then touches of characteristic, Russian humor flow through the script, and certain of the characterizations possess a comic spirit helpful to the treatise. Marguerite Tazeauar

— Tribune p27 and World Tribune p27 '36

"The subject of 'Gypsies' is one that has given plenty of headaches to even the most optimistic Soviet officials. . . . While the circum-stances of their conversion to the Soviet idea doubtless are less dramatic than the action of the photoplay, this highly entertaining picture probably conveys a general notion of how it is being done. . . . The film gathers speed as it progresses and moves into an exciting and dramatic climax which yet would have been more impressive had it been a little less in Hollywood. H. F. T."

— N Y Times p22 Ji 30 '36

"My guess is that 'Gypsies' will appeal to filmgoers who, sated with the current mediocrity from Hollywood, look for entertainment to a film studied with first-rate acting and excellent photography. . . . Were its con-tinuity better and were it shorter, it would stand high up on the list of Russian films. . . . If you are interested in the life and habits of a group of picturesque Russian nomads as well as the efforts of the government to make them settle down, you will find 'Gypsies,' interesting but uneven in quality."

— William Boeheal

Trade Paper Reviews

"There are elements of interest in this latest importation from Russia. . . . But again the Soviet people cannot refrain from injecting into its screen material pointed implication of the good life which is to be enjoyed under the kindly guiding hand of the collective state. With occasional flashes of good photography, the film as a whole appears to have little outstanding appeal for any but those patrons who are particularly drawn to Russian films."
— Motion Pic Daily p11 Ji 31 '36

"Except for a series of clips showing the nomads, primed with a drunk or two of vodka, in native dances, costumes, and choral executions, the picture is largely standardized Soviet fare of the mission-festival stripe. Which means that by American forms it isn't far from being a rousing ousa opera. . . . Of gypsy history, folklore, etc., they show to the gypsies got that way—there is not one hint."

— Variety p16 Ag 5 '36

HALF ANGEL. 20th century-Fox 65min My 15 '36

Players: Frances Dee. Brian Donlevy. Charles Butterworth. Helen Westley. Etienne Girardot

Director: Sidney Lanfield

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Suitability: adults & adolescents."

— Mo Film Bul p103 Je 36

"A and Y: reasonably entertaining murder mystery; C: possible."

— Parents' M p41 Ji 36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Romantic and comic murder mystery for adults who don't mind the introduction of a mentally deranged person as a pivotal figure."

— E. C. S.

Christian Science Monitor p13 Je 29 '36

"Despite some of the screen's best writing and acting talent, this too-often-told tale by Doss Meredith and Gene Fowler drags badly. . . . Etienne Girardot, doing his familiar madman part, Helen Westley, and Charles Butterworth waste some good acting."

— News-Wk. p42 Je 6 '36

HARD LUCK DAME. See Satan met a lady

Harvester. Republic 65min My 1 '36

Players: Alice Brady. Russell Hardie. Ann Rutherford. Frank Craven. Cora Sue Colans

Director: Joseph Santley

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film
HARVESTER—Continued

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Granting that Gene Stratton Porter's novel, 'The Harvester' had little to offer the cinema, the Harvester' has been subjected to preparation by its central character. The production is one in which nearly all the participants have failed. Alice Brady and Frank Craven, two comedians, are adept at turning awkward corners in a script, contribute some interludes of pungent humor to the work, but for the most part the plot plods through banal situations in a manner that can scarcely be construed as entertaining." — N Y Herald Tribune p6 Jl 4 '36

"The Harvester" [is] frankly a period piece... Because of the extreme simplicity of production, direction and action, the story is rather entertaining." — Ellen Croedman

"The amount of your patience with 'The Harvester,' will depend more on your taste for sweetness and sentiment than on your desire for screen drama... It is a pretty (tire-som) film. It is a hard job to get in and out of the core in dialogue and situation." — William Boednel

"The most one can ask for in the revival of these Westerns is a feeling of nostalgia... Less able hands might have bungled the story. Director Joseph Santley does a painstaking, affectionate job of recreating the detail of the period. But he is lax in guiding individual performances... Alice Brady (who is given top billing although he doesn't warrant it) acts as though she were on the verge of renouncing these roles in favor of the dramatic stuff in which she triumphed on the stage. I'll bet audiences would welcome the changes." — Molly Lewin

Trade Paper Reviews

"'The Harvester,' is a long yarn. Based on the Gene Stratton Porter novel of two decades ago, it is creaky, tedious film fare for today's audience. In addition to that, the picture suffers from lack of ingenious direction and from a cast which, except for Alice Brady, doesn't acquit itself sparkingly. Producers have always found it difficult to put over pictures dealing with farm life and farm people... Its place distinctly is the smaller, unimportant theatres, and on the off days." — Variety p15 Jl 6 '36

HEART OF THE WEST. Paramount 60min Jl 10 '36

Players: William Boyd, Jimmy Ellison, George Hayes, Sydney Blackmer, Lynn Gabriel

Director: Howard Bretherton

A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"[It is] a routine Western. General patronage..." + Nat Legion of Decency Jl 30 '36

"[It is] a genuinely entertaining production. Family." + Sel Motion Pict As 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Maintaining the high entertainment standards established by its five predecessors, this last of the 'Hop-a-long Cassidy' series winds up the current series in a blaze of glory. It has the same action and thrill appeal as the others and introduces some new touch in the form of a hit theme song. Family." — Box Office p25 Jl 25 '36

"This Hop-a-long Cassidy number tends more to comedy than have the previous releases in the series. At the same time there are enough of the regular Western ingredients to make it welcome to the outdoor fans. There are a number of good action situations with a stampeade that highlights the picture. Although the picture may not reach the high standard of some of the other Hop-a-ongs, it still is one of the better Westerns and makes very pleasing entertainment."

+ Film Daily p6 Jl 7 '36

"The sixth and last of the present series of Hop-a-long Cassidy Westerns drops under the high average of the series. It will serve as one of six but will scarcely add lustre to this popular brand. The picture shows evidence of haste... The serial-type stampeade, which is not as carefully developed as it should be. Also there is more than a fair allowance of incongruities and some weak spots in casting." — Hollywood Reporter p5 Jl 3 '36

"A formula Western, introducing nothing that is new or novel, this provides only average secondary entertainment. Merely repeating the old story of honest ranchers at war with cattle rustlers, the only change in the standard brand of thrill action is the idea of using dynamite to halt a cattle stampede."

+ Motion Pict Daily p5 Jl 7 '36

"Estimate: fair." + Phila Exhibitor p26 Jl 15 '36

"Weak Western with all departments, exclusive of photography, responsible for its lack of entertainment. As one of the 'Hop-a-long Cassidy' series, it will have to fight for what it gets. Story lacks sock, is old fashioned in construction and particularly in dialogue." — Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 3 '36

HEARTS DIVIDED. Warner 76min Je 20 '36

Players: Marion Davies, Dick Powell, Chester Conklyn, Edward Everett Horton, Arthur Treacher

Director: Frank Borzage

Music and lyrics: Harry Warren, Al Dubin

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: fair; Y: rather good; C: little interest." — Christian Century p912 Je 24 '36

"There is something vitally lacking in this lavish film. The stars play their roles in an unconvincing manner, and are quite eclipsed by the splendid characterization of Napoleon by Claude Rains... Taking many liberties with the facts of Napoleon's French- American history... has left much to be cleared up in the minds of seekers of true historical facts. Adult." — Am Legion Auxiliary

"Picturque sumptuous and lavish production add greatly to a picture ably directed, well enacted, and artistically photographed. Dick Powell is in fine form in a good vehicle as the prince incognito. Adults: very good: 14-15: good: 8-14: good." — Calif Cong of Par & Teachers Photographically beautiful, but a thin story and unhappy casting give the screen version of 'Glory of the Betty' the feeling of insincerity. The dramatic theme and delightful romance are all but lost because of the farradic treatment of the whole by the Board of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

"Colorful, gay, and amusing romance. Based on history. Mature-family. Good." DAR

"[It is] a picture of fine entertainment for the family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"Glamorous, light, amusing entertainment. Family." Mrs T. G. Winter

"FAMILY LJ Estimates Je 15 '36

"This had all the makings of a most entertaining picture but it did not realize its possibilities. . . This is due in part to the in- spiration Miss Davies, and Mr. Powell in their romantic roles, and in part to an inadequate setting of the two scenes, 12-15: probably entertaining; children, 12+: no interest."

— Motion Pict R J 1 '36

"[It is] a very stilted historical romance...

Family

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 19 '36

"A and Y: glamorous historical romance with music; entertaining. Parent's M p17 Ag '36

"Not entirely true to historical events, but sufficiently so as to prove good entertainment for the family.

+ Sel Motion Pic Jl 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Miss Davies is seen to the best advantage in her more playful moments during the earlier portions of the story. She is less appealing when she faces the big moment of her great renunciation... She might be well advised by her true friends to cultivate the lighter humor and leave to others the parts which call for emotional tooting. Frank Borzage and Mr. Powell in their roles, and in part to an inadequate setting of the two scenes, 12-15: probably entertaining; children, 12+: no interest."

— Motion Pict R J 1 '36

"Miss Davies is seen to the best advantage in her more playful moments during the earlier portions of the story. She is less appealing when she faces the big moment of her great renunciation... She might be well advised by her true friends to cultivate the lighter humor and leave to others the parts which call for emotional tooting. Frank Borzage and Mr. Powell in their roles, and in part to an inadequate setting of the two scenes, 12-15: probably entertaining; children, 12+: no interest."

— Motion Pict R J 1 '36

"This had all the makings of a most entertaining picture but it did not realize its possibilities. . . This is due in part to the in- spiration Miss Davies, and Mr. Powell in their romantic roles, and in part to an inadequate setting of the two scenes, 12-15: probably entertaining; children, 12+: no interest."

— Motion Pict R J 1 '36

"[It is] a very stilted historical romance...

Family

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 19 '36

"A and Y: glamorous historical romance with music; entertaining. Parent's M p17 Ag '36

"Not entirely true to historical events, but sufficiently so as to prove good entertainment for the family.

+ Sel Motion Pic Jl 1 '36

"In spite of the fact that Marion Davies, the star of 'Hearts Divided,' may not deserve the rating, this picture because of its lavish production, careful direction and attractive settings, not to mention the splendid supporting cast does deserve mention among the month's better pictures. . . If you love pictures glowing with romance, youth, beauty and southern allure, you will adore 'Hearts Divided.' Whatever her histrionic failings may be, Marion Davies as Betsy Patterson, is good to look upon. Dick Powell as Jerome Bonaparte is reasonably effective and his master-of-ceremonies-mannerisms and looks quite handsome in his gold braided uniforms and coat apparel." Laura Elston

+ Canadian M p31 Jl 1 '36

"Miscoasting throws this romantic melodrama so much away that there is no telling whether or not its story could have been made more than mildly interesting." E. C. S

— Christian Science Monitor p13 Je 20 '36

"The fluffy Marion Davies' performance is all too much in the histrionic vein that might be expected from a student of high-school theatricals after her second lesson from a correspondence school of the 'dramas.' Arrogantly and heartlessly, she flattens, even flattens the grand collection of supporting players." J. P. Cun- ningham

Commonweal p287 Jl 19 '36

"An exceedingly tedious offering. . . When [Marion Davies] plays herself, she can draw from an audience the same mixture of adoration which is more than likely accounted for by those who come in personal contact with her. In 'Hearts Divided' she has a role which demands a finished acting of a Claudette Colbert, a Norma Shearer, a Luise Rainer; a role which she tries hard to translate into believable terms but does not make convincing. Her task was made more difficult by the presence in the cast of some of the screen's most accomplished players."— Hollywood Spec p10 Je 29 '36

"Warner's have strained every muscle in a Herculean effort to make 'Hearts Divided' a hit... Some of these embellishments can quite overcome the miscasting of Marion Davies, a comedienne, and Dick Powell, a crooner, in heavily romantic roles... In short, 'Hearts Divided' is topheavy." (2 stars) Beverly Hill

Liberty p48 Jl 18 '36

"A wide-mouthed purse has been opened to surround a faintly crocky plot with enough glamour and musical-comedy trickery to keep it alive and bubbling for 1936 audiences. The result is a romantic picture in which Miss Davies is lovely. Dick Powell sings with his usual brio and a New York stage actor, Claude Rains, steals the show to achieve a long, carefully chested exhibition. Maryland audiences will react warmly to the film's involving plot taking off in old Baltimore. The cinema seldom has created such a completely likeable story, customs and wistful loveliness of an old and romantic city."— Lit Digest p19 Je 20 '36

"An innocuous performance by Dick Powell is somewhat counteracted by an excellent portrayal of Napoleon by Claude Rains and some diverting dialogue which, while not entirely in the Louisiana Purchase idiom, remains its most refreshing feature."— p8 Jl 36

"'Hearts Divided' turns out to be a particularly inept little costume piece in which Marion Davies proves unable to furnish first-rate entertainment even when directed by Frank Borzage and surrounded by such players as Dick Powell, Charles Ruggles, Edward Everett Horton, Henry Stephenson, Arthur Treacher, Claude Rains."

— Time p37 Je 22 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Lavishly mounted, intelligently directed and with an abundance of cast names, Marion Davies' features feature that America will fare well with the fans. Family."

+ Box Office p45 Je 20 '36

HEROES OF THE RANGE. Columbia 51min

Mr 28 '36

Director: Spencer Gordon Bennett

A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Family." E Coast Preview Committee

Fox W Coast Bul Ap 11 '36

"A, Y, and C: one more Western."— The Motion Pict Ap 12 '36

"A generally mediocre production, totally lacking in novelty, treating of Western outlaws and their apprehension by a cowboy turned G-Man. The beautiful white horse, Tura, gives the one praiseworthy touch to an innocuous story which otherwise must be classified as 'just another Western.'— Familiar Review

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
HEROES OF THE RANGE—Continued

Trade Paper Reviews

"Following the old formula route, this Western manages to hold the interest with a fast action story that keeps things pep-ped up from the start. Ken Maynard is in the saddle most of the time, and when he is standing on his feet he is usually engaged in gun work or using his fists handily, so all in all it is a lively drama of the open plains that will please the young-at-heart." + Film Daily p16 Ag 18 '36

"This is an entertaining Western that is sure-fire fare for the enthusiasts. As usual with Ken Maynard films there are a few musical interludes in outdoor fashion that are quite pleasing." + Motion Pict Daily p12 Ag 20 '36

"This time Ken Maynard is a G-man. It's a new role for him, but he's still in chaps riding Tarzan, that nice big white hoss of his, and the background is the same as in most Westerns. Although crammed with action, pounding hoofs, a lot of gunfire and plenty of fisticuffs, it is still the usual recipe. "Heroes of the Range" is only fair to middlin'. It shouldn't expect to arouse more than passing interest." + Variety p16 Ag 19 '36

HIGH TENSION. 20th century-Fox 62min Je 26 '36

Players: Brian Donlevy, Glenda Farrell. Norman Foster, Helen Wood

Director: Allan Dwan

A roistering under-sea diver who repairs ocean cables is continually in scrapes with his pal and boss. He battles also with his sweetheart, a pulp magazine writer who uses his adventures for plots. Finally, after a thrilling rescue in the best picture tradition, he saves his pal's life and wins the girl.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: poor; Y and C: no." Century p1239 S 16 '36

"Unnecessary drinking and two roughhouse episodes make this unsuitable for children. Adults." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Too much drinking and too prolonged slapstick fighting. Adults: matter of taste: family: no: 14-15: no: 8-14: no." Calif Cong of Para & Teachers

"Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Waste of time. Adults." DAR

"Adults." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Marvelously photographed under-sea sets and capable acting and dialogue, combine to bring very good entertainment to the family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women Fox W Coast Bul Jl 4 '36

"There is plenty of action, often verging on slapstick, but the total value of the film is dubious. Adults." + Jt Estimates Jl 1 '36

"Adolescents, 12-16: no; children, 8-12: no." Motion Pict R S Jl 36

"There is interesting photography of men at work on the bed of the ocean and a story which is somewhat different. However unimaginative direction which fails to click loses an opportunity for clever results. Family." + Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 24 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Jl 9 '36

"A, Y and C: fair comedy." Parents' M p69 S '36

"Adults." Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

News Paper and Magazine Reviews

"High Tension is a loud and funny comedy written almost entirely in the vernacular, which is well suited to Miss Glenda Farrell's aptitude for robust comedy. Here she is aided and abetted by Brian Donlevy. "High Tension" may be recommended to the not too finicky as a better than average hot-weather screen fare." T. M. P. + NY Times p11 Jl 11 '36

Reviewed by William Boehnel

N Y World-Telegram p10 Jl 13 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Rapidly paced story, weak on the action and strong on the comedy. The Western plus the comedy talents of Glenda Farrell and the physique of Brian Donlevy. Family." + Film Daily p24 Je 16 '36

"Moving at a high rate of speed with scene after scene loaded with bang-up action, characters who are amusing and exciting, hilarious comedy, and clever talk, this show makes first class program entertainment and should be at home in any house using any type of action fare. The handling of the fight scenes sets a new style and they are knockouts in more than one sense of the world." + Hollywood Reporter p3 Je 13 '36

"Treating deep-sea diving in a farcical rather than a dramatic manner, this picture emerges as a fast-moving comedy which should click in smaller houses. . . Comedy is the best selling angle and should produce satisfactory results if emphasized." Motion Pict Daily p11 Je 15 '36

"Estimate: for neighborhoods, twin bills." + Phila Exhibitor p72 Jl 1 '36

"Speedy, actionful comedy, which looks as strong fare on any dualer, and may get by in some single spots. Chief weakness is lack of heavy name appeal. . Technical phases of deep-sea diving in repairing cables are touched on lightly, making story doubly effective. . This should build on word-of-mouth to sizable portions. It will be an audience-pleaser." + Variety p55 Jl 15 '36

"In the B class it is as good as comes along, should hold its own on any dual bill and will stand by itself in many single spots. Donlevy the comedy talent steps out in front as a fast-talking screen personality. . He's in character all the time, tossing off many a wisecrack worthy of better pictures. This effort should win him a flock of new followers." + Variety (Hollywood) p3 Je 13 '36

"HILL TILLIES. MGM 18min Ap 4 '36

Players: Patsey Kelly, Lyda Roberti, Toby Wing

Director: Hal Roach

In order to attract publicity so they may get theatrical offers, a prominent agent arranges for Patsey Kelly and Lyda Roberti to live for ten days in the woods without food.

(30)
Audience Suitability Ratings

"Family."
Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

"[It is a] farcical comedy, Family."
Wkly Guide JI 11 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Although there are stretches of dialogue that are zany, this comedy is deep enough to arouse an amused reaction from lighthearted patrons."

Box Office p27 JI 25 '36
Film Daily p3 JI 11 '36

"This is an amusing comedy by that hair-brained trio, Lydia Robert, Patsy Kelly and Toby Wing, which has some clever lines and funny situations... It has some fresh twists. Entertaining."

Motion Pict Daily p9 JI 15 '36

HIS BROTHER'S WIFE. MGM 90min Ag 7 '36 Players: Barbara Stanwyck, Robert Taylor, John Eldredge, Jean Hersholt, Joseph Calleia Director: W. S. Van Dyke Taylor portrays a playwright-science who is about to leave for some medical research in tropical jungles. He meets a dying man in a gambling house who persuades him to give up the research but his brother convinces him and he leaves. For revenge the model marries the brother.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: mediocre; Y: unwholesome; C: no."
Christian Century p1119 Ag 19 '36

"Entertaining but not convincing. The scenes of desperation in the city are not consistent with the self-sacrificing loyalty of which both hero and heroine are capable when in the wilderness. Adults only."
Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"An unusually good cast and expert direction obscure a story which should not be too closely analyzed. Enjoyed. Mature."
Calif Pict of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Adults. Good."
DAR

"Peculiar motivations, but the action is interesting, involving an expedition into southern jungles to bring down a fever germ. Mature."
Nat Bd of R

"A technically superior picture, vivid, convincingly acted and sympathetically interpreted. Adults & young people."
Nat Soc of New England Women

"Adults & young people."
S Calif Council of Fed Church Women
Fox W Coast Bul Ag 15 '36

"Adults & young people."
Gen Pict of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ag 5 '36

"Mature."
Jt Estimates Ag 1 '36

"Although the direction is fast moving and logical, the story is highly improbable and unconvincing. Special mention should be made for fine performances on the part of Robert Taylor, Jean Hersholt, and John Eldredge, Famly."

Nat Council of Jewish Women Ag 5 '36

"Adults."
Nat Legion of Decency Ag 12 '36

"Mature."
Sel Motion Pict SS 1 '36

"Peculiar motivations, but the action is interesting. Mature."
Wkly Guide Ag 7 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"In 'His Brother's Wife' the juxtaposition of caddishness and nobility becomes somewhat confusing to the plodding patron of the arts... The film's weaknesses are one done by John Eldredge, as that helpless pawn of fate, Chris's worried, conscientious brother. Miss Stanwyck seems a little over-histrionic and throaty."
B. L.

+ — Boston Transcript p3 Ag 15 '36

Christian Science Monitor p44 Ag 15 '36

"'His Brother's Wife' is an example of the adroit making of acceptable screen entertainment out of a poor script. The story is full of holes, its motivating incidents being merely mechanical contrivances to keep it going irrespective of psychological soundness. The kind of girl Barbara plays would not do the things she does. The inexplicable heroism of this brother of the man she loves can not be reconciled with her herosim toward the end of the picture. In the picture is a lot of entertaining, thanks chiefly to Barbara Stanwyck's charm. The screen is alive every moment she is on it. Even though we can not approve the things she does, we approve highly her manner of doing them."

+ — Hollywood Spec p6 Ag 15 '36

"Grimly painful and heavily dramatic by turns. 'His Brother's Wife' is a disconcerting melange of muscle-bound whinny and bosom-heaving drama. There is hardly a realistic moment in the film, and the story jumps from episode to episode with little regard for logic."
(12 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p9 S 12 '36

"[It is] a safely old-fashioned photoplay triangle that suffers from two flaws in addition to its curious lack of vitality. That lack of vitality is particularly surprising because the film was directed by W. S. Van Dyke, who is popularly supposed to be the high priest of directorial vigor. The other chief defects I found in the film are (1) that each climax in the story can be anticipated at least ten minutes before the director gets around to it, and (2) that the characters are the most ana gorizing and generally unpleasant of the sea son. I think this is a handicap in romantic tales."
R. H. Watts, Jr.

— N Y Herald Tribune p6 Ag 15 '36

"Incredibly romantic, grossly produced, expertly directed and peopled by the sort of players most often encountered on the covers of the fan magazines, 'His Brother's Wife'—even to its title—has been so astutely aimed at the box office that we can but stiffen resignedly and wait long for cringeworthy dithyrambs. A triumph of machine-made art, it is a picture that will succeed no matter how we, in our ivory tower, rail against it for its romantic absurdity... For all its outrageous implausibility, the spotted-fever-brother's wife saga has been so smoothly directed that Van Dyke that it probably will hold your attention, even though it does not reward it."
F. S. Nugent

N Y Times p6 Ag 15 '36

"Among the actors in a polished performance are such adroit people as lovely Barbara Stan wyck, Robert Taylor, Jean Hersholt, John Eldredge and Joseph Calleia. In these circumstances it is a little bewildering to have to report that the result is astonishingly in sufficient. I must admit that not only pretty torpid about it but full of sorrow on behalf of everybody in it, even the apparently the audience is unable to take its soap melo dramatics any more seriously than I can... Faring worse of the Capitol exercised its prerogative seldom used and laughed right out loud at several of the film's most dramatic episodes. Loyal admirer though I am of the director and everybody in the cast, I cannot—
HIS BROTHER'S WIFE—Continued

Indeed, declare to—call it even a moderately good entertainment. Robert Taylor will

— N Y World-Telegram p15a Ag 15 '36

" 'His Brother's Wife' is a somewhat agonizing film, partly because of the peculiarly awk ward situation in which the characters find themselves and John D. B. Goodman's heuristic flippancy with which they express their painful opinions as to the fact that they appreciate the spite marriage of the heroine to the brother of the man she loves, and will hardly feel entirely reassured with respect to the suitability of a wife in the way for future adjustments." John Mosher

— New Yorker p50 Ag 22 '36

A superabundance of plot becomes bewildering;
at times the motivation smacks of Miss Gertrude

Stein, and there's a sour taste... no matter how hard the dialogue strives to keep the situation clean. Robert Taylor offers a performance that is as neat as the handkerchief

he sports in his breast-pocket. Right now his profile is enough to satiate the matinee girls

but bits of business, the reading of single lines, show he's improving as an actor." Hero Sterne

— Time p48 Ag 17 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Definitely a money picture, what with three sure draw names, an entertaining story, a goodly sprinkling of comedy and superior direction and production. Family." +

— Box Office p25 Ag 8 '36

"Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck, long co-starred romantically in fan magazines and collected provokingly in real life, 'His Brother's Wife' stimulates what is possibly the best performance of each to date, in spite of moments when Michael & Leon Gordon's screen play buckles under heavy alternately loads of whimsy and melodrama." +

— Hollywood Reporter p3 Jl 29 '36

"Here is one with all the elements of a great box-office success. It has smash performances...

and a story filled with the kind of hokum that is always certain of audience ap peal. But—and this is a big BUT—the picture in its preview form is so over-plotted as to seem overlength. The time is actually less than an hour and a half, yet additional editing is called for... All of which adds up to too much plot for any one picture. With some of the confusing motivations eliminated, the improve ment would be marked." +

— Hollywood Reporter p3 JI 29 '36

"The chief appeal of this handsomely pro duced film lies in the performances of Robert

Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck in essentially unsympathetic roles, which yet somehow fail to gain the sympathy of the audience for faulty,

but human, characters." +

— Motion Picture Daily p3 Jl 30 '36

"With hero Taylor riding the crest of the wave, 'His Brother's Wife' should be respon sible for big dough at the box office. Backed by a dramatically light story, capable of upon Taylor to act for a change, the picture is saleable, with Taylor's draw insurance." +

— Hollywood Reporter p33 JI 30 '36

" 'His Brother's Wife' puts Robert Taylor

over the top and re-establishes Barbara Stan wyck... Taylor, as a potential No. 1 male draw for the feminie, clinches himself in this

un. And Miss Stanwyck, who has been carry ning dubious messages to Garcia and shooting

Annie Oakleys, likewise does all right for her immediate film future which, for a time was on uncertain shoals.

Basically of course, both the [heroine] and the hero aren't of [the] Elizabethan or the Elizabethan stan dard. He's a bit of a shallow playboy and the fact that she becomes a steerer for a clip joint—but what a clip joint!—isn't exactly Rover Boy timber, but then it's that sort of a story."

+ Variety p16 Ag 19 '36

"A cast of big names, a fair story and dialog that has plenty of punch, fail to put 'His Brother's Wife' into the class of outstanding pictures. In many cases, the picture lags, a factor which can be remedied to a great degree in the cutting process." + — Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 29 '36

HOLLYWOOD BOULEVARD. Paramount

Players: John Halliday, Marsha Hunt, +

Director: Robert Florey

"The interwoven story concerns a has-been actor, once at the top and famous for his amours, who is now struggling to come back.

He is presently involved in writing the story of his love-life for a pulp magazine and on the strength of the yarn gets back into pictures. But the magazine stuff threatens the happi ness of various women, including his estranged wife and daughter, and toward the end there comes some genuine conflict." Hollywood Repor ter

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Mediocre. Mature." DAR

"Fox W Coast Bul S 5 '36"

"There is a vague feeling of sadness seeing once again on the screen the stars of yesterday who lost their popular appeal years before it seemed they should. Mature. Cali Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"The fact is brought out that the public sees the type of movies which it will support and thereby aids in production. Intelligently directed and except for one excessive drinking, very interesting for adult audiences." Nat Soj "England Woman"

"The picture is distinctively constructive in value and should be enjoyable to all except the very young children. Family." S Cali' Council of

Fed Church Women

"Fox W Coast Bul S 5 '36"

"The picture is well cast, acted and directed with its chief interest the return to the screen of many of the old time favorites, the colorful background of Hollywood and beautiful Santa

Barbara, studio scenes, and the excellent use made of staging, lighting, and photography.

Family-mature." +

— Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)

"In an effort to bring back to the screen some of the favorites of the silent screen, Paramount has produced an exceedingly interesting picture... Hollywood and its interesting bits of local color and well known spots. Santa Bar bara sustain veracity and authenticity to the production.

— Nat Council of Jewish Women S 1 '36

"Adults."

— Nat Legion of Decency Ag 20 '36

"The plot emphasizes the meteoric glory of fame and the inevitable passing of the popular ity of a public entertainer. Adults & young people." +

— Sel Motion Pictr S 1 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"'Hollywood Boulevard' is an expert piece of direction, away above what we find in ninety per cent of the movies these days. Big pictures made by the big directors... [It] is good enough to be shown anywhere. It is interesting from the start of the first introductory title... Do not let the fact of its appearance on some double bill keep you away from 'Hollywood Boulevard.' Single bill houses that show a better conception of the public..."

+ Hollywood Spec p7 Ag 29 '36

"Veteran picturegoers should get a certain pleasure out of spotting the old-time performers who glit through the film's gaudy background... [It] is a film that is at all times interesting, both in its heavy plot and frivolous decorations." (2½ stars) Beverly Hills

Liberty p11 S 12 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A highly entertaining picture with a good story, excellent acting and direction, and enough shots of the film capital to sell it to any moviegoer. Although the story is played a bit too grimly to be realistic, there are enough sly digs taken at the film colony to offset any heaviness." + Box Office p25 Ag 8 '36

"The Hollywood background should be interesting to those who have read and heard about the different spots shown. They should serve well in exploitation. The old-timers should also help to make the picture a good program number. Robert Florey, the director, has gotten as much as possible from the material, which is none too strong. It lacks punch and has a tendency to ramble without hitting any real high spots." + — Film Daily p7 Ag 4 '36

"An engaging idea went wrong in the dramatizing of this minor saga of professional life in Hollywood and it emerges as neither comedy, sound drama nor even tragedy, though the last comes nearest to the result. A rather footless and episodic story that arrives close to interesting. It is spotted with Hollywood locations and personalities and anti-Hollywood philosophy. These supply exploitation angles that will help get the picture across in the less critical fields... John Halliday, sterling trouper though he is, is too restrained and well-posed for the flamboyant director, and Robert Cummings, excellent juvenile, is scarcely at home as a poet in a studio-writing straight-jacket."

+ — Hollywood Reporter p8 Jl 31 '36

"The presence of former film stars and the background of the film capital combine to make this picture an exploitation natural even though the story drags and is never as interesting as the shots of the Brown Derby, Sardi's, the Trocadero and other spots which are shown." + — Motion Pict Daily p4 Ag 1 '36

"An oddity in that it tells a story of Hollywood, with some old time faces that will make a lot of movie patrons realize how old they are, this is exploitable even if short on star draw."

— Philas Exhibitor p36 Ag 15 '36

"Good exploitation picture with many a sales angle that should appeal to the fans who have a yen for Hollywood information and would like a glimpse of this Big Bad World. Two angles stand out; Hollywood itself and the inclusion of some former stars who are still interesting to many a picture-goer. The inclusion of the former stars is a bit muddled, with several of them unrecognized, but however, most will be familiar to the generation which went to pictures nightly some years back." + — Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 1 '36

HOT MONEY. Warner 70mm Jl 25 '36

Players: Ross Alexander, Beverly Roberts, Joseph Cawthorn, Paul Graetz

Director: William McGann

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"[It] is a fairly entertaining program picture. .. Adults: fair; 14-18: fair; 8-14: involved." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Family," Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Family," S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul Je 20 '36

"Mature." Jt Estimates Je 15 '36

"Suitable family." Mo Film Bul p116 Jl '36

"It is undoubtedly far-fetched, but there is sufficient originality in treatment to make it lightly entertaining. Adolescents, 12-16: fair; children, 8-11: Good." + — Motion Pict R Jl 36

"Fast-moving, expert direction and a well chosen cast somewhat redeem this otherwise mediocre farce comedy. The actors struggle hopelessly to make the production other than dull and uninteresting. Family." + — Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 10 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Jl 2 '36

"A and Y; good farce; C: mature." Parents' M p69 S '36

"Farcical situations, good dialogue, an exuberant young hero and an attractive heroine. Mature." Sel Motion Pict Jl 1 '36

"Family." Wkly Guide Je 27 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Patterned somewhat along the lines of 'Get Rich Quick, Willingford,' with the new film as neither particularly good nor conspicuously poor fare. Thanks to competent editing and direction, it falls quite gracefully into that niche reserved for 'amiable entertainments.'" T. M. P.

+ — N Y Times p16 Jl 25 '36

"In spite of one or two genuinely comic performances and an idea that has possibilities for routine entertainment, the intrigue, stock figures and stereotyped phrases of 'Hot Money' spare the audience excessive pleasure. If the piece had been competently written and staged with the technique and lucidity required by farce comedy the work of Ross Alexander, Joseph Cawthorn and Paul Graetz would have stood out to better advantage and the audience might have been fairly well served. As it stands now 'Hot Money' is monotonous fare." William Boehne.

+ — N Y World-Telegram p20 Jl 27 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Another addition to the light summer frivolities that has little in the general lineup to recommend it. The entire action is based on so many improbabilities and far-fetched situations that it holds little appeal to intelligent audiences." — Film Daily p4 Jl 25 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
HOT MONEY—Continued

"It is not played as straight farce nor burlesque comedy, so what was intended is anybody's guess. Nevertheless, it manages to extract a fair share of laughs solely through some absurd situations and spontaneous humor provided, by Joe Cawthorn and Andrew Tomkins."

— Variety p15 JI 29 '36

I LOVE YOU ONLY. Nuovo mondo. 75min JI 15 '36
Players: Milly, Vittorio de Sica. Enrico
Viariiso. Giuditta Rissono
Director: Mario Mattioli
An Italian dialogue film with English subtitles. Known also as Amo Te Sola. Against a background of the turbulent days of 1848 when the Grand Duke Leopold of Tuscany was driven from Florence by the liberal party, this musical drama tells the story of a titled girl in love with a composer.

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"This latest production from the Rome Cines Studios is a romantic farce, with music, a bit of opera, and a liberal background that doesn't disturb it in the least... These Italian talkies are improving all the time. The photography is still uninteresting, and the direction sometimes too hurried, occasionally too slow. The romantic leads, Milly and Vittorio de Sica, are a good-looking pair... "I Love You Only" is cheerful hot-weather entertainment designed of course for Italian audiences."

Elleen Creelman
— N Y Sun p22 JI 21 '36

"Delightful scenes in city and country, excellent acting and pleasant musical bits make 'Amo Te Sola' well worth seeing." H. T. S.

+ N Y Times p11 JI 20 '36

Trade Press Reviews

"[It is ail generally pleasing romance with music, well acted and directed in the beautiful background of Florence and surrounding suburban country."

Film Daily p8 JI 22 '36

"This Italian importation appears to be entertaining fare, but with an appeal limited almost entirely to those audiences understanding the language. This is true since neither situations nor performances, although capable, are sufficiently outstanding to overcome the importance of the dialogue in providing the entertainment."

Motion Picture Daily p8 JI 24 '36

"This import is effective in its lighter and musical moments. Because musical angle has been made predominant it should satisfy foreign language spots where they may be. The mixture of dialog partially lost in English captioning... Leisurely manner in which plot is developed and overall casualness of endless talk undoubtedly will annoy average American audience. Music and musical background are most commendable features of film."

+ Variety p34 JI 21 '36

I STAND CONDEMNED. United artists-Korda Films, Inc. JI 16 '36
Players: Harry Baur, Laurence Olivier, Penelope Dudley-Ward
Director: Anthony Asquith
See issue of March 30, 1936 for other reviews of this film under title of Moscow Nights and issue of June 29, 1936 under title I Stand Condemned. Released in England under title Moscow Nights

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: fairly good; Y: perhaps; C: no interest."

Christian Century p99 JI 15 '36

"[Harry Baur] as the peasant-merchant, cruel and kindly by turn, and willing to sacrifice himself to bring happiness to the girl he loves, evokes sympathy and admiration for a fine performance. The direction is most capable and understanding, the photography is exceptionally fine, and there are some very interesting Russian dances."

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women JI 22 '36

"Adults."

Nat Legion of Decency Je 25 '36

"A: rather slow-moving but interesting; Y: possible; C: no interest."

Parents' M p59 S '36

"Adults & young people." Sel Motion Pic Ag 1 '36

"Mature." Wkly Guide Je 20 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"In the film Mr. Olivier, though he is a capable young man, is overshadowed by Harry Baur, the accomplished French actor. The interest of the film lies not so much in the story as in the acting. There are too many familiar ingredients in the plot for it to be completely successful. The players, however, are up to the mark."

— Boston Transcript p3 JI 18 '36

"The play does have in its favor a new Russian dress, a wealth of authentic song-and-dance pleasantries, and some excellent acting, especially by Milly."

J. P. Cunningham
Commonweal p307 JI 17 '36

"To those who saw Harry Baur's extraordinary performances in 'Poil de Carotte' and 'Crime et Châtiment' it seems incredible that in his first English movie he should be dull."

Nat Council JI 28 '36

"It is certainly one of the poorest imports of several years. Harry Baur's inflated performance as the love-deranged capitalist who plots the death of his rich, coming-of-age daughter is markable Porphyry in 'Crime et Châtiment' is an illuminating comment on the importance of direction in the movies." Robert Stebbins

— New Theatre p22 Ag '36

"'I Stand Condemned' betrays most of the virtues and faults of British film-making... It has moments of stirring suspense and cinematic beauty but it lacks the cunning timing and sharp conflict of character that is so necessary to a realization of its fanciful theme. Anthony Asquith has directed it with more than a passing glance at Soviet motion picture technique... The most brilliant acting in 'I Stand Condemned' is done by Laurence Olivier... Eric Slepman has gone in too heavily for atmosphere. A motion picture of this type needs swift telling with nothing but significant detail to register with impact on the screen. Much of 'I Stand Condemned,' while pleasantly produced, gives the impression that the director is merely marking time." Howard Barnes

— N Y Herald Tribune p16 JI 2 '36

"[It] is an exciteable piece, keyed up to the performance of Harry Baur, as vivid a characterization as any screen has offered this season anyway... Hollywood may yet have to start worrying again about British competition."

Elleen Creelman
+ N Y Sun p10 JI 2 '36

"There is a somewhat poignant study in moods in the new London Films production 'I Stand Condemned,' that permits the virtuose
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

French character actor, Harry Baur, to exhibit, despite definite handicaps, considerable of the wide emotional range for which he is noted in his own land. ... Penelope Dudley-Ward, as Natasha, resembles Hollywood’s Mary Astor in many ways. Her performance is a tempered one in a part that might easily have been overdone. ... Laurence Olivier’s portrayal of Ignaz Novák is too clipped and offbeat, and his voice cracked a couple of times just when folks were expecting great things in the way of acting to complete his resemblance to Ronald Colman.” — J. T. M.

"Although it grieves me to say so, ’I Stand Condemed’ isn’t going to make any great stir, yet it has its points. ... The fast pace helps the sketch a lot, and you may even find it superior to the average.” — John Mosher

"Whoever titled ’I Stand Condemed,’ London Films production of a World War Russian-spy story, perpetrated a film at the expense of a famous character star. ... Chief impression: Baur’s acting with his eyebrows.” — NEW YORKER 5/6/37  J. S. E.

" ’I Stand Condemed’ has been lauded as a vehicle for the acting prowess of Harry Baur, but it is Olivier who really gives the outstanding performance, his graceful wit and agile behavior coinciding regularly with the best moments of the film. These two actors present the picture’s main weaknesses—its histrionic technique—and the picture is an excellent stand-by for the event.” — Stage 12/13 36

Time 5/3 12 ‘36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Adults.” — Box Office 5/23 11 ‘36

Canadian Moving Pic Digest 5/9 1936

“This is a remake of ’Nuits Moscovites’ (’Moscov Nights’), one of last season’s best French films. The weakness was the story; translated into English the story is an even worse stumbling-block... Its leisurely procedure... won’t help it in this market. Camera, work and other technical production is fine. — + Variety 5/15 8 ‘36

I WAS A CAPTIVE OF NAZI GERMANY. Malvina $9.98 mg 2 ‘36

Producers: Isabel Steele and an anonymous cast

Director: Alfred T. Mannon

The picture is an account of the arrest and imprisonment for espionage of an American girl, Isabel Steele, by Nazi officials and her detention in a prison under unbelievably harsh circumstances for four months until her release through the intervention of Senator William E. Borah.

Audience Suitability Ratings

“Frankly propagandist in nature, it nevertheless has a sufficient background of fact to give an audience some knowledge of life under a dictatorship.” — Nat Legion of Decency 5/9 36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; —— Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The document of Isabel Steele, made with bad actors and worse equipment. Unlikely to persuade anyone who is not already convinced Germany is the proper government.” — Nation 5/16 8 ‘36

"While the picture is pure propaganda exposing a vicious affair, if it is true, it deserves to be watched. If it is not, if it is not an apology for Nazism, it is still a fascinating study of the methods the Nazis used to obtain information, and to determine to which persons acting, too, is for the most part inexperienced, although certain characters, a prosecutor in the trial scene, for example, are fine. This cinema will not entertain audiences, but rather leave them angry.” — Marguerite Tazelaar

N Y World-Telegram 5/11 2 ‘36

"For all the elaborate precautions of the film’s makers to ward off (what we are led to believe would be) Hitler’s retaliation—the cast, with its large number of remaining anonymous, and the producer, Malvina Productions, being just a Hollywood Jane Doe—the picture is not an experience that will linger longer than a mirror for Miss Steele’s rather amazing unsophistication. This inference we had drawn first after Miss Steele’s rather German experiences; there is no doubt about it any longer.” — F. S. Nugent

N Y Times 5/11 2 ‘36

“Although I am all on the side of the author, I must confess that the film is a little too pretentious to be an effective protest. As performed on the screen of the cinema, it is so loosely written, ineptly cast and indifferently acted that its ’idea’ is bungled. At heart a skilled entertainer, it is so logically planned that it fails both as propaganda and entertainment... Frankly, this is the sort of film which, to be effective must be a good not only in its convolutions but in its presentation. To be anything less serves to weaken the cause it espouses. It is with regret that I report that ’I Was a Captive of Nazi Germany’ is a showy affectation, amateurishly produced and acted.” — William Boehnel

N Y World-Telegram 5/11 4 ‘36

Trade Paper Reviews

"As the experiences of Isabel Steele in Germany during 1934 are presented in sequences of this film, the screen has displayed some sympathy for her alleged treatment at hands of Nazi authorities. Audiences enjoying inflammatory propaganda at one time or another will find a good deal in the episodes to fan indignation. Isabel Steele herself plays the leading role, a surprising skill, and her presence adds interest to the picture.” — Film Daily 5/7 4 ‘36

"Actually, the film is neither more nor less than a pictorial record, and, as such, must be reckoned of limited appeal for general audience consumption. For those who feel strongly on the situation which exists in Nazi Germany the film offers something definitely of interest. For all others interested in the extent to which a political conspiracy may or may not be exercising absolute power, the picture likewise should be worthwhile.” — Motion Pic Daily 5/5 4 ‘36

"This is typical inferior independent stuff. Miss Steele’s experiences are put on thick, the set is cluttered with Keystone cops, snarling Germans with no name. — Estimate: limited.” — Phila Exhibitor 5/17 15 ‘36

"Possibilities of making a gripping screen yarn were muffed through the inclusion of extraneous material, faulty pacing and bad acting. Proper cutting job might enhance its possibilities. Despite these and other flaws, there is no question but the picture being a strong preachment against the Nazi rule. Hence, it will be up to the individual exhibitor to decide whether he wants to play the film and whether it would be suited for his particular type of patronage. It is too prolonged to fit nicely on many double bills and too weak to stand alone.
I WAS A CAPTIVE OF NAZI GERMANY—Continued

+ — Variety p17 Ag 5 '36

I'D GIVE MY LIFE. Rowland-Paramount 80min Ag 19 '36
Players: Sir Guy Standing, Frances Drake.
Director: Edwin L. Marin.
Based on the play, The Noose, by H. H. Van Loon and Willard Mack. Filmed previously in 1928. It is being shown by some theatres under title of The Noose. "It is the story of a µtheed by a high-grade crook and who chooses to go to the gallows in silence for the crook's murder rather than save himself by revealing that he is the post-marital son of the governor's wife by the man he has murdered in defense of her name." (Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A: depends on taste; Y: better not; C: no."
Christian Century p175 S 2 '36
"[This is a] heavy topical film. Adults." Am Legion Auxiliary.
"Unusual lighting effects, symbolism, and splendid photography. Adults: good; family: no; 14-15: no; 8-14: no." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers.
"Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs
"Logical situations. Adults. Mediocure." DAR
"Ethically, it is satisfactory but there is little relieving comedy and the film as a whole is heavy and rather harrowing. Adults." Nat Soc of New England Women.
"Clever use of symbolism and lighting effects, enhance the tenesness of suspense and give a true ethical tone to a near tragedy. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women.
Fox W Coast Bul Ag 8 '36
"[It is a] vividly portrayed human interest picture. Picture is so unlike the romantic type this is an engrossing story, well developed, acted with sincerity, and directed with skill and understanding. Adults & young people." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Jl 28 '36
"This production is given a degree of plausibility by the sincerity of the acting and capable direction. Mature." Jt Estimates Ag 1 '36
"Adults." Nat Legion of Decency Ag 13 '36
"Mature." Sel Motion Pict S 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
Christian Science Monitor p17 S 5 '36
"It remained for Edwin L. Marin to give us the first picture in which every line of dialogue is given its real meaning by the tone in which it is uttered. In their love scenes Frances Drake and Tom Brown exchange affectionate expressions almost in whispers, and in the entire picture not a line is spoken above a conversational pitch, the result being that 'I'd Give My Life' is one of the most convincing bits of entertainment the screen has shown this year. Talking in natural conversational tones curbs the disposition of a player to over-act, consequently the performances are smooth, easy and entirely convincing."
+ — Hollywood Spec p8 Ag 29 '36

"Produced none too effectively, although with high emotion. Much of its plausibility due to the animated performances of Mr. Brown and Frances Drake, the piece seems dated, not alone because it deals with the prohibition era and its nightclub and speakeasy backgrounds, but because the lines and situations have the slightly stale aroma of a past season's hit or an old newspaper's headlines. . . . Director Marin has treated the melodrama with sufficient gloss but unfortunately in a fairly standard manner. The performances are far better than the script. We must voice an objection to Tom Brown as Nickie, feeling that Mr. Brown, a very nice young man, (this—probably because of his niceness—to convince us he could be a reform school alumnus or even a half-hearted lieutenant in charge of the evil Mr. Gordon.) F. S. Nugent.
— — N Y Times p9 Ag 17 '36

"Somewhat blurred and out of proportion, 'I'd Give My Life' pulls its dramatic punch and deserves no better rating than middling melodrama. The performances are far better than the script. We must voice an objection to Tom Brown as Nickie, feeling that Mr. Brown, a very nice young man, (this—probably because of his niceness—to convince us he could be a reform school alumnus or even a half-hearted lieutenant in charge of the evil Mr. Gordon.)" F. S. Nugent.
— — N Y Herald Tribune p6 Ag 17 '36

"[It is] a sound, standardized melodramatic idea, moderately well worked out (and) makes for a tolerable hour or so in the cinema." William Boeing.
+ — World-Telegram p5a Ag 15 '36

"[It is] too farayed of a piece of yarn to hold up as modern screen fare. The dialogue is hi-falutin', the minions-of-the-law as well as the gangsters are depicted like so much, produce from a really good finishing school." Herb Sterne.
— Script p19 S 12 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"Heraldng his reentry into the production field, Richard A. Rowland brings forth a picture that promises well for his new venture. Brilliant, convincing acting under the sympathetic direction of Edwin L. Marin has developed melodrama that will pull at the heartstrings of any audience. Family." Box Office p29 Ag 1 '36

"Richard A. Rowland's first contribution to the Paramount has been unusually rich in a double program asset. It is an adroitly devised melodrama strong in tearful suspense that, without the aid of big production, would be an excellent subject, and build on word-of-mouth in the neighborhoods to good profits."
+ — Hollywood Reporter p3 Jl 24 '36

"An emotion-stirring melodrama through which runs a strong thread of suspense, this makes for acceptable average entertainment. . . . Though serious in tone, the picture seems to be of a character that will appeal to general audiences and be of particular attraction to women."
+ — Motion Pict Daily p4 Jl 25 '36

"This shapes up as a nice job but short on what the marque needs. Estimate: fair program."
+ — Phila Exhibitor p35 Ag 1 '36

"It's a low-budgeted film and creditable on its production. Picture is a bit shy on what it takes for a top-notch grosser. While it is built for the top name, though Tom Brown has the lead. Other names are less important to the box office. Everything in the play has been unusually well cast and deftly directed, although handicapped by too deliberate exposition of the premises, indicating a slowing down in the amount of dialogue that can correct. There is not sufficient plot material to warrant this diffuseness. . . . The picture should play fairly well in most spots as the top liner in a twosome."
+ — Variety p16 Ag 19 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocure; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor for the summer cinema, when standards are pretty mediocre," William Boehnel \P29 World-Telegram\p8 Ag 7 '36

" 'Jailbreak' belongs to a familiar school of culture. It's a fast, tough picture with a certain ingenuity hinted at in the working out of the mystery which is built up in the story.
All the types are usual—the loyal girl, the kindly warden, the bright young newspaperman, the gangsters and gangsters of screen melodrama." John Mosher
New Yorker p48 Ag 15 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"It should not be offered to discriminating audiences, however, as the story is loaded with absurdities only partly camouflaged by a certain speediness which Director Nick Grinde has achieved. Rates as a 80-minute companion for stronger pictures on dual bills. . . [The] two leads, Craig Reynolds and June Travis, are not only obscure newcomers but major weaknesses of the production on the score of poor performances. Girl is especially stilted and unconvincing." Variety p18 Ag 12 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The documentary evidence . . . has not been adroitly organized with the underlying account of Fascist aggression. The Vertov 'camera eye' method requires consummate weaving together of real and imagined scenes. In 'Der Kampf,' the former are unquestionably authentic but they tend to interrupt and confuse the main exposition. . . Curiously enough, there are none of the Jewish persecutions that have been identified in most American minds with Hitler's climbing into the saddle. . . Gustav Wangenheim has staged parts of the photoplay brilliantly, but he has not been able to make it either a piece of arresting rapportage or a credible straight drama." Howard Barnes
N Y Daily News p15 S 11 '36

"By far the most vigorous and the most accurate condemnation of the Nazi scheme of things, the film is betrayed by the very fervor of its makers. When a speaker permits himself to be carried away by his own emotion, he becomes incoherent; 'Der Kampf,' produced by a group which has reason to regard the Nazis with intense hatred and the Soviet with loyalty and hope, becomes confused, fastidiously fancied and, at times, maudlin. If the propaganda film is to be a telling instrument against the Hitler regime it must be used with the icy precision of a surgeon's scalpel, not as a butcher's clea-
v." F. S. Stuen
N Y World-Telegram p29 S 11 '36

"If I may be permitted to divorce my critical judgment from my sentiments I shall straightway have to report that "Der Kampf" is a pretty poor film, largely because it wants to

K

DER KAMPF. Aminoko 90min S 10 '36
Players: Lotte Loebingar, Bruno Schmitsdorf, Gregor Georg, Ingeborg Franke
Director: Gustav Wangenheim

German dialogue film with English sub-titles, made in Moscow by exiles and refugees from the Hitler regime in Germany. "[It] tells of the beginnings of Hitlerism in Germany and how the Nazis try to blame outrages that they have committed on their enemies. More specifically, it tells how one Fritz Lenke, more fond of football than of justice, finally comes over to the side of some gallant protesters who are all fighting for their lives, their religion, their political belief—in short, their birthright." (N Y World-Telegram)

KELLY OF THE SECRET SERVICE. Principal 69min
Players: Lloyd Hughes. Sheila Mannors.
Fuzzy Knight
Director: Robert Hill

Based on a short story. On Irish Hill by Peter D. Kyne. The plot deals with a scientist who has perfected an aerial bomb to keep enemies fleets from our shores. After the plans are stolen by an exiled scientist through hypnotism, the government agents step in and after numerous exciting adventures unscramble
the facts.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Jl 2 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"While lacking strength for larger ker-cy-first runs this is diverting amusement for average moviegoers. . . It has a good plot full of intrigue and thrills." + Film Daily p3 Jl 22 '36

"Estimate: for action houses." Phila Exhibitor p65 Ag 1 '36

KING OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED. Principal-
20th century-Fox 60min S 11 '36
Players: Robert Kent. Rosalind Keith. Alan Dinehart. Frank Morgan. Lynne Darnell.
Director: Howard Bretherton

Based on the novel of same title by Zane Grey. A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Family." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)
S 2 '36

"Family." Nat Council of Jewish Women S 2 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency S 17 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
KING OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED—Continued

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"King of the Royal Mounted" contains all the ingredients that make for success, glorious scenery, cast capable and cast, and usual story, but Howard Bretherton's direction makes a poor thing of it. The dialogue is just lines spoken without any regard for the significance of scenes... It is direction at the peak of its stupidity and which robs the picture of all conviction. Nevertheless, direction was all it needed to make it entertaining."

— Hollywood Spec p6 Ag 29 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"That old master of action dramas, Sol Lesser, turns in another picture sure to hit pay dirt at the box office. Family."

Box Office p25 S 5 '36

"A lightweight get-your-man yarn for people who think slowly, fabricated from run-of-the-mill Zane Grey ore. In fact, its materials are so familiar that the ore seems more like the tellings from that famous story mill. Earl Snell's screenplay gives it one or two new twists, but its slow, matter-of-fact telling must, to make it support duty in the lower brackets."

— Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 21 '36

"This has everything necessary to please those with enthusiasm for Westerns and action pictures. The film's principal quality is the magnificent mountain scenery photographed with unusual effectiveness. The story, which should make excellent lobby displays for a selling angle, and while it may make stuff for the small towns and neighborhood trade, is lacking in the sophistication necessary for the deluxe spots."

Motion Picture Daily p3 Ag 22 '36

"Estimate: fair; best for neighborhoods, twin bills."

— Philra Exhibitor p41 S 1 '36

"With a fairly strong yarn, Howard Bretherton's direction manages to keep story moving at a pace that holds interest throughout, yet at times continuity is somewhat marred by use of many abrupt cuts that put the actors in the awkward position of having to walk in and out of scenes in mechanical fashion as the whole is fair entertainment and should please the family trade and be acceptable to audiences appreciating outdoor fiction dramas."

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 21 '36

KING STEPS OUT. Columbia 75min My 15 '36

Players: Grace Moore, Franchot Tone, Fredric March, Elizabeth Risdon, Frieda Inescort

Director: Josef von Sternberg

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"[It] is an excellent vehicle for accentuating the loveliness and beauty personality of the star, but leaves something to be desired in vocal execution, as one hears less of her rich powerful voice in this picture than in former productions... Excellent collaboration on the part of Howard Jackson who revised the original story, and Sidney Buchman who [wrote] the screen play, are responsible for this very enjoyable picture for the family."

— San Francisco Chronicle

Fox W Coast BuI Je 13 '36

"The film shows evidence of hasty construction. [Miss Moore] sings three or four songs, all of which are coarsely recorded and her fans will be disappointed with such a meagre allowance."

"In all, pleasant light entertainment which does not attempt to emulate Grace Moore's earlier successes, marred by poor production."

— Mo Film BuI p104 Je '36

"A and Y: diverting musical romance; C: if interesting."

— Parents' M p44 JI '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Delightful acting by Grace Moore, with some lovely music, plenty of light frothy comedy, and Franchot Tone doing his familiar serious characterization, with Walter Connolly thrown in for good measure against an elaborate and colorful background, make this good summer movie fare."

— Laura Elston

Canadian M p32 JI '36

"After the heights she touched in 'One Night of Love,' almost any Grace Moore picture is bound to be a trifle disappointing. Still, if 'The King Steps Out' is no cinema jewel, it remains a pleasant little excursion to one of those occasional musical-comedy kingdoms."

(3 stars) Beverly Hills Library p3 Je 27 '36

"The King Steps Out" is a fair example of a Hurriean musical. Grace Moore delivers a far more intelligent and effective characterization than we have been assured lies within her powers."

— New Theatre p12 JI '36

"Grace Moore is the only American star presented to her screen audiences with a Miss Moore before her name, an act intended no doubt to fill us with respect and happy anticipation. Alas, 'The King Steps Out' fulfills no such promise. Miss Moore, despite her own efforts to hide her inherent defects under tempo and Herman Bing. It is an inglorious duty, however, in the case of Miss Moore, to endure his electronic, Mr. Tone's stiff interpretation of a Rover Boy King, and the year's most emphasized beauty."

— Stage p8 JI '36

Trade Paper Reviews

Canadian Moving Pic Digest p6 Je 20 '36

L

LADY BE CAREFUL. Paramount 67min S 4 '36

Players: Lew Ayres, Mary Carlisle, Benny Baker, Larry Crabbe, Grant Withers

Director: Theodore Reed

Based on the play Sailor Beware by Kenyon Nicholson and Charles Robinson. "The story concerns the battle of Lew Ayres, known in the navy as Dynamite, to capture the heart of Mary Carlisle, nicknamed Stonewall because of her ability to resist masculine advances. Ayres' shipmates and Mary's friends, meanwhile, wager on the outcome, showing their influence in the direction of their bets. As expected, the couple fall for each other and a romantic conclusion caps the courtship."

— Motion Pic Daily

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: hardly; Y: better not; C: no."

Christian Century p123 S 16 '36

"Family. Am Legion Auxiliary

"If it bores the more serious-minded, it will undoubtedly delight the younger contingent in the picture audiences. Family."

Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; ++ Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
“Mature-family. Good.” DAR

“[It is] a light, inconsequential film that will be tiresome for any audience of average mentality, though it is as harmless as milk toast.” Nat Soc of New England Women

“Interesting scenery with glimpses of the navy, make good entertainment for the family.” 5¢ O¢ & 7¢ at a Peninsula Women’s Club. Fox W Coast Bul S 5 ’36

“This light comedy, will amuse those who enjoy watching the antics of sailors. Family.” Gen Fed of Women’s Clubs (W Coast) Ag 25 ’36

“A completely ‘white-washed’ version of the stage play, ‘Sailor Beware,’ this light, romantic comedy of sailors on shore leave manages to be both entertaining. Family.” + Nat Council of Jewish Women S 1 ’36

“Adults.” Nat Legion of Decency Ag 27 ’36

“Adults & young people.” Nat Soc of Nat S 1 ’36

“A swell farce, bubbling over with clever dialogue and amusing situations. Family.” + Wky Guide Ag 22 ’36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“The surprising thing about this screen translation is that it turns out to be such amiable amusement. . . . [It] provides as much light, unpretentious, pleasure as we have come across this season. It’s a treat.” (3 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p35 S 6 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Straight, light, fast-moving nautical comedy, the picture will bring chuckles from the most critical audience. Excellent casting is evidenced. Family.” Box Office p61 Ag 22 ’36

“Playing, direction and writing unite to present one of the year’s surprise packages of sheer entertainment. The smartest thing Paramount can do is to forget that ‘Lady Be Careful’ was ever thought of as a B picture. If the studio gets behind it with an A campaign, it is likely to be a clean-up everywhere. . . . Banned as too risque for the screen, the original has been kicking around for many moons. Obviously the right writers for the screen plan were not found until Dorothy Parker, Alan Campbell and Harry Ruskin tackled the job. They proved to be just the right writers. It is a superb piece of work, sparkling with swell dialogue and punchy situations.” + Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 8 ’36

“[It is] a light comedy which holds the interest. . . . Benjamin Glazer’s production has maintained good taste throughout the story. As light entertainment, the picture is suitable for showing with a more serious subject.” + Motion Pic Daily p11 Ag 10 ’36

“Mild program, devoid of what the marquee orders, but somewhat pleasing, this makes no appeal to entertainment; the picture is milk. However, its comedy moments will help overshadow some of the disadvantages caused by lack of names.” + Phila Exhibitor p36 Ag 15 ’36

“Smart showmanship. . . . bright business and lines . . . plus sparkling performances by all hands, have converted the play ‘Sailor Beware’ into one of the sprightliest comedies of the season. It should be welcomed with open arms by any exhibitor, either for solo billing or to grace the top of the program for prosperous returns. . . . Altogether, ‘Lady Be Careful’ sends forth a much deserving recommendation.” + Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 8 ’36

LADY JANE GREY. See Nine days a queen

LAST OF THE MOHICANS. Reliance-United artists 90min Ag 13 ’36

Players: Randolph Scott, Binnie Barnes, Henry Wilcoxon, Bruce Cabot. Heather Angel

Director: George B. Seitz

Based on the novel of the same title by James Fenimore Cooper. The saga of the days of the French and Indian and English War when the Huron Indians aided the French against the British defenders of the newly settled American continent.

Alice P. Sterner has prepared a Photoplay Study Guide & Map of the Mohicans. The Guide is obtainable from Educational and Recreational Guides, Inc, 125 Lincoln Avenue, Newark, New Jersey at fifteen cents a copy.

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A: fine of kind; Y: very good; C: too strong.” Christian Century p126 S 9 ’36

“This picture is adapted to the entire family, for it is one of our American classics told in a beautifully fitting manner.” Am Legion Auxiliary

“Eleven months of extensive research were required before this thrilling drama went into production in order that history might be accurately brought to the presentation of the well-known book. . . . So well has it been edited that it is thrilling without being emotionally exhausting. Soulbonding, soul-stirring, without shedding any of the real and sounding or dressing up of the artistry of this production. Educational and entertaining with universal appeal.” Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

“The story moves swiftly, benefiting by intelligent direction and good casting, and gives a clear, concise picture of that part of the French-Indian War which it depicts. . . . Emphasis is placed on the noble traits of character, such as chivalry, sense of duty, strict code of honor, and when these virtues dominate the spirit of a picture, it deserves approbation.” Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs

“Despite its educational worth, the film is too horrifying for children, unless incidents of Indian cruelty are cut. Good. Mature.” DAR

“The film is notable for striking contrast, great scenic beauty and finished portraiture. A superior production which will meet enthusiastic response from appreciative audiences. Family.” Nat Soc of New England Women

“Exceptionally well cast; and one cannot but be impressed by the womanly women of the picture as compared with the characteristically ‘wooden females’ of the Leather Stocking Tales. The picture is also notable for excellent photography thus giving to the world another valuable historical drama. Family.” S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

“Exceptionally Good; Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor

DOUBLE BONUS

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
KING OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED—Continued

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"King of the Royal Mounted" contains all the ingredients that make for success, glorious scenery, a capable cast, and the usual story, but Howard Bretherton’s direction makes a poor thing of it. The dialogue is just lines spoken without any regard for the significance of scenes . . . It is direction at the peak of its stupidity which robs the pictures of all conviction. Intelligent direction was all it needed to make it entertaining.

— Hollywood Spec p6 Ag 29 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"That old master of action dramas, Sol Lesser, turns in another picture sure to hit pay dirt at the box office. "Family".

+ Box Office p25 S 5 '36

"A lightweight get-your-man yarn for people who think slowly, fabricated from run-of-the-mill Zane Grey ore. In fact, its materials are so familiar that one seems more like the tailings from that famous story mill. Earle Snell’s screenplay gives it one or two new twists, but its slow, matter-of-fact telling must continue to support duty in the lower brackets."

Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 21 '36

"This has everything necessary to please those with enthusiasm for Westerns and action pictures. The film’s principal quality is the magnificent mountain scenery photographed with utmost effectiveness. The stills should make excellent lobby displays for a selling angle. The story, while it will make good stuff for the small town and neighborhood trade, is lacking in the sophistication necessary for the de luxe spot." + Motion Pic Daily p3 Ag 22 '36

"Estimate: fair; best for neighborhoods, twin bills."

— Phila Exhibitor p41 S 1 '36

With a fairly strong yarn, Howard Bretherton’s direction manages to keep story moving at a pace that holds interest throughout, yet at times continuity is somewhat marred by use of many abrupt cuts that put the actors in the awkward position of having to walk in and out of scenes in mechanical fashion. + Picture as a whole is fair entertainment and should please the family trade and be acceptable to audiences appreciating outdoor action drama.

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 21 '36

KING STEPS OUT. Columbia 75min My 15 '35

Players: Grace Moore, Franchot Tone, Walter Connolly, Elizabeth Risdon, Frieda Inescort

Director: Josef von Sternberg

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"[It] is an excellent vehicle for accentuating the splendor of beauty and sprightly personality of the star, but leaves something to be desired in vocal exhibition, as one hears less of her rich, warm voice in this picture than in former productions. . . . Excellent collaboration on the part of Howard Jackson who revised the original scenario, and Sidney Buchman who [wrote] the screen play, are responsible for this very enjoyable picture for the family."

Calif Council of Fed Church of Christ + Fox W Coast Bul Je 13 '36

"The film shows evidence of hasty construction. [Miss Moore] sings three or four songs, all of which are croakily recorded and her fans will be disappointed with such a meagre allowance. . . . In all, pleasant light entertainment which does not attempt to emulate Grace Moore’s earlier successes, marred by poor production, suitability: + — Mo Film Bul p104 Je '36

"A and Y; diverting musical romance; C if interesting."

Parents’ M p44 Jl '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Delightful acting by Grace Moore, with some lovely music, plenty of light frothy comedy, and Franchot Tone doing his familiar characterization, with Walter Connolly thrown in for good measure against an elaborate and colorful background, make this good summer mer-mare."

— Canadian M p32 Jl '36

"After the heights she touched in ‘One Night of Love,’ almost any Grace Moore picture is bound to be a trifle disappointing. Still, if ‘The King Steps Out’ is no cinema jewel, it remains a pleasant little excursion to one of those mythical musical-cowboy kingdoms."

(3 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p13 Je 27 '36

"The King Steps Out is a fair example of a Runyon musical. Grace Moore delivers a far more intelligent and effective characterization than we have been assured lies within her powers."

— New Theatre p12 Jl '36

"Grace Moore is the only American star presented to her screen audiences with a Miss before her name, an act intended no doubt to fill us with respect and happy anticipation. Alas, The King Steps Out fails to fulfill no such promise. + Director Josef von Sternberg tried hard to hide its inherent defects under tempo and Herman Bing. It is an inglorious duty, however, in the place of Miss Moore’s hit-trionics, Mr. Tone’s stiff interpretation of a Rover Boy King, and the year’s most emphasized beer-gobbling."

Stage p8 Jl '36

Trade Paper Reviews

Canadian Moving Pic Digest p6 Jl '36

LADY BE CAREFUL. Paramount 67min S 4 '36

Players: Lew Ayres, Mary Carlisle, Benny Baker, Larry Crabbe, Grant Withers

Director: Theodore Reed

Based on the play Soldier Beware by Kenyon Nicholson and Charles Robinson. "The story concerns the battle of Lew Ayres, known in the navy as Dyanmite, to capture the heart of Mary Carlisle, nicknamed Stonewall because of her ability to resist masculine advances. Ayres’ shipmates and Mary’s friends, meanwhile work on the outcome, throwing their influence in the direction of their bets. As expected, the couple fall for each other and a romance. Solution caps the caper."

(Motion Pic Daily)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: hardly; Y: better not; C: no."

Christian Century p239 S 16 '36

"Family," Am Legion Auxiliary

"If it bores the more serious-minded, it will undoubtedly delight the younger contingent in the picture audiences. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
“Mature-family. Good.” DAR

“[It is] a light, inconsequential film that will be tiresome for any audience of average mentality though it is as harmless as milk toast.” Nat Soc of New England Women

“Interestingly scenic with glimpses of the navy, make good entertainment for the family.” S Chicago Council of Jewish Women

“Fox W Coast Bul S 8 ’36

“This light comedy, will amuse those who enjoy watching the antics of sailors. Family.”

Gen Fed of Women’s Clubs (W Coast) Ag 25 ’36

“A completely ‘white-washed’ version of the stage play, ‘Sailor Beware,’ this light, romantic comedy of sailors on shore leave manages to be fairly entertaining. Family.

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women S 1 ’36

“Adults.”

Nat Legion of Decency Ag 27 ’36

“Adults & young people.”

Nat Council W 8 ’36

“A swell farce, bubbling over with clever dialogue and amusing situations. Family.”

Wkly Guide Ag 22 ’36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“‘Lady Be Careful’ interested me chiefly by virtue of its being the first directorial job of Theodore Reed who has been a long time in various branches of picture-making. There is nothing in Ted’s direction to indicate a first attempt. . . . The script being extremely loquacious, did not permit him to make a motion picture, but he has made an entertaining talkie.”

Hollywood Spec p8 Ag 15 ’36

“The surprising thing about this screen translation is that it turns out to be such amiable amusement. . . . [It] provides as much lightly unexpected pleasure as we have come across this season. It’s a treat.” (3 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p35 S 26 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Straight, light, fast-moving nautical comedy, this picture will bring chuckles from the most critical audience. Excellent casting is evidenced. Family.”

Box Office p61 Ag 22 ’36

“Playing, direction and writing unite to present one of the year’s surprise packages of sheer entertainment. The smartest thing Paramount can do is to forget that ‘Lady Be Careful’ was ever thought of as a B picture. If the studio gets behind it with an A campaign, it is likely to be a clean-up everywhere. . . . Banned as too risque for the screen, the original has been kicking around for many moons. Obviously the right writers for the screen, the material had not even found until Dorothy Parker, Alan Campbell and Harry Ruskin tackled the job. They proved to be just the right writers. It is a superb piece of work, sparkling with swell dialogue and punchy situations.”

Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 8 ’36

“It is] a light comedy which holds the interest. . . . Benjamin Glazer’s production has maintained good taste throughout the story. As light entertainment, the picture is suitable for showing with a more serious subject.”

Motion Pic Daily p11 Ag 10 ’36

“Mild program, devoid of what the marquee orders, but somewhat pleasing, this makes no appeal to entertainment, the picture is suitable for showing with a more serious subject.”

Phil Ex Librarium Film Notes p11 Ag 10 ’36

“Smart showmanship . . . bright business and lines . . . plus sparkling performances by all hands, have converted the play ‘Sailor Beware’ into one of the sightliest comedies of the season. It should be welcomed with open arms by any exhibitor, either for solo billing or to grace the top of the program for prosperous returns. . . . Altogether Lady Be Careful isn’t a complete loss of time.”

 Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 8 ’36

LADY JANE GREY. See Nine days a queen

LAST OF THE MOHICANS. Reliance-United artists 90min Ag 13 ’36

Players: Randolph Scott, Binnie Barnes, Henry Wilcoxon, Bruce Cabot, Heather Angel

Director: George B. Seitz

Based on the novel of the same title by James Fenimore Cooper. The saga of the days of the French and English Wars in the 1750’s. The Huron Indians aided the French against the British defenders of the newly settled American continent.

Alice P. Sterner has prepared a Photoplay Study Guide for Last of the Mohicans. The guide is obtainable from Educational and Recreational Guides, Inc, 125 Lincoln Avenue, Newark, New Jersey at fifteen cents a copy.

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A: fine of kind; V: very good; C: too strong.” Christian Century p1026 S 9 ’36

“This picture is adapted to the entire family, for it is one of our American classics told in a beautifully fitting manner.” Am Legion Auxiliary

“Eleven months of extensive research were required before this thrilling drama went into production in order that history might be accurately told in the presentation of the well known book. . . . So well has it been edited that it is thrilling without being emotionally exhausting. Symbolism, fantastic effects, heightened shadow as well as exquisite photography and deft direction enhance the artistry of this production. Educational, emotional and entertaining with universal appeal.” Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

“The story moves swiftly, benefiting by intelligent direction and good casting, and gives a clear, concise picture of that part of the French-Indian War which it depicts. . . . Emphasis is placed on the noble traits of character, such as chivalry, sense of duty, strict code of honor, and when these virtues dominate the spirit of a picture, it deserves approbation.” Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs

“Despite its educational worth, the film is too horrifying for children, unless incidents of Indian cruelty are cut. Good. Mature.” DAR

“The film is notable for striking contrast, great scenic beauty and finished portraiture. A superior production which will meet enthusiastic response from appreciative audiences. Family.” Nat Soc of New England Women

“Exceptionally well cast; and one cannot but be impressed by the womanly women of the picture as compared with the caracteristically ‘wooden females’ of the Leather Stocking Tales. The picture is also notable for excellent photography thus giving to the world another valuable historical drama. Family.” S Calif Council of P&Cs

Fox W Coast Bul Ag 22 ’36

Exceptionally Good; Good; Fair; Mediocre; Poor; Exceptionally Poor
LAST OF THE MOHICANS—Continued..."Pretentious and authentic in production, forceful and dramatic in direction and convincingly portrayed by able cast, each one making a worthy contribution, this picture, attention compelling in its appeal, merits wide acclaim..."

+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ag 19 '36

"Best of the month. Family, generally..."

+ Nat Legion of Decency Ag 20 '36

"In bringing this classic to the screen the producers have retained much of the glory and thrill that went into the making of this successful Broadway play and film. It is vital, horrifically exciting... Some gruesome scenes detract from its adaptability for small children, but it should prove most enjoyable for the family generally..."

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women Ag 19 '36

"Realistically portrayed, a battle to the death of many modern times, and distillation of their devotion to the ideals and legends of an earlier age..."

Legion of Decency Pl S 1 '36

"Suggested for schools and libraries. Family—juvenile..."

Wkly Guide Ag 22 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"If interest has lapsed in James Fenimore Cooper's Leatherstocking Tales, the film version of 'The Last of the Mohicans' will revive it, and probably cause a run on many a public library, probably one of the few places where the author's works are to be found in their entirety. The film has a story, more fresh and stirring than the book. TheAdapter, George B. Seitz, one swipe fast, that the audiences often find themselves on the edge of their seats, along with the Indians on the screen..."

M. E. P. + Boston Transcript p3 S 5 '36

"Good costume melodrama with Indians returning to the screen as major ingredients of a film spectacle..."

+ Christian Science Monitor p15 Ag 29 '36

"The Last of the Mohicans' arrives true to the author's idea of the bitter struggle of a new world that was literally torn from the hand of a grudging destiny. Some of the characters are more polished than Mr. Cooper would have them, but at no time is there any mistaking their tradition-encrusted representations... The grimy massacres and wallowing rescues occur with expediency, but even so their arrival assumes dramatic importance in the fine treatment of George B. Seitz, one director who knows the values of panorama vistas to outdoor stagecraft of this style..."

J. P. Cunningham + Stage p67 pl 11 '36

"The films have done very handsomely by the 'Last of the Mohicans,' and playgoers with a hankering for straightforward melodrama, convinced by the film, aren't overpowered with the whole arrangement, will do well to file themselves to the Rivoli for an hour and a half of vibrant hair-raising doings. It makes first-class frontier drama, and if its producers don't clean up on it there is somethingingly wrong with the boxoffice. It can't have cost any very great fortune to put the film together, but the result is a gratifying study in fidelity to the legends of the Mohicans and Mohican..."

Paul Moore + News-Wk p62 S 12 '36

"In a great confusion of Indians, redcoats, snuff, and dubious dialogue, the old story renews itself as a happy if unorthodox ending. Bruce Cabot as the evil Major Munro does his best to make an exact replica of the book, and even is so in the eyes of the producers, who say he is not so well done as though he already held his B.A. from Carlisle College..."

New Yorker p86 S 12 '36

"Here is a melodramatic hodge-podge of frontier life made to order for Boy Scouts and Girl Reserves. Youthful enthusiasts of wood lore will undoubtedly thrill to its tomahawking and fort building. For everyone else, alas, it is a screenplay with all its parts neatly labelled and laboriously played out... The film, even more than the novel, is replete with sacrifice and sportsmanship, and the last of the Mohicans' is wholesome entertainment which does good credit to the superiority of the white man, whose leadership is not here so deftly displayed..."

+ Stage p40 S 10 '36

"A danger of James Fenimore Cooper's works as cinema material is that, without his sombre prose (admired by Maxim Gorki and imitated by Joseph Conrad), they become merely antique dust..."

+ Time p19 S 7 '36

++++++++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; ——— Mediocre; —— Poor; ———— Exceptionally Poor
Trade Paper Reviews

"Beautifully photographed and wisely cast, this expert adaptation of the James Fenimore Cooper historical classic will leave a lasting impression on younger audiences and also will prove a good entertainment for the more mature patron. Family."

+ Box Office p55 Ag 29 '36

"[It is a] good drama of early American frontier ways, centered in plenty of action for popular appeal."

+ Film Daily p9 Ag 12 '36

"As entertainment it is a gorgeously glorified Western as only as history it is an authentic adventure tale that every red-blooded American will thrill to. As a production it is of major quality and fit to solo in the key spots. Despite its light name pull it will register vigorously at all box-Offices. The picture's one marked fault at present is its length. Chiefly compounded of battle, murder and sudden death, its 96 minutes of suspenseful action develops a letdown from sheer exhaustion."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 8 '36

"James Fenimore Cooper's story may be a tradition-encrusted literary classic, but the entertainment it provides is just as modern and as compelling as tomorrow's headlines. The first attraction of its kind to come to the screen in some time, 'The Last of the Mohicans' is a thrill-action drama, rivalling the most vividly conceived gangster film in excitement-provoking quality... [It] swept a preview audience into enthusiastic applause."

+ Motion Picture Daily p10 Ag 10 '36

"With strong historical angles, strong sentimental moments, this has plenty of action for all. Production is a good one, with audiences likely to forget some of its faults. It is still Hollywood. This is strong fare for kids, family trade. Estimate: good job, highly exploitable."

+ Phila Exhibitor p37 Ag 15 '36

"'The Last of the Mohicans' is obvious box office. Its potentialities in spots west of the Mississippi are predicated on a natural yearning to see something exciting... while in larger metropolitan areas they're likely to go for it simply because it's an 'Injun Pitcher.' The James Fenimore Cooper historical fiction story is transferred to the screen with surprising fidelity, though the two love stories are accentuated, quite naturally, for screen purposes... 'Last of the Mohicans' will mean plenty of box-office at the week-end. It's geared to adult patronage with added appeal for younger generation."

+ Variety 5 S 9 '36

"There was hearty and sustained audience response... The juvenile audiences will pack the theatres when 'Mohicans' comes to town. At the same time, the entertainment appeal is broad enough to attract the whole family, since the story and its presentation have been handled in a splendid manner."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 8 '36

LAST OF THE WARRENS. Supreme 59min My 10 '36

Players: Bob Steele. Margaret Marquis. Charles King

Director: Robert N. Bradbury

A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A. Y and C; slow-moving Western."

Parents' M p47 Ag '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"It is all done in a wide, free and fancy style, without much rhyme or reason in certain situations, but it is chock full of thrills, action and suspense, and after all that is what the fans want."

+ + + Philadelphia Inquirer pl7 Jl 2 '36

"Estimate: good."

+ + Phila Exhibitor p30 Jl 15 '36

"Except for a novel opening... 'Last of the Warrens' is just another Western, one that employs most of the familiar plot situations of this type of current fare. Though there's a lot of action, 'Warrens' breaks no records as saddle-leather entertainment... Picture's short running time of fifty-nine minutes makes it ideal as the No. 2 feature for duals."

+ - Variety p25 Jl 8 '36

LAST OUTLAW. RKO 72min Je 19 '36

Director: Christy Cabanne

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: depends on taste; Y: good; C: perhaps."

Christian Century p1071 Ag 5 '36

"The old and new tactics of outlaw capture are well compared in this Western that children will enjoy and flock to. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Adults: fair; 11-15: fair; 8-14: little interest. Family." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"A good cast and direction but while the film is all right for family audiences, it is far too intense for young children." Nat Soc of New England Women

"This rapid action picture has an ethical value which marks it for good family enjoyment." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

+ Fox W Coast Bul Je 13 '36

"Suitability: family; especially children under 16."

Mo Film Bul pl17 Jl 36

"A. Y and C: unusually good Western."

Parents' M pl7 Ag '36

"Well produced, this picture, satisfactory from an ethical standpoint, is well directed and the capable cast includes many old time favorites. Family, exciting for young children."

+ Sel Motion Pict Jl 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"John Ford, who wrote the original story, and Christy Cabanne, who directed the film, have collaborated to produce a Western that is so genuinely exciting and diverting that it is a decided ascent from the average horse opera." Am Legion Auxiliary

+ + N Y World-Telegram p14a Je 13 '36

"The treatment is disarmingly humorous, the development contains some adroit comedy, the climax is thoroughly amusing... Christy Cabanne's direction hustle the proper trail and goes a long way toward making the merits that the film contains." Herb Sterne

+ + Script p11 S 5 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; - Fair; --- Mediocre; Poor; ---- Exceptionally Poor
LAWLESS NINETIES. Republic 57min F 15 '36
Director: Joseph Kane
See issue of March 30, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Just as it looked as if present-day Westerns had forgotten all about the lassos Bill Hart and Tom Mix used to throw with such dexterity, 'The Lawless Nineties' proves they haven't, and a prettier lasso is not to be found in the archives of Western than the one (with which) Mr. Wayne trips up a thundering herd of villains... If a person likes Westerns this one is exciting. The riding is thrilling, the wide spaces inviting, and the flights so realistic Joe Louis's trainers should look them over."

Marycote Tasccar

+ N Y Herald Tribune p8 Je 29 '36

"The thinness of Wyoming's population to this very day perhaps may be due in part to the number of strong men who bit the dust, according to 'The Lawless Nineties,' when the virgin territory was struggling for statehood against outlaws and obstructionist politicians. The cast is kept so busy that it can find very little time for such luxuries as romance and convention, and, of course, is entirely as it should be." B. R. C.

+ N Y Times p11 Je 29 '36

"A decided ascent from the Western-melodrama average is recorded in 'The Lawless Nineties,'... Speed is the essential merit of this first-rate 'horse opera,' which has plenty of thrills and excitement in it and which is acted in a first-rate manner." William Boehnel + N Y World-Telegram p17 Je 30 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"'It is] a fairly exciting drama. It all hews close to the accepted horse opera pattern, with lots of shooting, hard-ridding and fistfighting. On a dull platter it will make spicy dressing." + Variety p25 Ji 1 '36

LION'S DEN. Puritan 59min Jl 6 '36
Players: Tim McCoy. Joan Woodbury. Arthur Mellette
Director: Sam Newfield
A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Jl 9 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"The original twists and surprises keep this one steaming all the way, and it will get over easily with the fans who want plenty of the thrill stuff." + Film Daily p4 Ag 25 '36

"There is excitement, action and suspense in this Western. The story contains a good degree of novelty deviating from the routine." + Motion Pict Daily p5 Ag 25 '36

"Estimate: okay McCoy." + Phila Exhibitor p8 Ag 1 '36

"Tame mixture of east and west with Tim McCoy first as a night-club entertainer and then as a two-gun man of the open spaces. Very little action in the opus, sole thrills confined to a single gun fracas. For the neighborhood dualers." + Variety p21 S 2 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + - Fair; + - Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor

LITTLE MISS NOBODY. 20th century-Fox 72min Je 12 '36
Players: Jane Withers. Jane Darwell. Ralph Morgan. Sara Haden
Director: John Blystone
See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: hardly; Y: perhaps; C: doubtful." Christian Century p912 Je 24 '36

"The film is interesting and absorbing throughout except for the rather heavy crime development at the end. Suitability: family." Mo Film Bul p117 Ji '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"'Little Miss Nobody' is basically concerned with the essential novelty of a small and distinctly unprepossessing orphan. As played by the round-faced little Jane Withers, this characterization never quite comes off, but since Miss Withers is very young, the fault may be attributed more to the director than to the player, and undoubtedly, more to the story itself than to either player or director." B. L.

— Boston Transcript p1 Ji 27 '36

"Cheerful family entertainment with laughable pranks by Jane and a contrasting touch of melodrama involving jewel thieves." + Christian Science Monitor p15 Je 27 '36

"It is regrettable to see Miss Withers sugar-coated for coast-to-coast consumption, when she had such promise of becoming our one child film star, G. Robinson." Don Berold Life p28 Ag '36

"It is a superannuated fable about peewees at the poor farm, a mixture of practical jokery, youthful fixations and hokey melodrama." + Time p37 Je 22 '36

LOVE BEGINS AT TWENTY. Warner-First national 60min Ap 22 '36
Director: Frank McDonald
See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Ag 20 '36

"[It is] a] pleasant domestic comedy-drama. Family." + Wkly Guide Ag 15 '36

LUCI SOMMERSE. See Crooked love

MARY OF SCOTLAND. RKO 123min Ag 28 '36
Director: John Ford
Music director: Nathaniel Shilkret
Based on a play of the same title by Maxwell Anderson. Against a tapestry of political and religious conflict Katherine Hepburn portrays the ill-fated Mary Stuart who in the late years of the sixteenth century paid with her life for her queenliness. She seems to hint that a Stuart would ascend the throne of England.

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A: excellent; Y: very good; C: mature.”

Christian Century p1119 Ag 15 '36

“Absorbing in interest and flawless in artistry and technical achievement is this elaborate film. . . Mr. Nichols, and Mr. Ford, have scored a worthy successor to their outstanding successes, 'The Informer.’ Adults: good; family: good; 14-15: good; 8-14: beyond.”

Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

“Unusual photography, expert direction, and the stirring musical theme all deserve praise and add greatly to the high standard of the picture. ‘Family.’”

Calif Fed of Business & Professional Clubs Women’s Film

“Don’t miss this beautifully enacted film. . . Remarkably fine interior sets, photography, and musical scoring; a distinguished cast. Mature-family. Excellent.”

DAR

“Family, exclusive of young children.”

Nat Soc of New England Women

“A large and exceptional cast, aided with the embellishment of realistic scenic effects, make vivid an interesting episode in English history, and a living picture both educational and entertaining. ‘Family.’”

S Calif Council of Fed Church Women’s Film

“Fox W Coast Bul Ag 1 ‘36

“Outstanding.”

+ + Jt Estimates Jl 15 ‘36

“The picture is highly recommended for the family as a valuable, educational, and artistic film.”

+ + Nat Council of Jewish Women Jl 22 ‘36

“The artistic and architectural beauty of the settings from the lavish splendor of Elizabeth’s court to the fog-bound seacoast of grim Scotland make the intense story of Katherine Hepburn and her entire cast are excelled only by the gripping romance, drama and tragedy of this historical production. General patronage.”

+ Nat Legion of Decency Jl 30 ‘36

“An exciting movie, well above the average photoplay but oversimplified by being too completely confined to the tragic love story of Mary and the Earl of Bothwell.”

Scholastic p11 S 19 ‘36

“Best of the month.”

+ + Sel Motion Pict Aq 1 ‘36

“There will probably always be contention about Mary Stuart—what kind of a woman she really was, how much a mere victim and how much to her own tragic troubles. . . Historically there is no need to quarrel with the conception of Mary herself for biographers and historians are too uncertain about it though there is every likelihood that she was a much more forceful person than Anderson has chosen to make her. But there is no historical justification for making Bothwell such a villain. And last of all, the sad tale of an easy love-story, with complete appeal to audience sympathy, a ruthless border brigand, dominated sometimes by passion but always by ambition, is changed into a brusque and hearty sort of boy-friend, completely and selflessly devoted to her. Miss Hepburn’s Mary has a little the air of being acted by Alice Adams. It is touching and appealing, but a bit school-girlish, and that will probably make a lot of people like it better than something deeper and more mature.”

Wkly Guide Ag 7 ‘36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Maxwell Anderson’s play, which Helen Hayes did so successfully the season before last, becomes a moving and highly spectacular motion picture. . . It evokes murmurs of praise and interesting comment. . . In the main the casting is excellent; several actresses whom one might rather see in this role than Katherine Hepburn.”

Laura Elston

+ + Canadian M p28 S ‘36

Christian Science Monitor p13 Ag 29 ‘36

“Historians quibblers, loyal students of the stage and followers of Helen Hayes . . . will detect with ease some flaws in this newer version, but the fact cannot be denied that . . . Mary of Scotland is not satisfactory screen entertainment. It is too impersonal to become widely popular. The picture does not stir our emotions, as screen entertainment, it cannot be successful. . . . It concerns itself too much with already established facts and not enough with its human phases.”

+ + Commonweal p407 Ag 21 ‘36

“Perhaps it is because it tries to tell us too much about the affairs of Mary and her court, tries too much to interest us in life as a whole; but I think it is because it presents us with a woman who is struggling to remain a queen and in so doing becomes less a woman than a symbol—but, whatever the reason, ‘Mary of Scotland’ is not satisfactory screen entertainment. It is too impersonal to become widely popular. . . The picture does not stir our emotions, as screen entertainment, it cannot be successful. . . . It concerns itself too much with already established facts and not enough with its human phases.”

+ + Hollywood Spec p8 Aq 1 ‘36

“A lavish, impressively mounted spectacle, an utterly lifeless in its characterizations, ‘Mary of Scotland’ must be listed as one of the major cinema disappointments of the current season. . . The story has been a shifted, loosely assembled treatment that receives no great aid from the costumed players, Katherine Hepburn’s interpretation of the title role, tasking Miss Hepburn, and Miss Eldridge depend upon ‘mouth-twitching’ as the usual Hepburn mannerisms, even if her portrayal is not at all times historically correct enough. . .”

Ag 21 ‘36

“Pictorially lovely, literate in the writing, and containing a number of stirring scenes, ‘Mary of Scotland’ offers too much juggling for some audiences. The film opens with a series of powerful scenes which later become diluted, due to an apparent effort to keep history at its best and tell the story from three viewing-points Mary’s, Bothwell’s and Queen Elizabeth’s. Both Miss Hepburn and Miss Eldridge depend upon ‘mouth-twitching’ as the usual Hepburn mannerisms, even if her portrayal is not at all times historically correct enough. . .”

Liberty p57 S 5 ‘36

“This powerful figure [Elizabeth] has become, in ‘Mary of Scotland’ a petulant harpy, Dudley Nichols—one presumes the scenarist is responsible—for much of history’s and Maxwell Anderson’s practiced, but it is the right, and to the lady and jealous step-sister of Mary Stuart’s Chicken. Nichols had the story-teller’s right to tamper with what he will, the film is actually more accurate than the play—but what did he hope to gain by the change? . . Miss Hepburn is the right, but her Mary Stuart reminds one of nothing so much as the Elizabethan ‘Little Minister’—both are Scottish, in love, and doomed all. . . As an object the film makes an impressive appearance. The Informer”

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
MARY OF SCOTLAND—Continued

proved the abilities of director John Ford and scenarist Dudley Nichols as story-tellers, but they have not repeated 'The North Star.' To N Y Times Nichols which I have suggested is added the further one of undistinguishable portraits. [It] is mainly good as superior and handsome melodrama, I think; or call it the triumph of history over story — this — this serves only as a romantic storehouse from which may be requisitioned the necessary matter of a sentence. It is picturesque, clear and there are scenes which lack the vitality they possessed in the play. There is this definite lack of excellent narrative adequacy in the new picture which curbs our tongue when we would use the word 'magnificent.' It is, in my opinion, a one-time performance, a gas, and there were characters that were conscious of definite defects in her inspiration.

‘Mary of Scotland’ must be considered one of the year’s notable photoplays. . . . Yet there are times when the characters—Mary Stuart, James V, and others—are not clearly and there are scenes which lack the vitality they possessed in the play. There is this definite lack of excellent narrative adequacy in the new picture which curbs our tongue when we would use the word ‘magnificent.’ It is, in my opinion, a one-time performance, a gas, and there were characters that were conscious of definite defects in her inspiration.

New Statesman & Nation p299 Ag 29 '36

So crossed and criss-crossed is this period with diverse and clashing interests, with a simultaneity of dozens of actions and conflicts, that regardless of a poet’s skill and courage, it would appear impossible to be compressed within the framework of the conventional three act play. ‘Mary of Scotland’ is uncompromisingly a melodrama, and with the exception of a few excellent scenes, the whole film is a regrettable waste of time. And if we are to use the word, a waste of the viewer’s time against the indiscriminate taking over of unsuitable stage-successes to the screen.”

New Theatre p21 S 76

“This is a most excellent picture of the Sir Walter Scott-Hervey Allen-Alexander Dumas school, romantic, hearty, showy and not at all obtrusive, but keenly touched by the beauty and fire of the original. Maxwell Anderson stage play, seem a great place. Not, perhaps, the supreme shining of one tense, provides a lovely and touching characterization of the hapless Mary, while Fredric March has never been finer than he is, as the bold, dashing and romantic Bothwell. ‘Mary of Scotland’ is a fine motion picture, admirably produced and admirably acted. Fortunately its faults, not particularly as drama, but as cinema. For one thing, it is too long, and I certainly do not know just where it should have been cut. . . . In addition, there is perhaps an excess of dialogue and, although it is always excellent talk, the picture does suggest garrulousness upon occasion.”

Richard Watts, Jr. in the Herald Tribune p12 Jl 31 '36

“Many of these scenes are played in the accompaniment of perfectly thunderous incidental music: put in, probably, in the hope of 'pointing up' the action, I think that just annoys most people. . . . I don’t think [Katharine Hepburn] quite fulfilled the demands of the role. In the hands of Hepburn, Hervey’s character is something for a grown-up actress.”

Russell Maloney in the New Yorker p52 Ag 8 '36

Those who bumped their way in through the crowds and started them on the way into Hans' smart, cozy, yellow bar were easily forgotten by Haynes’ study interpretation of the fire-hearted Queen, Philip Merivale’s stubborn Edinburgher, Merivale’s putting on a maddening, black Elizabeth; and for that reason they should stay at home and read a good book when the Hollywood version gets around to the neighborhood theater. Others, unprejudiced by the stage production, will find in John Ford’s screening an exceedingly pleasant and slightly mad muddle evening. What was once drama has suffered a change into melodrama, and what was once acting has become in the hands of Katharine Hepburn, Fredric March, and even Florence Eldridge, mere mugging. Yet the play is fool-proof. Its original forceful structure remains, and has, if anything, gained rather than lost power in its adaptation to a more flexible medium.

News-Wk p22 Ag 1 '36
glamour, unfolds a new range, an ability to electric-shock spectators legitimately. One of these days, Mary plays Lady Macbeth; her character's strength emerges from the depths and the advent of a new label, traditional names of the theater." Herb Sterne

+ Script p10 Ag 8 '36

"The story of Mary, Queen of Scots, is exciting stuff no matter how you take it—almost. The way it must be taken in the current cinema is a branch to a tree that no one. We found it all pretty retable. The story has been telescoped into chaos, and the two principal characters in the way captured the glamour and majestic stature of their historic prototypes. "Mary of Scotland," through an admirable denunciation of the casting, has become merely a costume heyday for Hollywood hairdressers." — Stage p10 8 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p8 JI 23 '36

"Slow in spots, long, this has, however, magnificent settings, a great cast to help sell it. Estimate: nice production; depends on Hepburn draw, buildup."

Philis Exhibitor p38 Ag 1 '36

"[It tells] the story beautifully, artistically, delicately, with meticulous attention to detail and portrayal—but with perhaps some doubt on the strains of the office angle. The film has become merely a costume heyday for Hollywood hairdressers."

— Time p27 Ag 10 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"[It is] an outstanding picture. A feature with almost perfect exploitation ramifications, it should fare well in all showings. Pandro S. Berman's production is intelligent and sympathetic, with exactly enough pomposity and panthony."

+ Box Office p31 Ag 15 '36

"Once in a while, it is in this reviewer's privilege and pleasure to witness a production that is superior in every way... In this class must be placed RKO's Radio's production of 'Mary of Scotland.' It has been carefully filmed and is projected to heroic proportions by their reflections in history, have a validity which not even the hitherto of faulty narration can totally destroy."

— Time p27 Ag 10 '36

Audience Suitability Ratings

"It has] beautiful views of Stratford. Interesting. Family."

+ Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Not until you see this short will you believe that it's possible to cram so much content into so little a production. The story is remarkably well-knit and packs a human interest that should appeal not only to the upper strata but to the masses... Sum total: an enchanting film."

+ Box Office p27 JI 25 '36

"It is magnificently produced with all the accurate costuming and scenic design of the Shakespearean period. The atmosphere produced and maintained throughout lifts this into the class of Screen Gems. It will prove a treat to the literary, and all the intelligentsia, besides having a decided popular appeal."

+ Film Daily p3 JI 11 '36

"A serious yet entertaining short in which a small portion of the Bard's life is portrayed, this is an effort of unusual appeal. It is tasteful and sober. Altogether it will please the multitude of the bard's admirers."

+ Motion Pict Daily p8 JI 15 '36

"Excellent."

+ Philis Exhibitor p38 Jl 24 '36

MEET NERO WOLFE. Columbia 72min Ag 1 '36

Director: Herbert J. Biberman

Based on the novel, Fer-de-Lance, by Rex Stout. Nero Wolfe, a tight-fisted detective, solves the mystery of Professor Barstow's death without leaving his home. The mystery begins when the professor dies on the golf course, presumably of a heart attack. Nero drinks beer, tends his orchids, while the amiable Archie Goodwin handles the details.
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

MEET NERO WOLFE—Continued

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: fair; Y: perhaps; C: hardly."

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency JI 16 '36

"A and Y: good murder mystery; C: no interest."

Parents' M p59 S '36

"Suspense is well maintained, though the production, humorous in spots, lacks somewhat in pace and excitement. Adults & young people.

+ Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Superior mystery-story diversion of the talkie sort, but only fair for those who like to see a story told with action."

Christian Science Monitor p13 Ag 1 '36

Reviewed by Don Herald

"The first and we trust the last in a projected series. We hope that Mr. Arnold, Stander and Herbert Beriman, (the latter directed the film), will be spared connection with the next in the series." Robert Stebbins

New Theatre p22 Ag '36

"I would set down 'Meet Nero Wolfe' as passable middlsummer cinema fare: something neither to cheer for nor hoot at with any particular violence. The story ... plays pretty fair with the spectator and if not excesively exciting or gruesome is quite workmanlike in its execution." Richard Watters, Jr.

+ N Y Herald Tribune pl2 JI 16 '36

"'Meet Nero Wolfe,' in spite of three murders and a bit of shooting here and there, has rather a static quality. The story ... seems pretty phoney. 'Meet Nero Wolfe,' to audiences recently delighted by such murder melodramas as 'The Ex-Mrs. Bradford,' seem lacking in ease and authority. It never stoops to grossness, however." Eileen Creelman

Sun JI 16 '36

"A most comforting sort of detective for these humid days is 'Nero Wolfe.'" J. T. M.

+ N Y Times p20 JI 16 '36

"'Meet Nero Wolfe' is considerably less than satisfactory coffeshop entertainment ... [and] hasn't the speed and action usually found in a murder film, William Boehnel

-- N Y World-Telegram pl5 JI 16 '36

"[It] ought to offer some entertainment. It's no knockout thriller and it depends a little too much on the eccentricities of its leading character for its major value. Edward Arnold handles Nero easily, and I suppose one can foresee a series built around the part. In my opinion this is one of those mystery stories which depend too much upon a lot of things that have happened years before to a lot of people whom we have never heard of before, however, don't object to a little fogginess in their plots, and these folk will be thoroughly content, I should think, with 'Meet Nero Wolfe.'" John Moescher

+ New Yorker p56 JI 25 '36

"Very lazy but also very funny is Nero Wolfe, who bows to the mystery-story public in Columbia Pictures' production 'Meet Nero Wolfe.' ... Columbia may have started a cycle of Nero Wolfe films with this invention of Rex Stout's novel 'Per-de-Lance.' Magazine stories about the fat and fabulous sleuth provide plenty of material."

+ News-Wk p29 JI 25 '36

"[Nero Wolfe], less dashing than Philo Vance and less whimsical than Charlie Chan, but more mercenary than either, will be a highly successful introduction to the screen's growing corps of private operatives."

+ Time p40 JI 27 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Entertaining and interesting mystery that is enhanced by the rib-tickling performance of Lionel Stander. Family."

+ Box Office p25 JI 25 '36

"This detective thriller belongs to the better type of mystery pictures. Its story moves swiftly, maintains suspense, has much good comedy, and introduces a new type of detective in the fat, beer-drinking criminologist. Nero Wolfe ... Edward Arnold as the criminologist gives a swell performance, entirely in the spirit of Rex Stout's detective; it is suave and subtle; at times jocular and menacing." + Film Daily p8 JI 16 '36

"From the fictional concoction of Rex Stout has been developed a new and delightful detective character for the screen, Nero Wolfe. If the title of this film indicates that others featuring Nero Wolfe are to follow, an interested and eager film public would seem to be assured."

+ Motion Pict Daily p19 JI 16 '36

"Estimate: enjoyable program."

+ Exhibitor p15 JI 15 '36

"Edward Arnold's characterisation of the Pallalstrian private dick who solves [mysteries] without leaving his easy chair should strike the general fancy favorably and rate well with the box office. The comedy and the guesing elements have been deftly mixed, the well-knit narrative precludes any drooping in interest and the cast disport itself in crack [mystery story] fashion."

+ Variety p17 JI 22 '36

MINE WITH THE IRON DOOR. Columbia-First Nat 60min MY JI 3 '36

Director: David Howard

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Family."

E Coast Preview Committee Fox W Coast Bul Je 6 '36

"The acting is good and the plot, although a little incredible, is not so strain the imagination too far. Suitability: family."

Mo Film Bul p118 JI 36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Richard Arlen is, I think, a pleasant enough young man (I'll trade him for Gable, with Montgomery thrown in) and he sets a nice, easy-going pace in 'The Mine With The Iron Door' but the sum-total effect is hardly exciting enough to warrant my yanking at your coat-tails on behalf. If, however, don't object to a little fogginess in their plots, and these folk will be thoroughly content, I should think, with 'Meet Nero Wolfe.'"

+ Life p31 S '36

"'The Mine With the Iron Door'... is a straightforward performance, and [has] considerable directness. The performance of Mr. Walthall is a finely shaded one, while Miss Parker, even in her juvenile role, compensates restraint with understanding of the character. Mr. Arlen is his usual pleasant self, natural and sincere, while Stanley Fields as the belligerent Dempsey adds comedy to the piece. The out-
Trade Paper Reviews

"Because of a rather trite story idea and lack of ingenuity or punch in development, this production never lifts its head above the routine action melodrama class."
— + Film Daily p3 Jl 11 '36

"Although classed as melodrama, this adaptation of Harold Bell Wright's yarn isn't beyond box office possibilities. It's strictly a program picture for secondary spots, with production, mounting and music of minor dimensions."
— + Variety p31 Jl 15 '36

MISTER CINDERELLA. Roach-MGM 55min
Players: Jack Haley, Betty Furness, Monroe Owsley, Raymond Walburn
Director: Edward Sedgwick
When a barber impersonates a millionaire, he finds himself enmeshed in many highly ludicrous situations.

Audience Suitability Ratings
"General patronage."
+ Nat Legion of Decency S 10 '36
"A, Y and C: unobjectionable but silly farce."
Parents' M p69 S '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"If you are one of those hearty souls, one who thrills to bed-room chases and mixed identities, Mister Cinderella is made to order for you. If, on the other hand, you have sensitive ears and an aesthetic soul, don't even walk past the theatre which plays it: the racket will produce a neurosis. 'Mister Cinderella' is rough rowdiness with a punch. If you are too refined and the children—they will love it."
Paul Jacobs
Hollywood Spec p10 Ag 1 '36

"[It is] an old-fashioned but effective comedy that makes a vigorously unsuitable attack on the mirth centers...Mister Cinderella affords just cause for loud guffaws." (2½ stars)
Beverly Hills Liberty p39 Ag 22 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Combining an array of old-but-still-good slapstick pranks, this picture will bring the laughs. Director Edward Sedgwick makes the most of the situations, and Arthur Treacher turns in an excellent performance with his inimitable butler characterizations. Family."
+ Film Daily p3 Jl 11 '36

"This is a Class A comedy, built solely for laughs—and getting them."
+ Film Daily p3 Jl 11 '36

"Built for audience laughter, 'Mister Cinderella' succeeds honestly in its sub-rose pose. It makes no bid for sophisticated appeal, but rather is content to get belly-laughs with out-and-out slapstick... Nor a trick was overlooked in the workmanlike job of this exceptionally comical constructionist. What if a deal of tried-and-true formula material is evident? The preview reception proved all of it good audience stuff."
+ Hollywood Reporter p3 Jl 8 '36

"Hal Roach, with an original story and capable cast, has turned out one of the funniest pictures in the current season. Although about a thousand feet too long, the film can be trimmed down so as to make it amusing all ages. The preview audience at the Orpheum laughed and giggled throughout the first showing. The concept angle plus the name players should be exploited."
+ Motion Pic Daily p16 Je 30 '36

"Estimate: good comedy."
+ Phila Exhibitor p34 Ag 1 '36

"Fast moving comedy with sufficient laugh angles to please any audience. 'Mister Cinderella' should prove a good investment for the Roach studio... Audiences will accept it with more than average interest. As double bill fare, it's near perfect."
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 8 '36

M'LISS. RKO 65min Je 17 '36

Players: Anne Shirley, John Beal, Guy Kibbee, Pauline Dunnville, Moni Olsen
Director: George Nicholls, Jr.
Based on the short story and play of the same title by Bret Harte. Previously filmed as a silent picture about eight years ago. Anne Shirley portrays the childlike mountain girl who grows up in the rough, riotous atmosphere of California's gold rush. Surrounded by her drunken father, her poky-plump guardians, she is befriended by an idealistic young school teacher who wins her love.

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A: hardly; Y: perhaps; C: doubtful value."
Christian Century p1095 Ag 12 '36

"Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Adults: fair; family: no; 14-18: no; 8-14: no." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"The tempo of the picture is slow with the sentimental sequences a bit pressed. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Good. Mature-family." DAR

"With a positive ethical value—the ability of two characters to live above their conditions—we recommend the picture. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women
+ — Fox W Coast Bui Jl 11 '36

"Family." Jt Estimates Jl 1 '36

"This Bret Harte classic, popular thirty years ago both as a story and as a play, preserves its screen appearance much of the flavor of the original but it is elaborated for the demands of the screen and the additional material is not always in good taste nor up to the standard of the original. Adolescents, 12-16: passable; children, 8-12: no."
— + Motion Pic R Jl 1 "36

"Bret Harte's simple, direct and unsophisticated story is admirably adapted by Mr. Dunnville. Millions will delight those who enjoy refreshing entertainment. Family." + Nat Council of Jewish Women Jl 1 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Jl 16 '36

"A and Y: mild entertainment; C: no."
Parents' M p69 S '36

"[It] will delight those who enjoy refreshing entertainment. Family." + Sel Motion Pic Ag 1 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; +— Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
M'Liss—Continued

"Family-junior.

Wkly Guide JI 4 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"RKO Pictures evidently concluded at the start that the million-copy circulation of Bret Harte's 1863 novel M'liss deserved the considerable care that a picture of its kind must receive. The producers have delivered a talkie, one of the most notable, well directed, and well performed that Hollywood has delivered. Miss Shirley is the 'America's Sweetheart' successor to Mary Pickford."—J. P. Cunningham

Commonwealth p947 JI 31 '36

"Radio gives us this in a notable picture, notable for its splendid direction and acting, its flawless writing and its fine photography and art direction. It is charming entertainment and a sufficiently worthy example of screen craftsmanship to warrant my suggesting that those interested in the cinema as a medium see and study it. While this is definitely a talkie, it leans not infrequently on the camera as a story-telling aid. The dialogue is utterly realistic, confines itself to essentials and is delivered at all times with the highest possible degree of craftsmanship..."—Hollywood Spec p17 JI 4 '36

"There is not another Hollywood actress quite like Anne Shirley. Her playing is imbued with an inclusive quality—an adolescent sincerity and a fragile comedy flavor—that makes this young performer as distinctive in her way as Garbo or Garvey. In M'liss, her latest and a typical vehicle, Miss Shirley once more scores in a role that seems ridiculous on the page. It manages to come as a gently persuasive item for your more relaxed moments." (2½ stars) Beverly Hills Daily Reporter p29 Ag 5 '36

"The film trade press gave 'M'liss' high praise as a 'family' picture; predicted it would charm even urban audiences."—Lit Digest p15 JI 11 '36

"There is an audience, no doubt, for pictures like 'M'liss', 'Ann of Green Gables' and 'The Harvester,' or producers would not continue making them. But they are simple, sentimental and rustic for this taste proves nothing, of course; therefore you may conceivably enjoy 'M'liss' like Rosy. You may not laugh in a bawl of tears... To one who remembers Bret Harte for his Poker Flat stories, the picture 'M'liss' comes as a surprise. Mr. Harte's colorful and adult episodes have been changed into something childish and saccharine... Miss Shirley is not our idea of an actress and John Beal is wasted as Thorne."—Marguerite Tazelaar

N Y Herald Tribune p4 Ag 8 '36

"'M'liss' is based on Mr. Harte's story, but the pioneer West it describes is the West of Hollywood films, a Hollywood closely watched by the real days and years. So absent is sin from the picture that this yarn of the roaring, gambling West becomes a mild, sugar-and-water Western, not to be indulged in a coffee house. It is not much of a drama nor its production one to stir enthusiasm..."—Eileen Creelman

N Y Sun p15 Ag 10 '36

"There is little or nothing left of the hard-bitten picture that Bret Harte drew. The youthful Anne Shirley's characterization of the M'liss of the screen version has its moments."—J. T. M.

N Y Times p8 Ag 8 '36

"Although it is difficult to write with any degree of fairness about the narrative of 'M'liss,' the film possesses a really skillful physical production, has freshness and individual style and emerges as a considerably more likable photoplay than you might suspect from a brief digest of its story... Charming, romantic, nostalgic, expertly acted and directed, 'M'liss' is more than just a tolerable screen entertainment."—William Boehmel

++ — N Y World-Telegram p12 Ag 10 '36

"Bret Harte's quaint sampler has been embroiled in the leisurely attitude of the talkie; a film as it is thoroughly old-fashioned and just as thoroughly enjoyable... It's warm, it has holes in it but it gets under the skin. The sequence in which the star sings 'There's a Tavern in the Town' accompanied by gentle playing and dance is certain to be talked about."—Herb Sterne

+ — Script p12 JI 11 '36

"The brisk early days of California have taken on a pastel hue in p2 Jc 22 '36 from novel to screen. No longer is Smith's Pocket the roaring locale of tender love... 'M'liss' is a well washed daughter of the lot, hair coiffed in the latest fashion, eyebrows neatly plucked, eyes open wide in the engaging manner of her screen predecessors. Saloon scenes take up some two fifths of the total footage, violating the Bret Harte tradition in each foot."—St. Louis Post Dispatch p113 Ag 30 '36

"'M'liss' is... dragged down from the shelf now for no better reason than to show that it should have remained there... Cinematography is notable... the daughter of Anne Shirley, who played the name part, in popular esteem and box office importance..."—Hollywood Reporter p2 Jc 25 '36

++ — Box Office p27 JI 4 '36

"This is a faithful transcription of the old Bret Harte story... John Beal is real and believable, and carries the picture along convincingly, and at all times holds the attention. The trouble with the production is that it fails to build to any real suspense and a thrill climax such as a story with this background demands..."—Film Daily p9 JI 8 '36

"Bret Harte's sentimental comedy of frontier days, now more than half a century old and the model for a whole school of American fiction, is brought to life with all the special effects in its class... It is headed for fat grosses in all neighborhoods and will solo on many Main Streets this month with profit. Mr. Harte's daughter Anne Shirley, who plays the name part, in popular esteem and box office importance..."—Hollywood Reporter p2 Jc 25 '36

++ — Box Office p27 JI 4 '36

"Unusually well produced and performed, this backwoods romance should appeal to family audiences. It marks a definite step forward for Anne Shirley."—Motion Pict Daily p4 Jc 24 '36

"This should bring Anne Shirley back after she slipped in her last effort. 'M'liss' is no record for the family entertainment that small towns, neighborhoods should like. Guy Kibbee's presence should help..."—Hollywood Reporter p2 Jc 25 '36

++ — Exhibitor p17 Sep 24 '36

"Heavy doses of mush are mixed with a sprinkling of sarsaparilla in this one to make up an hour of what is generally passed off under the pretense of family entertainment. With no names to help it at the box office it will have to get in line for double-feature spotting. It is just the kind of story which can stand up under sincere treatment in this day and age..."—Variety p18 Ag 12 '36

"Intelligent production by Robert Sisk, with emotional and comic elements neatly balanced to prevent descent into maudlin and caricature pitfalls, appropriate direction by George
Audience Suitability Ratings

"Family" Calf Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Mediocre. Mature." DAR

"Labored humor, antiquated gags, a few interesting camera angles, in a film that as a whole is tiresome and unfunny." Nat Soc of New England Women

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

69

Nicholls, Jr., and restrained playing by Anne Shirley and able cast have shaped the tale as excellent entertainment for general audience level. Homespun quality fits it best for the family trade, but it should take care of itself on any program where substance rather than names count."

Variety (Hollywood) p3 Je 23 '36

+ (4) MOVING DAY. United artists sm in Jl 22 '36

Director: Walt Disney

Produced in Technicolor. When Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck are dispossessed, they try to move their furniture out and run into tremendous difficulties.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Family" Sei Motion Pict Jl '36

"Family-Junior." Wkly Guide Je 20 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Latest Mickey Mouse release in which an erratic piano is the star and Donald Duck's humbly follows up, comes among the best." + Nation p110 Jl 25 '36

"By all means see the current Mickey Mouse. . . There's an upright piano in it, doing some of the most sinister things I've ever seen on a movie screen." Russell Maloney + New Yorker p53 Ag 8 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Donald Duck once again overshadow Mickey Mouse as star of Walt Disney's latest Technicolor cartoon to the delight of audiences who have long since allowed the quack-voiced little fellow to replace the squeaky rodent in their affections. . . The laughs, in fact, come so fast during Donald's slip and seek with a stubborn piano as to leave one almost breathless. Filled with fast and furious fun, 'Moving Day' is tops in the cartoon field."

Box Office p51 Ag 1 '36

"[It] contains a barrelful of laughs. . . Donald Duck undergoes a series of absurd adventures that elicit one laugh on the heels of another. In fact, Donald is the hero, Mickey a sort of stooge (and often forgotten)."

Film Daily p5 Jl 16 '36

MUMMY'S BOYS. RKO 62min

Players: Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey, Barbara Pepper, Moroni Olsen

Director: Fred Guiol

"Bert Wheeler and Bobby Woolsey are a pair of ditch diggers who go to Egypt with a group of scientists to excavate the tomb of an ancient king. Expedition is jinxed with a number of members marked for death." Variety (Hollywood)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A complete farce with too many 'unfunny' situations. Best left unseen." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Family." Calf Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Mediocre. Mature." DAR

"Labored humor, antiquated gags, a few interesting camera angles, in a film that as a whole is tiresome and unfunny." Nat Soc of New England Women

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor

+ — Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ag 25 '36

"By far the worst vehicle in which this pair of comics have been cast, 'Mummy's Boys' is nil as far as entertainment values are concerned. A waste of anyone's time."

— Nat Council of Jewish Women Ag 26 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency S 16 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"When the team first came to the screen I enjoyed its pictures, but it did not take me long to get tired of them. One can stand just so much of Woolsey's cigar and Wheeler's continued dumbness until last Saturday evening. It had been three years since I saw Wheeler and Woolsey on the screen. I wanted to see if I could figure out the secret of their box-office strength, so I attended a preview of 'Mummy's Boys' and was bored excessively by the picture as entertainment but interested in it as a subject for study. My study, though, did not get me far, for I still can not see why the public year after year should pay handsomely to have two characterizations repeated for it at regular intervals."

Hollywood Spec p8 Ag 15 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This provides a better-than-usual frame for their mad capers, which seldom leave the well-beaten track, and the juvenile sense of humor will respond heartily in the well-established 'Whoosey' areas."

Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 10 '36

"The new Wheeler and Woolsey film is no better than their last few offerings and will appeal only to fans whose loyalty cannot be shaken. Several individual members of the cast turn in a lot of work, struggle with patrician futility to do justice to the poor material. . . The exhibitors will take his plays for the Wheeler and Woolsey fans by emphasizing the background of the comedy and the value of the second picture on the program."

Motion Pict Daily p6 Ag 11 '36

"Comedy moments are sprinkled through occasionally, with the boys milking old and new gags in the best manner possible. In the final analysis, it will depend on the boys themselves."

Phil Exhibitor p41 S 1 '36

"'Mummy's Boys' is a poor effort in entertainment, holds little to recommend it other than as a filler in twin bills. It would be hard to pick out any whole human being for the picture for recommendation. Story and direction are weak throughout. Gags are poorly developed. Picture will have to struggle for trade, even with the Wheeler and Woolsey fans."

Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 19 '36

MURDER IN THE RED BARN. Olympic 60min

Ag 15 '36

Players: Tod Slaughter, Sophie Stewart. D. J. Williams. Clare Greent

Director: Milton Rosmer

Dialogue film produced in England by MGM's English unit as a quota picture. This is a revival of the famous old English melodrama
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

MURDER IN THE RED BARN—Continued by an unknown author. "Its setting is England of sixty years ago and its principal characters a countryman, his squerity and ingenuous flirtations village maiden. The squere seduces the girl, then, to settle his gambling debts, becomes a rich widow. When the girl, ordered from home by a stern father, pleads for his help, Squire Corder murders her in the red barn." (N Y Sun)

Audience Suitability Ratings
"Adults." Nat Legion of Decency Ag 27 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"Although the picture is as much of a burlesque as the actors can make it, it lacks the fun of the flesh-and-blood kind. Yet it is amusing enough. . . The chief interest of the piece lies in exaggerated action, done with an appearance of complete correctness. The treatment is old-fashioned, with backdrop sets, deliberate pace and scenes taken directly from the play. However, the great theatrical red barn, both within and without is impressive. The score has a humorous touch and the high-falutin' specious are often comical." Marguerite Tazelaar

+N Y Herald Tribune p12 Ag 19 '36

"The matinee audience watched the picture quietly, yet they held the atmosphere. This kind of drama needs a noisy audience, perhaps a beer-drinking audience, ready to love and believe at a jump seat with excitement. . . If Gilbert Josephson could somehow persuade his audiences to join in the fun, "Murder in the Red Barn" would be more jolly. Its British producers and cast have wisely decided not to burlesque it. The play is presented on the screen probably much as it was on the stage in its heyday, some sixty years ago." Elizabeth Creighton

+N Y Sun p18 Ag 19 '36

"Tod Slaughter, the Corse Payton of London, is quite perfect as the ogling, lip-curling, 104 per cent impure Squire. Sophie Stewart will melt even the most adamant heart as Maria. . . All have been assembled at great expense as the characters in the prologue confides—for your amusement. To make it really perfect, though, the World Cinema should install a little clapping claque." F. S. Nugent

N Y Times Ag 19 '36

"The company of players assembled at the World Cinema is admirable, delineating skillfully and with the help of the talented folk. Especially is Mr. Tod Slaughter to be commended for his realistic histrionics in the role of the recrux Squire. . . In conclusion may we congratulate Mr. Josephson of the management for a pertinent and profitable evening." Douglas Gilbert

+N Y World-Telegram p19a Ag 19 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"[It is] suited chiefly to the smaller theaters. While produced by British Lion in a more serious vein, it is generally accredited to the stage revivals of the melodramas of long ago, this well-known story has many interesting moments as program pictures go. A capable cast of English actors give it a lively tempo despite the fact that the character parts are played in the old school acting. Those scenes showing the murder of the heroine and her interment by the villain in the old red barn have a gruesome touch as vivid as the sordid scenes in Frankenstein." Daily Variety p5 Ag 19 '36

"There is none of the downright burlesque of the old 'miller' which so pleased the stage audience, nor, on the other hand, is there the complex and serious playing of it which must also be reckoned genuine entertainment—of a sort. Rather there is a combination of both. The character bits are done in the time-honored heavy style, almost with a touch of burlesque, while much of it is played straight. A word for Tod Slaughter's performance as Corder, the villain. It is easily the outstanding feature of the film."

+ + Motion Pic Daily p12 Ag 20 '36

"Foreign made, this will serve as a novelty for an audience. A burlesque house can sell it as a burlesque. . . Audiences, told this is a burlesque, might enjoy it more. As a freak attraction, it can be pushed." Phila Exhibitor p44 S I '36

"This screen version of the 50 to 75 year old American stage melodrama is becoming entertaining again for the Stage. The makers of this film may have been minded to benefit from the occasional revival of old stage melodramas of the gaslight era, over here as travesty. Perhaps this film may be offered as a travesty for it will go better with beer and pretzels. The performers are serious and the stuff is just dated costume matter. And very humorless. Picture is equally deficient on the technical side, neither the photography nor the sound being very apt." Variety p21 S 2 '36

MURDER WITH PICTURES. Paramount 75min S 18 '36

Playing: Lew Ayres, Gail Patrick, Paul Kelly, Benny Baker

Director: Charles Barton

"Lew Ayres is the crack photographer of a daily who gets mixed up in a murder-mystery endeavoring to protect a photo of Gail Patrick who is the chief suspect." Motion Pic Daily

Trade Paper Reviews
"Newspaper murder yarn enhanced by smart dialogue and Lew Ayres briskly entertaining performances. The not-too-heavy mystery is well developed and will be found acceptable. Family."

+ + Box Office p25 S 8 '36

"'Murder With Pictures' is a better than average program mystery yarn, with more emphasis on smartly-dialed up-to-date comedy through the mystery. With a background of newspaper photography, affording a number of new twists, both in story treatment and in the fantastic murder technique, it's an all-around craftsmenlike job that should please many audiences." Hollywood Reporter p2 Ag 27 '36

"As a typical mystery melodrama, this picture succeeds in keeping the audience guessing. The formula proves—everbody in the cast is under suspicion. The picture will stand up on a dual bill and is satisfactory entertainment for the audiences that like the murder-mystery theme." + + Motion Pic Daily p4 Ag 28 '36

"Long time ago 'twas said plots for the mystery story' industry had been depleted. This picture more or less proves the statement. Despite the fact that the identity of the killer, the suspense, the drama, the thrills are all jumbled up in a maze of incidents, one does not particularly care to learn said identity. While the story is weak and the direction in many cases in need of strong bolstering, the cast comes through with a splendid performance." + Variety (Hollywood) p27 Ag 27 '36

MY AMERICAN WIFE. Paramount 65min J1 31 '36

Players: Francis Lederer, Ann Sothern, Fred MacMurray, Billie Burke, Ernest Cossart

Director: Harold Young

The yarn concerns a wealthy western pioneer family grown socially ambitious. The daughter marries a count in Europe and brings him

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; --- Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

home to a round of lavish entertainments. He organizes himself and cultivates the friendship of the grandfather, a tough old Indian fighter.

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A and Y: amusing; C: doubtful interest.”

Christian Century p1175 S 2 '36

“Excellent. Mature-family.”

DAR

“Amusing. Family.”

Nat Bd of R

Fox W Coast Bul Ag 8 '36

“Good dialogue and bits of splendid outdoor photography. Family.”

Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

“Francis Lederer plays the role of the count with his usual charm and sincerity, ably aided by Fred Stone. Other members are not so happily cast and are rather ‘stagey’ in their parts.”

Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs

“Excellent. Clever from startling opening sequence to finale, this exceptionally well-produced, social satire glorifies a fundamental American democratic principle. Mature. Family.”

DAR

“The entire production is a smooth, light comedy in excellent taste. Constructive in tone for the entire family.”

Nat Soc of New England Women

“This sparkling Western comedy will interest every type of audience of any age because the original, by Elmer Davis, is good writing. Family.”

S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

“While periodic visits to One-Eyed-Joe’s saloon serve to counterbalance rather large portion of the young man’s effort to be an American, the appealing naïve of Francis Lederer keeps the picture in its proper light and comedy vein throughout. Adolescents, 12-16; entertaining; children, 8-12; probably not interesting.”

Women’s Un. Club, Los Angeles Ag 8 '36

“Fox W Coast Bul Ag 22 '36

“The picture is excellently directed, skillful use having been made of all material, clever dialogue and amusing situations, with many subtle thrusts at American snobbery. Delightfully amusing for all.”

Nat Assn of Women’s Clubs (W Coast) Ag 10 '36

“Constructive in tone for the entire family.”

Jt Estimates Ag 15 '36

“This highly entertaining comedy, with many amusing situations and bright dialogue gives Francis Lederer a rare opportunity for a fascinating portrayal. Excellent direction and good photography. Family.”

Nat Council of Jewish Women Ag 12 '36

“General patronage.”

Nat Legion of Decency Ag 6 '36

“The cast is exceptionally well suited for the comedy roles and does excellent work under skilful direction. Outstanding entertainment value. Family.”

Nat Council of Jewish Women Ag 12 '36

“Excellent patronage.”

Nat Legion of Decency Ag 6 '36

“The cast is exceptionally well suited for the comedy roles and does excellent work under skilful direction. Outstanding entertainment value. Family.”

Nat Council of Jewish Women Ag 12 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“[It is] a neatly turned domestic comedy. . .

Christian Science Monitor p13 Ag 29 '36

“Light and amusing.”

Christian Science Monitor p13 Ag 29 '36

“My American Wife” [is] as neat a little picture as I have seen recently. For the first time since he won a place in pictures by his stage performance in ‘Autumn Crocus,’ Francis Lederer captures much of the charm which first drew attention to him as a screen possibility. . . The picture will do more to establish him as a favorite than any other in which he has appeared.

Hollywood Spec p9 Ag 1 '36

“A mild lampooning of the no longer wild West, ‘My American Wife’ is a frothy little comedy-romance which spreads its easy charm over every film . . . Agreeably fashioned throughout, the film is at its sly best in poking slightly the precious fun at civic and social leaders.” (2½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p13 S 12 '36

“The film satirizes snobbery in the wealthier American classes, but the satire is velvet-gloved and there is the iron hand underneath. The entertainment industry cannot afford to be severe. Mr. Fred Stone is an amusing grandpa, Miss Billie Burke the best of the horrid snobs, and one can say without fear of contradiction that Mr. Lederer and Miss Sothern are a handsome couple. Mr. Lederer is also an actor for Susan S. S.

Manchester Guardian p11 Ag 20 '36

“A comedy of manners, ‘My American Wife’ takes off with mild hilarity social climbing of a less prosperous period than the present. . . . Because of the grotesque situations, particularly the amusing ones by Billie Burke . . . and Francis Lederer . . . the picture proves amusing and diverting. While not belonging in the category of ‘Ruggles of Red Gap,’ [it] yet has something of the humor and good nature of that classic. Its direction is easy fast enough to be comfortable, as well as mildly comic, while the characterizations are sprightly and sometimes sharp-edged.”

Marguerite Tazelaar

N Y Herald Tribune p11 Ag 21 '36

“A most engaging comedy-drama arrived at the Music Hall yesterday noon. ‘My American Wife’ turns out to be one of those surprisingly likable films that come along now and then. . . . They’ve got just the right cast for this happy little picture.”

N Y Sun p4 Ag 21 '36

“If we may be permitted slight liberty with one of Fred Stone’s lines in ‘My American Wife,’ anybody that likes this kind of a picture will find this kind of a picture the kind of a picture he or she likes. This extremely competent film is a loving, sentimental portrayal of a family, by Mark Twain, and was probably inserted in the current motion picture by way of suggestion to film makers. The suggestion is accepted with thanks, because there isn’t much else to say about the picture.”

J. T. M.

N Y Times p12 Ag 21 '36

“It is a pretty good film—no rave, you understand, but 85 cents worth of chortle. There are skeptics who snort at Mr. Lederer’s enchanting make-believe, maliciously contending that his hif-fer-sweet advances are slightly Suchard, and rate him as his studio’s Shirley Temple. I recall tagging him with an unkind ‘coy’ in some old appraisal forgotten with the film. Baseless, all baseless, and his ‘American Wife’ proves it. In this new picture Mr. Lederer is rejuvenated.”

N Y World-Telegram p38a Ag 22 '36

“It is distinguished because the American heiress marries a count who isn’t a phony.”

John Mosher

New Yorker p34 Ag 22 '36

“Intending satire, the characters go overboard on exaggeration, but some of the situations are good fun. On a double bill this will give patrons their money’s worth. It’s slightly difficult to believe that polished, conservative Francis Lederer really has his heart set on a ranchito, wife and all. Lederer must have parts tailored to fit and this role puckers at the shoulders, hangs none too well, but through perseverance and some good acting he does a thoroughly competent job.”

Herb Stereo

Script p10 Ag 22 '36

+ Excellently Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
MY AMERICAN WIFE—Continued

"My American Wife" is a pungent satire on the old theme of European X. Americanism, to which has been added a new twist."

Time p18 Ag 17 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Smartly paced film that should prove highly amusing... Lederer plays a tailored role with ease.

+Box Office p25 Jl 25 '36

"A picture that is entertaining, plus a nice bit of flag waving, should do nicely at the box office. The film is an hour of laughter and honest entertainment wherever it is shown. Francis Lederer has here a splendidly tailored role and he plays it joyously with full appreciation of its values."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 Jl 18 '36

"Sparkling, fresh comedy, this picture stacks up as exceptionally pleasing all-audience entertainment... The picture contains those elements which may make a box-office surprise. Fun for any kind of patronage, it adds considerable prestige to Lederer and Stone. Sold as all-laugh amusement with many angles available for unique and effective exploitation, the picture certainly should be run.

+ Motion Pict Daily p8 Jl 20 '36

"Light comedy that may prove a surprise, this can be recommended as a neat piece of summer comedy. It has been directed and played with an eye to certain audience satisfaction."

+ Phila Exhibitor p35 Ag 1 '36

"My American Wife" is fair enough to insure satisfaction. It won't send 'em out singing its praises but it'll leave the patrons in an agreeable mood. Fred Stone adds much to the interest and one of the pictures best. He is a very interesting character and is missed when the footage doesn't include him. That's a good sign be only gets the right material, something that's also true in the case of Lederer, he could grow.

+ Variety p38 Ag 25 '36

"As his Paramount swan song, Albert Lewis has turned in a picture of which he may well be proud. In every department it reflects production intelligence. With a story that is interesting and unique from start to finish, it should be able to hold its own, helped by a cast of recognizable names, in any theatre."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 15 '36

MY MAN GODFREY. Universal 95min Ag 30 '36

Director: Gregory La Cava

Based on the novel of the same title by Eric Latan. When Carole and Gail, two socialite sisters participate in a treasure hunt ball they find Powell, defeated victim of the depression, living on a dump and bringing him to the ball. Carole insists upon giving him a job as a butler in her home where he resists her advances, saves the mother from a gigolo lover, evades the vengeful attacks of the other sister and saves the father's fortune.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A and Y: amusing; C: doubtful interest."

Christian Century p1239 S 16 '36

"Adults: good; family: doubtful; 14-18 and 8-14: no. Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"With every opportunity for rather broad comedy, the director skates rather thin ice in some instances, and produced a superior picture of its kind. Mature." Calif Fed of Business Professional Women's Clubs

"Witty dialogue, highly amusing situations, a remarkably fine cast, skillful direction, and a big underlying truth mark this satire of the pampered rich as one of the year's best. Don't miss this rollicking comedy. Mature—family. Excellent." DAR

"This film presents a really valuable thought comedy. The hilarious comedy filled with clever lines and acted with verve and charm. Delightfully amusing for sophisticated audiences. Mature. Nat Soc of New England Women

"[It is] a very entertaining picture. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"Mixed with the satirical humor is a bit of philosophy of living. Adolescents: entertaining; children: mature." Women's Univ Club, Los Angeles

+ Fox W Coast Bul Ag 15 '36

"The picture has a deeper note beneath the gay exterior and provides most diverting and fascinating entertainment. Adults & young people.

+ Gen Board of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ag 6 '36

"Adults & young people. Best of the month."

++ Jt Estimates Ag 1 '36

"This is a rollicking farce in which the idiotic antics of a spoiled and pampered family are amusing but can hardly bear the brunt of a feature-length film. Adults."

++ Nat Council of Jewish Women Ag 5 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency Ag 20 '36

Sel Motion Pict S 1 '36

"Mature."

Wkly Guide Ag 29 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Splendid summer entertainment, in the vein of nonsensical comedy that is pitched to a high key in satirical farce... Morrie Ryskind's witty adaptation [and] a sparkling cast expertly carries the insin and ridiculous comedy situations to a rollicking conclusion, on the crest of funny and foolish dialog." J. P. Cunningham

+ Commonweal p38 J1 24 '36

"One of the smartest, most amusing comedies of the season. If we may accept it as a sample of what we may expect from Universal's new management, we can look forward to getting some superlatively entertaining when Charlie Chaplin really gets under way. All in all 'My Man Godfrey' is a thoroughly enjoyable picture which safely can be put on your list of those you must see."

+ Hollywood Spec p6 Ag 15 '36

"Violently whimsical, 'My Man Godfrey'... is an utterly insane treatment of a present-day problem that brings for the many laughs it produces... In skipping their dexterous way through a series of situations that are all designed for laughter, the characters offer an agreeably coked show abound-

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; -- Mediocre; -- Poor; --- Exceptionally Poor
ing in mental slapstick.” (3 stars) Beverly Hills
Liberty p31 Ag 15 '36

"The plot, if thin, is novel and the dialogue amusing. Unfortunately, the scenarios, Marrie Ryskind and Eric Hartoff, retard the action occasionally by expressing their sympathy for the unemployed... Powell gives a suave and satisfactory performance." + — News-Wk p42 S 12 '36

"The Hollywood idea of high society is as fine a reason for 'come the revolution' as any one could think up on a moment's notice. Wasters, numskulls, and nitwits, these lorgnette-raisers revel in abominable taste, inanities, and rebuttal. Occasionally the banquet sparkles. For the most part it sounds much like an off-center phonograph record... Devotees of mad, mad, too damned mad comedy may find 'My Man Godfrey' more to their liking than I did." Herb Sterne
† Script p10 Ag 29 '36

"Made out of material as old as show business and as cliche as its sort, 'My Man Godfrey' emerges with that evasive quality that is not skillful playing, writing or direction, but something that,Wot the director himself attributes itself to these things, and makes a tip-top picture." + Time p30 S 14 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Smartest, brightest, funniest society comedy to come out of Hollywood in many a moon. William Powell at his best and Carole Lombard surpasses all her previous performances." + Box Office p25 Ag 8 '36

"'My Man Godfrey' is in this reviewer's opinion one of the most laugh-provoking comedies to reach the screen since talkies were presented... For exhibitors the picture is a veritable gold-mine. It can be sold from many angles, but our advice is to play it up chiefly as the comedy sensation of the year."
† Canadian Moving Pic Digest p5 S 12 '36

"This is one of the wildest farces that has come to the screen in a long time. It is loaded with laugh-provoking situations, by Gregory La Cava, who produced and directed... The opus will have no trouble in pleasing all types of audiences."
† Film Daily p24 Je 16 '36

"Off center from the very beginning, 'My Man Godfrey' is practically without precedent as an utter and complete riot. It's a picture wherein a good third of the dialogue is lost in continuous roars of audience laughter. And with William Powell and Carole Lombard co-starred and supported by a large cast of expert farceurs, it is likely to prove a box office sensation."
+ Hollywood Reporter p3 Je 12 '36

"Nonsensical comedy pitched to a satirical farce key, this can be readily tabbed as all-audience, all-laugh entertainment. In story content and production and cast values it has qualities that should make selling a pleasure."
+ Motion Pict Daily p3 Je 18 '36

"Estimate: good program."
+ Phila Exhibitor p68 Jl 1 '36

"Sprightly farce comedy neatly tailored to the best talents of William Powell and Carole Lombard, distinguished with sophisticated air but right down the alley of popular entertainment. 'My Man Godfrey.' The offering is earmarked for handsome grosses. It is made to order for the ace spots and should exert heavy draw in all its branches. Pre-view assembly carried considerable excess footage, and picture needs elimination and tightening to sharpen up for full value of its rich comedicites."
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Je 12 '36

NAVY BORN. Republic 68min Je 15 '36
Players: William Gargan, Claire Dodd
Director: Nate Watt

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: mediocre; Y: perhaps; C: no value." Christian Century p1095 Ag 12 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Je 25 '36

"A and Y: pretty good comedy drama; C: if interested."
+ Parents' M p47 Ag '36

"A highly diverting story, filled with human interest, humor and suspense... Not the usual navy picture, but rather a comedy-drama with naval atmosphere for its background. Family."
+ Sel Motion Pict Jl 1 '36

NEIGHBORHOOD HOUSE. MGM-Roach 58min
Players: Charley Chase. Rosina Lawrence. Darla Hood. Margaret Irving
Directors: Alan Hale. Harold Law

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film. It has also been released as a short with 26 minute running time

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A. Y and C: slapstick that will amuse the easy-to-laugh."
+ Parents' M p45 Jl '36

"Good. Family."
+ Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

"[It is an] amusing comedy. Family."
+ Wkly Guide Jl 11 '36

NEWS OF THE U.S.S.R. Amkino 87min Je 23 '36

A film record of recent events in the Soviet Union, with titles in English and French and explanatory remarks in Russian.

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Excellent views of recent events in Russia." H. T. S.
† N Y Times p16 Je 26 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"[The Russian events] are presented in an absorbing manner."
† Film Daily p4 Je 27 '36

"Utterly without pattern, interminably long in unimportant sequences, botched and frequently in very poor photography, the picture may get past after a fashion in the red hot communistic spots, but even the reds will not care particularly for it. Nothing whatever for the general public."
— Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 10 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; +— Fair; +— Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
NINE DAYS A QUEEN. Gaumont British
8min. S 1 '36
Players: Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Nova
Filbeam. John Mills. Sybil Thorndike
Director: Robert Stevenson

Filmed in England and known there as Tudor Rose. Later released as Lady Jane Grey.
See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews
of this film under title of Lady Jane Grey

Audience Suitability Ratings
"Family." Am Legion Auxiliary
"Adults: excellent; 14-18: heavy; 8-14:
ybeyond." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers
"A worthy production, with a capable cast well directed. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs
"Excellent. Mature-family." DAI
"Adults & young people." E Coast Preview Committee

The direction is exceptionally skilled and artistic and historical details are painstakingly accurate. The entire picture is a royal pageant in which real people live out their lives. An interpretation of colorful English history made in the Elizabethan spirit, itself a rare joy for students of history. Family, exclusive of young children." Nat Soc of New England
Women

+ + Fox W Coast Bul J1 11 '36
"Family, exclusive of young children. Outstanding." + + Jt Estimates J1 1 '36

Adolescents, 12-16: excellent; children, 8-12:
mature." Motion Pict R J1 '36

"This is a picture of rare beauty and should be seen by the entire family." +
Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 24
'36

"Historically correct as to sequence of events and costumes. The details of interiors are especially interesting, re-creating the period convincingly. General patronage." Han of Decency Jt 18 '36

"A: impressive drama; Y: excellent; C: fine, if not too mature." Parents' M p69 S '36

"Historical drama, possessing great signif-ificance because of its authenticitiy and artistic value. A notable performance of the pageantry is impressive, invoking a glamour greatly enhanced by beautiful and authentic settings, superbly photographed.
Adults & young people." +
Sel Motion Pict J1 1 '36

"A better historical picture than 'Henry VIII'
and more moving, though not so amusing.
In fact, one of the best pictures made from history. Suggested for school, library and church use. Worth being kept permanently available. Recommended to the Committee on Exceptional Play, Library, Family. Outstanding." +
Wkly Guide Je 6 '36

Newsaper and Magazine Reviews

"[It is an] excellent British picture. . . . There is no comedy relief to spoil this page out of history but don't think for an instant that this is somber production--it is drama--powerful and strong--but nevertheless splendid theatre for serious, sincere folk." Laura Elston
Time p29 S 8 '36

"Gaumont-British's 'Nine Days a Queen' is a great motion picture, rich in heart interest,
. . . [It is] one of the screen's greatest achievesments. It is a picture that will enter it to a run of months, but perhaps its lack of names well known over here will deny it such success. But do not be among those who do not see it. It would disappoint yourself and your friends.
[It is] an excellent picture." +
Hollywood Spec p11 J1 4 '36

"If you see 'Nine Days a Queen'--and you must--you'll never forget the story of gentle lilie [sic] Lady Jane Grey. And the names of Warwick, Tudor, Seymour and Edward VI will no longer be hideous abstracts made to elude the unhappy little girl. At examination times, . . . Nova Filbeam's Lady Jane Grey is essentially a girl.
The gripping simplicity of her performance climbs to great heights with the powerful structure of the film. You'll not soon forget it." (4 stars) Beverly Hills B Bul p51 Ag 1 '36

"'Nine Days a Queen' takes only seventy-eight minutes most of which is the most thrilling cinematic entertainment offered in several years. Nova Filbeam fulfills the hopes of Ralph Borges, who had her as an actress in 'Little Friend' and 'The Man Who Knew Too Much.' Sir Cedric Hardwicke does a dashing job with the customary sureness for which he has been acclaimed 'one of the world's leading actors.' "
+ + Lit Digest p18 Ag 8 '36

"[It is] a moving film. .. Miss Nova Filbeam achieved some moments of real beauty in the part of the young girl. But the true genius of the film, especially, her acting is no longer that of a child star, but gives glimpses of a talent of the highest degree." (3 stars) Man Manchester Guardian p13 J1 7 '36

"Authentic backgrounds lend a substantial air to costume dramas and 'Nine Days a Queen' benefits by costumes that look like cakes and fancy wedding cake miniatures. . . . The picture unfolds leisurely, has been majestically produced and will doubtless find a discriminating if limited, audience." Herb Sterne

+ Script p10 Ag 8 '36

Director Robert Stevenson and Writer Miles
Malleson have contributed to present a clear and unadulterated picture of England and her so-called rulers of this time. It is forceful drama, deeply moving, spoken and enacted with assurance by the entire cast. Particularly impressive are the performances of Nova Filbeam as the doomed Jane, and Sir Cedric Hardwicke as the Earl of Warwick. . . 'Nine Days a Queen' is not the slightest disappointment that 'Henry VIII' was, but there is an easy grace here, and a directorial precision that makes it important historical cinema.

+ Stage p10 8 '36

"'Nine Days a Queen' is a sequel to Alexander Korda's famed 'The Private Life of Henry VIII'. It is a generation more to its audience and the test of the picture indicates that the story cannot keep on chronologically up to and including Edward VIII. [It has the qualities of] style and direction that have earned for this company a well-earned respect in British historical studies: smart writing, fine playing, touching as well as thrilling, expert setting and casting, an august reverence for Empire."

+ Time p29 S 8 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Authentic settings and costumes, splendid photography and effective performances are the outstanding features of this tragic tale of one of the most dramatic periods in English history.
The distinguished group of British actors has, however, little marquee value here, and the story of the political intrigue that surrounded Lady Jane Grey during her short reign on England's throne will have its main appeal to class audiences. Family." Box Office p29 Ag 1 '36

"'Nine Days a Queen', . . . undoubtedly is one of the fine pictures ever produced in England.
Rivaling 'Henry VIII' in the luxury of its settings and the perfect stage picture, it should be one of the biggest box-office attractions of the year, especially in Great Britain and Europe.

+ Canadian Moving Pict Digest p6 J1
4 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair;
+ Mediocire; Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
"For all-around handling, this is one of the most efficient productions to come out of the British studios for some time. Of course, the particular talent of British actors for not merely playing their historical roles but actually living them, gives the story a good human touch and plenty of emotional climaxes."

— Film Daily p21 Je 26 '36

"GH has poured all its resources into a production that ought to bring much prestige to the company... Any drawback in the lack of domestic names can be overcome by word-of-mouth build-up. As it stands, the picture is a credit to Gaumont."

— Variety Exhibitor p24 Je 15 '36

"Gaumont British scores high with this powerfully written, directed and superbly played drama. Easily one of the best of the British productions, it should prove profitably appealing to the generality of American audiences as well. For the more cultivated and demanding patronage it will offer impressive entertainment. Tragic it is in the best dramatic sense, but it has deepening of lighter moods and great finesse and color in the playing, if not outright comedy, to round it out dramatically so far. It has a genuine mood... Grim climax will take stout hearts on part of audiences and may be almost too strong for the average relish."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Je 20 '36

THE NOOSE. See I'd give my life

OLD HUTCH. MGM 79min S 25 '36
Players: Wallace Beery, Eric Linden, Cecilia Parker, Elizabeth Patterson
Director: J. Walter Ruben

"Old Hutch has been out of work for 20 years when he finds $100,000 in stolen bills buried on the bank of his favorite fishing stream. Knowing that he could never cash a thousand dollar bill unquestioned, 'Hutch' acts out to become a man of means and takes over a deserted swimming resort learning the hard way. By the time he is established as a good provider the gangsters recover their stolen bills." Motion Pic Daily

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"One of those rare, down-to-earth glimpses of real people which the screen sometimes affords us; an honest, unadorned tale of a shiftless, lazy husband, his faithful wife and half-dozen children, 'Old Hutch' will find itself well toward the top of the season's list of well made pictures."

+ Hollywood Spec p12 S 12 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Down-to-earth comedy with Wallace Beery in a role well suited to his home-spun humor makes this good entertainment. Family."

— Box Office p25 S 25 '36

"MGM has spotted Wallace Beery in a home-spun yarn that does not spin much in entertainment because of a weak story... The sole value of the picture from a box office viewpoint, will be measured by the draw of Wallace Beery."

— Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 27 '36

"This film is made to order for the Wallace Beery fans, but is rather too routine in its plot development to make new movie goers for the star, though he turns in plenty of laughs as the good-for-nothing who suffers reform... Elizabeth Patterson drew an impulsive burst of applause from the preview audience for her splendid scene as the downtrodden wife who is goaded into protest."

— Motion Pic Daily p8 Ag 25 '36

"Fitted with a character precisely to his liking and talents, Wallace Beery takes 'Old Hutch' on an entertaining joy ride of in-fectuous comedy which will please the customers far and wide and tingle the box office pleasantly wherever Beery is a name and home-spun fare is relished... Beery has never been better coached and piloted, delivering modulations not normally expected of this actor. For these merits and generally sound entertainment tone of picture credit also goes amply to Harry Rapf as producer."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 27 '36

ON THE SUNNYSIDE. See Paa solidian

OUR RELATIONS. Roach-MGM 79min
Players: Stan Laurel, Oliver Hardy, Alan Hale
Director: Harry Lachman

Based on the short story, The Money Box, by W. W. Jacobs. "Laurel and Hardy as two hen-pecked husbands and Laurel and Hardy as their twin brothers whom they have never seen before to complicate each other's lives considerably with gangsters, a stolen ring and other action thrown in." (Variety [Hollywood])

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency S 3 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Skipping merrily through 'Relations' is an undeniably successful brand of humor. Genuinely witty, blissfully absurd, nearly, spontaneously and unconventionally told, it is quite the brightest, most steadily enjoyable feature offering yet to come from Stan and Ollie. It sparkles continually with unhampered wit and not once threatens to lose the brisk tempo established at its start. Both stars achieve tremendous success in their dual roles, never having been better and seldom as good." Allan H. Hills

+ Hollywood Spec p8 Jl 18 '36

"As a typically good offering from these veteran funsters, the picture provides a palatable amount of caseygood amusement... The complications that ensue are hardly the latest twist in story-telling. But it is all unfolded with an engaging good humor that makes this enjoyable if not exactly hilarious film fare." (2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p58 S 5 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Here's a comedy riot from start to finish, complete with old-time slap stick technique. Family."

— Box Office p31 Jl 15 '36

"Laurel and Hardy's comedy of mistaken identities is a slap-stick laugh show."

— Film Daily p11 Jl 14 '36

"Our Relations' turns out to be a weak sister for Laurel and Hardy. The plot in- play is cumbersome and wordy, direction rather deliberate. The whole thing lacks spontaneity." — Hollywood Reporter p3 Jl 10 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
OUR RELATIONS—Continued

“At the preview the film drew more laughs than any of their recent pictures, and it should prove satisfactory entertainment wherever.

[Laurel and Hardy] are a good attraction.

+ Motion Picture Daily p2 JI 11 '36

“Estimate: depends on star draw.”

Philadelphia Exhibitor p34 Ag 1 '36

“Based on mistaken identity with Laurel and Hardy playing dual roles, "Our Relations" is potentially fare for the comedy team.”

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 JI 10 '36

P

PAA SOLSIDAN. Svensk-film industri 90min Ag
25 '36

Players: Ingrid Bergman, Lars Hanson, Karin Swanstrom, Marianne Losgren

Director: Gustaf Molander

Swedish dialogue film with English sub-titles produced in Stockholm. "Eva Bergh is an orphan who has inherited some of her artist-father’s tastes without his talent, so she has to work as a bank clerk. Feted by her circle of near-Bohemians on her birthday, she almost yields to the love-making of Joakim Brink, a writing Casanova, but catches herself in time and marries the substantial and altogether admirable Ribe.” (N Y Times)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Done with the usual excellency of Swedish pictures in direction, acting and photography.
Family.”

Wkly Guide S 5 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The natural charm of Ingrid Bergman, the young Stockholm actress whose star has risen so rapidly in the Scandinavian film firmament, make it worth while visiting the Cinéma de Paris to see "Paa Solsidan." While the acting of all the principals is excellent, Miss Bergman dominates the field throughout. The comedy is in good taste, but the film is photographed theatre rather than a movie.”
H. T. S.

+ N Y Times p16 Ag 26 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Romantic comedy drama in charming backgrounds and well acted.”

+ Film Daily p9 Ag 31 '36

"A Swedish importation, this is suitable for audiences [who] want to hear their native language spoken. The picture is a familiar story in another setting. . . It is finely photographed and a finished production. The yacht racing sequences are of particular merit.
While the tempo lags at times it usually moves gaily along.”

+ Motion Picture Daily p5 Ag 26 '36

PALM SPRINGS. Wanger-Paramount 70min
Je 5 '36

Players: Frances Langford, Smith Ballew,
Sir Guy Standing. Ernest Cossart. David Niven

Director: Aubrey Scotto

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews
of this film.

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; —+
Mediocre; — Poor; —- Exceptionally Poor

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: waste of time; Y: worthless; C: no.”

Christian Century p975 JI 8 '36

"This light picture will not add much to the career of the radio find Frances Langford.
Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"[It is] thoroughly entertaining. . . Adults; entertaining; 11-18; good; 8-14: good. Family.”

Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Mature.” Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs

"A slow moving production, hampered by a shop-worn plot. . . However, the beautifully photographed and apparently authentic scenery as well as several delightful western scenes add merit to the picture. Adults & young people.”

E Coast PREview Committee

"Fairly entertaining for adults.” Nat Soc of New England Women

"Typical music and desert scenery are the main features for a rather mature picture.”

S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"Family.” Mrs T. G. Winter

West Bul 30 '36

"Some lovely scenes of the desert and pleasing music in a film fairly entertaining for
adults."

+ — Jt Estimates Jo 15 '36

"Frances Langford has not the personality to make any impression on the thin material, and the film consequently depends on Guy Standing’s excellent portrayal of an aristocratic roué and on his gentleman’s gentleman and companion in vice, Ernest Cossart. Suitability: adults & adolescents.”

Mo Film Bul p118 JI '36

"There are enough good points to make
"Palm Springs" worth seeing, but it does not rank as a topnotch musical. Adolescents, 12-16; young children, 8-12: little interest.”

+ — Motion Pict R JI '36

"Fair for family.”

+ — Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 10 '36

"A and Y: feather-weight romance; C: no interest.”

Parents” M p47 Ag '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Sir Guy Standing and E. E. Clive in secondary parts save the entertainment with ripe characterizations.” E. C. S.

Christian Science Monitor p15 Je 27 '36

"The meager, attenuated plot is never as important as the settings and songs. . . "Palm Springs’ comes as a harmless time killer that is just restful enough.” (2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p43 JI 1 '36

"Miss Langford is rapidly developing a vibrant screen personality as a backdrop to her silken singing, a gamin quality unknown in her earlier work. When the moon-glows girl is not working . . . and she works hard, this is a distinctly mild musical. . . For Langford fans . . . and those who take vanilla.”

Herb Sterne

+ — Script p10 Je 27 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Song hits are highlights of fairly entertaining drama-romance with touches of comedy.”

+ — Film Daily p7 Je 20 '36

"This innocuous little musical serves principally to point out Smith Ballew as a screen type and the possibilities of Frances Langford for acting roles. It is Ballew’s picture debut, and he comes through all right. . . Picture is burdened with an inane story not unlike others recently on the screen. Too much stress has been placed on the songs, though all three are excellent. Result is neglect of plot structure. Film is overboard in length for amount and type of material presented. Difficult to make it compelling. Also lacks secondary dual spots.

- Variety p29 Je 24 '36

PAROLE. Universal 67min Je 12 '36

Director: Louis Friedlander

See issue of June 23, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"It is good for the public to know that it is impossible for an ex-convict to go straight so long as he has a past. It is regrettable that the story is undistinguished following the beaten track of the novel. The acting is competent enough for 11-15: fair; 8-14: doubtful." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Absorbing in theme and handled by a capable cast, but too thought-provoking to appeal to an audience that wants to be entertained. The social handicap towards a paroled man becoming rehabilitated is brought out, but the solution is not quite clear other than to suggest the parole board be relieved from politics. (We question the advisability of producing these propaganda pictures in such a highly sensational and emotional manner.) Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Mediocre. Rather amateurish but definitely constructive. Mature." DAR

"Convincing characterizations by an exceptionally strong cast and an intelligent handling by the director of the vital issues involved result in a picture of strong sociological import. Adults & young people." E Coast Preview Committee

"The acting is very real and the film is definitely constructive and thought-provoking for mature audiences." Nat Soc of New Eng Women

"To the seriously minded, thinking public, this picturization of the evil reactions of the parole board and their blindness to justice and safety of society in wholesale release of prisoners who to a large percent revert to their former type of crime, the title will awaken a hearty response and, though mature in substance, it will have a lesson not beyond the caption 'family.'" S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul Je 27 '36

"Timely in theme this picture opens wide the doors of rackets and the methods of racketeers who daily menace the lives and business of honest people. The stark realism of the direction and the convincing portrayals of a large cast present this present day problem most forcibly. Adults & young people." + General of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Je 20 '36

"Mature." Jt Estimates Je 15 '36

"[It is an] involved, melodramatic and somewhat improbable picture. As an indictment of the parole system it garners attention but from the standpoint of an audience seeking entertainment it is too unpleasant to be recommended. Adolescents, 12-16: no, too tragic and violent; children, 8-12: no. - Motion Pict R J1 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; --- Exceptionally Poor

"This is a powerful indictment against the present day parole system and a daring expose of the traps into which paroled men fall. Adults."

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 17 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Je 25 '36

"A: fair prison melodrama; Y: debatable; C: no."

Parents' Mt 48 Ag '36

"Mature." Sel Motion Pict J1 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

This film, which bears the simple yet descriptive title 'Parole,' is considerably warmed by an over-emphasis on interplots and romance. B. L.

Bomber Transcript p4 Je 27 '36

"Fair melodrama, with rather too much cold-blooded killing by racketeers." E. C. S.

+ — Christian Science Monitor p15 Je 27 '36

"Proceeding on the assumption that the public would pay for information about the conduct of its affairs, Universal gives us a well made piece of propaganda for greater understanding of the parole system. . . . But, talking about functions, what is the function of the screen? My conception of it is as something to patronize and recover from the stress of the day's affairs; something to entertain us to the point of forgetfulness. . . . We can say to ourselves, there is no subject that interests me personally than the parole system. . . . I have my own worries. And in addition to the narrow range of its thematic appeal, 'Parole' invites our interest in two people I never heard of before." — Hollywood Spec p9 Je 20 '36

"In many ways it is fascinating although faintly depressing entertainment, presented at machine-gun pace—a brittle, arresting performance. The story, a deviation into the pretty little air at times, with a few quite incredible incidents like the blind secretary's romantic self-sacrifice for a man she hardly knows. But the series of dramas, however, one isn't supposed to notice holes in the story. Elliot Freeman

+ — N Y Herald Tribune p10 Je 27 '36

"'Parole,' for all its high purpose, is still essentially a gangster drama, not bad either for a quickie, especially with the pretentious touches added. . . . The only characters allowed by the story to be human and understandable are not the nice, reclaimable convicts, but the toughs—especially Alan Baxter as the racketeer ex-priest of discharged prisoners. . . . There are only one or two isolated touches even faintly suggestive of Mr. Joel Sayre, who is listed as one of the authors." B. R. C.

N Y Times p21 Je 27 '36

"Although 'Parole's' intentions are honorable, the results of the novel are not. Certain elements which are necessary to make propaganda entertaining, and so 'Parole' is lacking on both scores, since it is neither an effective presentation nor an effective show. Chiefly responsible for this grievous error is the fact that the authors have taken a good idea and mixed it up with too much of putting cement on those legs, with cement, have used paste so that it is pretty leaky." — Tazelaar

+ — N Y World-Telegram p10 Je 29 '36

"The movies find it difficult to present a controversial question from a specific viewpoint and this assuassing programmer swings its legs on both sides of the fence. . . . In a part that is not clearly defined in the writing, Ermadene Haynes gives a brisk, magnetic performance. . . . Alan Baxter is extremely ef-
Trade Paper Reviews

“This is an importation that will find favor with the Italian element. The story is shot with snatches of propaganda and nationalism that limit its appeal. The film has an occasional epic quality and fundamentally is of a nature that should pluck at the heartstrings of Italian-born audiences. At times the dramatics are overdone and the point too forcefully revealed.”

—— Motion Pict Daily p11 S 1 '36

“[It is] a tedious and long recital. . . For the Italian trade, depending on its standards of film entertainment, ‘Red Passport’ may prove passable. It has a few laughs but they aren’t brought out by the English titles. The love interest is of a fair quality but the story and direction have no dynamic.”

—— Variety p17 S 9 '36

PEPPER. 20th century-Fox 65min S 18 '36
Players: Jane Withers, Irvin S. Cobb, George (Slim) Summerville

Director: James Taining

“Jane Withers, a slum toughie, gathers her gang to raise the rent for an evicted widow and demands the money from a dyspeptic millionaire, Irvin S. Cobb. After battles with cops and butlers, Cobb and Miss Withers escape for a day of stolen delights at Coney Island.” Motion Pict Daily

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A: hardly; Y: probably amusing; C: amusing, but doubtful value.”

Christian Century p1233 S 16 '36

“Some rather far-fetched situations, an exaggerated scene of rounding-up an enormous gang to break up a wedding, and an over-directed little precocious star, make this picture one that children will revel in, but shouldn’t. Family.” Am Legion Auxiliary

“Jane Withers is the little child who shall lead them. Although her motives are above reproach, her methods to secure these ends are often doubtful. Adults: matter of taste: family: fair: 14-18: fair; 8-14: doubtful.” Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

“The story moves at a brisk pace, but the action is dreadfully rowdy and slapstick. Ethical questionable. Family.” Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs

“Family. Good.” DAR

“Altho this is not one of her best, fans of the little star will no doubt enjoy the usual tomato throwing, window smashing, etc. Others, however, will question whether these activities really are so tremendously funny or should ever be so regarded by childish audiences. Family, with reservations.” Nat Soc of New England Women

“Family.” S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul Ag 1 '36

“The inimitable personalities of the little star and Irvin Cobb provide the chief interest of this picture through which we watch this talented child might be given better story material. Family.”

—— Gen Fed of Women’s Clubs (W Coast) J1 24 '36

“This picture is obviously designed to display the talents of Jane Withers, but the story is unworthy of this little trooper. . . The story moves at a brisk pace, but the action is decidedly rowdy and the comedy slapstick. Family: a matter of taste.”

—— Jt Estimates Ag 1 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

—— Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

PAROLE—Continued

fective as a gangster; he has tense menace and the ability to hold the screen. In the romantic angle, newcomers Henry Hunh and Ann Preston strive hard.” Herb Sterne

—— Script p12 Je 20 '36

“Parole is unlikely to affect the U. S. penal system, but it should not disappoint cinemaddicts who like rapid-fire entertainment.”

—— Time p49 J1 6 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Smashing indictment of the present parole system, this should bring in a diversified group of fans—those who like plenty of action and those interested in public affairs. Family.”

Box Office p45 Je 29 '36

Reviewed by L. S. Niemeyer

Canadian Moving Pict Digest p10 Je 20 '36

“The absence of strong names will probably prevent pre-screening by the rating board. Film is crowded with action, packs a neat wallop . . . grips despite obvious implausibilities.”

—— Variety p12 J1 1 '36

PASSAPORTO ROSSO. Nuovo mondo 92min Ag 17 '36
Players: Isa Miranda, Filippo Scezzo, Oreste Fares. Ugo Ceseri

Director: Guido Brignone

Italian dialogue film with English sub-titles. “Concerning the emigration of Italians in 1893 to South America, due to political reverses, the film weaves a familiar course, tracing the destiny of a doctor and a schoolteacher brought together in a foreign land. The immigrants have been engaged to construct a railroad. Pestilence and exploitation add to their troubles. A climax is brought about when an unscrupulous Don Pancho prevails upon the Government to send troops to the railroad camps to quell non-existent trouble.” (Motion Pict Daily)

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A: preachment of the doctrine ‘an Italian born on foreign soil is loyal to his fatherland.’ General patronage.”

Nat Legion of Decency S 10 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“The picture, intended very evidently for a special audience, should be of much interest to immigrants and descendants of immigrants. Much care has been taken with the steering sequences, with the details and atmosphere of those long dreary voyages from a beloved country to a strange, bewildering land. . . ‘Passaporto Rosso’ should appeal to New York’s great Italian-American population.” Eileen Creelman

+N Y Sun p16 S 1 '36

‘Passaporto Rosso’ is a sprawling and cumbersome screen drama freighted with nationalistic fervor. Technically, except for lethargic direction, the film importation is superior to the average film that emerges from our Hollywood studios. ‘Passaporto Rosso’ is undoubtedly the most conspicuous recruiting poster turned out so far by the Italian film producers. The film is exceptionally well acted and has a beautiful and appealing heroine in Isa Miranda, who bears a striking resemblance to Marlene Dietrich and would be a sparkling addition to the Hollywood firmament.” T. M. P.

+N Y Times p18 S 2 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST
"Jane Withers, as an independent, kindly, but mischievous little girl, dominates this bright little comedy. Family & Junior material."
+ Nat Council of Jewish Women Jl 22 '36

General patronage.
Nat Legion of Decency Ag 13 '36
Sel Motion Pic S 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

'A mildly amiable tale of the child-wins-ways-into-heart-of-rich-oldster variety, with Jane Withers and Robert Cobb as the formula. Family entertainment for fans of Miss Withers and Mr. Cobb.'
+ + Christian Science Monitor p13 Ag 29 '36

"Frankly, I look with suspicion on most child pictures, because they so often are just like this one. From the rich old grouch who always succumbs to the unsophisticated sweetheart of the title, is crammed as full of spice as the title, and coupled with the performances of delightful rowdies who, at the distress-signal of the pauper, always materialize out of empty streets to save whatever situation needs saving—all the routine tricks of all-child-stories are here again in all their faded humor, cuteness, pathos and bathos of story-telling. This is a commentary on the impossible trend of the story... In spots it reminds one so strongly of an 'Our Gang' short. Blown into six reels, it drags woefully."
+ + Variety p18 Ag 12 '36

"Appealing to the youngsters with a good share of entertainment for the adults, 'Pepper' should have no trouble earning its way. Jane Withers does everything expected by a child star, handles herself ably in the rough and ready stuff, and gives the most of every opportunity afforded her."
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 9 '36

PICCADILLY JIM. MGM 100min Ag 14 '36

Based on a novel of same title by P. G. Wodehouse. Piccadilly Jim appeared on the screen in an earlier version with Owen Moore. "The acting talents in London where Montgomery, a caricaturist, is engrossed in his main problem of exercising paternal influence over Morgan, via smooth, tan-faced playboy sire's attempt at romance with the willing Billie Burke is blasted by her domineering sister, Miss Witherspoon, by way of revenge, lampoons the Witherspoon family to make it the laughing stock of Europe." (Motion Pic Daily)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: depends on taste; Y: better not; C: no."

Christian Century p1143 Ag 26 '36

"A hilarious comedy with sparkling dialogue is spirited farce with a rare suit of juggling with the weather. This humorous character portrayal will amuse all the family except the juniors." Calif Cong of Parents.

"The picture is hilariously funny in spots and is very well done. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Very talky comedy; fine cast. Mature. Good." DAR

"A rollicking romance, with perfect dialogue, racing action and a dramatic finish. The film is perfectly timed. Sets are exquisite. Suspense runs high. Humor is deftly handled. The picture is a treat for all. Smoothly and efficiently followed. A domestic comedy bordering on farce which is sophisticated, light entertainment comedy over 14." Nat Sac of New England Women's Clubs

"The presence of some early scenes in which there is too casual drinking, makes the picture not suitable for children, Adults & young people." Calif Council on Better Women.
+ + Fox W Coast Bul Ag 22 '36

"[It is] a most amusing picture filled with action and possesses clever, subtle dialogue, beautiful photography and an interesting background. The entire cast acquitted themselves with merit. Exceptionally deft is the work of the director, whose return is the musical score. Family."
+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ag 10 '36

"A rousing roughhouse in farce spirit is this fast and furious comedy, heavily overloaded in purpose of building laughs. The fast, slapstick comedy angles are its best appeal."
* Motion Pic Daily p11 Jl 10 '36

"Typical Withers entrant, this should do as well as the others. Where the No. 2, 20th Century-Fox child star draws, she will be okay."
+ Variety p15 Ag '36

"'Pepper' is just fair box office for the lesser duos... Besides its lack of appeal to adults, film is also questionable in its attractiveness to女孩子. This is a comment on the impossible trend of the story... In spots it reminds one so strongly of an 'Our Gang' short. Blown into six reels, it drags woefully."
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 9 '36

"Exceptionally Good; Good; Fair; Mediocre; Poor; Exceptionally Poor"
PICCADILLY JIM—Continued

"A domestic comedy bordering on farce which provides excellent entertainment for the family."
+ + Jt Estimates Ag 15 '36

"Lively, delightful screen fare is provided by this frothy comedy, fine cast and expert direction. . Sparkling entertainment for the family."
+ Nat Council of Jewish Women Ag 12 '36

"Expert characterization adds to the enjoyment of this laughable tale. General patronage."
+ Nat Legion of Decency Ag 20 '36

Sel Motion Pict S 1 '36

"[It is] a highly diverting comedy. . . novel in plot and situation. The dialogue is light and amusing, and [has] an excellent cast. Family."
+ Wky Guide Ag 15 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The dialogue, situations and sequences have the same crazy, impossible and delightful character [as the book]. There is only the mildest, fanciful exaggeration to make it out of everyday story; only enough, in fact, to make a new and unexpected situation all the funnier. M. S.
+ Boston Transcript Ag 32 '36

Christian Science Monitor p13 Ag 29 '36

"Quite an amusing debate. There is so much talking in it that Director Bob Leonard had little opportunity to make bits of technique which would have recalled to us the rapidly disappearing art of the screen. . . If you enjoy screen entertainment which talks incessantly, which is nicely produced and capably acted, this picture should give satisfaction. . . 'Piccadilly Jim' could have been a better little comedy than it is. And its opening scenes would have been more amusing if Montgomery, the star, had been presented as a sober young man, not a drunken one. There seems to be an impression shared by producers that there is something funny in drunkenness on its own account, no matter how slight may be the reason for it."
+ Hollywood Spec p5 Ag 15 '36

"'Piccadilly Jim' [is] a silken, hilarious comedy from an impetuous froth by F. G. Wodehouse. Pulling no punches, forcing a star to swing a shuffleboard, and reducing Robert Montgomery with a cast of shrewd, artful players. None bests him at the work of being silly. . . by Bob Leonard. Ag 29 '36

Lit Digest p20 Ag 15 '36

"There is so much brisk and amusing nonsense in 'Piccadilly Jim' that its labored and tedious conclusion comes as a distinct disappointment. For the most part it is a gay comedy of manners, making frequent excursions into burlesque, and in the study of fanciful situations and witty lines, it is performed with knowing zest by a company of oddly assorted but ingeniously directed players. Leonard has given his supporting players the result is high grade fun. . . Mystery: The identity of the unnamed cartoonist who actually drew the strips used in the film. They are better and funnier than dozens which are used daily in newspapers from Coast to Coast."
+ Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 31 '36

"Piccadilly Jim' needs no more reviewing than a Wodehouse story; but it's a careless movie-goer who will miss the hilarious moment when Mr. Montgomery elegantly astride a truck horse on Rotten Row, Mr.ENCHLEY scraping acquaintance with an American girl, and dictating a letter of dismissal." Eileen Creelman
+ N Y Sun p29 Ag 29 '36

"An engaging bit of nonsense, it has been played with thorough good humor . . . and, sped along by Robert Z. Leonard's direction, it provides a commendable hour or so of picture-watching." F. S. Nugent
+ N Y Times p19 Ag 31 '36

"There's a lot of liveliness . . . in Piccadilly Jim,' which is why we are worrying about Wodehouse. A good deal of crazy cavorting has been designed by Charles Brackett and Edwin Knopf for a frothy Wodehouse novel. . . Acting honors go to Frank Morgan as the father who proves that one actor always in the same part, and to Eric Blore as the suave English butler."
+ News-Wk p12 S 12 '36

"The year's high in comedy casts gets together for a frothy Wodehouse romance. It is in the manner of Mr. Wodehouse novel. . . Acting honors go to Frank Morgan as the father who proves that one actor always in the same part, and to Eric Blore as the suave English butler." Time p23 Ag 31 '36

Trade Press Reviews

"Another swell comedy with plenty of what it takes to make the turnstiles click. Director Bob Leonard has done another efficient job of entertainment value from a snappily adapted Wodehouse yarn and a notable cast." + Film Daily p4 Ag 6 '36

"Here is a delightful comedy that will please any types of audiences." +

"Still another superlative class comedy is herewith added to the succession that Eric Blore has made this so notably a comedy year. And this one, despite its delightful extravagance of phrase and literary flavor, will not have a limited appeal, but will prove continuously hilarious entertainment for all classes and be a box office asset everywhere. . . The P. G. Wodehouse book was rich pickings for the screenwriters, and they have done an outstanding job of comedy construction and cultivated dialogue writing." + Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 3 '36

"Possessing all the ingredients necessary for comedy-success with Eric Blore at the wheel, this film should prove a delight to exploitation-minded showmen and audiences. It is the direction of Robert Z. Leonard will please both showmen and audiences and make the film a sure box-office clocker anywhere."
+ Motion Pict Daily p6 Ag 4 '36

"A good comedy from start to finish, this will help bring Montgomery back into the choice of box-office Gay, backed by an able cast, that will find favor. Estimate: good." +

"Phil Exhibitor p33 Ag 15 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; + Mediocre; -- Poor; ++ Exceptionally Poor
POOR LITTLE RICH GIRL. 20th century-Fox 75min J1 24 '36

Players: Shirley Temple, Alice Faye, Gloria Stuart, Jack Haley, Michael Whalen
Director: Irving Cummings
Music and lyrics: Mack Gordon, Harry Revel

See review of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A: good; Y: mostly good; C: perhaps.”

Christian Century, p1971 As 5 '36

“Marred only by the introduction of a threat of sinister kidnapping, this delightful picture is a fine vehicle for the dancing and singing of the delightful little star. Family.” Am Legion Auxiliary

“Good family entertainment.” Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

“Special mention should be made of the clever manner suspense was introduced and handled—sequences with the kidnapper were lightly touched upon but definitely kept in the background—visely! Family.” Calif Fed of Busing's Women Clubs Women

“Excellen-family. Shirley Temple was never better.” DAR

“A well directed picture suitable for family & junior matinees.” S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

“The picture moves swiftly, smoothly, with many types of people excellently presented. And of course we love it. Family.” Mrs T.G. Winter

Fox W Coast Bui Je 13 '36

“Family.”

Jt Estimates Je 1 '36

“Rather than a dramatic setting, it is a series of turns in which the little girl is as usual, the star, and it unfortunately gives her little opportunity to act. . . The ever-present menace of a kidnapper may make the film less popular with many families than other recent Shirley Temple releases. Adolescents, 12-16: probably very entertaining; children, 8-12: doubtful, depends on child.”

— Motion Pict R J1 '36

“A and Y: sentimental drama of childhood; C: excellent.”

Parents' M p69 S '36

“Another delightful Shirley Temple film with a well constructed plot, diverting incidents and the usual wholesome endings. Family.”

+ Sel Motion Pict J1 1 '36

News and Magazine Reviews

“Miss Temple's newest film is, if nothing else, at least adequate juvenile entertainment. But if Hollywood is to devote its time to the development of a market for infant film followers, it can surely do better than this confused and ill-conceived production. . . . Eleanor Gates's 'Poor Little Rich Girl.' Shirley Temple, as has been frequently observed, is a capable actress for her young age and charm are not enough to pull her through the type of roles which she has been getting.” B. A.

— Boston Transcript p6 J1 11 '36

“The so-called screen's 'top trot' sings, dances and acts the same—there is never any deviation, charming as she is. The plot itself is one of those things.” J. P. Cunningham

— Commonweal p325 J1 24 '36

“While 'The Poor Little Rich Girl is not Shirley Temple's best picture, it clearly shows that the producers have hit upon a formula for fully exploiting the varied talents of America's favorite performer. . . 'The Poor Little Rich Girl' emerges as one of the most purely enjoyable offerings of the season.” (3 stars) Every Hill Liberty p12 J1 11 '36

“In 'The Poor Little Rich Girl' the remarkable acting talent of Shirley Temple is virtually scuttled while she goes through a series of song and dance routines. She is in some scenes simply stumped by the assignment. . . There is always a trace of the monstrous, however, about a child engaged in such doing. One cannot avoid the suspicion that the cinema is intent on making a freak out of the most excellent little actress. The musical accompaniment is a lot better than the plot. Mack Gordon and Harry Revel have written some catchy tunes for the show, notably 'When I'm With You' and a ditty for the small star called 'You've Got to Eat Your Spinach' . . . Incidentally, the photoplay has several sequences that are not in the best taste.” Howard Barnes

— N Y Herald Tribune p14 Je 26 '36

“It was a show which, although ideal for children, is not suitable for the youngest of audiences. Shirley's appeal is not just to her contemporaries. This youngest of the Temples is an extraordinary little performer, and one handled as ordinarily well by her studio. . . All this is just pie for little Miss Temple. Her personality, which once she could signal by self-conscious cuteness, is again natural and appealing.” Eileen Creelman

— N Y Sun p27 Je 26 '36

“Shirley Temple, the mighty moppet, continues to be the Sandow of the Cinema by pirouetting gracefully under the weight of a formless and generally ridiculous script. As a picture, 'The Poor Little Rich Girl' is virtually non-existent: as a display window for the ever-expanding Temple talents, it is entirely satisfying.” F. S. Nugent

— N Y Times p16 Je 26 '36

“I think that the Eleanor Gates story has been pretty well furnished up, and that it makes a very good picture, picturing the slightest indication of aging in Miss Temple. The years are treating her kindly. She has practically this whole film on her shoulders, the adults being altogether subsidiary, which is possibly proper.” John Mosher

New Yorker p16 Jl 4 '36

“When someone thinks up a better plot for a Shirley Temple picture, Twopox should jump at it. . . 'The Poor Little Rich Girl,' like recent Temple films, tries to split itself in half to interest both children and adults. . . There are feeble hints at kidnapping, some embarrassingly bad acting by
POOR LITTLE RICH GIRL—Continued
Gillingwater stooing for Miss Temple, and frequent songs and dances by the star.7

"The story was built to give Shirley a chance to do some stuff and she delivers magnificently. . . . A long dance routine exhibits Shirley as nothing less than marvelous." Rob Wagner + Script p10 July 5 '36

"Shirley Temple pictures, like a sideshow in a circus, have an element of effusive familiarity that embarrasses us slightly. No matter how simple and unformed they pretend to be, we know the Miraculous Mite is being promoted beyond all precepts of taste, in entertainment. . . . The Poor Little Rich Girl' is no exception to this rule of over-emphasis. In the face of such astonishing talent, the camera pays her the same vulgar attention it might pay a freak." Stage p8 July 3 '36

"Shirley Temple pictures, emerging with the regularity of the seasons, have one point in common. All are minutely tailored to suit her requirements. In this procedure, the weak point is that Shirley Temple's requirements have now outgrown the ingenuity of her purveyors." Time p45 July 6 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"[Shirley Temple] is rarely 'out of the picture.' One song hit after another, intermingled with dancing. Her work is her play, however, and that puts it over in such grand fashion, and makes you wish she did not have to grow up." L. S. Nickley + Canadian Moving Pict Digest p10 July 4 '36

"The screen's top tot delivers again with socko in Poor Little Rich Girl. Following the Shirley Temple formula of his tronic versatility, augmented by song and dance trimming, the youngest sex 'un rings the bell in a manner to delight the hardes tered exhibitors. 'Little Rich Girl' is set for a box office mop-up. . . . Again, the story is one of those things, although a shade better balanced in this instance, and tieing in almost every suitable ingredient." + Variety p12 July 1 '36

POOPPY. Paramount 70min Je 19 '36
Director: A. Edward Sutherland
See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A. Y and C: amusing." Christian Century p975 July 8 '36

"Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"W. C. Fields fans will be amused by the typical gags and dialogue of this comedy romance, Rochelle Hudson and chorus sing 'Din- enezvous With a Dream' delightfully. Good. Mature," DAR + Fox W. Coast Bul Je 27 '36

"Adults: appealing; family: good; 14-18: good; 8-14: good. Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"W. C. Fields, as McGargle, is but a feebie impersonation of himself in other pictures, and the comedy drags painfully. In spots in its attempted hilarity. Rochelle Hudson displays a choice song and dance and Richard Cromwell with little to do—does it very well. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"[It is] a good picture to amuse the family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women Fox W. Coast Bul Jl 11 '36

"Family." Nat Film Bul p119 July 3 '36

"Those to whom W. C. Fields' characterizations appeal will like this picture. In it Fields displays some of his usual tricks without the expected number of off-color jokes. Adolescents, 12-16: entertaining; children, 8-12: no interest." Motion Pict R Jl 3 '36

"Family." Nat Council of Jewish Women Jl 1 '36

"[It is] a delightfully amusing story. General patronage." + Nat Legion of Decency Je 25 '36

"A and Y: conversation comedy; C: if interesting." Parents' M p48 Aug '36

"A hilarious comedy allowing W. C. Fields a fine opportunity to display his talent. A capable assisting cast, humorous lines and situations, as well as good photography, are combined in an excellent comedy. Family." + Sel Motion Pict Jl 1 '36

"[It is] a highly amusing comedy. Family—Junior." + Wkly Guide Je 20 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[It is] first-rate Fields fun." Christian Science Monitor p19 July 3 '36

Reviewed by J. F. Cunningham

Commonweal p287 Jul 19 '36

"Poppy' is just about as delightful a bit of screen entertainment as one could wish for. Nothing is overdone, an unusual quality rarely found in comedies . . . No performance W. C. Fields previously contributed to the screen was more nicely shaded. As the optimistic old fakir he is irresistible. His comedy is delicious. . . . All in all, 'Poppy' is a picture you must see. It is the most ingratiating piece of entertainment Paramount has offered us for some moons." + Hollywood Spec p13 Je 20 '36

"W. C. Field's newest comedy, 'Poppy' is based on one of his oldest and funniest hits. Yet the movie does not seem like this new version. . . . This cannot be listed as more than a lethargic blend of paper-weight pathes and standard gags. . . .Though 'Poppy' finds Bill Fields far from his silly best, Bill remains—along with Harold Lloyd and Charlie Chaplin one of the few imperishable screen characters." (4 1/2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p49 Jl 18 '36

"'Poppy' is a one-man show, and the man is What-a-Man (W. C.) Fields. When Mr. Fields' vaudeville act is interrupted by the plot and by the paper-love affairs of Rochelle Hudson and Richard Cromwell, it is one of the dumbest pictures ever foisted upon a flicker-loving populace. 'Poppy,' aside from Mr. Fields, is the slowest of slow molasses. Don Herold Life p27 Aug '36

"The present talking-singing version is all that any Fields' addict could ask . . . The plot of the movie is the sum of the world's biggest joke; it is no more than a burlesque of a burlesque. . . . The result is the perfect form." + Lit Digest p19 Je 20 '36

"Half the film is too soupy and insipid to be tolerable in close-up, but Miss Rochelle Hudson looks sweet, and Mr. Fields' 'little plum' and on the whole it makes a pleasant, rambling comedy, hard to praise but easy to enjoy." New Statesman & Nation p87 Jl 18 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; —— Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
“W. C. Fields, they say, dragged himself from a sick-bed to make this one. . . Fields is, as usual, magnificent in ‘Poppy,’ but, all concerned, exhibitors promised, ‘I’ll have waited for his complete recovery.’ Robert Stebbins

New Theatre p22 Ag ’36

‘On this auspicious occasion, and the opening of any W. C. Fields picture can be no less, it is our solemn obligation to report that the forces of nature and of circumstance, continue to array themselves solidly against our hero. . . But Mr. Fields triumphs—as Mr. Fields always triumphs—and it is a glorious victory, for him and the public. The play is, however, and the occasion for our rejoicing is: that man is here again.” F. S. Nugent + + N Y Times p15 Je 15 ’36

[It is a] slightly blurred affair, which isn’t, in itself, bad. Our heat pictures [W. C. Fields] has made throughout the last eleven years. . . One can feel pretty sure that [Joe] has given us one of the pleasantest, most charming little comedies we shall get this summer. John Mosher + — New Yorker p73 Je 27 ’36

‘To lovers of his baid comedy, and his appeal is, as the great and the good of us, doesn’t matter how bad a film is as long as Fields is in it. Paramount took advantage of the fact with one of the most charming of its comedians. Though the sandpaper-throated comedian is seen too infrequently in this picture—almost completely domestic when he is not appearing—his devotees this week welcomed him back after a year’s absence due to illness.”

New York p21 Je 20 ’36

‘Unlike a taste for avocados, an appreciation of the work of W. C. Fields cannot be cultivated. And those of us who are born likers of his work, are extremely warmly-weathered. We can understand how they simply count ourselves blessed. His clowning is in the best tradition of the world’s funnymen. There is a Chauvinist richness in Fields’ work—extravagant, gallant, gross, pathetic. . . Lynne Overman as the shyster lawyer plays with a sweep and a dash that almost equals the star’s.” Molly Lewin + Script p12 Jl 11 ’36

“The story doesn’t really matter, for Mr. Fields has never acted better. There is no telling how much comedy he can do in his performance. To watch Mr. Fields, as Dickensian as anything Dickens ever wrote, is a form of escape for poor human beings who are劳ed by pity, by fear, by our sense of right and wrong, who are tongue-tied by conscience, watch with envy the free spirit rolling off Mr. Fields’ lips. To deliver a half-dozen of ten dollars, cheating the country yokels by his own variant of the three-card trick, taking a marriage certificate, and keeping all the time, in the least worthy and the most embarrassing circumstances, his amazing flow of inflated sentiments.” Graham Greene + Spec p97 Jl 17 ’36

“The current film version of ‘Poppy’ presents the world’s most lovable master of ceremonies, W. C. Fields, and has the good grace to stand aside and let him do his stuff. . . The carnival setting in ‘Poppy’ is just an excuse to create it and exude percent Fields day.” + Stage p8 Jl ’36

‘‘Poppy,’’ in which W. C. Fields played on the stage in 1925 and the silent screen in 1925, is still an almost ideal vehicle for his bushiness and exudes several of his most celebrated routines.” + Time p87 Je 22 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

“A deftly written screen play makes this an ideal vehicle for W. C. Fields’ inimitable brand of tomfoolery, resulting in a laugh-loaded production. . .”

+ Box Office p15 Je 20 ’36

“There’s one thing that Bill Fields will never be, and that’s unfunny. He could get laughs with Hamlet’s soliloquy, which is just about what he’s doing in ‘Poppy.’ Amidst the 19th century melodramas and the considerable sub stuff that goes with it, Fields manages to shake off the ill effects and get his laughs. For that reason, and on Fields alone, ‘Poppy’ will probably do satisfactory business on the whole."

+ Variety p29 Je 24 ’36

LA PORTEUSE DE PAIN. Lenauer 80min Je 3 ’36

Director: A. Rene Siti

Based on the novel of the same title by Xavier de Montepin and Jules Dornay. Dialogue film in French with English sub-titles. [French]"

W. "Unlike the plight of poor Jeanne Fortier, unjustly accused of arson, robbery and murder, for which she is sent to prison by a hard-hearted judge eager for sub- stantial evidence of her guilt. Years later she escapes and starts searching for her grown son and daughter.”

(N Y Herald Tribune)

Audience Suitability Ratings

‘Objectionable in part: Objection: suicide and objectionable remarks.”

Nat Legion of Decency Jl 16 ’36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“The new French picture . . . may be worth a visit in order to discover just how bad a performance can be, particularly when accompanied by indifferent melodrama of the ‘East Lynne’ vintage. In it the French prove that when they ‘let go’ they can make Hollywood him as being pale by comparison, and for sheer eye-rolling (not to mention oratory) Mr. Gable, Mr. Montgomery, Miss Chatterton and others will have to look to their laurels. . . Some of the French dialogue is amusing, and a pair of comic bakers will make you laugh. Miss Dermoz, who took the part of Jeanne Fortier, did a straight piece of acting surrounded as she was by inept colleagues. Madeleine Guitty, a fine old character actress, was in superb portrayal. The direction was hysterical and the cutting in editing did not help.”

Marguerite Tazelaar + — N Y Herald Tribune p16 Jl 2 ’36

“In its own lurid way, ‘La Porteuse de Pain’ is a kind of French ‘Madame X.’ The plots are only vaguely similar, nor is there any comparison in production values. The [French] film, however, offers the same mingled themes of murder, sacrifice and mother love. It also throws in a bit of musical comedy, with two rowdy comedians singing a light-hearted duet, the most entertaining part of the picture.”

Elleen Creelman + — N Y Sun p22 Jl 1 ’36

‘Acted by a highly competent cast, including the popular Paris comedians, Drear and Fernandell, as the rowdy baker boys, ‘La Porteuse de Pain’ may prove interesting to patrons not too insistent upon sophisticated screen fare.”

H. T. S. + — N Y Times p29 Jl 1 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Complications are well worked out in the final scenes. Story is well acted and there is some comedy along with the drama.”

Film Daily p7 Jl 2 ’36

“Inconspicuously performed, routine in plot structure, the French offering is the only one except to those who, with a knowledge of French, enjoy the occasional film shown in

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; — — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
LA PORTEUSE DE PAIN—Continued
this country in that language. English subtitles make for ready understanding of the film by those lacking a knowledge of French.”
— Variety p12 Pict Daily 12 Jl 6 '36

“This is a very sad story, but about the only people who will weep will be the exhibitors who book it. Every once in awhile French producers make films even worse than some of the bad ones they habitually turn out.
This one is even worse than that.”
— Variety p15 Jl 8 '36

POSTAL INSPECTOR. Universal 60min Ag 16
'36
Players: Ricardo Cortez, Patricia Ellis, Bela Lugosi, Michael Loring
Director: Otto Brower

“The story centers around the activities of Ricardo Cortez, a postal inspector whose success in transferring billions of dollars in gold from one city to another wins him the thanks of the President.” — Variety (Hollywood)

Audience Suitability Ratings
“Fairly well cast and directed. Family.”
+ — Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)
Ag 10 '36

“The duties of a U. S. postal inspector, an insight into the workings of the department, and the responsibilities imposed on its members in every emergency are clearly depicted in this very interesting film. ... There are interesting, line photographs of the recent floods, which added materially to the realism and suspense of the production.” — Film Daily

“General patronage.”
Nat Legion of Decency Ag 20 '36

“The story is well directed and acted. Family.”
+ Sel Motion Pict S 1 '36

“[It is] an interesting and timely picture.
Family.”
+ Wkly Guide Ag 7 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Fair stuff of its sensational sort.”
+ — Christian Science Monitor p13 Ag 22
'36

“Little satisfaction will be had from the cinema proceedings at the Globe Theater, which come under the heading of 'Postal Inspector.' ... Being part romance, part melodrama and part picture on the manner in which the postal authorities track down those who use the mails with intentions to defraud, the film has had a hard time preventing these three elements from curdling. ... The principlals include Ricardo Cortez, Patricia Ellis, Bela Lugosi and Michael Loring, who strive vauntingly to breathe life and illusion into a film that sadly needs it.” — William Boehnel
— N Y World-Telegram p31 S 2 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

“A number of action sequences, largely based on newsreel shots of flood conditions, comprise the highlights of this somewhat routine program offering. The cast acting is good, but the story is too obvious in destination to carry much suspense.”
+ — Film Daily p7 S 1 '36

“This comedy-melodrama does not rise above fair program grade. The idea is good enough to have been used to better advantage. In fact it is a corker. But the picture can scarcely climb above the lesser duals. ... The authors have provided some good entertainment but build it on too obviously a factory-made plot.”
+ — Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 4 '36

“Routine melodrama ... this is nothing to get extremely excited about. The motivating story is rather thin; it is helped but slightly by a triangular romantic conflict seasoned with dashes of comedy and the intercession of a couple of song numbers. What strength the film has is imparted by the inclusion of several spectacular flood scenes. For exhibitors there is the possibility of exploitation contact with the postal service itself, although the theoretically the special quality of the production scarcely justifies cooperative contacts. ... The appeal of the film seems limited to those who like melodramatic thrill action.”
— + Motion Pict Daily p14 Ag 3 '36

This is the usual melodrama with cops [and] robbers background. Estimate: program.”
+ — Phila Exhibitor p37 Ag 15 '36

Some highly capable talent and a novel basic idea are wasted in 'Postal Inspector.'
Ricardo Cortez, Bela Lugosi, Patricia Ellis and David Oliver (newspaper cameraman making his feature film debut) wrestle strenuously with giddy lines, inane situations and offtimes makehift production. The action, however, is too great. The picture will have difficulty standing alone, though its action commends it for duals.”
— Variety p17 S 9 '36

“Obviously written around a title and suffering from the consequences, 'Postal Inspector' deserves to be better than the second string on a dual bill. For the most part the picture is lacking in everything that a good picture needs. The story is shallow. Coincidences and situations are all telegraphed and there isn't the remotest showing of suspense or love interest.”
— Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 4 '36

PRINCESS COMES ACROSS. Paramount 75min
My 22 '36
Players: Carole Lombard, Fred MacMurray,
Douglas Dumbrille, Alison Skipworth,
William Frawley
Director: William K. Howard

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews
of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

“Adults.” Am Legion Auxiliary

“A shipboard murder with a final unforeseen fillip in its solution, adds spice to an artfully contrived plot. Adults: very good; 14-15: very good; 12-14: good. Family: Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

“Clear direction, excellent cast and effective photography make the rather confused plot of this sophisticated and satirical murder mystery seem unimportant. Mature.” Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

“Family, exclusive of young children.” Nat
Soc of New England Women

“Family.” S Calif Council of Fed Church
Women

“Adults & young people.” Mrs T. G. Winter
+ — Fox W Coast Bul Je 13 '36

“Family, exclusive of young children.”
Jt Estimates Je 1 '36

“Suitability: adults & adolescents.”
+ — Filmozone p113

“Despite its implausibility and mechanical plot this picture will make a diverting evening for the audience in search of light entertainment — 2-Adolescents, 12-16: entertaining; children, 8-12: with family groups.”
— + Motion Pict RJ 1 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + + Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
"A and Y: merry melodrama; C: little interest."
Parents' M p65 Ag '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"This is an admirably acted comedy drama, with plenty of plot and an enthralling murder mystery sequence... It is not a notable picture but its suave and finished acting gives it a character of its own." Laura Elston

"Christian neither fairly half. She has been reputation in sea-going PRISON... "Will furnish a mildy diverting hour and a half. Carole Lombard is herself again for the first time since Twentieth Century. Her marvellous imitation of Lynn Fontanne imitating Greta Garbo imitating herself is fine comedy."
+ New Theatre p12 Ji '36

"William K. Howard has made entertaining sea-going pictures before and is thoroughly conversant with the technic of getting movement and tension into a limited locale. The sets are handsome, the occurrences routine. One doesn't die of over-excitement, though neither does one expire from boredom." Herb Sterne

+ Script p11 Je 27 '36

PRISON SHADOWS. Puritan 67min
Director: Bob Hill
When a prize fighter earns an undeserved reputation as a killer after several opponents have died after fights, he unravels the mystery and clears himself.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency Ji 2 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"While there's nothing particularly ingenious about this story, it has been handled in a fairly adequate way and the good work of Eddie Nugent helps to keep it going at an interest-sustaining level."
+ Film Daily p7 Ji 15 '36

"Nice. The technique isn't the best, but the plot is the familiar sympathy jerker which ought to please the neighborhoods for which it is suited."
+ Phila Exhibitor p27 Ji 15 '36

PRIVATE SECRETARY. Twickenham 55min
Players: Edward Everett Horton. Barry McKay. Judy Gunn
Director: Henry Edwards
Dialogue film made in England. "Horton is cast as the Falkirk minister mistaken for a nephew by a wealthy old reproube recently returned from India. The real nephew had been afraid his pranks would annoy the rich uncle, so left Horton to play the part." (Phila Exhibitor)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"[It is] an amusing comedy. General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency Ji 16 '36

"The old farce... still has a lot of laughs in it. Family."
+ Wkly Guide Ji 25 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This is English stuff which moves in a fog of accent and is unsuitable for our neighborhoods because of its lightness, cheapness, unsuitable for most neighborhoods because of its Anglicisms."
+ Phila Exhibitor p30 Ji 15 '36

"It is obvious to see that Edward Everett Horton was spotted in this English-made picture to attract the American trade, but it will not help him any in building new fans. This side of the Atlantic, much less on the other side. Production values, a whole would be flattered by terming it a glorified screen interpretation of a high school play where amateurs struggle through their lines in an attempt to draw applause from their aunts, uncles and cousins... Direction missed badly by a continuous flow of abrupt closeups and straight cuts from character to character."
— Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ji 25 '36

PUBLIC ENEMY'S WIFE. Warner 65min Ji 10 '36
Director: Nick Grinde
Margaret Lindsay is freed from prison where she has been sentenced with her husband, a notorious gangster. Although he threatens her, she divorces him and plans to marry a wealthy young man. In order to entice the ex-husband who has escaped from prison, a G-man substitutes for the groom.

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ji 10 '36

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Tense, suspenseful, absurd in spots but amusing. Commendable lack of gunplay till end."
+ Christian Century p1023 Ji 22 '36

"Adults: absorbing; family: doubtful; 14-15: no; 5-14: no." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Good—mature." DAR

"Although over stimulating and too exciting in parts to be recommended for children, it well serves with the tragedy brought to the lives of innocent people by some selfish, utterly unmoral person, and also depicts the intelligent, untiring efforts of our government agents. Mature." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Buil Ji 4 '36

"Again the overworked G-men are used to entertain crime-loving audiences and their role is both undignified and absurd. The story also is improbable and too highly plotted to interested anyone of discriminating taste... Though in the end the convict is of course vanished the picture is trashy and banal. Adolescents, 12-16: banal and in bad taste; children, 8-12: no."
— Motion Pict R Ji '36

"Expert direction, fast-moving action, breezy dialogue, a good story with suspense maintained to the end, and a breath-taking fight are its outstanding features. Family."
+ Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 24 '36

"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency Ji 3 '36

"A: far-fetched gangster melodrama; Y: banal; C: no."
Parents' M p69 S '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
PUBLIC ENEMY'S WIFE—Continued

"[It has] an entertaining though highly improbable plot... The theme which gave promise of strong dramatic possibilities is handicapped with too little realism and seriousness. Adults & young people.

—Sel el Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

"Lively in action, with a good deal of comedy. Mature."
+ Wkly Guide Jl 11 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Except for its title, which is unfortunate, 'Public Enemy's Wife' is a reasonably entertaining picture. The theme... No one takes such pictures very seriously, or at least, no one should. They bear the same relation to the more ambitious products of the screen that detective stories do to literature. But they can be very pleasant diversions, as the scenario, director and players are expert at their work. In this case all of them seem to know their jobs."
E. M.

—Boston Transcript p8 Jl 18 '36

"Enough excitement in this one to keep your attention from wandering... 'Public Enemy's Wife' is one of the best examples of sustained suspense we have had in a long time."

—Hollywood Spec p12 Jl 4 '36

"'Public Enemy's Wife' is so packed with shrewdly contrived theatre devices, so full of suspenseful scenes, that the picture is an engrossing one as it is obvious. And by borrowing the best moments of a score of previous films and smartly threading them on a new story line, an effort emerges with a seeming freshness and calculated vitality." (2½ stars)
Beverly Hills

—Liberty p45 Jl 25 '36

"'Public Enemy's Wife' applies a comic-opera situation to a crook melodrama... and gets away with it with only a moderate strain on our credibility. Mr. O'Brien and Miss Lindsay are both able citizens of cinemaland, and they add salt and pepper to the old embarrassments, and the show goes on to very satisfying events and laughs. Not for children."

Don Herold

—Life p31 S '36

"Warner Brothers evidently couldn't quite decide whether to make 'Public Enemy's Wife' a farce or a straight G-Man thriller and fell between the schools, emerging with something that's neither fish nor fowl nor valid entertainment." Robert Stebbins

—New Theatre p25 Ag '36

Reviewed by Richard Watts, Jr.

—N Y Herald Tribune p12 Jl 9 '36

"The film is one of Warners' gangster melodramas, but less original and breathtaking than most of the studio's frequent excursions into the underworld. In a way, this is a minor version of 'Mary Burns. Fugitive'... The film has not that quality of recklessness which characterized so many of the Warner gangster dramas... 'Public Enemy's Wife,' in spite of some fast and furious moments; is well made, routine underworld melodrama."
Eileen Creelman

—N Y Sun p11 Jl 9 '36

R

"The government ought to look into the G-man racket in Hollywood. The way things are now, with the screen version of the Federal sleuth being easier to hoodwink than a Keystone cop, any mobster on the lam can bolster up his morale nor end by simply pausing in flight to see the latest G-man picture, "Public Enemy's Wife.""

—N Y Times p17 Jl 9 '36

"At this stage of the game another pure and simple melodrama about G-men and the underworld is probably the hardest sort of film to write and act entertainingly. However, the Warner Brothers, who have a special flair for getting all the excitement and thrills possible out of racketeer stories, present it with a first-rate production, and the result pleases all in the audience... The whole thing—or nearly all of it—is played at precisely the right pitch for underworld melodrama, unless I am mistaken you should have no trouble in finding the film satisfactory entertainment for these midsummer dog days."

William Boehnel

—N Y World-Telegram p11 Jl 9 '36

"When the picture says the fault lies with the script, Margaret Lindsay, in a blond wig for part of the time, gives a good account of herself... Pat O'Brien gives a smooth show as the G-man. It's more or less of a vacation for him since his character makes few demands."

Herb Sterne

—Script p13 Jl 25 '36

"'Public Enemy's Wife' can be rated as mildly worthwhile only because Margaret Lindsay's audacious portrayal of an ex-gumshoe turned Palm Beach socialite makes such a character seem faintly plausible."

—Time p36 Jl 20 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Those past masters of 'G-Man' pictures, Warner, came through with another smash in this saga of the underworld. fed their thrills for all. Although lighter in vein, many new twists and a goodly dash of comedy rates it a place among the top rankers of films in this popular category."

—Box Office p27 Jl 4 '36

"This is a fast moving comedy-drama, which has a fresh central situation."

—Film Daily p7 Jl 23 '36

"Primitive entertainment on the G-man-versus-public-enemy formula, below average on virtually all counts, but which has enough fabricated number to get by the lesser duel bets. The names of Pat O'Brien and Margaret Lindsay will help it somewhat, but these two dependable and popular players are pretty much lost in parts that give little acting chance and that are not developed by direction to their full value."

—Hollywood Reporter p3 Jl 18 '36

"With such familiar elements as machine guns, jail-breaks, screeching sirens and automobile chases, this seems as if it were made from blueprints rather than a scenario. However, the story offers several original twists and will satisfy in some kind of way.

—Motion Pict Daily p4 Jl 19 '36

"Estimate: fair program; depends on selling."

—Phil Examiner p69 Jl 1 '36

"This fails to measure up to its promise as a vivid dramatic vehicle. While this may disappoint some fans, the combination of Pat O'Brien and Robert Armstrong, here teamed up as G-men pals, and Margaret Lindsay, plus obvious bally possibilities, will enable it to gain average grosses in most spots."

—Variety p31 Jl 15 '36

"Fast action, a comedy that should be excellent fan fare for the summer months. Story packs sufficient suspense and comedy to please all theatre-goers. Warner Bros. has given the picture a good production and a topnotch cast of players."

—Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 18 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

RACING BLOOD. Con 65min
Director: Rex Hale

Based on a short story Lionized by Peter B. Kyne. "Frankie Darro is one of a long line of famous jockeys who rakes enough money Together a promising colt with a bad leg from Kane Richmond, horse owner who is in love with Darro’s sister, Gladys Blake.” (Motion Pict Daily)

Audience Suitability Ratings

“General patronage.”
Nat Legion of Decency Ag 27 ‘36

“An improbable story of the race track but interesting to those who like horses. Family-Juvenile.”
— Variety Guide Ag 22 ‘36

Trade Reviews

“If it makes good fodder for the action spots, and should prove particularly timely coming just ahead of the fall racing season. It lacks only some of the finesse and polish the majors give their B pictures for a chance at some of the good neighborhood screens, and it may land there Saturday matinees.”
+ — Hollywood Reporter p4 Ag 8 ‘36

“Balanced evenly with romantic suspense and action, ‘Racing Blood’ is a generous conglomerate of hokum entertainment aimed at small town and neighborhood trade. The film is a tallmaded vehicle for double bills and will find adequate audience reaction in the aforementioned spots.”
+ — Motion Pict Daily p6 Ag 11 ‘36

“Estimate: good independent.”
+ — Phila Exhibitor p14 S 1 ‘36

“[It is] a fast-moving, entertaining picture with a racetrack background. It has plenty of fast brawls, plenty of thrilling track shots and enough story suspense to bolster up any bill or provide thrills demanded by the nickel-and-dime audiences.”
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 8 ‘36

THE RATTLE SNAKE. See II Serpente a Sonaghi

RECKLESS WAY. Puritan 68min Ap 29 ‘36
Players: Marian Nixon. Inez Courtney.
Kane Richmond
Director: Raymond K. Johnson

This is the tale of a public stenographer who becomes a sensational Hollywood star through the help of a hotel night clerk. In the end she finds her career disappointing and returns to the clerk.

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A and Y; poor; C: no.”
Christian Century p823 Je 3 ‘36

“The story is poor and the attempts at satire of Hollywood manners and personalities are obvious and unamusing. Direction has failed to add anything and the editing and photography are poor. Suitability: adults & adolescents.”
— Mo Film Bul p105 Je ‘36

“Adults.”
Nat Legion of Decency Je 4 ‘36

Trade Reviews

“Picture has the names of Marian Nixon, Kane Richmond, Inez Courtney, and is about a girl who can lean on in the neighborhoods and also has the Hollywood angle, which is not discernible from the title. It looks as though it is possible that the film’s phonny Hollywood slant may look plausible. In the larger centers it becomes a little hard to swallow. . . The original idea of ‘Reckless Way’ was not bad, but in working it out, too much drag was left toward the end. Flip Zeller is okay in medium shots, but off on the long shots.”
— + Hollywood Reporter p3 Je 26 ‘36

“This can only be recommended for tail end of bill on its neighborhood play. It lacks the polish and mainstreeters. C. C. Burr has given it better than average production.”
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Je 20 ‘36

RED WAGON. First division 63min Je 20 ‘36
Players: Charles Bickford, Raquel Torres. Greta Nissen, Don Alvarado
Director: Paul L. Stein

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A: fair circus melodrama; Y: debatable; C: no.”
Parents’ M p69 S ‘36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“The production fails to provide sufficient of that ingratiating blend of spangles, buffoonery and fun that we have come to know as the Dexter Fellows touch. It does, in truth, afford Charles Bickford wide opportunity for that smurl of his and for considerable use of his familiar rough-and-tumble tactics. It gives Greta Nissen a try at taming tigers, although it permits Raquel Torres far too few of her dancing moments.” J. T. M.
N Y Times p22 Je 22 ‘36

“For a few brief moments near the end, when the employes of two rival circuses clash in a free-for-all fight, the film manages to break through its lethargy and banality to a reasonably exciting climax. ‘Red Wagon’ is a leaky and generally preposterous entertainment.”
— N Y World-Telegram p15 Je 23 ‘36

Trade Reviews

“Despite the presence of Greta Nissen, Charles Bickford, Raquel Torres, Don Alvarado and Anthony Bushell, this British-made film of circus life fails to generate the appeal that might be anticipated. These four names probably will boost its box office potentialities in America, yet the picture itself fails to cash in on its obvious possibilities. Chiefly for the double-bills.”
— + Variety p15 Je 24 ‘36

RETURN OF SOPHIE LANG. Paramount 65min Jl 3 ‘36
Director: George Archainbald

Sequel to The Notorious Sophie Lang. Based on a series of Saturday Evening Post short stories, The Notorious Sophie Lang, by Fredrick Irving. Inez Courtney is the companion of a wealthy old jewel collector who owns a fabulous diamond. On board ship it is stolen by a former underworld friend of the girl. The search begins. Both him and the police, she re-steals and returns the diamond to its rightful owner.

— + + Excellently Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor
RETURN OF SOPHIE LANG—Continued

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A and Y: good of kind; C: doubtful."
Christian Century p191 Ag 5 '36

"Fast. Light. Adults." Am Legion Auxiliary
"[It is] entertaining film fare. Mature." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Good-mature." DAR

"The film is well constructed and holds one's close attention throughout. Family." Nat Soc of New England Women

"[It is] a rather entertaining picture for the family." Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Box W Coast Bul Jl 18 '36

"Family." Jt Estimtes Jl 15 '36

"Despite a slow-moving and hackneyed beginning, the story gains as it develops. Expert direction of a well chosen cast, good suspense maintained throughout. Family." + Nat Council of Jewish Women Jl 8 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Jl 9 '36

"A and Y: engaging crook melodrama; C: if interested.

Parents' M p70 S '36

"[It is] a story loaded with romance and suspense. Family." + Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

"Family." Wkly Guide Jl 4 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
Reviewed by Laura Elston
Canadian M p36 Ag '36

"The Return of Sophie Lang" is a thoroughly satisfactory picture of its sort, one which reflects credit on all who had a part in its making, and if you still have any appetite for crook dramas, you will find it sufficiently entertaining to return dividends as it does. It develops expert direction of a well chosen cast, good suspense maintained throughout. Family."

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women Jl 8 '36

"A and Y: engaging crook melodrama; C: if interested.

Parents' M p70 S '36

"[It is] a story loaded with romance and suspense. Family." + Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

"Family." Wkly Guide Jl 4 '36

"The Return of Sophie Lang" is a thoroughly satisfactory picture of its sort, one which reflects credit on all who had a part in its making, and if you still have any appetite for crook dramas, you will find it sufficiently entertaining to return dividends as it does. It develops expert direction of a well chosen cast, good suspense maintained throughout. Family."

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women Jl 8 '36

"A and Y: engaging crook melodrama; C: if interested.

Parents' M p70 S '36

"[It is] a story loaded with romance and suspense. Family." + Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

"Family." Wkly Guide Jl 4 '36

We find ourselves thoroughly in favor of Miss Lang's return. May it be periodic." F. S. Nugent

+ N Y Times p13 Jl 24 '36

"Frankly, since Sophie decided to play on the side of the police rather than lead them on a merry chase all over the world, she has lost much of her interest and glamour and is something of a disappointment. So when 'The Return of Sophie Lang' revealed Sophie as a good woman, I lost interest in her and in what she did. After all, she gives very little excitement in the film, contenting herself, rather, to carry on a flimsy romance with a handsome communist reporter. Personally, I am reluctant to say, I found 'The Return of Sophie Lang' rather hard to take. However, if you have nothing better to do you may enjoy watching Sophie outright not only the police but also Max Bernard." William Boehnel

+ N Y World-Telegram Jl 25 '36

"Gertrude Michael and Sir Guy Standing, both of them ornamental and skilled actors, are in it, baffling one another with the greatest suavity. Without either of it, and I'm not ashamed to say so," Russell Maloney

+ New Yorker p30 Ag 1 '36

"The picture makes for an evening of delightful authentic diversion." Herb Sterne

+ Script p12 Ag 8 '36

Time p54 Jl 13 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"This sequel to 'The Notorious Sophie Lang' is an able effort on the part of its producers to satisfy the demands for mystery fare." + Box Office p27 Jl 4 '36

"[It is] highly satisfactory entertainment. Patterson McNutt and Brian Barlow have concocted a clever screenplay." + Film Daily p12 Je 18 '36

"Deft writing, direction and playing make this a smoothly silken crime play that will entertain for an hour in anybody's theater. While it cannot be expected to set any box-office highs it will do better-than-average business for a picture of light nature."

+ Hollywood Reporter p8 Je 13 '36

"Light drama, roguary, comedy and romance are the ingredients of this story... Roved to a vein of suspense, the dialogue and action are well balanced and move at a speedy pace. With effective photography and acting, these qualities, plus credible individual performances, result in good average entertainment."

+ Motion Pict Daily p11 Je 15 '36

"Estimate: mild program, best for neighborhoods."

+ Phila Exhibitor p68 Jl 1 '36

"While 'Sophie Lang' is far from substantial as box office entertainment, it is an acceptable B product and ought to get by... While 'Lang' takes numerous liberties, it is practically forced to do this in order to give the story motion and melodrama." + Variety p14 Jl 29 '36

"[It has] a neatly contrived plot upholding suspense through unusual playing for competent cast... The Return of Sophie Lang is acceptable entertainment in the B class. Has sufficient plot substance to maintain interest for the box office."+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Je 13 '36

RHYTHM ON THE RANGE. Paramount 85min Jl 31 '36

Players: Bing Crosby, Frances Farmer, Bob Burns, Martha Raye

Director: Norman Taurog

Music director: Boris Morros

Music and lyrics: Leo Robin, Sam Coslow

The plot deals with an heiress who to avoid a loveless wedding boards a box car which is

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

89.

Carrying a group of rodeo performers back to the Frying Pan Ranch. When Bing Crosby, one of the cow hands, learns that he is a hearse and not a working girl as he imagined, true love is almost blighted but after a few songs, all ends well.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: inane; Y: poor; C: no value."

Christian Century p1095 Ag 12 '36

"Good-mature." D AR ++

Fox W, #11 & Court Bul J1 25 '36

"Lack of continuity and drunken questionable comedy detracts. Adults: a matter of taste: family: no; 14-18: no; 8-14: no." Calif Cong of Far & Teachers

"Audiences may enjoy the music, but will not be impressed with the story... Bob Burns and his 'bazooka' is not quite as amusing in the picture as he is on the radio. Family." Calif Fed of Buss & Professional Women's Clubs Of L.A.

"Aside from one good song by Bing Crosby, the singing is rather rauous, the comedy is coarse and the comediene decidedly overacts. Socially and commercially values are scarce in their audience." Nat Soc of New England Women

"The picture will prove diverting for those who prefer light, effervescent type of musical entertainment. Family." Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul Ag 15 '36

"Family." G Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) J1 28 '36

"Mature." Jt Estimats Ag 1 '36

"The failure of this picture to 'click' in spite of a good cast and music, and excellent photography can be laid to the fact that the story is a most improbable one, the humor dubious, with the ridiculous antics of Martha Raye bordering on the vulgar. Family." Nat Council of Jewish Women Ag 5 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Ag 6 '36

"Family." Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

"[It is in a] light comedy vein, with incident of humor of a more hilarious kind and song and songs. Often pory but pleasant. Family." Wkly Guide J1 25 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[It] is not a solemn and romantic melodrama, but a pleasantly satiric bit of foolery, worked out on a large scale suitable for single billings. Miss Raye displays extraordinary and unconventional vocal powers which some how quite outshine those of the better-known Mr. Crosby B.L.

Boston Transcript p3 Ag 1 '36

"A Western that pokes a bit of fun at its sort of entertainment, with Bing Crosby singing a variety of ditties in the vein that has made him a favorite in the frontier. Bob Burns with his 'bazooka' music is one of the brightest talents in the company." Christian Science Monitor p14 Ag 19 '36

"Four writers are credited with the story end of this Paramount offering. It is such a poor job that even with the blame so widely distributed, the fault must still have a hefty load to tote. Norman Taurog save the script sympathetic direction. It was a poor script and he directed it poorly. A bright note in the picture is Bob Burns, whose monotonous and expressionless voice drones its way through the entire footage without clearing the mystery of his selection for a screen role. Martha Raye's eccentric comedy is all right in its way, but it certainly is no Marx Brothers comedy, but has no place in a picture which is basically romantic."

Spec p4 pl9 & Spec p6 pl9

"Never pretending to be realistic, this giddy piece devotes all its bawling energies to laughter and song. And only because it is hand-capped and almost attention plot does fail to become outstanding film fare... Frances Farmer [is] a welcome addition to the screen. And though her stunts will be interpreted as a more accurate interpretation of ranch life, these new players greatly assist Bing in making this an entertaining comedy. Curtis B. D颍tter Pictorial Jam session. (2½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p36 Ag 29 '36

"Not till the arrival at the ranch in the last reel does it all come up. Then it is due to a comedienne who is new to us, Martha Raye. Her large mouth and grotesque humour are a welcome relief, and her singing of a hot number is the brightest moment in the whole film. If the pace at which it closes has been achieved and maintained, 'Rhythm on the Range' would have been good entertainment. As it is, it will satisfy only the Crosby fan."

New Statesman & Nation p224 Ag 15 '36

"The film can be seen with moderate pleasure..."

++ New Theatre p228 S '36

"There is a certain amount of gayety in the new film and, upon one occasion, even a trace of satire. But 'Rhythm on the Range' is just another passable Bing Crosby vehicle. The satire arrives when Mr. Crosby and several aids sing a number called [as far as I can interpret] I'm a Lone Cow Hand, which has some engaging lyrics that amiably mock the tradition of the cowboy song, but with none of the effective humor... For the rest of the time the attractive comedy episodes of the picture struck me as being few and far between. A comedienne named Martha Raye was liked by the audience at the Paramount yesterday afternoon. It is my minority opinion that she is one of the most trying and exhausting performers that I have recently encountered."

Richard Watts, Jr.

++ N Y Herald Tribune p10 J1 30 '36

"The Paramount's new picture has several claims for midsummer attention, principally the presence of three promising newcomers, new to the screen at least. Bob Burns, of course, has his following of radio listeners. If he is entertaining on the air as he is in pictures, his enthusiasm of his loyal audience is justified. Frances Farmer, who looks remarkably like Constance Cummings, is the heroine. Miss Farmer, an engaging personality, does more with the part than it warrants... Martha Raye, third of the new group, was greeted with enthusiasm by the Paramount audience, if not by this reviewer. There is no doubt that the moviegoers thought her extremely funny; she, as well as the others, will probably be kept busy by Paramount this next year. Mr. Burns should be headed for the electric lights. As for the film itself, it is a simple and pleasant little musical."

Ogden Creelman

++ N Y Sun p9 J1 30 '36

"We prefer to think of 'Rhythm on the Range' as our screen introduction to Martha Raye. Miss Raye is a strangely funny comedienne with a scatterbrain temperament. E. Brown, mouth and a dental supply vaguely reminiscent of those frightening upper's and lower's that the humans have to hang onto for the rather painless extraction epoqua. There remains then the conviction that Hollywood has found a valuable part for Frances Farmer in this business. She is a radio's monologist and bazooka player from Van Buren, Arkansas. Everything considered,

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; ++ Mediocre; Poor; Exceptionally Poor
RHITH ON THE RANGE—Continued
Paramount has dealt fairly generously with us; of course, we have had a lot more of Miss Raye. Still, it's something to anticipate later when her next pictures come along. F. S. Nugent. [Image 0x0 to 439x695]
'36
Film.
'*It is a fair though somewhat attenuated comedy that performs the service of bringing Bing Crosby back into the ranks of the cinema's active players. If you think it would be fun to listen to Bing croon a lullaby to his prize bull you probably have a good time at the Paramount this week. Personally, I think the entertainment 'Rhythm on the Range' is as valuable as any comic efforts of Martha Raye," William Boehnel.
+ — N Y Times p22 J1 30 '36
"Rhythm on the Range' needs no word of critical juj-ju; each Crosby performance is well-known standard products, like Ford V-8's. If you liked the last Bing Crosby, you'll like this, and so you will like the next one, whatever it turns out to be." Russell Maloney.
New Yorker p53 Ag 5 '36
"[Martha Raye and Bob Burns] lift a mawkish cow-cow musical from dollops of delight." + — News-Wk p23 Ag 1 '36
"It is neither the brightest nor the dullest of the Crosby vehicles, but whatever its shortcomings, it definitely offers fans their money's worth. In the role of Johnny Mercer's 'I'm an Old Cowhand from the Rio Grande'—with everyone in the West, the Lewin
— Script p12 Ag 22 '36
"[Rhythm on the Range] is quite a tolerable picture with a few scenes which do deserve to be remembered, among the comic effects Mr. Bob Burns. I think one might even find a place, in one's ideal popular cinema, for whatever the role represents in the permanent. If it is agreeable, human characteristics of nostalgia and self-pity: I would have him bobbing at the back of the screen like a worried referee—or like an Elizabethan clown crooning his lugubrious reminders." Graham Greene.
+ — Spec p270 Ag 11 '36
"Rhythm on the Range' is a good-humoured, well-paced musicomedy in which Bing Crosby's nonchalance but thoroughly mellifluous crooning is pleasantly punctuated by a mildly satiric investigation of the rodeo business.
+ — Time p26 Ag 10 '36
Trade Paper Reviews
Bing Crosby, crooning and performing at his best to date; the show-stopping antics of a newcomer, Martha Raye; the droll humor of Bob Burns and his Bozooka; a half dozen catch phrases and scores of Crosby pithy sayings are a blue ribbon bull. With a weather eye to the box office, Director Norman Taurog blended these ingredients into an entertainment concocted delectable enough to tickle the palate of any theater-goer, the exploitation possibilities of which will bring tears of joy to exhibitors' eyes.
+ — Box Office p25 J1 25 '36
"This will make a big hit with the Bing Crosby fans. He has been given a good vehicle, excellently handled by Norman Taurog. The picture introduces two new screen personalities in Martha Raye and Bob Burns, who will be popular with fans, with speedy Saddles, sung by Bing, should develop into a hit."
+ — Film Daily p7 J1 18 '36
"Bing Crosby has here his best picture in many, many moons. Under the expert direction of Norman Taurog and with a bright supporting cast highlighted by hit screen-debuting performances of Bob Burns and Martha Raye, 'Rhythm on the Range' is due to be a top grossing Crosby release and to accomplish much in reestablishing the box office draw of its star, dealt such heavy blows by a series of inadequately directed vehicles. Few credits are credited with the screen-play, which makes the most of the amusing situations offered, although leaving a big mileage to be covered by construction. Too often are lines obvious when they should be witty.
+ — Hollywood Reporter p3 J1 15 '36
"Here is probably Bing Crosby's best work to date; certainly his fans will like it better than anything he has done in a long time and should also go for the two new screen personalities introduced in handsome style for the film's comedy. Bob Burns, with his Bozooka, and Bing Crosby in a comedy role. Martha Raye introduces a new individual style of rowdy clowning which marks her as a favorite in the cast from her first appearance. Crosby has good routine in seven songs with clever lyrics contributed by an accomplished group of songwriters. The best exploitation features are the new comics and the different type of Bing Crosby role. The radio popularity of the players should also draw audiences."
+ — Motion Pict Daily p19 J1 6 '36
"Comedy with music, this should help do better than previous Crosbys. Estimate: good Crosby."
+ — Phila Exhibitor p35 Ag 1 '36
"Despite the title, the costumes and the characters, this is no Western. There's very little range, but plenty of rhythm, and the latter much more to his liking. Bing Crosby shoots par, on singing and light comedy but because of story handicap, he might have had some tough going minus the aid of a pair of new faces, clicking on their first picture attempt... There are some flaws in Miss Raye's performance, which is to be expected, but at first sight she impresses as a very promising picture comedienne. Burns also got some splendid comic lines and he may be the most of the majority of them, but he may have to speed up a bit for pictures."
+ — Variety p3 Ag 15 '36
"Still in need of some trimming in the early sequences, 'Rhythm on the Range' stacks up as the best Crosby picture to hit the screens in the past year. Excellently cast with a number of specialty people and containing a number of topnotch musical sequences, it will give the fans about everything they want from their favorite."
+ — Variety (Hollywood) p8 J1 15 '36
RIDING AVENGER. Diversion 57min Je 15 '36
Based on the novel, Big Bend Buckaroo, by Walton West. A western melodrama.
Trade Paper Reviews
"The legend of fans who like Hoot Gibson will be more than satisfied with this one. The youngster Buzz Barton is prominently cast, and will add to the delight of the [children]."
+ — Film Daily p11 J1 14 '36
"A good Western with the smiling and recklessly wisecracking Hoot Gibson doing all the exciting situations in the picture. When the action lags it soon is given a fresh start, and the thrills begin again. It has what it takes to make the Western enthusiast feel that the audience does not take it too seriously."
+ — Motion Pict Daily p9 J1 18 '36
"Family Western."
+ — Family Exhibitor p68 J1 1 '36
"If the first five minutes of this, obviously an elaboration of the adaptor, were left on the shelf the picture would be improved. Hoot Gibson never looks better than when on his ROAD TO GLORY. 20th century-Fox 95min S 4 '36
Players: Frederic March, Warner Baxter, Lionel Barrymore, June Lang, Gregory Ratoff
Director: Howard Hawks
A remake of a French war film Croix de Bois which was never shown in this country.
See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A: fine of kind; Y: strong; C: no."
Christian Century p113 Ag 26 '36

"A graphic picture of the futility of war is enacted with outstanding sincerity by a splendid cast. 'The Road to Glory' was surely not made primarily for entertainment. It is a strong plea for the prevention of war by showing the effects. Family-mature." Am Legion Auxiliary

"The human equation, rather than the glory-aspect of war, is emphasized in this intelligent and impressive motion picture document which stresses the futility of war as an instrument of civilization... Adults: excellent; 14-18: very good; 8-14: beyond." Calif Cong of Parents & Teachers

"Set during the World War, 'The Road to Glory' is a bitterly satirical indictment of the utter futility of war and its waste of manpower and homes. It was simple and therefore powerfully presented, without undue sentimentality and with less than the usual measure of hokum, Adults." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Excellent. This impressive, suspenseful war film, marked by exceptional photography, shows the stoicism and heroism of men in action and the brutality of war. Adults. Excellent." DAR

"This remarkable picture... is ostensibly a picture on the futility and frightful carnage of warfare, but equally as potent as an achievement in demonstrating the glorification of the soldier when his country calls for all his patriotism. The picture will doubtless receive great acclaim as an ambitious undertaking and the younger generation will hail it with enthusiasm... [It] is somewhat marred by unforgettable anachronisms and lack of careful research work... The picture is a masterly enterprise which all old and young should have the privilege of seeing. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"A picture to take its place among such war dramas as 'All Quiet on the Western Front' and 'Journey's End'—powerful, unified and mature. Family-mature, of course." Mrs T. G. Winter

"Outstanding, Adults." + + Jt Estimates Je 15 '36

"A decidedly militaristic screenplay glorifying war as an instrument of national policy. Just because during the unfolding of the slight story, there is a certain amount of tragedy, it does not necessarily follow that the ghastly безнаught of war is portrayed in its true character... In the opinion of the editor of this Bulletin very few people will enjoy this movie. Aside from 'Road to Glory' being a vicious anti-peace film, it is not entertaining; it is dull, slow-moving, and heavy." Mc Film Bul Ag 24 '36

"Novel in theme as well as in presentation. 'The Road To Glory' is one of the strongest war features ever committed to screen. But, it is a purpose rather than a vehicle of entertainment only. Credit is due the studio for not distorting facts in order to make of it a typical motion picture with a glorified ending... An outstanding picture bringing a definite message, gruesomely unblushing in its denunciation against war... Adults."

"A powerful and impressive drama stressing the courage, heroism and patriotic sacrifice of men who fought for France. Adults."

"And Y: dramatic indictment of war; C: harrowing; B: shocking... Parents." M p18 Ag '36

"The horrors of war are pretty well over-shadowed by the glorification and romance, but the fine and sincere performances of March and Baxter lift the film into a semblance of war."

Wkly Guide Ag 7 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
Boston Transcript p3 Ag 29 '36

"This war triangle story of two officers and a girl is lifted out of the conventional mould by a number of convincing episodes, a good screen play by Joel Sayre and William Faulkner, and several outstanding performances under the direction of Howard Hawks. More than slightly reminiscent of other battle epics, 'The Road to Glory,' by its crisp objectiveness and disinclination to romanticize or dramatize triumphs and trumpets, is an effective treatise against war..."

"Close in title and similar in setting to Humphrey Bogart's 'The Thin Man,' 'All Quiet on the Western Front' and 'Journey's End,' 'The Road to Glory' can stand by itself as a powerful, completely engrossing war film. It just misses the glory of 'All Quiet on the Western Front' and 'Journey's End;' but not since those two stirring masterpieces has there been anything to match this moving motion picture document... [It] has more than its needs in the way of emotional display. In fact, it is the film's penchant for pouring on one big scene after another that keeps it from becoming as realistic as it is exciting. Despite all our potty bickering, this is a film that no one should miss." (3½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p12 Ji 11 '36

"Producer Nunnally Johnson probably forgot propaganda as it might affect the politics or diplomacy of any European nation. The result is a grim, terrifying straight-forward cinema report of what war is like, war anywhere. Critics have pronounced the picture a triumph in objectivity..."

"[It] is a direct hit."

"The photoplay has a certain suggestion of almost every war drama from 'The Big Parade' and 'What Price Glory?' to 'Journey's End' and 'All Quiet on the Western Front.' Nevertheless it is a powerful and effective motion picture that seldom fails to be direct and moving..."

"In 'Road to Glory' is much more than a casual imitation of celebrated predecessors in the field. I should say that the chief virtue of the 'Road to Glory' was that..."

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; - Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor
ROAD TO GLORY—Continued

It made war something dirty and uncomfortable, rather than merely romantic: that it indicated that the screams of the dying were as much to be heard as the sound of exciting musical numbers. —Richard Waring

+ N Y Herald Tribune p12 Ag 6 '36

"Mr. Zanuck has made a picture of war. Shrewd showman that he is, he has realized that as war grows more realistic, war fiction must be more romantic. ... The Road to Glory" therefore is romance, theatrical and highly effective, without the pitifully withering out beside the Rivoli before the second show at noon yesterday proved that Mr. Zanuck had once again, if not quite, the right touch. ... It preaches no sermon. In spite of picturesque detail and colorful tragedy, it makes no pretense at realism in plot. Its one aim is entertainment; and there it succeeds most admirably. This is a good yarn, stirringly directed, written with a cunning mixture of comedy and tears, and boasting a number of excellent performances. "The Road to Glory" is a first-rate melodrama, vivid and for all its horrors, sentimental." —Eileen Creedman

+ N Y Sun p9 Ag 6 '36

"We cannot but be impatient with any such objective, yet reasonably treatment of war as "The Road to Glory." All the more the pity because, much against our personal convictions, we thus our attention pinned, our imagination captured by the photoplay. Even though it is a soft, long, dramatic and vivid picture, the war should not be defended; it should not be considered dispassionately; we should not be beguiled into liking a film that regards it so. And yet, resentfully or not, we must confess that we did... The war of the cast is faultless... [They] have added beyond measure in giving the picture a quality which compels our resentful admiration." —F. S. Nugent

N Y Times p22 Ag 6 '36

"This, as even those who only glance at newspaper headlines must realize, would be an ideal time for a motion picture to remind the world, which has a faulty memory, of what a harrowing pastime war is... But with characteristic lack of courage the producers decided to go right along and take advantage of the opportunity that was within their reach. True, there are moments when the issues of the recent conflict appear, but these are very few indeed. However, if you are of the fickle, lack of courage and middle-of-the-road point of view you'll have to admit that it is a realistic, well-acted variation of "The Road to Glory's" Emily's Enemy. The right to war reveals an admirable integrity." —William Boehnel

N Y World-Telegram p15 Ag 6 '36

"Two such notable literary figures as Joel Sayre and William Faulkner have collaborated on this story... All throughout my watching of the movie, an apathy lay heavy upon me. To complain that there is nothing new to say about the war is rather like complaining that there is nothing new to say about life anyhow, which is doubtless true too, but it certainly seems unnecessary to stress this fact as definitively as [they] do. In a possible, even sensible, scrap of sentiment and valor, with a touch of humor here and there, which somehow defy any harm and excite nobody." —John Mosher

+ New Yorker p48 Ag 15 '36

"A pertinent film, now that Europe is again reverting to March with its glut of glamour, no Richard Harding Davis flag- waving—just war, a dirty, heartbreaking, nerve- shattering film. For the first time in an American film submerges individual characters, unfolds a vista of mass action and mass fate. ... Entirely too much historical panorama of warfare has been filmed. The charges have an uncanny verisimilitude, a dept pacting and grouping that is remisful of D. W. Grif- fith's vast tapestries of motion... Fredric March will be remembered for his work. Discarding the swagger and facile mannerisms that have marred his recent performances, he's thoroughly honest, alveng the soldier. The romantic interludes have a lyricism that is unusual. His best role since 'Laughter' though the author's demands. —Ward March... Three stars, Fredric March, Lionel Barrymore, Warner Baxter in a four-star film." —Herb Sterne

+ Script p10 Ag 29 '36

"There is a disturbing note about this picture—that such excellent playing and directing have not resulted in tenera drama, that such inclusive characterization is not moving through its own sharpness. Perhaps music would have given the film an overtone of emotionalism; perhaps we are not used to consultation and a sense of duty being the motivating forces in war drama. Whatever the reason for 'Road to Glory's' failure to come off as an effective screenplay, it is an honest, straightforward photographic pattern." —Stage p12 S '36

"It presents the spectacle of fighting on the Western Front with definitely satirical relish... Neither a patriotic polemic nor a pacistic preachment, 'The Road to Glory' is sure to en- joy a vast popularity which may be partly at- tributable to the fact that we can be mistaken for either. Actually, it is propaganda for noth- ing but the shrewdness of Producer Darryl Zanuck in bringing the daringly incongruous combination on such a theme of two authors whose respective specialties are caustic humor and energetic morbidity, and in giving Director Howard Hawks the best material he has had since 'The Crowd Roars.'" —Time p16 Ag 17 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A gloriously beautiful and unforgettable film of what war really is—not why." —L. S. Niemeyer

+ Canadian Moving Pict Digest p10 Je 20 '36

"[I]t is destined for smooth sailing at the box office. It's punchy, timely, gripping, studied with sufficient marquee voltage to underwrite almost anything... From the back seat it failed serves as an effective means whereby 20th-Fox launches a new cine- matic face of considerable promise, June Lang... As romantic treatment "The Road to Glory" is a bit too obvious and stylized. But it's the highly competent production treatment which elevates this to the league company."

+ Variety p18 Ag 12 '36

ROARIN' GUNS. Puritan 59min Jb 27 '36
Players: Tim McCoy. Rosalinda Price. Tommy Bupp
Director: Sam Newfield
A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency Mr 22 '36

"A, Y and C: just what one expects in Western melodrama."

Parents' M p50 Je '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Treading the routine path of Western thrillers, this one moves along the well worn grooves and serves the serving the audience going quite consistently, with Tim McCoy in action most of the time. The [children] will like this one, for it features Tommy Bupp,

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

93

ROGUES' TAVERN. Puritan 67mn Jl 1 '36.
Players: Wallace Ford, Barbara Pepper, Joan Woodbury
Director: Bob Hill
A detective and his bride-to-be stranded in a lonely tavern solve three murder mysteries.

"The last scenes are terrible. Altogether the story is absurd, and there is little to help it out. Suitability: Unconvincing; C: Poor;" "Parents'" M p50 Jl '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This program picture closely follows the approved formula of murder plays. Its story is designed to baffle audiences until the very final sequences. This it does entertainingly and effectively. Its frequent, creepy scenes, its trio of murders, and its suspense will appeal particularly to patrons who thrive on spine-chilling stuff." Film Daily p12 Je '36

"This will appeal best to indiscriminate neighborhoods...[The story] creaks with familiar situations."

"A and Y: Unconvincing murder mystery; C: Poor."

ROME AND JULIET. MGM 120mn
Players: Norma Shearer, Leslie Howard, John Barrymore, Basil Rathbone, C. Aubrey Smith, Edna May Oliver
Director: George Cukor
Music: Herbert Stothart
Dances: Agnes de Mille
Based on the play of the same title by William Shakespeare. This is the third cinema version produced. Against a background of magnificent Renaissance pageantry this most ageless of love tales tells the story of two young lovers sacrificed in the cold, deadly rivalry of two warring Italian families.
A Photoplay Study Guide on Romeo and Juliet, prepared by M. J. Herzberg, is obtainable from Educational and Recreational Guides, Inc., 125 Lincoln Avenue, Newark, New Jersey, at fifteen cents per copy.

"A and Y: Excellent; C: Mature." "Christian Century" p1926 S 9 '36

"The movies have finally done it. They have made a screen version...that is not only excellent in itself, but a decided improvement over many a legitimate presentation. Shakespeare has become a bore to so many high school and college students (through no fault of his own) that it is a positive pleasure to report on what Irving Thalberg's M. G. M. has made out of 'Romeo and Juliet.' It is beautiful, its authenticity, it is moving, and when all is said and done, it is still Shakespeare." "Scholastic" p17 S 19 '36

"The settings, the costumes, the acting and the music are a beautiful tribute to a faithful adaptation of 'Romeo and Juliet' which excels all previous film versions."

"A play that the masses will understand and love, for the lines of the immortal bard strike into all hearts and the interpretation given by such a sterling cast is perfect...It is a beautiful thing that embodies the history of true love and inspires the centuries. Family." "Am Legion Auxiliary"

"Artistically, the picture leaves nothing to be desired. Educationally, the picture is valuable in that it gives an impressionistic reproduction of the life and customs of the times. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Schools and colleges should see this Shakespearean screen-classic which is marked by authenticity. Mature-family, Excellent." DAR

"This cinema version of the undying tragedy of young love has had several reasons for first honors in this vibrant and definitely satisfying presentation...[It is a] flawless entertaining picture for all ages to see and enjoy. Family."

"It is safe to say that no cinema production has had so good a reason for first honors as this vibrant and definitely satisfying presentation...[It is a] flawless entertaining picture for all ages to see and enjoy. Family."

"The cast give unfailing support in this almost perfect photoplay, in which the direction of George Cukor is strong and rarely intelligent and the photoplay exceedingly lovely and effective. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Romeo and Juliet" is not only equalled, but production which employs many artists in their highest expression and one which indicates the great destinies of a motion picture to enter the entire family." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Superlatives seem inadequate to describe the magnificent of the production and acting of this, the loveliest love-tale of all time...The endless amount of research which has gone into the production, the efficiency of the stage craft, masterly and understanding direction, rarely beautiful photography, authenticity of costume and manners of the day, all combine to make of 'Romeo and Juliet' not only tense and absorbing entertainment but will prove of invaluable benefit to students of Shakespeare for all time to come. Family." Nat Council of Jewish Women Jl 15 '36

"General patronage. Exquisite garden settings, romance in a Whistler canvas, the perfect reproduction of fifteenth century art, architecture and costume, and the finished performance of an outstanding cast all blend to make this a notable production." Nat Legion of Decency Jl 2 '36

"A and Y: Excellent; C: Excellent." Parent's' M p50 S '36

"A play that the masses will understand and love, for the lines of the immortal bard strike into all hearts and the interpretation given by such a sterling cast is perfect...It is a beautiful thing that embodies the history of true love and inspires the centuries. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Artistically, the picture leaves nothing to be desired. Educationally, the picture is valuable in that it gives an impressionistic reproduction of the life and customs of the times. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Schools and colleges should see this Shakespearean screen-classic which is marked by authenticity. Mature-family, Excellent." DAR

"This cinema version of the undying tragedy of young love has had several reasons for first honors in this vibrant and definitely satisfying presentation...[It is a] flawless entertaining picture for all ages to see and enjoy. Family."

"It is safe to say that no cinema production has had so good a reason for first honors as this vibrant and definitely satisfying presentation...[It is a] flawless entertaining picture for all ages to see and enjoy. Family."

"The cast give unfailing support in this almost perfect photoplay, in which the direction of George Cukor is strong and rarely intelligent and the photoplay exceedingly lovely and effective. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Romeo and Juliet" is not only equalled, but production which employs many artists in their highest expression and one which indicates the great destinies of a motion picture to enter the entire family." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Superlatives seem inadequate to describe the magnificent of the production and acting of this, the loveliest love-tale of all time...The endless amount of research which has gone into the production, the efficiency of the stage craft, masterly and understanding direction, rarely beautiful photography, authenticity of costume and manners of the day, all combine to make of 'Romeo and Juliet' not only tense and absorbing entertainment but will prove of invaluable benefit to students of Shakespeare for all time to come. Family." Nat Council of Jewish Women Jl 15 '36

"General patronage. Exquisite garden settings, romance in a Whistler canvas, the perfect reproduction of fifteenth century art, architecture and costume, and the finished performance of an outstanding cast all blend to make this a notable production." Nat Legion of Decency Jl 2 '36

"A and Y: Excellent; C: Excellent." Parent's' M p50 S '36

"The movies have finally done it. They have made a screen version...that is not only excellent in itself, but a decided improvement over many a legitimate presentation. Shakespeare has become a bore to so many high school and college students (through no fault of his own) that it is a positive pleasure to report on what Irving Thalberg's M. G. M. has made out of 'Romeo and Juliet.' It is beautiful, its authenticity, it is moving, and when all is said and done, it is still Shakespeare." "Scholastic" p17 S 19 '36

"The settings, the costumes, the acting and the music are a beautiful tribute to a faithful adaptation of 'Romeo and Juliet' which excels all previous film versions."

"A play that the masses will understand and love, for the lines of the immortal bard strike into all hearts and the interpretation given by such a sterling cast is perfect...It is a beautiful thing that embodies the history of true love and inspires the centuries. Family." "Am Legion Auxiliary"

"Artistically, the picture leaves nothing to be desired. Educationally, the picture is valuable in that it gives an impressionistic reproduction of the life and customs of the times. Family." "Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs"

"Schools and colleges should see this Shakespearean screen-classic which is marked by authenticity. Mature-family, Excellent." "DAR"

"This cinema version of the undying tragedy of young love has had several reasons for first honors in this vibrant and definitely satisfying presentation...[It is a] flawless entertaining picture for all ages to see and enjoy. Family."

"It is safe to say that no cinema production has had so good a reason for first honors as this vibrant and definitely satisfying presentation...[It is a] flawless entertaining picture for all ages to see and enjoy. Family."

"The cast give unfailing support in this almost perfect photoplay, in which the direction of George Cukor is strong and rarely intelligent and the photoplay exceedingly lovely and effective. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Romeo and Juliet" is not only equalled, but production which employs many artists in their highest expression and one which indicates the great destinies of a motion picture to enter the entire family." "Nat Soc of New England Women"

"Superlatives seem inadequate to describe the magnificent of the production and acting of this, the loveliest love-tale of all time...The endless amount of research which has gone into the production, the efficiency of the stage craft, masterly and understanding direction, rarely beautiful photography, authenticity of costume and manners of the day, all combine to make of 'Romeo and Juliet' not only tense and absorbing entertainment but will prove of invaluable benefit to students of Shakespeare for all time to come. Family."

"Nat Council of Jewish Women Jl 15 '36

"General patronage. Exquisite garden settings, romance in a Whistler canvas, the perfect reproduction of fifteenth century art, architecture and costume, and the finished performance of an outstanding cast all blend to make this a notable production." "Nat Legion of Decency Jl 2 '36

"A and Y: Excellent; C: Excellent." Parent's' M p50 S '36

"The movies have finally done it. They have made a screen version...that is not only excellent in itself, but a decided improvement over many a legitimate presentation. Shakespeare has become a bore to so many high school and college students (through no fault of his own) that it is a positive pleasure to report on what Irving Thalberg's M. G. M. has made out of 'Romeo and Juliet.' It is beautiful, its authenticity, it is moving, and when all is said and done, it is still Shakespeare." "Scholastic" p17 S 19 '36

"The settings, the costumes, the acting and the music are a beautiful tribute to a faithful adaptation of 'Romeo and Juliet' which excels all previous film versions."
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

ROMEO AND JULIET—Continued

"An excellent production of the play, with an excellent continuity of plot and doing full justice to Shakespeare's consummation of the famous lines for library use. Recommended to the Committee on Exceptional Photoplays. Family-outside." + + Wkly Guide Je 27 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"By every test of current Hollywood achievement, Metro's 'Romeo and Juliet' promises to be one of the best and most discussed films of the year. Endlessly handsome is this pageant-fact and fairy-tale combined. The photogaphy, its brilliant use of black, gray and white values as foundation for its authentic and bold design, costumes and settings. Miss Shearer's performance takes on variety and worth from her devotion to the story. She has the pliability to enter into every indicated mood of Juliet, within the scope of her own talents, never forcing the note beyond her abilities, speaking always out of the part and emotion implied in the words. That Mr. Howard is not the best possible choice for Romeo will, in a manner, be supplanted by his following in whatever he undertakes." E. C. S. Christian Science Monitor p10 As 25 '36

"To the uninitiated there will come an introduction to the art of the great English writer under circumstances that could hardly be improved on—a film produced by Metro, a major studio using a major star, and directed by George Irving." J. F. Cunningham + + Commonweal p446 S 4 '36

"I have seen what is probably the finest production ever recorded of Shakespeare's 'Romeo and Juliet,' the finest, perhaps, of the many fine things Irving Thalberg has to his credit as a film producer. This production reaches an artistic peak seldom seen on the screen. It is not box-office. Shakespeare is not box-office. His appeal is intellectual. The screen's appeal must be to the emotions. Of course, there is the possibility of the discovery of a director who can make Shakespeare human, who can handle the Bard's characters in a manner to make us weep over their misfortunes, something that Oskar Fischinger comes long way from accomplishing." Hollywood Spec p7 Jl 1 '36

"When M-G-M announced that it was going to film Thackeray's 'Romeo and Juliet', it was a story that would shock Shakespeare students and bore movie audiences. As a matter of honest curiosity, it was intriguing. Here is a deeply touching, scholastically faithful account of Shakespeare's romance that manages to combine an academic sincerity with robust and poignant reality. Indeed, the outstanding quality of the picture is its balance. Despite a somewhat tepid beginning and an atrocity performance by John Barrymore, whose exorbitant ranting and face-making ruin the prize role of Mercutio, 'Romeo and Juliet' is grand entertainment easily adaptable to camera methods. Dominating the picture is Norma Shearer's exquisitely poetic portrait of Juliet. Nothing in her lengthy career has indicated that this actress could exploit to such a degree this role. As Romeo, Leslie Howard is not the traditionally fierce youth, but his stylized acting easily captivates the boy sympathy and respect." (4 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p85 As 29 '36

"Critics consider 'Romeo and Juliet' a triumph of motion-picture art, very possibly one of the finest pictures ever made in Hollywood. The most acidulous [critics] admit, [Miss] Julianne Moore, of course, is the undisputed Miss Shearer for a curved, disciplined performance as Romeo. Also, they declare Barrymore is the perfect Mercutio. 'Romeo and Juliet' is Hollywood's best joust with Shakespeare to date. Skilled performance, knowing delivery of the famous lines, an acute sense that cheers would be grudging, jeers easy, combining to set alight the talents of all concerned." + + Lit Digest p20 Ag 15 '36

"On 'Romeo and Juliet' in the screen version, I can only report that if you like the play as it is written, and do not require something far and indefinable and somewhat beyond, you will like it; if not, not. The picture is done well, if you want the bare minimum, and in some places, it's a bit too well. Norma Shearer is rather unappetizingly made up, but neither bad nor good and (surprising) enough, actually beautiful in the new version of lines in there trying; Leslie Howard has grace, intelligence and a flair for lines but the Sophie oldukça charming, and there are times when that sensitive horse's face of his, wrapped in these disguises, must lead to unfortunate qualities. This is an urbane, John Barrymore is the real study. I hardly know what to say about it, but am sure there will never be seen on the boards so much scenery-chewing and rubber-face trickery until the day they put 'Lea' into the Billy Minsky houses." Robert Stubbins + New Theatre p21 S 3 '36

"With rare good taste and surprising resources, Metro has translated Shakespeare's 'Romeo and Juliet' into a distinguished and beautiful photoplay. The singing measurements of the actors are well-choreographed in sumptuous pageantry. The acting, always effective raises at times to genuine brilliance. You will find your most engrossing and engaging obeisance to the Bard. Of all the splendid performances in the film, that of Mr. Barrymore is outstanding. Miss Shearer is remarkably good. She is inclined to coyness at the start, but from the balcony scene on, she plays with simple intensity and profound assurance. In her most ambitious role she does the finest acting of her career. As Romeo, Leslie Howard is almost ideal, although he conspires with Miss Shearer to make the. noble youth's expectations include a haunting beauty. The screen version of 'Romeo and Juliet' has flaws, but they are trivial when compared with the overwhelming power of the production." Howard Barnes + + N Y Herald Tribune p11 Ag 21 '36

"Great and still alive is the material of which the film is made. "Romeo and Juliet" falls somewhere short of being a masterpiece. It is a good picture and a distinguished one, worthy, and one into moviegoer would care to miss. Something, however, has escaped from it in the transfer from printed page, from the stage to a motion picture screen. It does not wring the heart nor start tears of sweet sympathy or bitter resentment of the tragic, needless waste of youth and love and beauty. It remains simply interesting, solid and interesting, never a film to haunt one, but still a well-made, well-acted stage production of last year." Eileen Creelman + N Y Sun p11 Jl 21 '36

"Never before, in all its centuries, has the play remained as a beak of an almost RESCUED. It is as if the role was unveiled last night... All that the director's scope, superb photography and camera photography could do would be added to it here. Ornate but not garish, extravagant but in perfect taste, expensive but never extravagant, the picture is beautiful in all its details and on its producers and upon the screen as a whole. It is a dignified, sensitive and entirely admirable production. It is essential to screen production. Considering the performances on screen, they are splendid. Here and there we can expect imperfections; Miss Shearer was not..."
it as a handsome, dignified and reverent production. The Vulgararians may overlook the fine points and see in it somewhat the usual costume piece done on a rather bigger stage than average screen. However, it is a tour de force by Norma Shearer and Juliet... Actually for once, we see a Juliet who is a girl... Miss Shearer never seems more beautiful, more profound, or richer in emotional depth, than when she is richly with tears, seems hardly either terrific or tragic, never inelegantly intense. Her first encounter with Romeo is a delightful one, and Leslie Howard appears to be an intelligent, well-bred, and not quite well Romeo. He is possessed in the role of a young man, and in the later and tragic scenes that Mr. Howard is at his best; and there is a good deal to be said for a Romeo who isn't the violent gallant so much as the mournful romantic, which is the kind of Romeo Mr. Howard probably intended. I think the studio has been overly-admired by Shakespeare... and has rendered the film somewhat cumbersome, rather... a little more... This is a good sensible presentation of "Romeo and Juliet"... but it won't be one you'll have your kids watch when you are discussing the movies as great art. John Mosher

New Yorker p18 Ag 22 '36

"Let there be no doubt about it—Shearer's Juliet can rub elbows with any modern interpretation of the damsel, from Olivia de Havilland to Cornwell. Whether she could have matched her predecessors behind the footlights is irrelevant. As an actress, she has so many qualities that others have not—twice over the camera's peculiar demands. No one of the current crop of cinema sapphires could have brought her performance with an 11-foot pole... The only weak spot in the ensemble, Howard enunciates beautifully, but is a little too starchy for my taste, but with all the passionate fervor of a potato...

News-Wk p23 Ag 22 '36

"It comes as something of a surprise to report that M-G-M's production of "Romeo and Juliet" is a decided improvement on the methodical and graceless Romeo. Tightly and heavy, rather anemic, Within the fiery spirit, the playwhisperer of Shakespearean drama, possibly the most阕 of Mercutio's flair on the set. whether Shakespeare is the perfect interpretation of the scenary remains uncertain. Metro's film of Romeo and Juliet" is a lovely thing; if it should not be well received the fault will not be Hollywood's." F. S. Nugent

N + Y Times p12 Ag 21 '36

"The Universal appeal of its tragic romance and the unusual marquee quality of its cast are assurances that the picture will interest maximum public interest and from the standpoint of enlisting the attention and support of constructively influential public elements and raising the barometer of its boxoffice success will prove one of the most effective releases in years."

Film Daily p2 Jl 16 '36

"Mr. Irving G. Thalberg, producer, showman and visionary... has evolved a picture that should be as timeless as the story it tells, gives him top billing in this magnificent effort... It is a picture born to be re-issued. It seems to this humble reviewer that, once seen, it must be seen again, so that the appreciation and satisfaction may be more complete... The wit and flow of language is something that everyone will want to enjoy again and again. The superb acting throughout of a cast of picture favorites is another thing that you'll want to view again and again as well as the thing about the production. will make you proud to be a movie fan. There isn't anyone who can think of it, no wonder why Shakespeare has been so long neglected or viewed with such pedantic awe."

Helen Gwynn

Hollywood Reporter p4 Jl 16 '36

"Its appeal unquestionably will be to every type of picture audience and raise the average audience level. For the erudite audience it offers that beauty of fine artistry which should be found in all art, and thus it should be an education of thought, excitement and interest."

Waltz of the Toreadors p5 Jl 16 '36

"It is not only an artistic achievement, but it is an expression of Hollywood's love for the truth... Its appeal will be wide and universal... It will be the most talked about picture of the season... Its appeal will be to every type of picture audience and raise the average audience level. For the erudite audience it offers that beauty of fine artistry which should be found in all art, and thus it should be an education of thought, excitement and interest."

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST
ROMEO AND JULIET—Continued

complete and authentic in every respect, and appropriate references are the result of serious creation... Showmanship should take into account the picture, although based on a work of art, with all its possibilities, but nonetheless, in its film form, much to appeal to the average audience. Its basic ingredients are universal, and the fact should be capitalized by the exhibitor...+

Motion Pic Daily p1 Jl 16 '36

"The resources of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have been poured into the finest production of its kind and the picture has emanated from every department of the studio. Including not only dollars, but star values, good sense, showmanship, angles, the picture production of a great play. Metro producer Irving Thalberg produced a picture that has everything to make it a money show. What it will do at the box office depends entirely on how the individual showman gets behind it. It has everything..."+

+ Phila Exhibitor p3 Ag 1 '36

"As an example of expert picture making, combining fine photography and excellent sound recording, with the use of technical devices to create and enhance emotional effect, it is a superlative effort. It is a film venture that required unusual courage to undertake. The fine playing qualities have been retained from that point of view there is every reason to laud the production as successful. What will be the box office success the jewelled cast of actors would seemingly guarantee, is likely to be answered by the box office world in its impression on the public. It will have to be sold (as Shakespeare always has had to be sold) and the cooperation of the schools, clubs and literary organizations effected. Let there be no doubt as to its attendance possibilities. With full blast propaganda behind it, 'Romeo' will draw into theaters plenty of the casuals, and the star names will magnetize the regular fans. It will be the cat's meow..."+

Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 16 '36

"To sell the old showman of Avon, as well as the world's foremost poet, to the picture public as popular entertainment is, ironically but admitted, a handicap to overcome. So far as the box office is concerned, Thalberg and his associates undertook the enterprise for the showing of the play with magic names: Norma Shearer, Leslie Howard, John Barrymore, Basil Rathbone and a superb cast of supporting players. At the head of the players' roster, Norma Shearer also stands at the top in performance, her best. As the tragic heroine, she is better than the greatest current actresses of screen or stage... Leslie Howard chose to interpret Romeo with curbed emotion, but gives the role poetic grace, deep conviction and grave tenderness, a carefully considered tragic, hauntingly tragic..."+

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 16 '36

SAN FRANCISCO. MGM 115min Je 26 '36

This is the story of the memorable earthquake and fire of 1906 which destroyed a city that had the reputation of being the wickedest city on the Pacific Coast. Entwined in the history of that catastrophe is the story of magnificent song and dance which the movie obtains. Gable becomes the movie's leading man and MacDonald obtains her first starring role. The picture should do credit to all involved and obtain a good box office.+

Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 16 '36

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: fine of kind; Y: probably good; C: not for them." Christian Century p375 Jl 8 '36

"Excellent-mature." DAR

"Interesting for adults." Nat Soc of New England

+ Fox W Coast Bul Jl 4 '36

"Spencer Tracy as the two-fisted priest is a surprisingly splendid role, while Jeanette MacDonald's voice in the spectacular sequences redeems whatever may be disappointing in this moving treatment of California life. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"The thrilling climax is most appropriate and ennobling. Adults: good; family: good; 14-18: doubtful; 8-14: no." Calif Cong of Par & Torch

"The director had a difficult assignment and acquitted himself nobly. The photography is flawless and the settings excellent. Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"The cast is of high excellence, the singing of Miss MacDonald is noteworthy and a particular attribute of this picture is Spencer Tracy in the role of a priest,---deserves special mention. Adults & Young people." E Coast Preview Committee

"Flawless in direction and casting and with an ethical value beyond a doubt, this picture is suitable for the entertainment of the family. S B Exper. in parents' Party Church Women.

+ Fox W Coast Bul Jl 11 '36

"Mature. Outstanding."+

+ Jt Estimates Jl 1 '36

"The outstanding performance comes from Spencer Tracy. If anything were needed to show that he is a great actor the evidence is supplied by this performance in a part that is difficult in itself, and made more difficult by reason of the roles in which audiences have been accustomed to see him. Van Dyke has handled the immense and varied materials set before him as effectively as he handles a simple thriller... All his skill is unequal to the final scenes of conversion. His handling of the moral issue throughout the film seems to suggest that he was as conscious as many cinemagoers will be that he is hokum, and when he has to face it he deals with it as quickly as possible. Suitable: adults & adolescents. This film is definitely not suitable for children."+

Mo Film Bul p1290 Jl 36

"Earthquakes may have been shown before in movies, but never with such thrilling reality as in this picture. It is quite an immense spectacle, a great technical achievement. The film is excellent melodrama. It is all made believable and leaves a vivid though sensational impression of the period and the appalling holocaust from the ashes of which arose the new San Francisco. Adolescents, 12-16: strong but interesting; children, 8-12: too exciting."+

Motion Pic R Jl 36

"Pulsating with life, vigor and rare beauty, this stupendous production can but inspire admiration for its studio work. In no way does the picture seem offensive to good taste, since the action, for the most part takes place in the Barbary Coast. Because of its realism and tenseness the picture is suitable only for adult audiences."+

Nat Council of Jewish Women Jl 1 '36

"Again a background of the legendary Barbary Coast with a vibrant mixture of drama, faith and love is portrayed with deep sincerity,... The addition of Jeanette MacDonald's glorious voice and Spencer Tracy's screen enlargement. General patronage."+

Nat Legion of Decency Jl 2 '36

"A: extraordinary; T: good; C: too mature for many adults; 14-18: beyond; 8-14: no." Parents' M p70 S '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
"It offers outstanding entertainment, reaching its breathtaking climax in the fire and earthquake disaster, which is a masterpiece of realistic and spectacular production, so convincing that it is almost painful to the spectator. Adults & young people.

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST 97

"San Francisco, Excitements, to writing, outstanding part. illuminating that full great remarkable this skipping +.

"A fine-tempered man, a man of beauty, a man of the people.

"The newspaper and magazine reviews show that the picture is one of vigorous entertainment that holds its audience for a full two hours, a part of which is spent in romance, music and the spectacle of the earthquake. The result is a production that is far superior to fine-tempers entertainment. The result is worth the money for the pleasure it gives." E. F. Middle

Boston Transcript p4 Je 27 '36

"It is a combination of strong story, fine casting, some good singing and dancing, an appeal to heart and mind, to eye and ear, to the aesthetic and the taste of the average man on the street—with a smash finish—these are the elements that make a genuine triumph of 'San Francisco.' " Laura Elston

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"For adults with a taste for raw meat garnished with pastry, and a representation of the great fire for climax." E. C. S.

"Christian Science Monitor p15 Je 27 '36

"Truly a great achievement... 'San Francisco' is Jeannette MacDonald's picture. The talented and beautiful young woman amazes us with the wide range of her versatility and the most impressive dialogue in the production is that spoken by her eyes and interpreted by the expression of her face. Her show is illuminating but not superior to fine-tempers entertainment. The result is not one that lends itself to the actor's particular talents. As for Jeannette MacDonald, she is almost completely nonplussed by the proceedings. When she is chunting rag-time ditties in a Barby Coast cabaret she is engaging and believable, but there is not much to be said for her renditions of operatic fragments when the camera fails to bring out the qualities of her voice. She achieves no power in her straight acting." Howard Barnes

San Francisco Chronicle p22 Ag 8 '36

"There are two things which make 'San Francisco' well worth going miles to see: the singing of Jeannette MacDonald and the astounding earthquake sequences toward the end. I again doff a reverential derby to Hollywood technicians. This scene is a notable general set-up. Again we have an utterly untrue and beglamoured picture of the Barbary Coast. No children." Don Herold

Life p29 S '36

"It is a vigorous, dramatic motion-picture moving steadily toward a climax without complicity of thedebut." + + Lit Digest p18 Ji 11 '36

"An excellent technical job which reaffirms W. S. Van Dyke's title of Hollywood master." + + Nation p10 Ji 25 '36

In this film everybody talks about sin. Spencer Tracy is almost too fine-tuned; he is not much seen; the combination is almost unbelievable but he pulls it off and is about the one really convincing person in the picture. The story is uninspired. The result is worth seeing." New Statesman & Nation p160 Ag 1 '36

"Far removed from the simple and often affecting depiction of the Green Pastures, let this brooding Legion of Deconception of the San Francisco earthquake as an Act of God that brought a flood to California. Mr. Gable and rendered him fit mate for Jeannette MacDonald, the parson's daughter. The synthetic wonders of the earthquake are dazzling enough for the nauseous Miss MacDonald's slyly erotic excitaions induce." Robert Stebbins

"It's a cunningly screened pattern of cinematic hokum. While the narrative is not to be recommended for its dramatic or emotional integrity, W. S. Van Dyke's picture is not bad enough for the nauseous Miss MacDonald's slyly erotic excitations induce." Robert Stebbins

Herald Tribune p22 Ag 8 '36

'The earthquake is one of the most terrifying ever depicted on film. The effects are stunning and the performances of the actors are outstanding. The film is a true representation of the devastation caused by the earthquake and the brave efforts of the people to overcome it.'

"San Francisco" of course is melodrama, and Mr. Van Dyke, what with 'The Thin Man' and a few others, has proved that he knows how to make the best use of scenery. The role is less brittle, less insistent upon comic values than the others. The story of course is really almost artificial, a fact not at all important in a picture which can show so convincingly the destruction of a great city. The picture is overwhelming. With the earthquake scenes, with Miss MacDonald's golden voice and beauty, with the dimpled Mr. Gable in a he-man role, and with Mr. Tracy quietly humorous, quietly powerful as the understanding priest, 'San Francisco' doesn't have to worry much about length or anything else.' Eileen Creelman

Hollywood Spec p12 Jl 4 '36

"This camera record of the quake and fire of 1906 is a technical masterpiece. Seldom has any great catastrophe been imitated with such savage brutality. Many of those ghastly scenes alone 'San Francisco' attains outstanding appeal. Unfortunately, the remainder of the picture is too weak, and the picture is one of the most disgraceful of the year. And Al- lack's one-time Sodom is hardly plausible or touching. The characters are just actors busily skating across the faces of the audience situations. Despite the authentic settings and the efforts of the large and able cast, 'San Francisco' is a total failure, the attempt to make it a picture of the great earthquake sequences. They will shake you right out of your seat." (3½ stars) Beverly Betts

Liberty p28 Ag 8 '36

"The earthquake is a great spectacle, one of the most terrifying ever depicted on film. The effects are stunning and the performances of the actors are outstanding. The film is a true representation of the devastation caused by the earthquake and the brave efforts of the people to overcome it."

"There comes a time in every motion picture review when some words are due. The word is 'Exceptionally Good.' The film being reviewed is 'San Francisco,' and the earthquake sequences are truly remarkable. The performances of the actors are outstanding and the film is a true representation of the devastation caused by the earthquake and the brave efforts of the people to overcome it." Exceptionally Good; Good; Fair; Mediocre; Poor; Exceptionally Poor
SAN FRANCISCO—Continued.

he really has nothing left with which to describe it. Such a photoplay, for example, is the thrilling, graphic, grand entertainment known as 'San Francisco.' Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, and Jeanette MacDonald are the three stars and make no mistake about it, this 'San Francisco' is a great entertainment, a film that is grandly wrought and a spectacle that should and undoubtedly will be bestowed upon it." —William Boehnel

+ N Y World-Telegram p4a Je 27 '36

"Both the Barbary Coast and the Earthquake are obviously rich with screen material, and in M-G-M's big new thriller, 'San Francisco,' all has been combined with the proper results. The quake is all that you could want, and it makes a fine show... The film is well supplied with music— all of which, I must add, I thought Miss MacDonald did very agreeably." —John Mosher

+ New Yorker p56 Jl 4 '36

"'San Francisco' is one of the strangest conglomerations ever welded into a film. It has a lusty story of Barbary Coast days, a love triangle, cabaret dancing, opera, comedy, religion, and a moral, politics, and the 1906 earthquake. Despite these seeming incongruities, this bold-and-true quakescene are amazing... To bring to a conclusion all these diverse stories, long in progress, director W. S. Van Dyke uses the earthquake as a grand climax. Without the rest of the picture, this portion alone would be worth admission price."

+ News-Wk p21 Jl 4 '36

"John Emerson and Bernie Hyman have put over an earthquake more terrifying and destructive than the combined wreckage of the four earthquakes I have experienced. Yes, and in so doing it all but drowned a graceful story, for it is a lovely picture if you can get by with it." —R. W.

Script p9 Je 27 '36

Stage p121 Ag '36

"The earthquake in the real Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer manner, lasts for 20 minutes on the screen and in all respects except casualties no doubt betters its original of 36 years ago. A shrewd compendium of romance and catastrophe, with emphasis on the latter skillfully handled by W. S. Van Dyke, a good-looking, strong Van Dyke. 'San Francisco' is an excellent example of Hollywood's ability to make yesterday's news as exciting as today's."

Time p48 Jl 6 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"The Clark Gable-Jeanette MacDonald starrer emerges as a feature which justifies the $1,000,000 spent by Metro in telling the stirring dramatic tale of 'Frisco in the most glamorous period of its history. Family." + Box Office p27 Jl 4 '36

"In spite of the fact that top billing goes to Gable and Miss MacDonald, the opinion of the greatest number of the critics, yours truly included, is that Spencer Tracy gives a performance which puts him equal billing with the other two. Tracy, as Father Mullin, is magnificent... As far as box-office appeal is concerned, there never was a picture with more, and if any one should doubt my statement, let him look at the records which the picture is piling to the show. It is a 'natural' in every sense of the word." + Canadian Moving Pic Digest p5 Jl 18 '36

"In blazing letters, 'San Francisco' should spell big money... Clark Gable, Jeanette MacDonald, Spencer Tracy, operatic numbers that the whole world knows, old time variety bills, catchy tunes, fascinating characters on the far-famed Barbary Coast, robust romance, and far more, make up this technical and technical and commercial success of the San Francisco earthquake and fire, which will not quickly be forgotten."

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor

A load of entertainment like this can't miss. Miss MacDonald sings opera, church hymns and music hall tunes. It is the best work of her career, and it should give it the highest ranking among the motion picture opera stars."

+ Film Daily p21 Je 26 '36

"With all the elements of a box-office sensation—San Francisco is due for outstanding business everywhere. There is no denying the excellence of its lavish production nor the amazing results achieved by the W. S. Van Dyke team. Nothing nearer perfection in staged effects has ever been attained on the screen than these scenes of the destruction of a city by earthquake and burning."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 Je 23 '36

"Facts tending to establish 'San Francisco' as a great audience entertainment and a great showman's exploitation show are many. The quality of the motivating dramatic, romantic story is striking and its sequences depicting the city's cataclysmic destruction are sensational. It is an impressive tribute to technical genius... The fact that technical excellence brought the preview audience to its feet and the film should provoke wide public attention."

+ Motion Pic Daily p4 Je 24 '36

"A rich, handsome production with strong drama, a very competent supporting cast, this outdoes other Barbary Coast stories in magnificence. Estimate: box office." + Phila Exhibitor p26 Jl 1 '36

"An earthquake, noisy and terrifying and so realistic that the customers will be doing the falling buildings and mentally hurling the crevices that yawn in the studio streets, is 'San Francico's' story. That sequence, quite lengthy, alone is enough, but the picture has other assets and exhibitors can depend on it to do about everything but chop the tickets. Its story basically follows the outline traced previously by 'Frisco Kid' and 'Barbary Coast.' But all comparisons are lost by and will be forgotten in the pictorial catastrophe which breaks in just as the story reaches the peak of its emotional pitch, to set a new high in theatrical violence." + Variety p12 Jl 4 '36

"It will take an earthquake as devastating as the one depicted in 'San Francisco' to keep this picture from kicking over box office records. Production is packed away. Production throughout is lavish with the quake sequence topping anything of this type done on the screen to date."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 Je 23 '36

SATAN MET A LADY. Warner 75min Ag 8 '36

Director: William Dieterle

Based on the novel Maltese Falcon by Dashiell Hammett. The film was previously know as Hard Luck Lassie or called Maltese Falcon based on the novel was released.

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film under title of Hard Luck Dame

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: depends on taste: Y: unwholesome; C: no."

Christian Century p1026 S 9 '36

"[It is] a most entertaining picture. Adults & young people, specialists and technical critics, the picture is a picture of the San Francisco earthquake and fire, which will not quickly be forgotten."

+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Jl 25 '36
NEWSPAPER AND MAGAZINE REVIEWS

Christian Science Monitor p7 S 5 '36

"A poor rewrite of 'The Maltese Falcon' that just stops short of a travesty of itself."

— Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

New York Daily Tribune p19 S 7 '36

"The mad-hatter touch of 'Satan Met A Lady' almost reduces the picture to inanity, and the current vogue among film producers to outdo one another in smart detective fiction may soon reduce audiences if the new Strand offering, with its pseudo wit and artificial situations, is not able to do justice to its material. . . . The strained humor and self-conscious sophistication becomes as exhausting as the addle-doed plot. Nor does Mr. William's smirking and over-studied performance create one's comfort, while Miss Davis walks through her lines languidly."—Marguerite Tazelaar

— N Y Herald Tribune p10 J1 23 '36

"Had Bette Davis walked out on Warner Brothers on reading the script of 'Satan Met A Lady,' her present policy might be at least understandable. She might even have rated sympathy. No one could look on the studio itself. As it is, the Strand feature appears to be, as one spectator expressed it—the 'vulgarity of vengeance on Bette Davis.'"—Eileen Creelman

— N Y Sun p22 J1 23 '36

"If Bette Davis had not effectually espoused her own cause against the Warners recently by quitting her job, the Federal Government eventually would have had to step in and do something about her. After viewing 'Satan Met A Lady,' all thinking people must acknowledge that a 'Bette Davis Reclamation Project' (BDRP) to prevent the waste of this gifted lady should not be too-drear an addition to our various programs for the conservation of natural resources. A cynical farce of elaborate and sustained cheapness, it causes still other intelligent actors and actresses—including Warren William, Arthur Treacher and Alice Sez--to behave like Times Square clowns, and deserves to be quoted as a classic of dullness in future press notices."

— Variety p22 J1 23 '36

"The important thing about 'Satan Met A Lady' is not so much what happened as a result of the meeting mentioned in the title but rather what happened to a swell Dashiell Hammett novel—"The Maltese Falcon"—when it met a Hollywood scenario writer who evidently had seen all of the cinema's attempts to mix banana with homicide since 'The Thin Man.' The results of this impact, it must be mentioned at once, are pretty distasteful, indeed, terrible. Hollywood has committed many major crimes when transferring plays and books to the screen, but has been known to be a little more merciful to such a misdemeanor as in this instance. . . . Although Miss Davis' performance in 'Of Human Bondage' was delayed Academy prize for acting, her work as the blood killer will not, I fear, bring her any further recognition. As for Mr. William's, well, it 'may be the drop the whole matter.'—William Boehnel

— N Y World-Telegram p10 J1 23 '36

"The 1938 version is vastly inferior to the 1931 version of the film, 'Satan Met A Lady' is a little turgid, if ever so slightly. For one thing, it suffers from a severe case of 'Thin Man' trouble—unbearably cute writing, direction, and acting. There's no use going into the thing any further, except to serve notice on Warner Brothers that if they produce "The Maltese Falcon' a third time, under a third name, it will all my friends will be very much annoyed."—Russell Maloney

— New Yorker p39 Ag 1 '36

"'The Thin Man' set a new style in detective pictures. 'Satan Met A Lady' is the thinnest imitation of it so far recorded, remarkable chiefly because Dashiell Hammett was author of the stories from which the situations were adapted. A frayed tassel from Hollywood's lunatic fringe, it includes performances by Warren William as a 'seriously' whimsical detective and Bette Davis, last year's Academy Award winner, in the tripping role of a jewel thief."

— Time p29 Ag 3 '36

TRADE PAPER REVIEWS

"Even though the story is by the author of 'The Thin Man' this programmer fails to compare favorably with the former in entertainment. . . ."

— + Box Office p29 Ag 1 '36

"This [is] a fairly amusing production. Getting off to a rather confused start and frequently departing from its main course, the yarn holds interest chiefly by the performances of a good cast, which for the most part is obliged to perform for less glamorous roles."

— Film Daily p7 J1 23 '36

"An absurd travesty murder mystery that has no rhyme or reason except to garner laughs, which it does at the expense of any shred of probability or clarity. Most of the players are involved in roles that multiply the general effect of insanity on the loose. . . . The sole entertainment inherent in its comedy lines, which are sometimes forced, occasionally lost in their delivery, but often genuinely comic. This is, however, no enough to save the opus from quick obsolescence."

— Hollywood Reporter p3 J1 30 '36

"[It is] a dashing, frivolous, almost amazing mystery film, with a wild sort of comedy predominating. It is a picture which in all probability, will be called utterly insane by some persons, and completely entertaining by others. . . . William tries hard to be gay as the eccentric gem hunter, and with consummate success, makes the picture move in farces."

— Motion Pict Daily p4 J1 21 '36

"Weirdly amusing, that class may only appreciate. . . . This is a mild remake of 'The Maltese Falcon.' . . . Chances are an outright revision might have worked out better. . . . Where the detective of 'Maltese Falcon' and his activities were natural and amusing, he and his satiric crime detection are now forced and unnatural. . . . William tries hard to be gay as the eccentric private cop and his performance is all that keeps the picture moving in lagering cases."

— Variety p14 J1 29 '36

"[It] will have to do plenty to eke out a box office existence. It's nonsensical comedy, but something besides the dialog, action and direction. All players including leads work enthusiastically, but at the same time appear to be under handicap."

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 J1 30 '36

SECOND WIFE. RKO 60min Ag 21 '36

Players: Walter Abel, Gertrude Michael, Eric Rhodes

Director: Edward Killy

Based on a play All the King's Men by Fulton Oursler. This is a remake of an earlier film which starred Conrad Nagel. "Abel, [the father of] the marriage Mr. Michael and feeling the younger will not understand, sends him away to school in Switzerland. She is about to have a child when word comes of the boy's illness, and he, without thinking of his wife, goes to his son's bedside. (Motion Pict Daily)

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
SECOND WIFE—Continued.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Altho lacking in subtlety and variety, the direction is adequate and the photography interesting. Socially, it is constructive in that it does its best against selfishness and jealousy; technically, it is a great improvement over the earlier version of the same picture."
— Calif Cong of Par & Teachers.

"Its vindication is intelligently handled and dignified by the wife's lack of pettiness when she might still continue to take advantage of the situation. The material is particularly well chosen cast. Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Good. Adults." DAR

"An appealing social drama ably handled by an excellent cast under skillful direction. Audiences over 14." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul Ag 22 '36

"Adults & young people." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ag 10 '36

Jt Estimates Ag 15 '36

"Family." Nat Council of Jewish Women S 1 '36

"Adults." Nat Legion of Decency Ag 13 '36

"Family-mature." Sel Motion Pict S 1 '36

"Handled calmly and without melodramatic flourishes, it treats a frequent problem sympathetically if not too profoundly." + — Wdly Guide Ag 7 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Domestic drama which in long scenes of doll talk ponders the tribulations of the second wife. In her efforts to take up domestic duties under the shadow of the first spouse." — Christian Science Monitor p13 Ag 29 '36

"The problems that confront the young bride of a widower with a child are set forth in listless fashion. Although the new film is a ponderous adaptation of 'All the King's Men' it does manage to build sympathy for the optimistic bride. The principal roles are capably performed by Gertrude Michael and Walter Abel." T. M. P.

+ — N Y Times p16 Ag 29 '36

"[It] is related in a tedious manner. Although the characters are identifiable as types and the problem which almost ruins their marriage, a logical one, the film has an irritating quality about it for the simple reason that instead of presenting its drama in a forthright and entertaining manner it does so ponderously and in a deliberate assault on the heart strings." William Boehnel

— N Y World Telegram p31 S 2 '36

"On the sentimental side, but better than average." + — News-Wk p29 Ag 22 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Mildly entertaining domestic drama, with cast doing its best against story odds." + — Film Daily p6 Ag 11 '36

"Meant to be a serious study of the stepmother situation, this picture is so bad that the preview audience tittered, hissed, roared and applauded in derision throughout. The basic material is sound dramatic material but its handling in almost all departments is so ineffective that it will scarcely get by as a support number in the lesser neighborhoods."
— Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 31 '36

"A more or less routine effort ... this picture is some story entertainment of the type which usually has its greatest appeal to the feminine contingent. ... The selling should concentrate on the thematic material and be designed to attract women specifically." + — Motion Pict Daily p7 Ag 4 '36

"This is drama with few highlights. ... With few surprises, program all the way, it shapes up as usual-run-of-the-mill fare. Estimate: fair program." + — Exhibitor p36 Ag 15 '36

"Domestic piece enacted by a good cast, but retarded through flat story telling and unneeded at a sluggish pace. Very little punch to marital snags as jelled into film, with players themselves much too chic and sophisticated for the trite motivations and no lustre to the names for marquee spread. For the dualists." + — Variety p17 Ag 19 '36

SECRET AGENT. Gaumont British Smin Je 15 '36

Players: Peter Lorre Madeleine Carroll.

Robert Young. John Gielgud.

Director: Alfred Hitchcock

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Adults & young people." E Coast Preview Committee

Fox W Coast Bul Ji 18 '36

"Adults." Nat Council of Jewish Women Ji 15 '36

"A and Y: fair spy drama; C: not recommended." — Parents' M p48 Ag '36

"A production which is somewhat marred by jerkiness in development and an occasional lack of smoothness in the screen narrative has, nevertheless, great merit as entertainment because of a cleverly contrived plot, developed with flashes of brilliant direction, in an atmosphere of mounting terror and excitement. Adults & young people." + — Motion Pict Ji 1 '36

"Recommended to the Committee on Exceptional Photoplays." + — Wdly Guide Ji 18 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The film is not so successful as the roster of distinguished names associated with its production seems to guarantee. It appears to drag when it should move swiftly. Its changes of mood in the opening scenes are disconcerting. The acting in general and the presence of Mr. Gielgud in particular are its most appealing attributes." E. F. M.

+ — Boston Transcript p6 Ji 11 '36

" 'The Secret Agent' ought to be a better picture than it is"— Alfred Hitchcock, who directed the picture, 'Stops' also made 'The Secret Agent,' and there is a great similarity about his treatment and direction in these two." Laura Elston

+ — Canadian M p30 S '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

“Alfred Hitchcock . . . has failed in this instance to sustain cumulative interest in a complicated plot interspersed with repellent touches.”

— Christian Science Monitor p13 JI 11 '36

There is no reason why the English should not even the world with the motion picture manufacturing business. They are still frequently amanuensis in the technique of the cinema, and a dozen of dialogue. Marguerite Tazelaar

— N Y Herald Tribune p12 Ag 29 '36

“[It] is a mystery melodrama that might have come from Hollywood instead of Rome. The actors are young and handsome, the pace stepped up far faster than most continental pictures, and the comedy relief always more important than sentiment. For all that, [it] stands comparison only with California’s minor films. The picture’s chief lack lies in the plot itself, with the handling of suspense and climax.” Eileen Creelman

+ — N Y Sun Ag 18 '36

“A happy combination of mystery and humor, which moves fast and holds the interest right up to the unexpected dénouement in the last reel, has arrived from Italy.” H. T. S.

+ — N Y Times p9 Ag 17 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Very enjoyable and fast-moving combination of murder mystery and comedy, with a surprise finish that delighted audiences everywhere.”

+ Film Daily p16 Ag 18 '36

“A finely executed production from Italian studios, this picture will be good entertainment for audiences who understand the language. A fast tempo creates exciting atmosphere and carries the story forward rapidly without any sub-division.”

+ Motion Pict Daily p12 Ag 20 '36

“[It is] a fairly good murder mystery . . . Direction is pretty even and the performances satisfactory. A virtue of the work of the cast members is the restraint shown. [There is] much less over-acting to be found in this foreign-made than in most of them.”

+ — Variety p17 Ag 19 '36

SEVEN BRAVE MEN. Amkino 91min Je 14 '36

Players: X. Bogolybov, T. Makarova, I. Novoseltzev

Director: S. Gerasimov

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“It boasts good performances and a pervading wholesomeness that is a relief from the sultry air of the usual Hollywood product, but in the main it is too confused and tentative, both in direction and purpose, to reach the high level set by the Soviet film masters.”

+ — New Theatre p29 JI 36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Arctic expedition drama with some thrilling action of the elemental variety helped by good photography and capable acting.”

+ Film Daily p12 Je 18 '36

“Lenfilm failed to cash in on a swell opportunity in America by allowing this adventure film to run about 30 minutes overboard. Judicious cutting, added to the fact that it’s a foreign import, might have put ‘Seven Brave Men’ in the money class.”

Variety p15 Je 21 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; ++ Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

IL SERPENTE A SONAGLI. Nuovo Mondo 70min Ag 16 '36

Director: Raffaello Matarazzo

Italian dialogue film, with English sub-titles, made in Rome and known also as The Serpent’s Fang. Battlessnake. The plot tells how a teacher, crabbled and tormented by her ill-adjustment to her profession and fear that her secret love affair will be discovered by the head matron, is mysteriously poisoned. Clews point to various pupils, for she is generally held in pity and sympathy as a good-looking police inspector takes charge of the case, and, in an adroit fashion, solves it, finally.” (N Y Herald Tribune)

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“While the new and inappropriately called ‘Serpent’s Fang’ is not the brilliant picture it might have been, it is a long step ahead of the mediocrities Italy has been exporting to its little picture house, the Cine-Roma, during the last few months. . . . The piece is disappointing, reminding one, perhaps subconsciously of how sensitive and absorbing that other, German, story [‘Maedchen in Uniform’] was.” Marguerite Tazelaar

+ — N Y Herald Tribune p12 Ag 20 '36

“Film will be good entertainment for audiences who understand the language. A fast tempo creates exciting atmosphere and carries the story forward rapidly without any sub-division.”

+ Motion Pict Daily p12 Ag 20 '36

“[It is] a fairly good murder mystery . . . Direction is pretty even and the performances satisfactory. A virtue of the work of the cast members is the restraint shown. [There is] much less over-acting to be found in this foreign-made than in most of them.”

+ — Variety p17 Ag 19 '36

SEVEN BRAVE MEN. Amkino 91min Je 14 '36

Players: X. Bogolybov, T. Makarova, I. Novoseltzev

Director: S. Gerasimov

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“It boasts good performances and a pervading wholesomeness that is a relief from the sultry air of the usual Hollywood product, but in the main it is too confused and tentative, both in direction and purpose, to reach the high level set by the Soviet film masters.”

+ — New Theatre p29 JI 36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Arctic expedition drama with some thrilling action of the elemental variety helped by good photography and capable acting.”

+ Film Daily p12 Je 18 '36

“Lenfilm failed to cash in on a swell opportunity in America by allowing this adventure film to run about 30 minutes overboard. Judicious cutting, added to the fact that it’s a foreign import, might have put ‘Seven Brave Men’ in the money class.”

Variety p15 Je 21 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; ++ Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

IL SERPENTE A SONAGLI. Nuovo Mondo 70min Ag 16 '36

Director: Raffaello Matarazzo

Italian dialogue film, with English sub-titles, made in Rome and known also as The Serpent’s Fang. Battlessnake. The plot tells how a teacher, crabbled and tormented by her ill-adjustment to her profession and fear that her secret love affair will be discovered by the head matron, is mysteriously poisoned. Clews point to various pupils, for she is generally held in pity and sympathy as a good-looking police inspector takes charge of the case, and, in an adroit fashion, solves it, finally.” (N Y Herald Tribune)

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“While the new and inappropriately called ‘Serpent’s Fang’ is not the brilliant picture it might have been, it is a long step ahead of the mediocrities Italy has been exporting to its little picture house, the Cine-Roma, during the last few months. . . . The piece is disappointing, reminding one, perhaps subconsciously of how sensitive and absorbing that other, German, story [‘Maedchen in Uniform’] was.” Marguerite Tazelaar

+ — N Y Herald Tribune p12 Ag 20 '36

“Film will be good entertainment for audiences who understand the language. A fast tempo creates exciting atmosphere and carries the story forward rapidly without any sub-division.”

+ Motion Pict Daily p12 Ag 20 '36

“[It is] a fairly good murder mystery . . . Direction is pretty even and the performances satisfactory. A virtue of the work of the cast members is the restraint shown. [There is] much less over-acting to be found in this foreign-made than in most of them.”

+ — Variety p17 Ag 19 '36

SEVEN BRAVE MEN. Amkino 91min Je 14 '36

Players: X. Bogolybov, T. Makarova, I. Novoseltzev

Director: S. Gerasimov

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“It boasts good performances and a pervading wholesomeness that is a relief from the sultry air of the usual Hollywood product, but in the main it is too confused and tentative, both in direction and purpose, to reach the high level set by the Soviet film masters.”

+ — New Theatre p29 JI 36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Arctic expedition drama with some thrilling action of the elemental variety helped by good photography and capable acting.”

+ Film Daily p12 Je 18 '36

“Lenfilm failed to cash in on a swell opportunity in America by allowing this adventure film to run about 30 minutes overboard. Judicious cutting, added to the fact that it’s a foreign import, might have put ‘Seven Brave Men’ in the money class.”

Variety p15 Je 21 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; ++ Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
SEVEN SINNERS. Gaumont British 70min Ag 15 '36

Players. Edmund Lowe, Constance Cummings, Robert Lowery, Henry Oscar

Director: Albert de Courville

This is a remake of a silent film called The Wrecker. When Lowe, an American detective discovers a dead man in his hotel room at Nice, he determines to track the guilty person. With the help of an English girl he runs into a series of accidents and narrow escapes which take them to England.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The direction is deft, smooth and competent, the story and acting is excellent. 'Seven Sinners' is an English film remarkable in that it has no cluster of stars, no midnight preview, no big press campaign, but is a competent, sparkling, fast-moving, well directed and well acted film. 'Seven Sinners' makes no film history, but is worth seeing."

+ New Statesman & Nation p192 Ag 8 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"To date, the average English film has been far below the average American in technique, story and acting. There is a European flavor to English films. 'Seven Sinners' is an English film remarkable in that it has no cluster of stars, no midnight preview, no big press campaign, but is a competent, sparkling, fast-moving, well directed and well acted film. 'Seven Sinners' makes no film history, but is worth seeing." + Wkly Guide Ag 22 '36

"The British cinema continues to demonstrate its flair for melodrama in 'Seven Sinners.' Horribly realistic in its presentation, the film is a masterpiece of British direction and acting. 'Seven Sinners' is a skillfully constructed and vastly entertaining screen thriller." Howard Barnes + N Y Herald Tribune p6 Ag 22 '36

"The Roxy is billing . . . 'Seven Sinners' as the successor to 'The Thirty-Nine Steps.' This is a bit on the strong side. But here there is an unmistakable resemblance to the Hitchcock melodrama in the picture's rapid direction, urbanity and cleverness . . . On its own merits, a crisp, humorous and deeply turned murder mystery. If imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, Alfred Hitchcock has been thoroughly flattered by 'Seven Sinners.'" F. S. Nugent + N Y Times p6 Ag 22 '36

"The Roxy has been an admirable rendezvous for the mystery films the British, wisely, keep feeding us home. In a novel way, 'Seven Sinners,' its current [mystery], which is a lot of palaver about some nice people who go around wrecking trains. . . . Mr. Lowe portrays the detective with a minimum of mugging. . . Poor Miss Cummings has nothing to do but look O. K., which must pull upon her, too." Douglas Gilbert + N Y World-Telegram p15 Ag 24 '36

"Wrecking of trains is a pastime with which the characters are totally unfitted to deal. The train of this film no one should be in any doubt upon that point. The picture, however, would have been salvageable if less suspense and less acting were put for the dialogue. All the way through this is light and amusing, and maintaining this level the improbable and preposterous story are kept at arm's length." Mark Forrest + Sat P192 Ag 8 '36

Reviewed by Herb Sterne under Ag Date S 12 '36

"Like Hitchcock, de Courville injects a predominant note of humor in his film; and like Hitchcock, he attains his effects by special photographic tricks, deftly juxtaposing horror and humor, tragedy and amusement. . . Both Constance Cummings and Edmund Lowe are likable and lively, and add an American gusto to an otherwise all-English production." Stage pl21 Ag 36

"Seven Sinners" is a frank attempt to duplicate the successes of last year's English good Gaumont British comic-melodrama 'The Thirty-Nine Steps.' Pursuing a bland course through the familiar sequences of excitement, love, crime and fenton eventually dig through the intrigues of a bogus reform group, pin the crimes on the suspect and add copious doses of action and luxury for those cineaddicts who want their mysteries solved with explicit completeness, is about the only unsatisfying thing in the picture." Time p23 Ag 31 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Without a doubt the fastest-moving picture ever to issue from an English studio, this comedy-drama has the additional advantages of sparkling dialogue, several hair-breadth escapes and crack performances by Edmund Lowe and Constance Cummings." + Box Office Ag 22 '36

"Gaumont-British have turned out one of the crispest and most sparkling murder mysteries ever screened, and 'Seven Sinners' has that same rare atmosphere that made 'The Thin Man' so delightful." Variety-Film Daily p6 Ji 31 '36

"[It] succeeded in sustaining audience interest in spite of a badly knit story. A good deal of humorous dialogue, almost entirely irrelevancy, is the main thread, cleverly introduced and forms a distinctly welcome relief from the generally pervading drama. Another highly entertaining product is the series of screen smashers, breath-takingly realistic and comparing with anything of the type yet seen on the screen. Edmund Lowe . . . gives an eminently satisfying performance. Constance Cummings, on the other hand, has an unconvincing role which could have been interpreted by any young feminine player possessed of a modicum of ability. . . The picture has a highly creditable appeal for the not too discriminating masses." + Hollywood Reporter p6 Ji 11 '36

"Real action drama with three sensational train wrecks masterfully directed by Albert de Courville and featuring Edmund Lowe and Constance Cummings, with an excellent supporting cast. Suspense, comedy and action are combined to make satisfactory entertainment to lovers of thrillers. . . . [It is] an all-round entertaining amusing and exciting picture." + Motion Pic Daily p8 Ji 6 '36

"This is a weirdly suspenseful drama in the '39 Steps' tradition. Estimate: fair melodrama." + Exhibitor p57 Ji 6 '36

"This British effort at a detective story in the light, flippanh manner has more of the correct trimmings, but the story doesn't bear up under American examination. It must be said, however, that it rests its case on Edmund Lowe and Constance Cummings, and that's not sufficient." + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; + Poor; + Exceptionally Poor Lowes's lighthearted flatfoot role is nicely worded and that will be 'Seven Sinners's biggest asset on this side. On the other side of the ledger is the case which he solves; It's too heavy to blend well with a basically comic characterization. On production and technical work, the picture is big time. But still it's only dual fodder for over here.'

— Variety p20 Ag 29 '36

THE SHADOW. Globe 60min
Players: Henry Kendall, Elizabeth Allan.
Director: George Cooper
Filmed in England. Based on the novel of the same title by Donald Stuart. A mystery story with a Scotland Yard background.

Audience Suitability Ratings
"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency Je 18 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"This one is relegated to the secondary spots. The story is weak and lacks most of the essentials that will make up successful pictures of this type. Its cast struggles along with situations that are never well-woven, while the direction is of the spotty variety."
— Film Daily p1 Je 27 '36

"This has a reasonably good element of mystery, but for [the U.S.] market is seriously handicapped by the heavily accented speech, some of which is almost unintelligible. . . In general it is only average mystery."
+ — Motion Pic Daily p1 Je 27 '36

"Estimate: for neighborhoods, twin bills."
Phila Exhibitor p30 Ji 15 '36

"Wordly Scotland Yard murder mystery. . . done by English cast in slipshod manner. Aside from feeble marquee possibilities (Elizabeth Allan, alone worthy of plugging), this film is too mediocre to please [patrons] even when inside. Looks headed for meager returns on secondary double-program niche."
— Variety p25 Ji 1 '36

(s) SHAKE MR. SHAKESPEARE. Vitaphone 60min Ag 22 '36
Players: Carolyn Marsh, Allen Mann.
Director: Roy Mack
When a film producer orders an assistant to read all of Shakespeare's plays in one night and to report on them in the morning, the assistant has a nightmare in which Cleopatra, Romeo, and Marc Anthony play each other's roles with Hollywood modern touches.

Trade Paper Reviews
"A satire with ultra-modern trimmings on some of Shakespeare's works, with everything but the kitchen sink thrown on the stage. It 'different,' this not only will go over the heads of most audiences but it contains little real entertainment. . . . And Cleopatra, Macbeth, Henry VIII, Romeo and Juliet, Puck and others 'go Hollywood', with unsensational results."
— Box Office p27 Ji 25 '36

"A pretentious two-reeler, done with a fantastic touch and with a comedy slant throughout."
Film Daily p8 Ji 3 '36

"At its best it is mildly entertaining."
— + Motion Pic Daily p8 Ji 6 '36

SHAKEDOWN. Columbia 57min Ji 17 '36
Players: Lew Ayres, Joan Perry, Thurston Hall.
Director: David Selman
When an heiress falls in love with a poor man, her father offers him an important job in his company. The young man refuses but does accept a job as messenger-boy. The girl agrees to a kidnapping hoax, thinking it will help the young man. When the hoax turns out to be a real kidnapping, the messenger rescues her.

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A: mediocre; Y: hardly; C: no."
Christian Century 115 S 2 '36

"It is a fast-moving, exciting melodrama. Smooth direction, a capable cast, interesting story and maintenance of suspense to the end. Family."
+ — Nat Council of Jewish Women Ag 5 '36

"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency Ag 6 '36

"Smooth, exciting entertainment. Family."
+ — Se Motion Pic Ag 1 '36

"Family."
Wky Guide Ji 25 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
Christian Science Monitor p13 Ag 29 '36

"As a footnote on minor operations it is our duty to report that 'Shakedown' [is] a fast, scarcely furious, but pleasantly pretentious contribution from Columbia Pictures. [It is] a dead cert for second spot on a double-feature bill." — F. S. Nugent

N Y Times p9 Ag 17 '36

Mr. Ayres' presentation of Bob is about as real as a white elephant, which is no censure at all, for the picture is a sticky little yarn about as profound as an engraving on a pin. Joan Perry's Edith Stuart is a pouty little sweetie and an occasional nuisance, which probably isn't her fault, either... 'Shakedown is a 'program pleased—a dubious term I was never able to figure. It is variously defined as routine tripe for the grinds, and not to be taken too seriously, but you could never get Columbia, who produced this one, or any of the studios to admit it." — Douglas Gilbert

— N Y World-Telegram p13a Ag 18 '36

"Its familiar ingredients are badly jumbled."
— Time p42 Ji 27 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"[It is] a mediocre mystery. Family."
+ — Box Office p29 Ag 1 '36

"[It is a] fairly entertaining little program picture with story in action tempo okay for popular houses."
— Film Daily p16 Ag 18 '36

"This is a fast-moving pretentious formula melodrama of the shakedown racket. Well acted and briskly directed it is engaging entertainment that will keep non-discriminating audiences at close attention and shapes up as good support material for popular houses."
— Hollywood Reporter p5 Ag 26 '36

"A melodramatic effort of the shakedown racket, this should be reasonably satisfying and provide fair entertainment. The action is well paced and fairly well kept up."
— Motion Pic Daily p15 Ag 18 '36

"Estimate: for neighborhoods, twin bills."
Phila Exhibitor p31 Ag 1 '36

"This is a typical semi-gangster film, full of time-worn angles, a make-believe snatch and eventually a murder mystery. It smacks..."
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

SHAKEDOWN—Continued
strongly of hurried preparation and shows it in execution. The picture obviously is intended for second-rate spots and young people with whom it will have the family on the seats’ edges.
+ — Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 6 ’36

SHE-DEVIL ISLAND. Grand national 64min Je 1 ’36
Players: Native cast
Director: Rafael Sevilla
Dialogue film made on a Mexican island. "A young man leaves his island home and his fishing to seek a fortune in pearls." (Nat Id of R M)

Audience Suitability Ratings
"Mature."
Nat Bd of R M Je ’36
"Picturesque scenery is the only redeeming feature of the film. Adults."
+ Nat Legion of Decency Je 11 ’36
"An interesting picture. Excellent photography of the sea, interesting native dancing and good singing. Mature."
+ Wkly Guide My 30 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews
"Houses that go in for exploitation specials will find something up their alley in this attraction. . . There is a good deal of action and suspense, plus colorful background and good photography, and the novelty of the production recommends it as a bit of something on the beaten track." + Film Daily p7 Ag 29 ’36
"From Mexico has come this melodrama, a picture that can stand big exploitation. . . The picture is a credit to Mexican production, with some fine singing, Fiesta scenes, one torrid dance number, beautiful photography. Some mediocre photography bits, some difficulty in the dialogue are found, but these are overshadowed by the picture’s good points." + Phila Exhibitor p22 Je 1 ’36

SING, BABY, SING. 29th century-Fox 90min Ag 21 ’36
Players: Alice Faye, Adolphe Menjou, Gregory Ratoff, Ted Healy, Patsy Kelly, Michael Spainard
Director: Sidney Lanfield
Music and lyrics: Lew Pollack. Jack Yellen
Music director: Louis Silver
"Story has to do with Miss Faye, a night club dancer, manager, Ratoff, tries to get her fame through having her mixed up with Menjou, a drunken actor from Hollywood in New York. Affair gets out of control when Menjou’s manager drags him back to Hollywood. Then starts a train-and-plane chase across the continent with Miss Faye asking for an apology." (Variety (Hollywood)

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A: stupid; Y: not good; C: no."
Christian Century p1026 S 9 ’36

“Although well-directed and well-played, there is little opportunity for outstanding individuality. Quite a bit of good music and a romantic, poetic flavor. Good direction by the director, in the family department, will have the family on the seats.”
+ — Variety p16 Ag 19 ’36

"Evidently aimed at dual bills, Columbia’s ‘Shakedown’ falls exactly in lap of the double spots, but on the under side. It’s well written, nicely directed, acted and produced, but it’s too formula-built to take the big handfuls. It’s nice entertainment for the family and in the not-too-doo-doo spots will be the family on the seats’ edges." + — Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 6 ’36

"Mediocre.*"
DAR

She-Devil Island, an interesting picture, with excellent photography of the sea, interesting dancing and good singing. Mature.

"An amusing comedy of a Hollywood star. Excellent satire, good dialogue, and superb comedy by the Ritz Brothers. It is regrettable that only a few laughs intended, and no other delightful picture from being placed in the A-1 classification, Adults.”
+ Nat Council of Jewish Women Ag 5 ’36

"Very funny comedy about a middle-aged screen Romeo who becomes involved with a young singer. . . Amusing dialogue, good singing and dancing."
+ Wkly Guide Ag 22 ’36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"Sing, Baby, Sing" which Twentieth Century-Fox insists is not based on a recent headline romance—is a wildly hilarious farce that gallops along its musical course to the loud accompaniment of incessant laughter. A boisterous, completely insane show, the picture tells its story with a breathless gusto that includes no feeling or sentiment. But for swiftly moving entertainment in sarcasm mood this comes as an outstanding treat. . . "Sing, Baby, Sing" which has its most delightful moments from the Ritz Brothers, a knockabout trio whose dazzling debut marks them for either a lunatic asylum or great acclaim." (9½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p3 S 12 ’36

"Motion-picture musical comedies, as a result of overflow, have become as a pound of butter. Shattering the vague ennui which most of them arouse. "Sing, Baby, Sing" is the least luminous of a musical frivolity. It begins at high tempo, winds up like a siren to a shrill climax, and not in any foot of which does it lag perceptibly. . . It presents to the screen a manic trio, the Ritz Brothers, if they accomplishing nothing else, these superb loons will force the celebrated Marx Brothers to sharpen their wits

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

P105

and routines... The surprise of the film is Adolphe Menjou, who long ago added sly comedy to his knapsack of tricks. Nunny turns in 'Sing, Baby, Sing,' and he is seen as a complete Shakespearean ham actor, pompous, ridiculous, and exceedingly funny... Lit Digest p24 Ag 22 '36

"A brilliantly amusing caricature of a film actor by Adolphe Menjou lends comic distinction to a medley of lively,needle-turn virtuosity in 'Sing, Baby, Sing.' [Menjou] is superbly funny. It takes subtle restraint and knowing assurance to realize that Adolphe, Menjou has brought both qualities to the role... Although the Ritz Brothers, with their mad and funning, the irrepressible Miss Kelly in Mr. Healy at his most triumphant do the principal work in supplementing Mr. Menjou's antics, the whole company is splendid. Michael Whelan is excellent as the reporter." Howard Barnes + N Y Herald Tribune p8 S 12 '36

"Darryl F. Zanuck and Twentieth Century-Fox have contrived a sly, irresponsible medley which is at least as good as the average program picture and finds itself in the upper brackets for the season," P. T. N Y Sun p19 S 12 '36

"'Sing, Baby, Sing,' [is] one of the most amusing pictures shown at the Roxy this year. Darryl Zanuck's nimble company has developed it with keen relish for its absurdities and has entrusted its production to a group of astounded clowns and madcaps... Mr. Menjou is boisterously funny." F. S. Nugent + N Y Times p29 S 12 '36

"Here it is at the Roxy, a musical film so tuneful, fast and amusing that it immediately goes on the top of your list of photoplays that must be seen. It is a homey, personal trifle (Darryl Zanuck certainly gets his nickel's worth out of the daily paper). High-jinks run wild. Three eccentricities billed as the Ritz Brothers devastate the possibilities with a knockabout comedy routine which includes, poise, haranguing personalities as Harry Richman, Ted Lewis and Freddie March. Ted Healy does his famous magician act and it's as fun, as funny, for he has Patsy Kelly to stooge for him." Herb Sterne + Script p11 Ag 22 '36

"Adorned with able comics... full of good tunes..." Time p23 Ag 31 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"One of the wof comedy hits of the year. It has music and has laughs... it has a trio of musical clowns..." + Box Office p31 Ag 15 '36

"It's all good for whatever might have allayed you. It should carry a 'before and after taking sign,' and the results—would just be grand." L. S. Niemeyer + Canadian Moving Pic Digest p10 S '36

"This picture introduces a wof comedy trio, the Ritz Brothers, and they present a show that should be heavy box-office in any kind of house... Gregory Ratoff, with his dialect, takes the lead, putting a smile on Adolphe Menjou as the drunken actor is swell, Alice Faye does her songs well, and Ted Healy and Patsy Kelly have some authority. The movie numbers are all very good and should be very popular." + Film Daily p7 Apr 1 '36

"Here's a grand boxoffice bundle of buffoonery-with-music that rates away up top for speed and laughter. It will keep theater lills jingling merrily with smash takes in all classes and audiences in hilarious mood for its full 90 minutes... the actor's cast carries the loony doings to hilarious heights and registered several comedy performances beyond all previous achievements... The picture will definitely set up box office records. It has that audience wants for entertainment, plus some performances you will want to hang your exploitation kite to... Promise your patrons more laughs and solid entertainment that they have had in a picture for a long time..." + Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 1 '36

"Sing, Baby, Sing' merits top rung on the filmusical ladder. It is tuneful and smart and its tunes exceptionally good for exhibitor plugs... The performances by the entire cast are smooth and ably executed, guided by directorial tempo and gusto which kept a preview audience raring throughout from footlights to the rear of the balcony..." + Motion Pict Daily p6 Ag 3 '36

"Strong on comedy, with music to help, filled with people whom audiences should want to see, 'Sing, Baby, Sing' looks and sounds as smart as it is... Audiences should like it. Estimate: good..." + Phila Exhibitor p36 Ag 15 '36

"Logically contrived, 'Sing, Baby, Sing' can stand up with the screen's best musical comedies. It's put. It's box office in any language. With a cast of names and a flock of selling angles it should have no trouble setting grosses..." + Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 1 '36

SINS OF MAN. 20th century-Fox $5min My 29 '36

Directors: Otto Brower. Gregory Ratoff

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film.

Audience Suitability Ratings

'A: fine of kind; Y: very sad; C: not for them.'

Christian Century p975 Jl '36

"The picture is sincere and deserves respect. It needs more restrained direction... This is not a film for those who like to be cheered laddled, but it has a human interest, Suitability: adults & adolescents..."

+ — Mo Film Bul p106 Je '36

"A: powerful human interest drama; Y: sombre in tone; C: no..." + Parents' M p45 Jl '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"As a character study, 'Sins of Man'... is a remarkable piece of work—sensitive, artistic and exceedingly harrowing... A sudden downpour, but it will keep you going... sending one away, moist-eyed yet not dissatisfied. If entertainment is the criterion for film merit, 'Sins of Man,' is not so much good cinema as it is an interesting character study..." E. F. Melvin + Hey Tomorrow Transcript p7 Je 20 '36

"An excursion into the past in title and style of story, with Jean Hersholt by sheer authority and benevolence making engrossing the part of a priest-scrivener who during the French Revolution... trying to persistently sad for some tastes." E. C. S. + — Christian Science Monitor p33 Je 20 '36

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; + Poor; +—— Exceptionally Poor
SINS OF MAN—Continued

"Jean Hersholt is a fine actor, but they put in a hokey show this trip. . . This is a sad, soggy, sentimental picture, with a certain amount of rambling involved with it. Everybody around me was having a thoroughly miserable 85 minutes, and I'm sure they'll all think they've entertained, edified and uplifted. Not for children." Don Herold

— Life p26 Ag '36

"In spite of its spiritual turn, 'Sins of Man' does not have it truly gloomy. It is solid, emotional drama of a kind seldom seen on the screen since Herr Jannings gave up his soul and body to a higher form. There is no love interest; but Fox offers as romantic appeal a good-looking young newcomer, Don Ameche, who does pretty well with the part." Eileen Creelman

+ N Y Sun p17 Je 19 '36

"Sins of Man" is a thoroughly sentimental, painstakingly sombre and devastatingly complete portrait of a man in sorrow. While it is uncompromisingly tearful, it happens also to have been splendidly honest and perfectly directed and handsomely produced. Our preference for a more 'contrasty' negative, 'Sins of Man' has blocked in its tragic shadows solidly, courageously ignoring any romantic subplot and only in a few penultimte episodes seeking to bring its heavy theme into clearer relief through recourse to a 'funny' man. Providing this is a more matter-of-fact approach to tragedy than the screen generally employs, and must be encouraged in principle if not in the specific instance, there is still danger in overdoing it." F. S. Nugent

+ — N Y Times p17 Je 19 '36

"There's certainly not one ray of humor in 'Sins of Man' that you could perhaps, if you like 'sad' pictures, here's your prize." John Mosher

New Yorker p73 Je 27 '36

"Aside from [Jean Hersholt] the film has no box-office names, no romance, no comedy—none of the elements that attract screen patronage. Yet by the sheer force of his acting, it develops into a forceful, moving drama, instead of the sentimental cry-fest it could so easily have become." + News-Wk p24 Je 20 '36

"[Hersholt] undergoes his ordeal valorously, and lives to see everything set aright by the music. Amazing series of coincidences ever flashed on the screen. It is just barely possible that you may laugh instead of cry."

— Stage p9 Jl '36

"Sad, simple and superficial, this picture deploys the mishaps of one Christopher Frey, bell ringer in the Tyrolean town of Zanebruck."

Time p40 Je 29 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Tedious and frequently in its sentimental and religious passages, 'Sins of Man' is not a good motion picture. It will be hard to sell, for there is only Jean Hersholt. Picture introduces Don Ameche, a semi-obscure Chicago radio actor, who will mean little in this industry, is abolutely no romance in the entire 85 minutes."

— Variety p29 Je 24 '36

SITTING ON THE MOON. Republic 65min S 15 S Rating: Roger Pryor, Grace Bradley, William Newell, Pert Kelton

Director: Ralph Taub

Music director: Harry Grey

Music: Sam H. Stept, Sidney D. Mitchell

"Pryor, an irresponsible tunesmith, has long nursed his vendetta for the luckless former star, who has been blackballed by the studios for deserting a picture. Finding Miss Bradley in the extra ranks with his friend, Pert Kelton, Pryor personally strives to engineer her comeback. Through scheming he antagonizes Miss Bradley a radio contract."

Motion Pict Daily

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"It is the ‘Sitting on the Moon’ type of film that drives the reviewer to an untimely grave. There is simply nothing to get the critical teeth into—nothing new, suspenseful, or even interesting; but, on the other hand there is nothing to really entertain it. It seems a pity that Pryor, an excellent actor, should be wasted on thin drives as Paul Jacobs." + Hollywood Spec p15 S 12 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A cocktail of entertainment, this sprightly romantic-comedy which is the second musical to emanate from Republic will please the entire faculty."

+ Box Office p25 S 5 '36

"Given a pleasing human interest story with down-to-earth people doing things like regular folks, a good into an interesting sense of suspense, and add to that the really charming personality of Grace Bradley, and here is a number that will fit neatly on any exhibitor's screen catering to the average American audience. There is a steady undercurrent of good comedy with bright chatter that is not wearisome. . . Grace Bradley is charming, and delivers more in acting ability and glamour than a lot of expensive stars in more expensive productions."

+ Film Daily p15 S 11 '36

"Republic's second musical of the season, 'Sitting on the Moon,' misses getting out of the B musical grade, through failure in writing to capitalize on the possibilities of its excellent original story premise. Cast lacks draw names, but with all its faults it will be well liked in many spots and is a good booking, opposite dramatic fare for dual."

+ Hollywood Reporter p4 Ag 28 '36

"This is a musical farce concerning the Hollywood adventures of a pair of song-writers, presented basically as a thing of entertainment."

+ Motion Pict Daily p3 Ag 29 '36

"Never presuming to be pretentious, 'Sitting on the Moon' is a nifty little musical-romance that swings right along, working up to a tense, exciting, thrilling, and entertaining, audiences should find this number satisfying. [It is] an average story. . . Despite lack of top starry stuff, 'Sitting on the Moon' could have a good chance with the family trade."

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 28 '36

A SON COMES HOME. Paramount 75min Jl 31 '36

Players: Mary Boland, Julie Haydon, Donald Woods, Wallace Ford, Anthony Nace

Director: E. A. Dupont

Based on a short story of the same title by Harry Jerome Boland [portrays] an angel of the San Francisco Lighthouse, to entertain, audiences should find this number satisfying. [It is] an average story. . . Despite lack of top starry stuff, 'Sitting on the Moon' could have a good chance with the family trade."

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 28 '36

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Lack of realism and exaggerated maternal impulse for this melodramatic social drama from becoming outstanding." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
"There are plenty of heart throbs and suspense, but too little comedy relief. Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs.

"Excellent. Mature." DAR

"[It] makes a strong appeal for strength of character and high ideals—a picture worth seeing and adapted for adults and older children. Family." Calif Council of Fed Church Women.

Fox W Coast Bul Ag 29 '36

"This is a heart-stirring social drama dominated by the artistry of Mary Boland, who in a serious and dramatic role, rises to new heights, and is supported by a fine cast. Family." Nat Council of Jewish Women Ag 19 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency S 10 '36

"Mature." Sel Motion Pict S 1 '36

"The direction has many individual and excellent points. Wky Guide Ag 22 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

Christian Science Monitor p14 S 12 '36

Hollywood Spec p13 S 12 '36

"[It is] a motion-picture apparently designed to give Mary Boland a chance to be something besides funny. Miss Boland is brilliant as the mother and Julie Haydon begins to approximate the acting talent forecast for her two years ago when she undertook her debut." Lit Digest p24 Ag 22 '36

"This is a heavy-handed business and a strange gallery in which to discover Mary Boland, as the surroundings in 'Jubilee' have given way to a fish and chips midlet along the San Francisco waterfront. In a word, it doesn't lift one foot near Tucboar. Annie characterization is not Miss Boland's dish. It isn't a very exciting story and Miss Boland's isn't a very exciting part." Lucius Beebe.

N Y Herald Tribune p6 S 7 '36

"Paramount is severely being fair to Mary Boland in asking film audiences to judge her as a dramatic actress in so absurdly contrived a story as 'A Son Comes Home.'" The obscurely assembled emotional hodge-podge into which she now has been thrust would have put a burden on the virtuose Marie Dressler herself." J. T. M.

N Y Times p7 S 5 '36

"Throwing off all the characteristics, as well as the blonde hair, that have endeared her to millions in comedy roles, Miss Boland goes through the paces of her first dramatic role with her performance restrained and completely realized and it is largely because of her work that a highly melodramatic and saccharine story becomes plausible and entertaining. . . . The film has a certain amount of speed, coincidences and tears and a not me melodramatic and startling, to it. If then, you are not too finicky about your screen entertainment, you should enjoy the way 'A Son Comes Home' is carried out by Miss Boland and her associates." William Bochnel

N Y World-Telegram p10a S 5 '36

"In this exciting picture of the San Francisco water front [Mary Boland] returns to a dramatic role and is superb as the chowder-house proprietor whose son comes home as a killer." News-Wk p12 S 12 '36

"A Son Comes Home" devotes itself to tear-enticing, but if you're one who likes a good cry—this will be more your cup of tea. Mary Boland can sniffle your way Over the Hill to the Poorhouse once again. . . . Actress Mary Boland and Author Harry Hervey are both well established in severely specialized fields; Miss Boland is Queen of Comedy and Hervey has made a deserved reputation in a line of isolation films. It is earnestly to be hoped that both these talented people will stick to the knitting in which they excel." Film Daily p11 S 12 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Wholesome entertainment of interest to every mother and every mother's son or daughter, this film will pull at the box office." Box Office p31 Ag 15 '36

"Gripping picture with Mary Boland in a dramatic role should get by nicely." Film Daily p3 Ag 8 '36

"Thanks to sympathetic and characterful writing, eloquent direction and a deeply-etched character portrayal by Mary Boland, this simple heart-wrenching plot of picture of the San Francisco waterfront becomes a work of real distinction. It has universal appeal and will go places at the box offices. Mary Boland as the 'Angel of the Waterfront' here delivers her first dramatic role in pictures. It will win her more admirers than even her delightful comedy portrayals, for it has sincerity, emotional power and an unforced simplicity that bites deep."

Hollywood Reporter p8 Ag 5 '36

"A seriously toned character drama, this seems destined to be appreciated by patrons liking and understanding solid, substantial entertainment. The plot is powerful and appealing. The work of the cast endows the picture with believable realism that held a preview audience in hushed silence." Motion Pict Daily p4 Ag 6 '36

"Dramatic piece well played, but which lacks name strength, this should find favor with neighborhoods, small towns. Well handled, dramatic, this ought to please, even if short on name strength."

Phila Exhibitor p31 Ag 15 '36

"Mary Boland goes dramatic in this picture. She cannot completely compete with her efforts in a story in which she is required to turn her own son over to the law for murder to save the innocent boy she has befriended. . . . The patrons will reject the situation. . . . It all adds up to wasted effort." Variety p17 S 9 '36

"'A Son Comes Home' is the kind of entertainment the whole family will enjoy. It has speed, punch, drama, love interest and with it all that wholesomeness that has long been cried for."

Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 5 '36

"SONG OF A NATION." Warner 20min Jl 4 '36

Director: Frank McDonald

A Broadway Brevity short in Technicolor. It is the story of the songs of the Star Spangled Banner by Francis Scott Key.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"If 'Song of a Nation' is really a true account of the personal episodes in Key's life which influenced him to compose the national anthem,
SONG OF A NATION—Continued

Perhaps there is some excuse for its militaristic tinge. If not, then it is another of those fight-and-carry-flag-to-victory epics. Unconvincingly enacted by a cast of wooden actors, 'Song of a Nation' won't stir audiences' blood to any great depths of 'patriotic' fervor.

----

Bul on Current Films Ag 3 '36

"A story woven around the composition of the Star-Spangled Banner is done in a charming manner which should be of inspiration to every American. Adolescents, 12-16; excellent; children, 8-12: excellent."

+ + Motion Picl R Jl '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Rarely are we permitted to view a short subject which in its brief footage stirs our emotions to a higher pitch than ninety-nine of every hundred feature pictures manage to do in their greater length. 'The Song of a Nation' is a cinematic gem, an artistic morsel that will adorn any evening's entertainment irrespective of what else composes the screen program. . . . This is the most space I ever devoted to a review of a short subject. My excuse is that it is the best short subject I ever saw."

+ + Hollywood Spec pl2 Jl 20 '36

"Unfortunately, it's all slightly pedestrian and the color is too colorful. The battle scenes, done in obvious miniature, are as unconvincing as Miss Dodd declaring 'The Star-Spangled Banner.'" Herb Sterne

----

Trade Paper Reviews

"Both on merit and theme, this short subject deserves booking in every theater throughout America. Warners have put out its prodig- tion the same supreme care that is found in top-flight features."

+ Film Daily pl3 Je 12 '36

SONG OF CHINA. Douglas MacLean 65min

Players: Lim Cho-cho. Shang Kwh-wu. Li Shoh-shoh

Director: Lo Ming-yau

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

----

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: cultural and unique; Y: worthwhile; C: probably inspiring."

Parents' M pl8 Ag '36

"Authentic in every respect, with an all-Chinese cast and with sub-titles in lieu of spoken words, 'Song of China' is a picture of great dignity and charm. . . . That the picture is interesting, dramatic, and emotionally stirring is due to fine direction and the intelligent acting of the unusual cast. Incidental music, interior settings and typical outdoor scenes are a delightful part of the Chinese atmosphere. Family."

+ Sel Motion Picl Jl 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Our brown and yellow brethren have never been able to assimilate the screen as an art form. Instead of making pictures indigenous to their manners and customs, they've concentrated on turning out composites of all the more worn occidental atehla. . . . It has no appeal for the average American audience though it has all the ingredients familiar in our own flickers. 'Art' theatre devotees will find a certain naive charm, some unintentionally funny titles (the film is silent), plus beautiful photographic work. It's strictly a curiosity." Herb Sterne

----

Trade Paper Reviews

"Beautiful, artistic novelty produced and directed by Chinese in China, photography and Oriental theme make this excellent fare for the art houses. Adults."

+ Box Office pl2 Jl 11 '36

SPENDTHRIFT. Wanger-Paramount 75min Jl 17 '36

Director: Raoul Walsh

The story is built around a young millionaire and sportsman who has dissipated his fortune. He marries a designing girl who leaves him and finally he becomes a famous radio announcer. After a divorce, he marries the daughter of his horse trainer who has always loved him.

----

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: fairly good; C: amusing; C: fair;" Christian Century pl047 Jl 29 '36

"Mediocre-mature." DAR

Fox W Coast Bul Jl 25 '36

"A good cast, fine direction and some exciting horse races make up this pleasing entertainment. Family."

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women Jl 22 '36

"Objectively in part. Objection: justifies divorce as a solution." Nat Legion of Decency Jl 16 '36

"A and Y; mediocre; C: no interest."

Parents' M pl78 S '36

"The plot is transparent, situations trite, and the direction uneven. Adults & young people."

Sel Motion Picl Ag 1 '36

"Family."

Wkjy Guide Jl 4 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"George Barbier and Edward Brophy rag the discouraging story with a welcome laugh." E. C. S.

Christian Science Monitor pl3 Ag 8 '36

"[It will] teach a valuable lesson to all young fellows who inherit twenty million dollars when they become of age. It will serve a useful purpose also in showing Hollywood how a picture should not be made. For those without the inheritance and with no desire to learn about pictures, I am afraid 'Spendthrift' has nothing to say, but it is the worthiest picture ever made—merely that it is the worst I ever saw."

----

Hollywood Spec pl1 Jl 20 '36

"The film should be taken care of the weak half of a double bill." (2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty pl4 Jl 25 '36

"Fonda plays with his customary directness and sincerity through some of the most peculiar social exhibitions seen in recent months. Mary Brian, surprised no doubt at being a villainess, contributes a Southern accent; Pat Paterson offers a mild Scotch imitation; George Barbier is perpetually explosive and Edward Brophy adds slangy grunts."

Ltt Digest pl9 Ag 1 '36

"The only distinguishing feature of the new film is that it presents Miss Mary Brian who has long been regarded as the most in-

----

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; + Exceptionally Poor
nocious and saccharine of the cinema ingenues, in their not-so-calm way. "Boston Nat Gen Motion Henry Fair; Wkly When Which..."

"Nobody could have tried very hard with 'Spendthrift.' This is one of those synthetic little stories scenario departments do buy now and then. Several indifferent performances do not make it any more believable; nor are the time-honored jokes of much assistance."

— Elleen Creelman
N Y Sun p22 Jl 23 '36

"Considered apart from its romantic-economic theories, 'Spendthrift' may be jotted down as a slight and superficially diverting fake. Cincinnati Enquirer: Fonda, on the other hand, is probably as incorse a playboy as you would care to meet; in fact, it might not be a bad idea to see the picture just to get over the notion that an idler's life is all beer and skittles."

— F. S. Nugent
+ — N Y Times p24 Jl 23 '36

"[It is an] unsuccessful effort to blend farce and romance... Except for a remarkably fine performance by George Barbier in the role of a dyspeptic millionaire, there is little to recommend in this offering, which relies almost entirely for its effect on cleverness of turn and on its stereotyped elements of farce-comedy. However, Mr. Barbier's blustering antics do much to dispel the belief that the narrative creates."

— William Eoehe!
— N Y World-Telegram p10 Jl 23 '36

"Spendthrift' is the sort of comedy which committed reviewers should avoid seeing in private projection rooms. Thus viewed, the only feeling it could arouse would be simple amazement at anybody should produce it. I saw it in a huge, cold movie cathedral, and there it explained itself, at least commercially. All the little people sitting round me laughed and crowded and clapped their hands with delight." — Russell Maloney
— New Yorker p39 Ag 1 '36

"This is a bad picture—despite the acting talents of Henry Fonda, a captivating brogue employed by Pat Paterson and a brisk comedy characterization by June Brewster. The story is without charm. It is put together without skill—and the result is a picture with neither sympathy nor conviction."

— Molly Lewin
Script p11 Jl 25 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This gay and amusing comedy is a well mounted, intelligently acted laugh-fest that takes full advantage of its limited story possibilities and emerges an unpretentious but very likeable picture."

+ Box Office p75 Je 27 '36

"This one rates a good light summer number with an indifferent story that is carelessly thrown together but is garnished with good comedy business and snappy dialogue that carries the chuckles."

+ Film Daily p7 Jl 23 '36

"This merry and ingratiating little comedy is Walter Wanger's final contribution to the Paramount list and it will add considerable strength to its B group, for which it was planned. Though an unpretentious offering for Wanger, it is a salable fare in all dual groupings."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 Je 12 '36

"[It] has a pleasant cast and an improbable development of a conventional plot, but with enough laughs to do nicely."

+ Motion Pic Daily p3 Je 13 '36

"Estimate: mild program."

— Phila Exhibitor p68 Jl 1 '36

"There was the basis of a good picture here, but—Which means it won't do for better than double bill rating... Henry Fonda heads the cast of mostly unknowns, which is another exhibitor hurdle that won't be easy. Fonda is a handsome lad and it is possible that he might have been accepted as the spoiled young millionaire he's supposed to play if the things he did and said were acceptable. They're not... When Hatch wrote this story he wrote it for raffish satire. It was pointed and sharp and sharp. Raoul Walsh as director and co-adaptor toned it down and polished it up to where it lost all point."

— Variety p34 Jl 23 '36

"Fast-moving comedy that despite the familiarity of story affords good entertainment through excellence of direction, dialog and casting. Lack of pulling names will keep it in the twin bill class. Production is above average for class B pictures, with Walter Wanger giving the production good framing."

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 Je 12 '36

STAGE STRUCK. Warner-First national 90min S '36
Players: Dick Powell, Joan Blondell, Warren William. Frank McHugh, Jeanne Madden
Director: Busby Berkeley
Music director: Leo F. Forbstein
Music and lyrics: E. Y. Harburg, Harold Arlen

"The plot concerns the romance between Dick Powell, dance director, and Jeanne Madden, a country girl who rescues from a chorus job to play the star part on the opening night."

Motion Pic Daily

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Lack of variety detracts from this farcical treatment of life behind the scenes in the theater..." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers Clubs
"Family."

"Good. Mature-family." — DAR
"A smooth fast-moving comedy which provides a laugh to take home with you. Family." — Nat Soc of New England Women
"This social comedy, well cast and directed, gives good clean entertainment. Family." — Calif Council of Fed Church Women
Fox W Coast Bul Ag 23 '36

"Enjoyable entertainment for all. Family."
+ — Calif Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ag 19 '36

"Family."
— Jt Estimates Ag 15 '36

"Musical comedy at its best. Directed by Busby Berkeley, who proves his ability for excellent stage-craft as well as dances, and with a cast which gives a gay, light-hearted but whole-hearted performance, good, light entertainment is provided. Family."
+ — Nat Council of Jewish Women S 1 '36

"[It is] an entertaining film. General patronage."
+ — Nat Legion of Decency S 3 '36

Sei Motion Pic S 1 '36

"Some amusing spots in the picture and good music. Family."
+ — Wkly Guide S 5 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"'Stage Struck' comes as a pleasant surprise. It is a backstage musical, but one that pokes fun at all backstage musicals. The lovely girls cavorting in frocks and on mammoth staircases are actually elbowed out of the way by a plot that not [only] laughs at theater business but anthropology and psychology as well." — M. E. P.
+ — Boston Transcript p4 Jl 12 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; —+ Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
STAGE STRUCK—Continued

"As soon as you read the title you know the story... While I do not claim it is impossible to write a new story to serve the next series of musical plots, I do claim the one studios are now using is a good one because its appeal is fundamental. We may scoff at the story after seeing it a dozen times but each act of seeing it fills us with contentment... All in all, 'Stage Struck' is well worth seeing." + Hollywood Spec p11 Ag 15 '36

"Nimbly dodging most of the pitfalls common to Broadway musicals, 'Stage Struck' she is restrained and merrily, tuneful affair. Hardly an inspired offering, the show is nonetheless an engaging merger of numbers with a high tempo. The pic reminiscent of many such films, on the whole it is imbued with an infectious freshness." (3 stars) + Variety Variety p3 5 '36

Funny? It's a panic! As a matter of fact, 'Stage Struck' is pretty much of a ten-strike in all departments... Right up in the front row will are the Yacht Club Boys who not only sing songs well but also write 'em. 'Three lusty cheers for the Y.C.B.'s!' + Script p10 Ag 5 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Effervescent musical comedy, not hampered by the usual over-impressive dance numbers, this picture will bring patrons in droves and leave them laughing at the fadeout." + Box Office p31 Ag 15 '36

"Although a backstager it has only enough of that atmosphere to keep it from being a musical, 'Stage Struck' is thus a musical, but the main play is for comedy which it gets in quantity. The box-office healthy play when the show is run. Instead of pretentious musical numbers, the Yacht Club boys are in for two socko routines. Tonying everyone in the cast is Joan Blondell as the dame financing their way to stage fame after shooting her husband. Her character is a swell piece of construction, and Joan gets everything from the lines and gives the role everything it needs."

Film Daily p10 Ag 11 '36

"With a backstage plot that rings with more authenticity than is usual, 'Stage Struck' is due to duplicate the success of these Warner Bros. musicals. The laugh-studded story is smartly emphasized by the direction of Busby Berkeley and played for the best results by a large and excellent cast... Busby Berkeley shines from first to last. The picture confines itself to chorus girls for atmosphere and the dancing is entirely theatrical stuff. It is a vehicle that will open a new career for Berkeley." + Hollywood Reporter p4 Ag 6 '36

"Substituting comedy and fast tempo for the extravagant production numbers formerly used in the Warners musicals, this picture emerges as satisfying entertainment. Although essentially a backstage story, Berkeley has restrained production numbers to concentrate on swift comedy punches... When tightened to program length the film should please." + Motion Pict Daily p10 Ag 7 '36

"Warners ought to get back to their musical style with 'Stage Struck.' Although a back-stage story, everything has been handled so well the comedians will think it is new. Estimate: good." + Phila Exhibitor p33 Ag 15 '36

"There's a refreshing musical that should please audiences who are tired of those big numbers, complicated renditions of songs. Busby Berkeley has directed the picture with a fine conception for comedy values." + Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 6 '36

STAR FOR A NIGHT. 20th Century-Fox 75min

Director: Lewis Seiler

Music director: Samuel Kaylin

Music and lyrics: Harry Akst, Sidney Clare

Based on a play, Die Helle Luege, by Karin Michalics. "Starting in the Austrian Tyrol, [the story] recites the departure of a blind mother on a surprise visit to her distinguished family in America. Wherever she believes, is a married man who makes automobiles, a daughter who is a concert pianist and another who is a singing star. While both have the pretense, they are just hard-working youngsters who have drained their resources for the mother's eye treatments and lied to keep her happy." (Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: good of kind; Y: good; C: fair." + Christian Century p120 S 9 '36

"Intelligent acting, particularly on the part of Jane Darwell, clever direction and a goodly dose of human interest provide a pleasant evening's entertainment for the family." + Calif Cong of Mothers & Teachers

"Family." + Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"[It is] a charming picture. Excellent. Nature-family." + DAR

"A touching drama of family devotion, emotionally appealing, constructive in tone and very well produced. Family." + Nat Soc of New England Women

"This melodrama with a truly universal appeal is certain to please the family." + S Calif Council of Ptd Church Women

"[It is] a most human and appealing picture, Family." + Nat Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ag 10 '36

"A sentimental story but played with such sincerity by a capable cast that it holds one's interest to the end. Family." + Jt Estimates Ag 15 '36

"Fine direction of a well-chosen cast, each member of which gives a sincere portrayal, makes an improbable story interesting entertainment. Family." + Nat Council of Jewish Women S 1 '36

"A simple plot charmingly executed. General patronage." + Nat Legion of Decency Ag 27 '36

"Family." + Sel Motion Pict S 1 '36

"Family." + Wkly Guide Ag 29 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Although 'Star for a Night' is just a saccharine take-off on 'Lady for a Day,' its fine direction and sensitively restrained portrayals lift it above its often too-evident status as a double-bill support." + Paul Jacobs + Hollywood Spec p15 Ag 15 '36

"Star for a Night is at best a tolerable program picture." + T. M. P. + + + N Y Times p7 S 5 '36

"Not only do you have to forget that it is a pretty feeble variation of 'Lady for a Day' but you also have to grit your teeth to bear up under its sweetness and sentiment, which have been piled on all with a trowel. While I am willing to admit that there is nothing..." + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; - - Exceptionally Poor better for a saccharine film than the good old family reunion in the last reel, there is a limit to the amount of sugar-coated pop this country can reasonably disgorge. One overdoes it to such an extent that it becomes exasperating rather than effective."

William N Y World-Telegram p24 S 8 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Here's a picture tailor-made for the mothers in the country. While it has all the tears and pathos of the usual mother film, it has made the liking of the bright comedy furnished by three wise churlna, girls, to keep it out of the weepy class. Family."

Box Office p25 Ag 29 '36

Canadian Moving Pict Digest p10 S '36

"This beautifully handled sentimental piece should make program fare of the better type. Not only does it have fine emotional qualities, but it has a lot of laughs, singing, dancing, and other back stage ingredients. It should make very good entertainment for all types of audiences."

Film Daily p6 Ag 14 '36

"This sentimental comedy of devotion between a mother and her grown family, with a genuine emotional mood and a set up routine with music logically included for good measure, is bright and wholesome entertainment. Its sweetness and light are sometimes laid on rather thick, but it has strong general audience appeal and promises prosperity in the neighborhods."

Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 6 '36

"An appealing combination of sentimental drama, gay comedy and lovely backstage action, this should be enjoyable entertainment for any kind of audience. The film contains familiar elements which are nowhere to be found in novel fashion and offer wide opportunity for exploitation by the showman."

Motion Pict Daily p20 Ag 7 '36

"This pleasant comedy drama that ought to please family, neighborhood audiences, is this short on what the marquees need, but otherwise nice entertainment. Well played, nicely handled, this shape ups as best for small towns, neighborhood, pleasant for all."

Every Day p26 Ag 15 '36

"It's not a bell-ringer, but will suffice for measuring of a dual program."

Variety p20 Ag 26 '36

"Packed with heart appeal, developed with honest and moving emotional wallop and smartly delivered. Shows a variety of wordplays for practically all tastes, 'Star for a Night' is high-class entertainment which will stand sturdy on its own anywhere-a box office honey."

Variety (Hollywood) p5 Ag 6 '36

NEWSPAPER AND MAGAZINE REVIEWS

"Although the story is trite and hackneyed the picture is much better than might be expected because of the fine portrayals given by a cast of proven actors."

Nat Council of Jewish Women S 2 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency S 3 '36

"A capable cast ably directed, does full justice to a cleverly developed plot, always interesting and at times exciting. Adults & young people."

Sel Motion Pict S 1 '36

"Family."

Wkly Guide Ag 29 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Sweeping suddenly into one of the finest examples of progressively sustained suspense by audience has this year witnessed, 'Straight From the Shoulder' offers the cinematic student enticing fare. Handicapped almost throughout by the 'just boy' antics of David Holt, the story movement drags often in the beginning, but the plot, fortunately, is made of strong dramatic stuff which quickly over the weariness clogging the tempo and delaying the interest. Had film editor Everett Stover's editing been a bit more minute total of mesmerising, 'Straight From the Shoulder' would be outstanding."

Paul Jacobs

Sr - Motion Spec Mag S 30 '36

"A mild and unpretentious bit of gangster lore, 'Straight From the Shoulder' builds up to one of the most suspenseful sequences on current view."

Beverly Hills Liberty p35 S 26 '36

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Family."

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 2 '36

SUZY. MGM 95min Jl 17 '36

"Exceptionally Good; Good; Fair; Mediocre; Poor; Exceptionally Poor"
SUZY—Continued

Audience Suitability Ratings

"When in doubt, wave a flag." It is this phrase which Nat Suzy is fashioned. Portrayed in a manner of a giant festival, this purported drama of World War days is as flagrant a glorification of war as you would care to see. Not to mention the lesser misdeeds of bigamy, illicit love affairs and drunkenness. Suzy attempts to show all the hysterical flag-waving devices which make for thrills and applause.

"Bu! on Current Films Ag 3 '36

"A: good of kind; Y: doubtful; C: no."

Christian Century p1071 Ag 5 '36

"Mediocre. Adults." DAR + — Fox W Coast Bu! Ji 25 '36

"Expert directing of a star cast. . . has brought up a great piece of entertainment. Adults." Am Legion Auxiliary

"The excellent photography including very interesting montage shots of actual warfare makes this an outstanding picture. Adults: fair; fairly: doubtful. 14-18; no; 8-14: no." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"This picture has its dramatic moments, but as a whole it lacks freshness or originality. Mature." Calif Council of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Contrast, carefully finished portraiture and stirring scenes of wartime aviation make this an interesting film for mature audiences." Nat Soc of New England Women

"A melodrama suitable for an adult audience. Mature." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"The picture [is] an entertaining one. Adults."

+ — Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ji 21 '36

"Fair for adults."

+ — Nat Council of Jewish Women Ji 22 '36

"Nat Legion of Decency Ji 30 '36

"A and Y: action war drama; C: mature."

Parents' P 116 '36

"[It has] a rather complicated plot reminiscent of some earlier war melodramas." Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer took Herbert Gorman's rather sensational World War melodrama . . . and blurred the whole thing with a hasty Legion of Decency sponging. Result is a strangely uneven mixture—at its best, ingeniously directed and lively; at its worst, trite, stuffy and unconvincing." B. L.

+ — Boston Transcript p5 Ag 8 '36

"For adults in search of an emotional spree."

E. C. S.

Christian Science Monitor p13 Ag 8 '36

"It will give satisfaction. We could wish for less talking than it contains, and a greater reliance upon the actors in developing the psychological phases of the story, but as we seem doomed to have such pictures until Hollywood learns how to use the microphone, we will be lucky if we get none less entertaining than this well-made Metro offering."

+ — Hollywood Spec p3 Ji 18 '36

"One of M-G-M's lavish productions, 'Suzy' is expansively mounted, handsomely dressed, and features a cast of favorites. Unfortunately all this visual display decorates a war-time story so seething with bewildering coin-

" + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

SWING TIME. RKO 100min S'36

Players: Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers, Victor Moore. Helen Broderick. Eric Blorre

Director: George Stevens

Music and lyrics: Jerome Kern. Dorothy Fields

Music director: Nathaniel Shilkret

Dance director: Hermes Pan

"The story is a gayly irresponsible romantic farce in the film Astaire and Ginger Rogers, a pupil in a dancing school." Hollywood Reporter

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A and Y; very good; C; good;"

Christian Century p3 5 36

"Sparkling dialogue, magnificent setting and the superlative dance routine of the popular Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers all contribute in making this an excellent musical. General patronage." + + Nat Legion of Decency S 3 '36

"Highly recommended for the family." + + Motion Pict S 1

"The dancing of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers seems better than ever. Outstanding: Family." + + Wkly Guide Ag 29 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

Christian Science Monitor p17 S 5 '36

Reviewed by J. P. Cunningham

"Fred Astaire’s pleasing personality, his rhythmic grace as a dancer, charm and intelligence as an actor and proficiency as a singer make ‘Swing Time’ a highly entertaining picture. . . Pan Bergman no doubt would get in bad with the other fellows who produce musicals if he supplied one of his with a coherent story having some appeal to an intelligent audience, but I think he should have a go at it. The innovation might provoke the box-office into hearty mirth, and I know that would be broken if a picture like ‘Swing Time’ were made to appeal to the eye, as well as to the ear. The eye appeal of ‘Swing Time’ is quite sufficient to make it worth your while. In Fred Astaire, we have an artist brilliantly revealing his versatility." + Hollywood Spec p5 Ag 29 '36

"This is the funniest of their teamed films. The hilarity is supplied wholesale by Helen Broderick and Victor Moore. On gay occasion the joking becomes impudently ribald, but there is nothing to frighten a censor in any of it. Camera trickery is used with more abandon, and considerably more forethought in ‘Swing Time’ than in previous items by the dancing stars . . . Audiences in key cities to which the film was released first have been more than usually breathless in their acceptance." + Lit Digest p17 S 12 '36

"Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers have a catchy Jerome Kern score, superb comic support from Victor Moore and Helen Broderick and a sleek production of their own. Dancing and singing at the very top of their superlative form and crowning magnificently through interludes of merry nonsense, they distinguish themselves anew as the screen’s most engaging musical comedy team. . . Aside from a time-honored complaint about these Astaire-Rogers offerings, it is an enchanting and amusing kaleidoscope of the forgettable and melodies and humorous invention. ‘Swing Time’ says badly, however, when it insists upon going through the prophesied routine of a couple whose reconciliation that RKO seems to think are so necessary in a musical photoplay." Howard Barnes + + N Y Herald Tribune p15 Ag 25 '36

" + + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor

"A box office fandango executed with cliché steps certain to cause millions of housewives to abandon unwashed dishes to the mercy of tomorrow that will be superior to a foot bath in making shop girls forget their already woeful tootles. The situations revealed have as much reality as the lyrics of Tin Pan Alley. . . Franchot Tone’s popular tenor voice is put to the test of the Glendale [preview]. He works romantically, but as an Irishman he permits the sham-rocks into his voice to bloom, and will probably disconcerting inconsistency. George Fitz-maurice’s direction is aces. He takes advantage of every song as a story-hole." Herb Sterne + — Script p10 Jl 25 '36

"Other stories have shown some of the individual happenings which overtook individual farmers, bellringers, soda- jerkers, et al, at the outbreak of War. ‘Suzy’ sets out to include in one picture a great many of the events that have happened, and because of the fact that it brings in so many incidents that require no telling, the action drags at times." + + Hollywood Reporter p3 Jl 9 '36

"The real punch of the film is centered in the last three or four reels, when the legitimate drama of the situation to which much time has been given, makes up for much of the previous meandering. The most effective selling angle seems to be one that combines the appeal of war and spy-menaced romance, backed by the pulling power of the names of Miss Harlow, Tone and Grant in characteristic roles." + + Motion Picture Daily p11 Jl 10 '36

"In the better Metro manner, this will need the name to help it at the box office." Phil Exhbitor p34 Ag 1 '36

"One of those hit-at-all-hazards concoctions that may bore in the de luxers, but which will appeal to less discriminating audiences, though Jean Harlow does not quite square herself for a clumsy bigamy, and the scenarist does not help by confusing the plot and other incongruities. . . All through, the scenarists have put in the punch whether it belongs or not and the story seems to be justifying this treatment. It’s cheap, sometimes, awfully but for the moment it appeals." in Herald Jl 21 '36

"'Suzy' is a love narrative of theatrical heroics and polished hookum, pitched in sentimental rather than sophisticated key, which may not rate critical raves but will probably be embraced with profitable returns by the horde to which Jean Harlow is a name and others to whom Franchot Tone is another name, plus other pull elements of the picture." + + Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 9 '36

"A story of a gayly irresponsible romantic farce in the film Astaire and Ginger Rogers, a pupil in a dancing school." Hollywood Reporter
SWING TIME—Continued

"We left the theatre feeling definitely let down. The picture is good, but not the best of its type. It would have been worth while that dancing, with Victor Moore, Helen Broderick and Eric Blore. But after 'Top Hat' followed the Fleet' and the rest it is a disappointment. Blame it, primarily, upon the music. Jerome Kern has shadow-boxed with swing. ... The songs are merely adequate, or worse. Neither good Kern nor good swing. Elsewhere, though, you will find that the Astaire-Rogers team at RKO's, study, we have not forgotten their reliably entertaining formula for an Astaire-Rogers show."

F. S. Nugent

"SWING TIME' is the town's top picture, the best musical funneled out of Hollywood's hopper. This Astaire-Rogers film has everything it is smart, subtle and intelligent—that not. Nor is it thrown to a sap, and the whole thing clicks like a night club cash register." Douglas

+ N Y World-Telegram p7 Ag 25 '36

"There would appear to be every reason to expect one of those superb musical pictures that Hollywood so rarely turns out. On inspection, however, other things also appear. It would appear, in fact, that a whole host of intrigues, jealousies and hatreds, hostility forces, hostile to the Kern music, hostile to the dancers, hostile to the antics of the comedians, applied themselves to make the picture stodgy, exasperating, laborious. They haven't succeeded entirely, to be sure, but hardly a day will come out from a view of 'Swing Time' without some sense of disappointment. It's all due to the old, familiar complaint. It's the other case of the trouble... Why can't Hollywood be good to Mr. Kern and the other bright people of the picture?"

John Muray

— New Yorker p67 S 5 '36

"In 'Swing Time,' RKO has another hit. This movie is one of the year's best glow dispensers. The story doesn't always hit on sixteen but it moves along with sufficient speed. The music, though catchy, is not up to Kern's standard. 'A Fine Romance' is the best of the lot. The Astaire-Rogers dance partnership moves faster than ever. One of the most effective scenes is Astaire's tap dance, three silhouettes which usually keep time with him but occasionally step out on their own." + Time p13 S 7 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Those educated feet of the screen's dance team No. 1 again answer the showman's prayer as Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers dance, sing and clown their way through another cash drawer hit. Family."

+ Box Office p25 S 5 '36

"This new Astaire-Rogers vehicle holds its own on almost every count and tops them all for comedy, which means another golden shower at all box-Offices. There is no reason why it should not break the notable earning records of its own predecessors. Supreme in the dance, in the personal appeal of its stars and in the farce quality of its presentations, the series is this time enhanced by a record laugh-score and enriched by an air of irresistible spandrels." + Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 24 '36

"The best of the Astaire-Rogers films to date, 'Swing Time' means a golden boom at the box offices. The film seems much shorter than its 100 minutes because of the featherweight quality achieved by the brilliant balance of comedy, music, dance, and the mood of which is over-emphasized and none slighted... Emphasize the smoother sophistication as opposed to the touch overtones of 'Follow the Fleet' comedy and romance, because the songs will exploit themselves.

+ Motion Picl Daily p4 Ag 25 '36

"To say this is the best number in the Astaire-Rogers series is to state this will be cleanup in all theatres.

+ Phila Exhibitor p41 S 1 '36

"'Swing Time' is perhaps a shade under previous par, but it's another box office and personal winner for the Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers combination. ... In the same cycle of the light fantastic as its predecessors, 'Swing Time' will satisfy every type of film fan. The younger the audience the better. And with Victor Moore and Helen Broderick in as more mature counter-ballast, it'll also appeal to the family trade."

+ Variety p15 S 2 '36

"Filled with charm for the most sophisticated without missing a bet in dance, song and comedy for the heart of every fair. Overemphasizing personalities and talents of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers for their fullest draw value in production and plot. The one very hostile forces, hostile to the Kern music, hostile to the dancers, hostile to the antics of the comedians applied themselves to make the picture stodgy, exasperating, laborious. They haven't succeeded entirely, to be sure, but hardly a day will come out from a view of 'Swing Time' without some sense of disappointment. It's all due to the old, familiar complaint. It's the other case of the trouble. Why can't Hollywood be good to Mr. Kern and the other bright people of the picture?"

John Murray

— New Yorker p67 S 5 '36

SWORN ENEMY. MGM 75min S 11 '36

Director: Edwin L. Marin

"The story has a revenge motive. In it four characters combine to wreak vengeance on a racketeering mob." Motion Picl Daily

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Adults: matter of taste; family: fair; 14-18: doubtful; 8-14: no. Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Joseph Calicia creates an excellent characterization—that of the sinister Joe Emerlad, a man with a twisted personality who is the master-mind of a 'mob'. His physical handicaps and mental equipment are an interesting contrast to the crude brutality of his followers. Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Good-mature." DAR

"This film is informative, dramatic and enacted with a verve and punch which keeps one interested. Adults & young people." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Mature." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bui JI 25 '36

"[It is] a most entertaining picture. Adults & young people." + General of Women's Clubs (W Coast) JI 25 '36

"Adults & young people." JI Estimates JI 15 '36

"Family." Nat Council of Jewish Women JI 15 '36

"Adults." Nat Legion of Decency JI 30 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; ++ Mediocre; — Poor; ++— Exceptionally Poor
“A and Y: exciting; C: no.”
Parents' M p70 S '36

“Adults & young people.”
Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

“It is a pretty good melodrama, helped a great deal by its villains. Family.”
Wkly Guide Jl 18 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Characteristic of M.G.M. productions, ‘Sworn Enemy’ is capably cast; with fascinating portrayal throughout. Joseph Calleia’s Joe Emerald is outstanding. From the foregoing, a mistaken inference may be made that ‘Sworn Enemy’ is an extraordinary production which should not be missed. Actually, however, it is more than successful will disprove all that.
Work, a picture forgotten by breakfast-time; but entirely pleasing and a sure promise for ad-moral performances.”
St. Louis Post-Dispatch Jl 1 '36

“Another picture of underworld rackets, stereotyped in plot although not in treatment, is holding Rialto audiences in its relentless Grip. And rather so, thanks to the super-chilled performance of Joseph Calleia and the excellent suspense of the final scene... This particular version of the G-man’s activities is by now a little shopworn. The performances and the direction are the best factors of the picture.”
Margaret Tazelaar
Herald Tribune P 8 S 12 '36

“The picture is not, of course, the compelling document that the film examinations of social evils invariably set themselves up to be. It is, however, a suitable vehicle for the talents of Joseph Calleia and Nat Pendleton, as Hollywood seems determined to continue typing them.”
J. T. M.

“T N Y Herald Tribune p8 S 12 '36

“It is fervently to be hoped that the time will come when studios will discern the logic of how to make program pictures without employing the gangster theme... This olla-podrida has the same sticky ends as an octopus.”
Herb Sterne
Script p10 S 12 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Family.”
Box Office p23 Jl 11 '36

“This is a fast-moving comedy drama that will please generally. It is full of fine performances, with Robert Young surprising by his work in a dramatic part. Joseph Calleia again demonstrates that he is one of the best character actors on the screen and he makes his role of a crippled ruler of the underworld powerful and sinister.”

Film Jl 7 '36

“Here is a neatly turned out piece of entertainment that really entertains. It makes no pretenses of being a big attraction, but is more than the satisfactory program fare. Smart showmanship features the production by Lucien Hubbard, the keen direction by Edwin
L. Marin, the amply-plotted screen-play by Wells Root and the uniformly excellent performances.”

Hollywood Reporter p6 Jl 1 '36

“Aply titled, this gangster-atmosphered, melodramatic romance stacks up as acceptable average entertainment. The substantial, believable story is well put together, intelligently directed and convincingly acted. The dialogue and situations are effectively balanced to keep the story moving at an attention-holding, fast pace.”

Motion Pict Daily p4 Jl 2 '36

“Estimate: nice program.”
Phila Exhibitor p8 Jl 15 '36

“Smart production and coordination from every department lifts this considerably above its classification as exceptional melodrama. It will entertain wherever billed and will delight especially for its bright direction and character performances, springing out of sound screen writing with a happy blend of the human relations absolutely genuine without missing a bet in developing excitement and suspense.”

Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 1 '36

TATTLERS. First national 60min.
Players: Ross Alexander, Glenda Farrell,
Anne Nagel, Craig Reynolds, Hobart
Cavanaugh
Director: William Clemens

“Picture affords Ross Alexander a role as the tactful who starts to use the air channels to indulge a private grudge against an offensive ham actor and presently finds himself a big money draw because of his daring disarma-tion of filmdom lowdown. Chatterer draws libel suits, draws the fire of gangsters whom he pubically shuns, threatens world crime and all but loses respect of girl he loves because of his so-called mud-slinging.”
Variety (Hollywood)

Audience Suitability Ratings

“Mature audience.”
Gen Fed of Women’s Clubs (W Coast)
S 2 '36

“IT is a fairly interesting film.”

Nat Council of Jewish Women S 2 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

“This picture has enough rapid-fire action, clever comedy and super-smart entertainment to make it a sure-box office attraction.

Box Office p25 S 12 '36

“A breezy little farce that shrewdly and amusingly satirizes the radio purveyors of Hollywood gossip; takes a flying at a familiar type of chit-chat hero and invades a radio station for a brace of new songs and a gist of slang humor. Meant to hold up the lighter end of the Warner B purviews, it will do just that with considerable satisfaction.”

Hollywood Reporter p8 Ag 29 '36

“This is an amusing comedy... The picture should please generally as average entertainment.”

Motion Pict Daily p6 Ag 31 '36

“Hollywood’s radio gossips, as an institution, are amusingly and satirically lampooned in this neat little B programmer which will carry its entertainment share on the duals and may advance itself through obvious exploitation possibilities.”

Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 29 '36

TEXAS RANGERS. Paramount 90min Ag 28 '36
Players: Fred MacMurray, Jack Oakie, Joan
Walter, Lloyd Nolan, Edward Ellis
Director: King Vidor

Based on a book of same title by Walter Prescott Webb. “[IT] attempts to picture definitely the contribution of the Rangers to the civilizing of the West, the taming of maurading Indians, the wiping out of stock rustling and of banditry. To do so it centers on three badmen, two of whom enter the ranger service as under-cover partners to the third. But the spirit of the service gets under TEXAS RANGERS—Continued

their skins and step by step they rise to the new ideal until they find themselves pitted against the hostile partner. Thus it is war to the death, even between friends."—Hollywood Reporter

Audience Suitability Ratings

A: depends on taste; Y: good of kind; C: very exciting.

Christian Century p1036 S 9 '36

Good. Mature-family. "DAR

+ Fox W Coast Bul Ag 29 '36

Family-mature.

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 7 '36

Family.

Nat Council of Jewish Women S 2 '36

Stage coach holdups and Indian warfare contribute to the excitement of this excellent Western. General patronage.

+ + Nat Legion of Decency S 3 '36

"Handed on a large scale, it is an out-of-the-ordinary Western story. . . Scenically and photographically the production is outstandingly good. A thoroughly enjoyable film in all parts, it offers a vivid picture of a lawless period in American history. Ably directed and acted. Fabricated family.

+ Sel Motion Pict S 1 '36

"It is always interesting and has several high points of tense drama, with plenty of adventurous action. Family-juvenile."

+ Wkly Guide Ag 22 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"A carefully executed, better-than-average Western which except for full feature showings in Texas, would have benefited by additional cutting."

+ Christian Science Monitor p17 S 5 '36

"The story of Texas Rangers' differs from most of the documentary sort in that the characters it presents are second in importance to the history it relates. But it is none the less a stirring recital, packed with drama and enlivened with comedy touches possessing the virtue of being legitimate place in the story. Jack Oakie never before gave such a performance, nor has he even hinted at his ability to scale the heights he achieves under Vidor's direction."

+ Hollywood Spec p5 Ag 29 '36

"It is an excellent overlong photoplay. . . "The Rangers" is much more than a Western picture. It even is much more than a glorified Western. It is, rather, a cinematic case-history of the Rangers. Director King Vidor . . . to be credited with performing a valuable feat of recording native history. He also may be thanked for giving the picture some of the most breath-takingly lovely background shots ever made."

+ Lit Digest p22 S 5 '36

"This picture is beautifully produced by King Vidor and ably directed by King Vidor, but King Vidor's story is something else again. It might have walked perfunctorily through his part. . . Truth is, the picture belongs to Edward Cronjager for very beautiful camera work, and also to Oakie and Lillian Nolan for fine comedy and excellent drama, respectively. . . As a picture 'The Texas Rangers' may be O.K., but as a film story it's pretty terrible." Bob Wagner

Script p11 S 5 '36

"In Dallas, where 'The Texas Rangers' last fortnight, the premiere, audiences were delighted to find all early white residents of their State, not excluding desperadoes as high-flying, swash-buckling citizens in sharp contrast with those cheap chisellers, the Indians. Audiences elsewhere are likely to excise the picture for its pardonable bias on the grounds of an entertaining value enhanced by King Vidor's vigorous interpretation of the story."

Time p20 S 7 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Taking a surging story of early Texas, Procrucer-Director King Vidor conclusively proves it is possible to make a Western which will rank high among the season's hits. Not only does it rate as Grade-A action entertainment, but it also has tremendous exploitable possibilities, having been designed as the official picture of the widely publicized Texas Centennial. Family."

+ Box Office p25 Ag 29 '36

"This should be a showman's delight. It has much action and is semi-historical, showing how law and order came to the frontier state of Texas. The work of the Rangers in subduing marauding Indians, cattle rustlers and other bandits is related in exciting fashion. It is rich in comedy and thrills, with Edward Cronjager's wonderful photography turning the unusually beautiful backgrounds for scenes between the Rangers and the Indians."

+ Film Daily p1 Ag 22 '36

"King Vidor's courageous attempt to film with glory a traditional Western with superb production values and names that will pull is only partly successful. It is gorgeous, but it is gory, and the endless fighting and killing, continued for some 90 minutes, will wear out its welcome with many audiences before the off-screen epilogue in praise of the service that forms its anti-climactic finish. Further shortening will help, but it is essentially man's picture. It is a question if it can take A rating in the top spots for any sensational returns."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 19 '36

"Following the well-established story situations familiar to its type, but turned out with lavishness in scale, 'The Texas Rangers,' first cordially has been received by the trade. Fred MacMurray, who is box-office in any man's theatre these days, a rapidly-moving epic punctuated by hard riding, exciting fights and generous gunplay. There is another factor which may add immeasurably to the substantial potential drawing power of the attraction, which is the fact that some time has elapsed since the last big outdoor Western has been given to the public. With three main story elements—friendship, adventure and romance—skillfully, although obviously staged, this picture has appeal, enhanced by production values on a large scale."

+ Motion Picture Daily p9 Ag 20 '36

"Action crammed melodrama that is really an epic Western, 'The Texas Rangers' is a showman's attraction that just oozes with selling possibilities."

+ Phila Exhibitor p10 S 1 '36

"It is a splendid piece of mass entertainment and a money picture of smash calibre with a wealth of exploitable assets, headed by the Fred MacMurray and Jack Oakie names. . . Approach is semi-historic, with feeling of essential accuracy. . . Jack Oakie tops all his past performances with a flawless comedy-pathos creation—a truly great exhibit of humorous acting. . . An epic Western which equals anything of this nature the screen has seen and one which will drive to the heart of any audience."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p8 Ag 19 '36

THEY MET IN A TAXI. Columbia 70min S 1 '36

Players: Chester Morris, Fay Wray. Raymond Walburn. Lionel Stander

Director: Alfred E. Green

Chester Morris, a happy-go-lucky taxi driver decides to help Fay Wray when she darts into a cab and begs him to protect her from a loveless marriage. Later he finds she is implicated in a jewel robbery. With the help of a reformed convict taxi driver, he locates the real thief.

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocore; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency S 17 '36

"Talky, but the talk is fairly amusing.

Family."  +  Wky Guide S 5 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Without wishing to appear soft where Hollywood’s double-feature factories are concerned, this reviewer feels compelled to give one or two very short cheers in regard to the current quickie 'They Met in a Taxi.' One cheer is for the rubicund Raymond Walburn and the other belongs to the beetle-browed Lionel Stander."  J. T. M. N Y Times p20 S 7 '36

"[It is] a light, bubbling, rapidly moving little photoplay which although of no great importance it is at least a guarantee of having wholesome fun and pleasurable chuckles. . . . This bit of what Dudley Nichols calls escape motion picture entertainment is well worth seeing if you aren’t too exacting about your screen fare.”  William Boehnel  +  N Y World-Telegram p24 S 6 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Paced by 70 minutes of hilarious dialogue and a carload of 12-cylinder situations, this film is a sure-fire fan picture; unpretentious but highly entertaining."  Box Office p33 Ag 15 '36

"Falling in the category of attractions that depend more on entertainment values than marquee strength to provide satisfaction, this picture should have no trouble serving its purpose. It’s a nice all-around job of good writing, effective gagging, pappy direction and excellent work by players who fit their roles appropriately and work hard to put them over."  +  Film Daily p11 S 9 '36

"[It] clicks off plenty of chuckles in the 'It Happened One Night' vein. While the picture is missing the smacko star draw of a Gable or Colbert, it is entirely satisfying program fare and should please for Morris and Miss Wray in lifting them out of the ruts into which recent parts have consigned them."  Hollywood Reporter p4 Jl 29 '36

"Fashioned of tried and true material, this makes the grade as better than average audience entertainment. Well directed, nicely produced and acted with enthusiasm by feature and supporting players, the film has a popular appeal that presages mass appreciation."  +  Motion Pict Daily p11 Jl 31 '36

"Estimate: fair."  +  Phila Exhibitor p33 Ag 15 '36

"Finely-meshed combination of an aggressive, fast-moving story, an excellent cast and ambitious work with the production, makes 'They Met in a Taxi' good entertainment for the masses."  +  Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 29 '36

36 HOURS TO KILL

20th century-Fox 65 min. Jan 18 '36

Players: Brian Donlevy, Gloria Stuart, Douglas Fowley, Isabel Jewell, Warren Hryner

Director: Eugene Forde

Based on a short story of the same title by W. R. Burnett. Most of the action takes place on a train where a detective is pursuing a crook. The crook who is on his way to cash a sweepstakes ticket for $250,000 takes the detective’s girl along as hostage.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Family."  +  Am Legion Auxiliary

"It varies pleasantly in that most of the action takes place on a train. Adults: good; family: good; 14-18: fair; 8-14: no."  Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"There is a lot of romance between a G-man and a girl reporter, and suspense when the girl is captured by the 'mob,' but both situations are too familiar to be more than mildly entertaining. Mature."  +  Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs

"Mediocre. Mature."  DAR

"As usual these plots are clever and tense, and the interplay of an interesting love motif, gives relief and balance to a most entertaining picture. Family."  S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"Due to a capable cast, well maintained suspense and elements of mystery, the picture will probably be enjoyed by the general public as a good entertainment of high grade. Mature."  Women’s Univ Club Los Angeles

"Fox W Coast Bul Ag 1 '36"

"In all interesting and exciting entertainment. Family: mature."  +  Fed of Women’s Clubs (W Coast) Jl 24 '36

"Family, exclusive of young children."  *Jt Estimates Jl 15 '36"

"A compact, swift moving G-man thriller that moves with staccato speed which holds interest, mystery and romance. . . . Family."  +  Nat Council of Jewish Women Jl 22 '36

"Adults."  +  Nat Legtion of Decency Ag 12 '36

"There is a bit of romance between a G-man and a girl reporter, and suspense when the girl is captured by the 'mob' but both situations are too familiar to be more than mildly entertaining. Family, exclusive of young children."  +  *Sei Motion Pict Ag 1 '36"

"A G-man story with some novel twists and a good deal of humor making fast and amusing melodrama, quite well done. Mature."  +  Wky Guide Ag 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[It is] a routine thriller."  +  Christian Science Monitor p14 Ag 15 '36

"[It is] a moderately entertaining melodrama. . . . The new film, another of many dealing with the G-men, is at its best during its first half when it discusses the dilemma of a gangster who, rather unwillingly, is promoted from Public Enemy No. 5 to Public Enemy No. 1. . . . The picture veers from its quasi-humorou path into the more familiar melodrama channels, ending with the usual climactic gun duel in the gangster’s hideaway."  T.M.E.

"Don't Do It Times p6 Ag 15 '36"

"Though it would seem that these hip-pocket automatic rocketeer melodramas have about run their course, it succeeds in filling out with 36 HOURS TO KILL—Continued

quick electric turns of plot and merry dialogue, a film hour and a half worth seeing. . . Although this may sound less than sensational and original, it makes an effective program picture, and these are not often stumbled over on Broadway this summer. The cast . . . is in every way excellent, playing up as a pleasant programmer containing more merit than many a so-called special." Herb Sterne

+ — Script p.13 Ag 5 '36

"It is [a] highly genial, rapid and unimportant melodrama."

+ — Time p.29 Ag 3 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A new twist which plants much of the action in the terrain is all that distinguishes this from the current quota of "G-Men-Public Enemy" films. It is no better or worse than the average of this category and will prove satisfactory entertainment for the fans who like crime-does-not-pay action."

+ — Trade p.8 Jl 1 '36

"This is another in the G-Man cycle, which, because it is shrewdly directed by Eugene Forde, is played in a light vein with comedy the principal element. The picture should please average audiences."

+ — Motion Pict Daily p.8 Jl 20 '36

"Estimate: for neighborhoods, twin bills."

Phila Exhibitor p.35 Ag 1 '36

"This G-man film has a novel twist. It's an amusing yarn about youth unemployment on a wild picture and will require support. Good cast, but possesses no compelling box office draft."

+ — Variety p.21 Jr 15 '36

"Neatly conived, fast-stepping G-man crook melodrama which will satisfy in the spots for which it is made. Most of the players know their way around for entertainment purposes and take full advantage of their opportunities."

+ — Variety (Hollywood) p.5 Jl 18 '36

THOROUGHBRED. British empire 78min

Players: Helen Twelvetrees. Frank Leigh

Director: Ken G. Hall

A dialogue film produced in Australia. A horse, won in a crap game by an unemployed newspaper man, turns out to be the inevitable thoroughbred and involves him in a maze of trouble.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The director is clearly working with in-experienced personnel. The photography is variable. Though poor at times there are some good outdoor shots. The acting is mediocre. Helen Twelvetrees is decorative but unconvincing as the heroine. Suitability: adults & adolescents. Scene: from scenes depicting horse racing, of which some may disapprove, this film is a family film."

+ + Mo Film Bul pl.11 Jl 36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency Je 11 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This Australian picture is a mixture. It opens weakly and drifts for a while, suffering meantime to poor photography and indifferent sound. Then it gets into its stride and finishes up with a good stretch of old-fashioned thrilling melodrama that will bring most average audiences to their feet."

+ — Hollywood Reporter p.7 Jl 30 '36

"This Australian production, sponsored by Sir Douglas, is a thriller magnate, has some very good racing scenes, taken on the Melbourne course, as its high spot. . . There is a certain amount of value also in the Australian atmosphere. As a story it is very crude stuff, not helped by indifferent recording."

+ + Motion Pict Daily p.9 Jl 24 '36

"Good race-track drama when it sticks to the race track. . . The best that can be hoped for is number two on a dual bill. Yet, for all its faults (mechanical, technical) the picture spells pretty fair average entertainment."

+ + Variety p.15 Je 3 '36

THREE CHEERS FOR LOVE. Paramount 63min Je 26 '36

Director: George McCarey

Music and lyrics: Ralph Rainger. Leo Robin

Eleanor Whitney is sent by her father, a motion picture producer, to a boarding school which is ready to close for lack of pupils.
A stranded dancing troupe puts on a show with Eleanore as star. When her father sees it, he gives them all contracts for Hollywood.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: poor; Y: probably harmless; C: no."

Christian Century p1143 Ag 26 '36

"Mediocre. Mature. Family." DAR — Fox W Coast Bul Jl 18 '36

"Sequences in a fashionable school filled with the merry rhythm of song and fascinating tap dance numbers which will surely intrigue youngsters, and oldsters alike... The up-to-the-minute versions of the modern tap will prove interesting to young America. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Of no particular value but harmless for all ages." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Family." Nat Soc of New England Women

"A rather unconvincing story—the successful racket of a cheap theatrical manager—is somewhat redeemed by smart lines, effective dance numbers, and the clever character work of Elizabeth Patterson and William Frawley. Adults, (possible for family)." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Trade Paper Reviews

"The plot is vague and sketchy, but forms a background for the excellent dancing of Eleanore Whitney and catchy songs including, 'Where Is My Heart.'" Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Jl 15 '36

"Family." Jt Estimates Jl 15 '36

"Suitability: family." Mo Film Bul p120 Jl '36

"Trite and unconvincing, this musical comedy is redeemed only by the fine tap-dancing of Eleanore Whitney and a good cast which is worthy of something much better... Fair entertainment for the family and junior matinees." + Nat Council of Jewish Women Jl 15 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Jl 16 '36

"Family." Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"It is a nice question whether so many films are poor because of double bills or double bills came in because so many films were poor. This is for the bottom brackets." — Christian Science Monitor p13 Ag 22 '36

"Paramount should recut this one, eliminate most of the story, all of the 'comedy,' half of the tap dancing, and release the remainder as a short. There are about two reels of pleasant entertainment in it... 'Three Cheers for Love' is a class B production." — Hollywood Spec p15 Jl 4 '36

"Paramount's unpretentious contribution to the current tap-dancing craze, 'Three Cheers for Love,' is a lightweight farce that works diligently in its attempt to produce laughs. And while this is playing the little Eleanore Whitney it has a catching rhythmic flavor. But for the most part this is but a tepid though enthusiastically enacted affair that affords mild diversion." (½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p29 Ag 8 '36

"Eleanore Whitney's tap talent is on a par with the entire production—small time, uninspired." New Theatre p23 S '36

"The most harmless picture of the year is on display at the Roxy Theater. An amiable and furiously innocuous screen musical succeeds... stretched to feature length. It will annoy no one and may please a few people here and there. Even if you happen to find yourself in a theater where 'Three Cheers for Love' is being shown, there is no reason for you to flee from it in dispair. You cannot, however, recommend that you drop everything else and rush off to see it." Richard Watts, Jr.

— N Y Herald Tribune p6 Ag 1 '36

"'Three Cheers for Love' doesn't pretend to be anything but nonsense. It is far from distinguished nonsense, but its dancers are light-footed, its comics hard working, and one of its tunes catchy... This is really a quickie musical, uneptentiously made, with no big names in the cast—Eileen Creelman + N Y World-Telegram p15a Ag 1 '36

"[It is a slight impediment to cheerfulness in the cinema.] (1) [It] is a nursery exercise in musical comedy high-jinks with a score that is prettily commonplace and in some of the most uninspired dance routines that the screen has yet offered... The older players in the cast... are quite convincing in that they proceed with a professional touch, but the young-sters, especially Eleanore Whitney and Robert Cummings, whom theycall the stars are as amateurish as the film itself." William Boehnel + N Y World-Telegram p15a Ag 1 '36

"With little more than the dancing of Eleanore Whitney and the comedy of John Halliday, Roscoe Karns and William Frawley to recommend it, this film falls into the category of an amateur picture, Family." + — Box Office p27 Jl 4 '36

"As a catchy musical show with a lot of clever tap dancing, songs that should prove popular, and a number of interesting new faces, this number makes very enjoyable program entertainment. It is light and moves quickly so for a summer picture it hits the spot nicely." + — Film Daily p4 Je 27 '36

"This is light musical fare offering good production flashes and should fit happily on most program engagements. The lack of any plot for a musical film is not a fault, and although the story is slight and handicaps, rather than helps the player, it also leaves them free to concentrate on musical numbers which are delightfully presented... The picture should get over as average entertainment." + — Motion Pict Daily p22 Je 25 '36

"Program musical that has some nice flashes but which is short on what the marquee needs, this summer entertainment that won't make much impression but which will serve as passable fare for neighborhoods." + — Phila Exhibitor p26 Jl 15 '36

"'Three Cheers for Love' is anything but three cheers as a film. Concocted in a routine manner, with dialog which is frequently trite, and provided with a plot that is a weak excuse for the song and dance numbers tossed into it, this musical entertainment is disappointing. However, its only saving graces are a few laughs, (too few) and some fairly good song and dance numbers." + — Variety p16 Ag 5 '36

"Acceptable musical built around the familiar theme of a theatrical troupe invading a girls' seminary and posing as the pupils. Despite the trite theme, McEnery's direction and Ray McCarey's direction have made it pleasant entertainment." + — Variety (Hollywood) p3 Je 24 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
THREE MARRIED MEN. Paramount 60min S 11 '36
Players: Roscoe Karns, William Frawley, Lynne Overman, Mary Brian, George Barriere, Marjorie Gateson
Director: Eddie Buzzell
"The family of Roscoe Karns, the bridegroom, hates the family of Mary Brian, the bride, and all the relatives behave with incredibly bad taste at the wedding. Determined to strike a romantic note from the start, Karns dons comically exotic pajamas. His bride falls into嘿嘿 world of alcohol, but rises and later dies. After the ensuing quarrel runs home in her negligee to her parents." Motion Pict Daily

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Adults." Nat Legion of Decency S 10 '36
"Family." Wily Guide S 5 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Dedicated to the proposition that marriage is a bed of thorns, not roses, this film is 80-minute tour de force of boisterous comedy. Family." + Box Office p23 S 12 '36
"A light-headed satirical farce about a marriage in plumbing and garage circles that will evoke a bundle of laughs and a couple of guffaws in less exacting neighborhoods. Its evident purpose is to provide a bit of balancing gayety for double bills in secondary spots at minimum expense. This it will do with reasonable satisfaction. ... Most of the gags have been seen much active service. They are freshly served and kept tripping over one another at a lively pace, thanks to Director Eddie Buzzell's resourcefulness, but the imbecilic character of the entire proceedings is emphasized by the lack of mental normality in the comic characte... - Hollywood Reporter p4 Ag 28 '36
"Based on the provincial premise that there is something side-splitting funny about any wedding night, this comedy gams heavily through forced situations, gathering as many laughs as it does chuckles. ... The cast deserves better material." Motion Pict Daily p3 Ag 29 '36

"Obviously made to fill out the double bill, 'Three Married Men' has turned out to be a top-notch vehicle which will help build any program through word of mouth advertising. It is good clean comedy that keeps the audience laughing and is light enough to be enjoyed by children and adults. Without a star name, the cast is made up of players who have their individual followings and there are enough of them to make this fact have an important bearing on box office results. The reception tendered 'Three Married Men' will undoubtedly cause Paramount to plant Karns, Frawley and Overman in movie pictures of the kind which will be good news to exhibitors." Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 28 '36

THREE MAXIMS. Wilcox 75min
Players: Anna Neagle, Tullio Carminati, Leslie Banks, Horace Hodges
Director: Herbert Wilcox
Dialogue film produced in England. The story concerns three trapeze performers in a small French circus. The two men are tourists to love in the giant, and the trapeze in the troupe. On the opening night of their act at a famous French theatre, the unsuccessful lover plans to let his rival fall to his death, but changes his mind when the girl, sensing his intentions, faints. She is rescued and the three are reconciled.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The three stars all appear remarkably at home on the trapeze, and there is no sign of faking or 'too phony.' A film with a fresh appeal and plenty of excitement. Suitability: adults & adolescents." Mo Film Bul p114 Jl '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A completely satisfying entertainment for ticket buyers and a first class production job all around. ... Chalk up several red stars to director Herbert Wilcox, both for swift and sure direction and for a splendidly improved Anna Neagle. He has severely reduced her tendency to be rather too skittish, and she does a grand job as the apex of the triangle. All in all a fine piece of entertainment, certain box office on this side [London] and with a good bit more than a chance for America." + Hollywood Reporter p4 Jl 14 '36

"Big virtue of this personally directed Herbert Wilcox production is that it has the punch in the right place. The final scenes picture the climax of a triangular drama of jealousy and revenge in which the actors are three trapeze artists. ... This is good stuff, well directed, well played and altogether convincing. Good audience material, it is also first class exploitation, subject property. The showman are the names of Tullio Carminati and Leslie Banks, with that of Anna Neagle for places where she is known. Certainly it is her best performance." + Motion Pict Daily p16 Jl 10 '36

"Not so very long ago, Anna Neagle was a chorus girl. She was pretty and bad youth, but her talents were undeveloped. Herbert Wilcox presented her with negative results. This picture reveals a natural spontaneity and a very lovely personality that clicks. ... She is brilliantly supported by Carminati and Leslie Banks, two standard actors of repute who acquit themselves admirably. ... Elemental enough in story, but the general effect is excellent, due to the strong cast and admirable direction. Circus atmosphere is correct and vivid, as are also the theatre scenes in Paris. In the opening scenes the background of a French peasant village is faithfully depicted." Variety p21 Jl 15 '36

THREE OF A KIND, Invincible 73min My 20 '36
Players: Evalyn Knapp, Chic Chandler, Berton Churchill, Bradley Page
Director: Phil Rosen

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A, Y and C: fair comedy." Parents' M p48 Ag '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Fairly entertaining romantic comedy with good number of laughs okay for popular bills." + Film Daily p11 Jl 24 '36

"Independently made 'Three of a Kind' represents pretty fair results. It is the situations and the plotting rather than the weight of story. The combination of romance that makes this subject acceptable. The comedy treatment is an asset, even if none of the laughs is of the heavyweight calibre." + Variety p23 Jl 1 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + - Fair; + - Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
THREE ON THE TRAIL. Sherman-Paramount
67min Ap 24 '36
Onslow Stevens. Muriel Evans
Director: Howard Bretherton
See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews
of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A good clean western comedy. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary
"Adults: good Western; 14-18: good; 8-14:
good. Family." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers
"Beautiful outdoor photography, fast-riding and plenty of humor make this series above the average in entertainment for Western type.
Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs
"Good. Mature-family." DAR
"Family, exclusive of nervous children." Nat
Soc of New England Women
"A thrilling Western, in a most realistic dessert setting, with fine horsemanship, characterizations and linking scenes. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women "In quite leisurely tempo . . . the story is pictured against a background of scenic mountain country, beautifully photographed.
Family." Mrs T. G. Winter
+ Fox W Coast Bui Je 20 '36
"Family." Jt Estimates Je 15 '36
"It is not the best of the Hop-a-long Cas-dy series, but those who have enjoyed the others will doubtless be pleased by this.
Adolescents, 12-16: good; children, 8-12: too exciting." + — Motion Pict R Jl '36
"A stereotyped Western with a hackneyed story, wild riding, much shouting and spectacular gun play. Family & junior matinees." + Nat Council of Jewish Women

THREE WISE GUYS. MGM 72min My 15 '36
Players: Robert Young. Betty Furness.
Raymond Walburn. Thurston Hall. Bruce
Cubot
Director: George B. Seitz
See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews
of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A: depends on taste; Y: not the best;
C: no." Christian Century p1095 Ag 12 '36
"It] provides excellent light entertainment.
Family." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers
"The dialogue was smart and carefully timed; the cast wisely chosen, with acting honors going to Raymond Walburn as 'Doc.
Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs
"Mature-mediocre." DAR
"Family." E Coast Preview Committee
"A far-fetched story, loosely constructed but very lively and diverting with clever dialogue and many amusing situations. Mature." Nat Soc of New England Women
"Clever action, peppy dialogue and interesting locales result in good entertainment for the family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women
Fox W Coast Bui Je 27 '36
"[It is] a light frothy picture . . . The good work of the well chosen cast, clever dialogue and adroit direction gives this picture its entertainment value. Adults & young people." + Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W, Coast)
Je 14 '36
"Mature." Jt Estimates Je 15 '36
"[It is] a trivial comedy. It is well directed and moves at a lively clip with some amusing situations and fairly entertaining dialogue, but if you miss it you need not repine. Adolescents, 12-16: no value, subject matter not recommended; children, 8-12: no." + — Motion Pict R Jl '36
"Family." Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 17 '36
"A; implausible but fairly entertaining; Y: unethical; C: hardly." Parents' M p46 Jl '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"Those who are possessed of an extraordinarily sweet tooth-no doubt relish these Demol Runyon confections, . . . The comedy is amusingly enough played, the action is rapid, the entire result extremely movie." Herb Sterne
+ — Script p12 Je 20 '36

TICKET TO PARADISE. Republic 65min Jl 10 '36
Players: Roger Pryor, Wendy Barrie. Claude
Gillingwater. Andrew Tombs
Director: Aubrey Scotto
The adventures of a young amnesia victim who learns his identity, wins a young socialite and closes a business deal.

Audience Suitability Ratings
"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Jl 9 '36
"A and Y: entertaining; C: if interested." Parents' M p76 S '36
"It is well directed and includes some situations that are amusing and some that are both dull and extravagant. However, the moments of romance and thrills hold interest. Adults & young people." + — Sel Motion Pict Ag 1 '36
"Family." Wkly Guide Je 27 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"[It is] a rather feeble and stumbling copy of the Drewer's Millions theme. . . Frankly,
I doubt whether the antics in the film are of a kind to divert ordinary moviegoers.
However, they may be of some interest to students of amnesia and so to them the film is recommended." William Boehnel
+ — N Y Times p5 Ag 8 '36
"[It is] a rather feeble and stumbling copy
of the Drewer's Millions theme. . . Frankly,
I doubt whether the antics in the film are of a kind to divert ordinary moviegoers.
However, they may be of some interest
to students of amnesia and so to them the film is recommended." William Boehnel
+ — N Y Times p5 Ag 8 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"Fast and clever in both dialogue and action.
this is good light comedy to fill out any bill." + Box Office p27 Jl 4 '36

+ — Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

TICKET TO PARADISE—Continued

"This has comedy and action and is a pleasing number. Aubrey Scotto's direction is excellent and he got much out of the slender story."

Film Daily p8 Je 25 '36

"It is rather lightweight fare, thanks to a slender story and a script that lets down in spots, but what laughs it has are wholesome and hearty and it will hold up to needs for a bit with good dialogue, beautiful bills."

Hollywood Reporter p2 Je 20 '36

"This is at times amusing and occasionally a bit dull."

Motion Pic Daily p6 Je 22 '36

Estimate: neighborhood program.

Phil Exhibitor p69 Jl 1 '36

Ingratiating performances by Roger Pryor, Wendy Barrie and Claude Gillingwater go far in making this fantastic farce-comedy digestible. It contains full quota of movement, a number of chuckles and makes fair enough hot weather entertainment on duo combinations where definite contrast to heavy drama is needed. Marquee weakness will keep it in dual territory.

Variety p55 Jl 15 '36

"Aubrey Scotto takes this aggregation of light, fast-moving farcical situations, wraps it up in a bundle and goes to town. Aided by a well-paced, beautiful and smart dialogue, the director delivers a clever bill of entertainment that will please the average audience.

Variety (Hollywood) p3 Je 20 '36

TO MARY—WITH LOVE. 20th century-Fox 87min Ag 1 '36

Players: Warner Baxter, Myrna Loy, Ian Hunter, Claire Trevor

Director: John Cromwell

Based on a novel of the same title by Richard Sherman. The story is set in New York and is a detailed portrait of modern marriage during the ten years between 1925 and 1935. Against a panorama of events including the boom and the market crash, the marriage, the couple are brought together finally by a friend who has always been deeply in love with the wife.

Audience Suitability Ratings

A: very good; Y: very mature; C: no.

Christian Century p119 Ag 19 '36

"To Mary—With Love" will make a grand record as a sophitee's matinee, but it is doubtful if Friend Husband will agree in its popularity and appeal. Adults. Am Legion Auxiliary Adults: good; family: good; 14-18: good; 8-14: mature." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

Good. Mature." DAR

"A well constructed and well acted social drama full of dialogue. The background nicely photographed and attractive musical accompaniment. Lavish drinking which seems the nucleus of the plot. Adults." Nat Soc of New England Women

An excellent supporting cast for the three capable principals, aided by good direction, make up this story and drama that rings true. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"The picture is interesting in spite of its large cast. While it is sincerely and plausibly presented, the acting is natural and convincing, the characters are worthwhile people, and the problems involved touch upon experiences we have encountered, at least in some of our neighbors' homes, if not in our own. Adults." Women's Unly Club, Los Angeles

"The director has made skillful use of all material giving us an unusually interesting and entertaining picture. Adults & young people."

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Jl 24 '36

"[II] provides absorbing entertainment. Adults."

Nat Council of Jewish Women Jl 22 '36

"Those of us who have lived through the teenthetic years following the War will enjoy the interesting interpretation of the highlights. Adults."

Legion of Decency Ag 6 '36

"Mature."

Sel Motion Pic Ag 1 '36

"An interesting and unusual triangle, with a colorful background of contemporary events. Mature."

Wkly Guide Jl 25 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"It may be suspected that John Cromwell would have been even more successful if the choice had fallen on a different set of characters. We belong a little too obviously to the circle of smart young folks to give the theme that universal appeal that it demands. The speech is just a trifle too snip and sparkling; their success comes a little too easily and the orbit of their rising fortunes is pitched a bit too high. To Mary—With Love is not a perfect film. But it does have more than the average of admirable qualities." E. F. M.

Boston Transcript p8 Ag 8 '36

"Given a pair whose experience is not quite typical of their class, the story has the merit of plausibility upon its own terms and an interesting cast. Entertainment for adults."

Christian Science Monitor p3 Ag 22 22 '36

"Cromwell gives us a picture which reveals rare understanding of human impulses and to which we give sympathetic emotional response. And because it is just an ordinary story, a simple one of situations in which we easily could imagine ourselves, we feel for the good people, understand them and with sustained interest follow their fortunes for the decade the story spans."

Hollywood Speck p7 Ag 1 '36

"The picture, in its broad outline, is quite familiar stuff, but so sincerely played that the pungent screen play by Sherman and Howard Smith is displayed to telling effect. As the primary menace to Miss Loy's marriage, Claire Trevor, playing a hedonistic drunkard, is a complete delight. Even with Baxter's stodgy work, the film has undeniable feeling and a sharply distinctive flavor that makes it a tearful treat for the up-to-date matron." (3 stars) Beverly Hills

Liberty p35 Ag 29 '36

"One of these fine days somebody with an eye for color and a clear recollection of the details of what Westbrook Pegler calls the era of wonderful nonsense will produce a film showing the daftly magnificence of Manhattan as a few surviving veterans knew and loved it a decade ago. It is a wistful subject, reputedly with sure-fire historic potentialities, but the idea men leagued in the production of the work on view this week at the Paramount. They missed opportunities in the favor of a shockingly banal saga of bourgeoisie domesticity...[It is] a banana-split drama of marital maladjustment. Concretized in sickening quantity of hugging and bussing on the part of Miss Loy and Mr. Baxter,
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

123

Of the inevitable emotional shoulngs of life, and eventual reconciliation again indicated by a crescendo of passers and sentiment, between these two, there isn't a motive that isn't tiresomely antique or an interlude that isn't characterized by rather pat conventional kiss and revolts of the sensibilities of even the half-judicious." —Lucius Beebe

"To Mary—With Love' is a film sketch of the last decade that you are who is thirty and perhaps a part of that whirl of jazz, speakeasies, mushroom millionaires and Babylonian gayety which characterized the brief era from 1920 can hardly afford to miss. . . . Lest you forget, the era is recaptured for you in the meticulously directed film treatment of Twenty-First Century Fox's novel, thirty years. The story teams Myrna Loy and Warner Baxter. . . . Somehow though, to one who likes Loy films, this is a film that tonned Warner Baxter carefree and debonair, this inherently wooly story seems unsuited to the two. To be frank about it, Ian Hunter, kid the other man . . . rather steals the picture from the note team. . . . " —N Y Sun p10 Ag 27 '36

"There is at the Paramount this week more footage of fol-de-rol playing at being real—To Mary—With Love'. . . . Most of the scenes are circa 1926 and so is the technique." —Douglas Gilbert

"To Mary—With Love" is on the program at the Warner Theatre.

"There are no surprises, I assure you, in 'To Mary—With Love.' Myrna Loy and Warner Baxter outline ten years of married life in this rather painful brief. . . . They suffer and suffer and at last decide the only way to go on suffering, and that's all there is to it." —John Mosher

"New Yorker" p67 S 5 '36

"The tragedy of a man broken in morale by the depression and a two-year binge is so candid that little remains but a man-weeds-girl-trouch-set-up—comes-out-o-k. fomula movie." —News-Wk p27 S 5 '36

"Unfortunately credible material is often trite and with a two-year binge has been around extreme at world economic trends. The wife-turning to the social whirl for the same reason . . . the years forming a chasm between the two. Vidor's 'The Crowd' handled a similar theme but through honesty and power became one of the screen's features that will live. . . . The picture suffers when it becomes maudlin, loses through over emphasis. Younger leading men would make some of the situations more sympathetic, the emotional floundering less turgid. " —Herb Sterne

Two Stars —N Y Herald Tribune p13 Ag 27 '36

"This movie is too much like life to be spectacular entertainment. Nevertheless it is a biting case history of what has happened to some men through the great economic trends. Last ten years. . . . To Mary—With Love' loses pace by being told through the eyes of a bystander instead of an actual participant. For the same reason it gains sensibility." — Time p28 Ag 10 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This could have been titled 'To Showmen—With Profit'. A brilliant script, masterful direction, and able acting by actors like Myrna Loy, Warner Baxter and Ian Hunter merge with the intelligent production guidance of Kenneth MacGowan to make a picture rating tops. Family." —Box Office p25 Jl 25 '36

"A penetrating and incisively detailed portrait of modern marriage with emotional values keenly compounded to make a screenplay of distinguished worth. . . . This picture is headed for big returns all up and down the line. It is, in a word, a box office blessing. . . ." —Hollywood Reporter p5 Jl 17 '36

"The film makes a direct appeal to feminine patronage, yet it is of compelling interest to general audiences. . . . The situations and dialogue are effectively blended and aim to stir sympathetic emotions. Devoid of anything that smacks of artificial theatrics, the human quality of the story is impressive. It gives Baxter, Miss Loy, Hunter and Miss Trevor many opportunities to contribute exceptional performances." —Motion Pic Daily p3 Jl 18 '36

"Drama that women should like, backed by names. 'To Mary—With Love' ought to be a good entry for nominations. . . ." —Phila Exhibitor p35 Ag 1 '36

"It . . . does not lend itself well to picturization. It will please in some measure and among some classes, mostly feminine. Probably on the popularity of the printed story. But equally true, it will make men restless and will lose its meandering triviality and lack of action. For juvenile (matinées, etc.) the picture is extremely dubious. . . . It is a pretentious hash-over of the semi-realistic glamorized Hollywood approach to unemployment and tough times. . . ." —Variety p21 S 3 '36

"The progress of a moving, tense, bitter-love story is in the hands with such production wisdom and such superlative acting that it comes close to being all things to all men as the entertainment. The box office should respond most prosperously to the picture's many graces, with the names of Warner Baxter, Miss Loy, Ian Hunter and Claire Trevor to lure the customers. . . ." —Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 17 '36

TRAILLIN' WEST. Warner 62min S 5 '36

Players: Dick Foran, Paula Stone, Robert Barrat, Addison Richards

Director: Noel Smith

A western melodrama with a Civil War background.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Fine horsemanship and beautiful horses are the redeeming features of this film, which children may enjoy. Family." —Am Legion Auxiliary

"Adults: good; family: good; 14-18; good; 8-14: too intense." —Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Beautiful scenery, excellent riding, thrilling physical combat and a cowboy with a pleasing voice, all combine to make picture unusually pleasing Western. Family." —Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Good. Mature-family." —DAR

"Family." —Nat Soc of New England Women

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — + Exceptionally Poor
TRAILIN' WEST—Continued

"A constructive picture for the family."
S Calif Council of Fed Church Women
+ Fox W Coast Bui Ji 4 '36

"If the average Western has advanced a step at a time, this picture has taken two steps backward... To be sure there are good views of mountainous country and daring horsemanship, but roistering saloon scenes and gambling make it questionable for juniors, although the script constitute the class which would overlook the weak points of the film. Adolescents, 12-16: poor; children, 8-12: no."
— Motion Pict R Jl '36

"Entertainment for the family & junior matiners."
Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 24 '36

"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency Ji 16 '36

"A, Y and C: poor."
Parents' M p70 S '36

"A good old-time Western. Family-juvenile."
+ Wkly Guide S 5 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Fair enough little Western is given an element of novelty by a Civil War setting. There are the full quota of fights and fast-riding action shots."
+ Hollywood Reporter p3 Je 17 '36

"The Civil War secret service slant makes this Western a little different and gives exhibitors a new exploitation angle... The screen play by Anthony Coldeway has better-than-usual dialogue and the photography by Sid Hickox adds considerably to the value of the production."
+ Motion Pict Daily p6 Je 18 '36

"Estimate: routine Western."
+ Phila Exhibitor p69 Jl 1 '36

TRAPPED BY TELEVISION. Columbia 83min Je 12 '36
Players: Mary Astor, Lyle Talbot. Nat Pendleton, Joyce Compton
Director: Del Lord

A young inventor of a television machine is opposed by crooked rival interests who try to destroy the new invention by demonstrating it to a corporation. The machine records the fight between the rivals and the inventor and makes the sale possible.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: hardly; Y: fair; C: possibly."
Christian Century p1947 Ji 29 '36

"[It is] a well acted, but stereotyped plot. Family." E Coast Preview Committee
+ — Fox W Coast Bui Ji 20 '36

"Lew Ayres' polished performance as the announcer just rescues the film from complete crudity. Special suitability: adults. The police battle at the end renders the film unsuitable for nervous or sensitive children."
— Mo Film Bui p107 Je '36

"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency Je 25 '36

"A, Y and C: fair melodrama."
Parents' M p70 S '36

"Family."
Sel Motion Pict Jl 1 '36

"Interesting and rather exciting. Family."
+ Wkly Guide Jl 13 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Trapped by Television" is a breezy, illogical concoction of comedy and melodrama. For its lighter moments, we are indebted to Nat Pendleton, who contributes a delightfully amusing performance even though he must wrestle with some fairly irate dialogue. T. M. P.
— N Y Times p31 Je 15 '36

"No permanent harm has been done by the production of 'Trapped by Television,' the spotty new melodrama. When it is said that the film is 'spotty melodrama' it is the intention of this reviewer to suggest that if the authors and director had taken time in its preparation and presentation and given it the attention that it deserves, 'Trapped by Television' might have resulted in a fairly diverting thriller."
— N Y World-Telegram p22 Je 17 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"The television slant given to this strictly routine affair is the only redeeming feature—for exploitation purposes—of an otherwise conventional concoction of romance, compassion and an unconvincing romance. Family."
— Box Office p75 Je 27 '36

"Trying to take advantage of the television era that it does upon us it furnishes a live theme of popular interest, but the subject is too big and important to be treated in such a loose, 10-20 minute pile of extraneous detail that means little or nothing. Bullying of televisual slant won't be much of a help for added patronage after opening day because there is much in this film that will disappoint."
— Variety p23 Je 17 '36

TUNDRA. Burroughs-Tarzan 78min Ag 15 '36
Player: Del Cambre
Director: Norman Dawn

The resourceful alone man makes a 460-mile trek thru the Alaskan tundra by a doctor whose plane crashes in the Arctic Circle. With a knife and a cigarette lighter, he manages to cross war ruins, glaciers, forests and icebergs and to adventure among countless wild animals.

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"A thin story thread weaves its way through what is fundamentally a travelogue (a good one, too) of the snow country and Nature proves a more exciting protagonist than many projected by a writer's pen... The film unreels a satisfyingly different evening for fans who are bored with routine celluloid fare. Magnificent when it focuses on the great outdoors, Tundra becomes rather crude stuff when human performers are introduced." Herb Sterne
+ — Script p10 Ag 29 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Replete with dramatic incidents, this picture will make a mark for itself at the box office. It has something that will appeal to every man, woman and child. The scenic grandeur alone is worth the price of admission and of equal appeal are the true life atmosphere and action, not only of the native Eskimos, but of the myriads of wild animals photographed in their natural habitat. Family."
+ Box Office p23 S 3 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

125

"Here is a refreshing picture that should please audiences generally. It is laid in an Alaskan wilderness with all types of animals sharing honors with Del Cumbre, the featured player. In fact, two bear cubs, found by Cumbre in his trek across the Arctic tundra, provide most of the laughs and they will be popular with adults as well as the youngsters."
+ Film Daily p4 Ag 25 '36

"This independent effort to do another 'Sequoia' has considerable merit in its natural history studies of the far north, and will prove interesting and valuable novelty in secondary houses and as an attraction for youngsters. The story is told with considerable effectiveness of each encounter with the wild inhabitants of the north, but creaks with a lack of polish in the episodes involving the human actors. Del Cumbre's work as the doctor likewise carries conviction in the woods, but misses fire in civilization."
+ Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 21 '36

Filmgoers with memories retentive enough will recognize, 'Two Against the World' as none other than that smash hit of five years ago, 'Five Star Final.' Although it has lost nearly all the bite and sting and vigor of the original, which smashed out at yellow journals, the idea is still strong enough to impress those who did not see it in its newspaper office background. However, for the most part, the film seems to me maladroitly written and at times almost oafishly clumsy in its mere mechanics." William Boehnel
+ N Y World-Telegram p10 Jl 13 '36

"Even without the punch lines of Louis Weitzenkorn's dialogue and its alien background the situation is strong enough to be good entertainment for those who missed the original."
+ Time p51 Jl 13 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This modernized version of 'Five Star Final' is a solid, swiftly-paced drama that should strike responsive chord with audiences. The story and dialogue give a well-chosen and capable cast full rein for their abilities."
+ Film Daily p3 Jl 11 '36

"What chances 'Two Against the World' might have had for single feature spots are considerably reduced by absence of novelty and illumination and commonplace direction and acting. 'Two Against the World' is too dull to get past the dual barrier."
+ Variety p31 Jl 15 '36

TWO AGAINST THE WORLD. Warner-First national 68min Jl 15 '36
Director: William McGann
See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: strong; Y: doubtful value; C: no."
Christian Century p105 Ag 12 '36

"Suitability: adults & adolescents."
Mo Film Bul p115 Jl '36

"A: protest against muck-raking more timely than pleasant; Y: mature; C: no."
Alaskan Parents' M p18 Ag '36

"Family."
Wkly Guide Jl 4 '36

Audience Suitability Ratings

"[It is] a mediocre tale. General patronage."
+ Nat Legion of Decency S 3 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"We forget what it was called the last time Columbia filmed it, but 'Two-Fisted Gentleman' is the same old story about the young middleweight who could not stand prosperity. Altogether a picture of decidedly juvenile appeal."
F. S. Nugent
+ N Y Times p11 Ag 21 '36

"In this corner James Dunn, in the other June Clayworth, his manager-wife, with the lucky blonde always in the middle. Ten rounds of moralizing, but they left the baby out of the one in the last round."
G. Gilbert
+ N Y World-Telegram p13 Ag 24 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"With nothing in it for fresh interest except the pleasing June Clayworth as a prize-fight manager and her husband Dunn Douglas as the leather-pushing sap, this well-worn story about the fighter who goes society is just for the secondary and spots."
+ Film Daily p4 Ag 25 '36

"With some slight but effective changes from routine formula, this melodrama of the prizefighting ring manages to be entertaining fare. A genuine atmosphere of the ring and

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
TWO-FISTED GENTLEMAN—Continued

On Phila Hollywood

Hollywood Motion

TWO IN A CROWD. Universal 85min Ag 30 '36

Players: Joan Bennett, Joel McCrea, Elissa Cook, Jr. Alison Skipworth

Director: Alfred E. Green

"Joel McCrea, horse owner who is broke, and Joan Bennett, similarly situated, each come into possession of a torn half of a $1,000 bill. Neither trusts the other and they jointly buy a horse." Motion Pict Daily

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency S 17 '36

"The plot is a bit complicated which makes the story drag at times, but there are plenty of amusing situations and a light comedy touch is retained throughout. Family." + Wkly Guide S 5 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The story is a wild, unbelievable piece of patchwork, about as crazy as a Marx Brothers comedy. As a story it is much poorer than the majority of those from which much poorer pictures are made, but it was fortunate enough to fall into the hands of a first class director who has an intelligent appreciation of the camera's status as the screen's story-telling medium. To A Green the play was not the thing. He used it merely as raw material to be fashioned into acceptable entertainment." + Hollywood Spec p7 Ag 15 '36

"A spightly beginning dwindles into a routine and stodgily unfolded little plot that is neither surprising nor always believable. . . The picture, has no suspense and displays very little [else] to take its place." (1½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p46 S 19 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Here's a picture that should be the office successor to 'Broadway Bill.' It has all of the thrills, comedy and romance of the Baxter-Loy films." + Box Office p31 Ag 15 '36

"A very capable cast tries hard in this picture and there are a number of bright enjoyable spots. However, between these points, much of the material is dull and one's interest lags. The elimination of a lot of useless footage and the addition of a few snappy scenes would do much to give the show some more pep. The piece makes a play for comedy, and now and then some good hefty laughs are obtained." + Film Daily p8 Ag 8 '36

"It's frothy stuff in the modern vein, underplaying melodramatic cliches in favor of the human, love-on-the-run approach. Joel McCrea and Joan Bennett breeze through the boy-meets-girl leads in snappy style." + Hollywood Reporter p5 Ag 5 '36

"An interesting comedy-romance for audiences and offering exploitation material for showmen, this film is light and airy with considerable fun in the romance situations, hints of melodrama and plenty of excitement. Comedy is the element to be stressed in the selling." + Motion Pict Daily p12 Ag 13 '36

"Pleasant comedy, with names to sell, this is an enjoyable entrant that all should like. Because it has good players it should do a nice business." + Phila Exhibitor p37 Ag 15 '36

"'Two in a Crowd' is a tail-end of the 'It Happened One Night' cycle. . . A capable cast works hard to make the picture interesting and succeeds in making it but mildly so. . . Main trouble is a thin story with occasional good lines of dialog which hop it up; however, mainly it is a struggle." + Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 5 '36

UNGDOM AV 1 DAG. See Youth of today

UNKNOWN RANGER. Darmour-Columbia 55min S 15 '36

Players: Bob Allen, Martha Tibbett, Buzzy Henry

Director: Spencer Gordon Bennett

A western melodrama.

Trade Paper Reviews

"This first Bob Allen Western produced by Larry Darmour for Columbia release sets a new altitude record for freshness of story and originality of treatment. It is the most entertaining broncho play seen hereabouts for many moons and audiences will heartily agree wherever Westerns are box office currency." + Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 15 '36

"Every Western needs a little something different and this one makes two bids for distinction. Besides a full measure of hard riding, there is a fight between two stallions and some very fair roping and riding by a tiny boy, Buzzy Henry." + Motion Pict Daily p15 Ag 18 '36

"Fast moving Western, this should be a strong build-up for Robert Allen as a Western star." + Phila Exhibitor p40 S 1 '36

"Producer Larry Darmour reveals in 'The Unknown Ranger' that he has an attraction capable of lining up with the others which are bringing big cash returns to those houses which play the horse operas." + Variety (Hollywood) p3 Ag 15 '36

WALKING ON AIR. RKO 66min S 11 '36

Players: Gene Raymond, Ann Sothern, Jessie Ralph, Henry Stephenson

Director: Joseph Santley

Music director: Nathaniel Shilkret

Music and lyrics: Bert Kalmar, Sid Silvers, Harry Ruby

Based on a short story, Count Pete, by Francis M. Cockrell. "The story concerns a mimic battle between a strong-willed father and an equally determined daughter over the Man she has decided to marry. Each hires a young man to foil the other's game. Father's choice is a two-fisted bodyguard. Daughter employs Gene Raymond to act as an insufferable French count who is to disgust the father into letting her have her own way.” (Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A: good; Y: very good; C: perhaps.”

Christian Century p7026 S 3 '35

“This musical comedy is good light entertainment for the average audience.” Calif Cony of Par & Teachers

“Good. Mature.” DAR

“The story does not live up to its promising beginning. Family. Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

“Lively action, pleasing sets and adequate acting of an absurd plot provide an hour of entertainment for adults.” Nat Soc of New England Women

“The picture, with a hint of a lesson to parents, is entertaining and will interest the family.” S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

“Family.”

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ag 19 '36

“An absurd plot provides an hour of entertainment for the family.”

+ Jt Estimates Ag 15 '36

“This is a diverting comedy, and although the plot is an implausible one the direction is deft and swift moving. Breezy entertainment for the entire family.”

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women Ag 19 '36

“General patronage.”

Nat Legion of Decency S 3 '36

Sel Motion Pict S 1 '36

“Family.”

Wkly Guide Ag 29 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Joseph Santley's deft direction realizes to the full all the entertainment possibilities of the anachronistic style story and each enters into the fun of the thing by refusing to take it seriously and going all the way from high comedy to outright farce and back again on a rollicking screen. The deft direction is quite pleasant from the first scene. It is mounted with good taste, a high degree of artistic merit being attained in the construction and dressing of the scenes. The story proceeds consistently, and agreeable musical interpolations do not seriously impede its forward progress.”

+ Hollywood Spec p10 Ag 29 '36

“A new contribution to late summer hilarity comes from RKO-Radio with "Walking on Air," a blithely insane picture which could not have cost half as much as many dull and unwieldy items pretentious to the same mud cladowniness.”

+ Lit Digest p20 Ag 29 '36

“"Walking on Air," . . . is a gay, frothy comedy with a sprinkling of tuneful songs. Its production and direction, however, couldn't have realized the entertainment possibilities of this production when it was run off at the studio. Otherwise it would have been spared the indignity of reaching Broadway on a double-feature program.”

T. M. P.

+ N Y Times S 12 '36

“For about one-half of its unreeuling time "Walking on Air," . . . is a feathery but animated little farce that may be enjoyed to the full since it is deftly and humorous variation of the "Boy Meets Girl" theme. . . . Unfortunately, the remaining sections of "Walking on Air" are not as brisk. . . . What follows thereafter is stereotyped and dull, a languorous and feeble attempt to bring to a close a glib little farce by injecting some numbers into it.”

William Boehnel

+ N Y World-Telegram p25 S 14 '36

“As from both the title suggests, this is a very tidy comedy job, which has prolonged and frequent laughter from the preview audience, and which certainly will not please the fans of Eugene Raymonds, light-hearted show-Producer Edward Kaufman garners bows.” Molly Lewin

+ Script p10 Ag 29 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Bubbling over with good, clean fun and never having a dull moment, this film will please the faithful audience of light entertainers and account for itself nobly at the box office.”

+ Box Office p31 Ag 22 '36

“[It is] an altogether satisfying hour.” L. S. Niemeyer

+ Canadian Moving Pict Digest p10 S 6 '36

“This hilarious romantic comedy is a swell laugh-stone which should be grand entertainment for any audience. It may not be one of those pretentious offerings, but it certainly has everything that makes the audience want to sit in an enjoyable picture. The piece is one of those light things full of clever situations and bright lines.”

+ Daily V1 Ag 17 '36

“Here's a sparkling romantic farce-comedy with songs that will hold its own for entertainment with almost any of the year's smartest laugh-provokers. Produced on a limited budget it has been given some of the silken class quality that Radio has achieved in the Astaire-Rogers vehicles and it will go places, beginning at the top.”

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 Ag 13 '36

“This is a light farce-comedy which at times attains hilarious moments, although it follows a somewhat familiar pattern. Gene Raymond sings two numbers . . . which should interest his followers.”

Motion Pict Daily p11 Ag 13 '36

“Pleasant comedy that rises a bit above the program average because of lines, situations, playing. "Walking on Air" should please. Depending on good lines, situations for its laughs (there are many), the entire picture is lightly handled . . . with a satisfactory result. . . . Raymond gets one of the most ingratiating comedy performances in his record, a breezy, assured, colorful role.”

+ Phila Exhibitor p14 S 1 '36

“Hilarious comedy of romantic cross-purposes, which by virtue of zestful playing, deft direction, rollicking story and captivating musical amendment comes to the box office on considerably higher rating than its original allotment and will amply take care of itself in any company. Gene Raymond has his fans one of the most ingratiating comedy performances in his record, a breezy, assured, colorful role.”

+ Variety (Hollywood) p6 Ag 13 '36

WANTED MEN. Hoffberg 35min Je 1 '36

Players: Charles Laughton, Dorothy Gish, Malcolm Keen. Jack Osterman.

Director: Clifford Pember

British dialogue film made in 1929 by British & Dominions. "The plot has to do with a girl who almost suffers a fate worse than death when she falls into the foul clutches of a group of American gangsters who are living in the North and is saved from this fate by the heroic efforts of Mr. Laughton." (N Y World-Telegram)

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Seemingly extracted from the mothballs because of Mr. Laughton's fame, the piece has little value outside of the actor's performance,
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

WANTED MEN—Continued which, though framed in a melodrama, crude and theatrical, possesses the characteristic Laughton distinction." Marguerite Tazelaar
— N Y Herald Tribune p10 J1 8 '36

"Wanted Men" [is a] searing, actioncrammed, thirty-seven-minute, all-talking screen melodrama. . . Don't, by any means, miss "Wanted Men." For its self-sacrificing hero is none other than Charles Laughton. . .
The picture was made by British and Domin-fions when the talkies were indeed in their infancies. It has to be called 'The Wolves.' . . . We couldn't catch more than a stray word here and there until about the second reel, when the remainder, it had already been eliminated because of sound defects. Just why it was revived at all is somewhat of a mystery." — T. M.
— N Y Times p15 J1 8 '36

"[It is] a seriously acted and written melodrama. . . To try to describe the effect of the work of the cast, which includes Charles Laughton and Dorothy Gish, is, frankly, impossible. Such things must be seen to be appreciated in their fullest extent." Willier
Boehnel
N Y World-Telegram p25 J1 15 '36

"A somewhat bemussed early sketch of Charles Laughton's is the most about 'Wanted Men.' . . . Anything with Mr Laughton in it has some interest, of course, and his reliance on the presence of Miss Dorothy Gish, and of Arthur Margerson.
John Mosher
New Yorker p49 J1 18 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Dealing with a few episodes rather than a story, this British-made short-length feature is very weak entertainment. Poor direction, short scenes, gory pathos, and subtle sound leak ap}ire with crude editing to throttle the abilities of Charles Laughton and Dorothy Gish except for fleeting moments.
— Film Daily p9 Je 8 '36

"Estimate: poor, except as burlesque.
" — Phila Exhibitor p30 J1 15 '36

"Everybody makes mistakes when young.
This one was made by Charles Laughton back in his native land and it's still hanging over his head. . . Picture came over here in eight reels, but the World Theatre on West 49th Street, New York, cut it down to 35 minutes.
The remainder, if cut up further, would make excellent sketch for collar and cuff sets.
— Variety p55 J1 15 '36

WE WENT TO COLLEGE, MGM 64min Je
19 '36
Players: Charles Butterworth, Walter Abel, Hugh Herbert, Una Merkel, Walter Cat-lett
Director: Joseph Santley
A group of old college graduates return for a reunion. A college professor's wife remembering old campus days tries to rekindle a romance with the husband of a friend.

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A: hardly; Y: poor; C: no."
Christian Century p1047 J1 29 '36

"Adults & young people." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Satirical but not convincing is this comedy of college reunion spirit. The vain search of the old timers for their vanished youth is both pathetic and exaggerated. Excessive drinking makes it unwholesome for family or second rate, and we are a matter of taste." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"This rollicking comedy is so silly at times, it really is quite funny. . . Drinking stressed unnecessarily. Mature." Calif Fed of Business
& Professional Women's Clubs

"A diverting satire on college 'loyalty' which presumably will be absurd and familiar to anyone who has ever lived in a college town.
acting is realistic, the comedy, all too far-fetched, is adamantly handled and there is a certain authentic college atmosphere.
There is a good deal of drinking which is perhaps not overdrawn, but the film is best suited to adult audiences who can enjoy a laugh at their own expense." Nat Soc of New England
Women's Clubs

"Adults & young people." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women
Fox W Coast Bul J1 25 '36

"Though the cast includes well known com-dians, the picture is not particularly amusing and is replete with unnecessary drinking. Entertainment a matter of taste."
— Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)
J1 15 '36

"Adults."
Jt Estimates J1 15 '36

"Often amusing but only a fair example of farce. Suitability: adults & adolescents."
— Jt Estimates J1 15 '36

"There is only a slender thread of story but no more is needed on which to string the amusing incidents of 'Alumni Week.' Those who have attended one of these reunions may relive again their sensations of pleasure or boredom and those who haven't will be afforded a candid look at what they are missing. Adolescents, 12-16: probably acceptable; children, 8-12: no interest.
— Motion Pict R J1 '36

"Not a big picture but one which will tickle the ribs and afford an evening of good entertainment. Family:" — Nat Council of Jewish Women J1 8 '36

"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency J1 9 '36

"A and Y: enjoyable; C: no interest."
Parents' M p10 S '36

"Family."
Sel Motion Pict Ax 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Those who still are young and are not at college may be disappointed with 'We Went to College.' It is not the standard motion picture with its hero, heroine and villain. It is just good fun. . . Joseph Santley's direction is highly creditable. He keeps things moving along joyously without making too much noise, quite a feat with such hilarious material."
— Plywood Spec p41 J1 4 '36

"This is intended solely for laughing purposes.
And even though it is never as completely funny as the unrestrained antics of the players would suggest, the picture's plenteitude of gags hit a fairly successful level. . . 'We Went to College' was never meant to supply a full movie evening. It is, rather, only a prolonged short subject stretched to feature length to appease those who demand two offerings for the price of the ticket." (2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p45 J1 25 '36

"Amused by the trim notion that 'old years' returning to their alma mater, might provide a theme for a few acid and fat humors.
Mayer finds itself about half-right with 'We Went to College.' The plot is thin, but the humor is evidently going to be uniformly skinny." — Lit Digest p19 J1 4 '36

"New Theatre p23 8 '36

"It held a refreshing quality even though its presentation proved somewhat hackneyed. It describes a frequent experience, and a whim, that of attending a class reunion . . .

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
While the picture has no particular distinction, it is often very funny entertainment.

"Probably no one will give it a thought when the Motion Picture Academy holds its commencement exercises and confers honorary degrees upon its best pictures, but we are polishing up a sum laude for 'We Went to College.' Produced by Metro in a genial if economic manner, it is just about as pleasant a comedy as we have seen this season. And it is no less a credit to the M-G-M studios than 'The Great St. Louis Fire.' And some of the other more opulent items which cost more to produce, will earn more at the box office basis, because there are no richer in entertainment." - F. S. Nugent

Trade Paper Reviews

"This was designed for nothing but laughs and an effective cast, capably directed, makes it fulfill specifications."

Trade Paper Reviews

"With a property that doubtless seemed like a good idea at the time, 'We Went to College' just doesn't get anywhere. A fine cast of expert farceurs try their best to find humor in the material, but with little success... Certainly no one concerned worked the assignment, yet the entertainment values were not there. Result is far from satisfactory as program fare. Charles Butterworth suffers mainly from lack of adequate comedy of the type which he has long been associated. The waste of Una Merkel's talents might easily call for a Congressional investigation." - Hollywood Reporter p2 Je 20 36

"Some people may like this. Others may think it silly. The preview audience's opinion seemed divided on the show. The comedy is a hit. It has laughs in some places and falls flat in others." - Motion Picture Daily p6 Je 22 36

"Estimate: weak program." - Phila Exhibitor p56 Jl 1 36

"Nice marquee illumination is provided by this cast, but the picture is no match... The net results are of the dual class. Laughs come readily enough. But being evoked via gags, tag lines, mayhem and stereotype, they will not last long when the picture is coupled with a heavier film." - Variety p14 Jl 29 36

"Here's a good example of a top-notch comedy idea kicked around. 'We Went to College' should have been a comedy standout. As it is, it is no more than a weak secondary picture that will attract little attention despite a known cast. Trouble has been in transferring the idea to the screen. Harry Fratt's associates have muffed all around."

Trade Paper Reviews

"A comedy with individuality, and one which you're sure to like, is something with the unfamiliar name 'We Went To College.'" - Russell Maxwell

Trade Paper Reviews

"Despite the directorial talents of the talented Joseph Santley this is pretty much of a waste of time and energy and is entirely the fault of the plot. The plot wanders about, helpless as an amnesia victim... 'We Went to College'... but this reviewer went to sleep." - Herb Sterne

"This was designed for nothing but laughs and an effective cast, capably directed, makes it fulfill specifications."

"Although the piece gets a number of laughs, it adds up to hardly anything more than pleasing program fare. The dialogue and a few of the lines get away with whatever hilarity is attained, but it seems what a group of old graduates do when they get together is hardly remotely funny. Joseph Santley's direction shows that he tried hard to do something with what he was given, but, for the most part, the material isn't strong." - Film Daily p7 Jl 11 36

"With a property that doubtless seemed like a good idea at the time, 'We Went to College' just doesn't get anywhere. A fine cast of expert farceurs try their best to find humor in the material, but with little success... Certainly no one concerned worked the assignment, yet the entertainment values were not there. Result is far from satisfactory as program fare. Charles Butterworth suffers mainly from lack of adequate comedy of the type which he has long been associated. The waste of Una Merkel's talents might easily call for a Congressional investigation." - Hollywood Reporter p2 Je 20 36

"Some people may like this. Others may think it silly. The preview audience's opinion seemed divided on the show. The comedy is a hit. It has laughs in some places and falls flat in others." - Motion Picture Daily p6 Je 22 36

"Estimate: weak program." - Phila Exhibitor p56 Jl 1 36

"Nice marquee illumination is provided by this cast, but the picture is no match... The net results are of the dual class. Laughs come readily enough. But being evoked via gags, tag lines, mayhem and stereotype, they will not last long when the picture is coupled with a heavier film." - Variety p14 Jl 29 36

"Here's a good example of a top-notch comedy idea kicked around. 'We Went to College' should have been a comedy standout. As it is, it is no more than a weak secondary picture that will attract little attention despite a known cast. Trouble has been in transferring the idea to the screen. Harry Fratt's associates have muffed all around."

Trade Paper Reviews

"A wild rock-them-and-sock-them action picture, with Rex Bell doing the hero stuff with all the attendant excitement of gun play, hand-to-hand encounters, and plenty of fast riding. There are plenty of twists in the plot to keep the suspense taut, and an intelligent effort seems to have been made to get this film away from the routine formula."

"Lure of gold, as detailed in this mustang-melodrama, never had the enticing qualities that Rex Bell delivers for the children. The most personable of the current crop of leather lotharios, Bell does his slugging and mugging in the grand manner throughout. Present day Westerns aren't built to support a bill, so this one will also have to take secondary place, although better than most."

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; + Mediocire; - Poor; --- Exceptionally Poor
WHITE ANGEL. Warner-First national 75 min Je '36

Players: Kay Francis, Ian Hunter, Donald Woods, Georgie Cans, Charles Croker-King, George Curzon

Director: William Dieterle

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A interesting subject well produced and the acting by Kay Francis above the average. Recommended to the Committee on Exceptional Photosplays. Outstanding-family." + + + + +udy Guide Je 20 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"If Miss Francis seems occasionally a little hysterical, one must remember that the film took place in mid-Victorian days when people were less afraid of speeches and emotionalism. 'The White Angel' is a highly dramatized biography—it is inevitable that it should be—but, perhaps precisely for that reason, it is extraordinary. stimulating, hence a film not to be missed." B. L. + + Boston Transcript p28 Je 27 '36

"This production takes its place among the really important pictures of the season; it has the same fidelity to historical fact that distinguished 'The Story of Louis Pasteur' and an even greater human interest and heart appeal. Florence Nightingale is perhaps the ideal of all modern womanhood... From the viewpoint of acting, Kay Francis deserves every encomium that can be heaped upon her; she is thoughtful, sincere, firm when necessary, a lady always." + + Canadian M p55 Ag '36

"Like 'The Story of Louis Pasteur' ['The White Angel'] is a sincere, conscientious, and thoroughly worthwhile document... Though Kay Francis is no Paul Muni, and her platitudinous utterances make her appear more concerned with the bill than with the work for itself, 'The White Angel' comes as an entirely acceptable film... Altogether, it is a box-office hit... An interesting obituary of a great woman." (3 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p47 Jl 18 '36

"The scenarist, Mordaunt Shairp, has been firm in his intention to give the facts of the Nightingale story. No discernible liberties have been taken. The emerging picture is factually the courageous biography of The Lady With a Lamp... The film is a triumph... Some of the photography is remarkable and Miss Francis' support is stalwart. It is a sturdy, only occasionally dewy-eyed twin to 'The Story of Louis Pasteur'..."

"A far too reverent treatment of the life of Florence Nightingale that chokes on its own sanctity. Good photography by Tony Gaudio... Far below 'The Life of Louis Pasteur'." Robert Stebbins - + New Theatre p22 Ag '36

"The latest delving of the cinema into biography of Florence Nightingale the heroine of an impounded and frequently moving screen drama... It is a straightforward job of historical reconstruction, wearing together significant events in the career of the lady with the lamp while resolutely refraining from romantic embellishments. The direction of William Dieterle is imaginative and the acting is uniformly excellent. For all these reasons, despite the film has an episodic treatment which becomes tedious at times and it flirts dangerously with sentimentalism." Howard Barnes + + + + + N Y Herald Tribune pl6 Je 25 '36

"Hopefuly, and in all honesty, Warners set about to make a companion piece to 'The Story of Louis Pasteur'. Unfortunately, and in all honesty, this reviewer must report that 'The White Angel' does not come within hailing distance of that stimulating cinematic film... The intentions were too good. In their effort to honor the memory of Florence Nightingale they have not created a personality that great lady may have had. Her screen biography is incredibly lifeless." Eileen Hmur + + - + N Y Sun p28 Js 25 '36

"A respectful—in fact, a worshipful—history of Florence Nightingale, founder of modern nursing, the picture is dignified, reasonably

+ + Exceptionally good; + Good; + Fair; + + Mediocere; - Poor; ——— Exceptionally Poor accurate, deeply moving and dazzlingly pompous. These descriptive are contradictory, which cannot be helped, for the film itself is a curious blend of good acting and bad directing. Perhaps we had best stand on the adjective "worthwhile." The epiphany is not as apparent as it sounds; nor is any year's pictures truly worth the seeing. The film's fault lies in the life of its heroine has been editorialized: Miss Nightingale—as Kay Francis portrays her—talks, walks and thinks like a�er. What's more, whenever she is speaking for posterity." F. S. Nugent
 + N Y Times p24 Je 25 '36

"Not only is the film a dignified and reasonably accurate account of Miss Nightingale's most fantastic efforts in behalf of humanity, it has also been directed and acted with a fine appreciation of the characters and events that it depicts. William Dieterle has directed the film with inspired simplicity; and Kay Francis, by underplaying, recaptures the nobility that surely must have been Florence Nightingale's. The members of the supporting cast are all superb. William Boehnel
 + N Y World-Telegram p13a J1 3 '36

"There are no flagrant old-fashioned movie distortions of historical facts here, aside from the general atmosphere and performance, which are unfailingly picturesque. There is a little schoolbookish, perfectly respectable, and, I should say, quite on the dull side." John Matteri
+ New Yorker p15 J1 4 '36

"Meticulously written and acted, the latter half of the picture has punch and pungency that quite make up for the static early sequences... Kay Francis has never done finer work than she offers during the latter half of the film. She acts convincingly, plays without cheap tricks, achieves a stately, dignified manner that has nothing to do with grease paint. If the early sequences could be disregarded, the picture would be well above the usual trashy in store for this performance. A fine film that more than redeems its apathetic opening. Script: Herb Stern
+ Time p8 Je 27 '36

"The White Angel" is not only a worthy but often fascinating study of the past, regarding handsomely the story of bygones and deeds. A similar entertainment presented on the stage would attract encomiums not only from the critics but also from teachers, doctors and philanthropists. On the screen it will fail to do so only because fashion deems it unsophisticated to credit Hollywood with sincerity."
+ Time p19 J1 6 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"The producers of 'The Story of Louis Pasteur,' have come through with another great historical biography. The picture has been carefully produced, with an eye to realism, and care has been taken to keep the production on a dignified plane. The acting of Kay Francis as Florence Nightingale is superb." + Canadian Moving Pict Digest p9 J1 18 '36

"As a motion picture it has the elements that attract and probably please the older conservatitives and the more infrequent film-goers but it's shy on what it usually takes to please the younger crowd and those addicted to laughter, such as the little kid in the little sock or tension to the film story. There may be a quarrel about Kay Francis in this picture; she is not quite every day human, but rather a disembodied relieved media. However, the acting is not among the minions of entrenchment stupidity. 'White Angel' needs plenty of selling and tie-ups." + Variety p12 J1 1 '36

MOVIE PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

WHITE FANG, 20th century-Fox 75min J1 3 '36
Players: Michael Whalen, Jean Muir, George (Slim) Sillers, Beverly Hills, Charles Winninger, Jane Darwell
Director: David Butler
Based on the novel of the same title by Jack London. This is a sequel to Call of the Wild. "Alaska in 1906, with its tense drama of human ambition and perfidy, as well as courage and nobility, forms the fascinating background for the story of two young men who go there in search of gold. One dies and the other claims the gold mine and wins not only wealth, but the love of the dead man's sister." (Sel Motion Pict)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: depends on taste; Y: fairly good; C: perhaps Christian Century p1023 J2 22 '36

"An old fashioned melodrama of an untamed country and its men. Family. Am Legion Auxiliary

"Exceptional photography distinguishes this otherwise mediocre film." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Mediocre-mature." DAR

"The human cast is adequate and although the comedy is somewhat too broad, the direction is good and photography and a story not too exacting in its requirements provide good family entertainment." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Clever comedy balance, offsetting the tense seriousness of the story, makes it one all will enjoy. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bull J1 18 '36

"Family." Jt Estimates J1 1 '36

"Artificial in spite of its good cast, lovely photography and interesting story, this picture fails to convince or ring true. A stiffened melodrama of 'Klondike Days' which is suitable for the family." + Nat Council of Jewish Women J1 8 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency J9 9 '36

"A, Y and C: fair outdoor melodrama." Parents' M p10 S '36

"The characterization are excellent, humor being furnished by an interesting portrait of a doctor, but a caricature of a clergyman, used as comic relief, is to be deplored as wholly unnecessary and striking a most unpleasant note in an otherwise outstanding production. Family." + Sel Motion Pict J1 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The possessor of a locale which has experienced wide popular familiarity with readers and screen audiences, this almost transparent Jack London story makes its cinematic appearance as a drama that should give satisfaction to spectators everywhere." Allan Hersholt
+ Hollywood Spec p8 J1 18 '36

"[It] comes to the screen as a sturdy outdoor melodrama of high scenic beauty and a spurious vitality. The rather outmoded story has been filmed with a straightforward old-fashioned honesty and insight and makes its battle of man against the rigorous Arctic with commendable gusto... There are no surprises in the story, but since it is agreeably executed, and since the dog's hero handles all his assignments with sure-footed skill, this picture is limited as a satisfactory if not outstanding thriller of the wide-open spaces." (2½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p33 Ag 15 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
WHITE FANG—Continued

“This earnest drama of fun in the mining camp is assuredly one of the mishaps of the season. If it were just a trifle worse it would have been funnier, but you can’t expect such miracles even in Hollywood... It is, of course, ridiculous to waste the distinguished, sensitive and intelligent acting talent of Miss Muir in such a role and such a film, and you might think that even the film magnates would realize that.” Richard Watts, Jr.

— N Y Herald Tribune p6 J1 15 '36

“That sly coneycatcher, Gene Fowler, is a very busy this week gulling his devotees with a variation of the old Klondike shell-game, called 'White Fang'... The general impression conveyed by the story is that Fowler is not only writing with his tongue in his cheek but is pointing to the lamp it makes.” B. R. C. N Y Times p15 J1 15 '36

“Along toward the end of ‘White Fang,’ one of the characters remarks in a particularly hectic moment—‘There’s something mighty peculiar about this whole business, and there, frankly, you have a perfect capsule criticism of this screen version of the late Jack London’s story. Although ‘White Fang’ does not fulfill any need that is apparent for the welfare of movie-goers, it does serve the purpose of letting Jean Muir prove again that she is an extremely talented and attractive young actress who deserves at least part of her talents.” William Boehnel

N Y World-Telegram p16a J1 15 '36

“The scenery is rugged, Dave Butler’s direction is particularly O.K., but the situations remain deplorably pulp-paper and there is but a modicum of the gustiness requisite to redeem such mush-mush-opeas of the Yukon country.” Herb Sterne

— Script p13 J1 11 '36

“‘White Fang’ is designed as a further test of U. S. box-office enthusiasm for dogs.” Time p68 J1 20 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Proving itself to be a worthy sequel to ‘Call of the Wild’ this film has everything—action, drama, pathos, romance and comedy. Ably handled by every department, the acting highlights are split between Charles Winninger and John Carradine, the latter being especially capable.”

+ Box Office p3 J1 15 '36

“‘White Fang’ is an interesting tale of adventure in the Klondike. It makes up the program splendidly, especially to those who like Jack London stories of the North and to lovers of dogs... Under David Butler’s direction the picture is built in a very suspenseful manner. He hits a fast action tempo and blends the comedy and drama in a very entertaining manner... The real joys of the piece are Charles Winninger, Jane Darwell, Slim Summerville, and the dog Lightning. Whenever anyone of these three comedians are around, the picture is a real pleasure and they pile up laughs galore.”

+ Film Daily p5 J1 3 '36

“If it’s true what they say about summer, this rather dated melodrama of the frozen north should prove an attraction during these less thoughtful months. It is a matter of record that its predecessor, ‘The Call of the Wild,’ did extremely well in the heat of last season. ‘White Fang’ is billed as a sequel and is to be taken no more seriously.”

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 J1 6 '36

“This sequel to his famous ‘Call of the Wild’ can’t possibly pretend as entertaining screen fare, which should do especially well in the smaller situations. Properly sold, it may well draw the youngsters from miles around.”

+ Motion Pict Daily p11 Je 26 '36

“Estimate: best for neighborhoods.”

Philco Exhibitor p27 J1 15 '36

“While ‘White Fang’ hasn’t got the name that ‘Call of the Wild’ had, and does not equal it in screen strength, it pleases and, for those who lean toward yarns of the north country, will satisfy.”

+ Variety p17 J1 22 '36

Variety (Hollywood) p3 J1 6 '36

WILDCAT TROOPER. Ambassador 60min Je 10 '36

Players: Kermit Maynard, Hobart Bosworth, Fuzzy Knight, Lois Wilde

Director: Elmer Clifton

Trade Paper Reviews

“Fights, thrills, fast riding, gun play all combined with a well constructed plot, handled in a very suspenseful manner to make a number that should be swell entertainment for the houses that use action and outdoor drama fare.

+ Film Daily p11 J1 14 '36

“Action fans will find lots of excitement and thrills in [it]... In the State-rights action field, this one rates decidedly above average.”

+ Hollywood Reporter p4 J1 9 '36

“Once again a good one from Maurice Conn, this has hero Maynard as the mounted policeman who cleans up the gang.”

+ Phila Exhibitor p39 Ag 1 '36

WINDS OF THE WASTELAND. Republic 51min J1 25 '36

Players: John Wayne, Phyllis Fraser, Lane Chandler

Director: Mack Wright

A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

“General patronage.”

Nat Legion of Decency Je 25 '36

“Family-Juvenile.”

Wky Guide Je 13 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

“John Wayne rides the range again in typical strong silent fashion in this Western drama that has been neatly tailored to his measure. Family.”

Box Office p25 J1 25 '36

“Roaring tale of stagecoach days crammed with suspense and exciting action... This Western [is] one of the most entertaining in its class.”

+ Film Daily p3 J1 11 '36

“Typical routine, straight Western fare, but withal good, active entertainment of its kind, designed for the purpose of pleasing the youngsters and their elders who like Westerns, this fills that purpose quite satisfactorily.”

+ Motion Pict Daily p4 J1 13 '36

“Estimate: Western that’s different.”

Philco Exhibitor p27 J1 15 '36

WOMEN ARE TROUBLE. MGM 60min J1 31 '36

Players: Stuart Erwin, Paul Kelly, Florence Rice, Margaret Irving

Director: Errol Taggart

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST 133

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Adults." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Adults: fair; 14-18: no; 8-14: no." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"The cast struggles to make their roles convincing, but the story itself does them, Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Good-mature." DAR

"Adults & young people." E Coast Preview Committee

"Told with humor and several adroit turns of plot, this gangster film may prove instructive and interesting for adults." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Adequate photography and casting, especially the likeable new Will Rogers type, Stuart Erwin, offer good entertainment for the family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Box 4

FBI. The Fair; Phila. Women's Mature."

"While this is frankly a program picture, various episodes are treated with originality, and the dialogue is natural and often humorous. The gangsters are allotted a liberal amount of footage and one scene in particular might prove terrifying to children. Adolescents, 12-16: passable; children, 8-12: no." + + Motion Pict R Jl 36

"Adults." Nat Council of Jewish Women Je 21 36

"Adults." Nat Legion of Decency Je 25 36

"A and Y: passable; C: no." Parents' M p70 S 36

"Good but routine characterizations are furnished by the capable cast and there are amusing situations and clever dialogue to recommend the production. Adults & young people." + Sel Motion Pict Jl 1 36

"It is] a lively, fast-stepping and amusing comedy, Family." Wkly Guide Je 29 36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

Christian Science Monitor p17 S 5 36

"With everything in it for the making of a stirring crook drama, this one succeeds in being only ordinary entertainment to hold up its half of a double bill. It strives to be both comedy and drama, interlacing the two until they become tangled and each weakens the other." + Hollywood Spec p11 Je 20 36

"A minor item from the M-G-M studio, 'Women Are Trouble' is a neat, swiftly related comedy that packs many laughs into its tale of newspapermen versus gangsters. Though there is nothing new in it and the plot structure is dangerously flimsy, this amiable little piece has been shrewdly directed by Errol Tagger that it emerges as a pleasantly frivolous time waster." (2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p24 Jl 25 36

Reviewed by Herb Sterne Script p12 Ag 22 36

Trade Paper Reviews

"With pace and class in every department, here is a newspaper film which can hold its head up with the best of them. Family." + Box Office p45 Je 20 36

Reviewed by L. S. Niemeyer

Canadian Moving Pict Digest p10 Je 20 36

"Estimate: fair, program for neighborhood houses, twin bills." + + Phila Exhibitor p68 Jl 1 36

"As one of those inexpensively produced trivia that keep the screen bright until the main part of the double bill goes on, 'Women Are Trouble' adequately fulfills its destiny. It's strictly a program picture, short on running time, but in its marquee and coupled with a box office film it can perform its subsidiary duties." + + Variety p21 S 2 36

YELLOWSTONE. Universal 62min Ag 30 36

Players: Henry Hunter, Judith Barratt, Andy Devine, Ralph Morgan

Director: Arthur Lubin

"A mystery involving some buried money has for its background the unsurpassed scenic beauties of Yellowstone Park." Nat Legion of Decency

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A weak plot, handled as well as possible, by adding the adage that crime does not pay, and having all the criminals meet sudden death. This fact only partly compensates for a most uninviting atmosphere. Accompanied children could possibly attend this film, at least they would view the beautiful natural scenery to their advantage. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"A family picture but too intense for young children." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Considering the great effort made to secure the right to make the picture in Yellowstone Park, it falls short of what might have been an outstanding picture by that name. Music, which so often enhances the beauty and glamour of a film, in this case is so pronounced it becomes irritating at times. The picture inspires patriotic pride in the National Park Service, the conservation of natural beauty for the enjoyment of the American people, and the ideals of the Rangers. Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Mediocre. Mature." DAR

"A magnificent scenic background and an exciting tale, punctuated with humor which holds one's attention throughout. Family." Nat Soc of New England Women

"With the most wonderful possibilities of setting in beautiful Yellowstone Park, this melodramatic 'murder-will-out' rendition of a trite overdone theme is definitely disappointing as a picture. . . Hardly recommendable to any audience." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

FBI. The Fair; Phila. Women's Mature."

"Forceful and sympathetic direction make this a notably fine production." + + Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ag 19 36

"Family." FBI. The Fair; Phila. Women's Mature." Ag 19 36

"Despite its background of scenic beauty as provided by its locale, Yellowstone National Park, the picture, which develops into a murder mystery, does not become other than mediocre. Sufficient advantage is not taken of the natural phenomena and the photography, which should have been in color, is only fair. . . The direction is uneven and slow moving, the story is loosely constructed and the cast is unconvincing in" its portrayals, with the exception of Ralph Morgan who turns in a good performance.
YELLOWSTONE—Continued

— Nat Council of Jewish Women Ag 19 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency S 3 '36

"Family." Sel Motion Pict S 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A routine mystery melodrama whose chief claim to distinction is that it uses the setting of Yellowstone Park in its murder plot and the scenery of the park for backgrounds. Many of the shots and devices are impressive but are not enough to lift the formula story into distinction... The picture will do average duty in dual support and exploitation of its famous locale."

— Hollywood Reporter p3 S 3 '36

"The scenic beauty of the locale rather than the enunciation of the dialogue, melodramatic crime story stands out as the major appeal of this picture. The artistic photography greatly accentuates the natural marvels of Yellowstone Park, but the plot situations complicate the theme."

— Motion Picture Daily p5 S 4 '36

"An intriguing mystery story although the title doesn't show it. 'Yellowstone' is run-of-the-mill fare that has some selling angles to make the average film fan's palpitating."

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 3 '36

YOUR TROUBLES ARE MINE. Nuovo mondo 80min Jl 4 '36

Players: Angelo Musco, Maria Denis, Vasco Creti, Amelia Chellini, Eugenio Colombo

Director: Amleto Palermi

A dialogue film in Italian without English subtitles. "It tells the story of the good Padre Attanasio, who listens to the troubles of his parishioners, often to his own embarrassment. For the good man, not wanting to tell any of the crowd who unburden their souls to him, becomes involved in misunderstandings which sometimes take on an amusing angle." Known in Italy as Fiat Voluntas Dei. (N Y Herald Tribune)

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Because of Angelo Musco's deft performance the picture of life in the small Italian village as seen through the eyes of the priest is a warm and pleasantly animated production. But only for those understanding the language will it really have appeal, for it is unaccompanied by English sub-titles." Marguerite Tazelaar

N Y Herald Tribune p10 Jl 8 '36

"Since this time the theater omitted any English dialogue titles, a non-linguistic reviewer could understand only Senor Musco's amusing pantomime and the audience's constant bursts of laughter... The dialogue must have been pretty funny too. Like so many of these Italian imports, the film has a deep religious spirit that is fairly tenacious... Angelo Musco's performance is excellent, although the production as a whole, technically as in acting, is not to be compared to Hollywood pictures."

Eileen Creelman

— N Y Sun p17 Jl 7 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + + Fair; + + Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

"Angelo Musco delights the audience. He is aided by a competent cast. Eugenio Colombo deserves honorable mention for his fine work as the sexton. The scene of life in rural Northern Italy are delightfully real and some of them appear to have been made right there." H. T. S

N Y Times Jl 6 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"[This is an] entertaining drama." + Film Daily p6 Jl 7 '36

"It is evident from audience reaction that there is considerable lively good humor in this Italian importation. The film is adaptable only to theatres whose patrons are familiar with the Italian language, since there are no English sub-titles and the bottleneck of the picture's entertainment lies in the amusing dialogue of the comedian."

+ Motion Picture Daily p5 Jl 7 '36

"Lack of English titles relegates this Italian importation strictly to Italian-understanding audiences, which means that its showings in America will be decidedly limited. This picture is much overlong and slowly paced. Photography mediocre and little in the way of topflight acting." + Variety p55 Jl 15 '36

YOURS FOR THE ASKING. Paramount 89min Jl 24 Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ag 10 '36

Director: Alexander Hall

An impoverished society girl becomes a partner in the gambling business conducted by George Raft. His helpers resent the step into society and arrange for two society adventurers to swindle Raft.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: perhaps; Y: very doubtful; C: no." Christian Century p143 Ag 26 '36

"Mature. Mediocre." DAR

— Fox W Coast Bul Ag 8 '36

"This film is a slow-moving, mediocre picture." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Clever dialogue, capable cast, and plenty of comedy make this good entertainment. Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Mediocre. Mature." DAR

"A long drawn out, complicated story with rather worn gags and much 'business' about very little. Acting is adequate and some of the sets are attractive but as a whole the film provides only fair entertainment for adults." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"Here is sheer comedy with no moral intended and no problems of moment... Adolescents, 12-16; not recommended though absurdly farcical; children, 8-12; not suitable." Women's Univ Club, Los Angeles

— Fox W Coast Bul Ag 22 '36

"Adults & young people." Calif Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Ag 10 '36

"Mature." Jt Estimates Ag 15 '36

"Adults." Nat Council of Jewish Women S 1 '36

"Adults." Nat Legion of Decency Ag 13 '36
“Clever dialogue, capable cast and plenty of comedy make this good entertainment.

Mature.

Sel Motion Pic 8 1 '36

Family.”

Wkly Guide Ag 7 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Apart from a bit of misrepresentation in billing, this department has no quarrel with the new offering which pulls only during those moments left in the theater by the preceding to the official billing of ‘Yours for the Asking.’ Dolores Costello Barrymore and George Raft are the stars. According to unblased observation the real star work is done by Ida Lupino, Reginald Owen, Lynne Overman, Edgar Kennedy, James Gleason and Richard Powell.” B. L.

Boston Transcript p3 Ag 22 '36

“Amusing entry, at light farce.”

Van Science Monitor p3 Ag 22 '36

“One queer bit of direction in this one mars what otherwise would have been an excellent job by Al Hall. Except for this one lapse, Hall gives the audience an exceedingly interesting picture. He derives from Raft the best performance that I have seen. Raft is typed so definitely that he appears to best advantage in elements which are devoid of semi-slapstick elements. It is difficult, therefore, to make convincing his romances with some of the leading ladies. His first role is played opposite him. So ably [has the story] been developed that the romance is an obvious on which to meet with approval.”

Hollywood Spec p8 Ag 29 '36

“George Raft, bringing all his expressions—Numbers 1, 2, and 3—into full play, swings through a well constructed revival of the overused names of the old-time theatre. Paramount’s ‘Yours for the Asking.’ . . . All in all, this comes as good cinema fun.” (2/2 stars) Beverly Liberty p35 S 26 '36

“The considerable diversion that is offered in ‘Yours for the Asking’ is not contributed by the stars or the story. George Raft and Dolores Costello Barrymore go through the conventional gestures of a tale that has been told too often by Hall. A fact that gives Raft an air of being a victim of circumstances. The expert clowning of a group of lesser players. Their antics dominate the performances. Their bit is generally amusing, sometimes hilarious production,” Howard Barnes

— N Y Herald Tribune p12 Ag 29 '36

“‘Yours for the Asking’ has all the attributes of a picture designed to carry songs, except the songs. It needs a song or two . . . It needs them pretty desperately at times. The comedy seems vaguely familiar throughout, although Paramount lists it as an original story. It follows along an accepted pattern, with a big cast of character comedians wasted in their stock roles. Occasionally of course the picture breaks up, with a nice little chuckle here or a bit of semi-stalwart there.” Eileen Freeman

— N Y Sun p13 Ag 29 '36

“The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Supporting Casta is hereby invited to press charges against Paramount for its unfair, prejudicial and delerious conduct toward Reginaid Owen, Ida Lupino, James Gleason, Lynne Overman, Edgar Kennedy and Richard Powell in the case of ‘Yours for the Asking.’ . . . Any producing company so fortunate as to obtain the services of such reliable and personal and a public obligation to provide them with a merry script and, if stars be necessary, an actress of whose roles prove their fitness . . . The selection of George Raft and Dolores Costello Barrymore for the so-called star roles for the ‘Asking’ was in evident defiance of the screen’s code of fair practice . . . [The film] may safely be seen, but only because of the stalwart sextet listed in the preceding paragraph.” F. S. Nugent.

— N Y Times p14 Ag 29 '36

“George Raft is a nimble foil for the talents of Dolores Costello Barrymore and Reginald Owen in a piece called ‘Yours for the Asking,’ another pleasant anodyne and a natural for the general public. . . . Ida Lupino, whom Raft has been a votary of the pomade art of Mr. Raft. But this time his scenarios are as slick as he, serving him as high as the chips off the oleum of Miles Lupino, whose Gert is a hard-boiled hoxden deliciously played.”

Douglas Gilbert

— N Y World-Telegram p9a Ag 29 '36

Reviewed by John Mosher

New Yorker p54 Ag 29 '36

“When the Park Avenue cutie met the mug from the wrong side of the social tracks, feature faces, some comedy moments that should The plot-road leads to the altar sure enough, but not before five writers cause the characters to measure through some Wit and, seen and very funny . . . situations. The material is fresh and the laughs are deadly thrumbled to their goal in Alexander Hall’s directorial hand.”

Herbert Sterne

— Script p10 Ag 22 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Bright, fast comedy and a convincing performance on the part of George Raft who gives his role of the gambler with social ambitions an air of plausibility, feature this picture that will appeal to class audiences.”

Box Office p25 Ag 8 '36

“(It is a] lively comedy-romance with ace cast and plenty of amusing stuff to please audiences.” Family Film Daily p7 Ag 30 '36

“An scintillating though somewhat brittle farce co-starring George Raft and Dolores Costello Barrymore which is involved in professional gambling or in other rackets. Its smart sophistication and comic ingenuity will make it acceptable fare for class audiences as a standard program. Its fate for general audiences is more dubious, especially in Exhibitors.”

Hollywood Reporter p47 JI 29 '36

“Producer Lewis Gansler herein surrounds George Raft with such capable performers as Ida, Lupino, Lynne Overman, Dolores Costello Barrymore, James Gleason, Lynne Overman and Edgar Kennedy, and the result is a light comedy-drama which moves swiftly and smoothly. The picture should please the Raft following and satisfy generally.”

Motion Pic Daily p11 JI 31 '36

“Comedy with star, feature strength, this ought to prove popular, especially in the classier sectors. . . Well-paced, filled with good feature faces, some comedy moments that should please, this should shape up as fair program. Selling the names should be of advantage.”

— Variety p20 Ag 26 '36

“The good pictures are being held back until September. Which may be the reason why ‘Yours for the Asking’ got into Paramount’s ace N. . . .[Film] is a convincing romance and is packed with absurdities that adult audiences will find hard to down even when they want to. It will be hoped that George Raft’s popularity at a time when a little refurbishing would not have been amiss. Also, it does no great service to Dolores Costello Barrymore, right after her neat comeback in ‘Lord Fauntleroy.’ The role that is thrust on her is not especially dramatic and seldom presents her with a real opportunity.”

Variety p20 Ag 26 '36

“Perfectly tailored for George Raft, who, surrounded by top-notch talent, gives a performance that should please his audiences, ‘Yours for the Asking’ is excellent comedy fare

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
YOURS FOR THE ASKING—Continued for any theatre, . . With a cast of recognizable names, picture should have no trouble attracting at the box office.”
   + Variety (Hollywood) p3 Jl 29 '36

YOUTH OF TODAY. Paramount 81min Je 22
'36
Players: Anne-Marie Brunius, Tollie Zellman, Nils Wahlbom
Director: Per-Axel Branner
A Swedish dialogue film with English subtitles. Filmed in Stockholm. Also called Ung-dom av I Dag. A sports-loving young girl who would like to marry a young aviator is almost forced to marry a rich man in order to save her mother from financial disgrace. However, a well-meaning uncle comes to the rescue of the mother and the romance.

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"[It is] a lively, amusing piece, aided by a good cast. . . Aside from the romance in the story, some interesting sequences have been woven in, dealing with the Swedish Air Force.
They show young aviators in their training quarters and at manoeuvres, which include some excellent flying. It is this current slant that gives the picture much of its zest, color and entertainment. . . Its chief fault lies in the jerky continuity which results no doubt from faulty cutting. If the picture were presented more smoothly, it would be a first-class light comedy.”—Marguerite Tazelaar
   + — N Y Herald Tribune p14 Je 23 '36

"Those who appreciate a good, old-fashioned love story done in a highly modern setting and well acted by a company of fine, clean young folk, and a few not so young, are sure to be satisfied. . . Before the end is reached, the audience enjoys many excellent views of flying and delightful scenes in city and country."—H. T. S.
   + — N Y Times p27 Je 22 '36

"A moderately amusing trifle, the film is a series of complications involving most of the staple elements of youthful romance and misunderstanding. . . Although the film is a little too familiar and a little too inert for the average American audience, it is interpreted by a cast of splendid actors.”—William Boehnel
   — + N Y World-Telegram p22 Je 24 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"Pleasing romantic story attractively staged and acted by an excellent cast."+
   — Film Daily p11 Je 24 '36

"A slight, but rather engaging romantic film of young love and its accustomed difficult course, this Swedish talking picture offers little out of the ordinary with the exception of an extremely attractive and highly competent actresses named Anne-Marie Brunius, who is blond and effective. . . The film has nothing for the American audience lacking a knowldge of the language. It is, briefly, just another picture, but one which should be found entertaining for those of Swedish extraction who can appreciate what apparently were a number of amusing bits of dialogue.”
   + — Motion Pict Daily p11 Jl 1 '36

"'Youth of Today' is a run-of-the-mill yarn played in a light mood by a capable cast of Swedish folks. . . As entertainment, the film is too slow developing. When it gets moving it bows down with over-emphasis. . . Even with these handicaps it should prove acceptable fare in many foreign language spots.”
   + — Variety p23 Jl 1 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor
INDEX

Under the names of the leading actors and actresses will be found the productions listed in this number in which they have taken part. Under the director's name will be found a list of the films in this number which he directed.

Under the headings Books, Plays and Short Stories (Adapted) will be found the author, title of published work and the title of the film. When the title of the film differs from the title of the book, the film's title is given in parenthesis, thus:

Eberhart, M. G.

From this dark stairway (Murder of Dr Harrigan)

ACTORS & ACTRESSES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Actor/Actress</th>
<th>Role(s)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Abel, Walter</td>
<td>Fury</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barrat, Eddie</td>
<td>Second wife</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Banks, Robert</td>
<td>Red wagon</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Booth, Patty</td>
<td>Riding avenger</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bosworth, Robert</td>
<td>Spending</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

ACTORS and ACTRESSES—Continued

Callahan, Margaret
Lost outlaw
Calliea, Joseph
His brother's wife
Swarmed enemy
Cambre, Del
Tundra
Campeau, Frank
Everyman's law
Carey, Harry
Last outlaw
Carleton, William P.
Border patrolman
Carlesie, Mary
Lady be careful
Caramati, Tullio
Three maxims
Carridine, John
Mary of Scotland
Carroll, Madeleine
General died at dawn
Secret agent
Carroll, Virginia
Wellington Pike goes west
Catlett, Walter
Cain and Mabel
We went to college
Cavanaugh, Hobart
Tattler
Cawthorn, Joseph
Hot money
Ceseri, Ugo
Passaporto rosso
Chandler, Chick
Three of a kind
Chandler, Lane
Isaho kid
Winds of the wasteland
Chase, Charley
Neighborhood house
Chatterson, Ruth
Girls' dormitory
Chellini, Amelia
Your troubles are mine
Chernaya, Lala
Gypsies
Chevalier, Maurice
Beloved vagabond
Churchill, Berton
Dark hour
Three of a kind
Churchill, Marguerite
Final hour
Clayworth, June
Two-listed gentleman
Clye, R. E.
Isle of fury
Clay, Andy
Straight from the shoulder
Cobb, Irvin S.
Pepper
Collier, Constance
Girls' dormitory
Collins, Charles
Dancing pirate
Collins, Cora Sue
Harvester
Colombo, Eugenie
Your troubles are mine
Compton, Betty
August week-end
Compton, Joyce
Trapped by television
Conklin, Peggy
Devil's a jessy
Connolly, Walter
King steps out
Cook, Elisha, Jr.
Two in a crowd
Cooper, Anthony Kemble
Master Will Shakespeare
Cooper, Gary
General died at dawn
Cooper, Jackie
Devil is a jessy
Corradi, Nelly
Crooked love
Cortez, Ricardo
Postal Inspector
Cossart, Ernest
My American wife
Palm Springs
Courtney, Inez
Dizzy dames
It couldn't have happened
Reckless way
Crabbe, Larry
Arizona raiders
Lady be careful
Craven, Frank
Harvester
Crawford, Joan
Gorgeous hussy
Crehan, Joseph
Song of a nation
Cretti, Vasco
Your troubles are mine
Crooker-King, Charles
White angel
Cromwell, Richard
Poppy
Crosby, Bing
Rhythm on the range
Crossman, Henrietta
Follow your heart
Cummings, Constance
Seven sinners
Cummings, Robert
Border flight
Forgotten faces
Hollywood Boulevard
Three cheers for love
Curzon, George
White angel
Dale, Esther
Hollywood Boulevard
Dann, Roger
La porteuse de pain
Darro, Frankie
Charlie Chan at the race track
Racing blood
Darwell, Jane
Craig's wife
First baby
Star for a night
White Fang
Davies, Marion
Cain and Mabel
Hearts divided
Davis, Bette
Satan met a lady
Davis, Owen, Jr.
Bunker Bean
Grand jury
Deane, Shirley
Back to nature
Educating father
First baby
Dee, Frances
Half angel
De Havilland, Olivia
Anthony Adverse
Denis, Maria
Your troubles are mine
Denny, Reginald
It couldn't have happened
Dermoz, Germaine
La porteuse de pain
De Sica, Vittorio
I love you only
Devine, Andy
Yellowstone
Digges, Dudley
General died at dawn
Di Luca, Dino
Blind girl of Sorrento
Dinehart, Alan
Charlie Chan at the race track
Dix, Dorothy
Guns and guitars
Dodd, Claire
Case of the velvet claws
Navy born
Song of a nation
Donlevy, Brian
Half angel
High tension
36 hours to kill
Donnelly, Ruth
Fatal lady
Doucet, Catherine
Poppy
Douglas, Metlyn
Gorgeous hussy
Downs, Johnny
Arizona raiders
First baby
Drake, Frances
And sudden death
I'd give my life
Drean
La porteuse de pain
Dudley-Ward, Penelope
I stand condemned
Dumbelle, Douglass
Miss Princess comes across
Dun, Steffi
Dancing pirate
Dunbar, Dixie
Back to nature
Educating father
First baby
Dunn, James
Two-listed gentleman
Eldridge, Florence
Mary of Scotland
Elliott, Gordon
Case of the velvet claws
Ellis, Edward
Texas Rangers
Ellis, Mary
Fatal lady
Ellis, Patricia
Down the stretch
Postal Inspector
Ellison, Jimmy
Heart of the west
Three on the trail
Erikson, Leila
Girl of the Ozarks
Ernest, Harry
Heroes of the range
Erwin, Stuart
All American champ
Women are trouble
Evans, Madge
Piccadilly Jim
Evans, Muriel
Three on the trail
Fares, Oreste
Passaporto rosso
Farmer, Frances
Border flight
Rhythm on the range
Farrell, Glenda
High tension
Tattler
Faye, Alice
Poor little rich girl
Sing, baby, sing
Fernandel
La porteuse de pain
Fields, Stanley
Mine with the iron door
Fields, W. C.
Poppy
Fonda, Henry
Spendthrift
Foran, Dick
Big noise
Earthworm tractors
Guns of the Pecos
Train' west
Ford, Wallace
Rogues' tavern
A son comes home
Foster, Norman
Fatal lady
High tension
Powley, Douglas
Navy born
35 hours to kill
Francis, Kay
Give me your heart
White angel
Franke, Ingeborg
Der kampf
Fraser, Phyllis
Winds of the wasteland
Hardie, Russell
Down to the sea
Harvester
Meet Nero Wolfe
Hardwicke, Sir Cedric
Nine days a queen
Hardy, Oliver
Our relations
Harlow, Jean
Sassy
Hart, Gordon
Guns of the Pecos
Gable, June
Guns of the Pecos
Hart, Ladies
Hunt, William
Blackmailer
Navy born
Gateson, Marjorie
Gentleman from Louisiana
Three married men
Giacchetti, Giseo
Crooked love
Gateson, Hoot
Last outlaw
Gibson, Wylene
Riding avenger
Gibson, Raymond
Arizona raiders
Gibson, Hoot
A son comes home
Gibson, Hoot
Heart of the west
Haley, Bill
San Francisco
Sing, baby, sing
Henry, Buzzy
Menkenow ranger
Henry, Charlotte
Gentleman from Louisiana
Hepburn, Katherine
Mary of Scotland
Gibson, Hoot
We went to college
Gibson, Russell
August week-end
Good, Gregor
Westerner
Gone, Dorothy
wanted men
Glen, Agnes
James
Don't turn 'em loose
Glen, Russell
Wellsington Pike goes west
Goog, Gregory
The kemp
Gordon, C. Henry
Hollywood Boulevard
Goryunof, Anatoly
Anna
Grable, Betty
Don't turn 'em loose
Gracie, Paul
Bengal tiger
Graeme, Margot
Secret agent
Grand, Alexander
Gypsies
Grant, Cary
Suzy
Gray, Lawrence
Dizzy dames
Gray, Nan
Crash Donovan
Green, Clare
We're gonna red barn
Gretillet, Jacques
The porte de pain
Grettil, Jacques
The porte de pain
Guen, Judy
Private secretary
Gwen, Edmund
All American chump
Anthony Adverse
Haden, Sara
Crime of Dr Forbes
Hall, Alan
Our relations
Hall, Sonnie
It's love again
Haley, Jack
Mister Cinderella
Haley, Jack
Poor little rich girl
Hall, Porter
General died at dawn
Hall, Thurston
Shakedown
Three wise guys
Halliday, John
Fatal lady
Hanson, Larr
Hollywood Boulevard
Hanson, Lars
On the sunnyside
Harley, Florance
Women are trouble
Harley, Margaret
Neighborhood house
Hale, Bill
Cain and Mabel
Three cheers for love
Hale, Betty
All American chump
Hale, Sonnie
It's love again
Hall, Jack
Mister Cinderella
Hall, Jack
Poor little rich girl
Hall, Porter
General died at dawn
Hall, Thurston
Shakedown
Three wise guys
Halliday, John
Fatal lady
Hanson, Larr
Hollywood Boulevard
Hanson, Lars
On the sunnyside
Hart, Gordon
Guns of the Pecos
Gable, June
Guns of the Pecos
Hart, Ladies
Hunt, William
Blackmailer
Navy born
Gateson, Marjorie
Gentleman from Louisiana
Three married men
Giacchetti, Giseo
Crooked love
Gateson, Hoot
Last outlaw
Gibson, Wylene
Riding avenger
Gibson, Raymond
Arizona raiders
Gibson, Hoot
A son comes home
Gibson, Hoot
Heart of the west
Haley, Bill
San Francisco
Sing, baby, sing
Henry, Buzzy
Menkenow ranger
Henry, Charlotte
Gentleman from Louisiana
Hepburn, Katherine
Mary of Scotland
Gibson, Hoot
We went to college
Gibson, Russell
August week-end
Good, Gregor
Westerner
Gone, Dorothy
wanted men
Glen, Agnes
James
Don't turn 'em loose
Glen, Russell
Wellsington Pike goes west
Goog, Gregory
The kemp
Gordon, C. Henry
Hollywood Boulevard
Goryunof, Anatoly
Anna
Grable, Betty
Don't turn 'em loose
Gracie, Paul
Bengal tiger
Graeme, Margot
Secret agent
Grand, Alexander
Gypsies
Grant, Cary
Suzy
Gray, Lawrence
Dizzy dames
Gray, Nan
Crash Donovan
Green, Clare
We're gonna red barn
Gretillet, Jacques
The porte de pain
Grettil, Jacques
The porte de pain
Guen, Judy
Private secretary
Gwen, Edmund
All American chump
Anthony Adverse
Haden, Sara
Crime of Dr Forbes
Hall, Alan
Our relations
Hall, Sonnie
It's love again
Haley, Jack
Mister Cinderella
Haley, Jack
Poor little rich girl
Hall, Porter
General died at dawn
Hall, Thurston
Shakedown
Three wise guys
Halliday, John
Fatal lady
Hanson, Larr
Hollywood Boulevard
Hanson, Lars
On the sunnyside
Hart, Gordon
Guns of the Pecos
Gable, June
Guns of the Pecos
Hart, Ladies
Hunt, William
Blackmailer
Navy born
Gateson, Marjorie
Gentleman from Louisiana
Three married men
Giacchetti, Giseo
Crooked love
Gateson, Hoot
Last outlaw
Gibson, Wylene
Riding avenger
Gibson, Raymond
Arizona raiders
Gibson, Hoot
A son comes home
Gibson, Hoot
Heart of the west
Haley, Bill
San Francisco
Sing, baby, sing
Henry, Buzzy
Menkenow ranger
Henry, Charlotte
Gentleman from Louisiana
Hepburn, Katherine
Mary of Scotland
Gibson, Hoot
We went to college
Gibson, Russell
August week-end
Good, Gregor
Westerner
Gone, Dorothy
wanted men
Glen, Agnes
James
Don't turn 'em loose
Glen, Russell
Wellsington Pike goes west
Goog, Gregory
The kemp
Gordon, C. Henry
Hollywood Boulevard
Goryunof, Anatoly
Anna
Grable, Betty
Don't turn 'em loose
Gracie, Paul
Bengal tiger
Graeme, Margot
Secret agent
Grand, Alexander
Gypsies
Grant, Cary
Suzy
Gray, Lawrence
Dizzy dames
Gray, Nan
Crash Donovan
Green, Clare
We're gonna red barn
Gretillet, Jacques
The porte de pain
Grettil, Jacques
The porte de pain
Guen, Judy
Private secretary
Gwen, Edmund
All American chump
Anthony Adverse
ACTORS and ACTRESSES—Continued
Lease, Rex
Actress eight
Lederer, Francis
My American wife
Lee, Billie
And sudden death
Leiber, Fritz
Down to the sea
Leighton, Frank
Thoroughbred
Le Shoh-shoh
Song of China
Lim, Cho-cho
Song of China
Linaker, Kay
Easy money
Lindstrom, Eric
Old hutch
Lindsay, Margaret
Lute of fury
Public enemy's wife
Lloyd, Alma
Eating noise
Locke, Katherine
Straight from the shoulder
Lockwood, Margaret
Bowed vagabond
Loaninger, Lotte
Der kampf
Lombard, Carole
My man Godfrey
Princess comes across
London, Tom
Songs and guitars
Longden, John
Thoroughbred
Loring, Michael
Postal Inspector
Lorre, Peter
Secret agent
Losfgen, Marianne
On the sunny side
Louise, Anita
Anthony Adverse
Love, Edmund
Seven sinners
Lox, Myrna
To Mark—with love
Lucosi, Bella
Postal Inspector
Luke, Keys
Charlie Chan at the race track
Lund, Lucille
Prison shadows
Lupino, Ida
Yours for the asking
Lyon, Ben
Down to the sea
McCoy, Tim
Aces and eights
Mack in a crowd
McDowall, Jeanette
San Francisco
McGlynn, Frank, Sr.
King of the Royal Mounted
McKee, Frank
Stage struck
McKay, Barry
Private secretary
McKay, George
Two-fisted gentleman
McKinney, Florine
Dizzy dames
MacLane, Barton
Bengal tiger
Draegerman courage
Jailbreak
MacMurphy, Fred
Princess comes across
Texas Rangers
M'Graw, Robert
Bunker Bean
Madden, Jeanne
Stage struck
Madison, Noel
Easy money
Mazinni, Anna
Blind girl of Sorrento
Makarova, T.
Seven brave men
Maleyef, Igor
Anna
Mann, Allen
Shake 'em Shakespeare
Mannors, Sheila
Kelly of the secret service
March, Fredric
Anthony Adverse
Mary of Scotland
Road to glory
Marion, Beth
Avenging waters
Everyman's law
Fugitive sheriff
Marlowe, Hugh
It couldn't have happened
Marquis, Margaret
Last of the Warners
Marsh, Carolyn
Shake Mr Shakespeare
Marsh, Marian
Counterfeit
Marshall, Herbert
Forgotten faces
Girls' dormitory
Martin, Tony
Back to nature
Mason, Roy
Border patrolman
Matthews, Jessie
It's love again
Mauch, Billy
Anthony Adverse
Maynard, Ken
Avenging waters
Fugitive sheriff
Heroes of the range
Maynard, Kermit
Wildcat trooper
Mellette, Arthur
Lion's den
Menjou, Adolphe
Sing, baby, sing
Merkel, Una
We went to college
Michael, Gertrude
Forgotten faces
Return of Sophie Lang
Second wife
Miljan, John
Gentleman from Louisiana
Milland, Ray
Return of Sophie Lang
Miller, Walter
Fugitive sheriff
Mills, John
Nine days a queen
Milly
I love you only
Milton, Ernest
It's love again
Miranda, Ida
Passporto rosso
Mitchell, Grant
Parole
Mick, Ruth
Riding avenger
Montgomery, Robert
Pickcadilly Jim
Moore, Carlyle, Jr.
Two against the world
Moore, Dennis
Down the stretch
Moore, Grace
King steps out
Moore, Victor
Swing time
Mordvinov, N.
Gypsies
Morgan, Frank
Dancing pirate
Pickcadilly Jim
Morgan, Ralph
Yellowstone
Morris, Chester
Counterfeit
They met in a taxi
Mowbray, Allan
Family Judy
Muir, Gavin
Charlie Chan at the race track
Muir, Jean
Draegerman courage
White Fang
Musco, Angelo
Your troubles are mine
Nace, Anthony
A son comes home
Nagel, Anne
Gun of the Pecos
Tattler
Nagle, Anna
Three maxims
Newell, William
Sitting on the moon
Nissen, Gretta
Red wagon
Niven, David
Palm Springs
Nixon, Marian
Reckless way
Nolan, Loyola
Counterfeit
Texas Rangers
Novoseltzky, L.
Seven brave men
Nugent, Eddie
Prison shadows
Oakie, Jack
Texas Rangers
Oakmen, Wheeler
Aces and kings
O'Brien, George
Border patrolman
O'Brien, Pat
China Clipper
Public enemy's wife
Oland, Warner
Charlie Chan at the race track
Oliver, Edna May
Romeo and Juliet
Olivier, Laurence
I stand condemned
Olsen, Moroni
Grand Jury
O'Neill, Henry
Draegerman courage
Oscar, Henry
Seven sinners
Osterman, Jack
Wanted men
O'Sullivan, Maureen
Devil doll
Ottiano, Rafaela
Devil doll
Owerman, Lynne
Popsy
Pope
Three married men
Owen, Reginald
Tour for the asking
Owsley, Monte
Mister Cinderella
Perry, Joan
Meet Nero Wolfe
Shakedown

Perry, Linda
Two against the world
Poth, Irving
Down to the sea

Pidgeon, Walter
Fatal lady

Pilbeam, Nova
Nine days a queen

Pilk, Oscar
Green pastures

Post, Guy Bates
Fatal lady

Powell, Dick
Hearts divided

Powell, William
My man Godfrey

Preston, Ann
Parole

Price, Rosalinda
Roarin' guns

Proust, Jed
Back to nature

Pryor, Roger
Educating father

Pryor, Roger
Sitting on the moon

Purcell, Richard
Ticket to paradise

Quigley, Juanita
Devil doll

Quillian, Eddie
Gentleman from Louisiana

Raft, George
Your's for the asking

Rains, Claude
Anthony Adverse

Rajah, Ralph
Hearts divided

Ralph, Jess
Bunker Bean

San Francisco

Walking on air

Ralston, Esther
Holymood Boulevard

Rambeau, Marjorie
Dizzy damas

Battie, Basil
Romeo and Juliet

Ratoff, Gregory
Road to glory

Sing, baby, sing

Raymond, Gene
Erie walks out

Walking on air

Reynolds, Craig
Jailbreak

Talliet

Rhodes, Eric
Murder on the air

Rhodes, Jane
Forgotten faces

Rice, Florence
Blackmailer

Palm Springs

Sworn enemy

Richards, Addison
Dagreman courage

Song of a nation

Trailblazer west

Richardson, Kane
Racing blood

Bloodless way

Risorgo, Guidditta
I love you only

Roberti, Lydia
Hill Timbles

Roberts, Beverly
China Clipper

Hot money

Two against the world

Robson, May
Captain's kid

Robers, Ginger
Song time

Romero, Cesar
Public enemy's wife

Roepey, Mickey
Devil is a sissy

Down the stretch

Roy, Gloria
Charlie Chan at the race track

Ruggles, Charlie
Early to bed

Russell, Elizabeth

Girl of the Ozarks

Russell, Rosalind

Craig's wife

Rutherford, Ann
Down to the sea

Harvester

St. John, Al
West of Nevada

Sahm, Chic
Gentleman from Louisiana

Sceleo, Filippo
Passaporto rosso

Schmitzendorf, Bruno

Der kampf

Shirley, Randolph

And sudden death

Las of the Mohicans

Shang, Kwah-wu

Song of China

Shaw, Winifred

One of the velvet claws

Satam met a lady

Shearer, Norma

Romeo and Juliet

Shilling, Marion

Idaho kid

Shirley, Anne

MLis

Shoemaker, Ann
Sins of man

Sidney, Sylvia

Fury

Simon, Simone
Girls' dormitory

Selmikova, M.
Gypsies

Skipworth, Alison
Princesse comes across

Satam met a lady

Two in a crowd

Slaughter, Tod

Murder in the red barn

Smith, C. Aubrey

Romeo and Juliet

Sondergaard, Gale

Adams, Shirley

My American wife

Walking on air

Sparks, Ned

Erie walks out

Stander, Lionel

Meet Nero Wolfe

They met in a taxi

Standing, Sir Gay

I'd give my life

Palm Springs

Return of Sophie Lang

Stannwyck, Barbara

Erie walks out

His brother's wife

Steele, Bob

Last of the Warrens

Steele, Izabel

I was a captive of Nazi Germany

Steni, Mario

Blind girl of Sorrento

Stephenson, Henry

Walking on air

Stevens, Onslow

Easy money

Three on the trail

Stewart, James

Gorgeous hussy

Stewart, Sophie

Murder in the red barn

Stockfeld, Betty

Beloved vagabond

Stone, Fred

Grand jury

My American wife

Stone, Lewis

Don't turn 'em loose

Sworn enemy

Suzy

Stone, Paula

Trailblazer west

Stuart, Gloria
Crime of Dr Forbes

Poor little rich girl

36 hours to kill

Stuart, Jeanne

The shadow

Summerville, George (Slim)

Pepper

White Fang

Swanstrom, Karin
On the sunnyside

Talbot, Lyle
Trapped by television

Talley, Marion

Follow your heart

Tamiroff, Akim

General died at dawn

Taylor, Robert

Gorgeous hussy

His brother's wife

Temple, Shirley

Poor little rich girl

Terry, Shelia

Get-em Haines

Tester, Desmond

Beloved vagabond

Thompson, Sybil

Nine days a queen

Tibbett, Martha

Unknown ranger

Tombes, Andrew

Ticket to paradise

Tone, Franchot

Gorgeous hussy

King steps out

Suzy

Toomey, Regis

Bulldog edition

Torres, Raquel

Red wagon

Tracy, Spencer

Fury

San Francisco

Travis, June

Bengal tiger

Earthworm tractors

Jailbreak

Treasurer, Arthur

Satan met a lady

Trevor, Claire

Star for a night

To Mary—with love

Twelve trees, Helen

Thorroughbred

Tyler, Tom

Last outlaw

van Riel, Raimondo

Crocked love

Venable, Evelyn

Star for a night

Viastris, Enrico

I love you only

Vincent, Alan

Easy money

Voitsik, Ada

Anna

von Elitz, Theodore

Below the deadline

Wahlbin, Nils

Youth of today

Walburn, Raymond

Mister Cinderella

They met in a taxi

Three wise guys

Walker, Ray

Bulldog edition

Dark hour

Walters, Luanna

Aces and eights

Walshall, Henry B.

China Clipper

Last outlaw

Mine with the iron door

Walton, Douglas

Mary of Scotland

Ware, Irene

Dark hour

Warner, H. B.

Blackmailer
ACTORS and ACTRESSES—Continued

Wayne, John
Winds of the wasteland
Weidler, Virginia
Girl of the Ozarks
Westley, Helen
Half angel
Wheeler, Michael
Poor little rich girl
Sing, baby, sing
White Fang
Wheeler, Bert
Mummy’s boys
Whitney, Eleanore
Three cheers for love
Willcoxon, Henry
Last of the Mohicans
Wilde, Lois
Wildcat trooper
William, Warren
Case of the velvet claws
Satan met a lady
Stage struck
Williams, D. J.
Murder in the red barn
Wilson, Frank
Green pastures
Wilson, Marie
Satan met a lady
Wing, Toby
Hill and Holler
Winninger, Charles
White Fang
Withers, Grant
Lady be careful
Withers, Jane
Pepper
WITHERSPOON, CORA
Piccadilly Jim
Wood, Helen
Charlie Chan at the race
Wood, Howard
Irene
Woodbury, Joan
Lion’s den
Woods, Donald
Song of a nation
Woods, Harry
Heroes of the range
Woolsey, Robert
Mummy’s boys
Wray, Fay
They met in a taxi

Young, Polly Ann
Border patrolman
Young, Robert
Bride walks out
It’s love again
Secret agent
Sworn enemy
Three wise guys
Young, Roland
Give me your heart

Zellman, Tollie
Youth of today

DIRECTORS
Archibald, G.
Archibald, H. S.
Return of Sophie Lang
Arzner, D.
Craig’s wife
Asquith, A.
I stand condemned
Bacon, L.
Cain and Mabel
Barlow, C.
And sudden death
Bartholomew, 0.
Mummy’s boys
Bartlett, Frank
Mummy’s boys
Bartlett, W.
Three of the Royal Mounted
Barker, B.
The last trap (Dark hour)
Barmore, H.
Bartner, P.
The Youth of Today
Bartner, W.
Bartner, W.
Bartner, W.
Barwick, N.
Barwick, N.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Barwick, N.
Barnes, H. P.
Sworn enemy
Marshall, G.
Crime of Dr Forbes
Materazzo, R.
Il serpente a sonagli
Martinoli, M.
I love you only
Mayo, A. L.
Give me your heart
Milestone, L.
General died at dawn
Millar, A.
Crooked love
Molander, G.
On the sunny side
Newfield, S.
Aces and eights
Go get-'em Haines
Lion's den
Rooarin' guns
Nichols, G., Jr.
M'liss
Nich., W.
Crash Donovan
Dizzy dames
O'Neill, M. G.
Wellington Pike goes west
Palermi, A.
Your troubles are mine
Pember, C.
Wanted men
Pichel, I.
Gentleman from Louisiana
Pirvoi, I.
Anna
Ratoff, G.
Sins of man
Rey, A.
Everyman's law
Red, T.
Lady be careful
Roach, H.
Mill Thieves
Rogell, A. S.
Grand jury
Ross, F.
Easy money
It couldn't have happened
Three of a kind
Rosmer, M.
Murder in the red barn
Ruben, J. W.
Old hutch
Sanley, J.
Harvester
Walking on air
We went to college
Saville, V.
It's love again
Schneider, E.
Gypsy
Scotto, A.
Follow your heart
Palm Springs
Ticket to paradise
Sedwick, E.
Miss Cinderella
Selle, L.
First baby
Star for a night
Seitz, G. B.
Last of the Mohicans
Three wise guvs
Selman, D.
Shakedown
Sevilla, R.
She-Devil Island
Shely, W.
Girl of the Ozarks
Shores, L.
Glory train
Smith, N.
Guns of the Pecos
Trainin' west
Staub, R.
Sitting on the moon
Stein, P. L.
Red wagon
Stevens, G.
Swing time
Stevenson, R.
Nine days a queen
Stieglitz, R.
La porteuse de pain
Sturges, B.
Don't turn 'em loose
Sutherland, A. E.
Taggart, E.
Women are trouble
Tarras, N.
Rhythm on the range
Talning, J.
Back to nature
Educating father
Popper
Van Dyke, W. S.
Devil is a sissy
His brother's wife
San Francisco
Vidor, K.
Texas Rangers
Von Sternberg, J.
King steps out
Walsh, R.
Spendthrift
Wangenheim, G.
Der kampf
Watt, N.
Navy born
Wilcox, H.
Three maxims
Wiles, G.
Blankmailer
Two-fisted gentleman
Wright, M.
Winds of the wasteland
Young, H.
My American wife

PLAYS (Adapted)
Anderson, M.
Mary of Scotland
Benoit, F.
Nuits de Muscovie (I stand condemned)
Connelly, M.
Green pastures
Dixon, C.
Secret agent
Dodg, L. W.
His majesty. Bunker Bean (Bunker Bean)
Donnelly, D.
Poppo
Fodor, L.
Matur (Girls' dormitory)
Gates, E.
Poor little rich girl
Harte, D.
M'liss
Kelly, G.
Crail's wife
Mallory, J. pseud.
Sweet ales (Give me your heart)
Marischka, H., and E.
Clissy (King steps out)
Topperetz, F.
Michaelis, K.
Die hellige luege (Star for a night)
Nicholson, K., and Robin- son, C.
Sailor beware (Lady be careful)
Oursler, D.
All the king's men (Second wife)
Riley, A., and Mercivale, B.
Wrecker (Seven sinners)
Shakespeare, W.
Romeo and Juliet
Van Loun, H. H., and Mack, W.
The noose (I'd give my life)
Weitzkenlorn, L.
Five star final (Two against the world)
Young, R. J.
Glorious Betsy (Hearts divided)

SHORT STORIES (Adapted)
Anderson, P.
Notorious Sophie Lang (Ret- urn of Sophie Lang)
Bradford, F.
Of man Adam an' his chil- lun (Green pastures)
SHORT STORIES (Adapted)—Continued
Burnett, W. R.
36 hours to kill
Carey, L.
Johnny gets his gun
(Straight from the shoulder)
Cockrell, F. M.
Count Pete (Walking on air)
Harte, B.
M’liss
Hervey, H.
A son comes home
Jacobs, W. W.
Money box (Our relations)
Kyne, P. B.
Lionized (Racing blood)
On Irish hill (Kelly of the secret service)
Runyon, D.
Three wise guys
Scott, E.
Border flight
Squier, E. L.
Glorious buccaneer (Dancing pirate)
Upson, W. H.
Earthworm tractors
Walsh, T.
Homecoming (Don’t turn ’em loose)
Witwer, H. C.
Cain and Mabel
Wodehouse, P. G.
Watch dog (Dizzy dames)
Directory of Producers

Academy, Academy Pictures, Inc, 4516 Sunset Blvd, Hollywood, Calif.
Ajax, Ajax Pictures Corp, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.
Amkino, Amkino Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.
Associated British, Associated British Corp, Ltd, Film House, Wardour St, London, W. 1
Atlantic, Atlantic Pictures Corp, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.
Beacon, Beacon Films, Inc, 729 7th Av, N.Y.
Beaumont, Beaumont Pictures, Inc, 846 E 6th St, Los Angeles
British & Dominions, British & Dominions Film Corp, Ltd, Empire House, 117 Regent St, London, W. 1
Burroughs-Tarzan, Burroughs-Tarzan Enterprises, Inc, 1270 6th Av, N.Y.

Capitani, Capitani-Films, Via XX, Settembre 3, Rome
Capitol, Capitol Film Productions, Ltd, 28 Brook St, London W. 1
Celebrity, Celebrity Productions, Inc, 723 7th Av, N.Y.
Chesterfield, Chesterfield Motion Pictures Corp, 1540 Broadway, N.Y.
Columbia, Columbia Pictures Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.
Commodore, Commodore Pictures Corp, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.
Criterion, Criterion Film Productions, Ltd, 25 Brook St, London, W. 1

Darmour, Darmour Studios, 5523 Santa Monica Blvd, Hollywood, Calif.
Dekora-Film, Berlin SW. 65, Hedemannstrasse 13
Diversion, Division Pictures, Inc, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.
DuWorld, DuWorld Pictures, Inc, 729 7th Av, N.Y.
Empire, Empire Film Distributors, Inc, 723 7th Av, N.Y.
First National, See Warner
Fox, See 20th century-Fox
France-Film, France-Film, 66 5th Ave, N.Y.
Paramount, Paramount Bldg, N.Y.

Gainsborough, Gainsborough Studios, Poole St, Islington, N. 1, London
Gau-British, Gaumont British Picture Corp of America, 1600 Broadway, N.Y.
Gau-British, Gaumont British Picture Corp, Ltd, 142-150 Wardour St, London, W. 1
Gainsborough, Gaumont British Picture Corp of America, 1600 Broadway, N.Y. Gaumont British Picture Corp, Ltd, 142-150 Wardour St, London, W. 1
General foreign sales, General Foreign Sales Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.
Goldwyn-United artists, See United artists

Hoffberg, J. H. Hoffberg, Co, Inc, 729 7th Av, N.Y.

Imperial, Imperial Distributing Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.

Lenauer, Jean Lenauer, 250 W 57th St, N.Y.
Lenfilm, Lenfilms, Leninsrad, U.S.S.R.
Libkow, Libkow Film, Marszalkowska 94, Warsaw
London films, London Film Productions, Ltd, 22 Grosvenor St, London, W. 1

Mascot, Mascot Pictures Corp, 1776 Broadway, N.Y.
MGM, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corp, 1540 Broadway, N.Y.
Moscow film studios, See Amkino

Olympic, Olympic Motion Picture Corp, 325 W 44th St, N.Y.

Paramount, Paramount Pictures Inc, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.
Pathé, Pathé Films, 6 Rue Franceur, Paris
Picford-Lasky, Picford-Lasky, 729 7th Av, N.Y.
Principal, Principal Distributing Corp, RKO Bldg, Radio City, N.Y.
Reliable, Reliable Pictures Corp, 5048 Sunset Blvd, Hollywood, Calif.
Reliance, Reliance Pictures, Inc, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.
Republic, Republic Pictures Corp, RKO Bldg, Rockefeller Center, N.Y.
RKO, RKO Radio Pictures, Inc, 1270 6th Av, N.Y.

Spectrum, Spectrum Pictures Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.
Studios Photosonor, Studios Photosonor, 17 bis Quai de Seine, Courbevoie, Paris
Supreme, Supreme Pictures, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.
Swiss-Praessens Films, Praessens Film A. G., Zurich, Switzerland

20th century-Fox, 20th Century-Fox Film Corp, 44 W 56th St, N.Y.
Twickenham, Twickenham Film Studios, Ltd, Alliance Studios, St Margaret’s, Middlesex, Eng.

UFA, UFA Films, Inc, 729 7th Av, N.Y.
United artists, United Artists Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.

Van Beuren, Van Beuren Corp, 1270 6th Av, N.Y.
Victory, Victory Pictures Corp, Foy Studios, Culver City, Calif.
Vitaphone, Vitaphone Corp, 1277 E 14th St, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Warner, Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc, 321 W 44th St, N.Y.

United Artists Pictures, Inc, 729 7th Av, N.Y.

United Artists Studios, United Artists Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.

Universal, Universal Pictures, Inc, 1250 6th Av, N.Y.

United artists, United Artists Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.

United Artists Studios, United Artists Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.

Universal, Universal Pictures, Inc, 1250 6th Av, N.Y.

Van Beuren, Van Beuren Corp, 1270 6th Av, N.Y.
Victory, Victory Pictures Corp, Foy Studios, Culver City, Calif.
Vitaphone, Vitaphone Corp, 1277 E 14th St, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Warner, Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc, 321 W 44th St, N.Y.

United Artists Pictures, Inc, 729 7th Av, N.Y.

United Artists Studios, United Artists Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.

Universal, Universal Pictures, Inc, 1250 6th Av, N.Y.
Pictures Reviewed in This Issue
(Continued from inside front cover)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Movie Title</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Palm Springs</td>
<td>76</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parole</td>
<td>77</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Passaporto Rosso</td>
<td>78</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pepper</td>
<td>78</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Piccadilly Jim</td>
<td>79</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Poor Little Rich Girl</td>
<td>81</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Poppy</td>
<td>82</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Le Porteuse de Pain</td>
<td>83</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Postal Inspector</td>
<td>84</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Princess Comes Across</td>
<td>84</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Prison Shadows</td>
<td>85</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Secretary</td>
<td>85</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Public Enemy's Wife</td>
<td>85</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Racing Blood</td>
<td>86</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reckless Way</td>
<td>87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Red Wagon</td>
<td>87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Return of Sophie Lang</td>
<td>87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rhythm on the Range</td>
<td>88</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Riding Avenger</td>
<td>90</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Road to Glory</td>
<td>91</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Roarin' Guns</td>
<td>92</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rogues' Tavern</td>
<td>93</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Romeo and Juliet</td>
<td>93</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>San Francisco</td>
<td>96</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Satan Met a Lady</td>
<td>98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Second Wife</td>
<td>99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Secret Agent</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Il Serpente a Sonagli</td>
<td>101</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Seven Brave Men</td>
<td>101</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Seven Sinners</td>
<td>102</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shadow</td>
<td>103</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shake Mr. Shakespeare</td>
<td>103</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shakedown</td>
<td>103</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>She-Devil Island</td>
<td>104</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sing, Baby, Sing</td>
<td>104</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sins of Man</td>
<td>105</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sitting on the Moon</td>
<td>106</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A Son Comes Home</td>
<td>106</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Song of a Nation</td>
<td>107</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Song of China</td>
<td>108</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spendthrift</td>
<td>108</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stage Struck</td>
<td>109</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Star for a Night</td>
<td>110</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Straight from the Shoulder</td>
<td>111</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Suzy</td>
<td>111</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Swing Time</td>
<td>113</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sworn Enemy</td>
<td>114</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tattler</td>
<td>115</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Texas Rangers</td>
<td>115</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>They Met in a Taxi</td>
<td>116</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>36 Hours to Kill</td>
<td>117</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>This Is the Land</td>
<td>118</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thoroughbred</td>
<td>118</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Three Cheers for Love</td>
<td>118</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Three Married Men</td>
<td>120</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Three Maxims</td>
<td>123</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Three of a Kind</td>
<td>120</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Three on the Trail</td>
<td>121</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Three Wise Guys</td>
<td>121</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ticket: to Paradise</td>
<td>121</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>To Mary—with Love</td>
<td>122</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trailin' West</td>
<td>123</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trapped by Television</td>
<td>124</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tundra</td>
<td>124</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Two Against the World</td>
<td>125</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Two-Fisted Gentleman</td>
<td>125</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Two in a Crowd</td>
<td>126</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unknown Ranger</td>
<td>126</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walking on Air</td>
<td>126</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wanted Men</td>
<td>127</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>We Went to College</td>
<td>128</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wellington Pike Goes West</td>
<td>129</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>West of Nevada</td>
<td>129</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White Angel</td>
<td>130</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White Fang</td>
<td>131</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wildcat Trooper</td>
<td>132</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Winds of the Wasteland</td>
<td>132</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Women Are Trouble</td>
<td>132</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yellowstone</td>
<td>133</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Your Troubles Are Mine</td>
<td>134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yours for the Asking</td>
<td>134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Youth of Today</td>
<td>136</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
How to Use the Motion Picture Review Digest

Sample Entry

FURY. MGM 90min My 29 '36
Director: Fritz Lang

"Tracy is peace-loving, hard working. He and Sylvia are engaged. On circumstantial evidence, Tracy is arrested as a kidnapper in a Middle-western village. Led by rowdies, the villagers storm the jail, bent on lynching Tracy. Unable to enter Tracy's cell, the mob dynamites the jail. Tracy is believed killed, but the explosion tears off his cell door and he escapes, although injured." Film Daily

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A sometimes horrible indictment against the abuse of law and order. In a clear, unbiased manner the social problems of lynching and mob fury are presented. Adults." + Nat Legion of Decency Je 11 '36

"No locality is indicated, and the plot is cleverly contrived not to arouse controversy and to avoid ultimate tragedy, but the case against lawlessness is presented with surprising force. . . Suggested for church use. Recommended to the Committee on Exceptional Photoplays, Family." + + Wkly Guide Je 6 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"How to disturb an audience is of course a big problem in the cinema. Director Fritz Lang has been highly successful with the problem. . . One might say too successful, for 'Fury' is disturbing for the wrong reason: the problem it poses is entirely unresolved at the close. . . It is regrettable that [Director Lang] did not, or could not, make 'Fury' the first-rate tragedy it might have been." Robert Giroux + — Nation p22 Je 24 '36

"Although the film becomes top-heavy with an individual plot in the final sequence, it remains a compelling and terrifying document. . . So magnificent is it in its unwavering denunciation of mob rule that one regrets that it has had to fall back on courtroom melodramatics and plot manipulation before it ends." Howard Barnes + N Y Herald Tribune p8 Je 6 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"From directing, writing, acting standpoints, 'Fury,' is a topnotch job. For audiences, however, it may prove too dramatic for better than fair returns. . . Well done, it is however, a type picture that doesn't always realize its possibilities at the box office. Exploitation may aid it." + — Phila Exhibitor p22 Je 1 '36

Starting at the beginning, the title of this picture is Fury. The producing company is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. It is 90 minutes in length. It was released on May 29, 1936.

The list of principal players and the director will require no explanation.

Next comes a brief note describing the picture, its nature, and plot. Sometimes these notes are written by our staff. In other cases they are quoted from a published source. In such cases the source is given.

Following the descriptive note, the excerpts from reviews begin. Following each review the source is given, with date of issue and number of the page on which the review appears.

It will be noticed that plus and minus signs sometimes precede the sources. These indicate the degree of favor or disfavor of the review as a whole (not just of the quoted excerpt). The meaning of the various combinations of these signs is as follows:

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; — + Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor

The signs are omitted when a review merely reports on a film without expressing a definite critical opinion.

In interpreting these signs, it will be well to remember that their precise significance will vary somewhat according to the source. In general there are three types of sources represented in the MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST: (1) audience suitability ratings by special reviewing organizations (women's clubs, religious groups and the like); (2) general newspapers and magazines; and (3) trade papers. The purpose of the audience suitability ratings by the special reviewing organizations is chiefly to pass on questions of morality and propriety and to report on suitability for children of various ages. The purpose of the reviews in general magazines and newspapers is to inform the adult patron of artistic and entertainment qualities. The purpose of the trade paper reviews is to inform the exhibitor of probable commercial value.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Pictures Reviewed in This Issue (arranged alphabetically)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Abyssinia .....................................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accused ........................................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accusing Finger ........................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Adventure in Manhattan ...............................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>After the Thin Man ....................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alibi for Murder ........................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All American Chump ....................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Along Came Love .......................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Les Amours de Toni .....................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Amphitryon ...............................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>As You Like It ..................................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Banjo On My Knee ......................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Le Barbier de Seville ..................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Big Broadcast of 1937 ..................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Big Game .......................................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Big Show ......................................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bold Caballero ...........................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Born to Dance ............................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Boss Rider of Gun Creek ..............................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brilliant Marriage ......................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bulldog Edition ..........................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cain and Mabel ............................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>California Mail ...........................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Can This Be Dixie? ......................................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Il Cappello a Tre Punte ................................................</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

(Continued on inside front cover)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Picture</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Dusty Ermine</td>
<td>39</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>East Meets West</td>
<td>40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Easy to Take</td>
<td>41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ecstasy</td>
<td>42</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ellis Island</td>
<td>42</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Empty Saddles</td>
<td>42</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>End of the Trail</td>
<td>43</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Everything Is Thunder</td>
<td>43</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15 Maiden Lane</td>
<td>44</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Flying Doctor</td>
<td>45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Flying Hostess</td>
<td>45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Follow Your Heart</td>
<td>46</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Forbidden Heaven</td>
<td>47</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Four Days' Wonder</td>
<td>47</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fugitive in the Sky</td>
<td>48</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Garden of Allah</td>
<td>48</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gay Desperado</td>
<td>51</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>General Died at Dawn</td>
<td>52</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>General Spanky</td>
<td>54</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gentleman from Louisiana</td>
<td>54</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gesuzza, la Sposa Garibaldina</td>
<td>55</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ghost Patrol</td>
<td>55</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Girl from Maxim's</td>
<td>55</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Girl on the Front Page</td>
<td>56</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Give Me Your Heart</td>
<td>57</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Go West, Young Man</td>
<td>58</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gold Diggers of 1937</td>
<td>60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gorgeous Hussy</td>
<td>60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Great O'Malley</td>
<td>60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Greater Promise</td>
<td>61</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Happy Go Lucky</td>
<td>61</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Here Comes Carter</td>
<td>62</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hideaway Girl</td>
<td>62</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hollywood Boulevard</td>
<td>63</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hopalong Cassidy Returns</td>
<td>64</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>House of Secrets</td>
<td>64</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Cover Chinatown</td>
<td>65</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>In His Steps</td>
<td>65</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Isle of Fury</td>
<td>66</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>It Couldn't Have Happened</td>
<td>67</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Juggernaut</td>
<td>67</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jungle Princess</td>
<td>67</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Der Kampf</td>
<td>68</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kelly the Second</td>
<td>68</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>La Kermesse Heroique</td>
<td>69</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Killer at Large</td>
<td>71</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>King of Hockey</td>
<td>71</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>King of the Royal Mounted</td>
<td>72</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ladies in Love</td>
<td>73</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lady Be Careful</td>
<td>75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lady from Nowhere</td>
<td>75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lady Luck</td>
<td>75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Land Without Music</td>
<td>76</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Last of the Mohicans</td>
<td>76</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Laughing at Trouble</td>
<td>77</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Legion of Terror</td>
<td>77</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Libeled Lady</td>
<td>78</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lloyds of London</td>
<td>80</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lonely Trail</td>
<td>81</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Longest Night</td>
<td>81</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Love Begins at Twenty</td>
<td>83</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Love in Exile</td>
<td>83</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Love Letters of a Star</td>
<td>84</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Love on the Run</td>
<td>84</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Luckiest Girl in the World</td>
<td>86</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mad Holiday</td>
<td>87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Magnificent Brute</td>
<td>88</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Make Way for a Lady</td>
<td>90</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Man I Marry</td>
<td>90</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Man Who Could Work Miracles</td>
<td>91</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Man Who Lived Again</td>
<td>92</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Man Who Lived Twice</td>
<td>92</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mandarin Mystery</td>
<td>93</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Men of the Plains</td>
<td>93</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Les Miserables</td>
<td>94</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Missing Girls</td>
<td>95</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>More Than a Secretary</td>
<td>95</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Murder with Pictures</td>
<td>96</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>My Man Godfrey</td>
<td>97</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mysteries of Notre Dame</td>
<td>98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Night Waitress</td>
<td>98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nightingale</td>
<td>99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nine Days a Queen</td>
<td>99</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

(Continued on inside back cover)
Motion Picture Review Digest

Vol. 1 DECEMBER 28, 1936 No. 54

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY
THE H. W. WILSON COMPANY 950-972 University Avenue, New York City

Terms of Subscription and Advertising. Full information on request.

Publications from which Digests of Reviews are made

Audience Evaluation Publications
America—America. $4. America Press, 461 Eighth Av, New York
Am Legion Auxiliary—American Legion Auxiliary. See Fox W Coast Bul
Calif Cong of Par & Teachers—California Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc
See Fox W Coast Bul; Jt Estimates; Motion Pict Guide; Sel Motion Pict
Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs—California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs (Los Angeles District)
See Fox W Coast Bul; Jt Estimates; Sel Motion Pict
Christian Century Press, 440 S Dearborn St, Chicago
DAR—National Society Daughters of the American Revolution
See Fox W Coast Bul; Jt Estimates; Motion Pict Guide; Sel Motion Pict
Endorsed Motion Pict—Endorsed Motion Pictures. Publication discontinued
Fox W Coast Bul—Fox West Coast Theatres Corporation Bulletin. 1837 S Vermont Av, Los Angeles
This publication contains evaluations by the following organizations: Am Legion Auxiliary; Calif Cong of Par & Teachers; Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs; Nat Council of Jewish Women; Nat Film Estimate Service; Nat Soc of New England Women; Women's Univ Club, Los Angeles
Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)—General Federation of Women's Clubs (West Coast). Bulletin. Mrs Wm A. Burk, 250 N Bronson Av, Los Angeles
See also Fox W Coast Bul; Jt Estimates; Motion Pict Guide; Sel Motion Pict
Int Fed of Cath Alumnae—International Federation of Catholic Alumnae
See Fox W Coast Bul; Nat Legion of Decency
This publication contains evaluations by the following organizations: Calif Cong of Par & Teachers; Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs; DAR; Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast); Nat Council of Jewish Women; Nat Soc of New England Women; S Calif Council of Fed Church Women; Women's Univ Club, Los Angeles
Mo Film Bul—Monthly Film Bulletin. Issued to members only. British Film Inst, 4 Great Russell St, London W C 1
Motion Pict & Family—Motion Picture and the Family. Free. Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc, 25 W 44th St, New York
Motion Pict Guide—Motion Picture Guide. 50c.
Mrs John Waldo, Am Asn of Univ Women Motion Pict Com, 330 E 47th St, Indianapolis
This publication contains evaluations by the following organizations: Calif Cong of Par & Teachers; DAR; Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast); Nat Council of Jewish Women; Nat Film Estimate Service; Nat Soc of New England Women; Women's Univ Club, Los Angeles
Motion Pict R—Motion Picture Reviews. $1.
Motion Picture Reviews, Women's University Club, 941 S Rangeline, Los Angeles
See also Fox W Coast Bul; Wkly Guide
See also Fox W Coast Bul; Jt Estimates; Motion Pict Guide; Sel Motion Pict
Nat Film Estimate Service—National Film Estimate Service
See Motion Pict Guide
Nat Leg of Decency—National Legion of Decency.
See Fox W Coast Bul; Jt Estimates; Motion Pict Guide; Sel Motion Pict
N.Y. Archdiocese Motion Pict Guide—New York Archdiocese Motion Picture Guide
See Nat Leg of Decency
Parents' M— Parents' Magazine. $2. The Parents' Institute, Inc, 9 E 40th St, New York
Scholastic—Scholastic, Chamber of Commerce Bldg, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Sel Motion Pict—Selected Motion Pictures.
West Coast Club, Los Angeles; Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America, Inc, Will H. Hays, Pres, 25 W 44th St, New York
This publication contains evaluations by the following organizations: Calif Cong of Par & Teachers; Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs; DAR; Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast); Nat Council of Jewish Women; Nat Soc of New England Women; S Calif Council of Fed Church Women; Women's Univ Club, Los Angeles
S Calif Council of Fed Church Women—Southern California Council of Federated Church Women
See Fox W Coast Bul; Jt Estimates; Sel Motion Pict
Wkly Guide—Weekly Guide to Selected Pictures. $2.50 yearly, with subscription. $1. National Board of Review of Motion Pictures, 70 Fifth Av, New York
Women's University Club, Los Angeles—Women's University Club, Los Angeles
See Fox W Coast Bul; Jt Estimates; Motion Pict Guide; Motion Pict R; Sel Motion Pict

Newspapers and Magazines
Boston Transcript—Boston Evening Transcript. $5.50. (Saturday). Boston Transcript Co, Inc, Pub, 324 Washington St, Boston
Canadian M—Canadian Magazine. $1.50. Hugh C. MacLean Pub, Ltd, 347 Adelaide St, W Toronto
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

Liberty—Liberty, $2. Liberty Publishing Corp, 1926 Broadway, Lincoln Sq, New York
Life—Life, $1.50 Life Magazine, Inc, 60 E 42d St, New York
Lit Digest—Literary Digest, $4. Funk and Wagnalls Co, 354-360 Fourth Av, New York
Manchester Guardian—Manchester Guardian, Fsa (Daily), Manchester Guardian, 3 Cross St, Manchester, 2. Guardian Newspapers, Inc, 220 W 42d St, New York
Nation—Nation, $5. Nation Fund Inc, 2 Vesey St, New York
New Statesman Spec—New Statesman and Nation, 30s. New Statesman and Nation, 19 Great Turnstile, London, W C 1
N Y Sun—New York Sun, $10. Sun Printing and Publishing Assn, 280 Broadway, New York
New Yorker—New Yorker, $5. F R Publishing Corp, 25 W 45th St, New York
News-Wk—News-Week, $4. Rockefeller Center, 1270 6th Av, New York
Sight & Sound—Sight and Sound. (Quarterly) 2e 4d. British Film Inst, 4 Great Russell St, London, W C 1
Spec—Speculator, 30s. The Speculator, Ltd, 29 Gower St, London, W C 2
Stage—Stage, $3. Stage Publishing Co, Inc, 50 E 42d St, New York
Time—Time, $6. Time, Inc, 350 E 22d St, Chicago

Trade Papers
Box Office—Box Office (Eastern sectional ed) $2. Associated Publications, Inc, 4704 E 9th St, Kansas City, Mo.
Canadian Moving Pict Digest—Canadian Moving Picture Digest, $5. Canadian Moving Picture Digest Co Ltd, 259 Spadina Av, Toronto, 2
Film Daily—Film Daily, $10. The Film Daily, 1650 Broadway, New York
Motion Pict Daily—Motion Picture Daily, $6. Motion Picture Daily, Inc, 1790 Broadway, New York
Phil Exhibitor—Philadelphia Exhibitor, $2. Jay Emanuel Publications, Inc, 219 N. Broad St, Philadelphia
Variety—Variety, $6. Variety, Inc, 154 W 46th St, New York

Explanations
After the title of the film, the producer is given, next the running time in minutes and then the date of release.
Under Players, only leading members of the cast are listed.
For system of evaluating favor or disfavor of the reviews, see note at bottom of pages.
The evaluating symbols indicate the degree of favor or disfavor of each review as a whole, not just of the quoted excerpt.
In the reference to the magazine, the number of the page is first given, followed by the month, day and year.
An index will be found at the end of the quarterly cumulated numbers which includes actors, actresses and directors for the productions indexed; also books, plays and short stories from which movies have been adapted.
Only those foreign films which are likely to be generally shown are listed.
In evaluating the films, the women's organizations use "mature" or "adult" when films are unsuited for children; "family" when suitable for all the members of a family; "young people" when suitable for adolescents from 14 to 18 years of age; "children" for those under 14.
Abbreviations of producers' names and their addresses will be found in the Directory of Producers at the end of the number.
(e) This symbol denotes a short feature.
When the date of release is omitted, it has not been determined by the producer.
The running time as given is tabulated after projection room showings and is only an approximation of the actual release length in communities where state or local censorship may result in deletions. For final information, consult your local exchange.

Key to Abbreviations

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Letter</th>
<th>Meaning</th>
<th>Examples</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>a</td>
<td>adults</td>
<td>&quot;adults&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>e</td>
<td>edition</td>
<td>&quot;edition&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>f</td>
<td>federal</td>
<td>&quot;federal&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>g</td>
<td>general</td>
<td>&quot;general&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>p</td>
<td>page</td>
<td>&quot;page&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>s</td>
<td>selected</td>
<td>&quot;selected&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>y</td>
<td>young people</td>
<td>&quot;young people&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A</td>
<td>Ag</td>
<td>&quot;Ag&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A</td>
<td>Animal</td>
<td>&quot;Animal&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ap</td>
<td>April</td>
<td>&quot;April&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>asan</td>
<td>association</td>
<td>&quot;association&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>av</td>
<td>avenue</td>
<td>&quot;avenue&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>bd</td>
<td>board</td>
<td>&quot;board&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>blk</td>
<td>bulletin</td>
<td>&quot;bulletin&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>blvd</td>
<td>children</td>
<td>&quot;children&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>c</td>
<td>California</td>
<td>&quot;California&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Calif</td>
<td>Catholic</td>
<td>&quot;Catholic&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>com</td>
<td>committee</td>
<td>&quot;committee&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Conc</td>
<td>Congress</td>
<td>&quot;Congress&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D</td>
<td>December</td>
<td>&quot;December&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>e</td>
<td>east</td>
<td>&quot;east&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ed</td>
<td>ed</td>
<td>&quot;ed&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F</td>
<td>February</td>
<td>&quot;February&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>par</td>
<td>parent</td>
<td>&quot;parent&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>pict</td>
<td>picture</td>
<td>&quot;picture&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>pub</td>
<td>publisher</td>
<td>&quot;publisher&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>rep</td>
<td>Republic</td>
<td>&quot;Republic&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>sel</td>
<td>selected</td>
<td>&quot;selected&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>soc</td>
<td>society</td>
<td>&quot;society&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>sq</td>
<td>square</td>
<td>&quot;square&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>spec</td>
<td>Spectator</td>
<td>&quot;Spectator&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>st</td>
<td>street</td>
<td>&quot;street&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>univ</td>
<td>university</td>
<td>&quot;university&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vol</td>
<td>volume</td>
<td>&quot;volume&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>wk</td>
<td>weekly</td>
<td>&quot;weekly&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>wkly</td>
<td>weekly</td>
<td>&quot;weekly&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>18-20</td>
<td>years (after 15)</td>
<td>&quot;years (after 15)&quot;</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Directly following the text a complete annual index of actors and actresses, books, directors, plays and short stories will be found. In addition a complete title index of all films reviewed from September 1, 1935 through December 28, 1936 is included.

Motion Picture Review Digest
Devoted to the Valuation of Current Motion Pictures

December 28, 1936

ABYSSINIA Amkino 63 min D 8 '36
A silent film with an off-screen narration in Russian and additional titles in English on the screen.
Russian film produced in Ethiopia during the Italian invasion and showing the destructive results of recent war on a small, defenseless free nation.

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[It] was made by a pair of daring photographers from the U.S.S.R., who have contrived to give fragmentary material a certain unity. Their clips have nearly all been taken in the former camp of the Negrus Theater, to suggest the portentous international complications of Mussolini's African adventure, but they constitute to damning indictment of Italian brutality during the war. While definitely partisan, the film is an apparently authentic document.
Howard Barnes
New York Herald Tribune p29 D 9 '36

"The film has several harrowing war scenes and some gruesome 'shots' of the bombing of a Red Cross hospital that are a remarkable testament of the savageness of the conflict. The film is a bit too long and devotes altogether too much footage to a general picturization of the life and habits of the natives before hostilities started—information that is already well known as a result of previous newsreels but once, it gets under way it accomplishes its purpose." William Boehnel
N Y World-Telegram p37 D 9 '36

ACCUSED. Criterion-United artists 78 min Ja 8 '37
Cast: Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. Dolores Del Rio, Florence Desmond, Basil Sydney Director: Thornton Freeland

Dialogue film produced in England. It is a mystery story with a background of Paris stage life. A Spanish dancer is accused of the murder of a star who has tried to steal her husband's affections.

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The locale is chiefly in a French courtroom where procedure is strange and interesting. . . . The story is highly dramatic and exciting in the extreme." Laura Elston
Canadian M p10 D '36

Trade Paper Reviews

— Motion Pict Daily p7 Ag 4 '36

"On form this picture cannot possibly fail in public appeal. It has two stars, a supporting company that is practically flawless, and a story and situations which have always satisfied. Okay for both sides of the Atlantic. . . . Direction is intelligent and production atmospherical and elaborate, without ostentation."

Variety p19 Ag 12 '36

ACCUSING FINGER. Paramount 60 min O 9 '36
Cast: Paul Kelly, Marsha Hunt, Kent Taylor, Robert Cummings
Director: James Hogan

This is the story of an ambitious prosecuting attorney who has helped send many men to their doom and then finds himself in the dockhouse on a charge of having murdered his estranged wife. The real killer is found and the attorney, having learned the condemn- man's point of view, becomes an enthusiastic worker against the death penalty.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Rather more argumentative than entertaining, this film is rescued from complete mediocrity by the boldness of its theme and the forceful playing of Paul Kelly. The system of capital punishment is herein belabored for its possible mistakes with more conviction than the given facts warrant. . . . The conclusion against legal execution . . . is considerably weakened by the poor presentation of the plot and the undistinguished dialogue which is forced upon the players. . . . The production itself is technically inferior. Its implications are for the adult mind." T. J. Fitzmorris
— America p48 O 17 '36

"A: depends on taste; B: doubtful; C: no."
Christian Century p1310 N 11 '36

"The ending is rather abrupt, but the picture will surely be conducive to a deeper respect for all law and order and to a more sympathetic understanding of one another. Family-mature." Am Legion Auxiliary

"A powerful picture but too tense and vivid to be classed as entertainment. Adults: strong; 8-15: no." Calif Cong of Fair & Teachers

"This picture has good story value, vital and interesting subject matter and sincere acting by a well chosen cast, but as an arraignment of capital punishment it falls down in its logic and its psychology. . . . The picture is obviously biased and the appeal is an emotional one for it shows the anguish of men condemned to death, but not the tragedy and sorrow of those whose loved ones were murdered. Much is made of the cruelty of the law, but nothing of the right of society to self protection. A laudable attempt has been made to exalt the kinder and more humane instincts of man and society, but a fairer presentation of the controversial subject could have been given. Adults, Rating: matter of taste." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Well produced, the picture has deep significance, of interest to adults and young people." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; --- Fair; --- Mediocre; --- Poor; --- Exceptionally Poor
ACCUISING FINGER—Continued

"The effort to prove that the perpetrator of a hideous and totally unjustifiable crime should not be executed by showing the same punishment. The film is a subtle and deft tale that would enhance the dramatic force; making its work skillful and compelling. [M. . . ]"

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 26 '36

"A fine cast give realistic and human portrayals, the direction is clever, the photography of prison scenes is interesting and there is excellent drama development with fine maintenance of suspense."

Nat Council of Jewish Women O 1 '36

"Adults."

Nat Legion of Decency O 8 '36

"A & Y: fair; C: no interest."

Parents' M p32 D '36

"The question of capital punishment is treated in such a grim, logical and such gruesomeness that audiences will find it a terrible arrainment of our accepted way of punishing criminals. Directed and acted with evident sincerity, the production has the merit of bringing a serious and controversial subject to the screen. Adults."

Sel Motion Pict p8 N 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Under the guise of an attack on the ethics of capital punishment, this is a rather grim program melodrama. . . . Strong acting does not save the film from its own theatricality. Adults."

— Christian Science Monitor p17 N 14 '36

"Mr. Botsford again turns in a job of which he may be justly proud. "The Accusing Finger" is technically excellent, cinematically sound and dramatically outstanding. . . . [It] is unreservedly recommended. Cinema students please note."

Paul Jacob

Hollywood Spec p13 S 26 '36

"The story is the one about the cold-blooded protector who, when his own neck is threatened unjustly, by circumstances, and it is told by means of so many ancient devices that even the warmest opponents of legal homicide will be torn between amazement and embarrassment. . . . The cast do as well as could be expected with the materials at hand." B. R. C.

— N Y Times p35 N 17 '36

"Although it attempts to make out a strong case against capital punishment, [it] is a silly and incredibly feeble murder mystery. Except for a part played exceptionally well by Paul Kelly, there isn't at real characterization in the film and the situations are forced and labored."

William Boehn

— N Y World-Telegram p17 N 16 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"An argument for the abolition of capital punishment, this film misses fire chiefly because of poor screen treatment and uninteresting direction. . . . Poor photography and lighting and a not-to-careful production makes this a picture of neglected opportunities. Family."

— Box Office p19 S 26 '36

"This feature is incomparably stronger in its exposition of argument than in its power to entertain. The footage is generally lacking in suspense and action."

— Film Daily p9 N 17 '36

"Adding one more to the year's mounting list of social reform pictures, this one makes a sentimental but effective plea against capital punishment. It is a well-made B film and will add strength to double bills in the middle register and on down. The well built script . . . uses a dramatically effective idea to good purpose."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 S 17 '36

+ — Motion Pict Daily p6 S 18 '36

"Familiar, played well by a feature cast, "The Accusing Finger" is for neighborhoods, twin bills, and theaters with no star names, it fits into the program category for which it is made."

+ — Phila Exhibitor p35 O 1 '36

"'The Accusing Finger' is a glaring example of how many chefs having a finger in the broth. Added to this is a lack of weighty marque names, an unappealing title, mediocre direction, and uneven tempo. Main fault is that the film fails to develop several plot angles introduced. For the duals, it should satisfy. Though Kelly seems miscast as the prosecuting attorney. . . . While Kelly seldom is favored with strong lines, it also is evident that he is inclined to overact."

— Variety p13 N 18 '36

"A preachment against capital punishment, carrying out the story in an unconvincing manner, "The Accusing Finger" is merely a staged entertainment. Stageb and theatrical, the piece lacks punch and is lukewarm, except in one or two scenes which in themselves are meritorious only because of individual performances."

+ — Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 17 '36

ADVENTURE IN MANHATTAN. Columbia 75min O 8 '36

Cast: John Arthur, Joel McCrea, Reginald Owen, Herman Bing

Director: Edward Ludwig

Based on the novel Purple and Fine Linen by May Edington. A detective story writer is hired by a newspaper to write expose articles about a series of jewel robberies. He is a cocksure predictor of his crimes and when one of his predictions falls through, he loses his job but meets an actress who helps him regain his job, scoop rival papers and capture the jewel thieves.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The chief merit of the film is the sprightly manner it maintains throughout the action, and it is acted with considerable skill. [It is] a maturingly amusing production." T. J. Pitzmorr

+ — America p48 O 17 '36

"A: only fair; Y: perhaps; C: hardly."

Christian Century p1843 O 7 '36

"Family."

Fam. Coast Preview Committee

Fox W Coast Bul O 17 '36

"Adults & adolescents."

Mo Film Bul p17 O 3 '36

"Fair. Family-mature."

+ — Motion Pict Guide D '36

"The story becomes bewildering in its many ramifications and is only mildly entertaining. Adolescents, 12-16: probably entertaining; children, 5-12: probably not."

— Motion Pict R p4 O 3 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency O 15 '36

"A: good entertainment; Y: possible; C: unsuitable."

Parents' M p32 D '36

"A blend of expert direction, fine acting and a refreshing story result in delightful entertainment. Family."

+ — Sel Motion Pict p3 N 1 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
"Clever dialogue and good acting. Family."

+ Wkly Guide O 10 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"This is a smooth little comedy romance that ought to please the whole family—it moves swiftly, plenty of fun and a soupçon of mystery." Laura Elston

+ Canadian M p38 N '36

"Well acted and moderately entertaining comedy, not for adults. Woman, however, I think will enjoy it."

+ Christian Science Monitor p17 O 31 '36

"The attractive principals do far more for 'Adventure in Manhattan' than the five authors who have had a hand in concocting the new [picture]. . . Jean Arthur . . . Joel McCrea, Reginaid Owen and Thomas Mitchell realize all the best qualities of a screen mystery-romance that is pleasantly diverting and mildly exciting. Edward Ludwig has directed the piece briskly and adroitly, relying on the talents of his performers to conceal the deficiencies of the scenario."

+ N Y Herald Tribune p21 O 23 '36

"'Adventure in Manhattan' is a lightweight and moderately diverting mystery tale which hurls its absurdities with the greatest of ease and will be forgotten almost as soon as it fades from the screen. . . Part of it is entertaining and amusing, and some of it is pretty, rather than far-fetched and unreasonable. And what it does with newspaper procedure, with the libel laws and police procedure is more than we dare to recall." F. S. Nugent

+ N Y Times p27 O 23 '36

"[It isn't] much to brag about. 'Adventure in Manhattan' is a fair, rather a crazy mystery with Joel McCrea and Jean Arthur.'" John Mosher

+ New Yorker p77 O 31 '36

"There's enough humor in the film to give the principals something to work on."

News-Wk p30 O 10 '36

"It seems that [four writers] couldn't quite get together on their conceptions of a mystery-solving reporter and an exciting-loving actress. . . No attempt is made to explain the mysterious happenings that keep these two off balance, and without help from the newspaper office to stage door. We suppose that would be amusing too much of any four script writers. Without much choice, Mr. Arthur and Miss McCrea 'Adventure in Manhattan' would be all hollow dodos. With Mr. McCrea and Miss Arthur, it is pleasant nonsense."

+ Stage p12 D '36

"'Adventure in Manhattan' . . . may conceivably prove to the producers of 'It Happened One Night' that box-office success is not necessarily the reward of second-hand whimsey." Time p71 O 26 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Geared for popular appeal, especially in the direction of fans who want thrill pictures in a zestful manner. Jean Arthur, who delighted audiences with her performances in 'Ex-Mrs. Bradford' and 'Mr. Deeds Goes to Town,' is seen in a similar role. Family."

+ Box Office p63 S 19 '36

"This is a vigorous, expertly produced picture that will exact enthusiasm from every strata of patrons and it is both an exhibitor and audience picture."

+ Film Daily p1 D 23 '36

"This is a combination of whimsy and crime detection that has frequent spots of enganging lunnacy but that as a whole does not quite jell. There is a lack of credibility in the premises of the story that makes many of the situations too forced, even for whimsy. The result being a fair programmer, the sale of which will be helped somewhat by the presence of Joel Mc-Crea and Jean Arthur in well-fitting roles but which cannot be expected to make any high score at the box office."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 O 1 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p5 S 4 '36

"Well made comedy drama that has been smartly cast, well played, 'Adventure in Manhattan' ought to build on word of mouth. Estimated entertaining."

+ Phila Exhibitor p34 O 1 '36

"Competent cast and splendid direction manage to ease this one by, but it's pretty close all the time. This is a mystery and a love story all at one time. The plot, after a promising start, gets weaker as it goes along, it is not the fault of Jean Arthur and Joel McCrea. This script itself is to blame for the picture's tendency to add implausibility after implausibility to a basically fantastic plot."

+ Variety p14 O 23 '36

"'Adventure in Manhattan' is another tongue-in-cheek comedy melodrama that is slightly better than the current run-of-the-mill programmer of this type. Although another [mystery story] involving another newspaper man, picture, the director has shown this classic again from a new angle. . . Obviously a topper for double bills, the picture has plenty of action, and although it drags in places, the audience are not likely to feel the time wasted."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 1 '36

AFTER THE THIN MAN. MGM 110min D 25 '36

Director: W. S. Van Dyke

"Powell and his wife, Myrna Loy, have returned from a long absence to their San Francisco home. Immediately they are faced with solving the mysterious death of a cousin's philandering and generally obnoxious husband who police fail to relinquish his young wife to a former suitor for a large sum." Variety (Hollywood)

Trade Paper Reviews

"This gay, rollicking comedy mystery should score heavily at the box office and cast is headed by Powell and Myrna Loy, who previous to their marriage were an ideal team in the 'Thin Man.' They ronp through their present roles and pile up the laughs. Many of the comic situations are fresh, with Director Van Dyke extracting the fullest measure of fun. Albert Hackett and Frances Goodrich, who wrote the 'Thin Man' screen play, did nobly with the script for the sequel."

+ Film Daily p11 D 7 '36

"Produced as a sequel to the smash 'Thin Man,' this is a worthy successor. With William Powell and Myrna Loy teamed in the same characters as before, the picture is equally as hilarious in its farcical elements and equally as tense and dramatic in the heavier unfolding of its gripping story. While they are not quite as a knockout at the box office mainly for its novelty of treatment, which since has been imitated many times, the bizarre treatment of the present story, while not now new, can be assured of tremendous audience appeal because of the growing popularity of the Powell and Loy team, and the entertaining qualities of the picture as a whole."

+ Hollywood Reporter p2 D 3 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p10 D 4 '36

"The ingredients are very similar to 'The Thin Man,' the personnel is led by the same top names, including Director W. S. Van Dyke.

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
AFTER THE THIN MAN—Continued and grosses may even exceed those on 'The Thin Man' with many new customers educated to this type of entertainment. Magnetic marquee names, fascinating story, handling, all spell prodigious box office.'

+ Variety (Hollywood) p8 D 3 '36

ALIBI FOR MURDER. Columbia 59min S 23 '36

Cast: William Gargan, Marquerite Churchill, Gede Morgan, John Gallaudet

Director: D. Ross Lederman

"Perry Travis, the new reporter with a 'nose for mystery' and a flair for detecting, follows the clues that lead to the murderer." Nat Legion of Decency

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: fair; Y & C: rather good thriller."

Christian Century p160 N 11 '36

"While not entirely plausible, there are many interesting and humorous touches in this competently acted and directed production. Adults & young people." East Coast Preview Committee

+ — Fox W Coast Bul O 24 '36

"Fair, entertainment for adults & young adults."

— Motion Picture Guide D '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion for Decency O 8 '36

"A: fair murder mystery; Y: possible; C: unacceptable."

Parents' M p52 D '36

"Adults & young people."

Sel Motion Picture N 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[It is a] routine program murder. Adults."

+ — Christian Science Monitor p15 O 17 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"[It is a] well-paced murder mystery that will secure high devices of crime films."

+ Film Daily p10 O 2 '36

+ Motion Picture Daily p12 O 20 '36

"Estimate: program."

+ — Phila Exhibitor p36 O 15 '36

"This is a one-murder mystery based on amateur sleuthing, and more talk than action. William Gargan's presence is the picture's principal asset, but he over-talks to a point of boredom."

— Variety p31 O 7 '36

ALL AMERICAN CHUMP. MGM 70min O 16 '36

Cast: Stuart Erwin, Betty Furness, Robert Armstrong, Edmund Gwenn

Director: Edwin L. Marin

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: stupid; Y & C: poor."

Christian Century p1574 N 25 '36

"Fairly entertaining for family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"The story is interestingly developed, the cast well chosen and the picture provides good entertainment of the light, humorous type. Family. Adults & 8-18: good." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

+ — Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

"This picture will be popular with all types of audiences seeking light entertainment and not demanding too much from their screen fare. Rating: matter of taste. Family; Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Mature-family. Good." DAR

"A slow-moving farce built around a novel idea which results in a mildly entertaining program picture. Family." Nat Soc of New England Women

"[It is] a well cast picture suitable for the family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"The picture is not better than one would expect from such material. Stuart Erwin manages to be funny as Elmer but he is wasted in such a poor vehicle. Waste of time for anybody but harmless for family." Women's Univ Club, Los Angeles

Fox W Coast Bul O 3 '36

"Well produced and fairly entertaining. Family-mature."

+ — Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 23 '36

"Fairly entertaining. Mature."

— — Film Daily p111 O 36 '36

"The development does not entirely avoid the obvious, but director and cast together seem to have so much enjoyed making the film that it be churchy not to join in. Stuart Erwin is in great form as the simple genius, Elmer. ... It is good clean fun and the plot is not too intricate for youngsters to follow. Family." D. F. R.

— Mo Film Bul p171 O 36 '36

"This is an amusing picture and is excellent fare with its brow-beaten young hero, the willing bride, and just enough improbability to prove entertaining. ... Over-lengthy gangster sequences and excessive drinking. Family." Nat Council of Jewish Women S 21 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency O 1 '36

"A, Y & C: fairly entertaining."

Parents' M p52 D '36

"Fairly entertaining. Mature."

+ — Sel Motion Picture p6 O 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Even with a good cast and high grade producers the obvious hurry in the making of 'All American Chump' results in a pretty slowly the preview audience gave it hardly a complimentary hand... MGM should allow more time and money for what they call a B picture which in this case is much farther down the alphabet." Rob Wagner

— Script p10 O 24 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

Canadian Moving Pic Digest p14 N 14 '36

"Estimate: program farce; best for neighborhoods."

PhiExhibitor p34 S 15 '36

"With length chopped to about an hour's running time, 'All American Chump' most patiently is harnessed up for double combinations. It has neither names, story merit nor consistent entertainment to set by on a single picture a la B. Some of the comedy is silly and much of it inane. The film will not enhance Stuart Erwin's popularity... Neither the build-up or the championship tournament nor the title match itself have been given sufficient importance and intelligent direction or development. Seemingly, the card technique angle was chucked out of the window as being too complicated and a lot of commonplace gag line inserted. Much of this is woeful to behold."

— Variety p19 N 4 '36
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

ALONG CAME LOVE. Paramount 65min O 23 ’36
Cast: Irene Hervey, Charles Starrett, Doris Kenyon, H. B. Warner. Irene Franklin
Director: Bert Lytell

“It’s a Cinderella story, with Irene Hervey playing the role of the young lady in Grace’s basement who loves the young medico with Park Avenue antecedents.” Hollywood Reporter

Audience Suitability Ratings

“Here is good entertainment, with splendid performances by several former favorites. Most notable is Carol Dempster being directed by Frank Capra. Sympathetically directed, this unpretentious story is an appealing blend of laughter and tears. Family, but mature for children.” Am Legion Auxiliary

“Family. Fairly entertaining picture, sincerely acted, capably directed and possessing a nice mixture of comedy.” Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

“The picture has a likable cast, good acting, an original angle or two, but these virtues hardly compensate for the weak story. Disappointing. Family.” Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs

“Mediocre, illogical, but amusing. Family, but maturing for children. D.J. Davis

“Not a remarkable film but it is well staged and photographed and adequately acted. Family.” Nat Soc of New England Women “Noteworthy is the work of the principals in this highly entertaining comedy for the family.” Calif Fed of Church Women

FOX W COAST Bul O 31 ’36

“This sentimental comedy is delightful and most refreshing. The cast, studded with the names of many oldtimers, stars portray, in the most capably manner, people who do the unusual thing. Star direction is emphasized by many human touches. Family.” Gen Fed of Women’s Clubs (W Coast) O 17 ’36

“[It is] passably amusing photoplay. Adolescents, 12-16; yes; children, 8-12: no interest.” Motion Pict R p5 N ’36

“Natural, simple and sincere performances by a good cast in a somewhat obvious but pleasing picture. Family.” Nat Council of Jewish Women O 21 ’36

“It is to be regretted that a line referring to a Catholic Saint was not deleted from this picture. Adults.” Nat Legion of Decency N 5 ’36

“A, Y & C: pleasant sentimental comedy.” Parents’ M p83 Ja ’37

“Family.” Sel Motion Pict p4 N 1 ’36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Had the musical scoring been less obvious and had film editor been more perceptive, producer Richard A. Rowland would have a corking film. Even as it is, ‘Along Came Love’ is a pleasant entertainment. But most importantly, it portends the possibility of a new era for Paramount.” Paul Jacobs

“Hollywood Spec p21 O 19 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Light, unpretentious little comedy-drama with an entertainment quality far above that possessed by many more imposing films, this accomplishes what more motion pictures should strive for—enjoyment, pure and simple. Family.” Box Office p21 O 10 ’36

“Using the ingredients that make for mass appeal entertainment, Richard A. Rowland has produced a romantic comedy that should do well as program fare. The women especially should enjoy this story of the shop girl who gets her doctor hero.” Film Daily p12 O 6 ’36

“This delicious piece of nonsense, with brilliant incendiary performances, sparkling dialogue and handsome mounting, lacks nothing but big names to put it definitely into big time. As it stands, it is first rate entertainment, packing beaucoup laughs and plenty of heart interest, and in most double billing arrangements it is hard to tell whether this or the other picture was meant for the top spot.” Hollywood Reporter p3 O 3 ’36

Motion Pict Daily p12 O 5 ’36

“Feature players are well cast but in the long run the show will wind up best on twin bills or in neighborhoods.”

— Phila Exhibitor p36 O 15 ’36

“With a keen eye on the box office. Richard A. Rowland has turned cut a romantic comedy in ‘Along Came Love’ that is a light and frothy bit that will fit itself nicely on any double biller. Delightfully aimed at mass entertainment, the picture is imbued with all the surefire tricks and should do excellently in all neighborhood houses.” Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 3 ’36

LES AMOURS DE TONI. French motion picture 55min N 4 ’36

Director: Jean Renoir

French dialogue film with English subtitles produced in the south of France with a non-professional cast. Toni, one of a group of itinerant Spanish workers, becomes enamored of a native girl and then turns to the coquetish Josephine, who marries the cruel quarry foreman. For continues to think of his lost love, ruining his life and finally losing it in an effort to save Josephine after she murders her loutish husband.

Audience Suitability Ratings

“Condemned.” — Nat Legion of Decency N 26 ’36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Going to newspaper files for his narrative. Jean Renoir has attempted to recreate authentic atmosphere and incident in ‘Les Amours de Toni.’ Joye, by employing an almost ‘documentary’ method in bringing a group of peasants and workers to the screen, but his realism defeats itself. Although the untrained actors he has assembled are sometimes vividly alive and the backgrounds are always convincing, the piece has little dramatic urgency. What suspense is inherent in the material is dissipated in M. Renoir’s efforts to put life over art. One cannot quarrel with the naturalistic effects he has achieved. They inevitably make for a dispassionate and tedious show, however.” Howard Barnes

— N Y Herald Tribune p20 N 5 ’36

“Marcel Pagnol, as well known here as abroad for his sparkling comedy, Topaze,” this time turns to tragic drama. He has made of it an outstanding example of the French realistic school. For tells his story without pity, without censor, without comment, consistently avoiding any trace of sentiment or even of sympathy. The picture is a triumph of the genuine over mel::emotional content. This very aloofness intensifies the inevitable tragedy. ‘Les Amours de Toni,’ a highly successful and acted story, is a strong, well directed, movingly acted ‘tragedy of peasant life.” Eileen Craeliman

— N Y Sun p20 N 5 ’36

“It is unfortunate that the cinema audience has been weaned on artificiality, because every so often something admirably genuine and sin-
LES AMOURS DE TONI—Continued
core, it is a thoroughly American and unadorned, comes along to emphasize this fact, and generally to suffer by comparison with the gilded product of the world of make believe. This category must fall ‘Les Amours de Toni.’... M. Renoir takes for his framework an actual murder and, with a camera that penetrates beyond the police records, photographs a story of rude smoldering passions, niggardliness and frustration that might well, along with its scenic backgrounds, have been given a little technical boost here and there, current film critics what they are. J. T. M.

— N Y Times p35 N 5 '36

"It is a mournful and glitterless folkpiece, all starkness and no entertainment. ‘Les Amours de Toni’ is holbent on being sincere, but this only throws the glare the stronger on its amateurishness. [It] gives an insight into the habits of those workers who have the ring of truth about them. But otherwise the film leaves one morose and unappeared... The acting ranges from good to awful and the direction is so slipshod that the narrative often becomes unconnected.

— N Y World-Telegram p21 N 5 '36

"Movies, just movies. Some more unhappy French peasants," John Mosher
New Yorker p117 N 14 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"It is a] vigorous story of savage emotions.... Its stark and often sordid scenes are powerfully displayed.

Film Daily p13 N 6 '36

Motion Pict Daily p9 N 6 '36

"This dull spectacle should have been tagged ‘Love and Murder Among the Proletariat’.... Story and background are strictly of the genre type and the recognizableness and appreciation, the only thing that the customer can take away with him is a depressive feeling.... One thing that reacts, however, the picture’s favor is the casting. The players all pack that earthy flavor and in their simple way sketch in substantial characters. The pictorial treatment proves impediments too tough for them to overcome."

— Variety p13 N 15 '36

AMPHITRYON. L'Alliance cinematographique 102min
Cast: Henri Garat, Armand Bernard, Françoise Boitel, Gaëtée Florell Directors: Reinhold Schunzel, Albert Valentin
Music: François Dèolle

French dialogue film from subsidiary of German UFA with English sub-titles. Also called Gods at Play. “The beginning finds the women of Thebes pleading for their husbands and lovers, gone long years to war. Alcmena, wife to Amphitrion, general of the Theban army, directs a plea to Jupiter to bring triumph to Theban arms and return her husband to her. Jupiter, hearing her plea on Mount Olympus, decrees the success of the Theban army. Meanwhile, impressed by the beauty and devotion of Alcmena, the sacrificing goddess, Jupiter determines to descend to earth in the form of Amphitrion and win her for his own.” (Hollywood Reporter)

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"There are so many English sub-titles in this ‘Amphitrion’ that you feel you’re reading the rather archaic dialogue. And it won’t excite you much, either... [It’s the] general kind of farcical adultery that has kept the French giggling since the days of Charlie-magne.” John Mosher

— New Yorker p77 O 31 '36

"Those bad Nazis have had a hand in financing this film, the picturegoers at the Fifty-fifth Street Playhouse would have us know. Which emblazoned news, it seems, is enough to make a Czar (or maybe we hope) the showbird of one of the most engaging comedies about town. ... All through it is a Greek chorus that swells up and chants the French equivalents of Cole Porter lyrics. There is, too, some slick photography that shows us Jupiter and Mercury leaving Olympus on a parachute. You’ll like the idea.”

— Stage p12 D '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"One of the most delightful and fanciful of tales has come to life in this story of Greek lore, in a charming ultra-modern, tongue-in-cheek fashion, we are transported to ancient Thebes, and live the lives of Jupiter’s worshippers. The dialogue, partly in prose and blank verse, and more often in song, becomes a delightful novelty. ... This is one of the finest pictures yet brought from France.

— Hollywood Reporter p3 O 29 '36

— Motion Pict Daily p6 O 23 '36

AS YOU LIKE IT. Inter-allied-20th century-Fox 80min Ja 5 '37
Cast: Marcella Bergner, Laurence Olivier. Henry Ainley, Sophie Stewart. Leon Quartermaine
Director: Paul Czinner
Music: John Walton

Based on the play of the same title by William Shakespeare. In this pastoral fantasy set in the forest of Arden, the puckish Rosalind and the romantic Orlando play out their famous love tale.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"This is a curious affair, part Shakespeare and part Bergner. The part which is the Bard’s is executed in agreeable if workmanlike fashion and the Rosalind offered, whatever may be said of its orthodoxy, is of a charming consistency. It is definitely a Rosalind compacted of Miss Bergner’s own art, owing little to poetry and rather more to the virtuosity of the camera by taking us on an irrelevant tour of the English countryside. This experiment of playing Shakespeare probably will not match the popular appeal of its predecessors but it has points of undoubted superiority—most of which resolve themselves into Elisabeth Bergner.” T. J. Fitzmorris

— America p168 N 21 '36

"Faithfulness to the spirit and word of Shakespeare, superb acting and direction and admirable photography are combined to create a rare cinematic experience. ... The recital of ‘All the World’s a Stage’ by Leon Quartermaine is poetry of poignant beauty and Elisabeth Bergner’s Rosalind is that happy combination of great art and spontaneity which awakens the most enthusiastic response in the be- holder. Only the heavy yearning plot developments. Adults & young people.” E Coast Preview Committee

— Fox West Coast Bul N 28 '36

"This film version of ‘As You Like It’ is notable and worth seeing for Elisabeth Bergner’s performance as Rosalind, for the acting generally, for the music of William Walton, and for the beautiful quality of Hal Rosson’s photography. But, as a film, it contributes to solving the problems of filming Shakespeare except the wisdom of using such an accomplished and high spirited actress as Elisabeth Bergner in a play that has such a poor plot and depends so essentially on dialogue. Students of the play may dislike her interpretation of the part and the twist which this gives to the whole play, but filmmakers will be grateful for the interpretation and bring it to the film. Nevertheless, as it stands it is well worth seeing and, as far as possible, can recommend to teachers who want to give children an opportunity of seeing the play well acted and well spoken as a film."

+ Mo Film Bul p147 S 30 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency N 19 '36

"A, Y & C: excellent."

Parents' M p33 Ja '37

"Miss Bergner's idea (and doubtless her ditactor's idea too) of a rousing, diggling Ros-lind seemed to miss fire entirely. Not As We Like It at all. But the Shakespeare lines do come through with their old magic...
The fault of the picture is not so much the fault of the hard-working players as of the play itself. As You Like It is much better suited to the limitations of cardboard sets in a reality of the realness is possible atempted in a movie version."

Ernestine Taggard

— Scholastic p17 N 31 '36

"The outstanding points about this adaptation of Shakespeare is its refreshing simplicity, grace and good humor. And Elisabeth Bergner and the Rosalind that she jurk and artistry. Those who like the play will delight in the film. Family. Outstanding."

+ Wkly Guide N 7 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"For such an accomplished actress--such a finished performer [as Elisabeth Bergner].
Rosalind is not an easy role, it affords her little scope for emotional outbursts. But as always she plays with distinction and great fineness of feeling... The play is delightful whimsy. There is, possibly from our modern viewpoint, a paucity of story and too much of this Rosalind the Hamlet, but the familiar tale is more worth seeing for those who enjoy this type of performance."

Laura Elston

+ Canadian M p36 N '36

"Elisabeth Bergner's Rosalind is another adtion to her list of distinctive screen portrayals. Dr. Paul Czinner and Robert J. Cullen, the adapter, have contrived a light-hearted simple transcription without the sumptuousness of Shakespeare's 'As You Like It.' On the headline of 'A Midsummer Night's Dream.' Which leaves the play very much in the hands of the actor and the camera men, who do it amply justice. Family."

+ Christian Science Monitor p17 N 14 '36

"This British-made Shakespearean offering is something of which the screen as a whole may well feel proud. 'As You Like It' always has been one of the Bard of Avon's most popular plays, one of the richest in quotations often repeated. Miss Bergner is magnificent, and her accent, which so many critics in New York and London found fault with on the score of its being so un-English, I thought quite delightful. Other members of the cast are faultless, too. Shakespeare, the world's master, translated by the strictest Shakespeare student. It is one of the titles you should underline on your 'Must
'It's a Light Hearted in the middle, but never mind that."

Hollywood Spec p6 D 5 '36

"The screen 'As You Like It'... has more the characteristics of the play than of the movie Cameras. It is more a photographed stage production. A play to read--or perhaps it is at least--the yellow histrionic flavor of grease paint. Miss Bergner works hard with the lovelorn, her performance is not a happy one for the film. It is hard to understand her direction. Nor do we can place it in the realistic. Oliveira's Othello Olivier's Othello. The lycan slopes of the Forest of Arden are too palpitably canvas and wood and the direction of Dr. Czinner is more of the stage than the studio. The background is too static.
The banished duke's followers sit around the front stage as if they were stuffed figures."

25's starring Liberty Hill and

Liberty p15 D 5 '36

"British critics ignored no bonfires for the picture, but danced in the streets in honor of Miss Bergner and Rosalind."

Lit Digest p24 S 26 '36

"It seems to be settled that we shall hear no more than half the text of any play by Shakespeare that finds its way to the movies. What is missing? Merely the heart, I think.
Rosalind is here in the person of Elisabeth
Bergner; the very charm that the Rosalind is not the heart of 'As You Like It."

Neither is any other individual man nor woman. All of them are involved in a district, and the vulgarity with which these others have been trammed away makes it a reflection of celluloid as individuals...
The heart of the play is gone, and its brain, we do have left, as I have said, a very nice Rosalind in Elisabeth Bergner. She is worth going a long way and actually the fragment of the play which has been photographed is in itself delightful."

Mark Van Doren

+ — Nation p613 N 21 '36

"The settings are the worst feature of the film. Motion Picture Daily, the active critic, states:
Miss Bergner is enormously accomplished, and achieves her effects with the certainty of long experience and training... She not the English music of Shakespeare's verse, but she is never incomprehensible... Indeed her fault is only that she is too apt to double-cross every t: she is altogether too emphatic, too expressive."

Peter Pan has got mixed up with something out of Star-Buff. And announcing that Miss Bergner with all her talent ought to have missed the real Rosalind! Mr. Lewis van Velzer's "The Two Quartermaine's Jacques are triumphantly good:
when they are speaking we are indeed in Arden. It gives us a notion of the delicious which Shakespeare filmed could be. Altogether this production is too unsatisfactory to throw much light on the film possibilities of Shakespeare, but at least it should warn future directors not to hold up the dialogue with needless of silent cinema work."

Raymond Mortimer

— New Statesman & Nation p352 S 12 '36

"The English screen transcription... is richly produced and pleasantly mounted, but does little to advance the cause of Shakespeare in the films. It remains true to the photographic impression of a stridently cut stage presentation than a comic clashed to the cinema. For all its fidelity there is a striking advantage of the old picture, as during a motion picture as 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' nor as brilliantly articulated as the current "Romeo and Juliet." It not be thought that Dr. Czinner's production is without virtues. Particularly, in the early scenes, the film is fluent and pleted with beauty of speech and arresting visual compositions.
The supporting players, no matter how small
their roles, add to the poetry of Shakespeare, lines magnificently. It is doubtful if the famous speech of melancholy Jacques starting:
'All the world's a stage and all the women are acted scenes is better handled under the director's hand over the camera."

Howard Barnes

+ — N Y Herald Tribune p17 N 6 '36

"It is not, unfortunately, an altogether happy venture... The supporting players, no matter how small their roles, add to the poetry of Shakespeare, lines magnificently. It is doubtful if the famous speech of melancholy Jacques starting:
'All the world's a stage and all the women are acted scenes is better handled under the director's hand over the camera."

Howard Barnes
AS YOU LIKE IT—Continued

Mr. Quartermaine's reading of the 'Seven Ages of Man' is in itself almost worth a visit to the Metropolitan. The time he will have to wait for the star... Miss Bergner's portrayal of Rosalind was long popular in Berlin... However Miss Bergner is cast as Rosalind and has been somewhat over coy on occasion, given to hammering the point of her accent with her high voice to an alarming shrillness... Eileen Creelman

"There is nothing tremendous about the new picture except its color... This is the fade-out, the opulence and expansiveness of 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' and 'Romeo and Juliet', it serves as a welcome change in the Shakespearean diet... Dr. Paul Czinner... has interpreted Shakespeare wisely in the main, making 'As You Like It' neither more nor less than it was meant to be: a pretty comedy, always tinkling on the edge of farce, but restrained from toppled by the beauty of its language. Miss Bergner's Rosalind [is raised] to the preeminence her part deserves... a curious but thoroughly delightful, blend of womanly tenderness and gamine implausibility, Miss Bergner is perfectly adjusted. She does not tear apart... instant, all glaring, taunting, feminine with the next... Even with the memory of her 'Cathedral Escapade' to burnish her... you must be rated her finest performance... in saying we mean a gay and genial production of Shakespeare. I'll like it... if you liked the play...

F. S. Nugent

"Having played Rosalind on most of the stages of Europe before her exile from Germany, Elisabeth Bergner now performs her favorite Shakespearean role for the benefit of motion picture audiences... it is a song to a great and beautiful actress, if not to a great film or a play—the report of one who sat enthralled every minute during the play when this magical performer was on the screen, but who wilted somewhat under the second-rateness of the text itself... 'As You Like It' is an indifferent play and it becomes bearable entertainment only when the Rosalind is on the screen... All that is due to the magic of acting, which you forget its intolerably silly and tedious plot...

William Roshans

N Y Times p29 N 6 '36

"There is an altogether unpretentious air, a general manner that is casual and affable and pleasant, about 'As You Like It' which certainly softens the quickness of the casual comedy... Not paralyzed by the grandeur of the author's rank, or feeling called upon to embellish his work with vast ballets and scenic innovations, which always seem a somewhat backhanded compliment anyhow, Paul Czinner, with the advice at times of Sir James M. Barrie, has tried to do no more than present a very pretty piece. And in this aim, which is lofty enough for me, he has surely succeeded. Elisabeth Bergner is a charming Rosalind... I can't imagine anyone giving us a better Orlando than Laurence Olivier does here... Leon Quatermaine runs through the 'seven ages' in a way you won't hear better for several days...

New Yorker p116 N 14 '36

"The Elstree studio's Shakespearean debut is a good [one]. The picture cost $750,000 but it is straight Shakespeare, treated with a simplicity that fits the play. Dr. Paul Czinner had the pleasure of directing a first-rate cast including Miss Bergner, the queen, and such other names as... The production is... a fitting one for this country, the film will probably please American audiences, too... It is demonstrated on the screen... that this comedy is not Shakespeare at his best...

New-Wk p55 O 31 '36

"I am one of those people who believe that there is and should be no connection between Shakespeare and the screen... Great care has been taken not to overlay the text with lavish cinematic effects. The result is a judiciously cut version of the play... The cast has been cast... Rosalind is played by Miss Bergner... For the return of Henry Ainley... Rosalind is supposed to be Elisabeth Bergner's favourite and the beauty of her performance in the part may well be that her performance is as charming... as it is lively... but in English too many of the subtleties and surprises are slurred... and there is a tendency to over-emphasis which becomes monotonous... Mark Forrest
Sat R p577 S 19 '36

"'As You Like It' is a respectful film: it is to say there is far more Shakespeare in it than there was in Reinhardt's 'Dream', and I dare say it is a better production than you will often see on the stage... It has been heavily censored... That, I think, is the chief objection to Shakespeare on the screen... A new version of the text, is less satisfactory. There are far too many dull middle-length shots from a fixed camera... Dr. Czinner has been able to keep this stage tradition. He seems to have concluded that all the cinema can offer is more space...

Graham Greene

Spec p116 S 11 '36

"Dr. Paul Czinner has arranged and rearranged the Shakespearean script until it fits the medium of picture... the film is now not only an elfin jokerette but the whole fantastic show... Orlando is allowed a few short scenes to establish his character but these are recklessly stricken from the script. This, if it awards the camera any direct opportunity to make coherent films from dramatic texts when it does nothing more than focus its unused attention on one character, and wreck the delicate fantasy of a woodland idyll, it's all wrong. Furthermore, Miss Bergner's German accent makes something approaching mimesis of the rhythm that is already sustained by the other members of the cast... All is really not quite as sorrowful as this would lead you to believe. In the passages that have not been cut there are dignity and an evident trend... At times the comedy is honestly enchanting, and the scenes with Orlando are always entertaining... It will add but little to Shakespeare's career upon the screen..."

Stage p12 D '36

"'A Midsummer Night's Dream' and 'Romeo and Juliet'... had at least one thing in common, neither one had been taken with the success of the receipts. The critical acclaim which 'As You Like It' received in London last summer and will receive in the U.S. this winter is not likely to save it from the same fate. Box-office appeal is one of the few virtues the film lacks... Elisabeth Bergner's most pronounced drawback is an outlandish accent which she makes no effort to control... Shrewd, vivacious and versatile as ever. Actress Bergner probably brings the part to life as thoroughly as possible... To give the screen As You Like It a scope that no stage production can hope to match, Czinner allowed Set Designer Lazar Meerson a free play. But the scene with the glittering poetry of the play are its rich background..."

Time P45 N 9 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"From the studios at Elstree comes this notable Shakespearean production that is a faithful translation to the screen of the play... Very few Shakespearean masters have spent years in this country, the film will probably please American audiences, too... It is demonstrated on the screen... that this comedy is not Shakespeare at his best...

Film Daily p13 N 6 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; ++ Exceptionally Poor
"The production is lavish, a superb interpretation of Shakespeare's compromise to the supposed exigencies of the boxoffice, resulting in an artistic triumph. The actress through and through Elisabeth Bergner garners the honors and, despite the action of having foreign dialect, attains the utmost of whimsy and charm that the role of Rosalind is capable of. Laurence Olivier's contribution is the purest of self-conscious. . The picture's strength lies in Bergner, and her publicity will make it a big bet in the key cities. Possibilities for it in the smaller spots are, however, dubious." + Hollywood Reporter p3 S 4 '36 + Motion Pict Daily p8 S 14 '36

"Class, with little appeal for the masses, the production is creditable throughout. As it stands it will not have appeal for anyone who doesn't particularly care for Shakespeare. In the better spots, however, with selling, it may have attraction." + Philadelphia Exhibitor p35 S 15 '36

"Here's Britain's contribution in the Shakespearean derby and a glorious (though lovely) entry. Idea of the producers seems to have been that, with Warners' and Metro's lavish Shakespearean efforts on the lines it is time to do some of the Bard's pieces in a more simple and direct manner, sans heavy production, interesting idea, but it doesn't work. Stripped of production lavishness, the play is reduced to a filmization of old-fashioned drama. As You Like It, it happens, is pleasant and has a lot of native charm, but it is beyond the ken and scope of the average theatre-goer in the U.S. However, with Bergner's performances, becomes so enraptured by her artistry that the discordant note struck by her accent at the start is forgotten. Direction of Paul Czinner deserves high commendation although the full range of the camera has not been employed to advantage, the settings being extremely limited in scope and frequently artificial in appearance. Altogether it is an artistic success, its fate at the box office is dubious." + Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 21 '36

BANJO ON MY KNEE. 20th century-Fox 80min D 4 '36

Cast: Barbara Stanwyck, Joel McCrea, Walter Brennan, Buddy Ebsen, Helen Westley, Walter Catlett, Katherine De Mille

Director: John Cromwell

Music & lyrics: Jimmy McHugh. Harold Arlen. Arthur Lange

"A mixture of drama, comedy and show, with excellent musical score, John Brennan stands out in a likeable cast. Family." + Wkly Guide D 5 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Excellent entertainment. It started importantly with such stars as Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea, and a director of distinction in the person of John Cromwell, who has taken, through as one of the most refreshing pictures of the year, as well as one that is an interesting study of the purely dramatic standpoint. . The picture's locale is rich in atmosphere. . In no other picture I have seen in years was the mood sustained so consistently as John Cromwell's understanding direction sustains it. His brilliant handling of the various story lines, his blending of story and scenic values make the mood of the production its real continuity. . The premise of the story is an amusingly odd one which will cause some purists' eyebrows to be raised, yet to be taken with a light heart." + Hollywood Trade Jn D 5 '36

"The river folk who populate 'Banjo on My Knee' are such an engaging lot that they keep a scatter-brained narrative gaily spinning up and down the river-bank. If it is not the honest study of river-bank raffish that it might have been, but its characters are presented with creditable vigour, and it is leavened by amusing lines and antics. John Cromwell has staged the piece smartly, even the preposterous climax being principal storm-tossed in their drifting houseboat, and it has been beautifully performed. Dramatically 'Banjo on My Knee' is uneven. Colorful backgrounds, pungent speech and bright inclusions of buffoonery are the substance of the work. It is vastly to the credit of the playing and the production that they subtly join to form a joyously for the missing structural unity. . Miss Stanwyck is an appealingly attractive heroine and achieves an excellent characterization. Together, the actors have contrived to give the work a rich folk texture. They never step out of the frame of the environment and customs Mr. Johnson has created for them, whether this be authentic or not." + Howard Barnes + N Y Herald Tribune p10 D 12 '36

"'Banjo on my Knee' is an unimportant little film, rambling in structure and apparently uncertain just where it is heading. Although the main story is drama, the summation telary it is musical comedy. The plot stops its wandering occasionally to permit a song, a solo by Walter Brennan or Anthony Miller, and a duet by Barbara Stanwyck and Mr. Martin, a chorus by the Hall Johnson Choir. . None of this makes the film drama, though it is entertaining lightly as it goes along. It has more comedy than most such films, with Walter Brennan's playing of a slumming minstrel, [It] won't win any prizes nor does it make any effort to do so. This is just something [with which] to while away an hour between one Christmas shopping tour and another. The songs are tuneful and pleasantly sung." + Eileen Creelman + N Y Sun p15 D 12 '36

"It impels us to scowl fiercely at the ballyhoo artists who have been telling us that it combines the virtues of 'Tobacco Road' and the mood of 'Steamboat Round the Bend.' . It ain't no 'Tobacco Road.' . Therefore, we suppose, a few traces of the Harry Hart spirit in Nunnally Johnson's script. . But [It] leans far more towards the side of musical comedy, with biological implications, than it does to an honest tale of the stepsons of Old Man River. We doubt if the public who by themselves was seduced by Barbara Stanwyck's tragic demeanor as Pearl and thoroughly irritated by the stupidity of Joel McRae. . The songs begin to emerge as definite entertainment factors. Fortunately, they are in attendance constantly enough to tide us over from boredom up to the inadequacy of the story." F. S. Nugent + N Y Times p12 D 12 '36

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Adults." + Nat Legion of Decency D 10 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

BANJO ON MY KNEE—Continued

Bauge [it] is neither forlorn nor forlornly travestied but a dandy conceit of the two, it results in a film that has been concocted without much thought or skill, but which nevertheless manages to afford a pretty amusing time. One can't help beginning lasts about fifteen or twenty minutes, and thereafter, for about ninety minutes more, the author, director and players have to resort to all sorts of wiles to keep the ball bouncing. However, although their efforts are pretty obvious all through the film, they try to pull off their tricks prov. immensely amusing... But for the most part the piece is laborious and awkward beyond belief. The work is not a pleasing vision as the unhappy bride is also uncommonly good in the role. Joel McCrea is cast as her husband. Tolerable will do for the rest of the cast and will also suffice for a rating of the film. William Bochel

— N Y World-Telegram p17 D 12 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Twentieth-Century-Fox came close to hitting the mark with this sugary slice of sheet music folk along the Mississippi. It has color, romance, comedy, fine music and a brace of 4-star performances, given by Walter Brennan and Joel McCrea." — Box Office p21 D 5 '36

"...Here is a warm, lovely, human picture that should be excellently handled by the box office. It deserves much exploitation, because once the fans are in they will be highly entertained by the picture, in tune with mouth advertising. ...Harry Hamilton's novel is ideal material and has been effectively scenaried by Numnally Johnson and also rates special bows as associate producer." — Film Daily p17 D 1 '36

"Put 'Banjo on My Knee' down on your list of must play, must play with gusto an audience can use to their mutual entertainment to attract an opening audience, for if you set a big crowd for the dailies of the first. . . .. Brennan takes an exceedingly difficult part, far from being actor-proof, and phases it into one of the best pieces of acting seen on the screen in some time, and one that will earn him a producer search for material to give him further chances. Miss Stangwyck and McCrea give fine, sincere portrayals. Walter Brennan is the standout in a distinguished, hilarious delivery. Add his Swede to 'Come and Get It,' this creation of the old shantyboy makes him a top ranker among character comedians, with a style of resourcefulness that will hold any audience every moment he's on the screen. ..." — Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 28 '36

"'Banjo on My Knee' is a fresh, zesty, living comedy with music which will spellbind average folk and delight cultivated audiences. ...In many respects it is outstanding, and should fare prosperously. ...Miss Stangwyck and McCrea give fine, sincere portrayals. Walter Brennan is the standout in a distinguished, hilarious delivery. Add his Swede to 'Come and Get It,' this creation of the old shantyboy makes him a top ranker among character comedians, with a style of resourcefulness that will hold any audience every moment he's on the screen. ..." — Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 28 '36

LE BARBIER DE SEVILLE. Hakim S 22 '36

Director: Louis Masson

This is a combination of two comic operas The Barber of Seville, by Giovachino Rossini and The Marriage of Figaro by Wolfgang Mozart, from the plays of the same title by Pierre Beaumarchais. A French dialogue film produced in France. "It is the melodious, amusing account of the romance of the beautiful Rosine with the handsome and noble Count Almaviva and the setting is Seville in the seventeenth century." (N Y Times)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Superb music adds to the attractiveness of the film. General patronage."

+ Nat Legion of Decency O 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"It may as well be said at the outset that unless one understands French much of the meaning is lost. However, the familiar tunes, sung with gusto by Figaro and Almaviva, as well as Rosine's numbers, help to while away the time during the lengthy unwinding of the complicated plot. The production [is] kept on the lighter side, in general. Even so, the entertainment is rather heavy-footed." — Marguerite Teksman

— N Y Herald Tribune p25 S 28 '36

"The mistake really was to use both operas. 'Le Barber de Seville' is nonsensical farce, but gay and rather charming. The music, played as accompaniment for all the action, with only the principal arias sung, is melodious, lovely and pleasantly comedic. However, deal with the dreamy antics of Figaro. ...The story, even accompanied by English dialogue titles is much too complicated for the English-speaking audience, treatment little sense and less entertainment. The theater might do well to chop off 'Les Noes de Figaro' and retain only the playing of the Orchestra Symphonique de Paris under the direction of Louis Masson leaving nothing to be desired." — H. T. S. + N Y Times p29 S 23 '36

"If you are an opera lover in search of a bargain and don't mind the screen as a substitute for the Metropolitan Opera House, then the place to see is the Paris where they are showing Rossini's 'The Barber of Seville' and Mozart's 'The Marriage of Figaro' as one film. The Paris Metropolitan is the setting for the acting, especially of Helene Robert as Rosine, André Baugé as Figaro and Jean Galland as the Count, is superb and the orchestral playing is beyond reproach." — William Bochel + N Y World-Telegram p18 S 29 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Advertised as the first attempt to film a complete opera, we unfortunately cannot report it a success. ...The actors are obviously ill at ease. ...The well-known airs are poorly sung, and are employed needlessly and without reason. The direction is poor and lifeless." — Hollywood Reporter p5 O 19 '36

BIG BROADCAST OF 1937. Paramount 100min O 9 '36

Director: Mitchell Leisen

Music & lyrics: Ralph Rainger. Leo Robin

Music director: Boris Morros

"The story concerns the adventures of Shirley Ross who from her favorite radio station in the sticks, has been kidding Frank Forest, star singing attraction of the big station. To shut her up they bring her in to town, planning to keep her in hotel but very-one fails for her, including her handsome agent, Ray Milland, Jack Benny, head of the station, and the police. She lands triumphantly in the big time." Hollywood Reporter
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The story merely serves to bind together what might otherwise be considered disjointed sequences, but it is well done and the result so entertaining that the interest is held through- out. The performance of the stars gives an excellent performance and the direction and photography are both splendid. All in all, a really laugh-provoking picture. Family-mature." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Music to suit all tastes, from rumba to symphony, a full supply of good clean comedy, settings that are unusually elaborate and beautiful, dialogue that delights—all these are combined to make it excellent entertainment for all ages." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"The result is great entertainment. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Family, but mature for children. Excellent." D.A.R.

"Definitely for entertainment and as such very successful. Family." Nat Soc of New England Women

"An opportunity to become acquainted with the public's favorite radio artists is presented in this picture. The only objection is that one may not dial off the portions which do not appear to the individual, Family." S Cal Council of Fed Church Women

"Fox W Coast Biol 17 '36"

"A lavishly produced, beautifully mounted pot-pourri of rollicking entertainment featuring notable radio stars. It is a medley of beautiful music, both swing and symphonic, highlighted by the magnificent presentation of Leopold Stokowski and his symphony orchestra. Spec- tacular modernistic settings, unusual lighting effects, particularly the lays of light on the famous hands of Leopold Stokowski and the swiftly paced skilful direction of Mitchell Leisen, to me makes this picture as excellent entertain- ment for all." + + Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) O 7 '36

Reviewed by S. M. Mullen
Motion Pict & Family p5 N 15 '36

"The Big Broadcast' is lively entertainment, full of laughs, amusing dialogue, songs, danc- ing and music, ranging in character from jazz to symphonic, with a slight story holding the many acts together rather less laboriously than is usual with this type of production. Ade- leaunts 12-16: entertaining; children, 8-12: unobjectionable." + Motion Pict R p6 N '36

"Highlighted by comedy and entertainment in its presentation, this picture is literally teeming with well known stars, orchestras ranging from swing to symphonic and specialty numbers without end. Family." + Nat Council of Jewish Women O 7 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency O 15 '36

"A, Y & C: entertaining." Parent's M p32 D '36

"Family." Sel Motion Pict p3 N 1 '36

"A fast-moving, highly entertaining musical show, with good music, clever dialogue and plenty of comedy." + Wkly Guide O 10 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Highbrows and low will hear something to their advantage in 'The Big Broadcast,"' which has Leopold Stokowski and his symphony or- chestra and Benny Goodman and his swing en- semble, form a lovely background for the many women and their music each superb of its kind.

Considering the range of the cast, it might appear that the whole picture would be plum- puddy, but it really has an amazing amount of coherence. If there is a general mad under- cut, it is the small locale of the broadcasting station... What we have hitherto lacked in radio pictures is imaginative camera work such as the 'Big Broadcast' has to an amazing de- gree." M. E. P.

+ Boston Transcript p1 O 10 '36

"For those who want to see their favorite radio stars, the 'Big Broadcast' is a real treat. The biggest advantage of the cast is that if you have a radio, you can listen to it. It's not a substitute, but it just supervene. And it has plenty of talent to introduce in this mad and merry jamboree." Laura Elston

+ Canadian M p10 D '36

"An amiable hodge-podge of music, dancing and comedy... There is even a slight story. Which should be enough to please everybody — well, almost. Family." Christian Science Monitor p15 O 17 '36

"There is an entertaining atmosphere of gaiety and pepiness flowing from the good music, clever dialogue and abundant light comedy—of it there is plenty. The big advantage, however, is the performance of Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, playing a magnificent symphony." J. P. Cunningham

+ Commonwewl p164 N 20 '36

"The only standard by which it can be judged is that of your personal preference in the way of radio entertainment. I must say that I happen to be fortunate enough to possess no definite likes and dislikes in film fare, my only demand being whatever is good and I do believe in this film it will keep me entertained. That is something 'The Big Broadcast' failed to do... Burns' brand of comedy has its usual appeal to me. I must say, however, that I was exhausted in my interest in his aunts and uncles, and offers me nothing as a substitute for them. His bazooka is as tiresome as his drawl. Stokowski's contribution to the picture is its greatest asset and its supreme artistic achievement.

+ — Hollywood Spec p10 O 10 '36

"In brief, there's something for everyone—well, practically everyone. Jack Benny, our favorite radio comic, has far too little to do as the suave and suave Mogul, which is really a pity. In fact, Allen is her cockeyed self as the big sponsor, and you'll have to make up your mind whether to say it is "hodge-podge of music, dancing and comedy, and comedy... There is even a slight story. Which should be enough to please everybody — well, almost. Family." + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
BIG BROADCAST OF 1937—Continued

been more imaginatively staged than conceived. It has such sure-fire acts as Benny Goodman’s orchestra, Leopold Stokowski’s symphony orchestra with eloquent hands and Benny Fields combining showmanship with an engrossing score, in itself incantatory. If, in these virtues, there is Grace Allen at her maddest and most nonsensical... The material is some- what found through the scrapbook of shop-worn, but on the whole it makes for a beguiling show... The most distinctive feature of all, however, is in the adroit direction. On several occasions the shots are pictorially arresting; and they never fail to inject into a pleasant, if overlong pattern.

Howard Barnes
+ N Y Herald Tribune p18 O 22 ’36

"Last night’s audience... howled at the Arkansawyers in the Big Broad- casts’... Martha Raye, the smooth jokes of Jack Benny; but in respectful silence it listened to the sym- phonies of Leopold Stokowski. The Big Broadcast of 1937 is bigger, better and funnier than its predecessors. It has some good songs too, thus following the ‘Big Broad- cast’ tradition right along."
Eileen Creelman
+ N Y Sun p23 O 22 ’36

"[It has] a deal of geniality and good humor. An amusing potpourri of words and music, it is entertain- ing by the juxtaposition of songs, acts, jokes and interpolations. Chiefly, though, it is a picture worthy of seeing for its unusual photographic effect, the whole is more than almost impres- sionistic, and Mr. Leisen and his cameramen have created a number of interesting studies in black and white."

William Boehnel
+ N Y World-Telegram p21 O 22 ’36

"Our astute little Grace Allen, who ought to be in Congress, provides what humor can be found in the Big Broadcast. For some mysterious reason, the studio chose to make a thoroughly commonplace and routine musical revue, ... of middle of it slap down Leopold Stokowski and a symphony orchestra, and a finely recorded rendering of Bach’s Fugue in G-Minor."

John Mosher
— New Yorker p77 O 31 ’36

"[It] brings together so many movie and radio favorites that the thinness of the story woven through the antics is understandable. Less comprehensible is the dismal material handled such talented comedians as Burns and Allen, Fields, Gracie, and George Burns."

+ News-Wk p29 O 17 ’36

"A radio station has all the ‘glamour’ advantages of back-stage stuff plus a better excuse for introducing songs, band music and pattern. Filler tunes of this order will never be missed, but when the story isn’t good, and what’s more important, it holds up to the very end. ... [The] screening of an all-Benny show is not only a musical but a pictorial triumph. The individual acts in the broadcast are Stokowski swept from one group another is a musical education in symphonic direction."

The prexie preview bunch cheered!..."

Rob Wagner
— Script p10 O 17 ’36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor

"From the radio, from the night clubs, from the symphonic stage, and out of their own backyard, [Paramount] collected their entertain- ers, and the world’s most generous broad- cast is on. Jack Benny, George Burns and Grace Allen, Bob Burns and Martha Raye in- corporating everything in show business in- cluding growth, in this current show, B. B. is definitely third-rate. Maybe you don’t care for a hodge-podge of individual acts, but it is a consistently entertaining. Jack Benny gives old gags new life, and Grace Allen could make brimstone tasty."

— Time p67 O 19 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

"It’s just as big as its title—big in names; in the production mounting Lewis Gensler has added: the music of Leonard Bernstein and the music of Rainger and Robin; in the bumber load of laughs and simon-pure en- tertainment; in the lavish display of talent; and above all, it will be big box office. Family."

— Box Office p31 O 10 ’36

"This is loaded with entertainment and should do well in the box office. It is filled in comedy, and Jack Benny, Grace Allen, Martha Raye and Bob Burns are among the funmakers who pile up the laughs. It has the swing music of Benny Goodman and his or- chestra and the classic music of Leopold Stok-owski and the Philadelphia symphony orches- tra.

The Stokowski sequence is handled with rare skill and is highly effective."

— Film Daily p12 O 6 ’36

"This is a whale of a show... though packed solidly with top entertainers and top entertainment from end to end. With about everything that a light musical should or can have, it is a box office bonanza and is likely to do some fancy record-breaking everywhere. For looks, smartness and wit, a lavish display of talent in all departments. A bouquet should go to producer Lewis E. Gensler."

— Hollywood Reporter p3 O 2 ’36

"Some good songs, plenty of comedy. With the other ‘Broadcasts’ in the big money, this will hold up for tradition before Benny’s Ein feste Burg and Fugue in G-Minor played by an orchestra conducted by none other than Leopold Stokowski, making the cinematic debut in a way which may chill classicists."

— Motion Pic Daily p3 O 9 ’36

"This is wonderful entertainment and should do well in the box office. It is filled in comedy, and Jack Benny, Grace Allen, Martha Raye and Bob Burns are among the funmakers who pile up the laughs. It has the swing music of Benny Goodman and his or- chestra and the classic music of Leopold Stok-owski and the Philadelphia symphony orches- tra."

— Variety p14 O 28 ’36

"Entertainment is the word for ‘The Big Broadcast of 1937’. Laden with laughs, swell music, lively tunes and a picture that is a riot of fun. From opening scene it moves at a grand pace and is throughout joyful good fun. The audience, obviously thoroughly satisfied, will enjoy the film and are likely to demand a sequel. It has a genuine flippancy that is always amusing. According to the box office ... foram story behind the music. The story of the broadcast of a radio station."

While hazy in the dialogue, the rest of the film, the Ralph Rainger and Leo Robin tunes will hit the topnotch whistling class, they nevertheless are slated to become popular."

— Variety (Hollywood) p2 O 2 ’36
BIG GAME. RKO 72min O 16 '36

Cast: Philip Huxton, James Gleason, June Travers, Charles B. Fitzsimons, Sally Blane, John Darrow.

Director: George Nicholls, Jr.

Based on a novel Odds Against Honor by Francis Wallace. "The screenplay treats the antics of Huxton, the ex-coach-teacher, who is supporting his large family and himself on the proceeds of his collegiate football playing. Huxton, with June Travers, the granddaughter of a sports writer, is vilified by the latter in an article charging him with betraying his school to a ring of gamblers." (Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"It is the Hollywood conscience which speaks out this season against the ugly taint of commercialism in college football and gives us, as an interesting by-product, a close-up view of last year's All-American team in action. . . However, grateful as one may be for this nice regard for ethical considerations, it is to the scenes demonstrating how football is played rather than how it is paid for that the entertainment seeker must go. Skillful direction has invested the film with more than a dash of undergraduate enthusiasm and atmosphere." T. J. Fitzmorris, The New York Times O 10 '36

"A: good of kind; Y and C: doubtful." Christian Century p1478 N 4 '36

"Thrilling football scenes, played by the All-American team of 1935, highlight this timely drama among the gridiron. Family. Am Legion Auxiliary

"Adults & 8-18: good." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Mediocre. Mature-family." DAR

"Family." Nat Soc of New England Women's Clubs

"Altogether a constructive production certain to attract and please the public. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"Family." Mrs T. G. Winter

"The perennial question of professionalism in college football has not been answered by this picture, which merely repeats the hackneyed story of gridiron. It is unfortunate that football stories which might otherwise be good family entertainment are so often marred by the introduction of such objectionable elements as racketeers and gambling." pp12-14: Women's Univ Club Los Angeles Fox W Coast Bul O 10 '36

"It is a cynical thrust at the possible attendant rackets which include gambling, bought players, and million dollar set-ups, casting reflection upon the ethics of football as played today. Family-mature." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 28 '36

Reviewed by S. M. Mullen Motion Pict & Family p2 N 15 '36

"Good. Family-mature." Motion Pict Guide D '36

"Wisely timed to herald the advent of the new football season, this film will find a vast audience of enthusiastic 'fans.' Interest is well sustained throughout in a fairly well developed story. Family." Nat Council of Jewish Women O 1 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency O 15 '36

"A. Y & C: timely and good." Parents' M p32 D '36

"Family-mature." Sel Motion Pict p6 N 1 '36

"Though there is the usual last minute victory for the hero this is a cleverly contrived nevertheless, with interesting twists to the plot, a certain significance beyond the mere glorification of the Big Business elements, and a more convincing use than usual of real football stars. Family."

+ Wkly Guide O 16 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"There are plenty of well-photographed football shots throughout." Christian Science Monitor p15 O 17 '36

"While this one by no means is a football picture to put an end to football pictures for this season, it is entertaining. . . Instead of being content to capitalize, in both obvious terms, the country's conception of football as a clean sport, it presents it in a light that will be respected. When we estimate the values of 'The Big Game' in cinematic terms, we are forced to give it poor rating." Hollywood Spec p10 O 10 '36

"One of the first of a host of autumn pigskin epics—and presenting a curiously hard-boiled saint upon the great American collegiate sport. . . Background of the makers of 'The Big Game' offer you eight celebrated gridiron stars. . . Here you have intimate glimpses of fearless athletes and figures pretty badly scarred by camera and mike." (2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p14 N 28 '36

"Unfortunately, such a gory plot rears its ugly head into the picture that much of the fun in watching the game is lost, and certainly the logic of the story is hard to follow. The picture is just another pretty good football film." Tazelaar's "The Margin."

+ NY Herald Tribune p10 O 24 '36

"An indeterminate film, the beginning of which might easily be mistaken by latecomers for a seasonal newreel. 'The Big Game' is the story of a successful college football game and the college football racket (which it shows timid signs of trying to be) nor a good conventional campus romance, of which it carelessly preserves all the ingredients. . . [It] has about it an air of such grim unreality that even the creencam shots of MacKinnon or a raccoon coat in the neighboring seat would not make it look convincing." B. C. R. The New York Times O 24 '36

"Football fans should fall heavily for 'The Big Game,' which is a slick combination of comedy and melodrama when it isn't working itself up into a rhythm. It is better today which is another by-product of the fact that football is a big business. However, if you can forget the message that it tries to tell and take the film for what it is—a pleasant, gay, swift little romantic melodrama—you will have a sufficiently good time at it. . . [It] is an agreeably diversified little film which succeeds by comedy of low and high design and some electric turns of plot, in filling a film hour well worth seeing." William Boehnel + NY World-Telegram p9a O 24 '36

"A good comedy contingent, ably headed by James Gleason and Andy Devine, establishes this picture a cut above the usual football crop. Eight All-Americans don the canvas trousers of their predecessors as moleskins as an added—though strictly non-esthetic—attraction." + National Photo p929 O 17 '36

"Football heroes, according to RKO, are no longer stalwart descendants of sport-loving American males. They are coal miners, foresters, iron workers, bums and hounded by fate into the sanctums of the nation's colleges. . . The cast, like a lot of coaches, must face the situation and like it. It is a little too much to ask of us, though. A sappy campus romance is bolstered by some mighty fine football passages, played by last year's All-Americans. But the best football story is still being told on the gridiron." + Stage p14 N 3 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; ++ Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
BIG GAME—Continued.

Trade Paper Reviews

"The expose of the bigtime football racket should mean plenty at the ticket window. Aside from the appearances of the eight All-American gridders, the story is well played. Further.

+ Box Office p31 O 10 '36

"With a lot of good gridiron stuff, some of which is spectacular, and a load of laughs, this football picture should produce to nice business. Eight well-known 'All-Americans' are neatly worked into the proceedings and should help at the box-office. Although the story is built on conventional lines, it is handled in a very suspenseful, fast-moving, exciting manner which never allows one's interest to wane."

+ Film Daily p10 S 29 '36

"Box office because it is a hilarious football comedy hitting the theaters at the height of the gridiron season. Radio's 'The Big Game' will score well in most spots and will stand out when added exploitation is given the All-Americans in the cast."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 S 25 '36

+ Motion Pic Daily p2 S 26 '36

"Football picture made for the football season, this is short on the names, but with entertainment as well as football names to help. Estimate: depends on exploitation."

Phila Exhibitor p36 O 15 '36

"Another expose on college football—though its sting is mitigated by a lot of folderol. 'The Big Game' is both timely and okay entertainment for the not so particular gridiron addict. It should give an excellent account of itself at the box offices from now till the Rose Bowl game, New Year's Day, when the football fever abates. Added advantage is that it beats the gun on the seasonal grid releases."

+ Variety p14 O 28 '36

"First on the field with a football picture built to 1936 specifications, Radio has turned out in 'The Big Game' a picture which doesn't do so well under careful story and technical scrutiny but which is sure to drag the money into the box office. The picture has all the hokum that could be plugged into a game story. It has the same old theme. But with all this, it still carries punch and has a certain amount of suspense in quite a few sections."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 25 '36

BIG SHOW. Republic 70min N 16 '36

Director: Mack V. Wright

A western musical melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency N 19 '36

"A Western with an unusual plot, which unfortunately sags in spots, plenty of music and singing, some enjoyable humor and in-scenes of the Texas Centennial. Family."

+ Sel Motion Pic p8 D 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"This musical Western contains some of the most exciting stunt work plus the singing voice of Gene Autry. Had it been allowed to stand on these two points it would have been more enjoyable. Unfortunately it is spoiled by badly choreographed, merely added to the picture for laughs. Comedy should be used only when it carries the story along and becomes a part of the plot. Gene Autry has a very pleasing and entertaining singing voice. If he would only let himself go a bit more and be a bit more natural, he would be a better actor."

John Christensen

+ Hollywood Spec p11 D 5 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

+ Motion Pic Daily p10 N 10 '36

"Here is a production that will not only please western fans but which should get playing time in the middle of the week. It is not a true Western but an action drama with western atmosphere. Filmed for the most part at the Texas Centennial, it is the best Autry yet."

+ Phila Exhibitor p52 N 15 '36

"Gene Autry fans will be more than pleased with 'The Big Show.' A musical Western that swings along in high gear, picture should rate Goes with followers of the singing cowboy and spots at which this type is pointed. Exhibitors with Autry clientele will especially welcome this."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 20 '36

BOLD CABALLERO. Republic 72min D 1 '36

Cast: Robert Livingston. Heather Angel. Sig Rumann

Director: Wells Root

A western melodrama filmed in color.

Trade Paper Reviews

"There is a quality to the production which somehow restrains it from reaching its potential heights. To begin with, the dialogue has a brittle, insincere ring; the settings have an unnatural atmosphere about them, and the acting gives the impression of being much less in the Hollywood manner than in the style of the legitimate stage. The handling of his own scenario leaves one with the feeling that either the script is at fault or his direction. But despite all these flaws, this feature is entertaining for the most part, and rises to exciting heights in last sequences. Autry, who like their diversion studded with beauty and action, may overlook the staccato speeches of the players and melodramatic nuances. Principals and supporting players have little opportunity to impress, because of the hurried and harried tenor of the episodes."

+ Film Daily p6 D 3 '36

"Strictly in the Western category despite the use of color photography and an attempt to give it class by a historical background. The Bold Caballero can be expected only to occupy the nether spots on dual bills. As an unpretentuous action picture its box office potentialities cannot be augmented by the color, and seems evident that good color pictures cannot be made on short budgets."

- Hollywood Reporter p1 N 23 '36

+ Motion Pic Daily p20 N 24 '36

"Filmed in Magnacolor, a process that eliminates one of the fundamental, the picture is one of the more color production pictorially beautiful in the long shots but a hodge-podge in cutting the close-ups. Color tones do not match from scene to scene... Several of the major characters speak with a decided Mayfair accent, although the story is laid in the west in the early days of the dons. Exhibitors may be able to sell this on the color bank but will have no word-of-mouth follow-ups to buy tickets."

Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 23 '36

| + | Exceptionally Good |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>+</th>
<th>Good</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>-</td>
<td>Fair</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>---</td>
<td>---</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>---</td>
<td>---</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-</td>
<td>Mediocre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-</td>
<td>Poor</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>---</td>
<td>---</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-</td>
<td>Exceptionally Poor</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
BORN TO DANCE. MGM 195min N 27 '36
Cast: Eleanor Powell, James Stewart, Virginia O'Brien, Una Merkel, Frances Langford, Buddy Ebsen, Alan Dinehart, Sid Silvers Director: Roy Del Ruth
Dance director: David Gould
Music: Cole Porter
Music director: Alfred Newman
A musical comedy with spectacular production numbers would revolve around the nimble feet of the dancing star, Eleanor Powell.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Eleanor Powell's individual tapping technique is the most creditable feature of a constantly amusing plot. The song and dance of Frances Langford is the gracious panache on a picture combining all the elements of good family entertainment." T. J. Fitzmorris +

"A & Y; excellent; C; good." Christian Century p1670 D 9 '36

"The large cast, each an artist in his particular field give excellent and versatile performance. The direction is amply demonstrated in this highly polished production. Family." +

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 24 '36

"With never a dull moment this lavishly produced musical comedy provides hilarious entertainment. A large and well-chosen cast are cleverly directed. The tap dancing of Eleanor Powell is exceptionally fine. Family." +

Nat Council of Jewish Women N 25 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency D 3 '36

"A song-and-dance show, with songs by Cole Porter, done in handsome style. The plot is not new but it is handled with a good deal of novelty. Family. Outstanding." +

Wkyi Guide N 28 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Metro comes to the front once more with a song and dance production which will please the world, . . . 'Born to Dance' is a parade of superlatively entertaining numbers, and a review of the industry's best and most differently worded superlatives, you can take my word for it. . . . This is the hotest, freshest, greatest show of the season. The preview audience which jammed Grauman's Chinese was generous with its applause throughout the entire performance. . . . In distributing credit for the perfections of 'Born to Dance' an extremely large helping must be placed on Roy Del Ruth's plate. A production of the sort, one composed of so many individual elements without interdependence, so easily could become jerky as a whole. Del Ruth skilfully smooths it out, keeps the story in sight, makes his cast feel at ease and give excellent performances." +

Hollywood Spec p9 N 21 '36

"The nimble and attractive Eleanor Powell is far better as a dancer than as an actress in 'Born to Dance.' . . . She executes a variety of fluent and exciting rhythms, amply justifying her designation as first tap dancer of her sex, but a permanently fixed smile and a lack of artfulness make her handling of the narrative less than beguiling. The story is a rambling one, mixing bright and dull interludes. It is best where the clever James Stewart, Sid Silvers and Buddy Ebsen are engaged in the proceedings. . . . The Cole Porter songs are disappointing but they are set off by striking production numbers, . . . The tunes are satisfactory enough for Miss Powell's kibb danc- ing, but they don't reach his usual high standard, and the words include the rather offensive ditty, 'I've Got You Under My Skin,' which is sung by Virginia Bruce in a definitely embarrassing manner. It promises to be a good deal better." Howard Barnes +

"Eleanor Powell taps her way to official, and deserved success, when in one of the most entertaining musicals the screen handles so well. . . . (It is) Miss Powell's second picture, and a tuneful one. . . . In her affair it is not unlike the big ensemble number in 'The Great Ziegfeld,' is something to see. . . . 'Born to Dance' is another gem, filled with excellent Cole Porter songs and original as well as expensive dance scenes. Roy Del Ruth, the director, has kept this first rate film going at top pace from opening scene to that last spectacular flourish." Eileen Creelman +

N Y Sun p13 D 5 '36

"In this necessarily fragmentary discussion of 'Born to Dance,' some feature is overlooked, some item of comedy or mimicry unmentioned, it will not be because of a lack of enthusiasm. . . . Among the most amusing is the running gag of Miss Powell's high family. 'I've Got You Under My Skin' is the opener, with a series of salon dances, . . . Miss Powell's vocal entertainment, which is excellent; and some of the numbers have a winning air about them. The first scene brings in the object of her affection, played . . ." New York World-Telegram p7a D 5 '36

"Jack Cummings has been in producer-training at M-G-M for several years. And this, I understand, is his graduation thesis. If so, he has landed up among the face cards with his first big production. For 'Born to Dance' is entitled to all the superlatives, including 'ter- rific' and 'colossal.' We are inclined to cheer the performers when a show bowls us over, but after the opening chorus aboard a submarine the producer suddenly realized that Cole Porter could give the old team of Gilbert and Sullivan a grand battle." Rob Wagner +

Script p10 N 25 '36

"Put out for the holiday trade, this big, glittering vehicle has the familiar staging store Christmas tree, wreathed with looping streamers of Cole Porter music and twinkling patches of colored dancing lights. Eleanor Powell, with the help of Buddy Ebsen and Sid Silvers clowning through the Cole Porter words and Eleanor Powell tapping out her specialities with the grace and dash of the great lady, has given us the feeling that comes to a show when all hands are tops in their lines and happy. The whole piece has been well gotten, the Christmas tree is spangled with gold and lighted up with rows of handsome speciali- ties." +

Time p23 D 7 '36

+ Exceptionally Good; ++ Good; + Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
BORN TO DANCE—Continued.

Trade Paper Reviews

"Peg this one high among the dance-musical hits of this or any other season. It has everything—lavish and impressive production mounting; that touch of the directorial finesse of which Roy Del Ruth is the past master; a sizeable load of laughs of the abdominal variety; a cast, every member of which knows just what to do with made-to-order parts; song hits aplenty; and, above all, those gifted feet of Eleanor Powell.

+ Box Office p23 N 25 '36

"This is one of the singingest, danceiest mammoth musicals ever made. And it sure is one grand show. As production, Jack Cummings, and directed by Roy Del Ruth, it is a big production that should be a box-office wow. Everybody sings and all grinds. It can't but the top of them all is Eleanor Powell. Her dances are many and some of the routines are nothing short of sensational.

+ Film Daily p9 N 17 '36

"MGM's 'Born to Dance' has one of the best openings and greatest finishes yet seen in one of those big, lavish and entertaining productions. The demand opening demands attention and holds for the full length of the picture, setting a pace that would seem impossible to follow, while the finish will send an audience out yelling its praises. It's a big show... It is a generous order of breezy and tuneful entertainment and will give the results of its magnificent solidly at the box office. Eleanor Powell's dancing seems more magical each time one sees and hears it."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 N 14 '36

+ Motion Pic Daily p8 N 16 '36

"In the best Metro fashion, 'Born to Dance' is the type show which has all angles to make it a top grosser. Backed by names, good songs, swell music, comedy, spectacles, etc., Miss Powell turns in an ace performance that will help her growing popularity... Looking at 'Born to Dance' from all angles it can't be missed."

+ Phila Exhibitor p30 D 1 '36

"'Born to Dance' isorking entertainment, more nearly approaching the revue type than most musical films, despite the presence of a 'book.' It is out of the ordinary both in that respect and because of its exceptional production merit. And it's box office. Cast is youthful, smart, lavish, the production is meritorious, and as for songs, the picture is positively fitly with them... Eleanor Powell throughout 'Born to Dance' becomes a star in her second picture, which may or may not be a premature move by the studio. But the improvement in Miss Powell's work in this one as over her first film is great enough to warrant a big stretch in the billing... She looks better this time and she is given an opportunity to show that she's not just a good buck dancer, but an exceptionally versatile girl. As an actress she still has not arrived, as indicated in the few occasions when this plot calls for acting... Cole Porter's songs receive flat-tering treatment.

+ Variety p12 D 9 '36

"Metro gave this one the works, and it looks it—a smart, heads-up, lavish production which has a load of songs and dance numbers. By diversified about the standout dance number of Eleanor Powell, and headed for smash returns... The names bracketed with Miss Powell are not showman's sinecures, but 'Born to Dance' is the kind of offering that gets noises about being slickly gathered and made, and is a natural for hollywoodoo. And by virtue of her demonstration in this picture Eleanor Powell will establish among the specialties the circ draws... The Cole Porter music and lyrics will delight the common run of tune devotees as well as the more cultivated, and two or three will certainly reach the popular hit level."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 14 '36

BOSS RIDER OF GUN CREEK. Universal 63min N 1 '36
Cast: Buck Jones, Muriel Evans, Harvey Clark
Director: Leslie Selander
A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage."

NAT LEGION of DECENCY Ag 6 '36

"A, Y & C: Interesting Buck Jones melodrama."

Parents' M p12 O 36

"Homely and sincere acting lift a poorly written story into the field of fair entertainment. Family."

+ Sel Motion Pic Ag 1 '36

"[It] is an interesting melodrama, well done. Family."

+ Wkly Guide J1 25 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Although there is no pretension to greatness in any aspect of the picture, yet it is up to standard."

+ Phila Exhibitor p53 N 15 '36

BRILLIANT MARRIAGE. Invincible 65min Mr 25 '36
Cast: Joan Marsh, Ray Walker, Doris Lloyd, John Marlowe
Director: Phil Rosen

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Trade Paper Reviews

"A pleasingly romantic type of story, judicially cast with several Hollywood dependable and directed by Phil Rosen with smoothness and distinction, this Ursula Parrott yarn will prove excellent program fare. Family."

+ Box Office p31 O 19 '36

"[It is a] light romantic yarn in popular vein for the not too finicky neighborhood trade."

+ Film Daily p3 S 19 '36

+ Motion Pic Daily p8 O 29 '36

"The results are pretty sterile. The soggy quickie flavor of the production stacks it in the 'here under filler class. Pacing is such as to make it a hard strain on the attention, while the dialog, with but few occasional passages, does little to relieve the trite and dull course of the plot. The acting is about on the same level with the rest of the film's ingredients."

+ Variety p16 S 23 '36

BULLDOG EDITION. Republic 58min S 20 '36
Cast: Ray Walker, Evely Knapp, Regis Toomey, Cy Kendall
Director: Charles Lamont

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: mediocre; Y: better not; C: no."

Christian Century p1639 D 2 '36

"Mediocre. Mature."

- Fox W Coast Bu 5 '36

"Though fairly well cast and directed, [it] lacks distinction."

- Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 23 '36

+ exceptionally Good; + Good; - Fair; - Mediocre; - Poor; --- Exceptionally Poor
"While the swift change of events holds interest as in most of these films, it is improbable melodrama, a second-rate picture. Adolescents, 12-16 & children, 8-12: no."

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency O S '36

"A: fair; Y & C: unsuitable."

Parents' M p32 D '36

"The calibre of the acting and direction is good. Adults & young people."

Sel Motion Pict p6 O 1 '36

---

C

CAIN AND MABEL. Warner 90min S 26 '36

Dance director: Bobby Connolly

Music & lyrics: Harry Warren. Al Dubin

Music director: Leo F. Forbstein

See issue of September 25, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Some of the more amusing crimes committed in the name of publicity are herein exposed to the lively accompaniment of songs, dances and snappy patter. One must speak guardedly of the acting in this opera. Perhaps it will suffice to say that there are dances by Miss Davies and some alleged fighting by Mr. Gable. The picture will please the whole family, being excellent as a type of thoughtless magnificence well suiting the laughter of T. J. Fitzmorris + America p680 S 26 '36

"A: perhaps; Y: amusing; C: little interest."

Christian Century p1438 O 28 '36

"Mature & 14-18. Mediocre." DAR

Fox W Coast Bui O 17 '36

"Mature." Am Legion Auxiliary

"The settings, music and costuming are very beautiful and the story is wholesome and enjoyable. Several lovely dancing scenes add interest. Family. Of little interest to children." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

---

"Lavishly produced with gay musical numbers and several hilarious sequences, this picture has life, beauty and atmosphere; but it has enough material for two. Family."

Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"'Cain and Mabel' is just an ordinary musical comedy, with a hackneyed theme; one anticipates the action far ahead of its portrayal, so dull is the story. Miss Davies is not suitably cast as a singer and dancer; she lacks both talent and grace. No objectionable drinking. Family."

Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bui N 14 '36

"The director has exercised imagination and ingenuity in his handling of the production but the whole is only mildly entertaining. Adults & young people."

G.A. Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 2 '36

"Fair. Family-mature."

---

"Crisp, witty dialogue, beautiful costumes and some catchy music give the picture a high entertainment value. Some trite devices are used, but much may be forgiven in a picture colorful and sparkling. Adolescents, 12-16: entertaining; children, 8-12: no interest."

Motion Pict R p4 S '36

"Like the pretentious living room of the nouveau riche, this is an overstuffed musical comedy in which no expense has been spared, gives Marion Davies a most gorgeous setting, and many antics. Family."

Nat Council of Jewish Women N 3 '36

"A and Y: good; C: no interest."

Parents' M p42 N 36

"Only mildly entertaining. Adults & young people."

Sel Motion Pict p5 D 1 '36

"[It is] a swell wise-cracking spectacular song and dance show. Family."

Wkly Guide O 3 '36

---

"The current season, which had gotten thus far without any really bad pictures, yesterday hit a new low for this autumn. 'Cain and Mabel' may well be one of the most expensive on view. It is certainly the dullest. The very elaborateness of production only emphasized the paucity of imagination, and the magnificence of the star, and the general lack of life of what might have been an amusing comedy... The picture's chief misfortune is its concentration upon Marion Davies, who still photographs like a young girl, but who has not yet learned how to read lines. She permits the temperament to fall completely flat, and not even Clark Gable, as the angry pupilist, is able to help her." Eileen Creelman

---

"In order that the aureate charms of Miss Marion Davies may not want for suitable settings in so gfty a flannypiece as the late H. C. Witwer's 'Cain and Mabel.' Cosmopolitan has loosed the flitzy dreamings of Bobby Connolly into the tale. The result is a colossus of incongruity, rather like staging a prizefight..."
CALIFORNIA MAIL. Warner 56min N 14 '36
Cast: Dick Foran, Linda Perry, Ed Cobb
Director: Noel Smith
"Pre-presentation in our country's history, at the time of the transition in the method of transporting the mail from the Pony Express to the stage coach lines, this picture sets forth the plots and counter plots which enmesh the hero, who discovers that not only are the redskins his enemies, but the white man also." Fox W Coast Bul

Audience Suitability Ratings
"Good cast, much suspense and plenty of action. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary
"This [is a] rather exciting story which, although not new, is highlighted with good riding, delightful outdoor settings and the well trained Smokey, a beautiful and intelligent horse. Family. Exciting for children." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Superb horsemanship, a delightful romance and the pleasing voice of Dick Foran, 'the singing cowboy,' all contribute to the entertainment value. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Dick Foran's 'natural' performance is wasted in an unconvincing Western melodrama. Mature & 14-18. Mediocre. DAR
"A good Western on the Pony Express days. Family." Nat Soc of New England Women

"There is a great deal of rough riding, shooting and unpleasant scenes of suggested cruelty on the part of a beautiful horse. Adults & young people." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fork W Coast Bul O 17 '36
"Family"
Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)
O 7 '36

"Combined with fine outdoor scenes and spirited action, one finds the naive conversations and overdone melodrama which were prevalent in earlier pictures of this type... The picture is marred for children by the use of a splendid horse in the crucial destruction of his master's enemies. Adolescents, 12-16: debatable; children, 8-12: no." Am Fed of Exhbitors P22 P 19 '36

"This typically old time 'Western' thriller should prove very entertaining for youngsters. The direction is satisfactory, the story is hackneyed and obvious. Family & juvenile matinees." Nat Council of Jewish Women O 7 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency N 26 '36

"A & Y: good Western; C: doubtful because of suggested cruelty by the horse." Parents' M p38 Ja '37

"Mature." Sel Motion Pict p7 N 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"Another drama of the West during the period when stage-coaches replaced pony-express riders, this offers little new for followers of this type of drama. Estimate: routine."
" + Phila Exhibitor p34 D 1 '36

CAN THIS BE DIXIE? 20th-century-Fox 66min N 13 '36
Cast: Jane Withers, George (Slim) Summerville, Helen Wood, Thomas Beck, Sara Haden
Directed: George Marshall
A musical which satirizes the Old South with its traditional southern colonial, and his poverty, his pride and his hankering for mint juleps.

Trade Paper Reviews
"Another drama of the West during the period when stage-coaches replaced pony-express riders, this offers little new for followers of this type of drama. Estimate: routine."
" + Phila Exhibitor p34 D 1 '36
Trade Paper Reviews

"If this be Dixie, make the most of it. And by getting behind 20th Century-Fox’s latest Jane Withers vehicle, exhibitors can cash in on its manifold exploitation possibilities. Hilarious, ribald burlesque, it poking fun at the old southern customs, caricaturing everything from the Southern financial man to the Southland hoodlum. It is also supposed to be a starring vehicle for Jane Withers but the child is sunk in a meaningless crowd of characters, wretchedly drawn, and almost everyone else in the cast. What the film’s box office fate will be is a matter for unwilling conjecture."

— Hollywood Reporter p3 N 6 ’36

— Motion Pict Daily p10 N 10 ’36

"20th Century-Fox spent more on this Jane Withers offering than any before, with the result a vehicular that just doesn’t please. Jan Withers fans even if probably nonsensical to others... Aided by good comedians, fast dancing, musical numbers, specialities, ‘Can This Be Dixie?’ may be difficult to figure out but it ought to please where they like that sort of thing..."

— Variety p13 N 15 ’36

"While it came very close to being hash, ‘Can This Be Dixie?’ should prove pleasing entertainment to the juvenile audiences. Its plot is sound, adults will click with the juveniles. It will hold its own in the duals, but will take a plentiful of beatings by its star. Withers appearing to the best advantage in comparison with the other two films."

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 6 ’36

IL CAPPELLO A TRE PUNTE. Nuovo Mondo 79min S 26 ’36

Cast: Leda Gloria, Eduardoo de Filippo, Pepinni de Filippo, Dina Perbellini

Director: Mario Camerini

Italian dialogue film without English subtitles made in Rome; also called The Three Cornered Hat. In this film El Sombrero de Tres Picos by Pedro Antonio de Alarcon. In 1931 the story was used for an American musical Revenge with Music. "It describes the antics of a miller whose beautiful wife has captivated the Governor of the province. The Governor’s unsuccessful efforts to win her love gets him into difficulties, because the miller, who has been..."
IL CAPPELLO A TRE PUNTE—Continued

thrust into prison by the Governor on a flimsy pretext, escapes, goes to the palace in the Governor's stately retinue and reports theflight to the Governor's wife." (N Y Herald Tribune)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Adults."
Nat Legion of Decency O 15 36

"[It is] a delightful picturing of the classic tale, with fine acting and production, in the true spirit of Latin comedy. Family."
+ Wkly Guide N 7 36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The Three-Cornered Hat [will keep] those who can understand Italian in hilarious spirits. But for those who do not know the language, the film may prove tedious despite some of the excellent comic performances. . . The farce is crowded with ridiculous situations hinging on the mistakes the various couples make, and the dialogue appeared to be spiced with amusing double- meanings. The piece, however, includes stretches of boredom."
+ — N Y Herald Tribune p10 S 28 36

"The audience seemed to enjoy it thoroughly, finding the comedy situations funny, entertaining, and full of laughs." M. J. + — N Y Sun p29 S 28 36

"It probably will be to the liking of persons enjoying costume pictures (the period is the middle of the eighteenth century), which move rapidly and smoothly to an obvious end and to the accompaniment of numerous wisecracks, some tuneful airs and much gay confusion. Leda Gloria, a highly attractive actress already a favorite with Cine-Roma audiences, is practically perfect as the attractive wife." H. T. S. + — N Y Times p14 S 28 36

"[It is] a brisk, tuneful, moderately amusing Italian movie." William Boehnel + — N Y World-Telegram p18 S 29 36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A merry musical comedy of marital mistakes." Film Daily p9 S 30 36

+ — Motion Pict Daily p7 S 29 36

"[It is] one of those unimportant farce-comédies that undoubtedly will be amusing to average audiences, and nothing more. Picture depends almost wholly on snappy dialog for laugh results, pantomime verging on slapstick. With no English titles running current with rapid-fire Italian conversation, non-student of Italian vocabulary is left much in the dark." Variety p29 S 30 36

CAPTAIN'S KID. Warner-First national 68min O 31 36
Director: Nick Grinde
See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Pictures involving child stars and gunmen are usually of a highly improbable nature and this one is no exception to the rule. The blend of homely humor and melodramatic excitement evidently striven for in the picture is not wholly achieved and the production is merely inadequate. . . This one will have its most potent appeal among the very young." T. Pitzmorr + — America p96 O 31 36

"This [is a] delightful and wholesome comedy. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Plenty of action, humorous situations, and good acting make this good, light entertainment for all ages. Adults & 8-15: good. Family." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"This picture will find favor with those who are not super-critical of story matter for it follows a routine course with the gangster element injected in a small dose to bring about dramatic suspense. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Two good songs and comedy bits enliven this pirate-treasure search. Family. Good." DAR

"[It is] an enjoyable family picture." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women
Fox W Coast Bui S 26 36

"This sympathetically directed picture provides acceptable entertainment."
+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 16 36

"Family." Jt Estimates S 15 36
Reviewed by S. M. Mullen
Motion Pict & Family p6 O 15 36

"This picture is too inconsequential to do justice to the acting ability of May Robson and Guy Kibbee. It is an improbable comedy which may amuse the small town locale and the picturesque characters it portrays. Adolescents, 12-16 & children, 8-12: fair."
+ — Motion Pict R p4 O 36

"Suitable entertainment for the family and junior matinees. . . This picture maintains an atmosphere of1936-1937 DISC.

"The comedy is pretty topheavy with melodrama, but nobody takes the proceedings seriously, not even the characters themselves." (1½ stars)
Liberty p46 D 5 36

"Formulated to appeal to the small towns of cities as well as hamlets, the . . . story succeeds very well in its attempt to capture the naive note of pinafore diversion. Prankily a fable, the heart-strings are fiddled unashamedly while the clarinets of comedy are sounded in no uncertain blasts. 'Cunning' is the term which must be applied to 'The Captain's Kid,' Kibbee's greatest timeliness. Performance is the film's strongest asset." Herb Sterne
Script p13 N 14 36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Despite a good performance by Guy Kibbee and a wholesome, home-spun story, this falls short on entertainment. Family." + — Box Office p63 S 19 36

"[It is] a mild entrant that will probably please the family trade because of Kibbee, little Miss Jason. Estimate: for neighborhoods, twin bills."
+ — Phila Exhibitor p94 O 1 36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; +— Fair; —— Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
CAREER WOMAN. 20th century-Fox 70min Ja 22 '37
Cast: Claire Trevor, Michael Whalen. Isabel Whalen, Lockhart
Director: Lewis Seiler
Claire Trevor, a young idealistic lawyer just out of law school disagrees with the legal ethics of her mentor, Michael Whalen, a worldly, disillusioned city lawyer. Her first case is that of a young mountain girl accused of murdering her fiancé. Even the prejudiced and rural surroundings. the young girl is almost convicted of the crime although she is innocent. When Whalen enters the case with his theatrical methods of avaying the jury, the girl is freed.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Suspense well sustained with comedy introduced through characteristics. Israeli Jewell is convincing as the young country girl. Adults."

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 24 '36

"This poorly constructed story never quite decides whether to be comedy or melodrama, and is even in theme and direction... An adequate cast make the most of a poor script that attempts to tell too much. Mature." + Nat Council of Jewish Women N 16 '36

"Isabel Jewell, as the forlorn backwoods girl, draws a consistent portrait which seems an anachronism contrasted with her modern surroundings. Suspense is well maintained and rural types provide comedy relief for this tense melodrama. The Business and Professional Women regard the film as a regrettable travesty on court procedure." + Sel Motion Pic p7 D 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Here is one of Sol Wurtzel's productions that would have been able to go it alone in any house if in two or three places it had not been marred by the application of its some picture mentality whose development was arrested before it had reached adolescence. Comedy is dragged in by the heels to leave its scars on what otherwise would have been a practically perfect job of dramatic construction. However, the introduction of the comedy increases its value, outweighs all its faults that 'Career Woman' is a picture well worth seeing. It is by long odds the best thing Wurtzel has turned out in a long time." + + Hollywood Spec p14 D 5 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Packed with entertainment, it was given sturdy production support on which Director Lewis Seiler capitalized to make a better-than-average B picture, excellently done in every department. 'Career Woman' should be a money-maker. Family." + Box Office p23 N 28 '36

"This strong, compelling drama, which both compares and condemns the big city type of murder trial with its theatricalism and the small town form of conviction before actual court judgment, makes a most commendable program picture. Lamar Trotti has fashioned an intelligent screenplay that takes some surprising twists. The dialogue is down to earth language and very fitting to the situations." + Film Daily p17 N 24 '36

"Here is a satiric comedy drama of courts and law which is as a clear program picture and that easily transcends this rating. It provides superior entertainment because of a frank and thoroughly amusing approach to real life. It is well written and well made, and will make a stimulating leader on any dual bill even though it is popularly San Francisco. Michael Whalen surprises with his gay and adroit command of the comedy opportunities in his lawyer role and Claire Trevor builds effective contrast with her earnest and sympathetic handling of court work... Miss Whalen very nearly walks away with the acting honors throughout." + + Hollywood Reporter p14 N 20 '36

"Comedy drama that should be best liked in small towns, this is packed with feature faces, even if shot on what the marquee needs in star values. Estimate: fair program." + + Phila Exhibitor p31 D 1 '36

"Here is vigorous, intense drama of the sort which will be relished in those communities which quick, honest emotion thrives. Built on the B budget, 'Career Woman' makes the best of its possibilities and gives Milton H. Feld an excellent credit for his first picture as associate producer... It will provide sturdy dual support in the general run of houses." + Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 26 '36

CARNIVAL IN FLANDERS. See La Kermesse heroique

CASE OF THE BLACK CAT. Warner-First nation-Fox 70min O 31 '36
Director: William McCarthy
Based on the mystery story Case of the Caretaker's Cat by Eric Stanley Gardner. "[It] is a complicated mystery thriller depicting the sleuthing activities of Ricardo Cortez, a criminal lawyer, and the unforeseen events that are the result of a wealthy man's will... The cat of the millionaire's caretaker figures prominently throughout as a menace, suspect and friend." [Variety (Hollywood)]

Audience Suitability Ratings

"This mystery film manages, against the prevailing fashion, to be really puzzling. So many pictures, purporting to be mysterious, are content to be incomprehensible... If you have a head for clues and a willingness to match wits with the screen sleuth, this film will prove a habit-forming stimulant." + T. J. Fitzmorris

† Americana p96 O 31 '36

"A & Y: good of kind; C: doubtful value." + Christian Century pl510 N 11 '36

"Adults." Am Legion Auxiliary

"[It] offers thrills and laughter for those who like this type of entertainment. Adults." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"The picture lacks the action and suspense necessary to hold the interest of those who like stimulating, exciting detective yarns. Disappointing. Mature. Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"[It is] an amusing murder mystery notable for particularly good acting and an absurd plot which is deftly worked up to a surprise ending. Mature." Nat Soc of New England Women

"[It is] a highly exciting picture in which all characters are in the hands of a very good cast and is fully capable of action. Mature." + S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bull O 17 '36

"Adults & young people." + + Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) O 31 '36

"This is one of those films which owe its existence to the practice of double-billing. It is a passable mystery... The plot is so complicated it is hard to follow. Adolescents, 12-16: fair; children, 8-12: no value." + + Motion Pic R pl4 O 36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + + Fair; + + Mediocre; + + Poor; + + Exceptionally Poor
CASE OF THE BLACK CAT—Continued

"This mediocre mystery develops without the usual embellishments of suspense and unity even though the debonair Perry Mason again finds clues from thin air and solves all the murders... Folly."
— Nat Council of Jewish Women O 7 '36

"[It] is a baffling double murder. ... Even the most capable audience detective will be surprised at the identity of the culprit. "General patronage."
— Nat Legion of Decency O 15 '36

"A & Y: fairly good; C: unsuitable."
Parents' M p38 Ja '37

"The outcome is more surprising than credible, but it is an interesting plot. Family."
— Wkly Guide O 17 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"That it has some good portrayals and a pictorially impressive production is more than can be said for 'Black Cat.' It fails to capture what is the most essential thing in a cinematic offering of this sort, the illusion of reality... [It] makes its screen appearance as an artificial, unconvincing and inconsequential affair."
Allan Herscholt

— Hollywood Spec p23 O 15 '36

"I emerged from the preview... still bewildered... 'Lively and exciting—but darned if I know what it was all about.'"
Bob Wagner

Script p15 N 14 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Although handicapped by a story that is not up to the usual Perry Mason standards, this murder mystery should do well on a dual, if given the benefit of the Mason reputation. Family."
— Box Office p31 O 10 '36

"The Case of the Black Cat,' is routine double bill puzzle fare. Warners have failed consistently in bringing the crisp, punchy, best-selling yarns of Erle Stanley Gardner, written around a shrewd, resourceful criminal lawyer, to the screen with the gusto and sustained interest they carry in the printed page, and this is no exception, though a mildly entertaining film."
— Hollywood Reporter p4 S 18 '36

— Motion Pict Daily p10 S 21 '36

"With Warren William off the Warners payroll, Ricardo Cortez now succeeds to the Perry Mason role in these detective-thrillers. The result is still the same. The show is destined for neighborhood or twin bill attention... Exhibitors who have found out what the others in this series have done for them can expect no more or less from this."
— Phila Exhibitor p34 O 1 '36

"Marked by a fine performance by Ricardo Cortez, who carries the whole show on his shoulders, 'The Case of the Black Cat' is a mystery programmer that is a quaint double bill fare and should satisfy any neighborhood trade. Suspense is maintained to the final fadeout and audience interest is held to a keen pitch."
— Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 18 '36

CAVALCADE OF THE WEST. Diversion 60min
Cast: Hoot Gibson. Rex Lease. Marion Shilling
Director: Harry Fraser
A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency D 17 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + + Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor

NEWS-PAPER AND MAGAZINE REVIEWS

"It does not live up to the pretentious title. Family."
— Christian Science Monitor p15 N 7 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Nice love action gives Hoot a well rounded part. This opus has plenty of thrills and suspense and all kinds of fast riding to please the fans."
— Film Daily p12 O 6 '36

— Motion Pict Daily p5 O 6 '36

"Estimate: Gibson in top form."
— Phila Exhibitor p34 S 15 '36

"Using cavalcade idea in the title is an ambitious attempt for a Western melodrama of the dual category. It works well out front, but disappoints on the inside viewing... Fits best with a modern second-run."
— Variety p29 S 30 '36

CAVALRY. Supreme-Republic 63min O 7 '36
Director: Robert N. Bradbury
A western melodrama of Civil War days.

Trade Paper Reviews

"A routine Civil War-time Western, designed for the delectionation of the action belt, where it will do service".
— Hollywood Reporter p3 O 1 '36

"Western fans ought to be satisfied, with Steele turning in his hard riding, straight shooting, fighting performance as the U. S. cavalryman. Estimate: Olympic.
— Phila Exhibitor p37 O 15 '36

"Following an old formula to garner laughs, Supreme Pictures has gone out and worked religiously to pluck the loose ends for its 'Cavalry. But it won't go except for the kid- dles in the foreground and maybe a few adults on the slack end of a neighborhood bill. Only other redeeming feature of the picture is the photography of Bert Longenecker. He happened to hit clouds throughout the outdoor scenes and they're magnificent. It's worth the price of admission to see them. However, that won't carry the picture to any box office degree."
— Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 1 '36

CHAMPAGNE WALTZ. Paramount 92min Ja 29 '37
Cast: Gladys Swarthout. Fred MacMurray. Jack Oakie. Herman Bing
Director: A. Edward Sutherland
Music: Johann Strauss

"The story on which the picture is built involves Gladys Swarthout as a descendant of Johann Strauss. With her grandmother she conducts a waltz palace in Vienna. The enterprise dedicates to pluck the loose ends for its 'The [ending] is in reverse when Oakie takes the Strauss to New York to operate a waltz palace, a huge success be cause of its novelty."
Hollywood Reporter

Trade Paper Reviews

"An attempt here to build a pretentious musical production... proves disappointing. The idea on which the story was built, the comedy, the romance, and the specialties are all excel-
The charge of the light brigade is all that the title implies—a glorification of militarism and a justification of imperialistic conquest of colonial territory... Suggestion: protest to your theatre manager and to Warner Brothers. Review Digest 5/36.

“Exceptionally good; good; fair; mediocre; poor; exceptionally poor.

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST 23

CHARGE OF THE LIGHT BRIGADE. Warner
110min N '36
Cast: Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland, Patric Knowles, Henry Stephenson, Nigel Bruce, DeOld Crisp
Director: Michael Curtiz
Music: Max Steiner
Music director: Leo F. Forbstein
Based on the poem of the same title by Alfred Tennyson. The charge of the brave of death by the 600 English lancers immortalized by Tennyson as one of the inexplicable heroics of all time, is depicted as portrayed in the film, the charge was made on fortress orders in an effort to revenge the massacre of the British and American native at Balaklava Heights during the Crimean War.
A Guide to the study of the screen version of The Charge of the Light Brigade, prepared by Max J. Hersberg, is obtainable from Educational and Recreation Guides, Inc. 125 Lincoln Avenue, Newark, New Jersey at fifteen cents per copy.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"It has been established before this that spectacle is Hollywood's most successful metier but the amazing technical results achieved in this production must renew emphasis on that fact... It will appear immediately that the solution of the famous blunder offered herein is fictitious, slightly incredible and most unimpressive. A young major takes it upon himself to sacrifice his entire company in order to visit his" unholy job on the villain of Chukotki and, the personal notion persists, because he has been crossed in love, and feels passionately anyway.
Had Queen Victoria's fireside poet no more than this to go on, he would never have been the one to provide the plot for this "Charge of the Light Brigade". But, take it all in all, we shall not see so complete a tour de force again for many film cycles to come. Its handsome dress and splendid photography recommend this melodrama to patrons in general.
T. J. Fitzmorris

America p144 N 14 '36

"The Charge of the Light Brigade" is all that the title implies—a glorification of militarism and a justification of imperialistic conquest of colonial territory... Suggestion: protest to your theatre manager and to Warner Brothers. Review Digest 5/36.

"A: notable; Y: very doubtful; C: no; "

Regrettable cruelty to horses. Mature & 14-15. Excellent." DAR

"One of the year's outstanding films. Family." E Coast Preview Committee

"Melodrama of war pictured on a magnificent scale and not all be that in detail and the final motivation may not seem that's adequate when we have had time to think it through but while we are held by the magic of the camera and the vastness of the production... The picture does justice to the subject and thereby gives us an experience too agreeable to the sensitivities for young children. Mature." Mrs. T. O. Winter

"This magnificent spectacle based on the poem by Alfred Tennyson is a splendid art in the art of motion pictures. Mature audience.

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N

Technically 'The Charge of the Light Brigade' is a stunning picture, beautifully photographed, fast moving, admirably cast and accompanied by the exception of a music score. The entire film is superbly dramatic. For sheer sensationalism the final charge of the brigade has never been equalled in pictures... The sequence runs fifteen minutes, and the scenes of carnage are unbearably realistic. At this time of international unrest and mutual suspicion the social value of such a picture is debatable. The savagery of the fighting, the horror of the massacre (after a truce had been offered and accepted), arouses not only excitement in the spectators, but also actual mad emotion and horror for killing. The production glorifies war, makes revenge the motivating factor, so final scenes depict subordination. As a bit of warlike realism it cannot be beaten. Its interpretation will depend upon its audience. 12-16: very poor; children, 5-12: impossible." Motion Picture R p6 N '36

"The blend of historical fact and fiction results in exceptionally fine picture. General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency N 5 '36

"Semi-historical in character, this picture is a remarkable production. Because of its warlike realism, reviewers are raising the question of the social value of the picture which they feel is war. It is hard to screen fare for sensitive children. A & Y: stirring spectacle; C: no. Parents P 382 D '36

"The photography and the musical score contribute much to the dramatic power of the action-filled drama and the acting is of a notably high calibre. One of the year's outstanding films. Family." Sel Motion Picture p9 N 1 '36

"[It] is a stunning production which reaches a fine climax in the ride to total of death... Suggested for schools and libraries. Family. Outstanding." WKY Guide O 31 '36

"Despite the praise accorded to this highly fictional film drama based on the blunders at Balaklava, inspired by Tennyson's poem, many filmgoers will demur at supporting a production which involves wanton cruelty to animals.

Christian Science Monitor p19 D 5 '36

"The Tennyson poem now relives to inspire a thundering thrill, a magnificent panorama of surgance action that sweeps with almost breathing taking motion to the tragic attack... It is with a stark realism such as the motion picture camera has rarely ever before captured, the Light Brigade rides again. Warner Brothers may well be proud of Michael Curtiz's direction. As to the photography and musical scoring they are as thoroughly a dramatic part of the production as the excellent work of virtually all other departments. Review Digest 5/36.

"Hal Wallis, Hollywood's premier producer of big and important pictures during the past twelve months, adds to his imposing list another which is to be acclaimed by the world as one of the finest creations the screen has to its credit. He has given us a bit of film entertainment that is photogenic, heroically thrilling and emotionally appealing. Writer, director and cast acquitted themselves brilliantly." Hollywood Spec p7 O 24 '36

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; + Poor; + Exceptionally Poor
CHARGE OF THE LIGHT BRIGADE—Cont.

"Condemn this story as a romantic glorification of war lust, you nevertheless will be held by the film, excitedly, breathless. It is done with admirable scope and accuracy of detail and the final charge has high drama. ... Off hand, one may say, 'A day of glory.' It had all the making of a Hollywood. He has dash, he is handsome, he knows how about acting to more than get by. Errol Flynn is a great showman, and the players, uniformly well-beaten. It is done with admirable scope and accuracy of detail and the final charge has high drama ..."

Beverly Hills

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

"The history in 'The Charge of the Light Brigade' is the story of a horrid attempt to turn out a smashing and spectacular adventure film. The Charge of the Light Brigade, which has been taken to prove to be a long term lease of the Strand, is the 1936 model of 'Lives of a Bengal Lancer.' Like its half-baked, melodramatic predecessor, it is a virile and picturesque saga ... The picture, which might have been accounted in its filmic splendor a genuine and wholesome addition to the screen, is theatrically wrapped in the plumes of its uniformed hero and heroine, so that its actual content is not only incomprehensible but a complete lump of noise. The history, which is his, is forgotten, and the history of the picture is seen in its tremendous cast of supporting players, who create a truly inspiring background upon which the stars 'etch' weak and wavering portraits. When the Charge begins, we are prepared for a rousing justification for all that has gone before. And what happens? Six thousand gallant souls ride on and on and on and on, amidst the noise of bullets and the accompaniment, and win Balaklava with miracles. We weren't once fooled, and that's fatal."

Trade Paper Reviews

"All of Hollywood's favorite superlatives, 'breathtaking', 'tremendous', 'startling,' have been applied to this production without any fear of over-rating. For the first time in four years' history of reviewing, Warners, don't hold the public away from a picture, and at the finale wanted to break out in loud applause, but being alone in their box office, they didn't. The picture is a smash, and its not praise too highly the direction of this picture. It is outstanding."

Can. Moving Pict Digest

"Warner Bros. have again turned to history and the result is one of the most important pictures of 1936. The screenplay, the acting by the British horsemen charging through the valley of death, have never been excelled. The screen has found the Light Brigade, Michael Curtiz's direction is his best to date, and he has handled the spectacular and intimate scenes equally well. It is strictly first class."

Film Daily

"As a gripping spectacle, 'The Charge of the Light Brigade' is an outstanding example of the motion picture at its best. It is a motion picture, a highly fictionalized and imaginary account of a historic incident known to every child, which has been resuscitated in film and beautifully photographed, the film is excellently acted. William Boeing

News-Wk

"Tennyson's poem immortalized the Lancers' brave ride at Balaklava; Warner Brothers' stirring and spectacular film, 'The Charge of the Light Brigade,' will do it all over again. Michael Curtiz's direction, the photography, and the musical score deserve the adjectives that will be lavished on them. A romantic sub-plot... threads through a series of exciting, sometimes horrible, incidents to knit them into a plausible and well-cast melodrama. The film's treatment, strongly and handsomely photographed, the film is excellently acted. William Boeing

News-Wk

"This Charge is a sort of earth-bound 'Captain Blood' (with none of its romantic fervor, however) ... There are some people in it, too. Growth-up people, who act strangely adolescent and undiscreet for such a heroic occasion. Regular blackmail which is aroused by losing dignity and personal integrity of conduct that are associated with the event Tennyson so nobly commended. The cast of supporting players create a truly inspiring background upon which the 'stars' etch' weak and wavering portraits. When the Charge begins, the film will be held by the film, excitedly, breathless. It is done with admirable scope and accuracy of detail and the final charge has high drama. ..."

Exceptionally Good; Good; Fair; Mediocre; Poor; Exceptionally Poor
Motion Picture Review Digest

CHARLIE CHAN AT THE OPERA. 20th century-Fox 60 min. Jan 15 '36
Director: H. Bruce Humberstone

Charlie Chan is called in to solve a threatened murder of an opera star. Before he is through two murders are committed. In his bland Chinese manner he solves the crimes.

Audience Suitability Ratings
"One of the best of the series. The picture is interestingly photographed, well staged and acted and directed with finesse. Mature audience."
+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) Jan 24 '36

"[It is] one of the most elaborately produced of the Charlie Chan murder mysteries. . . . The well-cast Chan performs admirably one of the best stories in this series. Adults."
+ Nat Council of Jewish Women N 16 '36

"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency D 17 '36

"In addition to the high standard of direction and acting that characterizes all the Charlie Chan mystery films, 'Charlie Chan at the Opera' has rather more pretentious settings and background than usual. . . . The operative sequences and backstage scenes give a distinct touch of a well-constructed and logically developed story. Mature."
+ Sel Motion Pic p7 D 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"'Charlie Chan at the Opera' is by far the best of the recent crop of Chan pictures. . . . Once the story gets under way, it flows smoothly and swiftly. Frank Capra directed the picture, and his customary dexterity."
T. M. P.
"N Y Times" p16 D 5 '36

"Just as Charlie Chan never fails to solve the most baffling of homicides so do the films in which he appears. 'Charlie Chan at the Opera' is no exception. . . . Warner Oland is perfect as Charlie and Nedda Harrigan, Frank Conroy, Boris Karloff, as well as all the others in the cast, help to make these thrillers high jinks diverting entertainment."
William Boehmle
+ "N Y World-Telegram" p27 D 7 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This choice blood-curdling story, teaming together Warner Oland and Boris Karloff, gives Hollywood free rein to parade before John Public its ace thriller. Family."
+ Box Office p21 D 5 '36

"This Charlie Chan with its mystery laid in an opera house is one of the best of the series. . . . H. Bruce Humberstone, the director, has provided the piece with plenty of that quality while injecting a swift pace that never lets down. The climax is held to the very end. The mysterious happenings are interwoven into the operative numbers and together they make for interesting entertainment."
+ "Film Daily" p7 N 16 '36

"It is the best Charlie Chan done yet. John Stone has given it first-rate action direction. H. Bruce Humberstone has contributed a lively, intelligent, humorous brand of direction which never lets the piece hesitate a moment; Scott Darling and Charles Belden have turned in a screen-day in keeping. This Meredith must have turned them over a good story to work on, and everybody in the cast trudges to complete satisfaction."
+ "Hollywood Reporter" p3 N 12 '36

"Probably tops in this Chan series, 'Charlie Chan at the Opera' has the benefit of an additional name, Boris Karloff. The operative background is interesting; Oland, Karloff are very good; the result is an ace Chan."
+ "Phila Exhibitor" p31 D 1 '36

CIBOULETTE. Cinar 100 min. S 11 '36
Cast: Simone Berriau, Therese Dorny, Madeleine Guitty, Robert Burnier
Director: Claude Lara
Lyrical operetts de Croisset
Music: Renaldo Hahn
Musical comedy film in French produced in France without English subtitles. Based on the stage success of the same title by Francois de Croisset. "Dated in the Eighteen Sixties, the story of 'Ciboulette' is the extravanant account of Nana, a French country maid, bringing her uncle's produce to the Paris market, finds her future husband under a load of cabbages, just as a fortune teller has told her." (N Y Times)

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A pleasant operetta featuring Renaldo Hahn's lovely music. Adults."
Nat Legion of Decency S 24 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"'Ciboulette' is a little too foreign for an American reviewer altogether to appreciate. Although the lyrics, translated along with a plot synopsis by a most considerate management, are occasionally witty, the story is surprisingly ingenious for these days of 1936. . . . The music is pretty, undistinguished and typically French. The cast could answer almost the same description. . . . As there are no English subtitles, the picture will be most relished by those who understand rapid French dialogue."
Eileen Creelman
+ "N Y Sun" p19 S 15 '36

"[It has arrived] here for the entertainment of persons enough acquainted with the mixture of pleasing music, slapstick adventure, wisecracks and period costumes."
H. T. S.
"N Y Times" p20 S 12 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Generally entertaining operetta, with tuneful music, plenty of comedy and a colorful costume background."
+ "Film Daily" p7 S 14 '36

CODE OF THE RANGE. Columbia 54 min. O 9 '36
Cast: Charles Starrett, Mary Blake, Edward Coxen
Director: C. C. Coleman, Jr.
A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings
"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency O 22 '36

"A, Y & C usual Western."
Parents' M p38 Ja '37

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; —— Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
CODE OF THE RANGE—Continued
A mildly diverting, unimportant western story with too long a score and too many employees. A mild love affair meanders through the tale without hindrance to the action. The photography is good and the ease of the actors on horseback contributes much to the speed and movement of the somewhat complicated plot. For Westerns.

+ + Sel Motion Pict p67 D 1 '36

"A range war between cattlemen and sheepmen done with a mild and woolly effect of most Westerns of its type. Family."

Wkly Guide O 10 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Intrigue, murder have their place, so, too, do love, romance, but there is nothing which particularly endears this up-to-date Western. Production good, acting adequate."
+ - Phila. A. Pict. p82 N 1 '36

COME AND GET IT. United artists 103min N 6 '36

Directors: Howard Hawks. William Wyler

Based on the novel of the same title by Edna Ferber. Arnold traces the rise of a lumber king in the 30's who fails in love but succeeds magnificently in his worldly achievements.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The chief merit of this film... is Edward Arnold's full-bodied characterization of a rugged individualist in the lumber business... The film frequently generates power and intensity and is recommended to adults." T. J. Fitzmorris

+ + America p162 N 21 '36

"A: notable; Y: unwholesome; C: no."

Christian Century p189 D 2 '36

"What a picture! This is handled with vigor, realism, and skill. Fine cast. Excellent bits, but mature for children. Excellent." DAI

"Edna Ferber's story... is superbly produced. Logging scenes are tremendously impressive. There is no let-down... The cast, which is made up mostly of unknown players, is expertly chosen for type and quality. One would like to see this in word in praise of each one, beginning with Edward Arnold who gives a noteworthy performance. The dual direction is smooth and masterly; the writing, the musical score and the technical values all contribute to the high level of the picture's entertainment value. Mature." Mrs T. G. Winter

+ + Fox W Coast Bull N 14 '36

"Magnificent scenic effects and an excellent cast make this a picture outstanding in entertainment value. Adults." Am Legion Auxiliary

"(It) is able directed and strongly developed. Edward Arnold gives a fine performance as Barney Glasgow. Adults: excellent; 11-15: possibly; 7-11: Mature-familiy."

Calif. Cong of Par & Teachers

"[It is] another artistic triumph for recording and photography. This film is outstanding if for no other reason than the majestic grandeur of these opening sequences. But there is no let-down of interest as we follow the career of Barney Glasgow... This film reproduces the manners, the dress, the architecture of the period 1941-1967 with authentic realism. Outstanding. Mature."

Calif. Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"An excellent adaptation of Edna Ferber's novel. Adults & young people. E Coast Pre- view Committee

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + - Fair; + - Mediocre; - Poor; - - Exceptionally Poor

"A strong, realistic drama, magnificently staged and exceptionally well acted by a distinguished cast. Family."

Nat Soc of New England Women

"Advocating reformation and upholding good standards in social and commercial life and showing logging from tree to finished board, this presentation is sophisticated in theme and is suitable for the mature." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

+ + Fox W Coast Bull N 23 '36

"An outstanding achievement marked by the combined efforts of two skilled directors. ... In all—superb film entertainment."

+ + Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 10 '36

"Edward Arnold never gave a finer portrayal... The direction makes its picturesqueness and photography, particularly of cutting lumber and logging it to market, is magnificent, and the entire atmosphere is human and pulsating. Excellent for adults."

+ + Nat Council of Jewish Women N 11 '36

"A & Y: excellent; C: mature."

Parents' M p38 Ja '37

"Outstanding. Mature."

+ + Sel Motion Pict p3 D 1 '36

"Well cast and directed with thrilling scenes of lumbering in the Wisconsin forests. Mature. Outstanding."

+ + Wkly Guide N 7 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"A gripping screen drama, sometimes brutal, always powerful, which shows the rise of a lumber baron. Direction and photography are outstanding and the film is strongly acted. Adults & young people.

+ Christian Science Monitor p13 N 21 '36

"Our most distinguished individual producer scores another success with his picturization of Edna Ferber's 'Come and Get It.' It is a big story, told within a big frame, a story of human emotions which intelligent screen writing and expert direction make understandable... Once I wrote that only on a picture's faults can a review of it grow in proportions. All hope of writing an extended review of 'Come and Get It' ended with the above paragraph. All the rest would be but a parade of superlatives... All in all, 'Come and Get It' is a notable contribution to what has been on the whole a splendid season of notable productions."

+ + Hollywood Spec p7 N 7 '36

"Edward Arnold plays Barney Glasgow through the years—but he is not entirely believable as the younger, rugged lumberjack. Actually the picture is stolen by newcomer, Frances Farmer... She carries 'Come and Get It' to whatever interest you will encounter in its length. And there is a grand character performance—of a wild, simple, honest Swede lumberjack—by Walter Brennan. If you like rugged he-men drama, here it is..." (2½ stars) Beverly Hills

Liberty p13 D 12 '36

"Edna Ferber's saga... has been made into a vivid and exciting screen adventure. Keeping strict faith with its lusty and colorful background of American life a generation ago, the work is not without strength, sympathy and action... Robustly acted and staged in sweeping cinematic strokes, the film betters the book in nearly every way. Especially in the brilliant portrayal of the leading role by Edward Arnold that gives the photoplay power and distinction... In some scenes of a masterly fashion, he moves through the rather fortuitous ending, making the figure of Barney sympathetic rather than repulsive. Lotta choosy to marry his son... [Frances Farmer] is attractive and sings pleasantly, but she rarely rises above the emotional exigencies of either characterization... Treating its source material with laudable license, 'Come and Get It'..."
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

27

It's a rousing screen re-creation of a colorful period in our not too remote past." Howard Barnes

"Edna Ferber's entertaining, full-blooded story of the lusty Barney Glasgow is now a fairly comical, but not lusty film, full-blooded. Somewhere in the recording of 'Come and Get It,' the gusto was lost, and it's proof of casting because the cameraman wound up, during the casting of the yarn. It's handsomely photographed and produced, carefully written by Miss Ferber and skillfully directed by William Keighley. This one, unlike most of its predecessors, has not that perfection of casting to which Mr. Goldwyn is so accustomed. It is the best sophisticated film that has ever crested and charged with audience. Edward Arnold, for all his efforts, is not quite the Barney of the novel. The film, lacking the power of one or two, is—

"Chalk up another hit for Samuel Goldwyn, one of the few producers in Hollywood who refuses to content himself with mediocrity. His film version of Edna Ferber's 'Come and Get It' is as fine in its way as those earlier Goldwyn successes of the year, 'Dodsworth,' 'The Frontiersman,' " — The New York Times p31 N 12 '36

"The maddening thing about the tedious and dawdling [film] is that it contains several perfectly good and valid reasons—there are moments of venom and drama and expectation it—(for suspecting that it could easily have been a lively and robust career story of a two-fisted lumberjack. But somewhere along the line something went wrong and the result is a formless clutter of characters and incidents of interest to few, if any, cinema-goers. Indeed, it is difficult to recall a better example of how bad one can be in a period of some ninety-odd minutes." — William Boehnel

"The story opens in a lumber camp and ends in a Chicago police court. Progress. I myself was somewhat more taken with the early scenes of lumber-jack society, and especially with such a saloon brawl as one seldom sees, even in movies. Seldom, indeed, have the movie people let their story lag; where they haven't been able to put in a good fight, they have edged situations with humor, and you don't have to sneeze much. The film is nicely turned out, with a care for detail. Fine lumber-camp sets, good furniture of the times (around the turn of the century), and the cast dressed to the last rat of the ladies' hair in the style of the day." — John Mosher

"New Yorker" p59 N 7 '36

"Coming on the heels of Goldwyn's exceptionally successful 'Dodsworth' the picture proves rather davering at least to this producer who has something of the Midas touch as well as the showman's. Frances Farmer excels in the role of a cynical, Jersey singer and her daughter. Paramount lent her to Goldwyn as a minor player; she returns to her own starring again. The burden of the film rests squarely on Edward Arnold's heavy shoulders. The second phase of his characterization is so easy to understand, and he manages the feat of making an unlikely infatuation believable and deeply moving. The film is well worth seeing." — News-Wk p60 N 14 '36

"Arnold has never had so good a character or counterpart in one so well. His is a veritable triumph. And Frances Farmer is right up with him. She shows a versatility as the hard-boiled entertainers of the day, and surprisingly as the young daughter that is acting of a very high order. What a picture! Credit Merriit Hub bard, and, of course, Samuel Goldwyn for screen beauty and success, Sam Goldwyn." Rob Wagner

"+ + Script p12 N 14 '36

"Barney's early disposition, and the bawdy days of nineteenth century humorists make a more effective cinema than the luxuriously toned mannerisms of the later period. The giggling, sex-suckings are musty and now worn thin. That is the crescendo, and we feel sure that the cabinet scene, wherein Barney and Lotta, the dance director, are clocked and hurried off, will go down in picture history as a "tour de force" of silent comedy. There are sure, accurately characterized performances for every member of the cast. So perfectly costumed and created are the persons in 'Come and Get It' that it is difficult to imagine them doing anything else. Edward Arnold, of course, is an example of inspired casting. It's a rare event when you can't imagine the star. But can't imagine them Swan and Lotta and Karie and Emmy Lou, I mean, and wonder what the idea by now. You are supposed to be buying a ticket." + + Stage p14 D '36

"The result, against a background first of lumber camps and small-town saloons, later of early 20th-century urban life, is a extraordinarily warm and lively picture of one of the few romantic aspects of the U. S. which the cinema has neglected." + + Time p37 N 16 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"As meaty as your Thanksgiving turkey is Samuel Goldwyn's film version of Edna Ferber's surging saga of a lumber baron, his loves and his lusts. Part is, the picture improves on the book, since it eliminates the anti-climactic sequences found in the best seller. It is top flight entertainment for all ages and classes and of course Goldwyn's recently released 'Dodsworth' for worth your honors. The entire cast excels. Family." + + Box Office p51 N 14 '36

"Here is another highly entertaining picture bearing the Samuel Goldwyn label. It is a modern day human comedy Santerious than a dozen pictures. The thrilling logging scenes which open the picture with a bang were perfectly cast. Richard Barstow as Barney is a leader of the year's outstanding character performances is given by Edward Arnold, and Walter Brennan is a close second with a livable portrayal as his friend." Film Daily p11 O 29 '36

"Samuel Goldwyn has contributed a completely worthy companion piece to his 'Dodsworth.' Though radically different in subject, both dramas are American to the core; are authentic and moving studies of character, and have a wide range of appeal. The new film will attract and delight an even larger audience, for it reaches deeply into the roots of everyday life. It can be counted on for a magnificent box office record. As a production it has, naturally supersedes some of the outstanding pictures of the year." + + Hollywood Reporter p3 O 27 '36 + + Motion Pic Daily p10 O 28 '36

"Edna Ferber's draw, the excellence of the picture, should help build it into a substantial grosser. Estimate: good job throughout." — Variety p15 O 27 '36

"For the first half hour or so 'Come and Get It' is smashing, slap-bang entertainment. Then it fades. It doesn't fade so much that it is ever a very bad film, but it runs out of steam after the first part, and the money they have put in it do pretty fair business. There are no pro-

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocore; + Poor; + Exceptionally Poor
COMING AND GET IT. Continued.

A number of flaws in this picture's fault is that it throws its Sunday punch hurriedly and has little in reserve for a follow-up. Arnold has the big part and does the best job in a cast that's extremely apotty. As the dance hall lady [Frances Farmer] overdoes the hard part and attempts an extreme and succeeds to make it a burlesque rather than a sincere study. From a production standpoint, Sam Goldwyn, as usual, shoots the works. It's regrettable the story isn't worthy of it all.

+ -- Variety p12 N 18 '36

"Come and Get It," brilliantly transposed from the Edna Ferber tale which has to an extraordinary degree a quality of difference which sets it off and which will claim for the production highest popular and critical praise. Not heavy with magic names, it will bear exploitation, but has in itself all the elements of fine drama. Edward Arnold probably gives the most sensitive, human and compelling performance of his career.

COMING CLOSER, FOLKS. Columbia 66min N 7 '36.

Cast: James Dunn, Marian Marsh, Wynne Gibson, Herman Bing
Director: D. Ross Lederman

A pitchman or sidewalk hawker gets into the good graces of a girl who owns a department store. After he almost ruins the store by unloading a consignment of worthless merchandise on the unsuspecting customers, he has a change of heart and stages a sensational sale which wins back the customers and also wins the girl for the repentant pitchman.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: absurd; Y & C: better not."

Christian Century p594 N 25 '36

"[It is] a mildly amusing comedy. Performances and characterizations are pleasantly snappy and, together with some good comedy, serve to put over an pretentious story that is average entertainment. Family.

+ -- Sel Motion Pict p9 D 1 '36

"[It is] an amusing comedy of rapid-fire salesmanship. Family.

+ Wky Guide O 31 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[It is] an amusing patter on the theme of the main stem pitchman, with the jovescents Jimmy Dunn as the sidewalk salesman who could have sold monocoles in Mongolia if Columbia Pictures hadn't provided more likely wares and sales territories." J. T. M.

+ N Y Times p17 N 23 '36

"Those high pressure street corner salesmen, who sell, among other things, watches that run for ten minutes for two bits to the gullible public, come in for some dubbedly humorous conditions in "Coming Closer, Folks," a clumsy and feeble little comedy drama. Save for the pleasant people in it, who make the film seem considerably more entertaining than it actually is, there is nothing to recommend in "Coming Closer, Folks," which is loaded down with musty pericle and complications that are embarrassing for their lack of ingenuity."

William Boehmell

+ N Y World-Telegram p19 N 23 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A cleverly-constructed story which will click in the neighborhood spots."

+ Box Office p21 D 5 '36

CONFLICT. Universal 60min N 23 '36.

Cast: John Wayne, Jean Rogers, Tommy Eupp, Frank Sheridan, Ward Bond
Director: David Howard

Audience Suitability Ratings

"[It is] somewhat dated but filled with action. An obvious lesson on cheating runs through the plot, which is played in a straightforward manner, with little emotional feeling, but which carries a ring of truth. Family.

+ -- Sel Motion Pict p9 D 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"[It is] a satisfactory program offering with a good role for John Wayne."

+ -- Film Daily p3 N 28 '36

"An action comedy drama of prize fighting in the gay nineties that has what it takes to please them in the hinter lands. The picture is well made for its class. The script of Charles Logue and Walter Weems does not bother much with probabilities but packs in a maximum of two-fisted brawls."

+ -- Hollywood Reporter p4 N 23 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p14 N 27 '36

"Producer Trem Carr takes John Wayne off his horse and moves from the oat burners to the action of prize fighting. The film is received by the audience and 'Conflict' brings 60 minutes of good entertainment. It can well round out any program and will undoubtedly meet the enthusiastic applause of the children who bicycle up to the foyer for the week-end matinees. 'Conflict' is not important as a picture, but it will fill the bill where the audience demands plenty of sluggish and action."

+ -- Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 23 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
COUNTRY GENTLEMEN. Republic 60 min N 9 '36

Cast: Ole Olsen, Chic Johnson, Joyce Compson, Lila Lee

Director: Ralph Staub

"The story is laid in a small town, where Olsen & Johnson land in jail because of a mistaken kidnap charge. There is a veterans' home nearby and the boys have just got their liquor license. It's too much of a temptation to John son, while Olsen, who has developed a romantic interest in the town's prettiest widow, played by Lila Lee, wants to go straight." — Hollywood Reporter

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A, Y & C: good." — Parents' M p38 Ja '37

Trade Paper Reviews

"This Olsen-Johnson mirth maker represents one of Republic's best efforts to date, and the crazy clowning of the pair, together with a double share of their sure-fire vaudeville gags, makes the picture a cinch for any spot, particularly where their stage unit has played. Family." — Box Office p31 O 31 '36

"Here is a wild comedy that will garner a nice quota of laughs as a program offering, Olsen and Johnson, vaudeville headliners, bring their rib-riddling antics to the screen." — Film Daily p7 O 24 '36

"Just as delightful a little comedy as has rolled off the production lines for many a moon. In addition to the kind of slapstick which Olsen & Johnson have made their monopoly, it is loaded with precious dialogue, much of it John P. Medbury's, swell comedy situations, and a cohesive story. It is the best picture work this comedy pair has ever done and will probably land them into a fine film future as the industry could well use another reliable laugh team." — Hollywood Reporter p31 O 21 '36

CRAIG'S WIFE. Columbia 75 min S 25 '36

Cast: Rosalind Russell, John Boles, Billie Burke, Jane Darwell

Director: Dorothy Arzner

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"It[ ]emerges as strong and mordant dramatic fare. . . The film strikes out at domestic vices in a strain which is both literate and intelligent, and times emerge gossipy. These qualities invite adult interest." — T. J. Fitzmorris

See Review p24 O 10 '36

"A: very good; Y: mature but good; C: no."

Christian Century p1374 O 14 '36

"This fine play gives Rosalind Russell her best role: a disagreeable personality skilfully portrayed by director Dorothy Arzner. Mature & 11-15. Excellent." — DAF

+ + Fox W Coast Bul O 3 '36

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST 29

"Very good. Adults & young adults."

+ + Motion Pict Guide p58 Pict O 23 '36

"It is an exceedingly interesting problem drama, directed and acted with sensitive appreciation of the different values. Miss Russell is very fine and is ably supported by a well chosen cast. Adolescents, 12-18; mature and of little value; children, 8-12: no."

+ + Sel Motion Pict R p4 O 1 '36

"It[ ]is a strong portrayal of a selfish woman. Adults."

Nat Legion of Decency O 1 '36

"A: excellent; Y: mature but good; C: no interest."

Parents' M p22 D '36

"A strongly human and realistic story, tragic in its significance, but well balanced with humorous situations and with its suspense perfectly timed. Adults & young people."

+ + Sel Motion Pict p8 O 1 '36

"The film deals honestly with the play from which it was taken, and is so well done it makes excellent adult screen fare. Mature. Outstanding." — Wkly Guide S 26 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Rosalind Russell . . . made Harriet Craig a figure to remember, and showed herself an actress of real distinction. Over and above all, it is an inexorable climax that has a justice that is foreign to most movie presentation. The play was directed by Dorothy Arzner, Hollywood's first woman director and it is an achievement of note, a picture that should be near the head of any listing of the year's best pictures."

— Laura Elston

+ + Canadian M p37 N '36

"[It is] a finely interpreted movie version of George S. Kaufman's Pulitzer Prize Play. Adults & young people."

+ + Christian Science Monitor p17 O 31 '36

"Columbia has given in Craig's Wife' a dramatic portrait of the social type, perhaps the best of those which conform to the notion that such problems worked out entirely in dialogue can be sold to the public at a profit. . . Dorothy Arzner gave it direction so brilliant that one wonders why her name has been absent so long from the screen, and the members of the cast give excellent performances. . . Still 'Craig's Wife' is not box-office. It is a personal Rosalind Russell, a motion picture, and motion picture audiences will not be satisfied with it. . . But while 'Craig's Wife' will not please everybody, it is a film that the few discriminating ones who are willing to accept the stage as it is presented on motion picture screen will appreciate." — Hollywood Spec p7 S 26 '36

"Dorothy Arzner has directed with intelligence but little warmth. Even Rosalind Russell as Harriet Craig is frigid and impersonal. Much better is John Boles as the husband." — (2 stars) — Beverly Hills Dwell Liberty p58 O 10 '36

"Shrewdly, Columbia cast Rosalind Russell in the role of Mrs. Craig. It not only gave her a welcome freedom from the type of roles that had become almost habitual, but gave her a chance to prove a talent heretofore muffled by previous performances. John Boles' portrait of the first patient and then violent Craig neither adds to nor subtracts from his stature as a screen leading man. It is a routine job." — (3 stars) — O 25 O '36

"The trouble is perhaps John Boles, who is too much the handsome dummy for us to care whether he asserts himself or not. But more likely it is Rosalind Russell whose wife does a very attractive piece of acting in the wrong key. She permits us almost to love and even respect nice qualities of destructiveness of the main point, which should be that she deserves everything she gets." — Mark Van Doren

— Nation p502 O 24 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
CRAIG'S WIFE. Continued
More or less a moral morality play on the theme 'People who live to themselves are generally left to themselves.' Successes to a great extent. Domette's voice is strained down to basic causes, though none too well. Rosalind Russell performs title role with great credit. Film is far from perfect but you're doing all right. — New Theatre p43 N '36

"With Rosalind Russell giving a brilliantly sensitive portrayal of an unladylike woman, Craig's Wife' is a touching and engaging serio-comedy version of George Kelly's celebrated play. Her performance reveals acting gifts that may later earn her important assignments. You should not go to the Music Hall expecting to find a diverting entertainment in Craig's Wife. It does not always come through with clear-cut dramatic unity, but neither did the Kelly play. It is to the great credit of the producers that they have not distorted the grim context of the offering with saccharine amendments." Howard Barnes + N Y Herald Tribune p17 0 2 '36

"It may be tempting the fates to say so, but we cannot resist noting that Hollywood appears to have found the magic stone for converting a good play into a good screen version. Columbia has been able to do quite well with Mr. Kelly's drama of domestic infidelity. Rosalind Russell and John Boles have translated the whole into a thoroughly engrossing photoplay which has a point to make, keeps it constantly in view and drives it home viscerally at the end." F. S. Nugent + N Y Times p29 O 2 '36

"There's no lightness, practically no lightness in Rosalind Russell by 'Craig's Wife.' Perhaps it isn't necessary, for this is a good picture and tells its story well, but I do seem to remember that in George Kelly's original play there was a humor, sardonic and vicious though it was, that edged the whole performance. John Boles and Rosalind Russell as the husband and wife in 'It Happened One Night,' a comedy, has a good chance to repeat with a tragedy." — + News W W 27 7 36

"Columbia has contributed a gem to the ocean of cinema offerings, an intelligent, tersely phrased drama that rates with any season's best. It's the rare type of film that is not forgotten at the theater's exit, that clings in the minds of spectators because of the luminous glow kindled by flawless character portrayals. It is Rosalind Russell's picture as to credits and I mean credits. Director Dorothy Arzner supplies cerebrally, a scene here, a scene there. A capital 'A' picture." Herb Sterne + + Script p12 S 26 '36

"With the exception of one or two examples of gross violation, Columbia's new film is a very good intelligent screen treatment. It is not only Boles who disappoints with a wooden and uninspired performance. Rosalind Russell's eyes are opened to the calculating dishonesty of her husband. Will keep you dry on a rainy afternoon." Stage p24 O '36

"The screen version exhibits to good advantage Rosalind Russell's performance. It is her brilliantly vitriolic portrayal as Mrs. Craig is likely to be a turning point for Actress Rosalind Russell herself. It has, indeed, for her the makings of a comedy role. The work of Dorothy Arzner, Hollywood's only woman director, is equally distinguished for giving pace without apparent effort to a picture that might, with less expert treatment, have seemed perfunctory. — Time p32 O 12 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Bitter, relentless, yet restrained, the story of a house that isn't too perfect to be a home superbly enacted by Rosalind Russell as Craig's wife and aided by a quiet and sincere performance by John Boles as Craig. It is obviously aimed to attract women audiences and will be a strong money-earner because of the domestic angle. — Box Office p19 S 26 '36

"George Kelly's Pulitzer Prize play... emerges upon the sound-screen as a faithful translation of the original, its appeal necessarily to the adult audience, and particularly at least one section of the so-called feminine adult audience. — Film Daily p10 O 2 '36

"Drama that women should like, this has the benefit of good performances by hero Boles, heroine Miss Russell, and Miss Rosalind Russell's, but its appeal will be limited. The finished product suggests support from a class element rather than the masses, more of a Woman's than a man's dish and more for the adult than the adolescent. While the producers have sought to give a picture fundamentally and naturally that dealt largely in dialog in delivering its message, the failure to insert comedy relief and give greater strength to a subsidiary love interest deprives the subject of better entertainment and appeal chances. Miss Russell deserves stardom after her work here. — Variety p15 O '36

"[It] is a forceful character study whose value is enhanced by markedly good performances, notably Rosalind Russell's, but its appeal will be limited. The finished product suggests support from a class element rather than the masses, more of a Woman's than a man's dish and more for the adult than the adolescent. While the producers have sought to give a picture fundamentally and naturally that dealt largely in dialog in delivering its message, the failure to insert comedy relief and give greater strength to a subsidiary love interest deprives the subject of better entertainment and appeal chances. Miss Russell deserves stardom after her work here. — Variety p15 O '36

CRIME OVER LONDON. Criterion-United artists 80min. Cast: Joseph Cawthorn, Basil Sydney, Margot Grahame, Roy D'Arcy, Richard Hamilton. Director: Alfred Zeisler Dialogue film produced in England. When American gangsters find the going too tough in the States, they hie themselves to London where they are foiled by Scotland Yard after an ingenious attempt to steal the bonus checks of a large department store.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"This complicated and involved story lacks the element of surprise, and is long drawn out in its development. The characters are types rather than individuals, and no very great demands are made on the capable cast. The direction is, on the whole, competent and workmanlike. Dialogue and soundings are genuine, the department store, and are as magnificent and lavish as the most exacting shopper could desire. — Variety, S & D p169 O '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"The story has all the ingredients for excitement and suspense, but it is told episodically, with continuity spinning from one loose thread to another, that interest flags long before the close. Alfred Zeisler's direction is hampered by a script that defies the development of suspense, and his underlying flair for splendid treatment of melodramatic happenings gets submerged through a too hesi-
CRIMINAL LAWYER, RKO 70min
Cast: Lee Tracy, Margot Grahame, Eduardo Cianelli, Erik Rhodes
Director: Christy Cabanne

"[Tracy] is a wisecracking trickster with a thirst for liquor and a bad legal record. But when he finds himself headed for the governorship he takes his job, though not his love affairs, seriously and finally sacrifices his career by an open-court confession of past perfidies to convict the criminal who has been his chief client." Hollywood Reporter

Trade Paper Reviews

"[It is] a synthetic combination of crime, criminals and the tricks by which they are saved from the law. . . The picture has little to recommend it except the performances of Tracy and one or two others in the cast. Its place is the duals, chiefly as support. The ingredients are over-familiar but Tracy's role and the way he plays it yield moments that are believable and effective."

Variety (Hollywood) p3 D 4 '36

LA CROISIERE JAUNE. See Yellow cruise

CROOKED TRAIL. Supreme 59min JI 25 '36
Cast: Johnny Mack Brown, Charles King, Lucille Browne
Director: S. Roy Luby
A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency S 3 '36

"A. Y. & C. good."
Parents' M p42 N '36

"Good entertainment of the hard riding, hard shooting type, with a novel plot and plenty of action.

Family-Juvenile.

WKLY Guide Ag 29 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Generally well made, this has Johnny Mack Brown as a personable, upright hero. Estimate: satisfactory.

+ Phila Exhibitor p53 N 15 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + - Mediocre; - Poor; + + + Exceptionally Poor

DANIEL BOONE, RKO 77min S 25 '36
Cast: George O'Brien, Heather Angel, John Carradine, Ralph Forbes
Director: David Howard
Music & lyrics: Jack Stern, Harry Tobias
Music directors: Hugo Riesenfeld, Arthur Kaye

The story tells of the exploits of Daniel Boone who organized a great wagon train to penetrate the Indian country of Kain-tu-kee.

A Photoplay Study Guide to Daniel Boone has been prepared by W. Paul Bowden. The Guide is obtainable from Educational and Recreation Guides, Inc, 125 Lincoln Avenue, Newark, New Jersey at fifteen cents a copy.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The movies have evidently discovered that a dash of historicity can elevate the ordinary Western thriller out of the juvenile class and give it more general appeal. In this melodramatic account of our foremost frontiersman are all the unblushing allusions of the serial picture plus the color and educational content of history. The result of this blending is respectable excitement. . . If you are impressed by elemental struggles in the great outdoors, or if this film is likely to keep you on the edge of your seat along with giving a vivid notion of the hardboiled men of yesteryear and the receding wilderness." T. J. Fitzmorris

+ America p15 O 17 '36

"A: perhaps; Y: good, but grim; C: doubtful."

Christian Century p478 N 4 '36

"A good cast and splendid direction make this vivdly real. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"[R] will have some interest and appeal for children. Not especially well cast, perhaps, and leaving the feeling that little has been done with a theme that offered great possibilities, Family. Exciting for young children." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Beautiful scenery, excellent photography, a capable cast and thoughtful direction make this one of the better picture productions. Very good, Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Family." E Coast Preview Committee

"A family film, although exciting for young children."
Nat Soc of New England Women's Clubs

"Bravery, honesty and gratitude are exalted in this picture, which is free from drinking and objectionable "sex" episodes. This production, with very good direction, casting and photography, is noteworthy and will inspire all with an appreciation of our heritage. Family." N Cali Council of Federated Church Women

"As semi-historical melodrama it will interest the not-too-critical. Family-mature."
Mrs T. G. Winter

Fox W Coast Bul O 17 '36

"Family-mature."
Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) O 7 '36

"Good, Family, except for sensitive children."

+ Motion Pict Guide D '36

"Careful research on the life of Boone and the customs of his time makes this film which should stimulate an interest in history and give a clearer understanding of the ambition, sacrifice and steadfast courage of those who came before us. Adolescents, 12-16; good except for the sensitive; children, 8-12: probably harmful."+ Motion Pict R p5 O '36
DANIEL BOONE—Continued

"Family.

"The skillful maneuvering of fact and fiction results in a colorfull episode of the era of frontiersmanship. General commanding the story is the Nat Council of Jewish Women O 7 '36.

"A & Y: well; C: good but exciting." Parents' M p32 D '36

"Family." Sel Motion Pict p9 N 1 '36

"Highly satisfactory entertainment. . . Suggested for schools and libraries. Family. Juvenile."

Wkly Guide S 26 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Colorful and relatively accurate historical Western about one of America's most famous pioneer scouts. Its outdoor heroics are directed chiefly towards the younger generation and may be found a bit patronizing by their elders. Family." Christian Science Monitor p15 N 7 '36

"Hardly creditable to the admirable attention given by Hollywood of late to films of early America pioneering through the wilderness is this effort to retell some highlights in the life of one of America's greatest frontiersmen. Dramatic values are lost, although there is a stirring siege of the settlers' stockade and some excellent outdoor photography. It is more the melodramatic George O'Brien outdoor 'thiller' than a historical document." J. P. Coughlin

— Commonweal p20 O 30 '36

"It is evident that George A. Hirliman's new Western release was made for the specific purpose of gaining the early attention of families. The picture is unquestionably a successful mission, immediately stamps it as a successful picture. Were it to be judged in terms of pure cinema instead of purpose, this unfair measure would relegate 'Daniel Boone' into the trial-and-error category. . . Daniel Boone' though ribbed with flagrant cinematic errors, is nevertheless lusty, and provides clean and genuine entertainment for small-town consumption and for our great Kid Tradition: the Saturday Matinee. You may prefer a book, but by all means send the kiddies." Paul Jacobs

Hollywood Spec p12 S 26 '36

"Further evidence of Hollywood's knack of distorting historical characters into stock figures of blood-and-thunder action is evident in 'Daniel Boone.' Though the film is supposedly to be a chapter from the trapper's life, it falls a dozen miles of a genre which languished when the screen started to talk." T. M. P.

N Y Times p23 O 24 '36

"The cinema and historical romance join hands hospitably in 'Daniel Boone,' which permits us to take an intimate peep at the violent life of the American wilderness away back in 1776. The young frontier sto- ries are related in a sometimes tepid, sometimes bloodcurdling but reasonably entertaining melodrama." William Boone.

— N Y World-Telegram p13 O 26 '36

News-Wk p30 O 3 '36

"It turned out better [than 'Ramona'] partly because it is a relatively faithful adaptation of history, partly because Cinemator O'Brien's chemistry with Miss Mediscz fits perfectly the average conception of famed Long Hunter Boone, a middle-sized man who, wrote Audubon, 'appeared gigantic.'

— Time p28 O 5 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Stepping out of the Saturday-matinee Western class, George O'Brien carries with him a naturalness and buoyancy which makes Daniel Boone a living character in a film of consistency, action and interest. Family."

Box Office p19 S 26 '36

"As an outdoor drama this picture is one of the best of that type, and with its Daniel Boone history and background, and added importance that should make it desired by every exhibitor who can possibly play outdoor fare. George O'Brien, as Daniel Boone, is all that the character should be." Film Daily p8 S 22 '36

"Loaded with high-power melodrama, with a historical background of America's most harrowing, exciting frontier days, this one would appear set to go places at the average boxoffice. For the deluxe houses it may not stand alone, but for the neighborhoods and subsequent run places, it's sure fire."

Hollywood Reporter p4 S 18 '36

— Motion Pict Daily p2 S 19 '36

"Where these frontier dramas please, this should do very well. It's superior in technique, in action, in massacre, in stars who play their roles believably. O'Brien, particularly, makes a fine Daniel Boone. He should be an idol for the [children]."

— Phila Exhibitor p35 O 1 '36

"Allegedly based on the life of Daniel Boone, frontier hero. This film is based on authenticity or honesty of purpose by giving a once-over-lightly to the matter of the satedatinization and ribbed Boone's life; the pioneers as rapidly as the latter found and settled new ground. Producer preferred to present the story in an instance of honesty in an attempt to do nothing more than another dull historical item; this way he has a good Indian picture to sell."

— Film Daily p14 O 25 '36

"With the presentation of 'Daniel Boone,' George O'Brien says adieu to the type of Western in which he has so long been a favorite with certain audiences and in certain localities and goes into the more pretentious type of action dramas. . . There is a touch of realism in the wagon train sequences and in the Indian maneuvers. The sound recording by Hal Dumbaugh has been well handled under obviously different circumstances."

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 18 '36

DEVL IS A SISSY. MGM 32min S 18 '36

Cast: Freddie Bartholomew, Jackie Cooper, Deluise, Kenneth More, Ian Hunter. Peggy Conklin

Director: W. S. Van Dyke

See issue of September 25, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Along with satisfying the expected audience demand for gripping entertainment, this film will prove important for its intelligent discussion of the vital problem. The young players give appealing performances and [the] director and his theatrical assistant, his director, has steered the plot away from heavy sermonizing. If the picture deals almost wholly with juvenile audiences, its importance is exclusively for children. It is probably more important that responsible adults should see and learn something about D. J. Fitzmorris."

— America p600 S 26 '36

"A & Y: very good; C: doubtful."

Christian Century p143 S 28 '36

"In spite of the over-loaded story the picture is good entertainment due to the understanding direction, and excellent acting by principals. Freddie Bartholomew is charming as the son, Family; tense for children. (The execution of Gig's father although shown only

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + + Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
in its effect on his family is very tense.) Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"The cast is a notably fine one, excellently directed, in a story which will hold the audience. Family."
Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Fine portrayals of boy types by three of the screen's best juvenile actors. Family. Good. DAF."

"This is primarily an absorbingly interesting film, very dramatic with good comedy relief. In addition, without being in the least preachy, it develops the value of sympathetic understanding in schools and juvenile courts for underprivileged boys and girls. Suitable for any type of audience. Family."
Nat Soc of New England Women

"This picture with its gripping lesson for children, is especially suitable for the family."
S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

+ Fox W Coast Bul S 13 '36

"Most interesting and engrossing entertainment. Family-nature.

+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 8 '36

"Best of the month. Outstanding. Family."
+ + Jt Estimates S 15 '36

[It is] an unusual, moving and human story. The theme is an excellently written one and the acting is excellent. Freddie Bartholomew gives a striking performance. His efforts to win the approval of his foster parents and his schoolmates and his subsequent dismissal are naturally and vividly portrayed. The other boys support him admirably. Here is a story of everyday life which has humour, pathos, realism, and drama. Suitability: Family."
E. P. MO. Pict O 10 '36

"The play moves swiftly and entertainingly by reason of excellent acting and skilful direction."
S. M. Mullen

+ Motion Pict & Family p4 O 15 '36

"This startling human document deals with one of the most pressmg of our social problems. It is a mteresting and absorbingly interesting study of a phase of life which rece ves too little attention. It is artistic, untiring and realistic. Adolescents, 12-15: harrowing but may depend upon the individual; children, 8-12: no."

+ + Pict R p8 O 36 '36

"Freddie Bartholomew, Jackie Cooper and Mickey Rooney are remarkably good, being human and natural. Freddie is rather painfully 'chubby', but he is boyish and good - one thing is certain, he is all about. But they are all astonishingly lacking in cuteness and other fictional characteristics of screen children. More like something Mark Twain would have written if he'd had New York streets for his setting. Altogether it is one of the best Kid pictures that has been made, and [the director] is obviously responsible for a striking part of the picture's excellence. Rated honorable mention." J. H.

+ Nat Bd of R M p8 S '36

"Notably cast, understandingly directed and with an appealing story, this picture will prove interesting to audiences of all ages. A fine respect for the juvenile court is maintained and the influence of family relations is clearly demonstrated. Family."

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women S 9 '36

"A. Y and C: excellent."
Parents' M p12 N '36

"Family."

Sel Motion Pict p3 O 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Efficient acting scarcely compensates for the cumbersome, anti-climactic story of The Devil is a Shrew. It is a lopsided down-to-earth sentiment affair, which, when it appears to have gone its length, takes a new lease on its maddening activities. Although W. S. Van Dyke's direction is painstaking, it is surprising that he should have undertaken the task, which could very well have been entrusted to a person far less expert." Mordaunt Hall

++ Boston Transcript p17 O 17 '36

"There is a good deal of hokum in the story but it has one good humor and effort to put it above the average."
Laura Elston

++ Canadian M p33 N '36

"Van Dyke has really produced a child picture which is worth watching even at least three quarters of its playing time. The acting is remarkable. Family."

+ Chicago Tribune p41 O 31 '36

"This is a stirring moralization on the why and wherefore of young crime and an excellent narration on righteousness that might exert some form of influencing control at least over the developing embryo. The play is by no means strictly a juvenile performance."
J. P. Curten

++ Commonweal p504 S 25 '36

"I am afraid when grownups read that the three leading parts are played by children, they will receive it as entertainment for little people only, the result being that they will deny themselves a cinematic treat. The Devil Is a Shrew has inherent entertainment value sufficient to make it do better at the box-office than Romeo and Juliet."

++ Herald Tribune p9 O 31 '36

"This original movie yarn has an interesting sociological twist—but a lot of melodrama is tacked on the end, with the result that an intriguing study in juvenile delinquency is marred. The story has an undercurrent of sharp social observation and is shrewdly pointed—until it goes gangster for a climax. (3 stars) Beverly Hills Library

p37 O 17 '36

"The Devil Is a Sissy" is a straightforward, warm, moving picture describing the Americanization of a gently bred, very British little boy. Amazingly captured by Director W. S. Van Dyke. Working swiftly and with an English temperament. One moment the ill-assorted trio is shattered by a surge of fight spirit, the next the three are illuminated and made real by a flash of boyish understanding, comradeship. . . . Frederick has never been more easy and natural in any of his films; it is possible this is his best."

++ Lit Digest p24 S 36 '36

"Head and shoulders above anything of its kind so far. The film [in long-running London] begins to slide down hill on its need for ethics. . . . If there was ever an image of the boy's life as boys like him think of it is in this little good people, especially Mickey Rooney, Jackie Cooper, Gene Lockhart, and Freddie Bartholomew: but it is the more special work of Rowland Brown, who did the story and the best part of the direction. In spite of the structural faults already suggested, the picture in its good parts is as sweet and clear as Tom Sawyer's whistle, and I'll go bond that the exact like of it, nudging us so intimately with the thought that we were young once, has not been seen in any art or form. Ottis Ferguson

++ New Republic p1010 21 '36

"This is a sentimental film—wholeheartedly, deliberately, properly sentimental. . . . There are many films foully, degradingly sentimental; this is not one of them—and that should be enough. But that we enjoyed the missionary good-companionship of a New York magistrate straight-talking to a couple of tough urchins, a man to man, in favour of their reform to respectable citizenship; but we saw his point and knew he was right. . . . The brilliant, semi-articulate attempts of the two hooligans (Jackie Cooper and Mickey Rooney) either to subdue or to imitate feelings, and the easy control of parental affection, and the perky, puffed-up hack, and the middle Bar- tholomew, made it frequently an excellent film. Easily the best of these performances was Mas- ter Rooney, who needed no pinch of salt."

+ New Statesman & Nation p672 O 31 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; ++ Good; + Fair; + mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor DEVIL IS A SISY—Continued

"The strangely terrible tragedies and excitations of childhood have been compounded into a powerful and moving screen drama in 'The Devil Is a Sisy.' . . . In the climax, with its melting pot Algerian material and moralizing, the mood is somewhat shattered, but the film remaining one of the cinema’s really fine studies of youth. Roland Brown has written a tale for it that is for the most part reliantly honest; W. S. Van Dyke has staged it brilliantly and the acting is vividly compelling. . . . It is, essentially, an illuminating research into the emotions of childhood that so slickly is successful, in the sense that it becomes a distinguished and impressive photoplay." Howard Barnes

+ + + New York Times p7 A 17 '36

"Oddly enough, three child stars prove much better than one, in this case, at any rate. ‘The Devil Is a Sisy’ is good screen fare for grown-ups, and there should be some way to show it to every child and parent in the metropolitan tenement districts. . . . ‘The Devil Is a Sisy’ is a picture that should prove more entertaining to grown-ups as to children.” Eileen Creelman

+ + + New York Sun p15 A 17 '36

"The Devil Is a Sisy,” having a soft-hearted plot and core, is not as ruthless as the Kingsley play [‘Dead End”] in its examination of gangster-breeding, but within its optmistic limits it contains a vivid understanding and vivid portrait. . . . Although the film slips off into familiar and lachrymous grooves by its conclusions, it fresh enough and accurate most of the way, and it has been served extraordinarily well by its cast. . . .
The direction is unobtrusive, handled by W. S.
Van Dyke. . . . That, in itself, should be assurance enough of a thoroughly entertaining picture.”
F. Wing Nutting

+ + + New York Times p21 A 17 '36

"All and sundry are hereby informed that here is one of the most charming, touching and affectionate of the screen films of the autumn season. To be sure, a large part of ‘The Devil Is a Sisy’ is pure and unadulterated hokum, another part is a moral to the effect that going straight and being honest is a tough job, and still another part is downright melodrama. But what a skillful mixture of these ingredients it is! Seldom have Hollywood maestros brewed such a palatable dish from such common garden variety staples.” William Boehnel

+ + + New York World-Telegram p7a A 17 '36

"It is concerned, with the hoodlums in our streets, but in a more conventional big-story type than was ‘Dead End,’ it isn’t the lan-dage, by any means, of that play. . . .
Adults are minor in this piece, but the young people carry the thing along with considerable ability under the tutelage of W. S. Van Dyke.”
John Mosher

New Yorker p79 O 24 '36

"Despite the plot hokum, the film has enough humor and pathos to pull it above average.”
+ + News-Wk p28 S 36 '36

"Great heart interest plus natural comedy make this something for the entire family.
Adults will notice that Woody Van Dyke’s direction doesn’t do the great deal of goss over some of the clap-trap passages from the writing department. . . . What should have been a sharp hail-storm of annoying sentiment becomes the slush of sentimentality through a ‘fraidy-cat attitude which replaces truth with trite words and pat speeches. What everthing is scanned through rose-colored glasses.”
Herb Strock

+ + + Script p12 N 14 '36

"There is something enormously engaging in Master Bartholomew’s crisp politeness against a background of slums and Public Schools. . . .
That the film pleases, hard-headed H. B.
tholomew, Mickey Rooney, and Jackie Cooper, proceed to ignore the social implications and moral undertones of the plot, and make a picnic of acting together. It is a picnick everybody will enjoy.” Stage p24 O 36

"The Devil is a Sisy” is a strong title for a valiant and moving little story about three boys on a Manhattan tenement street.
That, in the production in which [Fredric Darling] re-establishes himself are over-sentimental but not cluttered up enough to spoil the mood of an unalloqued place.”

+ Time p31 S 28 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Estimate: nice job throughout.”

+ + + Exhibitor p3 S 15 '36

"It is surefire film entertainment for the family trade. Plenty of paths for the sentimentalists among the parents, and strong object-lessen stuff for the youngsters. Dash of gangsterism and general roughneckery, which, however, is well pointed up and neatly skirts the shocks of pulpitering. Under Frank Davis’ expert production, fortified by W.
S. Van Dyke’s sterling direction, it jells all the cross-sections into a surefire cinematic entertainment of above par proportions.”

+ + Variety p5 O 21 '36

DEVIL ON HORSEBACK. Grand national 67min S 15 '36

Cast: Lili Damita. Fred Keating. Del
Cumspan

Director: Crane Wilbur

Filmed in Hirlcolor. "The story shows the ‘dumb beat caballero in Mejico’ kidnapa a prismador, and adorns a mezzanine and hoos in his mountain lair, despite the pink-wasy opposition of her American boyfriend. The film is never below her mind, and in the end goes back to the United States.” Hollywood Reporter

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A, Y & C: poor.”

Parents’ M p46 Ja '37

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"While the plot is ancient and the songs a bit sour, this color production contains many beautiful scenes.”

+ + News-Wk p33 O 10 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"The new Hirlcolor process adds considerably to this musical melodrama of Latin America, the film lacking only a real box office name to make it suitable for first-runs everywhere.
Action, romance and generous comedy also enliven an otherwise routine Western, but it is the gorgeous outdoor shots in soft greens, blues and orange that will bring in the most favorable word-of-mouth publicity. Family.”

+ + + Box Office p31 O 10 '36

"It is a musical melodrama with wide variety of ingredients aimed at popular appeal.”

+ Film Daily p9 S 30 '36

"A well-meant attempt at colorful Mexican romance in brilliant color and songs, but it does not quite come off. It is largely reminiscence of the Day of the Dead" but it’s far below that standard in color and casting. . . .
Strong box office names in the leads might have lifted the production above the B line, but Lili
Damita is so badly miscast that the director’s intention to capture her beauty of face and hair and the glory of Hirlcolor results in nothing more than a demonstration that her hair is title and her face white. Keating has little to do but look wise and dispiritedly fill the part of a jealous lover.”

— Hollywood Reporter p4 O 5 '36

+ + + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; Exceptionally Poor
DIMPLES. 20th century-Fox 79 min O 16 '36

Cast: Shirley Temple, Frank Morgan, Helen Westley, Robert Kent

Director: William A. Seiter

Music & lyrics: Jimmy McHugh, Ted Koehler

Music director: Louis Silvers

"The story is laid in the New York of 1850, when actors were social outcasts and the stage production of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' was the sensation of the year. Shirley is the grand-daughter of Professor Eustace Appleby, a broken-down actor of the day who lives by his wife's hand, her hands, and petty larceny."

Hollywood Reporter

---

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A, Y & C: disappointing. Only fairly, good."

Christian Century p126 N 1 '36

"Shirley is her own winsome self and very entertaining in her new songs and dances although the story is not one of her best. Family, Adults & 8-15: good."

Calif Cong of Parents & Hearers

"Family."

Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Shirley Temple is excellent as Little Eva: but the finest characterizations are those of Helen Westley and Frank Morgan. Family: but mature for children. Good."

DAR

"An absurd story, labored and far-fetched, which, despite elaborate settings, all but submerges the little star and a distinguished cast. The dubious ethics of this least attractive of the Shirley Temple vehicles make it suitable only for juvenile audiences."

Nat Soc of New England Women

"Wholesome in value in the main, it is negative in ethical contribution. Family."

S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"It's a good deal of a story and a clever grouping of many kinds of types. Best, of course, are the new and very clever songs and dances, of which we have enough of variation from her previous triumphs to keep entertainment values at their highest. Family."

Mrs T. G. Winter

Fox W Coast Bul O 10 '36

"While the film is built around the talented little star, the large-welched cast makes worthy contributions, with Frank Morgan and Helen Westley outstanding."

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 236

"The picture has real charm, although the story is slight and serves chiefly as a vehicle to display the abilities of the starlet."

S. M. Mulren

Motion Pic & Family p4 O 15 '36

"Good. Family."

Motion Pic Guide D '36

"Obviously it is impossible to make all pictures featuring Shirley Temple equally good, but this one is disappointing. The story is below par, and Shirley herself though expert as ever in singing and dancing, and enthralling with her glowing personality, is not quite the charming unaffected child we have learned to love. Perhaps the picture would be more enjoyable if Shirley's followers had not been taught to expect better entertainment. Adolescents, then, children, will passable."

+ + Motion Pic R p5 O '36

"With its setting of old New York before the Civil War, some good atmospheric background and a remarkable charm and talent of the delectable little star, this improbable story is never for one moment real or convincing. Family & Junior media."

Nat Council of Jewish Women O 1 '36

"Splendid opportunities are given to present the talents of the child star. General patronage."

+ Nat Legion of Decency O 15 '36

"A, Y & C: excellent."

Parents' p32 D '36

"Family."

Sel Motion Pic p4 N 1 '36

"Family."

Wkly Guide O 17 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The story... shows up the immense versatility of Shirley. If some of her many emotional scenes seem a little forced, she more than makes up for them by her dancing, which is crisp, competent and assured."

M. E. P. Boston Transcript p7 O 11 '36

"Family."

Christian Science Monitor p15 O 17 '36

"I would advise your seeing [Shirley's] previous picture again. I can not recall its story, but I am sure it can not be as poor as the new one. I venture the opinion that Darryl is not doing right by our Shirley, that he is failing to develop her full value as one of his company's stars. He persists in presenting her as an entertainer child carrying the full weight of her pictures by revealing each time her full set of tricks. The fact that she is an accomplished actress, not merely a hoover and singer, does not seem to have occurred to Shirley's producer. She can do anything worse than to make one impatient to see her in something more worthy of her talents."

+ + Hollywood Spec p18 O 10 '36

"There are a lot of prominent players in the background of the Temple antics, but what chance is there for them? Even my favorite exponent of the comic profession, Mr. Step-in Fetchit, is buried beneath the Temple supercuteness. If your weakness is Shirley Temple, enjoy your evening's entertainment."

2 (stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p36 N 7 '36

"Acting has been wisely substituted for antics throughout most of the new Shirley Temple photoplay... After a series of vehicles in which the favorite child of our day was rapidly becoming a rather dreadful pint-size version of a night-club entertainer she gets the chance again to display her genuine and remarkable artistry. With excellent assistance from Frank Morgan, Helen Westley and her other supporting players, she achieves an appealing and entertaining characterization in a pleasant screen drama."

Howard Barnes + N Y Herald Tribune pl0 O 10 '36

"Shirley put on a good show for her fans, rewarding their enthusiasm with her usual flashy Step-in Fetchit, is buried beneath the Temple supercuteness. If your weakness is Shirley Temple, enjoy your evening's entertainment."

2 (stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p36 N 7 '36

"Acting has been wisely substituted for antics throughout most of the new Shirley Temple photoplay... After a series of vehicles in which the favorite child of our day was rapidly becoming a rather dreadful pint-size version of a night-club entertainer she gets the chance again to display her genuine and remarkable artistry. With excellent assistance from Frank Morgan, Helen Westley and her other supporting players, she achieves an appealing and entertaining characterization in a pleasant screen drama."

Howard Barnes + N Y Herald Tribune pl0 O 10 '36

"Shirley put on a good show for her fans, rewarding their enthusiasm with her usual flashy Step-in Fetchit, is buried beneath the Temple supercuteness. If your weakness is Shirley Temple, enjoy your evening's entertainment."

2 (stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p36 N 7 '36
DIMPLES—Continued

the Bill Robinson manner early in the film and is cune—the very word—in the petticoats, but-tom shoes and sprightly deportment of the swift.
her Little Eva performance is shameless bathos, and so is the love song she sings with her and which turns about the suffering neck of Mr. Morgan." F. S. Nugent

1 + N Y Times p21 O 10 '36

That amazingly incredible youngster, Shirley Temple, who justly commands the affection of disarminging young and old with her winning personality and remarkable talent and so all who adore this wonderful young girl (and who doesn't) have better rush right over to the Roxy and see 'Dimples,' in which Miss Temple is at her best. Miss Temple has a grand time singing, dancing, making wisecracks, weeping, keeping her grandmother out of trouble and patching up lovers' quarrels. So grand a time, indeed, that it becomes infectious, and you enjoy it almost as much as she does. Frank Morgan does a perfectly swell job—as, indeed, he always does—as the light-fingered Professor.

Mr. Westley is superb as Morgan, and the young lovers are played well enough by Miss Byron and Mr. Kent," William Boehnel.

+ N Y World Telegram p6a O 10 '36

"Not, probably, her greatest work, yet up to her standard, and rich with interpretative values and undercurrents, 'Dimples' must delight the heart and boy. Of that, positively this is a film you can't afford to miss,"
John Mosher.

+ New Yorker p56 O 17 '36

"Another reason for hosannas from the Shirley Temple worshipers. This time the little girl gets big helping hands from Frank Morgan and Helen Westley.

News-Wk p29 O 17 '36

"The boys who write Shirley Temple stories have a tough job to find anything new. . . .
Usually Shirley is all-sufficient for any picture, but this time she has grand competition—or rather help—in Frank Morgan and Helen Westley. . . . Annually Johnson has another feather for her cap," Bob Wagner.

+ Script p10 O 31 '36

"Cinematress Temple's public, still bigger than that of any adult cinematress, should be delighted by this pro-Civil War period piece directed by William Seiter." +

+ Time p64 O 19 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This picture could be reviewed in two words
—Shirley Temple. That's all that showmen must know to establish that it brings the same high percentage of entertainment, popularity and revenue-grabbing possibilities that have featured all of the recent 'Temple toons.' Family.

+ Box Office p27 O 3 '36

Canadan Moving Pict Digest p6 O 31 '36

"Shirley Temple's new vehicle has all the ingredients that make for a box-office natural.
Her dances, as staged by Bill Robinson, highlight the picture. There are a number of them; they are wholesale, and calculated to that distinctive Temple touch, and they are well spaced in the picture. Besides, 'Dimples' shows a greater assurance in her acting and in her lines and she still retains all her childish charm."

+ Film Daily p7 S 26 '36

"Another topnotch Shirley Temple vehicle that will be sure-fire with everyone everywhere, which means a box office sideline from top to toe, is here to stay. The picture has her best features of previous pictures and adds
a new one or two in a neatly tailored story backed by this happily conceived idea and help. The direction of William A. Seiter does extremely well by the story and keeps Shirley at her most natural best, capturing also something of a Dickens flavor throughout, an effect that is aided by the admirable period sets."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 S 23 '36

"With several songs, excellent dancing, this will do for 'Dimples' the business, which means plenty. Estimate: top Temple."

+ Phila Exhibitor p37 G 15 '36

"Exhibitors have no need to worry about this one.
It is in full line to match the grosses of the recent line of Shirley Temple releases, but it won't be due to the fact that 'Dimples' is sold, expertly fashioned entertainment. It's anything but that. All that the production does is closely follow the pattern set from "way back for the younger set. This one is not a mere show of nerve but as high a spectacle as it comes to jerking tears, dancing, singing or bringing true love together.

FILM REVIEW

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 23 '36

"Filled with proved and established entertainment for the vast Shirley Temple audience,
'Dimples' again hits the sure box-office sock formula. In song and dance the Temple troupers shows definite progress, especially in the tap routines staged by Bill Robinson.
She does new intricacies with a precision and verve which will delight to those to whom this phase of the youngster's gifts seems most promising. Picture gives the Temple spotlight most of the way, but supporting roles are not so well coordinated as in some previous offerings."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 23 '36

DODSWORTH. Goldwyn-United artists 90min
S 15 '36
Cast: Walter Huston Ruth Chatterton.
Paul Lukas. Mary Astor. David Niven
Director: William Wyler
Based on the novel of the same title by Sinclair Lewis and the play by Sidney Howard.
"Dodsworth [is] a rugged American whose business has been his life and who is un-spoil of success. Married for twenty years, he has a grown daughter and a wife whose obsession is a mad dash for the long life and social adventure before it is too late." (Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: excellent; Y and C: entirely too mature."

Christian Century p147 S 4 '36

"Excellent. Mature & 14-18." DAR

+ Fox W Coast Bul O 3 '36

"[It is] a worthy interpretation of Sinclair Lewis's notable story. . . . A handsomely mounted picture, understandably directed, which will appeal to adult audiences. Adults: worthwhile; 14-18: mature; 8-14: no."

"Excellent. Mature & 14-18." DAR

"An excellent and engrossing rendering of Sinclair Lewis's significant story—one of those pictures that affects one like a cross section of actual people living today and grips one because it shows not only the outer events of their lives but the chances that go on inside.

+ Fox W Coast Bul O 10 '36

"'Dodsworth,' the pinnacle of distinguished screen entertainment, is a most admirable adaptation of the Sinclair Lewis novel. A truly great picture."

+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)

This is a story of real people, shown as they really are. The irony of the original has not been lost, and is pointed by clever and witty dialogue. Walter Huston has one of his best features of previous pictures and adds
a new one or two in a neatly tailored story backed by this happily conceived idea and help. The direction of William A. Seiter does extremely well by the story and keeps Shirley at her most natural best, capturing also something of a Dickens flavor throughout, an effect that is aided by the admirable period sets."

+ Mo Film Bul p172 O '36

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
Reviewed by H. M. Le Sourd
Motion Pict & Family p6 N 15 '36

"Excellent; Adults & young adults."
+ + Motion Guide p33 '36

"Sometimes stage plays are translated into the medium of the cinema so successfully that they lose none of the glamour of the more pedestrian appeal of the films. 'Dodsworth' seems especially true of 'Dodsworth.' Too bitter and sardonic in theme for youthful appreciation, yet it has an appeal for mature audiences because of the splendid adaptation and high production values. Adolescents, 12-15; too mature; children, 3-12; no interest."
+ Motion Pict R p6 O '36

"This outstanding drama with its universal appeal, fine cast, expert direction and tense, absorbing story proves an excellent version of the well known stage play. Family."
+ Nat Council of Jewish Women O 7 '36

"Objection; divorce is the solution of the plot. This classification has been made strictly on the basis of moral values contained in the film."
+ Nat Legion of Decency O 1 '36

"A: excellent; Y: too mature; C: no interest."
+ Parents' M p32 D '36

"Mr. Howard's sure dramatic touch, combined with an effective cast and a universal problem, have resulted in a good movie. Mary Astor, Paul Lukas, the Bay of Naples, Mt. Vesuvius, the fountains in the Place de la Concorde in Paris—everybody and everything in the entire piece does a good job. But better than the cast is Walter Huston as Sam Dodsworth, looking as if he had been born into the part. Ernestine Taggart."
+ Schofield p17 N 31 '36

"The dialogue, sophisticated, clever and witty, deserves special mention. One of the season's exceptional films. Adults & young people."
+ + Sel Motion Pict p9 0 1 '36

"A fine study of two types of Americans splendidly acted and impeccably produced. Mature."
+ Wkly Guide S 26 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Samuel Goldwyn has rung the bell. No motion picture has challenged as much as Sam Dodsworth, as impersonated by Walter Huston, has been seen in a film. This production is surely one of the year's best and the estimation of many. It is impossible to say too much in praise of this contribution, for it is so far, from the slightest nonsensicality."
Mordaunt Hall
+ + Boston Transcript p4 O 19 '36

"It certainly does stand out among the rank of everyday movies as a drama of quality and sincere feeling. It is real, where so much that comes to the screen touches reality not at all... Ruth Chatterton, as Fran Dodsworth, the first satisfactory role she has had in a considerable period of time, makes the most of it. If her playing has a fault it is the pitiless stressing of her character's cheap and easy selfishness. 'Dodsworth' is obviously not a play for children and that is why any reason but that the issues would not be clear to adolescent minds, but for those beyond that category, this should prove a wholly satisfactory evening."
Laura Elston
+ Canadian M p36 N '36

"This is a film transcription of more than passable proportions and should hold the suspense of the play has been lost through the film technique of parallel sequences. Adults."
+ + + O Pict R O 17 '36

"[It] gives as excellent an account of itself in film form as it did when it first captured a vast audience as a best-selling novel, and then as a play that ran for almost two years on the Broadway stage. If anything, the motion picture gains over the stage production in photographic display of color, richness and variety which is the novel's European setting."
J. P. Cunningham
+ + + Commonweal p532 O 2 '36

"To Samuel Goldwyn and Merritt Huieburl must go the credit for one of the greatest pictures. Sam paid $160,000 for the rights to the story. To justify the investment, a great picture had to be made and Sam saw and Sam saw that such a picture was made."
+ + Hollywood Spec p8 S 26 '36

"Samuel Goldwyn's tasteful, conscientious production of Mr. Lews's novel avoids all the pathetic trivialities of the novels Dodsworth's mad efforts to taste life, and all the bitterness of Sam Dodsworth's disillusionments. Walter Huston plays Sam simply and humanly. Ruth Chatterton contributes one of the best performances of her career. Mary Astor has never been better in pictures than as the other woman. William Wyler's direction is both restrained and admirable."
(3½ stars) Beverly Hills
Liberty p13 O 31 '36

"Dodsworth" [is] a film which uses the best of the novel's structure, a shape of the play and emerges as a winning production."
+ + Lit Digest p20 O 3 '36

Reviewed by Mark Van Doren

"If Mary Astor had done nothing else she could call herself an actress for her look of radiant bliss in the last thirty feet of film. [It is] a look that friends' admiration on the street as happy as Mr. Huston. Miss Chatterton... plays an unsympathetic part with great strength, but it is Mr. Huston's rusticated figure that builds the success. There are dull moments—but none when he is visible. Altogether a most happy picture."
+ + New Statesman & Nation p672 O 31 '36

"Strength lies definitely on the side of the performances—Huston as Sam Dodsworth, Ruth Chatterton as Fran, Ouspenskaya as Mrs. Doddsworth, contributing an outstanding characterization as the Baroness Von Obersdorf. The Howard-Lewis play is to our mind pretty small potatoes. Film estimate: you're doing all right."
New Theatre p34 N '36

"In its screen reincarnation 'Dodsworth' is a handsomely provocative and sometimes emotionally compelling play. At the risk of seeming to cavil, it must be added that the film, for all its striking visual elements, is a yes-and-no offering... There is a diffusion of interest in episodic events. Mr. Huston is as gravely intense, as (him)self, and every moment of his presence is a highlight, but he was behind footlights, but Ruth Chatterton fails rather badly in realizing the universal feminine implications of Mr. Dodsworth's. The chief difficulty with Miss Chatterton's portrayal is that she makes the hero's wife so completely contemptible that her hold over him, even after infidelities with an international financier in Biarritz, appears ridiculous... For the most part Mr. Wyler has brought the Howard scenario to the screen with pace and distinction, linking the fragments together neatly as the action shuts back and forth across two continents... 'Dodsworth,' on the whole, is an excellent screen entertainment, which falters because it is not a perfect picture but it is distributed nor sustained." Howard Barnes
+ + N Y Herald Tribune p19 S 21 '36

"Hollywood can once again be proud. 'Dodsworth,' it is, if anything, just a shade better than 'Dodsworth,' the play; and it was a grand play. It's a fine picture, distinguished by acting of the highest order, direction by Sidney Howard's intelligent, resourceful adaptation of his own work. 'Dodsworth' is still another of this season's films that is a must."
Eileen Creelman
+ + + N Y Sun p20 S 21 '36

"Mr. Howard, who must be considered Mr. Lewis's screen reincarnation of the immortal tragedian, has adapted his play to the screen with the seri-
DODSWORTH—Continued

outhiss of an author who has studied his work long. Miss Astor has the wisdom to accept his judgment; William Wyler, the director, has had the skill to execute it in cinematic film terms, and a gifted cast has been able to bring the whole alive to our complete satisfaction... [It is] a work which already has the flavor of the stature of an Ameri can classic. The film version has done more, certainly, than the Lewis's Chatterton narrative had attained elegance
and character,
and
the performance
and good talk." F. S. Nugent + + +
N Y Times p33 S 24 '36

"Here is a brilliantly acted, thoroughly absorbing film of the first order. I could, I suspect, tell you at length of the film's ex cellent acting by Walter Huston, Ruth Chatter ton and Mary Astor, of the superior screen transliteration Sidney Howard has done of the fine direction by William Wyler and the quite magnificent production Mr. Goldwyn has brought off. But why waste words? I will simply advise you to see it at once and enjoy its many virtues to the full." William Boehnel
+ + +
Cleveland Plain Dealer p23 S 24 '36

"It would have been an inexiguous accident had Walter Huston's 'Dods worth' not been fine. But there hasn't been any accident, and the Huston 'Dods
worth' should please people who are interested in people who didn't.

Paul Lukas and Odetty Myrtle have worked hard to give us the Lewis story and the screen idea. Apparently, Miss Chatterton alone had opinions of her own. I feel that Miss Chatterton has looked upon things and seen them in a different light... The result is confusing again and again... With everybody else simply trying to embellish Sinclair Lewis's idea, Miss Chatterton has managed to blur only occasional scenes with her majestic performances and to make the whole picture serve, really, more as Sinclair Lewis's concep tion than as Ruth Chatterton's." John Mosher
+ New Yorker p77 O 3 '36

"Crowded houses last week proved that Miss Chatterton, who has been so successful on Broadway, and Mr. Astor still has plenty of supporters. Both actresses register their best performances of recent years. Miss Chatterton is directed by William Wyler. 'Dods worth' is a film to break a date for—and its ending will leave most date breakers grin ingly content." + + News-Wk p34 O 3 '36

"Will Wyler's direction is nothing less than superb. Not one 'movie cliché' or 'sure-fire' gag. Such naturalness has rarely been seen on the screen since Lubitsch and Wagner.
+ +
Script p10 O 3 '36

"'Dods
worth' is a very well-made and well-acted film, with an essentially trivial subject... Mr. Walter Huston is admirable as the unloved and unculcured husband. Like 'These Three,' another realistic film produced by Mr.
Goldwyn, 'Dods worth' is a little marred by an almost incessant music, a relic of the small or erchestra which used to accompany silent films.

No one, I think, will fail to enjoy 'Dods worth,' in spite of its too limited and personal plot, the sense it leaves behind of a very ex ceptional and unexpected Korczak Street vacuum flask. Naturalness is so rare on the screen that it is difficult not to over-praise any picture which possesses it, but more than naturalness is needed for deep enjoyment." Graham Greene
+ Spec p908 N 6 '36

"That terrifically engaging study of a re tired first prize rambler which has left at last reached the screen, where we are in clined to believe it should have all been the time. Perfectly first-class dra ma, with finds means of improvement, we don't know the word for it, except "Dods worth.'... This, see think, is excellent Dods worth.'
+ +
Stage p14 N 36

"[It is] directed with a proper understanding of its values by William Wyler, splendidly cast and brilliantly directed." +
Time p31 S 28 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A superlatively fine picture. Flawless in every department, this Samuel Goldwyn pro duction will be a smash hit from Broadway to Main Street. Adults..." +
Box Office p19 S 26 '36

"The picture is decidedly one for a mature audience, and it is not offensive in any way, but would have no appeal for the juvenile mind. Already established as a box-office champion in the big cities, it should draw equally well in small towns. This picture is Box-Office..." +
Canadian Moving Pict Digest p8 O 17 '36

"There is a Class A picture that do excellent business at every box-office. It has ingredients that will appeal to all types of audiences, and ranks with the best of the Samuel Goldwyn offerings. The picture follows the play faithfully and the screenplay is by Sidney Howard, who dramatized Sinclair
Lewis's famous novel." +
Film Daily p3 S 19 '36

"Samuel Goldwyn triumphs with this superlative production of Sinclair Lewis's noteworth
t-best-seller as translated to the stage and to the screen by Sidney Howard. A distinguished aggregation of talent contributes to making this penetrating study of late married life a vivid dramatic document. It will win the unprinted plaudits of a very wide audience and, with the names of the author, the book, the play, the dramatist and the players, and the box-office returns, especially in class houses." +
Hollywood Reporter p3 S 16 '36

"Motion Pict Daily p10 S 17 '36

"Literate drawing room drama enlivened by nice settings, excellent action, this is best for the older folks, class trade, but a production that will find approval everywhere. Estimate:
well done throughout..." +
Phila Exhibitor p38 O 1 '36

"'Dods
worth' is a superb motion picture which yields artistic quality any box office in one elegantly put together package. It rates maximum enthusiasm. It is one of the best pictures of the year for adults and a golden borealis over the producer's name. Word-of mouth should be terrific and for that reason exhibitors might well sing it out for special babying..." +
Variety p17 S 30 '36

"'[It] seems certain to gross handsonly from the keys down to the subsequents on the strength of its many entertainment elements plus marquee allure. For several of the players it spells new tops. Walter Huston is Dods worth to the core... Ruth Chatterton adds new laurels to her list of screenings. To many, including this reviewer, this will seem her best performance to date. It contributes a performance so vivid and appealing and of such fine artistic merit that she seems now to be just coming into full screen maturity."..."
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 16 '36

DON'T TURN 'EM LOOSE. RKO 66min Ag 28 '36

Cast: Lewis Stone, James Gleason, Bruce
Cabet. Louise Latimer, Betty Grable

Director: John M. Strodel

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews
of this film

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Medio
~cre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: waste of time; Y & C: no."

Christian Century p148 O 28 '36

"The result is a gruesome film made all the more harrowing by Bruce Cabot's realistic performance as Ruthless Killer No. 1, whom nothing can and nobody seems to wish to stop. Suitability: adults."

Mq Film Bul p150 S 30 '36

"Fair. Adults."

— Motion Pict Guide D 36

"Since the question of parole is a timely and vital issue, it is a pity that the story was not made more plausible. . . . The melodrama becomes almost farcical. Good acting on the part of the leading characters barely redeem it. Although in the end the wages of sin is death, a discriminating audience will find the play more dramatic than convincing. Adolescents, 12-16: exciting and too melodramatic; carnivals, 12-16: too tame."

— Motion Pict R S 36

"Mature."

Nat Bd of R M S 36

"A and Y; more dramatic than convincing; C: too tense."

Parents' M p12 N '36

"A tense drama, vividly acted, which holds the attention and presents a needed and downright message without mincing matters. Mature."

Sel Motion Pict p4 O 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"As a grim, occasionally humorous treatment of gangsters and gunfire, it comes as a speedily told and smartly enacted bit of roughhouse. (2½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p51 O 3 '36

"Don't Turn 'Em Loose has warrant for being as an editorial against the lax and sentimentalized activities of parole boards in general, and as such is valid and authentic stuff. It is also exciting melodrama. If one considers it as an essay in creative characterization and construction it is something else again. Just what it may be that makes Mr. Cabot attractive to the cash customers of the world's cinema theaters is, unhappily, lost upon this chronicler of dramatic fatailities. What he knows about acting would be scant credit to the man. Citizen of Verona is an amateur charity performance of 'Romeo,' and his personal beauty can scarcely launch ships or fire topless towers. 'Don't Turn 'Em Loose' is fairish run-of-the-mine melodrama."

Lucius Beebe

— N Y Herald Tribune p19 S 24 '36

"It is the parole system which the picture pretends to deal with. If you believe there actually is an underlying social purpose behind its excitements then you should be of a mind today to toss all parole boards before a grand jury. . . . Mr. Cabot's performance is properly icy; Lewis Stone as the father is a dignified and relentless instrument of the gods. . . . For the record, it may be listed as a fast-moving, easily told piece of crime fiction but it leaves in its wake naked system, as such, pretty much as it found it."

F. S. Nugent

N Y Times p20 S 25 '36

"A bargain in horror films, 'Don't Turn 'Em Loose' not only permits you to ponder on the ills of the parole system and study a psychopathic case, but also wallow in thrills that will keep you on tenterhooks from beginning to end."

William Boehnel

N Y World-Telegram p24 S 25 '36

"(It is) a slight dissertation, with plenty of gunfire and the problem. John Mosher

— New Yorker p70 O 3 '36

News-Wk p35 O 3 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Strong gangster picture hitting parole system carries suspense and punch for action fans."

— Film Daily p11 S 24 '36

"Don't Turn 'Em Loose' will probably prove disappointing at the box office, . . . Stone turns in an even performance. At times Cabot lays on the menace a bit too heavily."

— Variety p17 S 30 '36

DRAEGERMAN COURAGE. Warner-First national 60min O 24 '36

Cast: Jean Muir, Barton MacLane, Henry O'Neill, Robert Barrat, Addison Richards

Director: Louis King

See issue of September 25, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Commendably restrained direction keeps all shots free of hysterical horror which might easily have marred the entertainment value of this excellently photographed and properly focused melodrama. Adolescents, 12-16: very tense and harrowing; children, 8-12: no, too much realism, story unsuitable."

— Motion Pict S 4 S 36

"A and Y; realistic and good; C: too tense."

Parents' M p42 N '36

"Mature."

Sel Motion Pict p4 O 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

Reviewed by Laura Eleton

Canadian M p40 D 36

"[It is] played in a clipped, terse manner, and builds to a taut degree of suspense. . . . Though the ultimate outcome of the story is seldom in doubt, there is about the whole story a swift undercurrent of danger that gives the picture a gruesomely fascinating air." (3 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p51 O 3 '36

DUSTY ERMINE. Twickenham 75min

Cast: Ronald Squire, Jane Baxter, Arthur Macrae, Anthony Bushell

Director: Bernard Vorhaus

Based on the play of the same title by Neil Grant. Filmed in England. "Plot concerns the return from prison of a skilful forger into the home of his brother, a noted, but briefless, High Court barrister. Young nephew of the ex-convict inherits his talent and joins an international gang in the Alps. Uncle scents the trail and, unwilling that the boy shall follow in his footsteps, tries to save him. When cornered, he takes the blame upon himself and returns to jail." (Variety)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The director has imposed a good rhythm both of mood and of tempo. Altogether, this film is good material well handled. Suitability: adults & adolescents."

— Mq Film Bul p147 S 30 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"An amusingly contrived crook thriller, delightfully staged in the Austrian Alps. Handled with originality and a sense of characterization, the production puts across the haziest of incidents with verve and a bid for realism."

— Hollywood Reporter p3 S 22 '36

— Motion Pict Daily p5 S 22 '36

/+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; ——— Exceptionally Poor
EAST MEETS WEST. Gaumont British 72min S 5 '36
Cast: George Arliss. Lucie Mannheim. Godfrey Tearle. Romney Brent Director: Herbert Mason
Dialogue film made in England. "Arliss plays a small oriental country which has a harbor coveted by both England and Japan. The wily potentate realizes this and plays one against the other with such cunning that he secures a treaty with both countries, plus a sum of money from both, and with it including it was an excellent deal for their respective governments." (Variety)

Audience Suitability Ratings
"Characterization now offered by Arliss recalls the wily Oriental he created in The Green Goddess' just clearly enough for one to make unforgettable characters. . . . Romany Brent. Lucy Mannheim, and Godfrey Tearle assist Mr. Arliss in making the creakily credible, but for the public at large it will remain merely another finely etched portrait in that actor's varied gallery. The story has a distinctly adult flavor."
+ — America p120 N 7 '36
"Mediocre. Mature & 14-18." DAR

"Small scale pageantry is introduced to color a shabby story of the romantic variety. The characters are over-dramatized and weakly portrayed, with the exception of the polished work of George Arliss. . . . The story lacks novelty and the direction is poorly handled. Adults & young people. E. Coast Picture Committee."

Fox W Coast Bul O 3 '36
"In this colorful, English-made picture of intrigue, George Arliss excellently portrays a clever Sultan on the far East, who plots slight, but the direction and cast are good. Exciting. Mature. Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs."

"A pretentious melodrama centered about an unpleasant triangle story which a large cast and exotic settings fail to make other than labored and unreal. Mature." Nat Soc of New England Women

Fox W Coast Bul O 10 '36
"This British made picture, featuring George Arliss, fails to give the fine actor opportunity to demonstrate his dramatic ability and for that reason will disappoint many, the It is well photographed and pretentiously produced. Family."
+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 30 '36
"This is not one of George Arliss' better vehicles. . . . The unsavory marital relations of an English squander and his wife are a prominent part of the plot, and swilling of liquor to the natives brings about the unpleasant and unconvincing denouement. Adolescents, 12-16: not recommended. S-31 '36."
— Motion Pic R p6 N '36
"An ideal vehicle for George Arliss. Adults."
+ Nat Legion of Decency O 1 '36
"A & Y: colorful oriental drama; C: little interest."
Parents' M p32 D '36
"Colorful and full of movement, with Arliss in the crafty sort of part he does so well. The cast is good. Family."
+ Wky Guide S 26 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
Reviewed by Laura Elston
Canadian M p17 N '36
"(It is) a slight but pleasantly ornate pageant picture, and one that is handled with care. Adults & young people."
+ Christian Science Monitor p15 N 28 '36

"The results sadly lack success, chiefly because of the shabby story, over-dramatization and unpolished acting. We doubt if even Mr. Arliss was deeply impressed as he set about to express his rare talents in the portrayal of the suave, oriental potentate."
J. P. Cunningham
— Commonweal p104 N 20 '36
"This British made picture offers an interesting study for students of politics, but the structure is weakly handled, and in fact it includes only the first principles of screen entertainment. Yet it is honestly and ambitiously made, well directed, it is his misfortune that he acted in a thoroughly satisfactory manner. As a motion picture it merely is an enlightening demonstration of what not to do on the screen."
— Hollywood Spec p10 10 '36

"Mr. Arliss gives a misleading vitality to the plot's mechanical motivations, for he makes the rajah an inscrutable, shrewd student of Western weaknesses. . . . The rest of the acting is just passable. But who cares? There's Mr. Arliss' two stars.)

Liberty p44 O 31 '36
Manchester Guardian p13 D 1 '36
"[Arliss] misses no chance to be pompous, flawlessly polite and somewhat boring, though for his fans his mannered performance and familiarly impressive presence may be a treat."

Marguerite Tazelaar
— N Y Herald Tribune p14 O 31 '36
"What remains to be discussed is whether it was worth Gaumont British's while, after all, to record on film the absurd hodgepodge of love triangles, rum-running, diplomatic intrigue and mob hysteria. . . . Had the producers acted with more telling on their story, some of the imperial sweep of 'Lives of a Bengal Lancer' might have been at the disposal of the interested, but 'East Meets West' seems to be a parochial affair, centering about a river of the size of the Gomauus Canal. . . . A sizable cast plays the thing rather badly, for the most part, with a deal of posturing and saalaming and far from being bandyng of diplomatic obliquities." J. T. M.
— N Y Times p24 O 31 '36

"'East Meets West' is a minor Arliss affair, . . . He is overwhelmingly polite throughout, and, in fact, the film is a little weighty down with those Eastern ceremonial. There isn't much to be weighed down, either."
— John Mosher
New Yorker p90 N 7 '36

"George Arliss goes back to his favorite role—the smirkling diplomat. Arliss makes the best of a shoddy story. His supporting cast is weak in the knows."
— News-Wk p25 S 26 '36

"Mr. George Arliss again appears as host of a fancy-dress ball and does his standard performance of the wily Disraelli, this time in turban and oriental robes. . . . Eagerly attempting to represent his success achieved by what is often called Archer's 'Green Goddess,' the current excursion into the hoko-political machinations of an eastern potentate lacks the character, humor and vivid spleen of the earlier piece. . . . Lucie Mannheim explores the theory that all European-trained minxies are into wines, wares and amply discloses that ill-treated wives, east of Suez, suffer not so much from hubby's wickedly practiced St. Vitus's dance of the eyebrows.'
— Herb Sterne
+ Script p10 O 10 '36

++ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — + Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor
"There is a plot, but the action and suspense are lacking in the Moslem countries and aphoristic Englishmen. You've seen it all before."

Stage p41 N '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Returning to familiar ground, George Arliss gives us one of the Oriental characterizations at which he excels in a super-thriller filled with color, drama, and suspense. The brilliant actor's portrayal of a wily Oriental rajah is here matched by another from Romney Brent whose performance is also sufficiently effective. Family."

Box Office p27 O 3 '36

"Playing his part with tongue-in-cheek, George Arliss seems to be getting a lot of fun out of this extravaganza. The East, for even in the most heart-breaking scenes, the smug smirk never leaves his oily countenance. The story development strains rather unnecessarily on credulity at times, but redeemed by a satisfying climax." + Hollywood Reporter p5 S 3 '36

"GB has spent many dollars on the show with melodramatic mob scenes. What the show will do, however, depends totally on the Arliss drama production. Color in aspect, is generally of a fair level, but Arliss is the main selling angle. Estimate: depends on Arliss."

Phila Exhibitor p55 O 1 '36

"George Arliss is all this one has to offer for the American market, and it's doubtful that even Arliss can accomplish much in its behalf. The star carries a role similar to his Rajah in 'The Green Goddess,' but the resemblance ends with the costume department's contribution. Story is melodramatic in old time manner and shot through with deep political intrigue whose significance may be clear in England, but is lost over here. There are several mob scenes, and the picture is first rate in the production way. But that doesn't get it to first base."

Variety p18 N 4 '36

EASY TO TAKE. Paramount 65min N 6 '36

Cast: Marsha Hunt, John Howard, Eugene Field, Richard Carle, Douglas Scott

Director: Glenn Tryon

"John Howard, a radio advisor to boys, is made guardian to the supposedly wealthy Douglas Scott, a spoiled brat of eleven. From the publicity that hits the papers, the boy's sister believes John is a fortune hunter and publicly slanders him. Instead of the girl and her family being so rich, they are actually broke and John is supporting them."

Film Daily

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Intimate views of a broadcasting station in action, amusing situations and wholesome color make this a good family entertainment. Family & junior matinee." Calif Cong of P's & Teachers

"About the only entertainment value in this production is the facial expression of Carl Switzer and his rendition of 'Love in Bloom.' A sequence of an amateur hour on the radio with junior artists is distasteful rather than amusing. Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs "Family, but mature for children. Mediocre."

DAR

"The whole is fresh and stimulating and the broadcast hour is outstanding and above the average."

S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bui N 14 '36

"[It is] a lightly amusing comedy... Satisfactory acting and direction. Family."

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 2 '36

"Although the theme is unusual and the story novel, the production is a laugh and moments of genuine entertainment, this film sadly droops to its climax... The direction is jerky, with humor poorly spaced. Family."

Nat Council of Jewish Women N 3 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency N 5 '36

"A. Y & C: poor."

Parents' M p46 Ja '37

Sel Motion Pict p5 D 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"This satire on radio had a good idea—but the thing doesn't jell very well. The humor poked at radio has its amusing moments here and there, but mostly the comedy drags along to the end. The cast is merely passable, we regret to report." (½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p16 D 5 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"An amateurish film which bears the stamp of hurry, production schedules and a careless script. Its story subject was handled disappointingly throughout, and what could have been an entertaining little satire turns out to be a hodge-podge of poorly developed situations. Family."

Box Office p27 O 24 '36

"This should make pleasing program fare. With a lot of juvenile stuff, its main appeal will be to the family trade. The most entertaining part of the picture is the [children's] radio show, in which Carl (Alfalfa) Switzer stands out with his suffering rendition of 'Love in Bloom' and little Patty Lou sings a western song and does a neat tap routine. The piece is a comedy drama, in which the plot, although formula, has been handled in an interesting manner."

Film Daily p8 O 20 '36

"Making all the customary allowances accorded the B product, this is still pretty sorry stuff, something that will make most fans regret they waited to see the second picture. With a pretty girl and a few comics in [the film] it looks [as if] the picture-makers should have gone home to town, but in its development the idea falls flatter than a butterfly under glass."

Hollywood Reporter p14 O 17 '36

"EASY to Take is obviously a program picture and although it has several good laughs, it will not rise above the level of mediocrity. It will sell its best value as a good relief on a dealer with a strong first line attraction... The story is a very obvious one that has been stretched out. Too far."

Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 17 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Estimate: for neighborhoods, twin bills."

Phila Exhibitor p33 N 1 '36

"Easy to Take is obviously a program picture and although it has several good laughs, it will not rise above the level of mediocrity. It will sell its best value as a good relief on a dealer with a strong first line attraction... The story is a very obvious one that has been stretched out. Too far."

Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 17 '36

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
ECSTASY. Eureka 85min
Cast: Hedy Kiesler. Jaromir Rogoz. Albert

Director: Gustav Machaty

A silent film produced in Czechoslovakia with "dubbed in" English dialogue. It is not to be confused with Ecstasy of Young Love. This film won the prize in the International Film Show in Italy last year. It was produced several years ago and was held by the Customs Department until recently. "When the passionate nature of a young wife finds no response in her cold, bodyless husband, she finds fulfillment in the arms of another man, thereby driving her husband to suicide." (Nat Legion of Decency)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"[The love] affair, accompanied by heavy-handed symbolism, is portrayed solely on the animal plane. 'Bestiality' would be a far more descriptive title than 'Ecstasy.' Condemned."

— Nat Legion of Decency My 21 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"It is certainly not the artistic triumph its advance acclaim would lead one to believe. But, if the film has no distinction in its playing, it is least an amusingly frank and sensuous pictorial record of a sexual theme. Indeed, so daring are some of the scenes that one wonders how they ever passed our usually rigid censorship... Despite the picture's artistic ambitions, however, it remains no more than a plodding celluloid aphrodisiac. Still, in its occasional good moments 'Ecstasy' has a memorable quality that makes it worth your while to sit through the long and drab portions." (2 stars)

Beverly Hills

Liberty p8 S 5 '36

"It appears in what is termed 'an uncensored version' to prove that it has little merit as propaganda in the cause of lechery. Pen- derously directed, given to the type of gingerbread symbolism Von Sternberg touted in The Salvation Hunters, the story unrelies as an art trifle that will offend no one but those who object to bad acting and slipshod craftsmanship."

Herb Sterne

Script p10 JI 25 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"'Ecstasy' offers a distinct tonic to art theather, a worthwhile and refreshing melodrama. It is superbly acted, superbly directed, exquisitely photographed. For run-of-mine houses, however, this Czechoslovakian picture is too sexual for customers seeking a picture tinged with the indelicate, if not actually lascivious, for the most part be disappointed."

+ — Phila Exhibitor p9 My 15 '36

ELLIS ISLAND. Invincible 85min N 5 '36

Cast: Donald Cook. Peggy Shannon. Jack LaRue. Joyce Compton

Director: Phil Rosen

Three immigrant bandits rob a bank of a million dollars and are sentenced to a ten year prison term. When they are released and about to be deported from Ellis Island they attempt to cover the funds they had hidden but are hindered by a government agent.

Trade Paper Reviews

"Although 'Ellis Island' is restricted by release to the neighborhoods, it deserves far better fate, both because it offers more in production values than the picture of its ilk, and because it is amusing and exciting screen fare. It ranks favorably with the good class B output from the majors... Obviously hokum, and actually faulty by way of holes in the story and too frequent coincidence, the picture has been given a tongue-in-the-cheek treatment with plenty of comedy relief to truly minimize its defects."

+ — Hollywood Reporter p3 N 25 '36

+ — Motion Pict Daily p5 N 30 '36

"Marked by some swift action and lively fun, 'Ellis Island' is full enough of comedy and thrills for the lower brackets on dual programs. Picture starts in a rather serious vein, but turns out to be attractively handled. 'When the gunman the butt of some amusing kidding.'"

+ — Variety (Hollywood) p5 N 25 '36

EMPTY SADDLES. Universal 85min D 20 '36

Cast: Buck Jones. Louise Brooks. Harvey Clark

Director: Lesley Selander

Based on the novel of the same title by Cherry Wilson. A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A somewhat unusual western story, packed with excitement, fast-paced dramatic action, mystery and adventure, as well as a bit of natural scenic effects are of exceptionally high quality."

Family. E Coast Preview Committee

+ — Film Weekly p11 N 21 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency N 5 '36

"A, Y & C: fair Western."

Parents' M p66 Ja '37

"Buck Jones handles a characteristic role in satisfactory fashion and the slight comedy and mild romance are well handled."

Sel Motion Pict p10 N 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Several new angles and Buck Jones' usual capable performance as a hard-riding, square-shooting son of the saddle makes this an above par offering in the Western class. Family."

+ — Box Office p27 O 24 '36

"This Buck Jones Western has some hard riding, shooting and some fistic encounters and it should prove satisfactory fare on the small screen. Buck looks great on his horse, 'Silver,' and he gives an all-round capable performance and his riding is obviously accomplished. He is interested in keeping the story interesting, but an involved scenario hinders him. The fact that there is no menace until late in the story retards the suspense until that time."

+ — Film Daily p3 O 17 '36

"This Buck Jones Western must be set below par because of a rambling and cluttery story that is almost menaceless until the last reel or two and then, in the final chase and battle, is confusing and inconclusive. An earnest attempt has been made to give first aid with touches of comedy, but even this is not always effective and it lacks suspense at loose ends too often. Buck has a large and devoted following that will forgive much, but he must beware of departing too far from the basic pattern."

— — Hollywood Reporter p3 O 14 '36

+ — Motion Pict Daily p7 O 19 '36

"With most of the punch at the end, Jones fans, however, should be satisfied."

+ — Phila Exhibitor p36 N 1 '36

"With a good story, plenty of hard riding, an abundance of shooting and a picturesque mountain locale, 'Empty Saddles' comes out as a Western with appeal to most of the audiences that like gallopers. The yarn has plenty of suspense, numerous spooky situations, a good love story and a spectacular climax. It is a western, the western to top a western dealer or fill out the action requirements of a mixed bill and leave the cash customers well satisfied."

+ — Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 14 '36

+ +: Exceptionally Good; +: Good; + —: Fair; — —: Mediocre; — —: Poor; — —: Exceptionally Poor
END OF THE TRAIL. Columbia 69min S 18 '36
Cast: Jack Holt. Louise Henry. Douglass Dumbrille
Director: Eric C. Kenton
Based on the novel Outlaws of Palouse by Zane Grey. A western melodrama of the days after the close of the Spanish-American War.

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A: trash; Y and C: no."
Christian Century p1374 O 14 '36
"Vile entertainment. Family."
+ (Christian Century) p34 S '36
"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency 01 '36
"A, Y & C: poor."
Parents' M p32 D '36

An exceptionally good Zane Grey Western laid in the period of the Spanish American War, that includes realistic scenes of the battle of San Juan Hill and the usual quota of cattle rustling, hard riding and thrilling adventure.

The direction is smooth, the photography excellent and the acting exceptionally good. Family.

+ + Sel Motion Pict p9 01 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"Superior Zane Grey Western. . . Direction, acting and photography are well above par. Family."
Christian Science Monitor p17 O 31 '36
"The producers have gone to great trouble in developing this Western yet the girl, evading stealing. . . For a simple, elemental evening in the theater—in fact, a very simple, elemental evening." (1 star) Beverly Hills Liberty p38 O 24 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"This Jack Holt vehicle finds the star in a fitting he-man role. Puckering two guns, a devastating right hand punch and a sense of humor, he hurries through danger with confidence and abandon that will exhilarate the most jaded of audiences."
Film Daily p3 O 31 '36
"Motion Pict Daily p6 S 18 '36
"Here is a Western on which to go to town. For the most part heavy drama, with some comedy intervals, ending with Holt heading toward the noose, End of the Trail should give patrons practically everything they are seeking."
Phil Exhibitor p54 O 1 '36
"One of the better Jack Holt Westerns. Contains some Spanish-American war stuff plus wild west drama, action, romance and laughs. Also, a couple of gay mess tunes. Holt and Quinn Williams make a good team, and Louise Henry is a charming love interest."
Variety p40 N 4 '36

EVERYTHING IS THUNDER. Gaumont British 69min O 1 '36
Cast: Constance Bennett, Douglass Montgomery, Oscar Homolka
Director: Sifton Rosser
Dialogue coincides in England. Based on the novel of the same title by Jocelyn Lee Hardy. A wartime tale of a Canadian officer's attempt from prison to Germany. He is picked up by a street waif who helps him escape from a detective who is following. The adventure, in love with the English, eventually allows them to go free and kill himself.

Audience Suitability Ratings
"(It) will put a strain, not only upon the nerves, but also the credulity of audiences. This type of film runs so much to a pattern, with the inevitable romance between two people whose countries are at war and the subsequent conflict of loyalties, that only the brightest direction can endow it with interest and suspense."
Less circumspect in the matter of ethics than Hollywood, the producers of this film have dragged in a suicide which has not even an excuse of dramatic necessity. Such a mock heroic conclusion adds years on this already aged plot. The picture is for adults." T. J. Fitzmorris
America p624 O 3 '36
"A: very poor; Y & C: useless."
Christian Science Monitor p17 O 25 '36

"There is an admirable dramatic quality to the production and while it suffers from a certain choppiness and the theme is not a novel one, the direction and acting leave nothing to be desired. Adults & young people." E Coast Preview Committee
Fox W Coast Bull O 3 '36

"The story of the escape of a British officer from a German prison camp and his encounter with a girl of the streets, who gives him shelter, has been told many times. The direction is somewhat choppy, numerous cutbacks obscure the development of the plot, and the ending is so abrupt that the picture seems unfinished. Adolescents, 12-16: no children, 8-12: no interest."
+ + Sel Motion Pict R p6 O 3 '36

"Mature."
Nat Bd of R M S '36

"Objectionable in part. Objection: suicide."
Nat Legion of Decency S 24 '36

"A: somewhat choppy spy story; Y: doubtful; C: no."
Parents' M p32 D '36

"Adults & young people."
Sel Motion Pict p9 O 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
Reviewed by Laura Elston
Canadian M p38 N '36

"Adults."
Christian Science Monitor p15 O 24 '36

"This came close to being a fine melodrama of the World War. . . . It misses by a considerable margin—but it does provide Constance Bennett with her best film role in several years. . . . This romance of the hunted prisoner and the prostitute is haunted by fear, but it will get you, thanks to Miss Bennett's vivid, moving performance. . . . The addition of Oscar Homolka and Albany Montgomery. The direction is excellent, for Milton Rosser catches the feeling of a war-filled city snared over with horror and terror, with blood and hunger." (2-1/2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p38 N 28 '36

"Constance Bennett is much too good for the streets of Berlin. Douglas Montgomery has an exciting time escaping from prison and is convincing in his amatory capture. Oscar Homolka plays an unremunerative part with suitable terseness. In all, exciting and entertaining stuff."
+ + New Statesman & Nation p257 Ag 22 '36

"Many a slipping Hollywood career has found the air of the London studios salubrious, but this over-seas melodrama does little to revitalize the fortunes of the two Americans who get top billing. A plain piece, it leans heavily on crude dramatics that cannot stand the strain. . . . Whatever possibilities the yarn possessed have been squandered by flagging production, inept dialogue and considerable overplaying by the cast."
Script p11 S 26 '36

"This English film is good entertainment, very ably directed and admirably acted by two of its three international stars. . . . As for Miss Constance Bennett it would be unfair to say much. I suspect that her blurred blonde performance can be laid to the account of our ined Board of Censors, who have imposed on Miss Bennett the complicated task of acting a prostitute without ever mentioning her profession. The film is very good entertainment of a kind, the kind that deals with disguises and pursuits and incredible resourcefulness, with policemen on the stairs and hunted men in bathrooms. Captain Hardy's book, from which the film is drawn, was better than that. —Graham Greene
EVERYTHING IS THUNDER—Continued.

"Spec" p367 Ag 21 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"The dramatic moments are frequent during this profoundly moving wartime story which has been directed with an intense feeling for the romantic but slight regard for a story. Constance Bennett is attractive, though not ideally cast as a pretty welf of Berlin, but Douglass Montgomery contributes a gripping screen portrayal of an escaped prisoner and the rest of the cast is capable. Family." —Box Office p31 D 5 '36

"This melodrama is fairly good entertainment for audiences generally, especially those whose tastes for love triumphant over all obstacles transcend such elements as plausibility of plot, technical solidity and the brighter facets of acting skill. The picture gets under way slowly due to lengthy prologue-sequences." —Film Daily p6 N 20 '36

"A war-time melodrama, put over with a punch and a sense of suspense values which make it rank as good entertainment, not only here [London] but doubtless in America, where fans may come to see Bennett in her first British picture and Mankiewicz to be thrilled by the surge of crisp melodrama put over by Douglass Montgomery and Oscar Homolka. . . . All told, a British production of some real merit. It has a few minor faults which carpers might seize upon, but as melodramatic entertainment it is there."

—Hollywood Reporter p6 Ag 5 '36

"GB has produced another interest-holding war melodrama, with two American names to help it at the box office. Production is of the better brand from GB, with plenty of selling angles." —PhiExhibitor p35 O 1 '36

"British film producers apparently have one favorite picture-themes—the World War. . . . 'Everything Is Thunder' is another along these lines, but so weak in plot and general treatment that it is doubtful of getting by on this side of the Atlantic, strictly for the dusters. . . . British standards in productions of this type of story are closely followed; dim lighting is a British idea of heightening the dramatic moments; dense, smoky fog another and Milton Rosner's jump direction cannot be considered an asset. Acting is okay all around, the Bennett-Montgomery-Homolka trio carrying the entire story.

— Variety p14 N 25 '36

its fashionable social and underworld extension. Plot rests on activities of a jewelry insurance agent running double identity of high-class gem dealers who buy baubles from thieves and recut them." — Variety (Hollywood)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: depends on taste; B: better not; C: no." —Christian Century p1670 D 9 '36

"Fairly interesting for adults." —Am Legion Auxiliary

"The picture is well produced, with good casting as excellent direction and is good entertainment for those who like murder mysteries. Adults." —Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"(It has) continuity and a spirited if obvious climax. . . . While the production has the fault of most crook films—too many killings—with the added one of disclosing probable methods of jewel thieves, it has more originality than the majority. Adults." —Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

Informative diamond cutting sequence; much shooting. —Mature & 14-15. —M道具. —DAR

"The plot is full of action and sustained suspense, with a nice balance of mystery and comedy, the dialogue is clever and the acting convincing. . . . The scenes are short and showing the art of diamond cutting. Adults & young people." —E Coast Preview Committee

"While several of the situations seem overdrawn, the whole moves along at an even tempo, is full of surprises and never lags and there are no offensive sequences, although there are several murders committed in the end. Maturity," —S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul N 14 '36

"For a picture of this type, it is exceptio- nally well done in handling of action, mystery, excitement and suspense. The direction is excellent and the dramatic work convincing. Family-mature." —Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 2 '36

"Good. Adults & young adults." —Motion Pict Guide D '36

"This is a well sustained, suspenseful program picture in which there are some surpris- ing angles and hairbreadth escapes. The audi- ence is spared the usual romance and an interesting situation of get-rich idea, but cutting is in- formative and dramatic. Family." —Nat Council of Jewish Women N 3 '36

"General patronage." —Washington Times of Decency O 22 '36

"A: fair; Y & C: unsuitable." —Parents' M p14 Ja '37

"Adults & young people."

Sel Motion Pict p10 N 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Although Allan Dwan gives it the directorial acceleration, this is only a fair melodrama. Adults." —Christian Science Monitor p15 O 24 '36

"Uniformly excellent. . . . [The cast] bring reality's vivid touch to each characterization, inducing through their support the building up of which make any picture great entertainment. '15 Maiden Lane' is just exactly that." —Paul Jacobs

+ Hollywood Spec p21 O 10 '36

"This is more than an entertaining melo- drama. It takes you into the inside of the wholesale jewelry business and shows the guarded handling of gems—even takes you to the ringside at the actual splitting up of a large diamond by professional cutters. Of course there is a story. Oddly enough, it is sharp, unsentimental, fresh in treatment."

(2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p57 N 14 '36

——

FALLING IN LOVE (English title). See Trouble ahead

15 MAIDEN LANE. 20th century-Fox 65min O '36

Cast: Claire Trevor, Cesar Romero. Doug- las Fowley. Lloyd Nolan

Director: Allan Dwan

"Locate is biggest gem retailing center in the world, Maiden Lane, in New York City, and
"Having all the earmarks of technical proficiency, the new film moves smoothly, but the smoothness is not the result of a well-knit and interesting story. For this, credit is due its producer, Allan Dwan, and the anonymous individual who supervised the film's cutting... Lloyd Nolan, who is capable of better things, is sadly wasted in a minor role as a sergeant of detectives in the diamond district." — T. M. P. \n
Trade Paper Reviews

Canadian Moving Pic Digest p18 N 14 '36

"The Flying Doctor" does not fly quite so wide, high and handsome as expected, but nevertheless has its fine moments, rating between a special and a stock programmer. It suffers from the common Australian complaint of a choppy story and patchy interest... Farrell gives one of his most attractive performances as the 'sun-downers' or hobo. His acting is smooth, natural, boyish, his voice strangely without the American accent to which we have become accustomed..."

— + Hollywood Reporter p8 O 20 '36

— + Motion Pic Daily p11 N 5 '36

"With experts sent down [to Australia] by Gaumont-British to assist in production, it was expected that a good job would be done. And with such a star as Charles Farrell it looked as though an Australian production could break into the American field. But take Farrell out and the whole picture, with the exception of Joe Valli, would go floppo insofar as cast is concerned. If this picture does break into the American market the best that can be hoped for it is on the double-decker time, and chances are that American movie-goers will never be called for that... As it stands now the picture just rambles from point to point without very much meaning, and doesn't even show a real interest..."

audience suitability ratings

"[It] is pleasantly sprinkled with romance and moments of real excitement." T. J. Fitzmorris

— + America p192 N 28 '36

"Modern and breezy entertainment... This is [an] interesting film. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"The picture is tense and exciting with good comedy relief. Excellent acting on the part of William Gargon and Judith Barrett. Adults & young people." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Interesting because of subject. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"The scenes in which [the hostess] takes the controls, and Tokarski, as a madfield hand at the home port, brings her for-bound plane to a safe landing, is sure to capture the interest of an audience... Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Flying Hostess. Universal 65min N 22 '36
Cast: William Gargon, Judith Barrett, William Hall, Astrid Allwyn, Andy Devine, Ella Logan

Director: Murray Roth

Based on the novel Sky Fever by George Sayre. The tale of three trained nurses who become air hostesses. One of them, turned down because she fainted at her first hospital operation, disguises herself and makes a 3000 foot delayed parachute jump. She wins the love of two pilots and after numerous complications, chooses one.

Flying Doctor. National-Gaumont British 87min

Cast: Charles Farrell, Mary Maguire, James Raglan, Margaret Vyner, Joe Valli

Director: Miles Mander

Dialogue film made in Sidney, Australia. This film depicts the epic work done in saving lives by the Australian Flying Medical Association.

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
FLYING HOSTESS—Continued

"It serves to introduce Ella Logan... whose flair for comedy and unsettled headgear is amusingly capitalized in the film. Hollywood's scrutiny of the flying hostess is undeniably romantic, but we suppose certain extravagances may be condoned in the presence of an agreeable and fairly exciting little melodrama." F. S. Nugent

NY Times p29 D 14 '36

"While it may not be a contribution of exceptional merit, it at least has the virtue of a thrilling and gripping climax which lifts it above the usual formula of films of this genre. The film gets off to a lethargic and commonplace start. But once it reaches its climax... It still will please the glib and needles with excitement." William Boehnel

— N Y World-Telegram p10 D 14 '36

"[It is] a better-than-average program picture... The screen writers... have avoided of every one of comedy, and their skilful treatment sends the story humming along. The producers, Bartlett and Talley, have a lustrous loveliness, and although she is still ill at ease in her more casual scenes, she meets the demands of her role ably... but I save all my superlatives for Ella Logan. A comedienne of absolutely top abilities, an enchanting songstress, she will beyond any doubt be a Big Name in pictures." Molly Lewin

+ Script p10 D 5 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A sprightly aviation picture, which, although a bit formulaic as a story, is still acceptable entertainment and can hold its own as a top-bracket dual." — Box Office p29 N 21 '36

"A pleasant comedy melodrama of the commercial air service that departs in one particular from the formula that is rapidly crystallizing into the classic pattern for flight plays. This departure engages a group of Universal's newly assembled young players and gives youthful verve and freshness to an otherwise conventional offering. With brisk dialogue writing and careful exposition of the flying work added, the whole sums up to a better-than-average support piece for the duals." — Hollywood Reporter p8 N 2 '36

+ Motion Pic Daily p4 N 4 '36

"It should please despite lack of strong names. Estimate: pleasing program." — Phila Exhibitor p33 N 15 '36

"[It] displays an amount of suspense and laughs that will satisfy the majority of audiences... In fact, airplane stories are hitting the screen right and left, 'Flying Hostess' hits a definitely new note in this field. The merits of the story may be termed improbable, but the romance of flying, the educational background of air hostesses, and the showmanship of suspense in the film make the production an entertaining bit. Exhibitors won't go wrong on this one, but it must be spotlighted as a dual." — Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 2 '36

FOLLOW YOUR HEART. Republic 85min S 5 '36

Cast: Marion Talley, Michael Bartlett, Nigel Bruce, Luis Alberni, Henrietta Crosman

Director: Aubrey Scotto

Dancers: Larry Ceballos

Music: Walter Schererzinger

See: issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: good of kind; Y: good; C: little interest."

Christian Century p139 D 2 '36

"Family, but mature for children. Excellent."

DAR

"In this operetta we have a light, romantic story, loosely knit, which gives the impression that with better direction or better editing it would have been provided with the balance and emphasis to make it dramatically effective... Michael Bartlett's previous screen experience shows in his fine acting and singing, to the unfortunate disadvantage of Marion Talley in her first effort. But there is no doubt that she is trying to present herself as though she is her real self, fully satisfying."

S. M. Mailen

+ Motion Pic & Family p5 N 15 '36

"The story is neither original nor convincing. It is obviously designed to give Michael Bartlett and Marion Talley as many opportunities as possible to sing in a Middle West operetta. Both sing well and are well recorded. Marion Talley's speaking voice is, curiously enough, nearly as pleasing to listen to as her singing voice is delightful. The supporting cast gives a most excellent account of itself, and provides some amusing moments. Though the cast is assembled together, it做不到 having the occasion when the whole troupe turns the cooking of the chicken into an operatic sequence. The settings are effective, and the tone and dance numbers well staged. Suitability: family."

—— Mo Film Bul p172 O 3 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Elaborate song and dance numbers, some good comedy and a patent film romance provide a picture which is entertaining if not outstanding. Adults & young people." + Christian Science Monitor p17 O 31 '36

"It is unfortunate that the material for [Marion Talley's] picture should be so wanting in coherence, grace and interest, and that the star herself was not made to count and the occasion when the whole troupe turns the cooking of the chicken into an operatic sequence. The settings are effective, and the tone and dance numbers well staged. Suitability: family."

N Y Herald Tribune p18 O 22 '36

"Rouben Mamoulian, who directed Nino Martini in Thursday May Despair, is not only director to discover that an opera singer is often most adaptable when surrounded by comedians: Aubrey Scotto tried the same trick in 'Follow Your Heart.' The trick doesn't come off quite as well this time. It takes brilliant direction and a sparkling supporting cast for this stunt. 'Follow Your Heart' has neither. It doesn't, however, glow badly with what it has Miss Talley—although her performance is lifeless and heavy, photograph well. She sings delightfully... The musical numbers prove the brightest part of the film."

N Y Sun p23 O 22 '36

"Republic's talent-rammed operetta, 'Follow Your Heart,' with Marion Talley and Michael Bartlett, both of operatic experience, is most distinctly a novel in the class, fails to be the first-class entertainment it was..."

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; +— Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
FORBIDDEN HEAVEN. Republic 76min S 26 '35
Cast: Charles Farrell. Charlotte Henry
Director: Reginald Bond
Produced last year but just given general release.
See issue of March 30, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[It is a] not too happy rewrite of the 'Seventh Heaven' theme."
+ - Christian Science Monitor p14 S 12 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This is a mildly absorbing drama. The actors are not too deeply involved in their roles and the direction is uninteresting. The theme is not handled with much interest.
+ - Film Daily p7 Ag 29 36"

"The independent producers haven't done right by Charles Farrell in 'Forbidden Heaven.' The story is too storyy, too slowly paced, and poorly directed to serve as a come-back picture. Despite its countless flaws, it does show a more vigorous Farrell than one who reads his lines well and whose voice no longer looms as a handicap.
The attempt to recall 'Seventh Heaven,' both in the title and some of the plot material, is not a very successful one. Marsha Hunt was sought on the theory probably that if it clicked once, it might again in different garb. But it didn't. The action is too minutely aimed and the punch situations are telegraphed home."
- - Variety p16 S 9 '36

FOUR DAYS' WONDER. Universal Ja 10 '37
Director: Sidney Salkow
Based on a novel of the same title by A. A. Milne.
"A young high school girl, addicted to detective stories, fancies herself capable of solving mysteries until a real one confronts her. Many innocent persons become involved before her aunt's death is proved to be an accident." (Nat Legion of Decency)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A weak production interesting only to young people." Am Legion Auxiliary

"The absurd antics of the two detectives offer a stark contrast to the normal actions of the young people and turn an otherwise fair social drama into a mediocre farce. Adults - 2-14: poor; 8-14: no." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Evidently meant as a satire on mystery stories and for the purpose of launching a second Simone Simms, but failing utterly on both counts due to over and inadequate acting on the part of the cast and under directing on the part of the director. Starch defenders of double bills may like this—the more discriminating audiences will be bored.
Mature.
" Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Mature-family. Mediocre." DAR

"The story lacks coherence and the film is merely another program filler. Family." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Mature."
S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"Fox W Coast Bui O 24 '36

"The ineffective handling of this Milne story, the lack of suspense, unreal situations and slapstick comedy makes the picture most unconvincing. Alan Mowbray does a fine piece of work as the conceived actor but too much was expected of the little newcomer. Jean Dane. Family-mature.
- - Giant Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) O 14 '36

"The quality of A. A. Milne's imagination is difficult to transfer to the screen. . . . The actors are sufficiently successful in their interpretation of their roles, but the director has at times overstressed the action, losing the light touch required by the story. While no great heights of comedy are reached, the picture is agreeably entertaining. Adolescents, 12-16: yes; children, 8-12: mature.
+ - Motion Pict R p8 N 36

"Universal is to be complimented upon the way in which this whimsy is presented on the screen. Family & junior matinees."
+ - Jewish Women O 14 '36

"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency N 5 '36

"A. Y & C: fair."
Parents' M p16 Ja '37

"The cast is well chosen, the members interpret their parts with great delicacy and understanding, and the direction indicates a keen appreciation of the story value. Adults & young people."
+ - Sel Motion Pict p10 N 1 '36

+ - Exceptionally Good; + Good; + - Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
FUGITIVE IN THE SKY. Warner 85min N 28 '36

Cast: Jean Muir, Warren Hull, Gordon Oliver, Carlyle Moore, Jr.

Director: Nick Grinde

The story deals with the journey of a transcontinental airplane whose passengers include a G-man, a desperate public enemy, a reporter and some bond thieves.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The production values are far better than the vehicle they served. A matter of taste for adults." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"There is plenty of excitement, but lack of originality in plot or treatment prevents it from doing anything more than filling the double bill. Disappointing. Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Mediocre. Mature & 14-16." DAR

"Family, exclusive of young children." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Unusually realistic scenes and acting by a capable director, meriting special mention for its photography, lighting, sound and scenic effects." + Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) O 17 '36

"The sequence showing the plane fighting its way through a dust storm is thrilling and beautifully photographed. Unfortunately the story dragged up to its season, as there are too many characters, and the plot is involved and illogical. The actors are capable if not outstanding. Adolescents, 12-18: no; children, 8-12: no."

— + Motion Pict R p6 N '36

"Because of its maintained suspense and uncertainty, this picture is entertaining. Adults." + Nat Council of Jewish Women O 21 '36

"A: average thriller; Y & C: unsuitable." Parents' M p6 Ja '37

"Suspenseful, but inexpertly produced. Mature." + Sel Motion Pict p6 N 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This film adds a title to the long list of average mystery thrillers. While it has none of the elements of chill-producing horror, the picture gets by on its able direction and sincere acting. Family." + — Box Office p31 O 31 '36

"Although its story isn't new and its action isn't hair lifting, 'Fugitive in the Sky' is so convincingly and lightly handled by capable performers that it is certain to appeal in the secondary, for which type of billing it was ostensibly budgeted. George Bricker's original story of the adventures of a gangster trapped in a transcontinental airliner is fast becoming American folklore, but his treatment skilfully makes use of every entertainment value and maintains interest from start to finish."

— + Hollywood Reporter p3 O 23 '36

"Motion Pict Daily p12 O 26 '36"

"The old familiar story of the reporter, the G-man, the stewardess, the gangster—in the transcontinental plane—has been repeated here with results seemingly best for twin bills. The story has been done before so many times that it will seem too familiar. Estimate: for neighborhood trade in big towns."

— + Phila Exhibitor p37 N 1 '36

"Warners has churned out just an average [mystery story] in 'Fugitive in the Sky.' Film is another of those things aimed at the class B audience and is obviously set for second billing on double bills. It's another run-of-the-mill story with nothing new to offer the picture public. Yarn is practically a duplicate of the story released by another major studio some months ago which in its original form wasn't so hot. Only difference is Warners' scenario genius concocted the substitution of a dust storm for a snow storm."

— + Variety (Hollywood) p8 O 23 '36

..."GARDEN OF ALLAH. United Artists 80min N 20 '36

Cast: Marlene Dietrich, Charles Boyer, Tilly Leach, Basil Rathbone, Joseph Schildkraut, John Carradine, C. Aubrey Smith

Director: Richard Boleslawski

Music: Max Steiner

Based on the novel and play of the same title by Robert Hichens. Filmed in technicolor. This is the third version of the film produced. It tells the tale of a self-tortured Trappist monk who breaks his final vows and escapes to the desert where he falls desperately in love with a woman who too has gone to the desert to find peace. Born by love and his awakened sense of religion, he leaves the woman to return once again to his celibate cell.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"This is, unquestionably, the finest thing yet done in technicolored films and one of the most impressive offerings, all around, of a prodigal season... In previous versions, the motif of the runaway monk was a bit cloudy, obscured by an undue emphasis on the sensational, but under Mr. Boyer's superb treatment his breach of conduct becomes understandable without losing its enormity... His sincerity and the violence of his inner struggle make the monk truly tragic rather than sordid and the final renunciation is both logical and emotionally satisfying. For an expert in an exacting role, is at his best here... Marlene Dietrich plays with beautiful sincerity. The film is far better for young audiences but it can be recommended to adults as screen fare of the first importance." T. J. Fitzmorris

— + Amer Tobacco p2 N 28 '36

"A: novel; Y: doubtful; C: no." Christian Century p1670 D 9 '36

"Well worth seeing for its beauty alone, with its gorgeous scenery, coloring and lighting, this picture is highly entertaining. A beautiful love story, dramatically told. Adults & young people." Am Legion Auxiliary

"The production qualities are so fine, the desert scenes so magnificent, and the color so exquisite, that it affords an hour of rare pleasure, even though the theme of the story is remote from modern sympathies. Adults: excellent; 14 & 15: mature; 8-14: no." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"[I]t is artistically a triumph, but dramatically it has not the same successful appeal... Charles Boyer gives a fine, authoritative reading of the role, but Marlene Dietrich is a bit too emotionally restrained to make the character seem real or alive... Schiller's script gets a joyous note and it is very welcome. Disappointing. Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Rarely effective technicolor desert scenes, artistic direction, the cameo-like beauty of M. Dietrich, and the exceptionally fine characterization of C. Boyer make this drama an unforgettable. Mature & 14-18, Excellent." DAR

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; +— Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
"This well known romance... seems remote from today. The songs of the desert are breath-takingly lovely and the hubbub of exotic life in the native bazaars is vividly presented. Family." Nat Soc of New England Women

"[It] is brought to the screen in beautiful glowing colors. The story seems, however, to be audaciously shown and the color points are conspicuous by their absence. The silences of the melancholy pair convey little of the intended mood except to show Boris witnesses the seductive movements of the dancing girl. Joseph Schildkraut... gives an excellent portrayal. Picture is more than a spectacle and relieves the monotony. . . From a pictorial standpoint it will interest the mature." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul N 21 '36

"Pictorially this production is a magnificent achievement in color. Mature audience... The direction is superb, in the skillful hands of Mr. Boleslawski, who has been mindful of every detail necessary to the perfection of cinema art and highest commendation merited by sound and camera men. A picture of rare beauty, sumptuous and high art value." + Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 2 '36

"Color photography has never appeared to greater advantage than in this picture. The studio work is superb. Twenty years ago it seemed daring romance. Today, audiences may find it theatrical and emotionally because a Trappist monk breaks his vows, ventures into the world, samples its joys and then returns to the monastery for penance. The desert idyll is too far removed from modern life to seem real or important. Charles Boyer has a role in which an harrased consumptive makes him constantly serious and darkly introspective. Miss Dietrich photographs to advantage in the medium, but a more elaborate actress might have made this picture plot seem more vital. Adolescents, 12-16: no value; children, 8-12: no." + Nat Council of Jewish Women N 3 '36

"This well known and loved book comes to the screen—this time in color so beautiful and effective as to be breath-taking... Marlene Dietrich is superb and the Boris Androvsky of Charles Boyer is most touchingly presented. The entire cast is outstanding and each portrait is perfectly in itself. Richard Boleslawski is masterly, the photography exquisite and the massive stage sets introducing native life being with that authenticity and reality. A treat for mature audiences."

+ Nat Legion of Decency N 19 '36

"A & Y: romantic tale of the desert; C: no interest." Parents' M p16 Ja '37

"The plot of this play has longer whiskers than some of the old Algerians who wander in and out of the picture... It's too bad to waste two such actors as Marlene Dietrich and Charles Boyer on such an ancient vehicle, to say nothing of all that sand and the excellent color photography. Miss Dietrich, as ev'rybody knows, is expected more than usual to be beautiful in color, and, if possible, even more expressionless." Ernestine Taggard + present motion pict p17 N 21 '36

"Outstanding. The musical accompaniment is noticeably good. Mature." + Sel Motion Pict p6 D 1 '36

"Done in Technicolor, and with a noticeable advance in the use of color photography on the screen, is outstanding." + Wkly Guide N 14 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Subdued tones... clothe a moving if slow-paced presentation with maximum charm and a wealth of exoticism and conflict of characters. Adults & young people." + + Christian Science Monitor p19 D 5 '36

"The subject is a daringly unusual theme to be undertaken in Technicolor... the casting and capacity of serving mass theatricals. But even the most intimate scenes have been accorded the utmost respect and delicacy. Unfortunately, however, on one occasion a jarring note is injected in the performance by a Tilly Losch triumph. It is a senseless overstatement of passion that the spectacle of 'torso-twisting' might well make Minsky's 42nd Street burlesque... the only thing that is the picture is the characters and relieves the monotony. . . From a pictorial standpoint it will interest the mature." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"Once again Technicolor enthralls us with the beauty of the animated scenes. It is a brilliant success.

However, the color process leans on the picture production almost to the point of the latter's failure. . . All Boleslawski's great skill as a director will not have the picture dramatically alive. The story, although a couple of decades behind the thought processes of the present day, is lacking in its telling it becomes more intellectual diversion than a melodrama, although added to the color; will keep it from doing well at the box office."

+ + + Lit Digest p21 N 14 '36

"The cinema's most astute and tasteful use of natural color photography is to be found in 'The Garden of Allah'. . . This time an ancient and always somewhat befuddled story achieves imperious and lovely beauty as a result of Miss Dietrich's performance and precise, planned use of Technicolor... W. P. Lipscomb and Lynn Riggs took no liberties with the plot structure of the story, but must have sprayed their typewriters with an asperinity before writing the dialog. It is restrained, note there dramatic handlebars of the feeble old story and relies on subtleties of feeling. Boleslawski joined them in shining from rush direction, relying instead on the performances of Marlene Dietrich and Charles Boyer. Miss Dietrich's portrayal of the despised minx appears to have losted talents heretofore kept in reserve. She never has put more power into a role. Nor, satisfyingly to those who ignore performance values and look only for eye-appeal, has she ever been lovelier. Mr. Boyer's portrait of the shying Boris Androvsky is a rarefied one with the eye-appeal of his character, which was beginning to be frayed."

"The Garden of Allah is a screen work of surpassing technical beauty. It makes magnificent use of color photography, mixing rich blues, browns and reds in a succession of lovely combinations. Of the pictures, the static plot has depends in large measure on your susceptibility to the spiritual and emotional side of human life. The ill-fated romance... seems to me to be singularly lacking in compulsion... It is a"
GARDEN OF ALLAH—Continued

Unrestrained conclusion. The spectrum has a very strong place in the scheme of the cinema... The screen drama is singularly fortunate in its writers, its stars, its directors. They are telling us their features but they bring an acting intensity to the big moments of the romance that is truly, with rare felicity, an act of the soul. Miss Dietrich is hauntingly lovely."—Howard Barnes

+ — N Y Herald Tribune p23 N 20 '36

"Richard Boleslawski has directed it solemnly, taking special care to offend no one. This caution has also weakened the drama. Condemn the plot and direction, nor is it the exposition sufficiently long to make a modern American audience realize the whole tragedy. The film has a certain rather drowsy charm, thanks to the very color which, although it attracts the interest from any drama, does offer some startlingly lovely glimpses of the desert. This is the best color the screen has yet captured... To be quite honest, the picture might have been more exciting if it had been frankly a technicolor scenic."—Eileen Creelman

+ — N Y Sun p30 N 20 '36

"[It] is a distinguished motion picture, rich in pictorial splendor yet unobtrusive, though accurate, in its color, however tempting a background and direction have been the producers. Richard Boleslawski's direction places commendable accent on the familiar story, ingeniously changing all and not relying on worthy cast... Marlene Dietrich has been rescued from her dramatic lethargy of late screen activity, and the scenario, and given something to think about. Charles Boyer, an important player abroad and one who has been rather cast as the less interesting department, has a rôle in keeping with his talents."—J. T. M.

+ — N Y Times p27 N 20 '36

"Although it contains moments of breath-taking beauty in its Technicolor photography—there are also some that are not so breathtaking and a story that probably will have the girls crying... 'The Garden of Allah' is a pretty dull entertainment, ponderous in movement, pedestrian in speech and unexciting in narrative... I'm bound to confess that I, for one, found it rather hollow and unconvincing. It has the markings of a genuinely touching tragedy, not all the materials are used to their best advantage either in keeping up the climax or in the situations itself, which seems singularly botched."—William Boehm

+ — N Y World-Telegram p31 N 20 '36

"I should say that the color is the most successful so far. Perhaps that Sahara setting, with its African blues and yellows and scarlets, is adapted to this lurid picture-postcard chemistry, just as the plot is suited to those old-fashioned Technicolor speeches about eternal love, and possibly, too, the effect is assisted by the ease with which the Dietrich face stands color. In a big, splashy way, the whole affair seems handsome. The film allows Miss Dietrich to suffer without interruption. Charles Boyer is the box office star to suffer with her, and he's expert at it."—John Mosher

+ — New Yorker p99 N 21 '36

"The story... hardy one that can be streamlined for modern consumption. W. P. Lipscomb and Lynn Riggs didn't try to. Their scenario is a deliberate one with dignity and sincerity; Miss Dietrich and Boyer, achieving the finest performances of their careers, lend it a terrifyingly American Technicolor camera, reaches the high mark of its achievement."—News-WK p20 N 21 '36

"This really proves, we think, that the black and white film by us superior may give way wholly to Technicolor within a few years... Miss Dietrich, while still not our idea of the ideal desert heroine, has taken against a desert sky. A great deal of power is projected into the story by Charles Boyer, whose monk's role is an interesting situation of conflict. We had the feeling that a lovely poem had been read to us. We knew how it was to end, but we didn't know how beautifully. We suppose the significant thing here is that 'The Garden of Allah' would have been a good film in black and white; but at last color is of intrinsic value. People will ask you about it."—Stage p16 D '36

"[It] is the best answer to the problem to color that Hollywood has made in 1936... Sad, serene and somewhat silly, 'The Garden of Allah' is just that direc- tion which reviewers customarily praise for the music and photography. Unfortunately for Hollywood, cinematicaddicts go to the theatre not to see the latest wonders of cinematography but to be entertained. That in this case both music and color photography... are genuinely superb, will doubtless not suffice to interest 1936 in two young lovers who, with money to burn, can apparently find nothing better to do than brood about the life hereafter. If 'The Garden of Allah,' best example of color photography the cinema has so far contrived is a box-office hit, it will be because of its stars... If 'The Garden of Allah's weak point is its story, its strong point is its female star."—Time p39 N 30 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Producer David O. Selznick elevates the motion picture to new heights of artistry in this film... convincingly adapted by W. P. Lipscomb and Lynn Riggs, and directed with Richard Boleslawski's usual masterful touch. This, combined with a star-studded cast and color photography, outstandingly the most beautiful to date, assures the feature's box office success."—Family Trade

+ — Box Office p51 N 14 '36

Canadian Moving Pict Digest p18 N 14 '36

"This is the finest example of Technicolor to date. Many of the scenes are breath-taking in their beauty, especially some with the desert as the background. Charles Boyer gives a strong performance... Marlene Dietrich is excellent as the girl."—Film Daily p6 N 3 '36

+ — Motion Picture Daily p4 N 2 '36

"Aided by beautiful Technicolor, a musical score that must be ranked with the season's best, backed by two strong name good feature players, 'The Garden of Allah' should please best in class houses. Tinged with that special appeal, but a strong color attraction, it ought to pull, the show is creditably produced. Well made with some inspired scenes, strong on what the women want, the show is saleable from many viewpoints."—Phil Exhibitor p55 N 15 '36

"Since life and art are progressive, some day, soon, a story sturdy enough to hold up in black and white will, when coupled with the Technicolor, combine the best of both. If it resolves itself down all over again in a more cinematic way or in the normal screen hues, [to the fact] that it's the story first. Accordingly 'Garden of Allah,' so sumptuously and impressively mounted by David O. Selznick, impresses as the last word in color production, a costly and fair. It'll come out all right chiefly on the ballyhoo and the marquee values of the stellar pair, Dietrich and Boyer, and through the Technicolor trade... Miss Dietrich and Charles Boyer are more than adequately competent in the leads although somewhat softened by their lines. But in the main they impress in the difficult emotional roles."—Variety p14 N 25 '36

"Superb in its production qualities and emotionally arresting, with the drama enhanced by the most discriminating use of Technicolor, thus far, only the lack of a color screen as entertainment of highest appeal for Nino Martini's superb singing highlights this tasteful comedy and proves that he possesses the voice that can be amusing, the voice that can be amusing burlesque on Hollywood's cherished heroes, the gangsters. Family.

+ Nat Legion of Decency O 8 '36

"A, Y & C: good."

Parents' M p32 D '36

"Family."

Sel Motion Pict p10 N 1 '36

"Pleasant and amusing, with many hilarious minor burlesques. Family."

+ Wkly Guide O 3 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Very gay, very full of music and not very desperate is Nino Martini's latest. . . Besides Mr. Martini's singing, which is innocent and plentiful, the film contains the good deal of amusing burlesque on Hollywood's cherished heroes, the gangsters. Family."

+ Christian Science Monitor p15 O 17 '36

"The Gay Desperado is a desperately gay satirization of the machine-gun technique of American gangster films. . . Some highly amusing and frequently hilarious results are achieved by the broad burlesquing of the Hollywood version of blood and thunder, and a film of this high order. Martini is in splendid voice as he emulates a laughing, dashing, singing sefior. . . Mr. Martini, after the previous Hollywood mishaps, now gives a strong proof that a Metropolitan Opera star can be a good screen comic both lyrically and laughingly."

(J. P. Cunningham + Commonweal p67 O 25 '36

"Good, clean fun and music of rich artistic quality with the result as you may guess, frequently are hilarious."

(3 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p56 N 14 '36

"The gifted Mr. Rouben Mamoulian has made this film. . . with the obvious intention of striking a gay, Lubitsch note, and keeping it gay. Perhaps because that intention is obvious his film succeeds at any rate in being a jolly film. And jollity is enough in this instance, the acting too is being a kind. Musical comedy would give any such picture a good start; but here the singing of Nino Martini is pleasing and plentiful."

(Mischa Auer offers a superb and superbly comic portrait of the Mexican Indian. He appears in a part which, for him, is an easy one; but we don't know who else could have played it.)

+ New Statesman & Nation p773 N 14 '36

"Amusing musical comedy, notable chiefly for Mamoulian's clever avoidance of the trite conventions of the theme . . . Mamoulian works well the proceedings to disguise the proceedings, despite modern accretions, possess a musical-comedy staginess of pre-war vintage. Mischa, Auer and Harold Huber are excellent. Film estimate: You're doing all right."

New Theatre p34 N '36

"The vexing problem of what to do with an opera star on the screen is triumphantly solved in The Gay Desperado. Here is a formula for the musical comedy play that brings melody, and dramatic excitement into harmonious union. It gives ample scope for Nino Martini's singing voice and engaging presence while inspiring a rich and hilarious burlesque that could stand very well by itself as entertainment."

+ N Y Herald Tribune p15 O 9 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; + Poor; — Exceptionally Poor

GAY DESPERADO. United artists 86min O 2 '36

Cast: Nino Martini, Ida Lupino, Leo Carrillo, Harold Huber, Mischa Auer, James Blakeley

Director: Rouben Mamoulian

Music: George Fosdick, Miguel Sandoval

Music director: Richard B. James

"A comedy about Mexican bandits and the effect of American gangster films on their professional technique."

Wkly Guide

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A & Y; very good; C unless too exciting."

Christian Century p1510 N 11 '36

"Absolutely unique is this, poking fun at gangster films, American slang, and studio tricks. Family, but mature for children. Excel lent." D A R

+ + Fox W Coast Bul O 17 '36

"This [is] an entertaining film, which is further enhanced by the fine singing of Nino Martini. Mature." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Conceived and acted in a mood of irresistible gaiety, directed with imagination and a keen sense of humor with every player in the cast energetically thrown into the lively production. 'The Gay Desperado' is perfect entertainment. Even though it becomes a little wild and rowdy at times, it is so delightfully funny and so unusual in its fun, it could not harm anyone. Outstanding. Family. Calif Fed of Women's Clubs Bul N 14 '36

"Delightful light comedy, with the beautiful singing of Nino Martini and subtly ironic touches, make this an unusually fine production. Martini's superb. Family." E Coast Preview Committee

Fox W Coast Bul N 14 '36

"[It is] a delightfully satirical farce. . . The cast is well chosen with one giving pertinent characterizations. The work of Rouben Mamoulian, the director is most adroit and unusually effective. A rarely pleasing and most entertaining picture. Family-mature."

+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 2 '36

"Roystering burlesque and subtle satire, mingled with grand opera music and lyrical photography, bring about one of the most amusing and intriguing films of the year." S. M. Mullen

+ Motion Pict & Family p6 O 15 '38

"A merry musical farce, loaded with laughs and fine music, altogether delightful. The background of desert and mountain scenery is beautifully photographed. Martini's Mexican songs are a treat. Carrillo is perfect in his part, the whole thing is most entertaining. Adolescents, 12-16: yes; children, 8-12: too exciting."

+ Motion Pict & Family p6 O 15 '38

"Excellent directing, delightful humor, a slight but amusing story and the beautiful voice of Nino Martini make of this musical comedy good entertainment. The entire cast is outstandingly fine. Leo Carrillo's singing voice was better than in his portrayal of the music-loving bandit. Family & Junior matinees."

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women N 3 '36

""Nino Martini's singing highlights this tasteful comedy and proves that he possesses the voice that can be amusing, the voice that can be amusing burlesque on Hollywood's cherished heroes, the gangsters. Family."
GAY DESPERADO—Continued

Rouben Mamoulian, usually absorbed in most serious and sombre subjects, has indulged in some charminily frivolous satire at the expense, for the first time, of the gangster film. Far from being an underworld melodrama, this should prove the picture that laughs those high-powered thugs into the dust. The Gay Desperado, although a musical and, more, a musical with a fine score and an operatic star, is sheer fun for the music, it would be entertaining." Eileen Creelman

"While mankind in general has been fretting about the current means of disposing of razor blades, Hollywood has been quietly insinuating a decision to be made, it seems to have a sense of humor; the first-rate musical comedy is in the making. 'And the Gay Desperado' is truly that."

P. S. NUGENT

"Although I won't swear that 'The Gay Desperado' is Mexican musical comedy of the new season, it comes pretty close to it. It is an excellent blending of all the musical comedy arts—the gayest kind of singing, direction, acting, composing and photography. . . It is possible to say without fear of contradiction that is the kind of show that is honey, a witty, humorous, tuneful riddling lampoon that is worth anybody's money in the box office."

William Boehm

+ N Y Times p31 O 9 '36

"When not busy with God, Miss Mary Pickford seems inclined to turn out quite trim and bright little comedies. . . Now it is Nino Martini also is presented, along with Ida Lupino and Leo Carrillo, the three of them appearing to advantage in some successful nonsense about Mexican bandits, American gangsters, young love, and the like. . . Light comedy has always been a hard hurdy for American films to take, but in this case I should say that Miss Pickford and all her colleagues have just bounded over."

John Mosher

+ New Yorker p90 O 10 '36

"'The Gay Desperado' presents an interesting thesis: Mexican bandits, normally the best of all villains, become unnaturally evil under two circumstances—(1) the exposure to the subversive influence of Hollywood's gangster films, (2) when music is eliminated from its original formula, the bandits have a dozen chances to sing, and he does it so well that his radio and opera fans will find it easy to forget about his acting."

News-WK p30 O 19 '36

"Too bad Mary and Jesse have given up their partnership. First they knock us over with 'One Rainy Afternoon' and now they simply panic us with the most hilarious comedy of the year. Such laughter I've never heard at a preview. And applause for pictorial beauty and gorgeous singing. Lucien Andriot's photography has written an original story that justifies the word. . . [It is] a picture that simply burbles in every line and action. . . Lucien Andriot's photography stopped the show. It is as beautiful as the scenery of the West."

Rob Wageman

+ + Script p10 N 7 '36

"'The Gay Desperado' is described as a melodrama set to music. It's so much more than that we hardly know where to begin. It is one of the most lighthearted, delightful, charming, varied, and everything from kidnapping and firing squads to James Cagney and law enforcement. Leo Carrillo and Nino Martini, and Ida Lupino, gesticulate in immaculate farcical fashion, welding a series of cinema anecdotes into a hilarious production which will not be forgotten. Nino Martini does the most enchanting things with music and shadows and laughter. Don't let us keep you here. Here's your cue today."

+ - Stage p14 N '36

"[It] is that extraordinary rarity, a musical comedy which is both musical and comic. It almost infringes upon Hollywood's iron law that all singing pictures must be about singers and it makes the demise of the partnership between Mary Pickford and Jesse Lasky—which started with 'One Rainy Afternoon' and ended last month—seem definitely regrettable. 'The Gay Desperado' is a working model for future efforts in its genre."

+ Time p66 O 19 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Here is undoubtedly one of the finest musical comedies of any year. It is a classic example in the field of light comedy, superlative directed, and replete with a subtle brand of humor."

- Box Office p31 O 10 '36

"Mary Pickford and Jesse L. Lasky tapped a novel source for the material used in this production. In having Leo Carrillo and his gang of first-rate Mexican bandits, American gangsters, young love, and the like, they present a rollicking laugh-loaded comedy that is grand entertainment every foot of the way. . . . It is evident that show that should play to box-office returns in every type of theater from the top floor to the bottom. On its comedy merits alone, this burlesque and satire on the American gangster could go..."

+ Film Daily p3 O 3 '36

"This fresh and deliberately funny satiric farce is one of the best comedies of the year, and the most original. Second, and said to be the last, production of the Pickford-Lasky partnership, it is bound to reawaken deep regret that the rich vein of class entertainment tapped by this combination of Mexican bandits and American gangsters will not be further explored by them. 'The Gay Desperado' is headed for good grosses everywhere."

- Hollywood Reporter p5 S 30 '36

+ Motion Pic Daily p3 O 3 '36

"This is a grand mixture of comedy, music that should not only please in class sectors, but, thanks to Leo Carrillo, Martin's voice, that should do okay in other spots. Estimate: high rating."-

- Phila Exhibitor p40 O 15 '36

"This Nino Martini mesquiteer is a fairly diverting gangster, and the Warners' inofcarefree light, 'The Gay Desperado' may be termed not particularly desperate. It'll do spotty trade, depending on locals. It's more musical comedy than grand opera, or even operetta, which may be the major hurdle for those attracted by the Martini marques values."-

+ Variety p15 O 14 '36

"What irony that Mary Pickford and Jesse L. Lasky should say farewell as a production unit with 'The Gay Desperado,' a picture which assuredly is one of the finest of the year in artistry and sure-fire entertainment values and a small part of the Martini's. Romantic, entrancingly melodic, loaded with humor in sparkling line and warm, tingling farcical situation and excitement, its combination will not be forgotten by that word-of-mouth which always discovers and supports a sound piece of popular entertainment."-

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 30 '36

GENERAL DIED AT DAWN. Paramount $5min S 4 '36

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

Audience Suitability Ratings

"In making his writing debut before the bourgeoisie which is the solid support of motion pictures, the much-publicized Clifford Odets has managed to produce a melodrama which is as fresh and as potent as any American play. He has enriched our picture drama with a melodrama of high quality, and his work goes far to establish the idea that the American dramatist can write for the screen as well as for the stage. His is a unique contribution to the American film industry."

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women S 9 '36

"Exciting. Weakness: romantic dereliction of hero is inconsistent with his implied character. Mature." DAR Fox W Coast Bul S 12 '36

"Excellent direction and supporting cast make this a most absorbing picture for adults and young people." Am Legion Auxiliary

"An excellent cast, efficiently handled, with convincingly good photography, has made good adult entertainment." Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"Exciting, well photographed melodrama with good local color and a tremendous climax. Its weaknesses are trite dialogue and a plot that depends for its situations on the stupidity of a hero for continually exposing himself to obvious dangers. The picture contains too much brutality for younger audiences but will probably be popular with adults." Women's Univ Club, Los Angeles

+ Fox W Coast Bul S 26 '36

"The breathless quality of eloquent silences, the superb photography, and the vividly descriptive musical score heighten our enjoyment of this skilfully produced picture, which is so forcefully directed. Adults & young people." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)

"Mature." Jt Estimates S 15 '36

"The part of the action relating directly to Yang is the best: the casual, pointless manner of his death is properly stressed. The character is well portrayed by Akim Tamiroff, but perhaps the most remarkable performance of all comes from J. M. Kerrigan as a thoroughly slimy salamander. A film with several strong points but as many weak ones. The idea of menace is excellently brought out in the deliberate opening, and the suspense of the closing passages is very real; but in between the general average of tempo becomes far too often merely mannered and heavy, while what has been termed at first to have the potentialities of profound drama is enfeebled by a hackneyed central plot." Motion Pict Guide D 26 '36

"Good. Adults & young adults." Good & Fair

"To the casual adult this picture will furnish tense, melodramatic entertainment. The photography is fine and the color is exceptionally good." Parents' M p42 N '36

"Here is as exciting a screen play as may be seen...Supported by an excellent cast, it captured my interest and has my praise. Some of the film's views have been transplanted from the stage to the screen. Hollywood, in constant fear of educating its audience with too heavy a dose, has diluted the liberal views with Hollywoodish dramatics..." The General Died at Dawn has a novelty which most pictures lack. With this pinch of 'social aspect' and a fist-full of good, exciting drama, the film is above the ordinary." Pictorial p32 O 3 '36

"Mature." Sel Motion Pict p5 O 1 '36

"Exceptionally Good; Good; Fair; Mediocre; Poor; Exceptionally Poor"
GENERAL DIED AT DAWN—Continued

"Framed" by an avalanche of publicity and false angling, particularly in the left press, it was perhaps inevitable that some movie-goers should feel let down. People were given to believe they were going to get 'Das Kapital' in eight reels and received instead a better than average melodrama that very effectively, if not over-subtly, accomplishes the broad purposes of the author. Mr. Odets has not yet achieved a cinema style. His long and frighted sentences are still in thrall to stage necessities. There is no reason for believing, however, that he will not get there." —Robert Stiebbs of the New Theatre $18 O '36

"Akim Tamiroff gives a really excellent performance and he manages to die with all the sinister imperturbability that has characterised his life. Without this piece of acting the picture might well fail to grip one's attention, for Madeleine Carroll's adventuress is a study in very still life. Gary Cooper is his usual strong and charming self, but his performance here has not the same light and shade as his 'Mr. Deeds'." —Mark Forrest

"I couldn't believe, let alone understand, one foot of the story. It is a million miles from Hollywood and 'Millie' Milestone, one of our ace directors, keeps the strangely exotic flavor throughout. I felt that both Akim Tamiroff and Odets, who prove themselves a great dramatic writer, were given an impossible assignment." —Rob Wagner

Script p19 S '19 '36

"The first few silent sequences of 'The General Died at Dawn' are as good as anything to be seen on the screen in London. After that it becomes a melodrama through and through a melodrama of more than usual skill. If it were not for a rather ludicrous ending, this would be one of the best thrillers for some years." —Graham Greene

Spec p747 O 30 '36

"Audiences at 'The General Died at Dawn' realized after a few moments of photographic introduction that they would have to be all eyes and ears to keep up with the amazingly cryptic drama taking place on the screen. Mr. Odets' contribution to 'The General Died at Dawn' does not end with long lines spoken firmly. By an amazing co-ordination of forces, the virility that has come to be associated with his writing is communicated in the director's translation in camera terms, in the character's behavior, in the cameraman's photography. There is something so exhilarating, so electrifying in the treatment of this production, from the title right on up, that it should be taken regularly. We can't say more than that." —Stage p24 O '36

Trade Press Reviews

"Well made, produced in the best Paramount manner, with Akim Tamiroff as the general stealing the picture, this is a money show."

—Phil Exhibitor p34 S '15 '36

GENERAL SPANKY. Roach-MGM 73min D 11 '36

Cast: Spanky McFarland, Phillips Holmes, Ralph Morgan, Irving Pichel

Directors: Fred Newmeyer, Gordon Douglas

Little Spanky McFarland and his gang are cast in a hurled Egyptian Civil War story in which they stop an advance of Union forces, rescue a bandit and perform sundry other duties for the Confederate cause.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency D 10 '36

"A: amusing; Y & C: good."

Parents' M p16 Ja '37

Trade Press Reviews

"Wholesome, home-spun entertainment and comedy is this graduation of 'Our Gang' into their first feature length picture. It will be tops with the juvenile trade and can hold its own with adult audiences. Family."

Box Office p31 O 31 '36

"For the [children] Hal Roach has one grand picture. There is plenty of entertainment in the antics of this outfit, and for the family trade it is a swell show. The picture aims for laughs and it gets plenty of them."

Film Daily p13 O 27 '36

"This is great stuff for the [juvenile] and family trade. To the average movie fan, however, it will probably be just six reels of 'Our Gang' and a little bit tiresome after the customary footage has had its run."

Hollywood Reporter p6 O 25 '36

Motion Pict Daily p2 O 24 '36

"The children will probably like 'General Spanky' best. Hal Roach's feature venture has the same appeal as the 'Our Gang' comedy idea, with a more youthful, family audiences certain to enjoy it. For the acce de luxers, it may not have appeal."

Phil Exhibitor p32 N 1 '36

"Our Gang is a swell outfit of entertainers in any age. For the [juvenile] and for an adult audience, it is expecting too much of the little lads and lasses to keep up their fast tempo for a full feature length film. For [juvenile] audiences, 'General Spanky' will rank tops and if it is cut down it will do okay for the comedy end of any draler. As presented at the preview [it] lags in several spots and will come out much better after an opinion in the cutting room."

—Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 23 '36

GENTLEMAN FROM LOUISIANA. Republic 85min Ag 17 '36

Cast: Eddie Quillan, Chic Sale, Charlotte Henry, Marjorie Gateson, John Miljan

Director: Irving Pichel

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A, Y and C: good."

Parents' M p12 N '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Eddie Quillan rides engagingly through the usual plot situations of this race track yarn which is lifted slightly above program melodrama class by good acting and Irving Pichel's direction."

—Christian Science Monitor p13 S 19 '36

"An unpretentious racing picture disguised as a costume piece of the Mauve Decade."

—News-Wk p27 S 5 '36

Trade Press Reviews

"Ordinary racetrack yarn has been given vigor by superior direction and adept acting in this programmer. The picture contains much more action than one would expect of a story that calls for costumes worn in Diamond Jim Brady's day. It hasn't much to offer in marquee decoration beside its cast of such names as Charles Henry, and the former's supporters may be disappointed in seeing the ex-character mongoloid sans his usual whiskers, playing virtually straight."

—Variety p17 S 16 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; +— Mediocre; — Poor; —Exceptionally Poor
GESUZZA, LA SPOSA GARIBALDINA. Cines Film Corp. N 3 '36
Director: Alessandro Blasetti
Italian dialogue film produced in Italy without English subtitles. "Historical drama dealing with the freeing of Naples and Sicily from Bourbon rule by heroic followers of Italy's great patriot Garibaldi." (Film Daily)

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"Despite its technical defects, this sketch ... is bound to grip both Italians and Americans familiar with the history of these days. This picture leaves the spectators hoping for another installment of a story which needs no retouching by scenarios... All of them act well, as do the rest of a numerous cast." H. T. S. + N Y Times p35 N 3 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"While lacking technical strength, this film story of heroic manhood and womanhood in the struggle for liberty is impressive entertainers." + Film Daily p11 N 4 '36
"It appears to be a foreign attempt with historical costumers, and is not without its exciting episodes. Uneven direction and varying pace permit story interest to dwindle, which are handicaps that even excellent photographic work and slick acting can't overcome. Because it develops into a cumberbund costume play, seems dubious if this feature will go well even with Italian language houses. No English titles, which means it's out for other U.S. theatres." + Variety p29 N 18 '36

GHOST PATROL. Puritan 55min Ag 3 '36
Cast: Tim McCoy. Claudia Dell. Walter Miller
Director: Sam Newfield
A western melodrama

Audience Suitability Ratings
"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency Ag 20 '36
"A, Y & C: fair." Parents' M p32 D '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"This time Tim McCoy rides down some desert air raiders with the aid of his trusty steed and saves Claudia Dell—but not the film—into the bargain. Adults." Christian Science Monitor p13 S 19 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"This Tim McCoy vehicle deviates from the out-and-out Western path and instead combines some G-man stuff with airplane material, resulting in a generally actionful melodrama that should please the McCoy fans and other neophytes as well." + Film Daily p7 S 10 '36
+ Motion Pict Daily p3 S 16 '36
"As with all McCos, good in all departments including interest held throughout." + Pila Exhibitor p35 S 15 '36

"Putting G-men into chaps and 10-gallon hats is something that had to happen but it doesn't add up to much for screen purposes. The picture is just another Western of the type the exhibitor buys when he calls up the exchange and asks 'em to send him a hoof opera. Try a double. Tim McCoy is rather stiff and Miss Dell only fair." + Variety p16 S 16 '36

GIRL FROM MAXIM'S. Hoffberg 55min O 1 '36
Cast: Frances Day. Lady Tree. Leslie Henson. George Grossmith
Director: Alexander Korda
Music: Kurt Shroder
Based on the play of the same title by George Bernard Shaw. It is a study of England about five years ago and just released here. "It is one of the most devilish, Mauve Decade farces ever, which it a bit of a service to the exhibitor married to an unattractive wife, goes to Maxim's on a spree, becomes involved with a chorus girl whom is mistaken for his wife, and then must try to explain his folly to his wife and a wealthy uncle." (N Y World-Telegram)

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A cheap production that has little or no entertainment value. Adults." — Nat Legion of Decency S 24 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"A hapless little farce that utterly wastes the services of a notable company, it is having a belated American showing. ... It is not obvious who the exhibitor should have been exhibited here. The most tolerant film-goer is not likely to find it entertaining. ... The playoff is much more a museum piece than its half-decade of age might suggest." Howard Barnes — N Y Herald Tribune p25 S 16 '36

"The film shows traces of age, especially in lighting and sound. Ever so, this madrigal has some of the Korda comedy and the Korda direction. ... The Girl from Maxim's does manage to ship up quite a bit of jollity now and then." Eileen Creelman + N Y Sun p23 S 16 '36

"The impious Paul Pry who operates the little World Cinema has tipped off all Alexander Korda's closet and dragged out a family skeleton called 'The Girl From Maxim's,' which Mr. Korda produced back in '31, when he was operating on a frayed shoestring and a frazzled nervous system. ... The photography is gray, the speech indistinct and the lively ladies of Maxim's are quite devilish in a mauve decadent way." R. S. Nugent — N Y Times p23 S 16 '36

"Having achieved an enviable reputation as a producer of outstanding films with his remarkable The Private Life of Henry VIII, Alexander Korda must now suffer the ignominy of having some of his pre-'Henry VIII' indiscretions flung back into his face by way of the public screens. ... Frankly, The Girl From Maxim's is a conspicuously mediocre film in every department of production. The direction is heavy-handed, the story is ridiculously, the dialogue is completely lacking in freshness or sparkle, and the acting, even though the cast includes some well known names, is pretty awful to contemplate." William Boehnel + N Y World-Telegram p25 S 16 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"If this production, made years ago, had been intended as a burlesque of a serious drama of early vintage you might laugh at it, but you laugh at it anyway because it is so unbelievably bad. ... Acted by an English cast, [which] goes through the [piece] parts with [it] that deal with over-emphasis, the material is so colorless and lacking in humor that it dwindles rapidly into the classification of just a plain borsome film without any excuse for being released." Film Daily p25 S 16 '36

"[This is] weak in practically all departments. Estimation of lengths for neighborhood, twin bills." Phila Exhibitor p39 O 1 '36

"[It] would mean little to the American box-office even if it boasted familiar name players. It was produced by Alexander Korda about five years ago, when the now-noted British producer was just getting started and..."
GIRL FROM MAXIM'S—Continued

Motion Picture Review Digest

When Charlie Rogers gave us 'My Man Godfrey,' his first production to come from the New Universal, he scored a success with which his second effort, 'The Girl on the Front Page,' lowers a note. But it has a case of too many cooks, as I see no less than five people are credited with having had something to do with it. Moreover, the picture, a complete waste of time spent in viewing it.

— Hollywood Spec p7 S 26 36

Take away Reginald Owen and there would be little left to recommend in 'The Girl on the Front Page.' Portraying a lesser role in a comic melodrama that is rarely accents humor or excitement, he takes over the show on several occasions with diverting results.

— N Y Herald Tribune p10 N 7 36

The Roxy this week has one of those newspaper comedy melodramas usually so irritating to those who have ever worked in a city room. 'The Girl on the Front Page' is a welcome exception, a slight, light little film, to be sure, but not diverting. The film's amusing performance is given by Reginald Owen as a slyly villainous butler. 'The Girl on the Front Page' is not a good picture for routine entertainment.'

— Eileen Creelman

What this country needs today, Mr. President, is another 5-cent cigar nor the nickel stein of beer but the CAA—Adjustment Administration—to blow under some of our motion-picture production before it works. A strong entertainment market. 'The Girl on the Front Page.' is not a capital offense, not a felony, nothing quite so bad. But it is a misdemeanor. Five writers are credited with the story and, having told it all in the picture in every five minutes, it is extended thereafter. Call it mediocre and extend your sympathies to the cast, particularly to Reginald Owen, who tried to make something of the sinister butler, and to Spring Byington as a bewildered matron.

— F. S. Nugent

“[H] is a spotty but reasonably diverting blend of love, wisecracks and blackmail that may not be any great shakes as art, but should keep you quite filled with its breezy humor and its fast moving events.... When it is said that 'The Girl on the Front Page' is spotty it does not mean that the film has been tied together carelessly but that rather that parts of it are so well managed that it is a pity all of it could not have been so well managed and executed. However, it is buoyant enough so that its slow patches can be forgiven, and if you are not too analytical you should find it breezy fun.”

— William Boehnel

“Movies, just movies.” John Mosher

New Yorker p117 N 14 36

“The Girl on the Front Page' gets there through the efforts of a couple of hard-working males who know what's in the realm of acting.... Edmund Lowe and Reginald Owen. The always smartly Edward G. Robinson, and his performance with such form and good humor that what might have been just another programmer (made today, dual-billed tomorrow and forgotten shortly) becomes considerably better than that.... Watch for the finale when Lowe rings a confession from Owen by placing his hand in Reggie's ribs; there's terror and exhaustion in a spine-chilling combination.”

— Herb Strock

“Assisted by a pair of classic performances—a tangle of Edmund Lowe and Reginald Owen—this yarn...is smart entertainment in a

— Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
big way and should be a tonic for an anemic box office. "Family." Box Office p19 S 26 '36

"Well-handled comedy-mystery with fine cast makes a sound hit off the shelf! " Film Daily p3 S 19 '36

"This is a first-rate, lively little programmer which will drop nicely into the lower bracket of twin bills and only occasionally earn a better rating because it is never quite definitely either melodrama or farce. As a hardboiled, cynical, detached director, Lowe turns in a top-flight performance, loaded with smooth wisecracking of the kind that is right down his alley. He has handled a thoroughly acceptable heroine and Spring Byington, as her mother, wrings every laugh possible from the material."

+ — Hollywood Reporter p4 S 16 '36

+ — Motion Pict Daily p11 S 17 '36

"Estimate: fair."

+ — Mo Film Bul p18 O 1 '36

"If Universal had spread one more layer of gloss over 'Girl on the Front Page,' it would have had a bangup comedy film. As it is, the production nearly arrived. But that margin of difference between a smoothly coated job, and one that shows a few chips, will also be the margin between big grosses and spotty intake. Especially so since the marquee weight is in that borderline class. [It] contains a flock of good laugh spots, many of them registering solidly, woven around an old wheel-horse of a framework."

+ — Variety p14 N 11 '36

[It] is rollicking fun. Expertly scripted and directed, it has real entertainment written all over it. Universal has a comedy-romance in this one that justifies the company's pledges to exhibitors. Although a newspaperACKET yarn, 'The Girl on the Front Page' far and away tops them all so far."

+ — Variety (Hollywood)* p3 S 16 '36

GIVE ME YOUR HEART. Warner 88 min J1 18 '36

Cast: Kay Francis, George Brent, Roland Young, Patric Knowles, Frieda Inescort

Director: Archie L. Mayo

See reviews: September 25, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

Kay Francis sucks through a good deal of the film but is good in the more emotional scenes. The first half is very slow, but when the scene shifts to America the pace quickens considerably. Quite good entertainment for those who can bear so much sentimentality. Suitability: adults & adolescents."

+ — Nat Bd of R M S 36 '36

"A difficult subject handled with admirable delicacy. Mature. Outstanding."

+ — Boston Transcript p4 S 26 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Roland Young by a brilliant performance saves his film from being another so-called example of mother-love. . . . But if Mr. Young and Miss Flint do steal the picture, it is because Miss Francis and Mr. Brent fall in their respective tasks. It is a case of the characters represented by the former couple being far more interesting than the central figures. . . . Miss Francis' beauty has been toned down to such an extent that her ability to be intelligently is proven once more here. As for Mr. Brent, he is alert and natural, besides being handsome."

+ — Boston Transcript p4 S 26 '36

"This production is easily Kay Francis' best work to date from a popular entertainment viewpoint. . . . Much of the credit must go to Miss Francis, who is as good as she has ever been, and to Roland Young, who has added something to his already considerable list of talents. The combination of Miss Francis' and Mr. Young's abilities is a most delicious one."

+ — New York Sun p31 S 17 '36

"Kay Francis never has nonsense around her. . . . "My, don't you suffer! I really don't believe that I have the heart to tell you about her anguish and her nobility."

— John Mosher

New Yorker p65 S 26 '36

"If [it] should prove vastly popular with better class matinee-mother. Brent's part is another one of those character parts that a well-handled actor can do well. Kay Francis has had since 'One Way Passage.' . . . A well-deserved pat on the back to Archie Mayo. A deal in the Bob Hope and Jack Benny line, with skill and taste, evaded Mr. Breen's edicts with subtility and effect."

— Herb Sterne

Script p52 S 26 '36

+ — Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor

"One picture to which I can conscientiously send you this month is 'Give Me Your Heart.' This is one written and acted for audiences over eleven years of age. It is as well done as a good stage play. Kay Francis doesn't always get my vote, but she can be awfully good as a woman with a problem on her mind, if she has to. The picture, however, is really Roland Young's. . . . The conversation in 'Give Me Your Heart' is intelligent first-hand—by not the sappy, repeat, picture-from-picture talk that we so frequently draw in the palace of the cinema. Not for children. . . ."

— Laura Elinston

+ — Life p50 N 10 '36

"Reworked from Jay Mallory's garrulous and confused drama. . . . It has failed signally to give the whole intended unity of the story. The photoplay has a number of those artificial moments that the screen contrives for tales of life. There are fragmentary interleudes of power in a random production. It was a thoroughly bad piece of casting that gave Kay Francis the part. She plays Belinda with studious detachment, missing the comedy of the complex and the role. Her acting is made all the more spurious by the suave assurance of Mr. Young. He manages the pseudo-psychological interpretation of the narrative, giving a clipped, humorous and rounded impersonation that is altogether delightful. Howard Barnes

— N Y Herald Tribune p18 S 17 '36

"'Give Me Your Heart,' belongs in the category of 'a woman's picture,' which usually means a man's picture, or a playgoer's play. The story gets off the beaten path of most scenarios and actually says something. . . . The situation, rather than the heroine, is well handled both by the scenarist and director."

— Archie L. Mayo

The director, has given the audience credit for some intelligence, a rare gift in a director."

— Eileen Creelman

+ — N Y Sun p31 S 17 '36

"[It] is an affecting, mature and sophisticated drama of mother-love and applied psychiatry. . . . The cast is thoroughly up to the task of bringing a basically exaggerated story to the screen in convincing form. Miss Francis, still amazingly gowned and handicapped by that distressing difficulty with her voice, Belinda, with pathos and reticence."

— F. S. Nugent

+ — N Y Times p18 S 17 '36

"Artfully contrived to better your emotions with its story of mother love, the film is a curious combination of sentiment, naïveté, and triteness that at times becomes genuinely affecting and at others downright preposterous and difficult to believe. . . . I suspect that on the whole 'Give Me Your Heart' is a fairly good film, full of the stuff of which cinema success is made and which accesses are sure you will enjoy it fairly well."

— William Boehnel

— N Y World-Telegram p32 S 17 '36

"Kay Francis never has nonsense around her. . . . "My, don't you suffer! I really don't believe that I have the heart to tell you about her anguish and her nobility."

— John Mosher

New Yorker p65 S 26 '36

"[It] should prove vastly popular with better class matinee mother. Brent's part is another one of those character parts that a well-handled actor can do well. Kay Francis has had since 'One Way Passage.' . . . A well-deserved pat on the back to Archie Mayo. A deal in the Bob Hope and Jack Benny line, with skill and taste, evaded Mr. Breen's edicts with subtlety and effect."

— Herb Sterne

Script p52 S 26 '36

+ — Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
Trade Paper Reviews

"It is the mother love theme all over again. Being specific rather than general in appeal, it is doubtful if it will receive more than average support. As entertainment it is not only of the talkie but suffers from lack of dramatic highlights. One of the virtues is some comedy but hardly enough to balance the long stretches where the story has difficulty in holding the interest... Miss Francis doesn’t make the part as real as it might have been. Nor does she have support around her that gives the story its maximum power."

+ Variety p16 S 16 '36

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: depends on taste; Y & C: thoroughly unwholesome."

Christian Century p1639 D 2 '36

"Decidedly not a picture for children, but will amuse adults." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Mae West is poorly cast. Her style is not suited to the part and her characterization of Mae West is no better than the absurd paradox of Gable's portrayal of the same story on the stage in 'Personal Appearance.' The picture has no outstanding sets or photography. It is destructive of ethical standards, somewhat demoralizing and totally lacking in charm. Mae West is fair for adults."

Calif Cong of Pard & Teachers

"The picture is full of action with amusing dialogue and situations but lacks subtlety. The delightful comedy comes from the lips of several members of the cast reveal clearly the limitations of the star; in such company Miss West's mannerisms seem all the more exaggerated and incongruous. Adults, if for any audience." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"[It is] a dull story... A disgusting characterization; slow not nearly as good as Gable's George's portrayal of the same story on the stage in 'Personal Appearance.' The picture has no outstanding sets or photography. It is destructive of ethical standards, somewhat demoralizing and totally lacking in charm. Mae West is fair for adults."

Calif Cong of Pard & Teachers

GO WEST, YOUNG MAN. Paramount 52min N 13 '36

Cast: Mae West, Warren William, Randolph Scott, Alice Brady, Elizabeth Patterson, Lyde Talbot, Isabel Jewell

Director: Henry Hathaway

Based on the stage success Personal Appearance by Lawrence Riley. In this satirical comedy Miss West plays the part of a Hollywood woman whose talent it is to keep her from indulging in romance or interludes with handsome men.

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"If you are not one of those who has built up a prejudice against Miss West's lusty humor, this picture ought to provide a satisfactory evening of entertainment for adults. It is not perhaps as satisfactory fare for juveniles."

Laura Elston

Canadian M p39 D '36

"Lengthy, coarse and not very funny, Mae West as Hollywood star destined for the sticks displays her limitations. Adults."

+ Christian Science Monitor p15 N 28 '36

"Someone has said that the sex in Mae West's newest picture is of elephantine subtlety. Vulgar would be more explicit, with the added disadvantage of establishing a new low mark in entertainment for the Mae West series. There is speculation, too, as to whether the net results of the Westian hi-jinies enjoy an immunity from the Production Code Administration in Hollywood. It is unadulterated Minsky."

J. P. Cunningham

— Commonweal p162 D 4 '36

"Cleverly weaving the West mannerisms into the story, Henry Hathaway's 'Lawrence Riley's Personal Appearance,' gave Mae a vehicle which by the expert direction of Henry Hathaway has been made into the best picture in which she has appeared. Only in her first screen appearance did she entertain me. All her previous pictures were based on the stage and the box-office in vulgarity. Riley's play capitalizes the walk, speech and eyes by making them legitimate devices in a decent story that will offend no one."

+ Hollywood Spec p11 N 21 '36

"This stage comedy... has lost considerably in its transfer to the screen for the screwball light comedy had a fresh slant on movieland eccentricities. Gladys George, now in the..."
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

films, portrayed the ornate Mavis Arden for comedy in the Broadway production. Miss West has a pleasing presence and sense of the showbiz. The result is a smudgy performance with considerable double meaning introduced into its proceedings. Go West, Young Man is a comedy and song fest. The result is Elizabeth Patterson as an elderly country spinster. (2 stars) Beverly Hills News-Wk. p10 D 3 '36

"Miss Mae West's addiction to a rolling water-front gait and speaking with fine impartiality through both nostrils come to small account in Go West, Young Man. It is possible that abandonment of the lace and bangle customs of the presumably gay '30's has altered the film's spirit and dulled it. In any event, her first tussle with modern dress and a modern story. Just about results in a draw. The plot of 'Personal Appearance'... is one of the most impolite and hilarious available in the theater. The film, for all that it uses the Riley dialog, does not emerge as a particularly comic item." + Lit Digest p26 N 28 '36

"Lawrence Riley's delightful and satirical stage successes, 'Personal Appearance,' has come to the screen dried of nearly all its comic qualities. It does retain a sketch of Miss Mae West in a slip-shod and tedious offering. Part of the fault lies in her extraordinarily inept adaptation of the play, but most of it due to her dull impersonation of what should have been a sure-fire role. She runs through her limited repertoire of acting tricks once and over again and even her efforts at innuendo are less ribald than ludicrous. The supporting company is 'ribald' but it fails to make the action merry or lucid." Howard Barnes, N Y Herald Tribune p18 N 19 '36

"[The] film by late afternoon had shattered the box office records of even the popular 'Broadcast of 1937.' [It is] one of Mae West's best directed films... Necessarily changed for screen purposes, 'Go West, Young Man' remains a hilarious farce. The cleverness, however, has not affected Mae West, who can still draw a double entendre into the most casual remark." Eileen Creelman + N Y Sun p22 N 19 '36

"The suavely undulating Mae West is back on the Paramount screen with a new and engaging personality. Generally speaking, 'Personal Appearance' has lost little in Miss West's edition... The salty idiom and the lass's expository passages, however, has not affected Mae West, who can still draw a double entendre into the most casual remark." Howard Barnes, N Y Times p31 N 19 '36

"Although most of the ruddier aspects of Lawrence Riley's 'Personal Appearance' have been washed away... enough torrid moments have been substituted to make the picture an impudently piquant entertainment. 'Go West, Young Man' may not brisk an hotchka as the original from which it stems, but it is frisky enough and genial enough to be enjoyed... Nobody stands a chance by those who like a dash of spice in their entertainment." William Boehnle + N Y World-Telegram p23 N 19 '36

"The film is Director Henry Hathaway's first comedy. It is known for its boxoffice successes as 'Lives of a Bengal Lancer' and 'The Trail of the Lonesome Pine,' he takes kindly to the new type of material. However, the film continues to be very much herself... 'Go West, Young Man' is strictly Mae West's field day... and straight for Mae West fans only." Howard Barnes, News-Wk. p20 N 25 '36

"Go West, Young Man' is as deliberately ribald as the stage farce, but not nearly so funny. The best comedy is supplied by Mae and Randolph Scott in scenes that are highly inexcusable. The film is inexcusably jerky, badly directed, and dramatically worthless... after the climax on the sofa at 2 a.m. ... Unless [Mae West's] votes are more tenacious and spectacular than one is forced to assume it is, she must learn some new business or spend more time in the dressing room, writing her next perfect story. 'Go West, Young Man' would have been much better with any one of half a dozen less familiar and no less amusing devices, and that, I fear, amounts to a major criticism." R. S. Ames + Daily Script p10 D 5 '36

"Lawrence Riley's super big at the cinema queens has afforded the resourceful Miss West a miraculous opportunity. She is here disposed to make the best of it. If you are a Mae West fan, you'll slap your knee and roar. Even if you aren't a Mae West fan, you won't be able to resist this magnificent poke at pretense." Stage p16 D 5 '36

"While other producers are trying to be dauntly, [Mae West] tries to be ribald. In 'Go West, Young Man'... her efforts are, as usual, unsuccessful." + Time p25 N 23 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Showmen can go to town with this latest Mae West hit with every confidence that the take at the box offices will be as strong as it ever was. Miss Mae West's new film comes through with the best Westmanian with a performance which at least ties, if not tops, anything she has ever done." + Box Office p51 N 14 '36

"Mae West is back with us once more. So what, say you! So far as yours truly is concerned, what's-Mae also sums up my attitude to the voluptuous Mae. What did I think of the picture? I am afraid that I don't know how to spell the word that describes it, but I believe that in polite society it is termed the 'razzberry.'... As for the performance of Mae West, it is altogether very, very, very badly; your guess is as good as mine. Direction is by Henry Hathaway, who also directed a number of a 'Bengal Lancer.' How are the mighty fallen!" + Canadian Moving Pic Digest p8 D 5 '36

"This will garner plenty of laughs... It is an ideal vehicle for Mae West and she delivers solidly. Henry Hathaway has done a good job of directing. Warren William comes through with a splendid performance." + Film Daily p13 N 6 '36

"The story has been fitted out with a multiplicity of gags, many of which have nothing episodic and cumbersome instead of swift and to do with the tale, and in consequence it is sparkling and is also well provided with Westian wisecracks for guffaw purposes, but will give the censors less trouble than usual. However, it is strictly for the Mae West fans. The Mae West glamor, assisted by some stunning gowns and some good portrait photography is not lacking and is helped on with a ample of ballads,... But the part as played is wholly unsympathetic and unreal... Director Hathaway is the only person of the cast but adroitly saves individual episodes. The production as a whole lacks distinction and is hardly an auspicious beginning of the film. Emanuel Cohen uses his new Paramount releasing contract." + Hollywood Reporter p3 N 3 '36

Motion Pic Daily p8 N 4 '36

"Though written by her, the picture screams satire at the industry, as actresses like herself. But Mae West fans depend on her..." + Phila Exhibitor p49 N 15 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
GO WEST, YOUNG MAN—Continued

[It] is on the way to snug profits. Aided by an excellent title ‘Go West, Young Man’ cannot miss. Miss West, in her own way, is excellent in the role Miss George created on the stage.

+ Variety p44 N 25 '36

"No Mae West picture has been more Westful or more zestful. It is earthy, erotic, pungent—broad comedy pitched at its most entertaining level—providing in ample measure all . . . the [enticements] West legions have to expect and they get it with this ribald farceur. The picture will be heavily touted, and young men and old will heed the title, ‘Go West, Young Man,’ with generous profit to producer and exhibitor from the ace palaces well down the line. . . . For all its broad lines and its calculated entertainment variance, the picture doesn’t overstep the bounds of offensiveness within the censorial permission.

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 3 '36

GOLD DIGGERS OF 1937. Warner-Fisher National 95min D 26 '36

Director: Lloyd Bacon
Dances: Busby Berkeley

Music director: Leo F. Forstehle

Based on the play Sweet Mystery of Life by Richard Malbaum, Michael Wallach and George Hearst musicals featuring a high-staged story concerned with an insurance company taking over a musical production after the producer has been insured for a million dollars.

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“It is a well-worn formula, and one that has produced results and will doubtless produce them again. [It] varies only in incidentals from its predecessors. . . . However, it is still an eyeful, and you could probably do worse, as you could certainly do better. But by any count, it is a pleasant and harmless evening.”

Laura Elston

+ Canadian M p99 D 2 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This can be rated as the best of the 'Gold Diggers' series. It has a far better story than the usual musical comedy and is loaded with legitimate laughs."

+ Film Daily p7 D 2 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p6 D 1 '36

"'Gold Diggers of 1937' should be a gold-digging picture for those exhibitors who are lucky enough to have it on their schedules. Lavishly produced from story and script that are substantial, flashy and endowed with a cast of bang-up performers, it stands out as one of the most entertaining musicals of this or any other year. Dick Powell's part is a natural. His singing of all four songs in the picture ranks with his best vocal work on the screen and his acting as a huckster is a landmark. Joan Blondell, in a less rowdy part than she usually draws, is more personable and more appreciated. Victor Moore, as a hypochondriac producer, almost steals the show."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 20 '36

GORGEOUS Hussy’. MGM 165min Ag 25 '36

Director: Clarence Brown

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; ++ Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The picture is an excellent fusion of historical and romantic elements, and it has been directed with taste and distinction." T. J. Fitzmorris

+ + America p562 S 12 '36

"Direction is outstanding, the story is skillfully unfolded, and the attention to detail, costume and settings is unusually good. The picture is a fascinating presentation of one of the most fascinating periods of American history, Adolescents, 12-16; excellent; children, 8-12: beyond their understanding."

+ Motion Pict 25 R p9 '36

"A and Y: excellent; C: too mature."

Parents’ M p42 N '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"It is rather pleasant to find an historical subject that is in itself intensely interesting, yet has not served before as the basis for a motion picture. . . It provides delightful movie material."

Laura Elston

+ Canadian M p45 O '36

"[It] is a well-written screen play, handsomely photographed. Family."

+ Christian Science Monitor p13 S 19 '36

"Most moviegoers will go to see 'The Gorgeous Hussy.' No one of the lovely posters of La Crawford in Bob Taylor's arms, rather than at the promptings of history. If so, you'll be disappointed. Taylor plays a bouncing, mercurial sailor boy who dies at the end of the second reel. . . Miss Crawford travels under wraps as Peggy. 'I'm afraid history frightened her.' (2½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p35 O 10 '36

"[It] is a studied, well-made picture, only half of it by Beulah Bondi, acts very reasonably; Robert Taylor and Miss Crawford commendably."

+ New Statesman & Nation p589 O 17 '36

"Like a lot of statesmen in 1828, the M.G.M. outfit in 1936 failed to take Andrew 'Old Hickory' Jackson into serious enough consideration; and 'The Gorgeous Hussy' emerges the story of a gusty Presidency. President Jackson and his pipe-smoking Rachel recreate a robust section of history. All by themselves: Peggy succurs about in their shadows unable to assume the titular responsibilities of a spectac- lar production. Hollywood glamour has become confused with historical glamour—that's what happens to 'The Gorgeous Hussy. You may like Hollywood glamour, though."

Stage p24 O '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This picture has all the fundamental elements that go to spell out good box office. The story will probably not hold quite as much appeal for Canadian audiences as it will for those in the United States."

+ Canadian Moving Pict Digest p6 O 31 '36

GREAT O'MALLEY. Warner 70mm F 13 '37

Director: William Dieterle

Based on the novel The Making of O'Malley by Gerald Beaumont. This is a remake of a First Nations silent film. The most potent of its qualities is that of a young New York cop (Pat O'Brien) who, following in the footsteps of his policeman father, thinks that the only thing to do is to enforce the letter of the law. He gives a ticket to Humphrey Bogart, who is going on the first job he had in twelve years. The delay causes him to lose the job and in desperation to feed his wife and her crippled child, he pulls a holdup and is sent to prison." (Variety (Hollywood))
Trade Paper Reviews

“A heart-warming program comedy-drama that is among the best of this year’s crop of musicals...” Hollywood Reporter

“...is the kernel of a successful remake. ...”. Motion Pict Daily

“...The new version wins itself a chorus line and a cliché-laden script. It is...”. Variety

“Hollywood obviously counts with the more lent characters and..”. Variety (Hollywood)

“...That which is necessary to make a picture spell box office has been poured into ‘The Great O’Malley’ in generous quantities. The picture should do plenty of business on the big runs and crowd them in when it hits the neighborhood houses. ...” Director William Dieterle has not missed in his efforts. Every scene shows the touch of director control.” Variety (Hollywood)

“Greater Promise. Amsnko $8m On 7 ’36

Director: V. Korsch-Sahlin

Russian dialogue film with English subtitles produced in Biobridijan, Russia. The plot is based around the life of a Jewish family who migrated to Biobridijan from a foreign country, and there formed with the help of neighbors a Collective Soviet unit.” Hollywood Reporter

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“It offers the warm-hearted wholesome optimism of the Russian films on national minorities. Ziska...figures in several of the most genuinely comic episodes films of recent months have provided. On the filmic side, however, it must be said that ‘A Greater Promise’ is rather elementary. Film estimate: you’re doing all right.”

— New Theatre p22 N ’36

“With the aisles jammed and a waiting line of patrons, the new picture at the Cameo yesterday morning appeared to be in for a long run.” [It] is an interesting and humorous account of the transplanted individuals’ achievements and failures. Indeed, it is this excellent script upon which results in the picture’s absorbing human interest, while involving the story is mellower in its point of view and more talented in its performance than earlier films issuing from the Soviet Union.” Marguerite Tazelaar

— N Y Herald Tribune p18 O 9 ’36

“Beautiful photography, excellent landscape scenes and a picturization of the conquest of the Siberian wilderness are combined with a mildly interesting romance. ‘A Greater Promise,’ a fairly entertaining film record.” H. T. S.

— N Y Times p27 O 8 ’36

“Melodrama and pure propaganda are mixed with dubious results in ‘A Greater Promise’. ...Although the narrative is obvious and jerky, the interpolated songs are in the film. The characters are full of vitality and humor and the acting is of a decidedly superior quality. But then...the film does not come off with any great distinction.” William Boehnel

— N Y World-Telegram p33 O 8 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

“...‘It’ is artstically meritorious, but cold emotionally. It is a propaganda film which makes a deliberate appeal to race and to class, and Jews, whom this film would indicate the Soviet is befriending, may object to it. ...Obviously the film, on behalf of the Soviet, is inviting Jews of the country to settle and develop the wild Biobridijan country, which in case of war with Japan could become among Russia’s first lines of defense. This is a highly plausible talk, condemning those whom it pretends to help.” Variety p23 O 21 ’36

HAPPY GO LUCKY. Republic $5m D 14 ’36

Director: Aubrey Scotto

Manager: Harry Crawford

“Basic plot is the standardized double identity one. An American aviator with secrets of a new aviation mechanism is reported lost at sea. But his heart believes in the war effort by singing in a Shanghai theater. Loss of memory is accepted as the reason why the singer does not recognize her.” Hollywood Reporter

Trade Paper Reviews

“A very pleasing, although unpretentious musical production, which will do well by Regan, Republic and Mr. John Q. Exhibitor. The singing of Regan is strictly class A, and he handles his comedy role with ease. Family.”

— Box Office p31 D 5 ’36

“This comedy mystery, with music makes good program fare. Phil Regan, playing a dual role, gives an excellent performance and handles three songs very effectively....Aubrey Scotto did a splendid job of directing. Colbert Clark rates credit as associate producer.”

— Film Daily p7 D 5 ’36

“This is a mixture of melodrama, farce and music. Well-knitted together fare. A satisfactory program fare. It is strictly hokum, but it is apparent that its makers never took the yarn too seriously and built it with a tongue-in-cheek routine to get a maximum of laughs. It will have its chief appeal in the secondary situations, where it will be a good bolster for any bill. ...It is apparent that the picture was made in short time and on a limited budget, but the direction by Aubrey Scotto and treatment of the hokum, plus acceptable work from Evelyn Venable, the romantic interest, Jed Prouty, his father, and the remainder of the cast, help to round out a pleasing programer.”

— Hollywood Reporter p3 N 30 ’36

— Motion Pict Daily p7 D 3 ’36

“Smartly concocted comedy melodrama with music, ‘Happy Go Lucky’ is one of Republic’s most entertaining offerings, having sufficient production quality, story interest and melody to rank well in the program class and justify substantial reservations for profits. Once the audience is beguiled into accepting the idea that two total strangers can be so nearly identical that even the aviator’s beloved can’t tell them apart, the semi-farceal narrative is on its way for a session of light amusement and excellent music. Regan’s personality gets over impressively and in song he is comparable to several of the more highly touted numbers.”

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 30 ’36

+ + Exceptionally Good; Good; + Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
HERE COMES CARTER. First national 60min C 9 '36
Cast: Ross Alexander, Glenda Farrell. Anne Nagel, Craig Reynolds, Hobart Cavanaugh
Director: William Clemens
See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film under title of Tallulah which was the former title.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: good of kind; Y: amusing; C: fair."

- Calif of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Good. Mature." DAR

"Farretched, frothy and in rapid tempo, this 'Walter Winchell' story will amuse some adults." Nat Soc of New England Women

"A picture demonstrating courage and faith that the earth will subdue and dominate the right, which will appeal to a rather mature audience." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"Rather poor type of comedy with questionable ethics. Mature." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul N 7 '36
Fair. Family-mature.

+ - Motion Pic Guide D '36

"This is an involved and meaningless tale. The acting and direction are competent, but do not redeem the story from its innate vulgarity. A-G, ages 12-15: low ethical standards; children, 8-12: no interest."

- Motion Pic R p8 O '35

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency N 19 '36
A & Y: fair satirical comedy; C: no interest.

Parents' M p32 D '36

"[It is] a fairly interesting film. The cast is a well directed and fast moving; the repartee is clever and breezy and one gets an interesting view of a broadcasting studio. Family, except for young children."

+ - Sel Motion Pic p8 O 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[It is a] medium program comedy. Family."

+ - Christian Science Monitor p15 N 7 '36

"This all may point a moral lesson. However, its reasoning and purpose baffle me. The best performance is contributed by John Sheehan as a tough gangster with a weakness for movie first nights. (1½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p44 D 19 '36

"It really begins to look as if we were in for a 'Here Comes' cycle, in the lower brackets of the films. The dialogue, surprisingly enough, is better than that of many technically more important productions. Mr. Alexander seems to be a very good Epstein, Jack Benny, with a better gag-man than Jack's and at least as glib a delivery—the ease and self-assurance of his performance has never been exceeded by Mr. Benny himself. The picture has one or two amusing gangster intervals to recommend it. Particularly amusing is a particularly smooth and wittily cast pattern, and very little else." B. R. C.

- + N Y Times p23 N 14 '36

"No one should be materially upset by the mild little comedy called 'Here Comes Carter.' An amiable and unpretentious mixture of satire and romance, it never for a moment pretends to be anything more than it is—a reasonably diverting and pleasant affair that can be enjoyed for some sixty minutes and forgotten with the greatest pleasure on the way out of the theater." William Boehnel

- N Y World-Telegram p27 N 17 '36

"An unpretentious program-filler that lampoons radio celebrities, the police industry and, quite unconsciously, itself. You've undoubtedly heard those gossip spouters over the air—these fast-talking gents who travel with their heels and leave a swath of ruffled reputations in the wake of each broadcast. Not a very likeable person, and Ross Alexander accentuates the bombastic character to the point of irritation. Ross purveys a laugh that's an annoyance. Glenda Farrell isn't done right by, in assignment or camera work."

Herb Stern

- + Script p10 O 31 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Ross Alexander breezes through this light morsel and manages to hold the interest in a script that is none too deftly written. But it will please the drop-in type of trade and the neighborhoods."

- + Film Daily p3 N 14 '36

+ - Motion Pic Daily p2 O 24 '36

"Estimate: for neighborhoods, twin bills."

- + Phila Exhibitor p34 S 15 '36

"[It does not quite click, not only on account of its implausibility but because it is slowly paced and too dependent upon the fervent actions of Ross Alexander, who is more and more overworking his expression and his manner to the point of Growing smart alecky rather than breezy and if given too much of the footage is apt to tire if the story cannot carry him. Can work on a dual, but will hit bottom as a single."

- Variety p35 N 18 '36

HIDEAWAY GIRL. Paramount 60min N 20 '36
Director: George Archainbald

Based on a novel Cabin Cruiser by David Garth. The story centers around Shirley Ross as a mysterious girl who is running away from the police and, when hidden away by Robert Cummings on his enormous yacht, refuses to account for her past. A debauched life is growing smart alecky rather than breezy and if given too much of the footage is apt to tire if the story cannot carry him. Can work on a dual, but will hit bottom as a single."

- Hollywood Reporter

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Comedy portion is amusing in some details, but on the whole unpleasantly coarse. Uncalled for drinking. Matter of taste for adults."

Am Legion Auxiliary

"Only for the limited group who enjoy noise and vulgarity will Hideaway Girl hold audience appeal. The dialogue is trite and there is too much of it. Whatever dramatic possibilities the story might have had are overshadowed by the downing of Martha Raye. This film has stupid direction and unbelievably poor acting. It is decided that drinking and suggestive drinking, thieving and a too intimate bedroom sequence. Adults: matter of taste; S & 15: no."

Calif of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

- [1] opens with high promise. However, coincidence plays too great a part in the solution of the mystery, the romance develops entirely too quickly for plausible and an unpleasant sequence with Martha Raye prevents the picture from being other than mediocre entertainment."

- + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + - Fair; + - Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
"Family, but mature for children. Good." Day, The

"The film is filled with vulgar slapstick and music which is an assault to one's ears. A romantic little song agreeably sung by Shirley Ross and interpolated photography are not enough to save this worthless picture. Adults, if any."

Nat Soc of New England Women

"All attempts at dignity in the picture are defeated by crude, blatant, slapstick comedy on the part of the newly featured radio artist, Martha Raye, and the overemphasized drinking scenes reduce the ethical and social values to almost nil. Adults." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bull N 21 '36

"Though swiftly paced and well staged, the picture is unworthy of the ability of the attractive young leads and offers little in the way of entertainment. Entirely too much drinking."

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 19 '36

"This is a pleasing musical comedy which gives opportunity for the talents of Martha Raye and her particular type of humor and songs. Clever stagecraft, good photography and plentiful and pleasing music. Excessive drinking. Family."

Nat Council of Jewish Women N 11 '36

"Objectionable in parts."

Nat Legion of Decency N 19 '36

Sel Motion Pict p6 D 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"A pleasant, nicely mounted and well directed offering which will do much to increase the popularity of the two young players destined to accumulate large armies of fans. Shirley Ross and Robert Cummings are suited admirably to play the parts assigned them. Martha Raye [is] heavily exploited as a headliner in 'Hideaway Girl.' In her drunken scene in 'Rhythm on the Range,' Martha reveals a flash of comedy genius, just an intimation of something which is susceptible of development. In 'Hideaway Girl' she manages to be only an irritating element, shouting songs in an unmusical, harsh voice, working her generous mouth into grotesque shapes and disporting herself generally in a manner inconsistent with the moods of the scenes in which she appears. This, one could have been a thoroughly satisfactory piece of screen entertainment if it had not been mutilated to force Martha Raye on the public."

Hollywood Spec p16 N 21 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Mediocre musical mystery—with Martha Raye cast in a role which limits her abilities. Family."

Box Office p51 N 14 '36

"A slim but moderately entertaining farce—comedy-melodrama that is given pulmolor treatment with songs sung by Shirley Ross and Martha Raye. The music, which is new, helps considerably. Especially the comedy; the romance nor the melodrama elements are strong enough to stand alone. With all four rather ad libbed, the comedy is the most of what was evidently pretty tough going."

Hollywood Reporter p8 N 7 '36

"Modern programmer best for twin bill requirements unless the presence of Shirley Ross and Martha Raye help. 'Hideaway Girl' is just a so-so."

Philpa Exhibitor p52 N 15 '36

"Strictly B class production in every proportion, mediocre in essential entertainment and having no established names to pull it through the bog, 'Hideaway Girl' will have to fight for place in the lesser duals. [The] screen play is banal, the acting generally weak and effort to sustain suspense labored, with direction by George Archainbaud lacking the zest and assuredness to overcome the defects."

Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 7 '36

HOLLYWOOD BOULEVARD. Paramount 75min Aug 21 '36

Cast: John Halliday, Marsha Hunt, Robert Cummings, C. Henry Gordon, Esther Ralph, Esther Dale, Frieda Inescort

Director: Harry C. Tazelaar

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"An older generation of movie-goers, who are afflicted by nostalgic pangs at the mere mention of a faded star, may find this film of absorbing interest. Although I am not unduly sentimental, I find this wholesale rattling of bones and parading of Hollywood casualties not an appeal to my personal taste, rather depressing in the main. John Halliday has the lead and does admirably by it. This is also for the advanced list." T. J. Fitzmorris

"A: trash; Y & C: no."

Christian Century p1435 O 28 '36

"The tone of the film is uncertain. It sets out light-hearted, and then suddenly becomes heavily moral and obsessed with the unpleasantries of Hollywood life. Hollywood comes in for some nasty cracks, but misses the score of cal- lowness. Suitability: adults & adolescents."

Mo Film Bul p125 S 30 '36

"Those who read the film fan magazines might care for this. Adolescents, 12-16 & children, 12-10."

Motion Pict R p6 O '36

"A, Y and C: fairly interesting."

Parents' M p12 N '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"This picture, like its main character, is the rather dull decline of a very minor comet. Adults."

Christian Science Monitor p13 S 26 '36

"The germ of an absorbing human-interest story lies behind 'Hollywood Boulevard,' no doubt, but as presented currently it has failed to jell. The elements in entertainment that is often lurid, dull at times, and painfully average throughout for the intelligent observer. As for the picture itself—shallow characters, flat drawing, the cheap, flimsy, hackneyed story, the obvious cliches and the nasty treatment make it mediocre. Marguerite Tzczalar

"[It is a] sorry combination of cynicism and maudlinism. . . . It is a pretty hoary melodrama and slight enough excuse for a whole series of homilies upon the uncertainty of fame and fortune in the glamour city. And we felt pathetically embarrassed for the former stars and featured players. . . . Hollywood, having neglected them all these years, at least should have had the decency and goodness of heart to make them parade themselves as Exhibits A, B and C of the Forgotten Men and Women of filmdom. 'Hollywood Boulevard' is hardly a sporting gesture." F. S. Nugent

San Francisco Times p26 S 21 '36

"A competent performance by that splendid actor, John Halliday . . . is the chief blessing of Hollywood Boulevard, the tedious and blundering title rattling up a teenage Hollywood star. . . Mr. Halliday uses every trick he knows to keep the film believable and bearable, but the two romantic leads, Robert Cummings and Marsha Hunt, are played as incompetently as the film is written and directed." William Boehnel

World-Telegram p16 S 21 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; ++ Mediocre; -- Poor; --- Exceptionally Poor
HOLLYWOOD BOULEVARD—Continued

"Despite a superb performance by John Halliday asBlakeford, and effective work by Marsha Hunt and Robert Cummings as the love interest, the picture fails to rise above the second-feature level."
 — News-Wk p27 S 26 '36

"The current excursion into Celluloid City starts off with a good idea and then loses a considerable part of it in a morass of trick angles and subplots. "Hollywood Boulevard" is something you'll probably want to see because of Marsha Hunt's haunting loveliness . . . and the chance to welcome a host of past favorites back to a profession that needs 'em." Herb Sterne

— Script p10 S 19 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Rabid fans will dote upon 'Hollywood Boulevard' and the general rank-and-file will be entertained. It has unexpected virtues, having one of the best scripts ever possessed by an on-the-scene-in-Hollywood picture. It has the advantage of introducing its old timers intelligently and plausibly."
 + Variety p16 S 23 '36

HOPALONG CASSIDY RETURNS. Paramount

72min O 10 '36
Director: Nate Watt
A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Fast action and good photography are depended upon to put over this banal story of early mining days. In spite of the hackneyed plot, it will be entertaining to those who enjoy Westerns. Family-mature, (Too much gun play for children.)" Am Legion Auxiliary

"The usual bad men, dance hall girls, gambling, drinking and a brutal scene where the crippled editor of the local paper is lassoed in his wheel chair and dragged to his death. Adults: poor; 11-13: good; 8-14: no." Calif Cong of P & Teachers

"The story is well told, with sufficient 'punch' to save it from being an ordinary Western. The high principles and courage of this familiar character give a wholesomeness to every picture in this series—this one, however, being a bit more sophomoric in tone than the others. Good for type. Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Picturesque natural settings; hard drinking; much shooting. Mature. Mediocre." DAR

"Varied scenes and fine horsemanship in a film which depicts the worst features of the old time West. Adults." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Although true to type, the usually trite shooting, drinking and rowdysim are not overdone and the old time 'shindigs' have been omitted, all to make a better class Western. Very suitably cast with appropriate dialogue. Family," S Calif Council of Fed Church Women, Women's Fil W C Coast Bul O 24 '36

"[It is] another exciting Western. Family." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) O 19 '36

"Those who enjoy Westerns will find the latest of the Hopalong Cassidy series much to their taste with its dash and swing, excellent riding, strong story and the best of the frontier heroes, William Boyd. These films boast better direction with fewer hitches in action, than most of their kind. There is one scene which will bring shudders to many, the spectacle of an invalid dragged to his death in a wheel chair. Such an exhibition of wanton cruelty is unnecessary and to be deplored, especially in a picture which will attract junior audiences. Adolescents, 12-16: questionable; children, 8-12: no." Motion Pict R p6 N '36

― [It is] a very mediocre Western . . . A waste of time for any audience."
 — Nat Council of Jewish Women O 14 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency O 29 '36

"& Y: poor; C: no." Parents' M p16 Ja '37

"[It is] a stereotyped Western . . . The only relieving feature is the scenery. Adults & young people." — Sel Motion Pict p1 N 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Showmen can welcome Hopalong back with every confidence. This first of Harry Sherman's new series will be a success at the turnstiles. Family." + Box Office p63 O 17 '36

"This Hopalong is one of the best in the series. It has more plot and more dramatics than the previous ones, and it stacks up as an outdoor picture of the best grade."
 + Film Daily p8 O 12 '36

"With stories, production and direction constantly improving, this is undoubtedly the best of the Hopalong Cassidy series. It represents a completely satisfactory hour of all-family entertainment and any exhibitor who has done well with the Hopalongs before should do better with this." + Hollywood Reporter p3 O 8 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p13 O 9 '36

"It holds to the high standard set last season. Estimate: okey."
 + Pict Exhibitor p33 N 1 '36

"With a substantial following built on former pictures in the series, 'Hopalong Cassidy Returns' is a cinch to bear fruit at the wickets wherever it is played. Film has that ample punch to bring them in. It's truly a Western, with all players portraying their characterizations in an magnificent style. Competently written, acted, directed and produced, this film shouldn't be hard to sell. It's just what the customers like—\--in the proper theatre line." + Variety (Hollywood) p8 O 3 '36

HOUSE OF SECRETS. Chesterfield 67min O 26 '36
Cast: Leslie Fenton. Muriel Evans. Sidney Blackmer
Director: Roland Reed

"[It is the story of] an American who finds himself not only heir to a large English estate but also the center of much interest on the part of Scotland Yard. He is helped by a friend, who is also a detective, sent upon a different mission." Sel Motion Pict

Audience Suitability Ratings

"An absorbing mystery drama. Adults & young people." E Coast Preview Committee

+ Film W C Coast Bul N 7 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency N 5 '36

"A, Y & C: fair melodrama." Parents' M p16 Ja '37

"Good acting, smooth and fast direction and an excellent climax are combined in an entertaining film. Adults & young people." + Sel Motion Pict p10 N 1 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor
I COVER CHINATOWN. Banner 64min.
Cast: Norman Foster. Elaine Shepard.
Director: Norman Foster
"Locale is San Francisco's Chinatown, where a cold-blooded trunk murder is committed by the elder of two crooks who deal in stolen goods and run a store for a 'front.'" Film Daily

Trade Paper Reviews

"Produced by Banner Pictures, this one will please patrons at the smaller theaters who thrive on suspense, excitement and melodrama. Although dialogue, direction and some of the acting are not highly polished, they're adequate to get the yarn across."

"+ Film Daily p4 Ag 25 '36
"Estimate: seven independent action pictures."

+ Film Exhibitor p40 O 15 '36

IN HIS STEPS. Grand national 75min S 22 '36
Director: Karl Brown
Based on the novel of the same title by Charles M. Sheldon. "It tells the tale of the son and daughter of two wealthy families who marry under age and against their parents' consent. There is a business feud on between the heads of the families. The young couple elope, and hide on the farm of the minister who marries them, because the young man faces a prison sentence of ten years for kidnapping the bride." Film Daily

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The charm of pious simplicity, the real influence of the boy and girl against the absorbing greed of wealth and power is so realistically brought out that there is no consciousness of the sermon. Excellent entertainment. Family-mature." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Family. Adults & 14-18: excellent; 8-14: mature." Calif Cour of Par & Teachers
"This picture, with its fine spiritual theme is handled in a delightfully entertaining manner throughout with sufficient comedy interspersed to relieve the inherent seriousness. Rating: very good. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Constructive philosophy. Mature-family. Good." CAR

"Mature audiences (over 16)." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Worthwhile entertainment, especially appealing to young people. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"The straightforward sincerity of this picture commends it to a varied audience. It leaves the audience a pleasant memory of an association, with worth while human characters. Family." Women's Unity Club, Los Angeles

+ Fox W Coast Bull O 3 '36

"There is a fine balance of the elements of good entertainment, humor, pathos, swift action and romance. Delightfully entertaining, inspiring and thought-provoking. Family."

+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 16 '36

"Mature."

+jt Estimates S 15 '36

"There is uplift and inspiration in this picture though at times the preaching is obvious. Family."

Nat Council of Jewish Women S 21 '36

"A deeply moving story with fine moral values. Adults."

+ Nat Legion of Decency O 1 '36

"A, Y and C: good. Parents' M p12 N '36

Scholastic p23 O 31 '36

"Mature."

Sel Motion Pict p3 O 1 '36

"Full of good characterizations and amusing incidents, the book, counteracts the racy made plot, which has only the remotest connection with the novel from which it takes its title. Family." Film Daily

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Family." Christian Science Monitor p13 O 10 '36

"Grand National Pictures makes its debut with the picturization of Chandler M. Sheldon's book, and thereby comes the resurrection of the old Pathe, which will not engage in stag- ing photoplays, however, but with that new the new Grand National. While the first effort of the offspring of such an illustrious parent is certainly not crystalized, the amalgamation of production experience of the predecessor, it does bear healthy signs of a freshness of thought and treatment." P. Cunningham

+ — Commonweal p560 O 9 '36

"This is not for sophisticated audiences. Yet there is no denying a certain simple elemental appeal." (2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p37 N 7 '36

"In its favor the picture has clear and explicit direction, a motive lofty and scriptural, and sincere and conservative performance. By Miss Parker and Mr. Linden. On the other hand, the court scene at the end is so artificial it is ludicrous, while much of the story force is disseminated by its implausibility." Marguerite Tazelaar

+ — NY Herald Tribune p23 O 29 '36

"The screenplay is an old-fashioned drama, heavy with platitudes and ringing references to the more sterling virtues. It is exactly like a nineteenth century novel come to life. The acting, like plot and atmosphere, is old-fashioned, with no great attempt at characterization. The people are symbols rather than individuals. The picture seems slightly incongruous in 1936, rather like a period piece. Since the book is still doing well in the bookstalls, the picture will probably have an appeal to those too young to know the novel and can overlook its decided shortcomings as a modern movie." Eileen Creelman

+ — N Y Sun p29 O 29 '36

"[It] is home spun cinema stuff, with all the irritations that those accustomed to more artful woven fables usually experience from that commodity. J. T. M.

N Y Times p31 O 29 '36

"Sweetness and sentiment are drawn out to the point of pain in 'In His Steps,' one of those helpful little extravaganzas that stimulate the innocent of heart to noble emotions and kindly deeds. Although its speech is a lot of naive prattle and its cunning ways are just a straw worn the kindergarten, it attempts to teach us again the sturdy lessons of love,
IN HIS STEPS—Continued
self-sacrifice and regeneration." William Boehnal
+ + N Y World-Telegram p19 O 29 '36
Reviewed by John Mosher
New York p38 N 7 '36
"Grand National Pictures' first production will satisfy no one who like to weep. Nobly but sloppily, 'In His Steps' dramatizes Charles M.
Sheldon's best seller.
News-Wk p35 O 3 '36
Trade Paper Reviews
"Producer E. F. Zeldman has given the new Grand National a picture with which it can make a proud debut. With ample entertainment values and based on a generally popular book and theme, the film is ably produced, directed and enacted. It will do business Kd augurs well for the place Grand National will occupy in production and exhibition fields. Film
+ + Box Office p63 S 19 '36
"At the Astor Theater where the trade show was held, the women folks were sniffing all over the house for twenty minutes before the picture finished—and were still sniffing as it closed. It's that kind of a love story, and based on a conception it is hard to figure how it can miss. [It is] one of the most dramatically emotional plays of the season, as well as one of the most clean and wholesome."
+ Film Daily p8 S 22 '36
+ Motion Pict Daily p2 S 12 '36
"Creditable all through with photography, direction and acting, this picture emerges favorably in technique with any major effort. Will make a swell tear jerker for the family house. There is some real down-to-earth comedy in this that should alone recommend it for exhibitors with home folks audiences."
+ Phila Exhibitor p34 O 1 '36
"Grand National . . . has made a sincere effort to make the essence of Charles M.
Sheldon's book onto the screen so that it will appeal to the average audience. The picture is a tear-jerker and probably will get its share of the feminine trade. Whether it will stand alone on a program will depend on the exploration put behind it and whether the exhibitor thinks the theme best suited for his patrons. As it appears on the screen this is liminescent. The entire cast, Miss Man and others in that category. In film form, the story takes on added strength due to nice scripting, a fine score and uniformly competent acting."
+ Variety p19 N 4 '36
"With 'In His Steps,' a highly controversial picture because of its religious angles, Grand National Distributing Corp. breaks film tides with one that will appeal to the masses if properly exploited. It's a sleeper. By word of mouth, through women's organizations it will come out in the blue."
Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 11 '36
ISLE OF FURY. Warner 60min O 10 '36
Cast: Humphrey Bogart, Margaret Lindsay,
Roy, Donald Woods, Paul Graetz, Gordon
Hart, E. E. Clive
Director: Frank McDonald
See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film.
Audience Suitability Ratings
"[It is] a trite story [which] . . . is helped materially by some unusually good photography." T. J. Fitzmorris
– + America p24 O 10 '36
"A: depends on taste; Y: better not; C: no."
Christian Century pi542 N 18 '36
"Fair entertainment for family." Am Legion
Auxiliary
"Excellent photography and some beautiful settings add to the entertainment value. Adults & 14-18: fair; 8-14: possible." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers
"In spite of the title, the action is not exagerated, with just about as much material as that are human, sincere and convincing." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs
"[It is a] tangled incoherent story. Mature.
Mediocre." DAR
"Adults." Nat Soc of New England Women
"A picture which makes an appeal beyond the average run of this type and gives distinct value. One of the most interesting in its dramatization is overcome brings out strength of character and a wholesome lesson in a production suitable for adults & young people."
S Calif Council of Fed Church Women
Fox W Coast Bul S 19 '36
"A triangle mystery type of drama set against a well-photographed background. . . . the whole, understandable drama is given fairly interesting production. Mature." Mrs T. G.
Winter
– + Fox W Coast Bul O 10 '36
"It holds suspense and offers two particularly exciting sequences, the rescue of a ship in a tropical storm and a death fight with a devil fish, as well as interesting shots of pearl diving. The direction and acting are satisfactory, with Lilli Monti excellent in a small part.
Family, Mature."
+ + Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)
S 8 '36
"Adults.
JT Estimates S 15 '36
"The story has good parts, such as the pearl fishing scenes, the shipwreck, the fight with the octopus, and the treatment is realistic and interesting. But the center of interest shifts so often that the film lacks coherence and the ending is surprising. Suitability: adults & adolescents."
– + Mo Film Bul p173 O 3 '36
"[It is] an absurdly juvenile mystery story.
. . . A magnificent tropical storm with excellent accomplished photography and the personality of Humphrey Bogart can scarcely offset a trite and silly story and the pernicious notion that a murder cat can be allowed to escape justice if he has a sufficiently beautiful wife, and adequate courage to fight an octopus.
Adolescents, 12-16 & children, 8-12: no."
+ + Motion Pict R p7 O '36
"This trite and obvious triangle theme against a background of South Sea Islands begins with some interesting variations and the water photography which with excellent sound effects foreshadows the melodrama which unfolds. Adults.
Admirable Nat Council of Jewish Women S 9 '36
"Outstanding photography and atmospheric background compensate for the triteness of the plot. Adults."
Nat Legion of Decency S 24 '36
"A & Y: fair; C: mature.
Parents' M p52 D '36
"Striking marine and submarine photography and adequate acting in a film which shows rather jerky direction and abrupt changes of tempo. Adults."
+ + Wkly Guide O 3 '36
Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"There is some fine underwater photography and the acting is above average but the film is frequently jerky. Adults."
+ + Christian Science Monitor pi5 N 7 '36
+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; – + Fair; – + Mediocre; – Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

It’s action you want, this picture has its share of punches—an under-water fight with a devil fish and a lot of dirty conviviality by native pearl-divers. It has other things to recommend it, too—another chance to glimpse the work of Humphrey Bogart... E. E. Clive carves out another brilliant job.” — Molly Lewin

Trade Paper Reviews

“This nicely produced feature vibrates with both the drama and enchanting atmosphere of the South Seas. Audiences in general will like this attraction for its vigorous entertainment elements. Frank McDonald’s direction is thorough, while Frank Good’s photography is even better than that name implies. Location shots are skillfully chosen, and natural beauties of settings ingeniously captured.” — Film Daily p7 D 2 ‘36

“Estimate: program.”

“[It] represents a melodrama that ambles with fair steadiness through South Sea intrigue, perils of pearl diving, and a triangular love affair. It’s okay as one end of a duel when teamed with a feature film, and it frankly inspires no more.” — Variety p29 N 18 ‘36

IT COULDN’T HAVE HAPPENED. Chesterfield 66min Ag 1 ‘36

Director: Phil Rosen

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A: Fair; Y: Doubtful; C: No.”

Parents’ M p12 N ‘36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Adults only.”

Christian Science Monitor p13 S 19 ‘36

“[It] Couldn’t Have Happened” is a mildly humorous murder mystery. In the slightly facetious vein which is the current cinema fashion in mystery plays, the picture is seldom a lucid account of detective work; but because it moves along in a happy way, it is as easy to take as it is to forget.” (2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p52 O 3 ‘36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Full title of this opus is [It] Couldn’t Have Happened—but it did.” Many customers may add the interrogation, “Why?” unless they copped a bank night prize. It’s an afterthought to a double program set-up. Several highly capable folks are shoved around, misdirected and manhandled for about forty minutes before this banana mystery is down to solid ground... The biggest mystery about this film is how it could have been done so poorly.” — Variety p31 S 16 ‘36

JUGGERNAUT. Twickenham 70min

Director: Henry Edwards

Filmed in England. “The story tells how a fanatical, experiment-crazed doctor is forced to abandon his life’s ambition through lack of funds. Suddenly the wealth he has longed for is offered to him by the philiandered Lady Clifford, provided he will operate in removing from existence her fabulously wealthy husband.” (Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings

“The story is improbable and the thrills sometimes touch absurdity but there is plenty of action and the acting is well suited to the story. The direction is competent, the photography uneven, the sound good. Suitability: adults & adolescents.”

— No Film Bul p48 S 30 ‘36

Trade Paper Reviews

“This with over-stressing, heavily labored direction, and acting pitched an octave too high even for the wildest of melodrama, this vehicle for the sinister Boris Karloff slips right off the map as a candidate for the horror category... Boris Karloff as heavy going of the cross-eyed crazed doctor, and with much rolling of eye-balls and over-stressing of emphasis, fails to put across the suggestion of reality. Mona Goya, as the wicked countess, is equally unconvincing and theatrical.” — Hollywood Reporter p7 S 17 ‘36

“An uninspired melodrama, this one stands or falls on Karloff’s name, for there is little else about it to help sell it... Directness of its far-fetched story is in the picture’s favor, but at best its value would be confined to bargain nights, one night stands and other spots where you can fool ‘em easy... Main part of the footage is dull, but the final reel tries to keep up the speed with disastrous results. Intended to bring the tale to a suspenseful climax, it will instead probably bring hiccups. By re-shooting these scenes in a less frenzied manner, film might be saved, although doubtful whether it’s worth the trouble.” — Variety p17 S 23 ‘36

JUNGLE PRINCESS. Paramount 58min N 27 ‘36

Director: William Thiele

“This is a Tarzan-type picture with the sexes reversed. It has a little native girl who finds herself among the Mahals—up to lovely and lonely young womanhood among the big game, and it has a handsome young American who gets lost there and is rescued by her.” — Hollywood Reporter

Audience Suitability Ratings

“General patronage.”

Nat Legion of Decency D 10 ‘36

“A fantastic tale in which romance, tragedy, comedy, animal devotion and the problems of a female Tarzan are combined in entertaining fashion... The story is well told, the social and moral problems of modern civilization are worked out in a highly improbable but nevertheless interesting way. The Hollywood jungle scenes, beautifully photographed, are fascinating and the acting and direction well-nigh admirable. Miss Lamour, a new comer to the screen, has both personality and ability. Family.”

— Sel Motion Pict p10 D 1 ‘36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“When I see a picture of this sort, I have a thoroughly good time... It is a blessed relief to see something of the ‘Jungle Princess’ sort, to see new people in new surroundings, doing things totally unlike anything we ever had done. And parents, who like their children occasionally to find something completely to their liking in a motion picture theatre, will have any appreciative after a Paramount production. The story might perhaps have been a little more believable and more closely knit, but, as far as is possible, the background that matters most, and we certainly can not quarrel with it on the ground that it is not entertaining. . . .
JUNGLE PRINCESS—Continued

Box Office p23 N 25 '36

'A splendid performance by Dorothy Lamour and several gripping stock jungle shots make this good entertainment, despite its many unbelievable situations. Film will rate with juveniles, made "jungle conscious" through the celluloid and newspaper antics of Tarzan, and can command prominence in any neighborhood situation. Finally.

+

Hollywood Reporter p3 N 17 '36

'The highly imaginary situation gives opportunity for exciting animal melodrama and social complications, and it will be hugely enjoyed by juvenile-minded audiences on the Tarzan and Jungle picture. The number is only mild entertainment of its type. The picture's interest lies in the main, in introducing the new and charming Dorothy Lamour who has exhibits physical charm and personality that can be sold on something. The screening play . . . is imaginative and well constructed. But with all the good technical contributions, this product is too still for situations that really make this type of picture.'

- +

Motion Pict Daily p13 N 15 '36

'Where a female Tarzan is saleable, so is the show. Miss Lamour indicates she has plenty of talent. Estimate: depends on exploitation.'

Phila Exhibitor p30 D 1 '36

"Although based on an improbable story and filled with impossible situations, The Jungle Princess allows the Tarzan fans to rate fair as a boister as on duels. It is hardly a sufficient vehicle to introduce to audiences the screen personality of Dorothy Lamour. . . . Those who like their Tarzans, male or female, may go for this one for its action and somewhat idyllic nature, but this will hold only with the neighborhood trade and youngsters.'

+ + Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 17 '36

KELLY THE SECOND. MGM 70mm Ag 21 '36

Cast: Patsy Kelly, Quinn (Big Boy) Williamson, Charley Chase, Pert Kelton, Edward Brophy

Director: Gus Meins

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Here is a comedy which will effectively dispel any suspicion that the movies are going sour. The spot on the bright spot in other people's poor pictures, and in the midst of their boisterousness as though the producers were nursing their wounds a bit too much, still conscious of their bruises and, in their anxieties, having forgotten about such things as cinematic comedy, acting, photography and direction. . . And yet the spectacle is consistently pleasing in the tense drama of it all, behind scenes.'

Variety p16 S 16 '36

DER KAMPF. Amkino 90min S 10 '36

Cast: Lotte Leebinger, Bruno Schmitzdorff, Gregor Gog, Ingeborg Franke

Director: Gustav Wangenheim

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Maybe we miss the social significance in the cinematic confusion. It is held with bitterness against the Nazis; but the bitterness gets involved in the general muddle. . . Critics tell us Lotte Leebinger is the mother, but you will have to discover for yourself. We are not sure just what she is trying to express—but, whatever it is, she is expressing it at top emotion for ninety minutes of the wonderful "Hills of Liberty" p39 O 17 '36

"'Der Kampf' is at one and the same time the most important, moving, formalistically the most interesting and yet the most incomplete and imperfect film of current running. . . This pent-up protest has crystallized in the greatest single movie performance of the last five years—Lotte Leebinger as Mother Lamk. . . The two strands of the story run side by side and at times cross, with the illustration of each. Unfortunately neither is sufficiently clear to make for a complete and logically acceptable whole . . . The shortcoming is a mere simplification. 'Der Kampf' [rates] as an unqualified must [see], if only that it proves that films need not be so divertissement but can be as rich, raw, and full of protest as life. . . We get a sense of participating in the future.'

Robert Sheehans

New York p25 O 17 '36

"It is surprising and a great disappointment that 'Der Kampf' should turn out to be a botched piece of work. . . There are outstanding scenes in the film. . . They suggest what the whole film might have been as a piece of reporting and there has been an inspired handling of the story involved. . . Yet most of it is too muddled for us, too baffling and murky.'

John Mosher

- + New Yorker p28 S 19 '36

"This is propaganda. Flicker fans whose eyes glaze at films made to arouse indignation had better look elsewhere. But it will till please those who enjoy an emotional evening at the expense of the Brown Shirts.'

News-Wk. p30 S 19 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A provocative condemnation of Nazi barbarism, and a tribute to German workers who have fought and still fight against fascism. The entire cast is effective, playing the parts with great realism. Spoken in German, but liberally supplied with super-imposed English dialogue titles, the action is easily followed and should appeal to liberal audiences.'

Hollywood Reporter p27 S 25 '36

"It is strong and frequently heartrending. As cinematography, on the other hand, it is, unfortunately, not all it should be. This latter is unfairly termed. It seems as though the producers were nursing their wounds a bit too much, still conscious of their bruises and, in their anxieties, having forgotten about such things as cinematic comedy, acting, photography and direction. . . And yet the spectacle is consistently pleasing in the tense drama of it all, behind scenes.'

Variety p16 S 16 '36

DIGEST
"A: hardly; Y: good of kind; C: perhaps."
Christian Century p148 O 29 '36

"A, Y and C: typical Hal Roach comedy with Patsy Kelly, the slapstick show."
Parents' M p44 Jl '36

"[It is a] good farcical comedy, with some of Metro's best comics. . . Flenty of laughs."
+ Wkly Guide As 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"An especial treat for Patsy Kelly fans, which will also be found entertaining by those who don't mind their farces rough, tough and roaring. . . The producers run the gag mill at top speed."
+ Christian Science Monitor O 3 '36

"While 'Kelly the Second' is no more than a string of gags, it is frequently funny, and for those who enjoy slapstick it should prove enter- taining. Patsy Kelly, Charley Chase and Pert Kelton in the cast, the performance is naturally hilarious as well as shrewdly skillful. And the scattered gags have been strung out a trifle tight, the unfailing exuberance of Miss Kelly makes up for it."
Marguerite Taze- lahu

— Y N Y Herald Tribune p10 O 3 '36

"Laughable as it may be, there is little or nothing that is new or important about 'Kelly the Second' except that it is the first 'starring' vehicle of Patsy Kelly, who is known to some few ardent admirers as Kelly the one-and-only. She is still authentic Kelly, though deplorably softened, one feels (probably because of the influence of Hollywood) as compared with the really irresponsible Kelly of the merely support- ing roles."
B. R. C.
— Y N Y Tribune O 3 '36

"Although the event is auspicious, the circums- tances under which Miss Kelly makes her debut as a Hollywood First Lady are dubious, since the film is definitely unskilled and spot- ty in spite of the -rogue horse-play of its hu- mor. . . Fearing, perhaps, that her story was a little too skinny to provide an hour of enter- tainment, the producers have padded it with a series of gags, some of which are funny, but only now and then. For the most part, 'Kelly the Second' remains a good two-reel comedy stretched out to feature length." William Bensusan
— Y Y World-Telegram p25 O 6 '36

"The Hal Roach set will enjoy 'Kelly the Second.' Even more reserved persons may be interested by the grand moment at the end. Miss Patsy Kelly is a stalwart heroine in the piece, which is stuffed rich and toothsome with the good gags."
+ New Yorker p31 O 10 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"'Kelly the Second' probably will be wel- come in the duds, because it is filled with humorous moments. It is too lightweight in plot and accomplished results to stand up alone in most spots. . . Picture has been trim- med about 15 minutes shorter than originally released, and that helps a lot. Even so, some of the giggling actually slows down the pace midway. Runs 70 minutes, which is plenty for the average comedy of this sort, especially if placed with another picture."
+ Variety p18 O 7 '36

LA KERMESSE HEROIQUE. Tobis 55min S 22 '36

Cast: Françoise Rosay, Almerre, Jean Murat.
Louis Jouvet

Director: Jacques Feyder

Based on the novel of the same title by Charles Spence. A French dialogue film with English subtitles produced in France. The photoplay received the Grand Prix du Cinema Francais and the gold medal award of the Venice International Exposition of Cinematog- raphy. The film is sub-titled 'La Kermesse Heroique.' The story tells of a town's predication when, on the eve of a carnival, the Burgo- master and some of the citizens learn of the Spanish plan to spend the night there. The Spanish are a battalion of King Philip's army, which have thoroughly terrified Flanders. The Burgomaster has an idea. He will pretend to be dead in the hope that the Duke will pass through the village without stopping."
(N Y Sun)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A thoroughly delightful piece of entertain- ment, quite as colossal as 'The Charge of the Light Brigade.' But should be run as a second feature. 'La Kermesse Heroique' does not derive its excel- lence from massive sets (although there are many of them) nor from a large personnel; these factors merely form the incidental back- ground for the unfolding of a simple little story, perfectly acted by players who act like human beings."

+ Bull on Current Films N 17 '36

"The cleverest thing about the film is un- doubtedly the direction of characters, which is extremely subtle: whether singly, in groups, or in crowds, they are always handled with understand- ing. Françoise Rosay as the Burgomaster's wife is entirely credible, and although she is to all intents and purposes the heroine, her own weaknesses (particularly since her weaknesses are not omitted or blunted over. . . Among the very best performances, however, is that of Louise Jouvet as the Duke's chaplain, beloved, knowing, sophisticated, and not ignorant of the pleasures of the table. Where the film is not fully successful—apart from one or two minor faults of construction—is in making its general humor more perfectly clear. The details, the satire is pointed, but on a general view it is not always easy to know if the film is not simply a less exalted purpose. Suitability: adults & adolescents."
A. V.
— Mo Film Bul p179 O 3 '36

"On second review, we find this picture definitely objectionable because of subtle indecent dialogue and incidents. Its entire tone is unhonest and in addition most of it is quite boring. Condemed."
— Nat Legion of Decency O 29 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Gallic wit at its crispest delivered by a splendid cast. The French are lovely actu- loons with an air. This with direction, photog- raphy and music explains why the film won two coveted awards in the cinema festival."
+ Christian Science Monitor p13 N 21 '36

"The French are advancing 'La Kermesse Heroique' as the greatest comedy to reach this country from the motion picture studios of Paris. It is, as they say, without any ques- tion, a capably wrought, skilfully played, well directed, handsomely mounted, notably photo- graphed and hilariously studded farce. But they do not mention the more important fact that the plot and climactic action basically involve the 'unique performance of mass adultery by the married women of a homey French village.' From this construction, the production warranted the honors awarded it. . . But it definitely is not in accordance with American motion picture enter- tainment standards, bringing condemnation from the Legion of Decency. . . It is unfortu- nate indeed that the reputed expenditure of $400,000. . . should be lost on such a subject if the producers desired to impress America."
J. P. Cunningham
— Commonweal p52 N 6 '36

"This is recommended for those who love good pictures in any language. . . Our protest against their thoughtless disregard of the Span- ish, they reek of studio artificiality, that they are too slick and span, that they have none of the majestic flavor that is the birthright of the other hand, European movie makers seem be able to get past the fresh-paint sign into the past. Jacques Feyder’s magnificently intuigenent direction makes this story of nineteen hours of a September day and night in 1616 a distinguished photoplay. Every role, down to the smallest bits of soldiers and peasants, is perfectly done.” (3½ stars)
LA KERMESE HEROIQUE—Continued

Beverly Lytch

Liberty p56 N 7 36

‘La Kermesse Heroique,’ is one of the most diverting [pictures] I have ever watched... The film is in no way an attempt to trace the life of a Flemish family during the Low Country painting... It will be remembered by those who see it as an extraordinarily finished film.” Mark Van Doren

+ + Nation p268 O 10 36

“At last, a cultured film... Except that it shows us Jan Breughel busy painting a Flemish portrait, not only truth to life in its ‘atmosphere’ and scrupulously attentive to detail, but it was evidently inspired by its subject...nant of his day, that in 1616. He has successfully... in the frames of their old masters, resuming a two-dimensional peace and mundane work when his motion-picture subordinates them to momentary life. The film is an object-lesson to all of us. It shows that the ‘costume-picture’ need not be vulgar and illiterate.”

The New Statesman & Nation p628 O 24 36

‘La Kermesse Heroique’ [is] the most scintillating and adult costume comedy that has ever come from abroad... The film has received a too-arduous a burial...La Kerme... Even for the French, it is a lusty and completely captivating multipart picture. It is...Feyder...takes his place with René Clair and Charlie Chaplin as one of the distinguished comic artists of the cinema...It is...an abundant vitality about the photoplay that is rarely attained in the medium of the screen.” Howard Barnes

+ + N Y Herald Tribune p26 S 23 36

...It is a production which has already won honors abroad, and a production which Hollywood might well covet as its own. They would probably not have done it as well in Hollywood... This is a cast that would bring joy to any...director, and Jacques Feyder has done his own job magnificently...[It] is about as much as a moviegoer can ask...Lazare Meerson has succeeded in making the entire production look as though the paintings of seventeenth century Flemish life were projected in discolors.” Eileen Creelman

+ + N Y Sun p38 S 23 36

‘[The new] Filmarte [is] dedicated to the exhibition of outstanding pictures from abroad. Let us note at once that the Filmarte’s offering comes easily within the distinguished category mentioned in the theatre’s dedication... [It is] a picture that...two standards of the...strict...religionists...A delightfully satirical libel upon the city of Boom and its masculine inhabitants, the film has achieved a delicate balance between broad farce and subtle humor... It is a story of the most refreshing and witty pictures of the year... Do not, we beg you, be dissuaded from seeing it because the dialogue is in French. Even without the many English subtitles, ‘La Kermesse Heroique’ would be clearly understood; like all great comics it speaks a universal language.” F. S. Nugent

+ + N Y Times p39 S 23 36

The so-called superiority of Homo Sapientes comes into its own in ‘La Kermesse Heroique,’ the lively and impudent little cinema prank from Paris... A bawdy romp, whose moral is a ribald and treatment laughter, it ungently kicks the accepted legend that man is superior to woman swiftly and firmly in the pants of its entire audience... In a few words, ‘La Kermesse Heroique’ is glib, sophisticated and tonic entertainment.” William S. Goetz

+ N Y World-Telegram p31 S 23 36

‘Bawdy, funny, with wicked comedy by Françoise Rosay, sets after Breughel, and a slick story about the Dominical chaplain, ‘La Kerme...Feyder’s camera picks out with vividness and invention absurdities in costume and character and almost effortlessly brings into the photoplay a lightness of movement which he lightly works into his ribald story a touch of the genuine, the simple emotion.”

Graham Greene

+ + Spec p277 O 30 36

The French film which was awarded the Grand Prix du Cinema Francaise is running wild at the new Filmarte Theater breaking records of audience response at every showing. This would be not too incident to indicate that the French know their comedy, or that New Yorkers know their French, or maybe that a good picture is a good picture anywhere and everywhere... The burgomaster, played by Alerme, his wife, played by Françoise Rosay, and the Duke, portrayed by René Clair, are the key members of the day of pantomime; and each is expert in sustaining a long and arduous sequence of fun... It is not only in Paris, but even in luxurious settings, but ‘La Kermesse Heroique’ takes place before a background so compellingly beautiful that it should be a marvel of standard of excellence by all picture makers.”

+ + Stage p14 N 36

‘Directed by Jacques Feyder... ‘La Kerme...explodes the theory that René Clair has a monopoly on urban comedy in the French cinema. It is as sly a farce as any that has ever led a U. S. censor board to mistake good manners for innocent intentions. Produced at a cost of $395,000—a fabulous sum for a French cinema—it was distinguishedly set by Lazare Meerson, it was distinguishedly abroad by winning the grand Prix du Cinema Francais, being banned only comedy in Holland...’

+ Time p30 O 5 36

Trade Paper Reviews

‘The sure-fire human qualities of this hilarious French film make it an inestimable entertainment, the gay and sparkling dialogue of the super-imposed English titles insuring its universal appeal...’

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor.
lately English titles, this feature is an outstanding photoplay that will delight American and English audiences. It is the best British entertainment that has come out of foreign studios in many a moon. (3)

Film Daily p11 S 24 '36

"This French production with complete dialogue titles in English (which titles were almost unnecessary, so universally do the actions of these stories speak for themselves) in or without any language and so will the simplicity of the story and its brilliant unfolding likewise be preserved in all its clarity and appeal, comes to this country with the distinction of being the best film produced in France last year. . . . Theaters with adult clientele can offer their patrons something refreshing and rib-tickling with [this picture]. Feyer should be a favorite in Hollywood, once again, on the strength of this production."

+ Hollywood Reporter p8 O 5 '36

The comedy is broad, enthusiastically met by the cast, silly rescue but always tasteful. The dialogue is French but English subtitles make following the story a pleasure. The entire production is suitable domestically for sophisticated, adult, literate [audiences].

+ Phila Exhibitor p37 L 1 '36

"This French comedy spectacle . . . is tops for arty and literary Production, English titles or not. Length will militate against its showing in film theatres using two features. Even the handicap of being entirely in French and requiring English titles for the American audiences, fails to take away from its charm and the pictual contributions of direction, performances, photography and dialogue are standout. . . . In English, and with one or two box office names, this might well have taken its place in the procession of recently released American-produced costume plays."

+ Variety p20 S 30 '36

KILLER AT LARGE. Columbia 58min O 1 '36

Cast: Mary Brian, Russell Hardie, Betty Compson, George McKay. Henry Brandon

Director: David Selman

"The plot has to do with the apprehension of a murderer whose crimes are in the wax dummies he makes. Miss Brian, as the heroine detective, and her fiancé, a department store clerk with a strongly suspected of the murder, together attempt to catch the killer."(3)

N Y Herald Tribune

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: hopeless; Y and C: harmless but poor."

Christian Century p178 N 4 '36

"The story offered material for a good mystery. The production lacks suspense and significance. Adults & young people." E Coast Preview Committee

— Fox W Coast Bul O 24 '36

"It is a rather dull mystery. General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency O 15 '36

"A: rather far-fetched melodrama; Y: poor; C: unsuitable."

Parents' M p16 Ja '37

"Adults & young people."

Sel Motion Pict n11 N 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"There is enough plot in 'Killer at Large' for three spook pictures. Curiously enough, for all the padding, this is the first half of it is exceptionally well done. The suspense is maintained with blood-curdling deliberation; the unique ideas are forcefully depicted and the swift, bizarre movement leaves the spectator fairly gasping with anticipation. Theatre with pitifully few off into conventional, obvious and rather ludicrous tracking down of the killer." Marguerite Tazelkar

+ 3 N Y Herald Tribune p10 O 26 '36

"[It] is a complete waste of time. . . . It punctuates its stock plot with shrieking sirens, automobile chases, radio bulletins, comic dialogue. Every one is every one else that Mr. Zero is abnormally cunning, but his actions would deserve an idiot, if it was not explained in French. The players try hard, but 'Killer at Large' is a literary crime—almost as much as the film offenders." P. S. Nugent

— N Y Times p20 O 26 '36

"The new film . . . is not a good one. Very often, when films as dull as 'Killer at Large' happen along, some of us cinema reviewers, in an effort to temper our wrath at their grievous offense, make a minor virtue of anemia by applying to them such kindly admonitory adjectives as 'unobtrusive.' Although 'Killer at Large' is unobtrusive, it is also aggressively commonplace in characterization, halting in movement and pedestrian in dialogue." William BOenEL

— N Y World-Telegram p17 O 27 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A few shriek-producing sequences and a thrilling chase climax reached up by a pleasing romantic story resulted in above-average mystery programmer which makes satisfactory double-bill material. Family."

+ Film Daily p51 N 14 '36

"It is fairly entertaining cinema fare for average fans who like a dash of the Franken- stein sort of thing in their diversion diets. Feature will stand double featuring okay and stand on own feet in all secondary spots."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 N 4 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p8 O 27 '36

"Credibility is not the long suit of this story or adaptation, as is the case in pictures concerning abnormally criminals. This is true of the strong cross-roads transient trade, or those appealing to the tastes of the stronger sex, will do business with this one. The boys will have a good time, as silly as it is."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 N 4 '36

KING OF HOCKEY. Warner 56min D 19 '36

Cast: Dick Purcell, Anne Nagel, Marie Wilson, Wayne Morris

Director: Noel Smith

"Dick Purcell, the star hockey player, falls for Anne Nagel. Gamblers try to get him to throw games and when they send a $1,000, bill, it falls into the hands of his roommate and fellow player, Wayne Morris. Purcell returns the money, but when circumstances arise that make it look as if he is throwing the game, Wayne accuses him of accepting the gamblers' money and a fight ensues in which Purcell is injured." Film Daily

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Mildly entertaining for family."

Am Legion Auxiliary

"A wholesome atmosphere, advocacy of clean sports and some interesting hockey playing. For the not too critical audiences. Family." Caliri Cong of Par & Teachers

"Family; mature for children. Mediocre." D AR

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; ++ Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
KING OF HOCKEY—Continued

"With a commonplace, but well portrayed story, and fast-moving field of hockey carries the audience into a newly featured game of sport. . . . The plea for clean sportsmanship is never lost on the screen. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul N 21 '36

"This picture provides good entertainment of an unpretentious nature, Family & Junior matinee." + — Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 2 '36

"The only redeeming feature of this otherwise trite and mediocre picture, is the demonstration of the skill, power, and brutality necessary for a hockey match on ice. Family." — Nat Council of Jewish Women N 3 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency N 19 '36

"Family." Sel Motion Pict p8 D 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Hockey proves a bewilderingly fast background for a motion picture. There is plenty of it in this Warner production and those with a liking for the speedy winter sport will find the picture entertaining even if the other story incidents do not hold their interest. Bryan Fox, Warner's most prolific turner-out of class B features, gives this one a good production, but on the whole it stays strictly within its class. The audience could do no more than hope that he will give the proper duration to a dual bill program. Its chief weakness is the disagreeable characterization written for the leading role." + — Hollywood Spec p10 N 7 '36

"For those who enjoy going to 'movies,' pour le sport, the film's hockey games in Madison Square Garden, in which opponents beat each other up on skates, should provide diverting. Marguerite Taschner + NY Herald Tribune p23 D 3 '36

"This is made in quick style, and enacted by a group of rather likable players who didn't seem to be working too hard. . . . It's about the sort of picture you might expect to find trilling on a double feature program." Eileen Creelman — NY Sun p39 D 3 '36

"King of Hockey' is a timely trial flight for a group of the younger Warner players, who handle the exigencies of big-league hockey for background." J. T. M. — NY Times p31 D 3 '36

"King of Hockey," [is] a melodrama about this popular sport, which just manages to make the grade as a filler on a double bill. . . . It is pretty feeble stuff, falling back, as it does, on a hackneyed theme. . . . The leading players in this one are Dick Purcell, Anne Nigiel and George Stone, but their efforts are about on a par with the story, which, as a whole, is of an indifferent quality." William Boehnel — NY World-Telegram p33 D 3 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Handicapped by a lack of important names and a weak story, this picture is saved in the last minute of play by some splendid action photography. Family." Box Office 15 N 7 '36

"The hectic game of hockey furnishes the thrills which make this a satisfactory program action picture that." Film Daily p6 N 3 '36

"Ice hockey takes the place of football in this routine sportplay. That was a good idea and it supplies a few exciting moments, for hockey is by far the most exciting game and photographs well. Unfortunately, the rest of the film is undistinguished, even for its low-budget class, and will do well to please the youngsters in the secondary neighborhoods." — Hollywood Reporter p3 O 30 '36

+ — Motion Pict Daily p8 O 31 '36

"For twin bills, neighborhoods houses, this might interest, but it lacks selling angles, except for the fact that it glorifies hockey instead of some other sport. Family." — Phila Exhibitor p83 N 15 '36

"Produced ostensibly to fill double-program house needs, this so-called romance of ice hockey which is dependent on dual setups for its revenue. It hasn't a single name that will brighten the marquee. . . . Most interesting is the bits with the only thing to distinguish 'King of Hockey' from innumerable other pictures are the hockey contest sequences. These are well conceived, nicely staged and captured by the camera. . . . Entire story is told on an exaggerated scale. . . . Dialog is head and shoulders above the plot construction." + — Variety p12 D 9 '36

"With little to recommend it other than some fast and mighty exciting hockey game shots, 'King of Hockey' will do its best business on the lower part of a dualer. With a cast recruited mostly from the studio contract list and a story which follows a very obvious path from beginning to end, the picture is saved from complete oblivion only through a skillful cutting in the moving hockey shots at most frequent intervals." + — Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 30 '36

KING OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED. Principal-29th century-Fox 60 min S 11 '36

Cast: Robert Kent, Rosamund Keith, Alan Dinehart. Frank McGlynn, Sr.

Director: Howard Bretherton

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Beautiful mountain scenes and an adequate cast will entertain the average picture fan in this Zane Grey story. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"An outdoor drama that does not rise above the mediocre. Family." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Good. Mature-family." DAR

"[It is] an average program melodrama. Ethically a commendable offering. Family." Nat Soc of New England Women

"This wholesome picture will prove especially entertaining for the family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul S 12 '36

"Fair. Family." + — Motion Pict Guide D 3 '36

"Like others from the Zane Grey collection, this film is weak dramatically and has a thin plot, but it has fine riding and pictures a wide sweep of very beautiful country. Adolescents, 12-16: yes; children, 8-12: passable." + — Motion Pict A p7 O 30 '36

"A, Y and C: fair." Parents’ M p41 N 3 '36

"This better-than-most outdoor drama will prove satisfactory entertainment for the young people. For the direction is smooth, the photography good, the acting at times somewhat stilted. Family." + — Sel Motion Pict p7 O 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[It is] program melodrama set in the Sierras, where the scenery is grand, the plot's simple and the movie 30's gets not only his man but his gal. Family." + Christian Science Monitor O 3 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor
"King of the Royal Mounted... says nothing that we have not heard before, but it is a friendly voice in a troubled year, a cinematic town crier who notes that the Mounties are abroad and calls "All's well!" Sol Lesser, who produces these outdoor films for Twentieth Century-Fox, has moved his cast to the Sierras and let nature take its photo-genic course. Nature passes her screen test quite well. The players, slightly less effective, fulfill their modest requirements with commendable restraint, it being almost impossible to do any scenic chewing in the presence of authentic boulders. Does the picture end with a hand-to-hand struggle on the brink of a cliff? It does, indeed." F. S. Nugent

"King of the Royal Mounted...[is] a fast, exciting, colorful out-of-doors item which is recommended for Western fans who relish hard riding, quick shooting and who like to see the young lovers clinch at the final fadeout, after the villain has been properly brought to justice." William Boehnel

Trade Paper Reviews

"This production is based on the adventure strip of the same name which is syndicated throughout the nation by King Features. With thousands of youngsters following this strip daily in all parts of the country, it should not be hard to fill your theater when this feature shows."

"Employing colorful backgrounds and armed with a camera, Earl Shipley, that contains better than average dialog, Sol Lesser has turned out another with the mounties that will serve the dual trade satisfactorily. In Robert Kent, Rosalind Keith, Alan Dinehart and others he has rounded up a group of capable players."

LADIES IN LOVE. 20th century-Fox 90min O 9 '36

Cast: Janet Gaynor, Loretta Young, Constance Bennett, Simone Simon, Don Ameche, Paul Lukas, Tyrone Power, Jr. Alan Mowbray

Director: Edward H. Griffith

Based on a play Three Girls by Ladislaus Bus-Fekete. "Three young working girls come to live together in Budapest. All are yearning for romance. Each of the girls has a love affair, the stories of which are told concurrently, in short episodes, presented in rotation. All the love affairs are flops, but each finds compensation in another direction." (Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: hardly; Y & C: no."

Christian Century p1406 O 21 '36

"Excellent cast. Mature & 14-18. Good."

DAR

"Adults & young people." E Coast Preview Committee

Fox W Coast Bull O 24 '36

"Interesting for those who follow their favorite actresses, while the older audiences will admire the clever casting of such diversified characters. Adults. Am Legion Auxiliary Janet Gaynor, Loretta Young and Constance Bennett are really cast as the three girls and give excellent performances. Simone Simon is disappointing after the wide publicity given her. Excellent entertainment of the sophisticated type. Adults." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"S Cassandra social drama. Smartly done in a convincing manner, this picture will prove entertaining fare for mature audiences. Adults." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women

"Well cast and amusingly put over, this comedy is in a sophisticated vein, which makes it adult cinema."

Nat Soc of New England Women

"This sophisticated picture, ablaze with many stars, is a short of what one expects from such a galaxy. Mature." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bull O 31 '36

"The cast is large and notable, each of the four feminine leads gives pleasing and convincing interpretations, with Alan Mowbray excellent as the egotistical actor. An excellent picture pervaded by a spirit of rare understanding."

+ + Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) O 17 '36

"Good. Adults & young adults." + Motion Pict Guide D '36

"The story is not very deep, but it is done in a charming manner. Adolescents, 12-16; too mature; children, 8-12: no."

+ Motion Pict R p317 N 3 '36

"The continuity remains surprisingly intact in spite of the fact that there are three separate themes developed. Suitable for mature audiences."

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women O 21 '36

"When three girls from different walks of life assemble and discover that their objectives point to the same goal you may prepare yourself for a few laughs. Adults."

+ Nat Legion of Decency O 15 '36

"A: sophisticated; Y: little interest; C: no."

Parents' M p32 D '36

"A very sketchy plot with little story value is so splendidly cast that it commands attention. The fine photography and excellent direction help to embroider the frail frame of the plot.

The out-of-the-ordinary cast deserves a more weighty story. Adults & young people."

+ Sel Motion Pict p11 N 1 '36

"Mature."

Wkly Guide O 10 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"It might be expected that such a dazzling cast was intended to distract the attention from a weak story. Such is not the case, however, as the plot, familiar enough in its essentials, is refreshingly astringent." M. E. P.

+ Boston Transcript p3 O 31 '36

"There is something rather unusual in this story of the love affairs of an ill-assorted trio... With such a galaxy of feminine talent, the men might so easily have been subordinate. As a matter of fact, however, it is the admirable balance of the male parts that accounts in no small measure for the play's quality... This is an admirable picture for those who delight in real comedy." Laura Elston

+ Canadian M p38 D '36

"Occasionally, this tale of a man-hunt by a quartet of heroines in Budapest is a charmingly amusing. More often it is romance & a Hollywood, divided four ways—but not four times better than average. Alan Mowbray as a conceited magician provides much of the comedy. Adults & young people."

+ Chicago Science Monitor p15 N 7 '36

"Thoughtful presentation of a story that is different, a collection of performances outstanding for the evenness of their excellence, direction which brings the picture pictorially glamorous and beautifully photographed, 'Ladies in Love' will go down on the
LADIES IN LOVE—Continued

Hollywood Spec p13 O 19 '36

"Maybe we anticipated too much. But to our way of thinking, this comedy's sophistication isn't there. That is, Miss Gaynor and Mr. Griffith never once gets the mellow feel of the fifteen-hundred-year-old city on the banks of the Danube. Miss Gaynor is an attractive Hollywood actress in a modernistic Hollywood apartment meeting ingenious Hollywood emotional problems, and there's little reality about it." (2 stars) Beverly Hills
Liberty p60 N 21 '36

"The new offering is less of a four-ring circus than an imaginative caviar. None of the quartet gives a good enough performance to outshine the others and the show itself, based on one of those mildly glibly Hungarian comedies, offers few opportunities for pyrotechnics or solid characterization. It should prove a superficial success, however, I believe to the ladies, but it is ordinary stuff that has been so star-studded... Without the dept direction of Griffith, the plot would fall completely to pieces in a welter of ill-assorted moods and incidents... It is the absurdity of the men in the company that gives the show what slight dramatic value it has. A careful study of expert Mr. Griffith can do little more, however, than steady the work. It is neither a field day for the glamour girls nor a noteworthy photoplay."
Herbert Barnes

N Y Herald Tribune p23 O 29 '36

"[It] forms a light, fairly amusing little comedy drama, not nearly important enough to warrant a review of even the most casual nature. With one exception, the cast does handsonly by its small opportunities, keeping the audience attentional-al though enough arousing any emotional response... It is somewhat difficult to know what Miss Simon was playing. The lines called for a simple, loyal schoolgirl. The new French star, however, played with such coy slyness, such feline impudence, such cocksureness that it seemed impossible to believe the story had not been intended to end with a right-about-face and an exposure of the character as a false. 'Ladies in Love' so divides its attention between three quite separate roles that none ever seems particularly vital to the audience." Eileen Creelman

N Y Sun p29 O 29 '36

"A film on the order of 'Ladies in Love' is habitually dismissed as 'a woman's picture.' It is a condescending, patronizing and faintly degrading concoction. And we know damn well there's none more provoking to militant Lucy Stoner and combative equal-righters. Miss Gaynor has nothing to do with them, but charm and humor, and, although I dread the thought of dropping an apple of discord into Hollywood's Olympus, she impressed me more favorably than the Misses Young, Bennett and Simon. Edward Griffith's direction has been smooth and the entire production has a dignity texture. It's still a woman's picture."
F. S. Nugent

N Y Times p31 O 29 '36

"[IT] is a slow, shambling and feeble little anecdote, reporting with too much detail what happens in a love triangle. Mr. Griffith throws in a search for the men of their desires. ...
'Ladies in Love' isn't much either as drama or entertainment."

N Y World-Telegram p19 O 29 '36

" 'Ladies in Love' is a sorority meeting, in Budapest. Without hair-pulling, Miss Gaynor triunphs. throughout. Paul Lukas is a good Frank New Yorker p90 N 7 '36

"That 'Ladies in Love' turns out to be a sueave, Intelligent film and an indubitable box office boom is primarily due to the direction of Edward H. Griffith. By appearing to better advantage than ever before in their respective careers—lording it as it should by Bennett, Gaynor, and Young make Zanuck's a production a tour de force."

New York World-Telegram p9 O '36

"The scenario is diffuse; leisurely where it should be tense, superficial all the way and has a marked tendency to emulate the more genteel sex periodicals. Despite the high-salaried female contingent a mere man... but a damaged good actor (Alan Mowbray) walks into the ladies den and remains to triumph.
As the ham magician Mowbray is superb."
Herb Sterne

pictorial review p10 N 24 '36

"This is a persuasively gallant little picture... told so unafraidly that we sat, impressed at last without benefit of fireworks... A plot of this essential simplicity would fall badly without neat bits of characterization that must never overlap, never leave their tidy grooves. The producers, unfortunately, felt obliged to write in a role for the tempestuous French star, Mlle. Simone Simon. The part is her superfluous. Everything else is in good taste and technique."
Stage p14 N '36

"[It is] a distinguished and rich picture, not gloomy in the least. It is new and in spite of its multiple narrative. Excedantly adapted by Melville Baker from the play, it moves with a lightness of touch, at times of gayety and sadness as the Hungarian together with which it is scored. Janet Gaynor gets top time and honor. Simultaneously the best bid by dynamic little Simone Simon."
Time p65 O 19 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This will have to depend on the pulling power of the picture itself. The ladies in love are lovely enough, but it is unfortunate that they were not furnished a vehicle in which they could better display their charms and their talents. The picture is short on entertainment and the story it essays has far too continental a flavor to appeal to an average bread-and-butter audience. The story just can't carry the load. Adults."

Box Office p17 '36

"This is a triple-threat picture aimed right at the box-office... If the [ladies] don't go for that treat then all the dope on what attracts to the heated is wasted."

Film Daily p11 0 O 29 '36

"A very continental attempt to build one play by combining three similar stories, none of which stands for a definite point. Many attempts have been made many times and are doomed to failure. This one reaches the screen as diffuse, dull, and trifling entertainment.
An attempt has been made to strengthen it with a bevy of talented box office names but, despite some individually interesting performances, there is little either to draw or to satisfy theatre patrons."

Hollywood Reporter p3 O 3 '36

"Estimate: depends on name draw."

Motion Picture Daily p12 O 5 '36

"Janet Gaynor, Loretta Young, Constance
Bennett and Simone Simon are an attractive name array for the marquee, and that makes
'Ladies in Love' box-office-proof. But it won't be a smash...

That is no literary knockout might have been overcome by the cast, but the fact that it offers little in the way of for the male customers is something that no group of names can conceal."

Variety p18 N 4 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; ++ Mediocre; Poor; ++ Exceptionally Poor
“Pyramiding a group of feminine names which have marquee significance, backed by fine sustaining and an alluring title. ‘Ladies in Love’ comes to the box office with initial momentum which insures substantial revenue. For the more discriminating audiences, and especially for women, it should score solidly.”

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 3 ’36

LADY BE CAREFUL. Paramount 67min S 4 ’36

Cast: Lew Ayres, Mary Carlisle, Benny Baker, Larry Crabbe, Grant Withers

Director: Theodore Reed

See issue of September 25, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

“The story is slight and the film light-hearted. Lew Ayres as Dynamite acts well and the supporting cast is good. Suitability: family.”

+ Mo Film Bul p152 S 30 ’36

“Fair. Adults & young adults.”

+ - Motion Pic Guide D 3 ’36

“The picture carefully eliminates the questionable elements of the original play but it is doubtful if the effort was worth while. Adolescents, 12-16; not objectionable; children, 8-12: too mature.”

+ - Motion Pic R p6 S ’36

“A: inane but unobjectionable; Y: doubtful; C: no.”

Parents’ M p44 N ’36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Adults.”

Christian Science Monitor O 3 ’36

“Since it was the Rabelaisian flavor of ‘Sailor Beware’ that made it so funny, the screen attempt to offend anybody leaves it a lukewarm truffle, or sc it seemed to your mindless reporter yesterday, surrounded by siflawing companions. Mrs. Parker’s wit is felt too seldom in the piece, the lines of which are rollicking enough, but not up to her quality. Mr. Reed has directed the picture ably, keeping it going at a fast pace. And, while the performance is all right, it is not nearly the scintillating, vigorous, disorderly thing it was on the stage.”

Marguerite Tazelaar

T N Herald Tribune p10 O 10 ’36

“That superbly efficient wet-wash technique of the Hollywood legendaries has saved half the time in removing not only the dirt but the shirt as well, has been applied in the case of ‘Lady, Be Careful’ by some of the most highly paid spot removers on the Paramount staff... Early scenes, more bogs than musical comedy, have been inserted to lend color and the dialogue has been changed from pungent, spacy, authentic navy to something inexcusable, and with scarcely a saving ounce of the Parker vitriol to justify the change.”

B. R. C.

N Y Times p21 O 10 ’36

“Since most of the boisterous, rowdy fun has been deleted from the original, the screen version of ‘Sailor Beware’ is no great shakes as entertainment. The result is a film which is funny now and then, but one that is unadroit and spotty.”

William Boehnel

+ N Y World-Telegram p8a O 10 ’36

Reviewed by John Mosher

New Yorker p95 O 17 ’36

“Dot Parker, Alan Campbell and Harry Ruskin have studiously knocked the scene out of the Navy. They’ve managed to keep most of the humor intact. . . . A difficult adaptation job well done. . . . Verve and understanding of Reed’s direction bring the farcical figures to life, and he’s aided and abetted by a screen play that’s genuinely first rate.”

+ - Exceptionally Good; + Good; + - Fair; + - Mediocre; - Poor; - - Exceptionally Poor

Program entertainment ‘way above average.”

Herb Steiger

+ - Variety p13 S 26 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

“They’ve done, necessarily, a lot of trimming of business and dialogue in the Broadway stage success, ‘Sailor Beware’. . . Pretty weak stuff, and only the good acting of the principals, and some neat in their business saves the production from flopping entirely. However, it is the type of material about sailor lads that the popular crowds go for, and in theaters where the rough and tumble stuff is in demand, it should go well enough.”

+ - Film Daily p7 S 10 ’36

“Story depends for its laughs on the lines and incidental business, rather than on plot action, though there are a couple of good bits in the direct line. Treatment, however, suggests that the script writers were under wraps. There is a lack of fluidity to the movement of the story, and a little too much emphasis on the character of the girl. With a little more swing, this might have been an outstander. As is, it is perhaps respectable number of laughs, pretty evenly spaced, but lacks solidity and punch. I think it should do best on duels, but can front on them.”

+ - Variety p15 O 11 ’36

LADY FROM NOWHERE. Columbia 60min N 21 ’36

Cast: Mary Astor, Charles Quigley, Norman Willis

Director: Gordon Wiles

The only witness to a gang murder fearing for her life escapes to a small town where she falls in love with a school teacher who helps her hide and rescues her when the gang finds her hiding place.

Audience Suitability Ratings

“Adults.”

Nat Legion of Decency N 26 ’36

“The plot moves rapidly and the direction is spirited and smooth.”

+ - Sel Motion Pic p10 D 1 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

“A good programmer, best suited for smaller towns and neighborhoods. Mary Astor and Charles Quigley carry creditably the unpretentious story. Family.”

+ - Box Office p23 N 28 ’36

“With Mary Astor a more prominent name, ‘Lady From Nowhere’ should prove pleasing.”

Estimate: okay program.”

+ - Phila Exhibitor p80 D 1 ’36

LADY LUCK. Chesterfield 62min Jl 6 ’36

Cast: William Bakewell, Patricia Farr, Duncan Renaldo

Director: Charles Lamont

This is the story of a man an who is supposed to be the winner of a $150,000 sweepstakes ticket and of the complications which arise when the real winner is found.

Audience Suitability Ratings

“[It is] a dull tale. Adults.”

- - Nat Legion of Decency Ag 6 ’36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“[It is an] undistinguished murder mystery. Adults.”

- - Christian Science Monitor p15 O 24 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

“[It is a] mildly entertaining run-of-the-mill story, fulfilling its second-rate locations.”

+ - Film Daily p17 S 34 ’36
LADY LUCK—Continued

— Motion Pict Daily p3 S 16 '36

"Estimate: for neighborhoods, twin bills."
+ — Film Daily p4 Ag 1 '36

\[It is\] a murder mystery romance that has nothing in particular to distinguish it from the run-of-the-mill fodder for dual bookings. The story is banal, the acting and the production of it as routine as they come. An ordinary cast fails to lend it any strength.
— Variety p16 S 23 '36

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The story is amusing, and Oscar Strauss' music is very agreeable. Richard Tauber's fine singing is well recorded. In fact, this is a musical comedy that contains real music and real comedy. The acting on the whole is competent, though Diana Napier is hardly convincing as the Duchess. The direction is straightforward, if a little uneven. In the way of lighting, props, and choice of camera angles, suitability: family." + Mo Film Bul p170 O 36 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This picturesquely witty fantasy, staged in a remote Italian Duchy of long ago, forms a delightful background for the musical accomplishments of Richard Tauber who shimmied beyond recognition and brilliantly photographed by John Boyle, metamorphoses with doubled stiltedness into light-hearted entertainment (Richard Tauber has never been in better form), delightful comedy interludes, and wittily poetically interpreted musical numbers. The scenes of wartime and crowd movements, Walter Forde has converted what might have been a heavy, music-swamped fable into first-class entertainment." + Hollywood Reporter p3 O 29 '36

"Operetta built around Richard Tauber, continental singer, and one of the few real novelties British pictures have turned out in motion picture form. Film is very good light musical, with a quality score and plenty of tunes, and has Jimmy Durante playing comedy in a 19th century costume and making a go of it. One up for Durante, being about the slickest job he has yet produced. It looks good for general appeal among the popular [theatres] with Tauber's voice and [Durante's] humor building up real entertainment." + Variety p15 O 21 '36

LAST OF THE MOHICANS. Reliance-United Artists 90min. Ag 13 '36

Cast: Randolph Scott, Binnie Barnes, Charles Wilcoxon, Bruce Cabot, Heather Angel. Director: George B. Seitz. See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film. + + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + + Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; + + Exceptionally Poor

Audience Suitability Ratings

"That same James Fenimore Cooper who lies a-moldering in the bowels of New England Young America arrives on the screen in a heart-warming vindication of his former high place among readers of thrillers. This film is not at all tedious, being a sort of superior Western with an authentic historical background. Sensibly, the filmmakers have given the fine cast and runs along under the direction of George Seitz with that blood-curdling abandon which makes small boys and small girls spin spurs and imaginary content... Altogether splendid in its colorful recreation of an exciting chapter in history, the picture is something to take the children to if you can find no other pretext for going yourself. T. J. Fitzmorris + America p28 S 5 '36

"The story is interesting and exciting and the acting, though unremarkable, is of good standard. The possibilities of the setting have been turned during the flight by river. The direction has preferred to set the horror effects by obvious means rather than by suggestion. The breathless silence of the woods where every shadow and cracking twig may be a terror in ambush. The Indians who are shot at we never did get a close up in contact have a curiously indoor appearance. There are some bad backcloths and the earlier scenes with the Indians in the woods are unnecessary, but the film is a stirring piece of entertainment though perhaps not for the highly sensitive or very young. Suitability: adults & adolescents."

+ Mo Film Bul p173 O 36 '36

"Because of its authenticity, [it] has educational as well as entertainment value. The picture is ideal entertainment for American boyhood, but this does not limit its appeal for other audiences. Adolescents 12-16: excellent; children, 8-12: very exciting."

+ Motion Pict R p6 S 3'36

A and Y: yes, vigorous drama of early American warfare; C: possibly too strong for young children."

Parents’ p12 O 36 '36

"There are so many war-dances, war-whoops, war-fodder, wars and warriors, that as a screen play there was danger of monotony and spurious melodrama. But Director George Seitz has controlled the action and handled the scenes, so that the film would be best appreciated by children of 11 or less. But many of later years will find it a challenging adventure of the seat."

+ Scholastic p32 O 3'36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The picture is done with a great deal of care and attention to detail; the swift movement of Cooper is retained. It may seem old-fashioned—possibly it will; but, for all that, we think it will like this simple guileless romance... Randolph Scott is an effective enough Hawkeye, but the Indians, we regret to report, are a bit faulty. Young Hollywood actors doing their best to look taciturn and tanned." (2½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p38 O 17 '36

"It is a relatively inept film, with a great many incredible Indians in it and with a bulky table which it is not always careful to keep clear. A superior American film which [Cooper] bequeathed to all romancers after him is undoubtedly here. Mark Van Doren + Film Daily p71 S 26 '36

"The difficulties of bringing so many tongues and tribes to the eyes and ears of the world, are solved by giving each race some different way of speaking English, rather with ludicrous effects. Montcalm speaks the best English, his lieutenant is an American, the Indians talk telegraphically, 'The Last of the Mohicans' has a lot of the genuine old blood and thunder, and a canoe chase down rapids, with redskins biling the water and the birch-bark dykes, getting away as best they can."

— The World p3 S 26 '36

"The picture is done with a great deal of care and attention to detail; the swift movement of Cooper is retained. It may seem old-fashioned—possibly it will; but, for all that, we think it will like this simple guileless romance... Randolph Scott is an effective enough Hawkeye, but the Indians, we regret to report, are a bit faulty. Young Hollywood actors doing their best to look taciturn and tanned." (2½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p38 O 17 '36

"It is a relatively inept film, with a great many incredible Indians in it and with a bulky table which it is not always careful to keep clear. A superior American film which [Cooper] bequeathed to all romancers after him is undoubtedly here. Mark Van Doren + Film Daily p71 S 26 '36

"The difficulties of bringing so many tongues and tribes to the eyes and ears of the world, are solved by giving each race some different way of speaking English, rather with ludicrous effects. Montcalm speaks the best English, his lieutenant is an American, the Indians talk telegraphically, 'The Last of the Mohicans' has a lot of the genuine old blood and thunder, and a canoe chase down rapids, with redskins biling the water and the birch-bark dykes, getting away as best they can."

— The World p3 S 26 '36
MOTION PICTURE

Trade Paper Reviews

"Not exactly pro-British in theme, [it] contains so much genuine entertainment value, and is so well produced, that the picture should be excellent box-office even in the most rabid pro-British countries. Press reviews in England itself have all been most favourable, the critics choosing to ignore the Yankee propaganda. . . . For those who have read Cooper's novel and enjoyed it, comedy indeed works very well. One who read it, did, the picture will be a great source of enjoyment, for it is one of those very rare phenomena, a faithful adaptation." +

Canadian Moving Pict Digest p6 O 3'36

LAUGHING AT TROUBLE. 20th Century-Fox 70min D 18 '36

Cast: Jane Darwell, Sara Haden, Lois Wilson, John Carradine

Director: Frank R. Strayer

"Jane Darwell as the editor of the Lane County Courier, traps a murderer, helps a romance or two, and defeats the cause of the sheriff's heartless assistant." Fox West Coast Bul

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A good cast make this entertaining. Family." +

Am Legion Auxiliary

"The picture is well produced, with well sustained suspense and interesting character portrayals by several members of the cast. Adults." Calif Cong of Fur & Teachers

"A complicated plot developed with the technique of earlier movies, with good comedy relief and a 'folksy' atmosphere. Certain incidents are open to criticism. The picture is mature for mature audiences." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Of high ethical value in exemplifying the true worth of war, a interest in the rights of others, we commend this picture to the family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox West Coast Bul N 7 '36

"The direction is intelligent with the well chosen cast and convincing work. Many shots are delightful in their portrayal of small town life with a nice blending of humor, pathos, and suspense. Adults & young people."

+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)

O 36 '36

"There is the old-fashioned villain, black mustache, bloodhounds and all, and the obvious but satisfactory denouement in which justice prevails. Ununsophisticated audiences."

Nat Council of Jewish Women O 28 '36

"Adults." Nat Legion of Decency D 10 '36

Sel Motion Pic p7 D 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

++ + Motion Pic Daily p11 O 30 '36

++ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; - Fair; - Mediocre; - Poor; --- Exceptionally Poor

---

REVIEW DIGEST

"Estimate: mild, best for neighborhoods, twin bill, larger bookings."

+ + Phila Exhibitor p31 D 1 '36

LEGION OF TERROR. Columbia 61min N 1 '36

Cast: Bruce Cabot, Crawford Weaver, Marguerite Churchill, Ward Bond

Director: C. C. Coleman, Jr.

"The heart of the action spreads like fire through a community when the editor of the town paper exerts pressure on the citizens. Two postal inspectors, working for the government, are instrumental in exposing and wiping out the band of terrorists." Nat Legion of Decency

Audience Suitability Ratings

"This topical exposé of the mob spirit in America, as typified by the Black Legion, fails to excite the indignation such armed violence calls for and it emerges as only fair entertainment out of its toothlessness... A grand opportunity has been lost to show up the degenerate viciousness, the childish cabalism, and contemptible trend of these night-riding, hooded hoodlums... The violent nature of the story makes it unsuitable for any but adults."

+ - America N 14 '36

"The story is a gripping one, carrying a significant undercurrent of thought and the individual and collective work of the players is good. Adults & young people." E Coast Pre-view Committee

Fox W Coast Bul N 21 '36

++ Adults.

Nat Legion of Decency N 5 '36

"A: fair; Y: pretty strong; C: no." *Parents' M p16 Ja 57

"[It is] a forceful drama... The danger of a few unscrupulous leaders organizing honest and well meaning citizens under the guise of patriotism is a timely thought and well worth the emphasis given it. Adults & young people."

+ Sel Motion Pic p11 N 1 '36

"Close enough to things that have actually happened to give it interest and importance. Mature." +

+Wkly Guide O 31 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Adults. The events of the picture do not give sufficient weight to the 'message' delivered at the end."

Christian Science Monitor p13 N 21 '36

"[It is] a so-so melodrama... The result is passingly fair. The story does not get far under the skin in picturing the curiously American weakness for wearing robes and riding anonymously at night, dispensing home grown justice and injustice. There's a very real drama there and it has been there since the clan rode for D. W. Griffith in 'The Birth of a Nation.'" (1½ stars) Evelyn Hills Liberty p44 N 28 '36

"Perhaps because it was too hastily done, and possibly, too, because of the difficulty in fitting so forthsome a topic into the formula of the Hollywood amourette, Columbia's exposition of Black Legion... is just another melodrama, and a not too absorbing one either." J. T. M. + + + N Y Times p24 N 2 '36

"Such curious American phenomena as secret hooded organizations come in for unmasking in the somewhat terrifying but unbearably gauche and artless melodrama... Although its crusading intentions are honorable and deserve endorsement, the manner in which it is told is so spurious that it lacks conviction. The result is a shambling and counterfeit offering." William Fochtel

N Y World-Telegram p18 N 3 '36
LEGION OF TERROR—Continued

Trade Paper Reviews

"Timely and authentic in theme and holding audience interest during a series of hair-raising episodes, this proves splendid box office fare for the thrill fans. Family."
+ Box Office p29 N 21 '36

"Good audience picture that exposes in convincing and exciting fashion the insidious, covetous lawless activities of the hoods who masquerade under hood and robe. In addition to being entertaining, its sequences are minstrels of good Americanism."
+ Film Daily p6 N 3 '36

"The picture has a distinct let-down after the final climax when the chief postal inspector reads a lecture to the audience on the folly of people allowing themselves to be misled by such secret organizations. [It] is just made to order for old-time showmen who like to get the utmost out of exploitation possibilities which are here in abundance. Direction and photography are fair, and the film as a whole is pretentious, but has good possibilities for drawing them in at the box office."
+ Hollywood Reporter p4 N 9 '36
+ Motion Pict Daily p15 O 15 '36

"Columbia has produced an action, melo-dramatic picture that can stand loads of selling. ... It has been directed with plenty of punch."
+ Phila Exhibitor p32 N 1 '36

"That it doesn't pack solid conviction is due chiefly to its abbreviated treatment of the subject-matter. ... Composite results have a quickie tinge, and would appear to classify best for duals in selected houses. Promotional possibilities are inherent, but in this case are best suited to the adventure houses and neighborhoods where they can stomach comedy in stereotype setting."
+ Variety p19 N 4 '36

LIBELED LADY. MGM 90min O 9 '36
Cast: Jean Harlow, William Powell, Myrna Loy, Spencer Tracy, Walter Connolly, Cora Witherspoon
Director: Jack Conway

Audio: Theme ... depicts antics of a suave metropolitan reporter trying to quash $5,000,000 suit against his newspaper by attempting to compromise the millionaires' plaintiff. Scheme is engineered by the managing editor with the aid of a capable, but loyal fiancée."
Variety (Hollywood)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A; very good of kind. Y; better not; C; no."
Christian Century p106 O 21 '36

"It is an amusing and well told story. FAMILY. Am Legion Auxiliary

"Gay spontaneous comedy with ridiculous situations and some slapstick, it is, none the less, exhilarating entertainment. Adults."
Calif Cong of Far & Teachers

"Smartly modern, with hilarious situations, comedy bordering occasionally on the slapstick, admirably directed and superbly cast. Adults."
Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"For a good laugh, see suave William Powell floundering midstream. Mature & 14-18. Excellent." LAA

"Three leading stars head a good cast who put over an absurd but amusing plot with verve and sparkling dialogue. Gorgeous gowns. Matronly New England Women's Club"
A picture of interest to adults. S Calif Council of Fed Church Women
+ Fox W Coast Bul O 17 '36

"This pretentious production has every thing necessary for enjoyable entertainment. Mature."
+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) O 7 '36

"Very good. Adults & young adults." + + Motion Pict Guide D '36

"No more preposterous conception than 'Libeled Lady' can be imagined, but its lighthearted, its flippant rapid-fire dialogue, its ludicrous situations and the jest with which the cast entertains the thrills of the action. Makes it unique in the school of sophisticated slapstick. Adults."
+ Motion Pict R p7 N '36

"This highly amusing, light and refreshing comedy with its clever, witty dialogue and sparkling production provides a much needed treatment. Abounding in humorous situations, the story is improbable but develops smoothly to a happy conclusion. Family."
+ Nat Council of Jewish Women O 7 '36

"Objection: marriage is used as a convenience. Others: This is the best of the 'g-1' love stories. I'll say it here. Adults."
- Nat Legion of Decency O 15 '36

"A; excellent: Y; sophisticated; C; too mature."
Parents' M p16 Ja 37

"Mature. Outstanding." + + Motion Pict p3 O 1 '36

"It is a hilarious comedy of errors. Each of the numerous stars is lucky enough to have a very fitting part. Mature. Outstanding." + + Wkly Guide O 10 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"'Libeled Lady' ... kept an Orpheum audience yesterday morning in a constant state of glee. Aside from the other humorous incidents, the producers have thought up an excellent sequence dealing with trout fishing. This fount of fun gives all the participants an opportunity to distinguish themselves, with the result that the film is a good pendant for The Thin Man. If you find your sides aching or splitting, complain to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, for this concern is responsible for 'Libeled Lady.' " Mordaunt Hall
+ + Boston Transcript p8 O 31 '36

"It is a hilarious comedy drama. ... If there were to be any choice as between the admirable performances of this group of talented players, it would probably fall on Miss Harlow, not perhaps because of any exceptional display of talent, but rather after all, they are in a series of sentimentalized roles where she was obviously not at home, she is once again cast as a slightly insipid young lady. 'Libeled Lady' is a combination of amusing and exhilarating experiences tied together with the smartest dialogue of any picture for some time past. ... The unravelling of this tangled skein is a thing of joy to those who delight in smart fast-moving comedy. This is a picture for the reasonably adult. It could not be suggested as either soundly interesting or soundly educational for the adolescent."
Laura Eleton
+ + Canadian M p38 D '36

"From its slapstick depths to its high comedy peaks, here is the funniest farce in several moons. Director Jack Conway holds barred in the rowdy gag fest and, except for an occasional breathing spell, the quartet of stars and their supporting cast are right there flicking out comedy punches right and left for some 80 odd minutes. Adults & young people."
+ + Christian Science Monitor p17 N 14 '36

"'Libeled Lady' is grand entertainment, a brilliant example of talkie craftsmanship, splendidly played by cast and splendidly directed. ... Any review would be merely a string of superlatives. I say about all there is to say when I tell you it is a picture you must see."
+ + Hollywood Spec p11 O 10 '36

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; + + Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
"Here is a smart comedy to take its place beside 'Piccadilly Jim' and 'My Man Godfrey,' as one of the three or four laugh producers of 1936. William Powell never was better, nor did he receive what he ordered from his director, to get his heels at any cost. And the heels is superbly done by Myrna Loy. 'Libeled Lady' is not only funny, it is particularly tomorrow's tabloid.' " (3½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p39 N 21 '36

"The cinema season's most piquant and daring comedy is the 'Libeled Lady.' Four scenarios, snickering in their sleeves, have peppered it with crisp and maliciously witty hits. And it is thoroughly resourceful and completely devoid of almost incessant clowning with effective but subtle jibes at the censors. The four stars make a four-star film."

+ + Lit Digest p22 N 7 '36

"When you see it, as you surely will, you are likely to enjoy it—eight-tenths of it—far more than if anyone had led you to believe that, with all its stars it was half witty or as we made as 'My Man Godfrey.' 'Libeled Lady' has pace, which is the cardinal virtue of all such films, but at intervals that pace flags and is revived more often by slapstick than with wit. One slapstick sequence, the urban thoroughfare, is a front-of-the-screen, brilliant, and Tracy's gruff cynicism is as pleasing as Powell's suavities. They seem to be at war in the wheels: they rattle, at varying speeds, like a horse, missing the sweet even spin of comedy."

+ + New Statesman & Nation p311 N 21 '36

"cheap and rippling comedy, played by an utterly engrossing company at top form, is to be found in 'Libeled Lady.' [The cast is] so delightfully resourceful that they whip together even the segments of the script into a vastly entertaining production. ... Accept the foolish premise, then, with the automaticina, and you are generally regaling. It offers four elegant characterizations, a glittering chain of funny situations and a topnotch, thoroughly diverting. 'Libeled Lady' is chiefly an actors' field day, but an extremely entertaining one." Howard Barnes

+ + N Y Herald Tribune p14 O 31 '36

"A sardonic comedy, with slapstick smudges and a liberal bedaubing of farce, it takes several freedoms with the press, liberties with the statutes and jousts as justice—all in the merriest of moods. And offhand we can think of no reason why you should not go and have a thoroughly agreeable entertainment." F. S. Nugent

+ + N Y Times p24 O 31 '36

"With Jean Harlow, Myrna Loy, William Powell, Spencer Tracy, and good honest Walter Connolly, 'Libeled Lady' is a picture to bolt out to when you feel too rabbitish. This quintet of movie notables appears, each and every one of them, to the best possible advantage, ... think the picture's too long, like most pictures. ... Sentiment sloows up a bit here, as it usually does. On the other hand, Miss Harlow has some funny lines and lively moments. ... There's high comedy in a ship scene when the adventurous young man tries to make himself agreeable with his fellow multimillionaires. Don't miss that. ... This is all pretty good fun." John Mosher

+ + New York Post p75 O 21 '36

"In 'Libeled Lady'—a farce that will rejuvenate all but the most hopeless hypochondriacs—Lawrence Weingarten, producer, and Jack Conway, director, have compounded a quartet of stars and a fine assisting cast topped by Walter Connolly. All four appear in the same picture, and probably on the theory that if any two of them ensure a picture's success, the combined effect of all four should break a good many box-office records. It probably will." News-Wk p39 O 24 '36

"At a time when it seemed that there were no new ideas for stories in the Fourth Estate, along come three writers—two of them ex-newspaper people—with a screen play that's succulent as freshly churned butter. ... It succeeds well in making a merry evening. Herb Sterne

+ + Script p10 O 10 '36

"'Libeled Lady' is one of those Hollywood smoothies that neither launch nor sink the cinema boat. ... You aren't supposed to have any response but hilarity, any feeling but terrific admiration. Well, it didn't quite do that to me, but it has the verve of a salad company; and the acting isn't going to win an Academy Award. It is the 'Pollyanna' of 1936. While there is a good honest laugh, and twice there is excellent comedy. ... In between you'll think it's a pretty clever script. The comedy is adorable and everything is screamingly entertaining. It's a glitter that's seldom gold." Stage p16 N 3 '36

"Adapting a story which is to be played by four top-ranking film personalities is a problem in fact as well as dramaturgy. The roles have to be 'balanced' to eliminate jealousies on the part of the players, disappointments for the members of the audience who become annoyed at a failure. But they are delighted. In 'Libeled Lady' the balancing is done with as much precision as if the roles had been weighed in an apothecary's scales. It's a very funny script, what, in a piece of business that's just a joke. ... The comedy is resourceful, a tip in the hat, I mean. It's an entirely plausible story so sure to be a box-office hit, worth any conceivable amount that might be spent producing it. The comedy is developed by Jack Conway, plentifully supplied with lighthearted lines."

Time p67 O 19 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"It would be libelous to call this anything but a grand picture and it will be criminal if showmen fail to take full advantage of its 24-carat éclat. The fact that it is starring one of their best box office hits of the current season, family."

+ + Academy On p63 O 17 '36

"'Libeled Lady' is the grandest comedy since 'The Thin Man.' ... The picture is certain box-office in any community, with the stars alone guaranteeing substantial returns. Sell the stars and the story, and you should be able to bring out that old sign, dear to the hearts of all exhibitors, S.R.O.'

+ + Canadian Moving Pict Digest p12 N 21 '36

"Here is a laugh riot that should develop into a modern classic. With several marquee names to play with and good showmanship, exhibitors should pile up heavy grosses. The box-office direction is of the best and he has not missed a bet in extracting the full measure of comedy from these stock situations."

+ + Film Daily p4 O 7 '36

"With four marquee draws of the first magnitude, all with parts that fit like one of Jean Harlow's gowns, in a hilarious comedy that is almost sinfully clever, here is a box-office boost of top rank. They just don't come any better. Count on an hour and a half of almost continuous laughter over the romantic difficulties of Jean Harlow, William Powell, Myrna Loy and Spencer Tracy in a bubbly French-type farce, tailored in the smartest American mode, that sparkles and twists and turns and never for a moment strays from the mountain troutstream. And count in enough witty dialogue to stock five ordinary comedies."

+ + Motion Pict Daily p4 O 6 '36

"Fast, funny, packed with names, well made, 'Libeled Lady' is another of those top [money] shows that Metro delivers. With names, a swell and sassy comedy laugh, the picture won't have any trouble anywhere."

+ + Phila Exhibitor p36 O 15 '36

"Even though 'Libeled Lady' goes overboard on plot and its pace snags badly in several spots, it has many of the advantages of a medium size affair that can't help but ring the bell in a big way. Metro

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + + Fair; + + Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor
LIBLELED LADY.—Continued
has not lost its luster, as well as the marquee, for the exhibitor, but has brought in a socker of a comedy.

"Metro has nothing less than a knockout comedy in 'Libleed Lady.' Here is one that won't have to be wedged down exhibitors' throats. It has a fine cast, and 15 min. so will the patrons. The picture is overlaid with laughs and handled in such a charmingly sophisticated manner by viscosity. The exhibitor who is fortunate enough to play this one will watch the ticket sales with genuine glee. . . .

Henry "NY Loy, Family, Outstanding."
to think that the fate of England as well as of France could ever depend upon his particular inspiration. The whole affair becomes a bit trifling and absurd, and then, after a while, a little dreary. And I think these period films become any more impressive when such personages as Nelson, the Prince of Wales, Sir Robert Walpole, Benjamin Franklin, and Dr. Johnson are worked into them with a rattle of big names." John Mosher

"[It] sometimes lags in the telling; it builds nevertheless to a stirring climax under the reliable direction of Henry King and is documented with sparkling contemporary notables. Lloyd's famous executive, John Julius Angerstein, is admirably portrayed by Sir Henry Stephenson; the character play is a taxing part, and while Mr. Power isn't as yet quite up to its demands, he shows all the earmarks of developing into a popular favorite." Herb Sterne

"Famed for his knack of translating headlines into cinema, Zanuck excels history in the collection of front-page stories. Making insurance seem glamorous might sound like a super-human tour de force. 'Lloyd's of London' is rich in the atmospheric detail of all good period pieces, warm with the honest adulation which English heroes alone seem capable of inspiring in Hollywood producers, is an insurance.getUserName's daydream. It makes the business as exciting as a bugle call, magnificently somber as the roll of muffled drums."

"It is brilliant cinema, this 'Lloyd's of London,' and, as far as can be ascertained, its performance exploited to the limit at the box office should be in kind with its artistic stature. Seldom has history been so attractively employed as a graphic background for a fine, human romance; vast the canvas may be, yet it is never permitted to dominate the story, compelling in theme and with a sustained hold upon your sympathies."

"The box office potentialities of 'Lloyd's of London' are immeasurable. It will set rave reviews everywhere; will easily and surely draw all cultivated picturegoers and sweep downward from the key houses and road-showings to become a must-see from city to hamlet. Besides its two stars, Freddie Bartholomew and Madeleine Carroll, the film is a brilliant new luminary in young Tyrone Power, interest in whom will gain swift momentum as his extraordinary performance is seen and talked about."

"Hollywood seems of late to have gone into the serious business of perpetuating British history. The previous efforts have been depressingly meager, and this one is an over-sentimentalized and highly fictitious historical subterfuge. There is some splendid acting; there is muffled drum; there is even finesse and deftness. But there is no real warmth. How the picture will fare on a $2 basis isn't known, but it has good going and will do its best to throw the lightning out on its own and has to fight its way at the general wickets against the field it will find freqently difficult to see, in view of the fact that (although exceptionally well cast) it has no marquee lure. . . [The story is] a bit hard to sell to average audiences. Fact remains that the hero of the story is having a love affair with another man's wife. . . From a physical standpoint, picture is A-1; cinemat work is tops and backgrounds intelligently handled. Henry King's direction is fine. If the story could be accepted, his handling of the characters and scenes would be tops."

"Properly exploited this may prove to be the foremost dramatic picture of the year at the box office as well as in the critical nominations. Certainly on merit it will stand sturdily among the tops in a season of outstanding productions."

"LONELY TRAIL. Republic 55min My 25 '36

Director: Joseph Kane

A western melodrama of post civil War days in Texas when the south was exploited by Carpet Baggers."

"This Western depends more on dramatic and emotional elements to entertain rather than on the hard riding and spirited action usually [found] in stories of the plains. John Wayne essays straight acting with ease and understanding. Bernard McConville's story is interesting, particularly from the historical standpoint, is livelier and photography and acting are thoroughly adequate."

"ESTIMATE: good."

"PHILExhibitor p23 Je 1 '36

"Few Westerns can be remembered as furnishing audiences with acting. This hardly sets a precedent in the picture art but does furnish a well-adapted, well-drawn accounting of the post-Civil War days of rip-roaring Texas. Wayne is his usual good-looking, erect-riding self but never sets a precedent as being convinced of his role. On strength of its story and action, film should carry its portion of split programs."

"LONGEST NIGHT. MGM 50min O 2 '36

Director: Errol Taggart

Based on the novel The Whispering Window by Cortland Fitzsimmons. 'Story tells of a band of thieves who sell their loot to a large department store. Buyer for the store heads the gang. When an employee is killed, the racket, he is killed. Police lock all the customers in and start the investigation.' (Box Office)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The murder movie technique is reduced to near absurdity in this noisy account of sudden death in a large department store. Despite the attempts to build up suspense and keep a grim pace on the production are undone by clownish antics which are often amusing but never conducive to an atmosphere of terror." T. J. Flanagan

"A, Y & C: poor."

Christian Century p1478 N 4 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + - Fair; + + Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
LONGEST NIGHT—Continued

"The plot is good and the setting novel, but the last third is somewhat weak and a slapstick manner which gives a noisy and confused ending... it is obviously intended for adults." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Good entertainment for those who like this type of picture. Adults & 14-18: amusing; 8-14: no." Calif Cong of Far & Teachers

"It has some clever moments, but toward the end the box-office comedy and the fine cast struggles in vain to make real people out of shadowy, unreal characters. Rating: fair. Mature & 14-18. Too mature for Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Mature & 14-18. Mediocre." DAR

"Good characterizations and comedy but the action is exaggerated and a confused group of people race about till one's brain reels trying to keep the thread of the story. This type of film brings ridicule upon the film industry. For confirmed entertainers only. The Longest Night" is a long cut of a mature year." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Too exciting and confusing for the average child; it might appeal to an adult audience." Calif Cong of Far & Teachers

"It is seldom our lot to review such a fearfully chaotic, melodramatic picture as this. Gun shots, screams, crashing dishes and a wild music are supposed to increase the din and confusion. Though intended to be farcical, the picture is not funny and it is too poorly done to be interesting even as a murder mystery. Adults. Women's Univ Club, Los Angeles

"Entertainment for those who like strong fare and are unmindful of discrepancies. Mature & 14-18. Good." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 23 '36

"Mature." Jt Estimates S 15 '36

"An improbable but quite delightful thriller where every minute there is 'something doing.' It has the double merit of being extremely funny and extremely exciting and though it fades away a little at the end it can be highly recommended as entertainment. The director has blended all the parts so that tragedy and comedy form a coherent whole and we are kept interested in everyone. Suitability: family.

"Fair. Adults & young adults."

"A very involved murder mystery in which a notable cast make every effort but with little success. The story is poorly constructed and the direction confusing. Fair for the family." Nat Council of Jewish Women S 21 '36

"[It] will please any audience that is in search of excitement. General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency O 8 '36

"A: fair; Y: possible; C: no." Parents' M p82 D '36

"Mature." Sel Motion Pict p5 O 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

Reviewed by Laura Elston

Canadian M p83 N '36

"If this were a full length film—It runs only 50 minutes—it would probably live up to its title. It is a murder mystery but with little of the finest in the way of story, construction and the direction confusing. Fair for the family."

"The Mary Pickford Studio."

"Children's Science Monitor p17 O 31 '36

"Occasionally a film is preposterous to the point of being entertaining. Robert Andrews' deliberate humor has made of Courtland Fitzsimmons' original story just such delightful nonsense. Throughout, 'The Longest Night' is as sparse with the hondish fun everyone (except the murdered lady) seems to be having. So although it, at some time or other makes some almost in cinematic law, it does it so charmingly, and so obviously with a 'by the way' of a 'how about,' that when Hubbard and Samuel Marx will find they have a minor Big Hit, But they probably know it already." C. Jacobs + Hollywood Spec p13 S 26 '36

"After leaving the Rialto, one has an impression of having looked at something through a telescope of the X-ray variety. The events which comprise The Longest Night will make you forget your most heated political argument, and also if possible, the little things that make you doubt your sanity." Margarette Tazelaar N Y Herald Tribune p8 O 17 '36

"It is doubtful if even Metro, the munificent, can really afford to throw away such an interesting title and such an excellent cast of secondary, if not primary, players, as it has unaccountably wasted on 'The Longest Night.' [It is] disjointed, crackbrained and embarrassed with all the clichés of murder mystery and farce. Too far a character is responsible for this killing, and for the others that take place during the course of an admittedly long evening that would be unbelievable, and would spoil the fun you'll have in guessing it almost immediately after the picture opens." B. R. C.

"It was a hit."

"Improbable as the statement may seem, 'The Longest Night' is not very good. This statement is made regretfully, since what the Times Square cinema sector could stand at the moment is a good, robust shotker to send the chills up and down moviegoers' spines. However, 'The Longest Night' is that package of thrills, even though it does get off to a pretty good start... Clumsily constructed, and directed in a feeble and ineffective manner, 'The Longest Night' completely wastes the talents of a really good cast of players." William Beeler

"Among the inconsiderable, yet spry, little moments I would list 'The Longest Night.' Take it in, if it turns up at the next temple. This is just a thriller with a good splash of farce, perhaps too much farce... A scramble in the kitchenware department, a murder on the upholstery floor, a kleptomaniac busy in the sporting-goods wing, and killers lose all over the place, make the piece bright." John Mosher + New Yorker p79 O 24 '36

"The law must be filled; hence B, C and D pictures may be expected to know limitations, but while it is a million miles from art it rates fairly high in the present madhouse cycle. At 26 minutes you can't even have grown-ups with [juvenile] minds... It seems kinda crool to subject such charming actors as Robert Young, Catherine Doucet, Janet Beecher, Etienne Girardot and Samuel Hind's to such goopiness."

"The Mary Pickford Studio."

"This motion picture mystery is designed especially for the Saturday morning diversion of school children than for the August judgment of the cognoscenti. It is a reasonably brick embodiment of what neighborhood houses expect from a murder in a department store." + Time p36 O 12 '35

Trade Paper Reviews

"Although suffering from a flimsy story, and a far-fetched climax, this picture has some merit of moments of bangup comedy, and emerges as a humorous looking lark aimed at top billing, but will lend sturdy support to any family." + Box Office p65 S 19 '36

"This comedy mystery-melodrama should fit nicely on the average bill. That the story is confused, it misses a little of the entire furnishing plenty of entertainment. Errol Taggart's direction manages to forget the story and as a result stresses comedy much to the benefit of all concerned."

+ — Film Daily p8 S 15 '36

"This is an elaborately gagged mystery yarn and provides fairly amusing pandemonium in a department store over a couple of minutes. It is cluttered with stock characters and its humor is aimed at the immature but it moves very rapidly and piles up its laughs with such irresponsible verve that it will serve well in dual support, especially as it has the name and presence of Robert Young for box office bait."

+ — Hollywood Reporter p8 S 11 '36

- — Motion Pict Daily p2 O 19 '36

"This is a program that generally entertains although one of the shortest features of the season."

+ — Phila Exhibitor p55 O 1 '36

"It took two producers to turn this one out, Lucien Hubbard and Samuel Marx. That was hardly enough, judging by what they have produced in 'The Longest Night,' which has been showing for 50 minutes. They seldom come from that or other major studios with as little to offer, either. Feature will take only two of two shorts, if preferred to shorts, or act as a weak No. 2 feature on duals."

+ — Variety p17 O 21 '36

"Loaded with hilarity, yokum and humor, 'The Longest Night' is a classy little comedy. Compact and swift-moving, the picture romps along with some swell kidding of the (mystery story) theme. Obviously it is very timely, since the audience went for the works. . . Combination of clever dialog and good direction puts 'The Longest Night' in real entertainment class, despite the fact the picture never presumed to aim at the big time. Any exhibitor who knows his cinem is going to set for this one. . . while not constructed on a scale of principle of operation, it is well enough delved."

+ — Variety (Hollywood) p8 S 11 '36

LOVE BEGINS AT TWENTY. Warner-First national 60min Ap 22 '36

Cast: Warren Hull, Patricia Ellis, Hugh Herbert, Hobert Cavanaugh, Dorothy Vaughan

Director: Frank McDonald

See issues of June 29 and September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: hardly; Y: not the best; C: no." Christian Century p1095 Ag 12 '36

"A: relaxation for an idle hour; Y: possibly amusing; C: unexciting." Parents' M p17 Ag '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Adults." Christian Science Monitor p13 S 26 '36

"Under the rather misleading title 'Love Begins at Twenty,' this amiable little farce [becomes] not so much a picture of young romance as it does a story of middle-aged rebellion." (2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p16 J1 4 '36

"It is lightweight entertainment. . . The film has its moments of slight amusement, but the rapid-fire gags of the film are just enough to drown Flavin treated it and it has whiskers down to here now." — N Y Times p9 19 '36

"[It is] a moderately amusing little trifle. . . Since Mr. Herbert has a genius for playing stuttering, cowed underlings, it would be pleasant to say that to Mr. Hull. 'Love Begins at Twenty' is first-rate farce. Unfortunately, it is done in such a stereotyped manner that even his expert playing seems forced and labored." William Boehm

= — World-Telegram p9a S 19 '36

"[It] is a cinema trifle. . . The story is rather trite and fragile but Tom Reed and Delton Trimble have strengthened it up with amusing business and Frank McDonald has directed with lively tempo and fine regard for light and shade."

+ — Script p10 Ag 8 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Domestic comedy that owes more to its director than to the author and is beholden to the cast is Frank McDonald. . . Pretty surefire on a dueler to get audience good humor, but a soloist only where they respond emphatically to the fireside stuff. It makes for pleasant entertainment of better than average class."

+ — Variety p16 S 23 '36

LOVE IN EXILE. Capitol 78min N 15 '36

Cast: Clive Brook, Helen Vinson, Mary Carlisle, Ronald Squire, Cecil Ramage

Director: Alfred Werker

Based on the novel, His Majesty's Pajamas by Gene Markey. Dialogue film produced in England about a year ago and recently released in this country. The story concerns the efforts of scheming certain industrial leaders to replace a Rutirian king and replace him with a dictator. In the end the king returns from exile through the aid of a countess who loves him.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Clive Brook returns to us in rather a jumbled tale. In spite of his finished performance, the film is only fitfully interesting. . . Helen Vinson and Mary Carlisle offer adequate performances in vague characterizations but there are not enough good points to raise the production above the routine level. . . And there are enough bad points to place the film in the adult-audience class." T. J. Fitzmorris

+ America p216 D 5 '36

"A: fair; Y: good; C: no interest." Christian Century p1059 D 9 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Timeliness must be the New Criterion's reason for showing 'Love in Exile.' . . . The picture is made in England, where life now seems to be something more fitting to its further comfortable extent. The striking topical quality of the plot is its greatest asset. The film itself is decidedly second-rate, even with such handsome and experienced players as Helen Vinson and Clive Brook in the leading roles. It would be interesting to know how the film would be received today in London, where it was manufactured." Eileen Creelman

= — N Y Sun p33 D 10 '36

N Y Times p35 D 10 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"With the best will in the world, it is impossible to say much in favor of this picture. Indeed, the dialogue follows closely behind in its stiltedness. . . . The thickness of the story is made up for by the quantity of dialogue. In fact, far too much. The film consists of medium close shots of statis and conversations, in which the artists seldom move and the camera stands still. Stock shots of plane flights and newspaper inserts for time lapses are made use of unnecessarily and awkwardly, and even the photography is thin and washed-out in appearance."

— — Hollywood Reporter p8 Je 1 '36

+ — Motion Pict Daily p7 My 26 '36

1+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
LOVE IN EXILE—Continued
"This sounds like a drawing room comedy. In reality it winds up as punchy melodrama that picks up speed. Estimator program."

— Phila Exhibitor p15 N 15 '36

"Helen Vinson . . . is sweet and charming, but not over-convincing in a role that calls for more precision. Clive Brook plays the exile in an effortless, nonchalant way, with humorous interludes. Supporting company is excellent and all in character, will no jarring note in either casting or direction."

Variety p15 My 27 '36

LOVE LETTERS OF A STAR. Universal 55min N 8 '36

Directors: Lewis R. Foster. Milton Carruth

Based on a short story The Case of the Constant God by Rufus King. A mystery story based on the theft for blackmail of incessant letters written by a school girl to a matinée idol.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A good cast, but a depressing picture, with some comedy relief furnished by the police photographer. Adults." Am Legion Auxiliary

"The blackmail plot is not new, but the speed of events and the convincing way in which they are developed, make a mystery drama as it should be—tense, uncertain as to outcome and wholly adequate as to thrills. Adults." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"An interesting and smoothly developed murder mystery, the title of which is a misnomer. . . The story develops in a logical and fascinating manner with much credit due the director and a very capable cast. Mature. Calif Fed of Professional Women's Clubs

"[It is] a trite blackmail mystery. Mediocre. Adults." DAR

"Natural acting, good comedy relief, apt dialogue and dramatic suspense make this a superior mystery film. Adults & young people." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Although the clues are well concealed, the vital issues appear lacking. Fairly entertaining for the mature." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul O 31 '36

"Mature audience. Production values satisfactory, suspense well sustained, timely comedy, and the well directed, cast give this picture its entertainment value.

+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) O 17 '36

"Audiences will be surprised to find a detective story hiding under a misleading title. . . The result is a somewhat confused but interesting melodrama. Adolescents, 12-16: mature; children, 8-12: no." + — Motion Pict R p7 N '36

"[It is] an involved, clumsily directed murder mystery. Ralph Forbes and Henry Gordon give good performances in an otherwise mediocre picture. Adults.

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women O 21 '36

"Objection: revenge, suicide and murder. Objectionable in part." Nat Legion of Decency O 29 '36

"A: fair; Y: possible; C: unacceptable." Parents' M p66 Ja 37

"Adults.

Sel Motion Pict p6 N 1 '36

Neuspaper and Magazine Reviews

"On the title is a flagrant attempt to cash in on all that front page publicity and has completely pilloried an actress uncircumspect enough to keep a diary. It's irrelevant too, for it covers not a servant-girls'-delight exposed but a mystery story. A just fair chiller, it goes through the routine developments that have long served to entertain shirk-in-the-night addicts. The dénouement is jumbled, fails to account for many of the herring which have been laboriously sprinkled across the spectator's path."

Herb Sterne

— Script p15 N 14 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This 'guess who?' yarn is neither good nor bad, but somewhere between the two. Built on an illogical premise, the mystery element follows through but is unsatisfactory throughout and the comedy relief and on top acting talent. Family."

— Box Office p31 O 31 '36

"The yarn is filled with lots of twists and surprises, and will satisfy the thrill fans. The directors Lewis Foster and Milton Carruth have sustained a tense atmosphere throughout."

Film Daily p17 D 1 '36

"A smoothly unfolded murder mystery that, without stepping far off the beaten track, has enough ingenuity and production class to recommend it even to the epicures in the art of clue-spotting. Without pressure of box office appeal, except a title that is something of a misnomer, [it is] as much a mystery as the644 the role of a schoolgirl and not of a star. It will serve unusually well as a dual support number."

— Hollywood Reporter p3 O 21 '36

Motion Pict Daily p8 O 22 '36

"Program mystery murder drama, short on name tos, but it is well done. A story of something later, 'Love Letters of a Star,' is routine fare that will serve on twin bills or in lesser situations."

— Phila Exhibitor p36 N 1 '36

"Love Letters of a Star' has no one in its lineup who means box office but picture is competently produced murder mystery that should please if not attract customers. It is good family entertainment. . . With a brace of directors and a trio of coadaptors, a total of three hands were joined in writing and directing 'Love Letters.' In both departments, the combined talents of the five men have brought forth a finished product that is notable for its production superiority over the average, run-of-the-mill murder mystery."

+ Variety p35 D 2 '36

"Obviously seeking to traffic on recent exposures of amorous antics in the news, 'Love Letters of a Star' is actually a minor murder mystery. Picture makes no production claims except an hour's diversion and levels off as a relaxer on duals in the subsequents. . . Mechanics of the unfoldment of motive and killing modus are timeworn, and behavior of detectives and family involved in the crime is not convincing in some of the crucial scenes."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 21 '36

LOVE ON THE RUN. MGM 80min D 4 '36

Cast: Joan Crawford, Clark Gable, Franchot Tone, Reginald Owen. Mona Barrie, Ivan Lebedeff.

Director: W. S. Van Dyke

Based on a serial story Beauty on the Beat by Alan Green and Julian Brodie. "Gable and Tone are a couple of New York newspapermen in London. Gable gets the assignment of covering the wedding of reporter-hating heiress Miss Crawford to Count Ivan Lebedeff. Tone draws the proposed bridegroom's flight at Baron Reginald Owen and Baroness Mona Barrie. When Miss Crawford jilts herImpecunious title, Gable grabs her, pushes Tone into the arms of his future wife and cloest and steals the plane."

Hollywood Reporter

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + + Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor
Audience Suitability Ratings

"The players concentrate on the lighter aspects of the intrigue and bring forth a swiftlymoving dramatic story. Franchot Tone provides keen competition for Mr. Gable and Reginaid Owen plays an impressive villain. It is first rate family entertainment." T. J. Fitzmorris +

+ America p216 D 5 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legend of Decency N 26 '36

"Excellent entertainment, dominated by the fine performances of the three leading players and by the remarkable supporting bit of Donald Meek. The cast is well mounted, cast splendidly with Van Dyke's direction is important. Family.

+ Sel Motion Pic p10 D 1 '36

"[It is] a swift and hilarious farce... For anyone who doesn't expect to take it seriously, it is full of laughs. Family.

+ Wkly Guide N 21 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"If not entirely credible [the events] are at least strongly scored so as to satisfy the average movie fan. It is a fast moving exciting and admirably acted story... In this picture Franchot Tone has the best starring role, his acting is superb, comedy and his deft handling of it will give a new conception of his qualities as an actor." Laura Elston +

+ Canadian M p39 D '36

"This cross-country film chase over Europe has charm and humor to compensate for the story's lack of Family.

+ Christian Science Monitor p19 D 5 '36

"Love on the Run" is unbelievable but joyous, as satisfactory a piece of screen entertainment as one could wish for. The combination of Cedric Gibbons sets, Adrian gowns and Oliver Marsh photography is enough to make any picture worth looking at, and the story and acting in this one make it well worth listening to. Such a finished trio as Joan Crawford, Clark Gable and Franchot Tone can make us believe the unbelievable and entertain us with it. 'Love on the Run' is screen entertainment easy to take. Its strength lies in the weakness of its appeal to the intelligence of the audience. It is content with asking us only to have a good time with it, presenting no psychological problem demanding close attention. It is (a) relief to find in a picture a clever way of farce comedy.

+ Hollywood Spec p11 N 21 '36

"[It] is formula-made, but amusing in spite of that. Speed, a high-powered cast and a setting of the era are responsible for at least obscuring the fact: that 'Love on the Run' is continual nonsense. If it doesn't make sense the film usually does make fun. The story is certainly best left undescribed.

'Love on the Run' is deliberately mad and quite as deliberately funny." Eileen Creelman +

+ N Y Sun p13 N 25 '36

"A slightly daffy cinematic item of absolutely no importance. 'Love on the Run,' presents Clark Gable, Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone to have a good time at the box-office. In all good conscience, the film ought to be bow, in turn, to several distinguished antecedents, for it has borrowed liberally and theore of tried and true screen devices and situations... W. S. Van Dyke has injected a few of his own tested touches, and some in the Rene Clair and Frank Capra manner, with a resulting madoda by season pleasing familiarity for the audience." J. T. M.

+ N Y Times p13 N 25 '36

"Since 'Love on the Run' deals in an energetic manner with these endearingly romantic and sentimentally sentimental situations, it will probably be a great box office success. But the truth of the matter is that it is a delineator of comedy with the efforts of its stars, of little credit to its director, W. S. Van Dyke and of small compensation to those who are in search of rollicking entertainment. The three times they can under the circumstances. . But the efforts of all are wasted on decidedly inferior material. William Doeben +

+ N Y World-Telegram p7a N 28 '36

"Everybody works very hard in 'Love on the Run', but only succeeds in seeming pretty pitiful. The least pitiful person of the three, Joan Crawford, Clark Gable, and Franchot Tone. I suppose the studio felt that these three should simply have been left to heaven knows what they'd be up to, and so some sort of sketch was contrived for them." John Morton +

New Yorker p38 N 28 '36

"Whenever the story needs taking in at the waist, melodrama provides a stitch in time. But for the most part W. S. Van Dyke squeezes the script for all the slapstick there is in it. The three players are cast in roles that call less for acting than for sheer good spirits, and that they have in abundance... The film has few dull moments, those moments that fail to fiza can be blamed on the machined plot. Perhaps this is the reporter story to end all reporter stories."

News-Wk p20 N 28 '36

Time p23 D 7 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Gable-Crawford-Tone—what more could any exhibitor want? But this film is not alone a big number, it is a retail success. The rings the bell in every department, and runs the gamut of comedy from slapstick to innuendo. Family.

+ Box Office p23 N 28 '36

"One riot of a comedy is this 'Love On the Run. It sparkles with clever dialogue that Joan Crawford, Clark Gable and Franchot Tone put over in grand style. In such a swell piece of entertainment, this name cast should mean smash box office returns of Every type and kind of audience should love its gay, breezy, laughloaded qualities. Tone deserves special mention for his performance. Crawford and Gable are splendid in this light type of comedy as they certainly know how to put over the lines..."

+ N Y Daily p7 17 '36

"'Love on the Run' is super-entertainment from its first delve into the riotics to its staccato climax, with nothing left out of the middle. This is the real deal of all cinematic situations and fast-fire never-missing dialogue. The Crawford-Gable-Tone combination has never been better. Naturally box-office, this trio has in this a vehicle which is of sure hit caliber... A few lapses into the unbelievable are made more delightful by thoroughly mad picturization..."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 N 13 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p2 N 14 '36

"Comedy with names, this is headed for good grosses. All players are tops, comedy is strong, the cast is all-star...

+ Phila Exhibitor p30 D 1 '36

"Despite meandering story development, some slip-shod dialog concoctions and several rapid moments, 'Love on the Run' is a solid and share at the gate through the sheer momentum of the Gable-Crawford-Tone combination. Crowded situation, bits of action and popular gagging, the film is lightweight and synthetic but, will prove probably fit for its purpose.

+ Variety p18 D 2 '36

"Mixing all the possible sure-fire comedy ingredients, 'Love on the Run' is a hilarious farce that will set them laughing anywhere. Filled with wit and exuberance are the farcical, comedy dialog, plenty of action and even slapstick shokum, the picture comes near to being a riot..."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 13 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
LUGIEST GIRL IN THE WORLD. Universal 70 min. N 3 '36

Cast: Jane Wyatt, Louis Hayward, Eugene Pallette, Catharine Doucet

Director: Edward Buzzell

Based on the short story Kitchen Privileges by Ann Jordan. Miss Wyatt wants to marry the heiress-seeking tennis champion and ballroom dancer and her mother likes the match. However, the father doubts the story they can exist on $150 a month and Miss Wyatt agrees to try it for a month. [Variety (Hollywood)]

Audience Suitability Ratings

"That is a very imposing title for such a minor film and I may point out that Jane Wyatt, who plays the title role, is not by far the luckiest girl even in Hollywood for having drawn so ordinary an assignment." - T. J. Pittmorris

- + America p168 N 21 '36

"A: pleasant; Y: amusing; C: little interest." - Christian Century p1670 D 9 '36

"Entertaining. Family." - Am Legion Auxiliary

"[It] is fresh, charming and amusing. Excellent performances. " - Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"The story is light, but has charm and wholesome humor. " - Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Amusing situations, good dialogue and an able cast make this light farce. Mature & 14-18. Good." - DAI

"Lightly amusing and based on a sound idea, this pleasant little comedy is unfortunately marred by excessive drinking." - Nat Soc of New England Women

"Interesting comedy for the family." - S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"A light little love story, refreshingly entertaining. Family." - Fox W C Mutl B 31 '36

"The plot is well handled, and the characters seem delightfully human. Adolescents, 12-16: entertaining; children, 8-12: no interest." - Motion Pict R p1 N '36

"Mildly amusing, well directed with good photography." - Nat Council of Jewish Women O 21 '36

"Adults." - Nat Legion of Decency N 5 '36

"A, Y & C: entertaining light comedy." - Parents M p46 Jn '37

"Family." - Sel Motion Pict p4 N 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Jane Wyatt and Louis Hayward, by virtue of the easy, convincingly natural performances they contribute to it, make "The Luckiest Girl in the World" as good a picture as has been made. Genevieve Rush is not a great deal of story in it, and what there is sags a bit in the middle, but it will entertain any audience which can enjoy following the working out of a social problem devoid of dramatic high spots. ... Except for one sequence in which Hayford and Pendleton get drunk for no greater reason than a desire to get drunk, the picture is clean and wholesome." - Hollywood Reporter p3 O 12 '36

"Here is a simple, unheralded comedy that is quite light and amusing through its entire length. ... You will find the comedy frothy and gay mostly, it is well handled by Director Eddie Buzzell's smooth direction." (2 stars) - Beverly Hills Liberty p45 D 12 '36

"Why the new picture should have proved so impressively popular to this reviewer during last week at Dr. Patton's at 799 S. Main is difficult to explain at this later moment, grim and uncompromising and far removed from the world the theater. It is probably because the story—a piece of fluff—has been so adroitly acted by Jane Wyatt, Louis Hayward and Nat Pendleton, as well as skillfully directed by Mr. Buzzell. But its situations, threadbare as many of them are, are charming for the consequences of the lines, and a bright and original co-ordination which proves hilarious. ... If you want entertainment that is gay and decorous, without much substance or particular brilliance, but with many spontaneous laughs [see it]." - Marguerite Turner

+ N Y Herald Tribune p10 D 5 '36

"The Luckiest Girl in the World' is one of the lightest comedies that has come along this season. It is sheer fluff, but, thanks to cast and director, rather an engaging bit of fluff. [It] is not a picture to remain long in your memory. An hour after seeing it, the details are dim. The impression of a pleasant hour lingers on, however." - Eileen Creelman

+ N Y Sun p30 D 7 '36

"Any one not too much depressed beforehand by such a title would probably enjoy "The Luckiest Girl in the World' will be pleasantly surprised to find this week a better-than-average contribution to the field of comedy and entertainment. At the Roxy. The cinematic counterpart of a rapidly written 'novelette' in one of the popular five-cent magazines, it permits its pretty and neatly formulated people to behave and talk more brightly than usual, while its charming heroine, Jane Wyatt, has given an unassuming local dauntless aura which is all the more unexpected—considering the fact that but recently Miss Wyatt acted as a local dauntless." - B. R. C.

+ N Y Times p16 D 5 '36

"[It] is an amiable, unassuming and entertaining little comedy. ... In outline, this sounds pretty pat and unexciting, but the plot's framework is filled in with delightful little touches, and the acting of Jane Wyatt, Louis Hayward, Nat Pendleton and Eugene Pallette is commendable that 'The Luckiest Girl in the World' turns out to be passably good, if not outstanding, film fare. ..." - N Y World-Telegram p7a D 5 '36

"Eddie Buzzell surmounts the distress proceedings by turning the hoop-la into personable comedy, romantic in mood and incident. Many of the sequences are satisfying, and the story is bright and result in a mildly entertaining evening. Jane Wyatt is a charming heroine and Louis Hayward proves an adequate hero." - Herb Sterne

+ Script p10 N 21 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Universal steps out with a picture that is check-full of romantic moments, lively comedy, an entertaining little story, and some enjoyably capable acting by Jane Wyatt, a new star. Louis Hayward, clean-cut lad with plenty of ability. Family." - Box Office p31 O 31 '36

"This is a pleasing program number that will pile up many laughs. Although the story is slender, Eddie Buzzell directs it with such skill and provided much entertainment." - Film Daily p13 O 22 '36

"An engrossing human little romantic comedy that clings steadfastly to real life and lightens it gayly with a wide smile of Shoshov. The story is a mere trifle but its telling is so delightfully unstrained and bubbling with good humor that it makes you forget you're watching an exploitation. Without exploitation values its destiny is dual duty but there it will be ideal and popular neighborhood fare." - Hollywood Reporter p3 O 10 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p12 O 20 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
"Pleasant little comedy that makes no claims to greatness but which should be pleasing due to its lack of nastiness."

+ — Phila Exhibitor p36 N 1 '36

"Incredible story ... has been rigged up with old vaudeville gags and directed with a certain amount of zippiness. Result is a fanciful cream puff that will please where they please easily. Furthermore, and for duels, it will be not too hard to accept. ... Whenever people mention Jane Wyatt they mention the Social Register. It astonishes 'em both ways that an actress in a Social Register could act. Miss Wyatt can. Very nicely. ... There is, however, no memorable scene, acting trick or trait that could be used as a peg to hang predictions on as to her film future. ... Also from the legitimate [stage] is Louis Hayward. And okay, too. On the boyish side, but possessing enough sincerity when, for a few feet of celluloid, a little seriousness is called for."

+ — Variety p15 D 9 '36

"Again the New Universal has cracked through with first-rate comedy. ... [It] doesn't have a cast heavy enough to warrant heavy billing or exploitation, but it will do swell as the comedy relief on any important dailier. Buzzelle's film has the desired constant up beat throughout the picture and some of the lines in the previewed edition are still warm enough to raise an eyebrow.

+ — Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 19 '36

MAD HOLIDAY. MGM 65min N 13 '36

Cast: Edmund Lowe, Elissa Landi, Zasu Pitts, Ted Healy. Edmund Gwenn

Based on the mystery Murder in a Chinese Theatre by Joseph Santley, "Edmund Lowe is a Hollywood film star who is led up on his agonized producer and books passage for a sea trip far away from it all. He is followed, however, by Ted Healy, a vociferous studio publicity hound, and the first person on the deck. Later, in the ravishingly lovely person of Elissa Landi, who dotes on murders but has never seen a corpse."

Hollywood Reporter

Audience Suitability Ratings

"It is hard to discover whether this is a comic mystery yarn or a slightly mysterious comedy, but whichever way you will have it, it is not very new. That it manages to amuse and mystify us at all is due to the heroic cast which surreptitiously added difficulty of uncertain direction."

T. J. Fitzmorris

+ — America p188 N 21 '36

"A & Y: fair of kind; C: no."

Christian Century p157 H 25 '36

"Many good laughs, but some unnecessary drinking. Mature. Am Legion Auxiliary

"A well cast and well presented murder mystery. Some unnecessary drinking. Adults & young people." Calif Cong of Far & Teachers

"Farce murder mystery. Treated in a farcical manner. Excellent with some murders, but few thrills and little coherence of sequences, this will hold little interest for those who require mystery with authenticity. Disappointing to mystery fans. Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"The picture is quick moving, though rather confusing at times. Mature." S Cali Council of Fed Clubs of Women

Fox W Coast Bul N 14 '36

"The spirited acting of Edmund Lowe and Elissa Landi contribute much to the entertain- ment value of the picture. The story is a rather well directed cast. Especially interesting [are] the Chinese Theatre sequence and the fog scenes.

+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 2 '36

"Starting in a clever manner this picture soon devolves into a muddled mystery. Cleared by the rather questionable humor of Zasu Pitts. Edmund Lowe is satisfactory as the actor-detective and Elissa Landi obtains as the authoress but both are worthy of a better vehicle. Family."

— Nat Council of Jewish Women N 19 '36

"General panorama."

Nat Legion of Decency N 19 '36

"A well selected cast, with Edmund Lowe and Elissa Landi doing good work; with expert but dubious comedy by Zasu Pitts as a tipsy woman and comedy bits contributed by Ted Healy are a clever little picture."

Sei Motion Pict pl 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"While I am a disciple of that school of thought which holds that four comedians to three corpses in a murder mystery picture is a ratio which tends to demean murder and lessen its importance as one of the most emphatic manifestations of our rather complex social structure, I feel that in justice to those who had a hand in the making of 'Mad Holiday,' I must confess my enjoyment and enthusiasm. Still, I think it might have preserved a better balance—say one comedian to one corpse. ... To George Seitz, director, credit goes for maintaining the suspense, for presenting the characters as natural humans who make no effort to impress us as actors."

+ — Hollywood Spec p14 N 21 '36

"Because 'Mad Holiday' seems to us affected, hysterical and boring, is no reason why others shouldn't enjoy it. It is patterned after The Thin Man type of detective fiction, now the rage on the screen, and its sets, especially the latter, are eye catching. As an idea and original, Edmund Lowe and Elissa Landi do their utmost to be an engaging pair of phantoms and the jewel robbery motif is reasonably unique."

Marguerite Taizelaar

— N Y Herald Tribune p19 N 30 '36

"An engaging variation on that macabre motif successfully classified by the cinema industry as 'whodunit.' Is the current 'Mad Holiday.' You get the idea, as the gay company of specialized serio-comics becomes involved with the familiar devices of mystery melodrama—masked men, black-gloved hands and Oriental trickery—that maybe Metro and Mr. Seitz are kidding the screen thriller a bit with this one."

+ — N Y Times p133 N 26 '36

"'Mad Holiday' is a better comedy than it is a murder mystery. The characters are gay and interesting and the comic situations in which they find themselves have a light-hearted quality about them. But the puzzle they are asked to solve is just another one of those second-rate riddles. [It] has considerable merit as entertainment." William Boehnke

+ — N Y World-Telegram p178 N 15 '36

"[It is] a comedy melodrama that tempers its blood and thunder with the amiable comedy of Zasu Pitts and Ted Healy and avoids the usual ending."

News-Wk p22 D 5 '36

"It's fundamentally a good mystery yarn, different, too. Screen comedy is getting screwier and screwier, to the seeming delight MAD HOLIDAY—Continued of audiences, not treatment goes overboard on slapstick and the fooletry, while funny, removes the impact from the melodrama." Herb Sterne

Script p5 N 14 '36

"Despite splendid performances by Edmund Lowe and Elissa Landi, this picture has too much plot, too many concentrations, too little action. It is too much to be a run-of-the-mill film. There is plenty of sparkling dialogue and fine comedy and the narrative misses by becoming too involved. Family." +

Box Office p51 N 14 '36

"Presenting frothy, light entertainment and tragedy at the same time, it is difficult to classify this laugh-studded mystery drama which appears to be both a travesty and a very serious piece of business. Only the individual picture patrons can decide. But anyone, regardless of how his or her interpretation is gauged, will discover enough all-around diversion to make the ticket investment fairly worth-while."

"It would be hard to go farther than this in farding modern mystery. It is to wring more laughs from as corpse-beckoned a story. Unhappily, the thing is carried too far. Into a high comedy, a serious and amusing saturation traveley there have been inserted a battery of low-comedy doings that throw the rest out of key and slow up the development to no good purpose. . . With some relentless surgery in the cutting, it would be better still." +

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 N 5 '36

"Mad Holiday" offers a very daggly 72 minutes which includes faked and genuine murders, a dash of comedy and love interest. The ingredients mix together clumsily and the result largely is a bore. Chances at the ticket window are dim for the slender. +

Variety p38 D 2 '36

"Mad Holiday" is lightweight, run-of-the-mine filler. It will do well enough as a bit of mystery diversion, particularly where customers expect murders well garnished with laughter. Certain irresolutions on part of screen playback detracts about halfway through the intent of the story until it gradually clarifies as a mildly farced murder mystery. Comedy is stressed, even at expense of suspense. Certainly, conviction is not maintained even for usual pitch. Characters do not behave as if in the midst of dire doings. +

Variety (Hollywood) p5 N 5 '36

MAGNIFICENT BRUTE. Universal 74min O 11 '36

Based on the Liberty Magazine short story, Big, by Owen Francis. "Laid in the he-man atmosphere of the steel mills, story depicts rivalry between Victor McLaglen and William Hall, two husky workers vying for honor of being head man in their muscular trade." [Variety (Hollywood)]

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Victor McLaglen continues to be a better actor than his screen stories will admit, for the plot of his latest vehicle is unoriginal and over-sentimental. Thanks to a hardworking cast and a generally effective production, the film is slightly better than fair entertainment but not in any sense important. The realistic treatment of the story quite evidently places it in the adult bracket." T. J. Fitzmorris

"A & Y: good of kind; C: no." Christian Century p1438 O 28 '36

Adults. (Matter of taste.)" Am Legion Auxiliary

Matut-family. Adults: excellent; 14-18: flourishing; 8-14: Fair; Calif Cong of Far & Teachers

"Impressive interiors of the mill showing the glowing hot metal being poured and a thought-provoking method used to stimulate production justifies this picture interesting to those who enjoy vigorous drama. Adults," Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Harrowing details of the mills. Mature audience & 14-18, Mediocre." DAR

"Although ethics are a bit confused, the film is exciting and holds one's attention throughout. Mature." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Very realistic photography and an excellent cast and direction have made a strong picture. Family," S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"An open hearth steel mill is an unusual background for a motion picture. The story is weak and is not as strong as it is intended to be. Human interest to relieve its tragedy. The shots showing the manufacture of steel are interesting, but the death of Howard is unnecessarily harrowing. 12-16: harrowing; 8-12: no," Women's Univ Club, Los Angeles

Fox W Coast Bull O 10 '36

"This unusual picture, a drama of the steel mills, though not always pleasant, is forceful in direction, replete with suspense, and gives us an intimate insight into the industry. Family-mature."

+ S Calif Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 28 '36

"Fair. Adults." +

Motion Pict Guide D '36

"The story is weak and sordid with little humor or character development to relieve its tragic events. The sequences depicting the manufacture of steel are interesting, but there are several unnecessarily harrowing scenes. Though the direction and dialogue are adequate the dialogue is trite and what comedy relief there is depends upon wisecracks. Adolescents, 12-16: harrowing; children 8-12: certainly not." +

Motion Pict R p7 N '36

"Family." Nat Council of Jewish Women O 1 '36

"A perfect setting for a McLaglen characterization. Adults." +

+ Nat Legion of Decency O 15 '36

"A & Y: he-man comedy melodrama; C: possible though tense." Parents' M p46 Ja '37

"This picture [is] fairly interesting. Adults." +

Sel Motion Pict p6 N 1 '36

"Well acted and holds the interest throughout. Family." +

Wkly Guide O 10 '36

Neuropaper and Magazine Reviews

"It is frankly melodramatic in its situations and earthy in its humor. Victor McLaglen's presentation . . . along with the sympathetic and restrained performance of Jean Dixon justifies this rather rugged fare." Laura Elston Canadian M p39 D '36

"If you expect to see another 'innower' you will be disappointed in this melodramatic hokum . . . [It is] produced and acted with all the restraint of the street brawl which is one of the highlights of the picture. Victor McLaglen without John Ford's restrain hand to mold his performance.

- Christian Science Monitor p17 O 31 '36

"This morning I know vastly more of what goes on in the steel industry than I knew yesterday morning, thereby getting that much more pertinent in comment on the picture, even if it had failed to entertain me otherwise. This Universal picture strikes a sturdy, elemental note. It is a Magnificent Brute, with an inexpensive production that just misses the Big Stuff." — Rob Wagner

- Film Daily p10 O 31 '36

In dealing with the life of a steelworker, any movie that does not except the soldiers' uniforms McLaglen has worn in his recent pictures. [It] effects McLaglen's demobilization with a minimum of dislocation, a fair share of entertainment. Most tedious noise: McLaglen's guffaw.

- Picturegoer p6 O 25 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A lusty story of hard steel and hard men provides a made-to-order spot for Victor McLaglen's swashbuckling talent and Producer Edmund Grainger, taking full advantage of it, delivers a fast-moving, well-cast, excellently directed picture—quite hot in entertainment values and sure to be a money-maker in every situation. . . . Much of the picture's merit is credited to a sequence showing the actual making of steel."

- Box Office p27 O 3 '36

"Here is a picture for the man in the street. A rollicking comedy with plenty of action and comedy, and generous sprinkling of swashbuckling, plus an interesting picture of the great steel mills of this continent. Names are not lacking either, and those of Victor McLaglen, Binnie Barnes and Henry Armetta should look okay on your grosses."

- Canadian Moving Pic Digest p13 N 21 '36

"Yarn will score with star's large following, plus picture-goers generally who like red-blooded heroics and their exploits. Film is spiritedly directed by John G. Blystone and has wide audience appeal in that it is man-entertainment, likewise attractive to women, and, again, is keen picture for [children]. Latter is due to the excellent part played by young Blystone Burrud who has flaming case of hero worship on McLaglen."

- Film Daily p7 O 24 '36

"This gusty, two-fisted comedy-drama about steel mill workers and on-off shift is of chief interest to the Blystone Burrud and his melodrama as vigorously as its materials merit, and, besides Mr. McLaglen's amiable personification of the Blystone Burrud, the performances by Jean Dixon as the widow [and] Burrud as hee hero-worshiping son." — F. S. Nugent

- N Y Times p33 O 24 '36

"Although it displays the heartaches beneath the brawny exteriors of the steel workers throughout the country, the Magnificent Brute is a feeble drama, too unsteady to stand on its own feet, or, if you prefer, too wrong-footed. The stars, Burrud and McLaglen, the plot, the music, Burrud's and his star, Victor McLaglen. When it explains the folk ways of these people it does so with more earnestness than gusto, an error which deprives the narrative of that magical ingredient known as art. Perhaps the stars have been better for all concerned if the film had spied on these people in a less elderly plot." — William Borne

- N Y Times World-Telegram p29a O 24 '36

"Life in the steel mills and Victor McLaglen are the stuff and tissue of a mild, gentle little picture."

- New Yorker p77 O 31 '36

"Victor McLaglen is a much finer actor in defeat ("The Informer") than in victory. One can feel sorry for a brute who is easily mentally. Victor does a swell job registering bewilderment after his ignominious beating as a brute, though, the ringer gang at the Ritz yipped for him loudest when he was loudest, which shows that Charles Rogers knows his audiences. At least his neighborhood audiences."

- Variety p14 O 25 '36

"The Magnificent Brute" is magnificent box office. McLaglen masculine and robust, this is the type of picture that exhibitors cry for. Loaded with tried and true material, this picture has horns written all over it. The whole family will find swell entertainment.

- + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor MAGNIFICENT BRUTE—Continued
in 'The Magnificent Brute,' and exhibitors will be able to ballyhoo this one without fear of empty tilts.'

 Variety ( Hollywood) p3 S 24 '36

MAKE WAY FOR A LADY. RKO 74min N 13 '36

Cast: Herbert Marshall, Anne Shirley, Gertrude Michael. Margot Grahame

Director: David Burton

Based on the novel Daddy and I by Elizabeth Jordan. "Anne Shirley is the romantic young woman who decides to save her father from a lonely old age by choosing a wife for him. She selects the wrong woman, thereby proving the unreliability of feminine intuition. In the end, however, the publisher finds true love right under his daughter's nose in the person of her teacher." (America)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Yet another treatment of the resourceful adolescent who attempts to solve the problems of her elders, this film manages to be quietly amusing in spite of a dragging action." T. J. Pittis Chicago Tribune

— America p192 N 25 '36

"The daughter's character is overdrawn, and the picture as a whole is just average entertainment. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"As a whole, the story is too long drawn out, with too much attention given to the emotional and sentimental side of the characters portrayed. Adults & 8-13: good." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"The humor of the picture is of the sort that brings smiles and chuckles and therefore may not appeal to audiences like those who appreciate comedy and liveliness. S Calif Council of Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Good. A light, pleasant story, capably acted. Mature-family." DAR

"A light story has been given light and pleasant treatment, with the happy relationship between father and daughter perhaps the pleasantest part of it. Family." E Coast Preview Committee

"[It is] a very amusing and unique social drama, with a wholesome atmosphere. Credit is due the direction and cast for their natural and fresh presentation. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul N 25 '36

"[It is] delightfully refreshing. Thoughtful, sensitive direction, artistic settings and good photography added to the excellent work of the able cast give this picture interesting and high entertainment value, leaving one with the warm glow of having enjoyed something pleasantly dear and sweet. Mature audience."

+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 17 '36

Dependent entirely for its entertainment value on the charm of Herbert Marshall and Anne Shirley cast as father and daughter, this is too much attention given to the emotional and sentimental side of the characters portrayed. "It is leisurely, wooden, unimpressive. Family." — Nat Council of Jewish Women N 16 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Though it all ends happily enough [it] turns out to be a long cinematic detour dotted with dull material. Margot Grahame, Anne Shirley (who photographs indifferentily) pirouettes through the role of the daughter. Herbert Marshall looks embarrassed. So should RKO. Family." — Christian Science Monitor p17 N 14 '36

"As a moon-stuck adolescent . . . Miss Shirley is positively the problem of the growing girl personified. Her callowness, however, is almost too pure to be good, and the little misunderstandings on which the plot hinges seem very nearly deliberate. An unfortunate resemblance between Gertrude Michael and Margot Grahame, moreover, may leave some members of the audience a bit confused as to which one it is that Mr. Marshall really wants to marry. B. R. — N Y Times p12 D 12 '36

"[It is] an unabasing little film that one may attend without any greater calamity than a trifling loss of time. The film is really adolescent stuff that can be seen without too much fault-finding." William Boehnel

— N Y World-Telegram p7a D 12 '36

Make Way for a Lady' is a resounding contribution to the Five Little Poppers school of cinema. . . Implicit in the writing, acting and direction of it, a conviction that the picture is completely charming helps to obliterate any trace of charm which it might otherwise have possessed." — Time p26 N 23 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

+ Motion Pict Daily p11 O 30 '36

"[It is] pleasing comedy drama that has the benefit of more names than the usual Anne Shirley production. Neighborhood audiences, small towns should find entertainment in it."

+ Phila Exhibitor p32 N 15 '36

THE MAN I MARRY. Universal 79min O 18 '36

Cast: Doris Nolan, Michael Whalen. Chic Sale, Nigel Bruce

Director: Ralph Murphy

Based on a novel of the same title by M. Coates Webster. "[It is] a tale about a wealthy man who is a naturalized American who wishes to write a play, and a girl who is running away from marriage. Both wanting to be alone they seek the same deserted house and the fun starts." (Wkly Guide)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A & C: hardly; Y: perhaps." Christian Century p176 D 9 '36

"Chic Sale's easy comedy redeems a long, drawn out opening. A funny sort."

"Some clever and amusing situations. Good comedy for Chic Sale. Unnecessary drinking on the part of the two reporters. Adults: fair; 8-18: no."

"Some may find this mildly amusing and entertaining, but because of the steady flow of liquor and the use of a church for unpleasant comedy sequences it cannot be recommended for young people. Mildly amusing farce comedy. Adults." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Mature audience. Mediocre." DAR

"Cleverly amusing comedy in which a slight and often used plot has been built into excellent entertainment through the expert acting of a well selected cast. Family." E Coast Preview Committee

"Some good photography, a great deal of drinking and much ado about nothing by a bewildered cast. Adults." Nat Soc of New England Women

"A silly love story, presumably comedy, in which most of the humor, if any, is supplied by two drunken reporters. Mediocre and waste of time." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul O 24 '36

"Fairly well cast and directed with Doris Nolan, a newcomer, appealing. Unusually effective photography, especially the storm scenes. Mature." — Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) O 14 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
"The vain struggle of a woman-hater to prevent bullets from falling in love is ever an amusing sight for movie audiences. ... With the exception of a mildly boring pair of supporting eccentric comedians, this is a pleasantly diverting film. Adolescents, 12-16; possibly entertaining; children, 8-12: no interest." *Motion Picutre R p7 N 18 '36

Motion Picutre R p7 N 18 '36

"It is a light, amusing comedy with clever repartee and a moving direction. Excessive drinking. Adults." *Nat Council of Jewish Women O 14 '36

"Adults." *Nat Legion of Decency O 22 '36

"A & Y: mildly amusing; C: little interest." Parents P46 Ja 37

"[It is] a light, somewhat entertaining comedy. ... The plot is implausible, depending too much upon dialogue for its motivation, and the overmuch imbibing used as comedy relief is not amusing. Fairly well cast and directed. Adults. [+ -- Sel Motion Picutre p4 N 1 36

"The Man I Marry is an exceedingly poor picture. ... [It is] not convincing. The dialogue is directed with regard for the words comedy calls for it, not for the mood of the scenes. Lines are presented as a series of orations instead of intimate conversations which lend the scenes conviction." -- Hollywood Spec p8 O 24 '36

"Presenting a new screen personality—Doris Nolan. This is her first film, a mad little comedy that doesn't quite get off the springboard. ... All this is in the mood of gay whimsy that just misses all the way. It would be unfair to 'judge Miss Nolan by this just passable comedy.' (1 star) Beverly Hills Liberty p47 D 5 '36

"Like all screen novitiates, Miss Nolan is carefully restrained from demonstrating her histrionic abilities in the new medium. [It] has been so designed that it presents her almost solely as a personality, and as such she is highly acceptable. [It] is a minor pleasantry." T. M. P. [+ N Y Times p24 O 31 '36

"Doris Nolan ... is being introduced to cinema audiences in circumstances that are too felicitous. For 'The Man I Marry,' in which she makes her screen debut, is an awkward and ingenuous film, madly written and clumsily directed. Even though the story and the direction aren't satisfactory, Miss Nolan's beauty and sparkle are refreshing. Good work, too, is done by the grand actor, Nigel Bruce, and the members of the supporting cast. William Boehm [+ N Y World-Telegram p13 N 3 '36

"The sexes do mock battle again in a slight though often amusing comedy. It gives Doris Nolan just enough of an opportunity to show what she brings to a character like her one." News-Wk p25 O 31 '36

"The country needs jobs. People have to make an honest living. So I suppose there was a reason for 'The Man I Marry,' besides double features. But it is not a comedy, nor is it designed to give a homely way to see life may crumble. Well, I can't blame them. The story is obviously derivative, jumbled, slow-moving and their advancement. Comedians, this is a pleasant screen department, pleasantly suggests Gladys George, and has a manner and veer quite her own." R. S. Ames [+ Script p11 N 7 '36

"Doris Nolan is given an auspicious send-off by United Artists in this sketch comedy success. She evidences great capabilities for a light role, and with the support of a smart sophisticated screen play it is a pleasing entertainment. Adults. [+ -- Box Office p63 O 17 '36

"[It is] a pleasant enough little comedy that will get a moderate amount of laughs. ... [+ Film Daily p8 O 12 '36

"This is a factory-built comedy, laboriously fabricated from stock material, replete with old gags worn smooth from use. There are, however, a lot of these familiar friends and on the juvenile level they will evoke a fair salvo of laughs. Mark the picture as good light fodder for the lesser duals. [+ -- Hollywood Reporter p2 O 8 '36

"Presenting Doris Nolan as a comedienne who will bear watching, Universal has produced an engaging comedy in 'The Man I Marry.' The picture is to help the new comer to comedy in the cast give her plenty of comedy support. ... With some familiar situations, played with an eye to laughs, this shapes up as fair comedy program." [+ -- Phila Exhibitor p38 N 1 '36

"Foundation stone that Universal has selected in introducing Doris Nolan to the world of the comics, is a rowdy comedy, plumbed with stereotype, but destined to garner a sheaf of belly laughs where the others have got nothing but a frown. It's not much. It's got the law of averages in its favor. Gags and wacky situations arrive in such blasts that the opus merits the subtitle of goofus. Net results put the picture in the average class for neighborhood houses. For bigger homes it hasn't the marquee power, and the solidity of theme, to go out on its own." [+ -- Variety p13 N 4 '36

"Universal has done a very neat job of presenting Doris Nolan in her debut as a screen comedienne. 'The Man I Marry' is definitely the kind of comedy that wins audience appreciation and although delightfully sophisticated it is still well suited for the whole family." [+ -- Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 8 '36

MAN WHO CHANGED HIS MIND. See Man who lived again

MAN WHO COULD WORK MIRACLES. London films-United artists $2min

Cast: Roland Young, Joan Gardner, Ralph Richardson

Director: Lothar Mendes

Based on a short story of the same title by H. G. Wells. Filmed in England. "[It is the story of] a little draper's assistant who suddenly finds he has the power to work miracles. At first these miracles are hardly above the level of conjuring tricks, but as he grows used to understanding his power better he tries to organise it. Various people urge him to follow their advice; but at last, after en-countering various obstacles in his path, Doris Nolan conjures up an retired Indian Colonel with reactionary ideas, he determines to re-shape the whole world and make it possible for the happy life and love he desires. He is forced to live as a genius and his power is retired by the stupidity and opposition of the rulers of the world whom he summons before him, by a single remark he unintentionally throws the world into physical chaos, and is so frightened by the results of his gift that he wishes to be sent back to his draper's shop, as it was before: he also wishes away his own power." (Mo Film Bul)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"In its original form this was an amusing little tale, subtly but lightly treated. The large propagandist element, which has been
MAN WHO COULD WORK MIRACLES—Cont. superimposed in the film makes it heavier and at the same time more ridiculous and inessential. feminine interest has been added. Roland Young does the timorous little man fairly well: but he is too obviously a cultured type to be really suitable, and when he asserts himself at the end, it is not the revelation of a hidden potentiality in this meek little man, but the cultured element comes to the fore and makes the Original delineation so much the less believable.

- + Mo Film Bul p148 S 30 ’36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[We must] arm ourselves against a sea of abstractions, coughed in Mr. Well's embarrassing poetic fiction. . . . The result is pretentious and mildly entertaining, with no moments of good war sequences of 'Things to Come,' nor as bad as what followed them. The direction and the production are shocking. That is not Mr. Well's fault: and it is not altogether the fault of Mr. Lothar Mendes, the director, for the slowness, vulgarity, overemphasis are typical of Mr. Korda's productions. . . . Mr. Korda, a public man of genius, who has not yet revealed a to the eyes of the world, has cost pictures with little regard for anything but gossip paragraphs. Mr. Roland Young is quite the wrong type for Portheryguy, with his intermittent accent and his eyes which twinkle merrily with lack of conviction. . . . As for trick photography, of which this film is naturally an early, and like orgies of another kind grimly repetitive, it is always to my mind dull and unconvincing and destroys illusion. . . . The whole entertainment [is] sometimes fake poetry, sometimes unsuccessful comedy, sometimes farce, sometimes superlative discussion, without a spark of creative talent or a trace of film ability,"

- Spec p379 S 4 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

+ Motion Pict Daily p9 Jl 24 ’36

"There is a limited audience for fantastic subjects, on stage or screen. Fact that it one comes from the distinguished pen of H. G. Wells's influence people who don't care for that sort of thing. Like Wells's ideas, it is ingenious, but extravagant in conception and not easily grasped by the proletariat."

Variety p18 Ag 12 ’36

MAN WHO LIVED AGAIN. Gaumont British 6min N ’36

Cast: Boris Karloff, Anna Lee, John Loder, Frank Cellier

Director: Robert Stevenson

"The story shows an eminent mind-specialist, Boris Karloff, at work in an earlier surroundings. Feeling that he is on the eve of a world-shaking discovery, the professor sends for Anna Lee, a young girl who has qualified as a doctor, to act as his assistant. He demonstrates his discovery, which he has been working on for years, that by the mere process of the brain, two people can be merged in one mind, so that a complete transference of personality takes place." Hollywood Reporter

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: depends on taste; Y: doubtful; C: no." Christian Century p422 N 18 ’36

"Further helped by a clear, smoothly moving plot, fine photography and a hair-raising climax, this story ... is a fine achievement in this type of cinema. Adults." E Coast Preview Committee

+ Fox W Coast Bul N 21 ’36

"The story is well put together and well directed. It provides plenty of macabre thrills without disturbing moral sensations. Suitalibity: adults & adolescents."

- + Mo Film Bul p148 O 30 ’36

"Objectible in part. Objection: a horror picture that proves unwholesome entertainment."

Nat Legion of Decency O 22 ’36

"A: matter of taste; Y & C: no."

- + Motion Pict p32 D 16 ’36

"Strikingly vivid scenes, in which machines take on thinking qualities and weird experiments with unknown psychoses are treated as universally accepted facts, tend to make this film a fascinating study of the occult. . . . Adults."

+ + Sel Motion Pict p11 N 1 ’36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The mad scientist is at work again ... with moderately exciting results. Although the theme is a compound of balderdash, it has been projected with considerable skill and imagination. The camera-minded Robert Stevenson has directed the work with properly tricky effects. Boris Karloff bares his fangs and rumples up his hair in a more believable impersonation than he usually offers; the dialogue has some concise and authentic speech to offset the medical nonsense, and the supporting players are excellent."

Howard Barnes

- + N Y Herald Tribune p23 D 16 ’36

"Even if it isn't art, it is entertainment and of the most welcome kind. . . . It is primarily a thriller and as such it doesn't call for too much plausibility. But it has what few thrillers possess—finished writing, expert and imaginative direction and polished acting. Although it is frankly fantastic and at times shamelessly absurd, the plot does not interfere with the story's progress in the slightest degree. It rushes madly along from one weird situation to another and the spectator is swept with it. It is first-rate weird entertainment."

William Boehnel

- + N Y World-Telegram p25 D 15 ’36

"Until the idea goes wholesale, quite a few dramatic sparks are made to fly on the screen. Frank Cellier . . . turns in, as usual, a superb characterization. The rest of the cast play it with as straight faces as they can muster for an occasion which every now and then threatens the beyond man's comprehension. The tireless children of all ages should love it."

- + Stage p16 N 30 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

If developed more from the psychological angle, this story . . . might have won through. By over-emphasis and uninspired handling the subject quickly drops to the level of bizarre melodrama and horror-thriller."

- + Hollywood Reporter p33 S 26 ’36

+ Motion Pict Daily p5 S 22 ’36

"Exploitable, with thrill angles strong, this will depend on the Karloff draw selling."

Phila Exhibitor p32 N 1 ’36

"For lovers of the macabre here is another spine tingler which with the help of art, photography and makeup of the Frankenstein series. . . . Production is painstaking and realistic and, indeed, the whole thing seems all too feasible. No reason why this shouldn't register anywhere that this class of subject attracts."

Variety p48 S 25 ’36

MAN WHO LIVED TWICE. Columbia 72min S 25 ’36

Cast: Ralph Bellamy, Isabel Jewell, Thurst-

ton Hall, Henry Kolker

Director: Harry Lachman

A notorious killer wanted for murder is changed by the miracle of modern medical science into a noted doctor.

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; - Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A theoretical problem is interestingly presented in incitement story that is strongly told and well worth seeing.

The novel and controversial subject will have a special appeal for various groups, including the medical and the legal. Adults & young people." E Coast Preview Committee

Fox Film Corp.

"The story is arresting and unusual, if not entirely credible. An irrelevant love interest weakens the development, and the consequent 'happily ever after' anti-climax. In this, and in one or two other incidents stronger and more sensitive direction might have avoided bathos.' Ralph Bellamy gives a very fine performance. Suitability: adults & adolescents." — Mo Film Bui p74 O '36

Adults.

Nat Legion of Decency O '36

"A: matter of taste; Y & C: no." Parents' M p52 D '36

"The general tone is melodramatic, but the idea and its working out are interesting. Famyly." Wkly Guide O '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The results of Columbia's experimentation in the allied fields of brain surgery, induced amnesia and face-lifting are on view in a diverting, well photographed and nicely performed problem photoplay called 'The Man Who Lived Twice.'" J. T. M.

— + N Y Times p23 O '36

"In case you have suspected that 'The Man Who Lived Twice' disappointed this reviewer, you will be correct. It did. Although it has some lively and exciting moments, pithy speeches and exceptional performances by Mr. Bellamy, Thurston Hall, Henry Kolker, Willard Robertson, Ward Bond and Isabel Jewell—especially Miss Jewell—its direction is uneven and its denouement slovenly. The result is a good idea until wrong." — William Boehn.

— + N Y World-Telegram p10 O '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Although only a program picture and heavy melodrama, this film has plenty of interest for family audiences.

— + Box Office p35 N '36

"[It is] unusual drama of double identity [which] carries thrills and suspense in well-knit story."

— Film Daily p13 O '36

"Although it is incredible and extremely far-fetched, the plot merits speculative interest on the stage or screen, but only in these realms of fantasy. As a starring vehicle for Ralph Bellamy, he appears to advantage in a heavy role, but in the main the production is undisci-tinguished 'mellerdrammer.' It has suspense and it is provocative until the denouement of the plot is worked out. . . . Your audience may walk out, and expect some other feeling of dissatisfaction and readiness to forget the whole thing because of its implausibility, but the production and title can be depended upon to bring them into the house and keep them interested until the last half reel unminds." — + Hollywood Reporter p8 O '36

"Heavy melodrama all the way, it has a good pace, with the result—interesting program. Excellent, ad

— + Phila Exhibitor p36 O '36

"'The Man Who Lived Twice,' a good title even if it crowds the marquee, deals with crime from the psychological and pathological angle in a very entertaining manner. Favoring by good production, able direction and a script that impresses for this type of story, the picture de-erves the serious favorable business. It is a worthwhile selection for double bills. [It] has sufficient quality to stand alone on secondary first run." — Variety p15 O '36

MANDARIN MYSTERY. Republic 65min D 7 '36

Cast: Eddie Quillian. Charlotte Henry. Rita Allen. Richard Corley. Lewis Stone. \n Director: Ralph Stone

Based on the mystery story 'The Chinese Orange Mystery' by Ellery Queen. A young detective investigates a murder and the mysterious disappearance of an expensive Chinese stamp which is a collector's item.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency D '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Although there have been exceptions, it is almost impossible to say that a film story is usually poor in ratio to the number of writers who concoct it. . . . It seems a pity that, having solicited a fine actor as Eddie Quillian, Hollywood returns him to us in a vehicle so poor that even Eddie is at times almost overwhelmed. The fundamental weakness is Producer Nat Levine's disregard of the law of the illusion of reality. The entire story movement is a series of manifestly impossible events. . . 'Mandarin Mystery' immediately became, and remained throughout just a series of postoperative celluloid incidents. The conclusion to be drawn from this unfortunatesty justified criticism is that 'The Mandarin Mystery' is an exceptionally fine specimen for classroom dissection by students of cinema, as it offers a rich harvest of cinematic errors. If, however, you are in a search of entertainment, forget this Republic mistake. That is, unless you have a highly developed sense of humor." — Paul Jacobs

— + Hollywood Spec p11 D '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Despite good comedy performances by Eddie Quillian and William Newell, this picture will be best to hold up the short end on a double bill. The mystery plot is thin, and the action slow. Family." — + Box Office p29 N '36

— + Motion Picly Daily p10 N '36

"Mystery, with accent on comedy, this lacks name strength, with results bad for twin bills, neighborhoods. . . . With a cast that has no selling names, familiar type of yarn, the picture's main selling angle would seem to be in the Chinese background of the title." — + Phila Exhibitor p31 D '36

MEN OF THE PLAINS. Grand national 62min

Cast: Rex Bell. Joan Barclay. George Ball Hall, Robert Hill. \n
A western melodrama.

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Strictly for the cowboy opus fans—and then only the avid ones. [It is] a particularly uninspired affair. Family." — Christian Science Monitor p15 O '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Fans of the western star and action films glorifying bullets, lariats and flying hoofs will find this entertaining. Though photography is a bit under par and the story rolls along under rather standardized formula, nevertheless Rex Bell's pleasing personality gives sequences required lifts.

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
Men of the Plains—Continued

- Film Daily p10 S 29 '36
- Motion Pic Daily p4 O 1 '36

"Estimate: twin bill Western."

- Phiila Exhibitor p34 O 1 '36

"This is a recipe coyote drama. It has the famished hounds, the inevitable adventure in the saddle... The romance is transparent. For the matter... The camera flatters nobody, not even the recency, and the acting fits the plot."

- Variety p17 S 30 '36

LES MISERABLES

Pathé-Nutart 16min o 27 '36

Cast: Harry Baur, Charles Vanel, Henry Kravas, Gabby Triquet, Josseline Gael, Director: Raymond Bernard

Music: Arthur Honneger

Based on the novel of the same title by Victor Hugo, directed, produced and distributed in France several years ago and recently released in this country. Originally made in three hours for a French release, it was cut for twenty minutes. It was cut for the American release. It was held until the American version was released. Contains English sub-titles. "The film traces Valjean's attempts to make amends for his crimes and the moral conflict between him and the bloodhound, Javert, with whom the law is a religion and who must hound his man no matter how much he has tried to reform." (N Y World-Telegram)

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[I] turned out to be disappointing. 'Les Misérables' has of course some great acting by Harry Baur, who plays three roles; but as a film it is intolerably slow. The American thing called 'pace' is said not to be highly regarded in the European studios, and perhaps it is not the highest virtue a film can have; yet it seems to me a necessary condition, and at any rate I can derive only moderate pleasure from a picture that dies dozens of deaths before its close. A few scenes and Harry Baur provide more than a few as Jean Valjean—are not in themselves enough."

- Mark Van Doren

"[II] is an extended but beautifully wrought and absorbing motion picture. Brilliantly directed by Raymond Bernard, and performed with vigor and distinction, it is a memorable cinematic production. The current offering has been cut, but even so it runs for close to three hours. So compellingly has the tale of human suffering and redemption been filmed, however, that it is only in the very ending that your interest is likely to flag. The photoplay inevitably challenges comparison with the handsome Darryl Zanuck screening of the novel... It has not the static finesse and surface polish of its American counterpart and it has no Charles Laughton... It has reached deeper into the heart of the material for its creation of a rich and profoundly moving document of human experience. In addition, there is a magnificent performance by Harry Baur as the hounded Jean Valjean, which gives substance and unity to a necessarily episodic treatment."

- N Y Herald Tribune p21 O 28 '36

"With Charles Laughton and Fredric March as Javert and Jean Valjean, 20th Century's 'Les Misérables' has a chance to become a record deservedly a success. This [French version] also is a fine film, less powerful than the Hollywood version, but none the worse for that. The pictures differ considerably, not only in technique, in acting, in direction, but in point of view... Harry Baur is the current Valjean and a memorable one... The picture should be shortened; but, in spite of its length, Harry Baur's characterization and the French version of plot are more 'Les Misérables' a picture well worth seeing."

- Eileen Creelman

+ N Y Times p36 O 28 '36

"Simplicity is a dangerous word to pin upon so diffuse a work as Victor Hugo's 'Les Misérables,' yet it is simplicity—simplicity of production, of performance, of the cinematic presentation—which distinguishes the French film edition of the classic... and lends it dignity, strength, and the quality of a masterpiece."

- This is a thoroughgoing edition of Hugo, telescoped perfectly, but not a sketchy abridgment nor a flat, hackneyed, however admirable, of one phase of the novel. The picture has a running time of two and three-quarter hours, but you probably will not be conscious of its length. It is part of the simplicity of the Gallic producers that they do not require, as Hollywood always requires, that their leading man be handsome... Mr. March had your sympathy from the moment you saw him; Mr. Baur's Valjean has a masterful performance, that hyper-critical could be blinded by them to its equally unquestionable excellence."

- F. S. Nugent

+ N Y Times O 28 '36

"Although the French cinema version of 'Les Misérables' runs for nearly three hours without a single intermission, this is the report of one who sat enthralled through every minute... This is one of the great films of the season... Harry Baur comes off with first acting honors, partly, no doubt, because he has the weight of Valjean and his various alliases, but mainly for the insights, and brilliance of his portrayal. Charles Vanel's realization of Javert is a superb piece of acting."

- William Boesch

+ + N Y World-Telegram p29 O 28 '36

"To try to put over another 'Les Misérables'—a French one, at that, and one which runs two hours and three-quarters—seems to me about as tough a job as any easier little film house might take on its shoulders... I am going right on to announce that this is a fine film, that somehow or other it manages to hold up right from the start to the end, and that I hope the Cinéma de Paris manages to persuade the public to take a look at it... I groaned at the memory of the four hours I spent on 'Les Misérables.' That was by no means my experience this time. So solid is the treatment, so well the casting and work, so generally afoot does the adaptation of the novel, that I forgot all about the length, the passing of the years, and the shifting seasons. Much of this was due, of course, to the performance of Harry Baur as Valjean..."

- John Mosher

+ + New Yorker p26 O 31 '36

"Here is a stupendous translation, drawing its truth from the Hugo writing, and projecting it in the purest terms of the camera. We seldom have indcements of such high cinematic content, so sure, so purposeful... This 'Les Misérables' is not to be confused, or spoken of in the same room, with that I hope this wood production. There is no romanticism here, no romance, no grand martyrdom, no compromise with nameless, nameless persons of the March version. There is no room here for glamour... Here is a classic story unfoiled on the screen... and made to measure each of its parts and become a masterpiece."

+ + Stage p41 N 36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Despite its extreme length, during which every important sequence of the original Victor Hugo novel is graphically pictured, this French dialogue of the French novel is one of the most engrossing dramas of all time."

+ + Box Office p55 N 7 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; ++ Good; ++ Fair; +++ Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
MISSING GIRLS. Chesterfield 50min S 10 '36
Director: Phil Rosen

"A newspaper reporter is sentenced to a thirty-day term for refusing to disclose the source of information for his serial, 'Missing Girls.' While in prison he gets the low-down on the hide-out of notorious gangsters." [Nat Legion of Decency]

Audience Suitability Ratings:
+ + Nat Legion of Decency S 24 '36
"A: very good; Y: possible; C: no."

Parents' M p16 Ja '37

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Adults."
Christian Science Monitor p15 O 17 '36

"George Batcheller, president of Chesterfield Pictures and producer of 'Missing Girls,' seems to know how to go about getting a picture that will rate high in entertainiment qualities. He allows the writer who conceives the story to see that it gets on the screen just as he conceived it. The result is that 'Missing Girls' we have the most expertly told story I can remember having seen. If it were a big picture, turned out by one of the major film producers, with a cast of imposing names and shown in the big houses, it is possible it might have marked the dawning of an era distinguishable for the fidelity with which the conceptions of authors reached the public."

+ Hollywood Spec p8 S 26 '36

"Another melodrama of the missing-girl racket, but a little better, a little more authentically detailed." [Variety] Beverly Hills Liberty p38 N 17 '36

More Than a Secretary. Columbia 80min D 21 '36
Cast: Jean Arthur, George Brent, Lionel Stander. Ruth Donnelly. Reginald Denny

Based on a short story Safari in Manhattan by Matt Taylor. "George Brent is the serious-minded editor of Body and Brain and he practices all the health faddisms to keep himself in trim. In consequence the magazine is sinking steadily from its own weight. Jean Arthur is co-partner with Ruth Donnelly. The Secretarial School that supplies the irascible editor with unsatisfactory secretaries, So Jean herself slips into the job and the editor turned assis- ciate editor and in George's absence adds the popular note that turns the magazine into a success."

(Hollywood Reporter)
MORE THAN A SECRETARY—Continued

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"The many flaws in [it] can be blamed squarely on the half of the broth. The new photo-play... is a comic trifle with far too few funny moments. The squad of writers has elected to embellish [the] old theme... but has neglected to enliven it with amusing characterizations. The results are humdrum nonsense. There are occasional ribald lines... but on the whole it is a production that is definitely on the dull side. Even the assumed and attractive Jean Arthur flounders through several of the sequences... George Brent, as the editor, is buffeted about by the random situations."

Howard Barnes

N Y Herald Tribune p30 D 11 '36

"More than a Secretary," an artificial comedy with a synthetic plot, doesn't stand up too well... Cast and direction were up to standard, almost up to the standards of the Music Hall where the picture is now on view. The story just wasn't worth all the effort it took to unfold. [It] combines the features of a good many old soaps. This is one of those films so difficult to review. There is little to say except that it is just another light little movie, an inconsequential story well told, not unamusing if you happen to chance upon it, certainly worth no effort to see."

Eileen Creelman

N Y Sun p3 D 11 '36

"[It is] a trifling frippery in which Jean Arthur and Dorothea Kent engage in a needless struggle for the love of a vegetarian publisher, Mr. George Brent. Just why Mr. Brent, as editor of [the] Hollywood, should be regarded as a trophy worth winning is a question whose solution, at the moment, eludes us... Maizie, played by Maude Linn Kent, is a redeeming feature... 'More Than a Secretary' had given us more of Maizie and less of the business between Mr. Brent and Miss Arthur it would have been a happier farce. But it did not, and as a comedy it rings hollow wherever it is tapped." F. S. Nugent

N Y Times p35 D 11 '36

"If you were to take all the 'church mouse' stories... add a few quips about love and physical culture, and mix them all flagrantly together, you would arrive at something approximately like 'More Than a Secretary.' Jean Arthur plays the part of a non-bohemian Miss Arthur, the editor of the Hollywood, and Brent the yeast-spouting publisher. Brent and Kent are the editor's physical culture mentor and as the editor's physical culture mentor and by Dorothea Kent, who is superb as the bland cutie who causes all the complications." William Boehnel

N Y World Telegram p37 D 11 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Columbia adds still another notch to its high comedy score with this smart farcical comedy satirizing health fads in general and the publishing of health magazines in particular. It is unremittingly amusing nonsense, with a few sharp barbs of truth-telling added to give it bite. The comic strip is all too evident in this one, such as the cartoon asset that can be sold at a profit through the full range of houses... The five-ply writing crew has delved into a rattling piece of playfulness that gets into the bristles with good lines and fetching turns... It is a perfect part for Miss Arthur and she well carries the burden. This black comedy requires something of a snap but he does it with such engaging ease and mock seriousness as to score amusingly."

Hollywood Reporter p3 D 1 '36

Motion Pict Daily p17 D 2 '36

"With pithy dialog and a novel presentation of the boss-secretary theme handled in a light and bubbling manner by able performers, 'More Than a Secretary' emerges as better-than-average entertainment... While some of the dialog in the screen play is sometimes suggestive, it nevertheless drew hearty laughs from preview audiences. The three authors who wrote the screenplay sparkle and is keenly fitted to each character."

Variety (Hollywood) p3 D 1 '36

MURDER WITH PICTURES, Paramount 75 min S 18 '36

Cast: Lew Ayres, Gail Patrick, Paul Kelly, Benny Baker

Director: Charles Barton

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: mediocre; Y: hardly; C: no." Christian Century p1480 O 21 '36

"Interesting for adults." Am Legion Auxiliary

"The action is complicated and confusing, the direction poor. Adults & 14-18: mediocre; 8-14: no. Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"A mystery yarn which, despite some good comedy dialogue, is a very unsatisfying and confusing exploration of 'Mature.' Ratings: very confusing." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Good. Mature & 11-18." DAR

"The suspense builds to a breath-taking climax, the performers work it and the production will satisfy those who enjoy following a mystery theme. Adults & young people." E Coast Motion Picture Committee

"An average program filler for adults and young people who dote on mystery stories." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Adults," S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"A few unusual and interesting quirks in the plot make this otherwise routine murder mystery fairly entertaining, The story... is often very disconnected. The picture is well cast but the direction is somewhat weak and the story seems unreal because there is no delineation of character. Family." Women's Univ Club, Los Angeles

"Fast moving and fairly entertaining. Adults & young people." Fox W Coast Bul O 3 '36

"Mature."

Jt Estimates S 15 '36

"The acting is very good all round. One or two slight discrepancies in the story can easily be overlooked; it is not quite clear on which side the chief murderer is, whether he is a lone wolf or working with Girard. The direction is good, the excitement being all well worked up and sustained. Suitability: adults & adolescents."

Mo Film Bul p17 0 '36

("It is] a very involved murder mystery."

Family, Nat Bd of R M S 24 '36

"This is a fairly interesting murder mystery. Adults."

Nat Council of Jewish Women S 21 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency S 24 '36

"A: fair; Y: possible; C: no."

Parents' M p62 D '36

"Mature."

Sel Motion Pic p5 O 1 '36

"++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor
Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Fair program murder melodrama which would be more successful were it not so confusing."
- Christian Science Monitor p19 D 2 '36

"Regardless of the triteness of the piece, and its very sketchy unwinding, it is rather bright entertainment at that. Lew Ayres, as the photographer, is an engaging young man."
Marguerite Tazelar

+ — N Y Herald Tribune p10 N 21 '36

"The title of the Raitt's current, 'Murder With Pictures' readily suggests itself as a likely critical analysis of the film, especially when you realize how such an item may damage the cinema reputations of talented players like Gail Patrick, Onslow Stevens and Paul Kelly."
J. T. M.

— N Y Times p21 N 21 '36

"[It is a] run-of-the-mill murder melodrama. [It is a] tortuous and complicated film that is frequently exciting but more often too stereotyped to result in something better than an indifferent melodrama."
William Bohnel

+ — N Y World-Telegram p51 N 20 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A terrific tempo marks this melodrama from start to finish. It is shock full of trick twists and surprises, always the unexpected happening... A very fast and exciting climax, with the murderer being uncovered in a most dramatic manner. Play this one up for the thrill fans, promote them red-blooded action and human stuff in big gobs, and you won't be deceiving them."
+ Film Daily p9 N 29 '36

"Estimate: for neighborhoods, twin bills."
+ — Phila Exhibitor p31 S 15 '36

"Mystery element and some first-rate performances fail to cover up all of the writing flaws. Despite obvious scripting weaknesses, 'Murder With Pictures' will prove entertaining for audiences liking sleuth bafflers. Lack of heavy name draw may keep the film in dual frame in numerous localities."
Production supplies Lew Ayres with a swell chance to shine, and he makes the most of it... Where the scripters fall down a bit on plot premises they partially redeemed themselves with some snappy dialoging of modern type."
+ — Variety p15 N 25 '36

MY MAN GODFREY. Universal 55min Ag 30 '36

Cast: William Powell, Carole Lombard, Alice Brady, Eugene Pallette, Gall Patrick

Director: Gregory La Cava

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The film gambols along at a farcical gait, but, behind the amusing situations, is the whiff of a sobering idea... A wholesome and intelligent comedy, patched to the proper key of exuberance."
T. J. Fitzmorris

+ America p804 Ag 29 '36

"William Powell is superb as a butler and is careful Godfrey is a plier at eyebrows instead of words. Gregory La Cava's direction is more than equal to the job and, as a result, this film comedy is not a minute too long. Suitability: adults & adolescents."
+ Mo Film Bu1 p152 S 30 '36

"A and Y: side-splitting farce; C: mature."
Parents' M p43 O '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + + Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[This is] an hilarious movie... It is the clever way to convey the farcical situations and real comedy that promise an avalanche of laughs and there are moments of deft and very fine acting also."
Laura Elston

+ Canadian M p46 O '36

"Hollywood gets the sillies under the adept guidance of Gregory La Cava working with characteristic screen material. It is a rather hysterical young man."
Marguerite Tazelar

+ — N Y Herald Tribune p10 N 21 '36

"1936 is already a good film year, if nothing else. In the past nine months, among half a dozen remarkable films, three outstanding pictures have reached the highest talkie standard: 'Fury,' 'Mr. Deeds Goes to Town,' and 'My Man Godfrey.' All three entertainments have the entertainment value with a certain sociological significance. It provides further evidence of Hollywood's entirely changed attitude toward the glaring discrepancy between monied civilisation, as we have it, and the rational, ideal humanity which we lack; for what is so new about several recent films is the indication of something vaguely definable as sincerity. The fact that 'My Man Godfrey' is primarily, by any means, a sociological film or human document. It is an astrangent, flip comedy, a joyous film, because it has all the speed and sparkle that crisp direction and swift, unpretentious writing can give it... The whole film contributes a sense of entertainment and success—and it's a very great success, in a field which, we are beginning to suspect, may have been a bit too much maligned by the critics who are concerned with the making of this film deserve congratulation."
+ — New Statesman & Nation p248 S 26 '36

"All things considered 'My Man Godfrey' exemplifies the usual Hollywood phenomenon—fine talent on shoestring, a director, and a director turn in an outstanding comedy job. A dilute imitation of 'Mr. Deeds Goes to Town' (thematically, that is) with the latter's sincerity. Film estimate: you're doing all right."
+ — New Theatre p42 N 36 '36

"It has been shaped to a lunatic and hilarious script. A film which, once scattered out, a few scattered ends of a plot are gathered up in the concluding sequences, with a preposterous attempt to blend the social situation from the nonsensical narrative, that the photoplay falters."
Howard Barnes

+ — N Y Herald Tribune p18 S 18 '36

"'My Man Godfrey' is one of those unexpected treats, a film long heralded as mad, scatterbrained and hilarious, that actually turns out to be mad, scatterbrained and best of all hilarious... The picture falls to pieces, such daily yarns usually do, in the last reel. There it discovers social significance, economics and a happy ending."
Eileen Creelman

+ N Y Sun p35 S 18 '36

"[It is] the daffest comedy of the year... There may be a few sober moments or two in the picture; there may be a few lines of the script that do not pack a laugh. Somehow we cannot remove the feeling of, of course, but it's something to rely on a damp September morning. 'My Man Godfrey' is an exuberantly funny picture."
F. R.良gent

+ N Y Times p18 S 18 '36

"[It manages to mix satire and some semiserious social comment in a moderately amusing and entertaining manner. The fun is depending upon it to call attention vigorously and truthfully to the unfortunate plight of the army of unemployed I must say I am not sure if it is tissue paper propaganda. But if you merely want to be amused by some sharp observations on insignificant problems that face the inhabitants of upper Park Ave., you will find it witty, urbane and rather amusing."
William Bohnel

+ — N Y World-Telegram p26 S 18 '36
MY MAN GODFREY—Continued

"'My Man Godfrey' wants to be entertaining, it wants awfully hard to be funny, in fact, and once twice it almost succeeds... Carole Lombard and William Powell sustain the responsibilities of the major roles, and they do well enough with the nonsense. But, for my taste anyhow, the nonsense is somewhat excessive. The whole thing rather falls down between the sofa of high comedy and the hammock of whimsy." John Mosher

+ New Yorker p33 S 26 '36

"'My Man Godfrey,' for three-quarters of its way, is acutely funny... But though the 'so-ciously' is a very important element in the film's success in the earlier sequences, it conveys the atmos-mphere of an American Cherry Orchard, of a lilt and with a little of the grace, of the futility and some of the innocence of its Russian counterparts." Graham Greene

+ Spec p513 O 2 '36

"The Forgotten Man motif has never been pulled with such splendid abandon, the characters striking hilarious poses and making irresponsible the disorder of their day. Conscience grips the producer about midway, we are sorry to report, and his contemplation of a national problem gets the upper hand, and forces him to insert a dull passage about derelicts and jobs and the fine spirit of dump inhabitants. If that and a few scenes of overplaying had not bogged down a delicate farcical situation, Mr. Hatch's drama might have joined that great company of fanciful funning. 'It Happened One Night.' 'The Thin Man,' and 'Mr. Deeds.'... The first forty minutes of it can't be beat.'

Stage p36 O '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"William Powell and Carole Lombard are pleasant in the second round of their comedy. It will make a nifty showing at the box office. Story is balmy, but not too much so, and it's installed at a sophisticated screen treatment... In the production and selection of cast and trammings Producer Charles R. Rogers' contribution is a good one all around." Variety p16 S 23 '36

MYSTERIES OF NOTRE DAME. DuWorld 55min O 1 '36

Director: Anonymous
Music: Choir & organ of Notre Dame
French silent film without English subtitles produced by DuWorld. 'Mysteries of Notre Dame' is a close examination of the sculptural and architectural treasures of the cathedral, full and detailed, accompanied by a musical score played on the great Notre Dame organ." (N Y Times)

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[It] will be for a specialized audience—the sculptor, the artist, the illustrator, the designer and, finally the genuine patron of the arts. It should be an enormous source of beauty as well as an informative reproduction of one of the world's wonders. Whatever the oversights, not to mislead the layman who wants action dialogue, and possibly a star or two in his film fare, 'Mysteries of Notre Dame' may prove tedious long, monotonous and boring. It will not be dull to the cultivated and discriminating mind, for the projection in color of the sculptural groups, the gorgeous art treasures, the lofty architecture and the nobility of the edifice are inspiring despite the handicap of a picture without a plot or a cast." Marguerite Tazelao

N Y Herald Tribune p21 O 23 '36

"The Notre Dame film is not interesting, in spite of its subject. The direction is unimaginative, as methodical as an algebra book. One by one, it points out the treasures of the

NIGHT WAITRESS. RKO 57min D 18 '36

Cast: Margot, Graham, Gordon Jones. Frank, Virginia, Lawrence
Director: Lew Landers

The story revolves around a night waitress in a seaport cafe who is on parole trying to go straight. She finds herself innocently in-olved with crooks. After complications she falls in love with a young skipper.

Trade Paper Reviews

"'Night Waitress,' although built on a short budget and lacking in real story and cast draw, will offer satisfactory attraction in the neighborhoods on the dancers. It is not highly exciting, but a certain amount of suspense and a light treatment afford primary entertainment elements." + Hollywood Reporter p3 N 3 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p9 N 4 '36

"Waterfront melodrama, short on what the marquee needs, this will fit best into double feature, neighborhood requirements. It never reaches any other division." + Phila Exhibitor p52 N 15 '36

"'Night Waitress' is an unpretentious film targeted as a program filler for the neighborhoods. It is devoid of name attractions, and the exploitation features are nil. It will have to coast along on its own merit as entertainment in its classification. In the role of Margot Graham's work will machine-like produce a.

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; + + Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST 99

“The film is of value here mainly as an experiment in color. The story is dull and hard to follow, due to sluggish direction and the necessity of carrying narrations in silent films, instead of the usual superimposed titles.”

— Hollywood Reporter p14 N 9 '36

“Movie Pict Daily p5 N 5 '36

“The Soviet's first all-color film is a mediocre job. . . . It is a tedious entertainment, somewhat good, more often bad, produced in poor, embryonic color. . . . The camera stuff is sparingly used but everybody is given shots on serious expressions, for in facial work perhaps Russian actors excel all others.”

— Variety p15 N 11 '36

NIGHTINGALE. Amkino 93min N 2 '36

Cast: V. Ivashcheva. Z. Kashkarova. I. Barnes

Director: Nikolai Ekk

Russian dialogue film produced in Russia. No sub-titles but occasional synopses of the action. This is the first all-color film produced in the Soviet Union and commemorates the tenth anniversary of Soviet films in America. "The scene is a large China factory, supposed, presumably, to represent Russia of the imperial days. . . . In order to obtain money with which to build a new factory the owner deliberately has his henchmen set fire to the old wooden shack, thereby causing the death of many of his employees. . . . in the stinking black night it is not until the next day when one of the workers learns the truth and tells the women employed in the factory about it that the whole ruse is revealed. . . . The death on the foreground and the troops who are sent to subdue them.” (N Y World-Telegram)

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“From a technical standpoint [it] is a considerable success, but better subject matter might have been selected for the experiment. Even when its pigmentation is beautifully harmonized and modulated, it seems curiously out of place in a savage study of provincial working conditions. . . . 'Nightingale' was, it had more than sufficient. I believe in the stark black and white that the Russians know so well how to photograph. . . . It has interludes of terrific dramatic impact, but, on the whole, it is overpowering and badly paced. . . . With a more artistic selection of incidents, 'Nightingale' might have proved a notable screen drama. It proves that the Soviet cinema should have no real trouble with the technique of color photography, even though it does not become this theme.” Howard Barnes

— N Y Herald Tribune p28 N 3 '36

“At first we were inclined to be bitter about it but really it does not deserve one's indignation. The blunt and unpleasant fact is that 'Nightingale' is pretty bad. . . . Unless you look for the red-tinted classes and have a Russian interpreter by your side, it is likely to bore you pink. The picture is a rather amazing anachronism, in one respect, combining that newest attribute of the cinema—color—with an editing technique characteristic of the silent films of the prewar era. It still is a dullish item and merits consideration only as a cinema curiosity.” F. S. Nugent

— N Y Times p11 N 4 '36

"I'd scarcely recommend it, either for its color photography, its propaganda or as entertainment. Although it was directed by Nikolai Ekk, who made the memorable 'Road to Life,' this 'Nightingale' is among the least interesting of the Soviet films—cumbersome, and it is a tragic and absurdly lacking in all the qualities that go to make superior films.” William Boehm

— N Y World-Telegram p37 N 4 '36

“Movies, just movies. [It is] not the film to prove that color has come to stay.” John Mosher

New Yorker p117 N 14 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"[It is a] mildly interesting story of revolt. The color employed shows only nominal advantage. . . . It borrows every dramatic and technical from story standpoint has little appeal for American audiences.”

— Film Daily p13 N 6 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

NINE DAYS A QUEEN. Gaumont British 78min B 1 '36

Director: Robert Stevenson

See issues of June 29 and September 25, 1936 for Christian Science Monitor review of this film. It is titled Lady Jane Grey in the June 29 issue.

A Photoplay Study Guide to Nine Days a Queen has been prepared by Daniel C. Knowlton. The guide is obtainable at Educational and Recreation Guides, Inc. 125 Lincoln Avenue, Newark, New Jersey at fifteen cents a copy.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"This is a splendid addition to the pictorial history of Tudor days but one glaring omission must be noted. The religious aspect of the period has been totally ignored and it must be obvious to the informed that no attempt at historical accuracy has been successful which refuses to consider that profoundly important element. That British producers are most unwilling to mention religion in any picture is evident and inexplicable. In such cases as this, their selective treatment of history smacks of dishonesty and places them in a bad light.”

T. J. Fitzmorris

America p140 Ag 22 '36

"And Y; excellent; C: too strong.”

Christian Science Monitor p127 Ag 22 '36

"Nine Days a Queen is one of the pleasantest theses we can think of learning a history lesson.”

Nova Pilbeam as Jane does a remarkably job of her age. The play returns little or nothing from fiction; it is well cast, and beautifully played.” Ernestine Taggard

+ Scholastic p17 N 21 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Family.”

Christian Science Monitor p13 O 10 '36

"If the accuracy of the film is not a fault—lending perhaps a little coldness to what in literature are more easily have grown overheated—then it has no fault. It is serious and convincing; and intelligently respectful of its material; one of the best historical films, indeed, among the many now to be seen; and without question superior to 'Mary of Scotland.” Mark Van Doren

+ Nation p502 O 24 '36

"Historical costume affords a better grade than one is accustomed to from the English studios. Slow and stodgy from the American viewpoint, the film possesses the merits of an earnest if not animated production and comparative lack of technical accuracy. Film estimate: you're doing all right.”

— New Theatre p34 N 3 '36

"Historical events have rarely been recap- tured with such powerful and moving terms as they are in ‘Nine Days a Queen’.”

It is an absorbing and hauntingly beautiful companion piece to ‘The Private Life of Henry
NINE DAYS A QUEEN—Continued VIII. It excels that earlier offering of the British studios in most respects... Miss Pilbeam gives the role of Lady Jane (as) Philip the third Miss Fair. The Edward of young Desmond Tester is almost as compelling a portrait. Whatever 'Nine Days a Queen' owes to its distinguished acting, it is still chiefly the triumph of Mr. Stevenson. The players themselves he has guided in an unusually exciting pattern that makes their screen work one of the greatest genuflections that the cinema has made to the world. Eileen Creelman

"The impression prevails this morning that Britain may, after all, be its best historian. In 'Nine Days a Queen,' the English film-makers have cleaned up again and have reconfirmed the excellence established by 'The Private Life of Henry VIII.' The new film, being painstakingly accurate,补助dramatic and movingly performed, must be set down as the finest historical picture we have seen. until this date. Nova Pilbeam's performance as that winsome, winning little lady does justice to an admirable piece of acting, and as a whole it is a faultless cast, and the picture itself is a stirring reply to those who insist that there must be distortion here and mutilation there to make the screen image of history. Eileen Creelman"

"Without benefit of Charles Laughton, but with excellent aid from Nova Pilbeam, Cedric Hardwicke, Desmond Tester and Sybil Thornhope, Gaumont-British has turned out another historical film that is one of the season's most legitimate and distracting entertainments, a literate, engrossing and exciting picture. In a caparisoned atmosphere of romance, love, bigotry and treachery, the film gives to the reviewer a new insight into the past that he has had in the cinema this year—swift, engrossing and exciting." Motion Picture Daily

"It belongs, of course, to the category of educational pictures, and the general treatment is somewhat of the character of a Charlotte M. Yonge novel. It is not entirely fair to this picture to place it too definitely in this class... It's an English production, and the English studios manage to dress up their historical pageants with a care and a suggestion of authority that add considerably to the whole effect. The London of the Tudors, life in the Tower, and the like seem nicely done in this particular instance." John Moeller + New Yorker p52 S 26 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"An historical costume piece, this British film is sombre, slow and inclined to be dull. There are four scenes to help make the story come alive and the box office on this side of the Atlantic, and the dialog is clipped and muffled in that British manner so irritating to American audiences. Some of it is so slurred by the actors as not to be at all decipherable in the United States. Gaumont committed an error in assigning Nova Pilbeam to the Lady Jane role. Miss Pilbeam only last year was playing child parts and here she plays a queen, although admittedly still in her 'teens and forced to the marriage.... Expecting her to handle, maturely and convincingly, the queer, unfair to her. Photography is only fair, but production fine and, in spots, imposing. Where audiences are highbrow or historically inclined (schools, etc.) picture may do a bit better than elsewhere, but on the whole it won't find the preferred period States." — Variety p15 O 7 '36

NORTH OF NOME. Columbia 63min N 14 '36

Director: William Nigh

"Jack Holt has the role of an Alaskan seal poacher who, by the vagaries of wind and weather, finds himself the custodian of four shipwreck victims. Holt has to keep them prisoner until the Bering sea freezes and he can move out his furs; they resort to every sort of ruse and violence to make their escape." Hollywood Reporter

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage..." + Nat League of Decency N 26 '36

"A, Y & C: good." Parents' M p16 Ja '37

"Some suspense and much action are combined with the interesting background of Nome in an unceasing paced and slow-moving story. The production is fairly good entertainment in spite of certain ineptitudes. Family." + - Sai Motion Pict p10 D 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Plenty of punch-packed action and thrilling melodrama in this film, laid against a picturesque background of the Alaskan sealing waters, and played with conviction by a stellar cast. Family. Film Daily p57 O 25 '36

"This is a program number that will satisfy action fans. Although the star, Jack Holt, gives a convincing performance, it is pert little Doris Darmour, who steals the show. With proper material and handling, she should go very far." Film Daily p7 O 25 '36

"Rugged adventure, just as hectic as if lifted bodily from the febrile pages of a pulp magazine, makes this ideal fare for the fans who like action films. It is not a bad film, but Holt, Darmour and the rest have not been able to make the film a success. With proper material and handling, it could have been much better. Variety p5 O 24 '36

"Windup is fast, furious with romance slight but necessary. Action houses will find enough in the picture to keep them. + -" Hollywood Reporter p3 O 24 '36

"Interesting and entertaining story off the beaten path is here projected against the old Alaskan seal banks and smoky seals of poaching adventure, well adapted to talents of Jack Holt and certain to find a welcome spot on program to those who have not made molodramas in the past. Picture is one of the best of the DeMond series and has turned out in cast, production and dramatic substance." + Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 24 '36

OLD HUTCH. MGM 78min S 25 '36

Cast: Wallace Beery, Eric Linden, Cecilia Parker, Elizabeth Patterson

Director: J. Walter Ruben

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; - - Mediocre; - Poor; --- Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

AUDIENCE SUITABILITY RATINGS

"You've seen 'Old Hutch' before, under several different names. As a matter of fact, all Mr. Beery has to do to play this role was to let his beard grow. . . The picture is not even slightly unusual, but it will provide good family entertainment." T. J. Fitzmorris

+ America p524 O 3 '36

"A: rather good; Y & C: very good."

Christian Century p1479 N 4 '36

"Supported by an excellent cast, this picture bears no relation for the family." Am Legion Auxiliary

+ "Adults & 14-15: excellent; 8-14: fair." Calif Cong of Far & Teachers

"Excellent direction, the restrained acting of Wallace Beery, and interesting detail of settings add materially to the slight story. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Mediocre—family." DAR

"This is a diverting comedy. Family." Nat Soc of New England Women

"[It is] a thoroughly entertaining and wholesome picture for the family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"A homely, wholesome characterization. [There is] little story value, small significance, but Mr. Beery has knitted a flimsy plot into an interesting and sometimes, touching play. Adolescents, 12-16 & children, 8-12: yes." Motion Pict R p5 O '36

+ "A: motion Pict Guide D '36

"The sympathetic insight of the director has enabled him to make the most of every situation, and the fine ability of a well chosen cast, gives to this picture exceptional entertainment value. Family." + Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S $ '36

"Family." Jt Estimates S 15 '36

"For the most part, the film is a pleasantly amusing comedy. The situations arising out of the finding of the money are extremely plausible and well-contrived and interest is carried right to the end in a conventionally happy ending. Suitability: adults & adolescents." + Mo Film Bul p175 O '36

+ "Very good. Family." + Motion Pict Guide D '36

"The supporting cast is excellent, and the director has knitted a flimsy plot into an interesting and sometimes, touching play. Adolescents, 12-16 & children, 8-12: yes." Motion Pict R p5 O '36

+ "A: Motion Pict R p5 O '36

+A lively and interesting picture of the homey kind. Family—juvenile." + Nat Bd of R M $ '36

"A sentimental story which suits admirably the talents of Wallace Beery, and because of excellent direction, a fine cast, and good suspense develops into interesting entertainment. Family." + Nat Council of Jewish Women S 9 '36

+ "A chukling comedy that keeps us guessing. General praise." + Nat Legion of Decency S 24 '36

"A. Y and C: pleasing homespun yarn." Parents' M p44 N '36

"Family." Sel Motion Pict p5 O 1 '36

NEWSPAPER AND MAGAZINE REVIEWS

"A typical Wallace Beery role in a well-written human interest comedy with the usual allotment of laughs, thrills and romance. Family." + Christian Science Monitor p15 O 21 '36

"[It is] insignificantly homely melodrama of extremely thin plot and a single emphasis on the central character of Wallace Beery." J. F. Cunningham

+ Commonwealth p560 O 9 '36

"Shiftless, lazy, lovable ne'er-do-wells have been favorites on the stage from Rip Van Winkle to Lightnin' and onward. . . Maybe the fact that Wallace Beery does not interest us is due to our general dislike for Epps, Lightnin', and Hutches. Unsanitary philosophers are not our dish. Beery is heavy and unwieldy. But, if we have disappointed, we are a prejudiced observer." (2½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p31 O 24 '36

"Genial, bucolic 'Old Hutch', which like a Christmas tree or the distributor of income tax blanks, has something for everybody, is again on the screen, this time with Wallace Beery. Sixteen years ago it was the late Will Rogers who played it. . . Wallace Beery throws himself wholly into the part of the indolent un-State Walton, in a nice performance any one better suited to the role of the long-suffering wife . . . than Elizabeth Patterson." J. T. M.

+ N Y Times p27 D 7 '36

"[It is] a cheerful and amusing little comedy-drama. Although its narrative sags from time to time, 'Old Hutch' is a first rate anecdote that becomes satisfactory entertainment because of the ease and charm and facility with which it is related. Mr. Beery and a company of persuasive actors, among whom are Elizabeth Patterson, who is excellent as Hutch's long-suffering wife." William Boehnel

+ N Y World-Telegram p27 D 7 '36

"Cinemaddicts who have felt that Wallace Beery's specialty of pawing at his chest, wrinkling his brow, scowling his face, and wiping his rubbery face with the palm of his hand, received too little footage in his previous pictures should be delighted by 'Old Hutch.' It contains practically nothing else." Time p30 O 5 '36

TRADE PAPER REVIEWS

"As the first feature of a double-bill, this picture is obviously out of its class, for it is a Class A production in every way. The picture is splendid entertainment for the whole family, with Beery's performance as Hutch, the outstanding feature of the production."

+ Canadian Moving Pic Digest p14 N 14 '36

"Good entertainment for the Beery fans in pleasing mixture of human interest, humor and incidental romance."

+ Film Daily p8 22 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p16 16 '36

"Depending on Beery's draw, this is an interesting character study, not too strong at the box office. . . With an adequate cast for support, the picture turns in a nice performance but the picture reaches no particular heights."

+ Phila Exhibitor p34 S 15 '36

"It looks as though somebody was doing their best here to make sure that the audience was entertained. The movie is better than some, but it's not good enough for the average person to want to pay money to see it. . ." New York Times p5 O 5 '36

"It never disappoints Beery fans if only for the reason that it is fluffy and laughable."

+ Variety p13 D 9 '36

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
ONCE IN A BLUE MOON. Paramount 65min
Directors: Ben Hecht. Charles MacArthur
Produced three years ago and never nationally released. The film has been shown in several third run houses until the present engagement at the World Theatre, New York. It tells the tale of Napoleon, handled with considerable charm and entrancing Russian princess in the days following the revolution.

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
“It is easy to understand why [it] has been routed around obscure playhouses for the last two years. Reflecting little credit on its cut-up-with-director's-leave company, it is a ponderous burlesque, almost deserving the billing it received at a small Boston playhouse—the world's worst picture.” If you are curious to see how completely a lot of talent can be wasted it will repay you to drop in at the World Theatre. The film is a virtual compendium of cinematic faults... The staging is so disorderly that it is actually difficult to follow the story at times. The whole production almost suggests a conspiracy to destroy what few virtues were in the work, for Lee Garmes, who has shown in a skill with a camera in the past, has done a dismal piece of photography.” - Howard Barnes, Chicago Defender Tribune p23 D 2 '36

“[Since it] brings briefly to the screen that exquisitely and admirable clown Jimmy Savo, the occasion itself is bound to be a happy and prophetic one. As for all the sadings and stragglings and strangely prophetic title of 'Once in a Blue Moon,' those who love Savo will welcome this. It is the admitted failure of his authors, of his surroundings, of practically every element in contact with that little man, self-mysteriously crucifying frame for certain indestructible elements of personal integrity, and for comic style. Also, like Chaplin's clown, has in it nothing irritating, vulgar, cheap, smart-aleck, self-glorifying or sickly commercial. In an age when the mechanics of production are taken for granted the Messrs. Hecht and MacArthur, in this one film, contrived to suffer an unprecedented breakdown of nearly all their resources, especially of those in the sound-recording department... Through the unblurred and unfinish'd brilliancy of the talk, the muddled disconnectedness of incident, miraculously shirking effort, the wrong line of the characterization of Gabbo the Great.” - B. R. C., N Y Times p35 D 2 '36

“Famed for their wit and pranksiness, as well as for the authority to construct workable and theatrically effective scripts, the Messrs. Hecht and MacArthur have in 'Once in a Blue Moon' placed together an incredibly disjointed narrative that reflects little of their skilled artisanship. How much of this is due to cutting it is difficult to say, but the fact remains that the film is pretty much of a botch. Nor has it any point of view—or anything resembling a point of view... Moreover, the direction is laborious, the acting is of a kind that is best forgotten and the sound recording is so inferior that at times it is impossible to hear what the characters are saying. Now and then Mr. Savo manages to cross the amateurishness of the pathetic charm that has endeared him to lovers of slapstick, but for the most part his efforts are so forced as they are unfunny.” - William Boehm
—N Y World-Telegram p33 D 2 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
“[It] was shelved for good and sufficient reasons. With the announced arrival of Jimmy Savo in a stage play, the proprietor of the Wondervue Theatre has the opportunity to capitalize on the discarded opus, so it is being run on a double bill. We have never seen so many people on such a high that we were Yoshirunning of a film. In plain words, it's terrible."

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; - - Exceptionally Poor

ONE HUNDRED DAYS OF NAPOLEON. Nuovo mondo 100min S 15 '36
Producer: Giovacchino Forzano
A dialogue film in Italian with English titles made in Italy by a joint collaboration of German and Italian film companies. It was also filmed in German. Also known as Coppo di Maggio. It is the story of those one hundred days after Napoleon escaped from Elba and returned to France to make an attempt to regain his throne. Through the witty machinations of Bouché he is finally defeated at Waterloo, forced to abdicate and exiled to St. Helena.

Audience Suitability Ratings
“An impressive picture showing striking battle scenes and having expert characterization. General patronage.”
+ Nat Legion of Decency S 24 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
“its adherence to historical fact appears to be accurate. In particular, it is an interesting picture in the characterization of Napoleon... The story is open to a number of interpretations, and to the observer not entirely a matter of serious picture patron.” - Marguerite Tazdaar, N Y Herald Tribune p23 S 15 '36

“Of all the Italian pictures that have run [at the Carine-Roma], this current one should prove of most interest to non-Italian audiences... The production is a lavish one, from its palace scenes to the battle scenes at Waterloo... The picture, by the way, should be excellent for children studying French history—English subtitles make the action clear. The cast, from Corrado Raccac's Napoleon to Enzo Billiotti's witty, bowing Fouche, is competent and intelligent... This is the most elaborate of the Italian productions and, so far, the best.” - Eileen Creelman
-N Y Sun p23 S 14 '36

“Collaboration of German and Italian film companies, backed by the powers-that-be in Berlin and Rome, has resulted in the production of a historical picture which can stand comparison with the best things in that line ever turned out in Hollywood or anywhere else. From the very start [it] is impressively so much so that at times even hardened ex-Englishmen and despisers of materialism and all that we believe in were carried away with the enthusiasm of Napoleon's followers."
+ N Y Times p25 S 14 '36

+ + + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; - - Exceptionally Poor
"The film, which has been produced with considerable vigor and gusto for a foreign offering, is so well managed technically and artistically that it is a favorable comparison with the best of the Hollywood and London historical offerings. It is in its point of view that this department quarrels with it... In its acting, in its use of mass movement and in its photography, 'One Hundred Days of Napoleon' ranks among the best of the Italian language films that have been shown in New York. Played in a subdued manner, it has none of the wild histrionics usually associated with these films, [since] its story is told forcefully and effectively and the direction is strong and sure. William Boehnel

+ N Y World-Telegram p25 S 15 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Excellent historical picture produced with German-Italian cooperation ranks with leading pictures of its kind."

Film Daily p8 S 15 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p8 O 27 '36

"Vague as the real impression of Napoleon may be with most, this Italian actor’s [Corrado Raccà] characterization of that historical figure has not been equaled in Anglo-Saxon film. This is line with what is good and proud of it. English titles aid in understanding the film, and the historical significance of the period are far and few more than merely Italian-speaking trade."

Variety p17 S 16 '36

OUR BOY. See Vaaran pojke

OUR RELATIONS. Rouch-MGM 70min O 30 '36

Cast: Stan Laurel. Oliver Hardy. Alan Hale

Director: Harry Lachman

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: perhaps; Y & C: probably quite amusing."

Christian Century p1629 D 2 '36

"Mediocre. Mature-family." DAR

"[I]t offers Laurel and Hardy good opportunity for their special type of humor. Uniformly hilarious, with an occasional lapse from good taste."

E Coast Preview Committee

Fox W Coast Bul O 24 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Laurel and Hardy, like most other specialty comedians, are a matter of individual opinion. If your taste runs in the direction of their brand of zany, this new concoction of slapstick gags will probably have you pretty well in the aisles. Family."

Christian Science Monitor p13 N 21 '36

"The entertainment is complicated... and you will be so mixed up by the time the two Hardys (Hardy is the fat one) step off the whale and the bowels can well exceed the wander about in a haze when you get into the street. In spite of its enormous hilarity, some may think the film has its own interest as a conviction that this team has a great comic talent, the new picture is not up to two earlier ones these clowns made—Bohemian Girls and The Devil’s Brother." Marguerite Tazelar

+ N Y Herald Tribune p24 N 12 '36

"A knock-about comedy in which an acute case of mixed ideas is permitted to develop into galloping bedlam, it rests most of the old slapstick arguments and offers a few new ones. Although it is fast and undoubtedly furious, we reached the saturation point when the picture touched the half-way mark. Custard pies can be funny, but only in limited amounts. Still, it has enjoyed it. If you are a comedy pair, but they should know when to stop—and that is after the third reel."

F. S. Nugent

+ N Y Times p56 N 11 '36

"In case you are in search of some good, lusty slapstick that will tickle your funnybone with its knockabout highjinks, then the Rialto... is the place to visit. Indeed, here is a recommended photoplay for low comedy enthusiasts and others who would relish some robust, fundamental comedy as a relief from the more sophisticated, satirical type of fun that the movies have been offering lately. Not that 'Our Relations' is a masterpiece of its kind. Far from it. But it is better than just standard goods in the field, and I'll warrant you'll have a good time at it from beginning to end and that on several occasions you'll laugh with your head off at the antics of its two principals."

William Boehnel

+ N Y World-Telegram p27 N 11 '36

"This new Laurel and Hardy comedy is a thoroughly dizzly picture. The story is little more than a series of gags... The material is handled in the old two-reeler technique, laugh patter, and a laugh for each line to narrative thread, love interest or other new-fangled problems which most modern comedies try to work in. Harry Lachman, a director whose name is not usually associated with farce, masters his idiom as if to the manner born. The audience tossed their caps in admiration." Molly Lewin

+ Script p11 N 25 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Stan Laurel has done himself proud on his first fling as a producer. So much so that Metro gives him liberal credit as such with this latest teaming of the Laurel-Hardy comedy combination. Looks like easily their best all-around laugh-evoker to date, and a certain bet as a double program strengthener, with the time consumed on screen helping in this respect. It may hold its own alone in localities where the fun combination are favorite."

Variety p13 N 18 '36

PENNIES FROM HEAVEN. Columbia. 90min N 25 '36

Director: Norman McLeod

Music: Arthur Johnson

Music: director: George Stoll

Based on novel The Peacock Feather by Katharine Leslie Moore. "Bing is a carefree troubadour who tries to save 19-year-old Edith Fellows from being sent to a charity institution, and attempts to raise money by various methods—singing in the street, promoting a roadshow, and working with a carnival."

Box Office

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency D 3 '36

"A nicely balanced production with the right proportion of comedy, music and human interest to hold attention throughout... Family."

Sel Motion Pict p10 D 1 '36

"Family."

Wky Guide N 28 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; -- Exceptionally Poor
"It has an impossible story ... yet it is one of the brightest pieces of screen entertainment we have had this year. Such stories, when presented intelligently, make splendid screen material because of what they lack as stories. ... [It will] clean up at box office everywhere. ... Entertainment is provided by 'Pennies From Heaven' because, by cooperating with it, we entertain other people ... The cast is uniformly good. ... The even excellence of the performance is a tribute to the efforts of the Mecloz's production."

+ Hollywood Spec p29 N 21 '36

"The amiable Bing Crosby strolls through one of the season's mildest films. ... Like its star, this is an amiable film, without futility nor exciting, but in no way objectionable. ... Children will probably enjoy the picture more than their elders. ... Even Bing, slimmer than he has ever been before, goes in for romance and plausiveness rather than comedy this time, so that Miss Fellows are a good team, acting as though they really enjoyed each other's company. ..."

- N Y Sun p32 D 10 '36

"A wholesome, lightly sentimental and genial comedy, it is all the more ingratiating by contrast to its predecessor-[Mae West's 'Go West, Young Man.'] Although the Bing's voice is not unanimously acclaimed by the nation's music-lovers—we even noted a faint cheer in the balcony when he was given the last of the troubadours—still he does not swing his hips when he walks and he does not read his lines as though they had been selected from an underlined copy of Uncle Billy's Whis Bang. ... It makes for a light and briskly paced comedy and, naturally, provides Mr. Crosby with several lyric opportunities. ... Conceding that Mr. Crosby is as good-natured as ever and that Miss Evans is so attractive a social worker that we are tempted to apply for relief and be investigated, the chief honors properly belong to little Miss Fellows. ... In short, 'Pennies From Heaven' is one of Mr. Crosby's best."

+ N Y Times p35 D 10 '36

"There are some pleasant tunes, first-rate humor and some good acting in 'Pennies From Heaven', but not much enterprise or ingenuity. ... However, there is the fact that the scheme of the film is entirely conventional, it is an attraction that is above the ordinary in meretricious, is largely so because [it] has the good luck to have Edith Fellows in its cast—a youngster who is really a first-rate little actresses."

+ N Y World-Telegram p33 D 10 '36

"'Pennies From Heaven' is a textbook example of the oldest adage in cinemaking: Nothing ruins a picture more effectively than too many good ideas. Best idea wasted is the character of Larry (Bing Crosby), a jalibird minister who makes God his pension. A 19th Century lute. ... There is one moment of real magic when Larry is singing 'So Do I'. ... Screenwriter Jo Sverling, however, quickly dropped development of the Pennies From Heaven, rather than making his church as a making a haunted house into a night club, then switched to a carnival background, then to an orphan asylum."

- Time p28 N 23 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Producer Emanuel Cohen's 'Pennies From Heaven' will mean dollars for the box office, wholly because of the catch-as-catch-can batch of tunes as has ever been written for one of his pictures, in a delightful hodge-podge of catchy and sentimental entertainment for any fan's time and money. Family."

+ Box Office p29 N 21 '36

"Emanuel Cohen can take a bow on this Bing Crosby picture. It is an ideal vehicle for the singing star and he is surrounded by talented players. Little Edith Fellows has his aide is splendid as a belligerent child, ... Dusty Louis Armstrong, the trumpetist, almost steals the picture with his novelty number, 'Skelebon in the Closet.'"

+ Film Daily p7 N 16 '36

"With Bing Crosby in a warmly appealing role that should help him land the big new songs, and a story background rich with homely sentiment and natural comedy, this Emanuel Cohen production should have large mass appeal. Many will rank it as Crosby's best and its box office returns will be big."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 N 12 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p16 N 13 '36

"Casting Bing as a wandering songster who only seeks to spread happiness, contentment, 'Pennies From Heaven' will largely depend for its return on his personal draw. Family audiences will like it best."

+ Phila Exhibitor p30 D 1 '36

"The sentimental troubadour character which Bing has come to personify is well catered to in this whimsical, musical comedy. It is odd yet romantic, has good general entertainment, and various numbers of music of high quality. Nature of the material, with well-calculated appeal to juvenile audiences, has been well cast, and most of the good reception in the family spots. The Crosby fans will like it. It should give good account of itself."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 12 '36

PICCADILLY JIM. MGM 100min Ag 14 '36

Cast: Robert Montgomery, Frank Morgan, Donald Crisp, Mae West, Robert Benchley, Cora Witherspoon

Director: Robert Z. Leonard

See Issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

The hilarious nonsense of P. G. Wodehouse comes to the screen under expert adaptation of one of his most rollicking tales. We can expect to see more and more of his work filmed after such a stimulating sample and against those happy occasions this reviewer intends to hoard some of his choice adjectives. ... No one can fail to be amused by this one."

- T. J. Fitzmorris

+ + America p504 Ag 29 '36

"A film of P. G. Wodehouse's famous novel, but possessing very little of his famous humour, which is travestied out of recognition. ... The film has indications of having been hastily made; the continuity is disjointed and many of the scenes seem overfit. Suitability: family."

- Mo Film Bri p53 S 30 '36

"It is] absurd and mildly boring slapstick. ... The usual comedy scenes inherit in such a situation develop with irritating regularity. ... Not even their vaudeville star Robert Montgomery nor the excellent characterizations of Frank Morgan and Eric Blore can quite overcome the handicap of threadbare story, unoriginal dialogue, and uninspired direction. Adolescents, 12-16: no, too much drinking; children, 8-12: no."

- Motion Pict R p6 S '36

"A and Y: laughable comedy with fine acting; C: no interest."

Parents' M p43 O '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"'Piccadilly Jim' is a film of the same type as 'My Man Godfrey,' but it is not in the same class. To begin with, the casting is no improvement, the probability, and charm of the original P. G. Wodehouse story are preserved in this film version

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + - Fair; + - Mediocre; Poor; + - Exceptionally Poor
All you Wkly. Fair;

In not which Americans to excellent he history upper-case feet."

Cast: [Hollywood] Father's much more entertaining than many other screen murder-mysteries is the lightness of Mr. Gleason and Miss Pitts, and the unique setting of the stockmen's story forms, nor does it seem so sprightly as some of the earlier ones in the series."

"The Plot Thickens' is better than most murder mystery pictures in the degree in which it avoids running true to form. True, it makes Jim Gleason, the police inspector in charge of the case, dangerously dumb, but keeps him just smart enough to make it reason- able that he and Zusy Pitts, also played for laughs, should solve the mystery and bring the murderer to book. But I hope he will not be just one such picture that took crime seriously and did not strive to make us laugh in the face of it. If you want a murder now and then in your screen fare, I can recommend 'The Plot Thickens' as a picture that will not waste the time you spend in viewing it. It keeps you puzzled, and that is all you may reasonably ask of a picture of the sort.

"Skilfully directed and acted in every detail, 'The Plainsman' surpasses the previous and ex- cellent Paramount opus of the plains, 'The Texan Reporter'."

"Cecil B. De Mille has drawn the well-known historical characters as such dynamic figures in the settling of the West that one cannot help but be fascinated by them. The piece is a stirring one with battle scenes that are terrifying. närreprends De Mille touch for the spectacular is to be found. It is a big production of the 'Cimmarron', 'Covered Wag- on' type and its appeal should be to the same kind of audience, and its box-office returns should therefore be great. Cooper in one of those histrionic roles which made him famous and which are tailor-made to his talents is superb."

"Cecil B. De Mille here delivers a super- Western that has had few if any equals in the history of pictures. . . . There is not the least doubt that it will take the box offices of the world by storm and roll up a magnificent record. To the magic of the De Mille name is added that of Gary Cooper in a role to which he brings all the best qualities of his recent work and which gives him one splendidly real- ized opportunity after another. . . . All the in- gredients of every good Western are present in ample measure and have, of course, been glorified under De Mille's magic touch. Oddly and wisely he had concentrated on the personal drama so that the mass scenes are kept to an unexplored area. Even the Western murder my- nacle is told in a few shattering effectively.

"'The Plainsman' reveals Cecil B. De Mille as the master melodramatist. Less stylized, better balanced, obviously not concerned with upper-case art, attacked simply as the narra- tive of plains men and women conquering the wilderness with blood and iron, this will prob- ably prove De Mille's most potent Western picture. A super Western, it exploits a subject not usual- ly linked with the screen tradition of the producer-director.

"[Variety (Hollywood)]

PLOT THICKENS. RKO 65min D 11 '36
Cast: James Gleason, Zusy Pitts. Owen Lord as Inspector; Dr. Louise Laviter as Miss Pitts."

Director: Ben Holmes

This is the third of a series of detective stories, based on the Oscar Piper character created by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. It is taken from his novel The Case of the Dangling Pearl. 'De- picts the complicated events which revolve around a lost [item]. A classic metal master- piece.' [Variety (Hollywood)]

"If you have been following the adventures of Oscar Piper . . . you will welcome this. . . . [It is] amusing and sometimes exciting." T. J. Fitzmorris

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency D 17 '36

"Adults & young people." Sel Motion Pict p11 D 1 '36

"[It is] a pretty good mystery with sustained interest and a fair amount of uncertainty as to the outcome, a lot of comedy scattered throughout. Family."

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

Audience Suitability Ratings

Audience Suitability Ratings

Trade Paper Reviews

"A Stuart Palmer mystery at the Rialto may be news to lighten the heart of a morning. The usual unavailing of the murderers (two) is accomplished with customary comic pom-pom and ceremony. Zusy Pitts, who supports Miss Miss Oliver in the role of schoolteacher, is not, to this way of thinking, so perfect a lady de- tective and is one-dimensional, but she is, as always, a humorous, faintly mournful char-acter, amusing enough. . . . What makes it a little more entertaining than many other screen murder-mysteries is the lightness of Mr. Gleason and Miss Pitts, and the unique setting of the stockmen's story forms, nor does it seem so sprightly as some of the earlier ones in the series."

Marguerite Taze- laar

"It is a reasonably entertaining baffler, barrier our faint wince at the sight of Zusy Pitts trying to fill the saturnine shoes of the Hilde- gardes of the famous May Oliver and Helen Breder-ick. . . . Probably as a concession to Miss Pitt's flutter, the usual aperch exchanges between the Inspector and Hildegards have been blunted, becoming merely moderate sarcasms which really do not justify Mr. Gleason's exaggerated recolts. What he needs for flinching purposes is a Miss Oliver or a Miss Broderick who knows how to pour the hot coal on." F. S. Nugent

"The finished result is a series of lethal high- links that have a certain amount of nimble-plot complication and some slick sleuthing but which is singularly lacking in physical action, sus- pense and excitement. . . . How both crimes are solved among the art treasures of the museum results in a laborious and clumsily man- aged denouement that is presented at a set down and that weakens an otherwise fair-to-middling mystery item." William Boechler

"There's enough variety in this to please every type of movie-goer—which should result in satisfactory returns at the cashiers' window. Family."

"[Box Office]"
PLOT THICKENS—Continued

"This is easily among the top comedy crime puzzlers of the year. It is the third of a successful series in which James Gleason leads as a hard-boiled and self-assured police inspector who, after finding the answers without the welcome help of the inquisitive schoolmarm, Hildegarde Withers. The earlier pictures using this titillating combination have been highly profitable in their field and this one should top them and build up an outstanding box office property."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 N 9 '36
+ Motion Picture Daily p10 N 10 '36
"Estimate: mild program, best for neighborhoods, two bills."

+ Daily Exhibitor p31 D 1 '36
"The Plot Thickens" is just another class B comedy melodrama. However, the picture may turn out to be a bolster on dull bills due to the work of James Gleason and Zasu Pitts, who are teamed in top spots in this one. Production as it stands is poorly directed and badly split. Junior matinee has been so flagrant that members of preview audience were forced to ask their neighbors just what was going on the screen."

Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 9 '36

POLO JOE. Warner 62 min D 5 '36
Cast: Joe E. Brown, Carol Hughes, Richard and audience has girl.

Skotak, William McGann

Brown portrays a polo expert who knows nothing about polo but is forced to go through with a crucial polo match in order to win the girl.

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A: fairly good; Y: amusing; C: good."
Christian Century p1639 D 2 '36
"Children will love this comedy, and most everyone will smile, at least, at the ridiculous antics of the horse, the ten goaler. Family & junior matinee." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Many amusing situations and the star's singing of songs in Chinese make this hilarious entertainment. Family & adult matinee." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Hilarious farce, Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs
"Good. Family." DAR
"Family." Nat Soc of New England Women
"Plenty of hilarity for all the family." S Calif Council of Jewish Women

"Hilarious comedy, heightened by the star's rendition of songs in Chinese. Family." Mrs T. G. Winter

+ Fox W Coast Bul O 10 '36
"Clever direction, good casting, excellent photography, and interesting scenes of polo playing contributes much to this amusing picture. Always a Junior matinee."

+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 8 '36
"The incidents are comically abrupt, and Joe E. Brown, in not breaking the comedy, sustains the humor admirably. The picture is good family entertainment. Adolescents, 12-16 & children, 1-12: good."

+ Motion Picture R p8 O '36
"Excellant for the family."

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women O 1 '36
"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency O 22 '36
"A, Y & C: good entertainment."

+ Motion Picture D 2 '36
"A well worked out farce, smoothly moving and filled with novel gags and a hundred laughs. Family."

+ Sel Motion Pic p4 N 1 '36

"Family."
Wkly Guide N 14 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Another instance in which venerable and impossible plot and situations cavort about like young things under debt handling. Created especially for Joe E. Brown's fans, this sentimental yarn... may also be found amusing by moviegoers in general. Family."

+ Christian Science Monitor p13 N 21 '36
"There's a picture, apparently manufactured to win laughter, that achieves what it proposes. The narrative, obvious from the start, as a whole moves too briskly and entertainingly that while reviewing it one disregards the fact that he has viewed it several times before. ... Apparently the preview spectators found a great deal in the film to delight them, for there were not many quiet moments at the capacity-filled Forum Theatre during the showing of the audience often creating tumultuous laughter."

Allan Hersholt

+ Fox W Coast Spec p14 S 25 '36
"The new Joe E. Brown comedy is not overburdened with story, nor for that matter comedy, unless our sense of humor, as we strongly suspect, is becoming blunted. Nevertheless, of humor there is very little in 'Polo Joe,' of slapstick comedy, a smattering... The picture is a good one to show in a showman's program, and though its closing antics may amuse you, nothing of importance will be lost should you miss seeing the new offering."
Marquettie Tazelaar

+ N Y Herald Tribune p28 N 3 '36
"'Polo Joe,' last of the wide-mouthed star's films for Warner Bros., unfortunately one of his least funny. Mr. Brown depends too heavily upon his old gags, the Brown yell now used as a signature and sometimes as a shriek of terror, the extravagant smile, the acrobatic clowning... Children will probably like it, Joe E. Brown'sUpdate is frequent and furious. The more demanding may find it a faint carbon copy of better Brown comedies."

Eileen Creelman

+ N Y Sun p35 N 4 '36
"[It is] an unenterprising slapstick called 'Polo Joe,' which we understand is [Brown's] farewell to the Warners. In A Family Affair's pathetic gesture, it seems, with the great pantaloon laughing hollowly at the picture's little jokes, and wordlessly begging the audience to forgive the sins he is being forced to commit in the name of comedy. For 'Polo Joe' isn't Mr. Brown's six nickel of slapstick but the sound of a deep, serious laughter. Every time he opens his mouth they put their feet in it—and that isn't mere metaphor, either."

The Denver Post

+ N Y World-Telegram p21 N 5 '36
"Whether or not you happen to like Joe E. Brown, you're bound to have a good time watching his antics in 'Polo Joe,' the frisky little film which combines polo, love and burlesque in an engaging and amusing manner. Although it is an intensely artificial affair, you should enjoy 'Polo Joe.'" William Eshelman

+ N Y World-Star p35 N 5 '36
"'Movies, just movies.' John Mosher
New Yorker p117 N 14 '36
"Liberal peppered with slapstick, a familiar dish is served over for the Joe E. Brown customers."

+ News-Wk p60 N 14 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Comedians come and go but Joe E. Brown goes on and on. The wholesome heartiness of his pictures probably accounts for the large-mouthed laugh-getter's undiminished popularity, and, despite the nothing more than sometimes some or less subtle than this breezy tale. Family."

+ Box Office p27 O 3 '36

"Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor"
"This will have no trouble pleasing the Joe E. Brown fans. Peter Milne and Hugh Cummings, who did the screenplay, concocted some good gags."

+ Film Daily p11 S 24 '36

"[I]t is an adequate representation of the staple, reliable stuff that the exhibitors have come to expect from the cavern-mouthed comic. It is neither betray nor enhance the Brown box office draw. The material itself in this case is not so good as in the last picture, but Brown himself is better."

— Hollywood Reporter p4 S 19 '36

+ Motion Picture Daily p10 S 21 '36

"Brown's last for Warners ought to prove as good at the box office as the others. Where he has a personal draw, this will be responsible for the same kind of business as his others."

Phila Exhibitor p33 O 1 '36

"[I]t provides Joe E. Brown with meager opportunities for results. "Polo Joe" is one of the poorer of the comedian's vehicles and Brown's followers no matter how faithful, will be disappointed in him this time. It's the material which, while basically okay, has not been developed in a sure-fire manner by either the writer or the director. Too frequently the situation follows lines of slapstick that are neither very original nor very funny."

Variety p14 N 11 '36

"Joe E. Brown fans will not be disappointed in "Polo Joe." Picture is hilarious comedy that had preview audience yelling with laughter and in some instances bordering on the verge of hysteria. While not aiming to carry a show by itself, picture is topper for any double-bill."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 19 '36

PRESCOTT KID. Columbia 85min

Cast: Tim McCoy. Sheila Mannors. Joseph Sayers

Director: David Selman

A western melodrama.

Trade Paper Reviews

"Action melodrama of old west gives Tim McCoy chance to score with fights and hard riding."

+ Film Daily p3 O 17 '36

"A neatly packed action opus, with Tim McCoy given free rein for his two-fisted talents. Rates better than average sagebrush offering."

+ Variety p17 O 21 '36

PRESIDENT'S MYSTERY. Republic 80min

Director: Phil Rosen

Based on the serial story and novel of the same title by Rupert Hughes and other writers from a story conceived by President Roosevelt. "The premise is that with government and industrial assistance, shuttered factories can be opened and successfully operated by the workers on a cooperative basis. The writers stick close to their subject while developing a mystery around a man's disappearance, the murder of his wife, his return to the town."

"It provides fine entertainment in addition to a stirring message. Family." E Coast Preview Committee

Fox W Coast Bul O 24 '36

"General patronage."

New York Motion of Decency O 15 '36

"A & Y: fair; C: little interest."

Parents' M p32 D '36

"Family."

Sel Motion Pic p12 N 1 '36

"Pretty good entertainment and a slight effort, at least, to deal with a timely problem."

+ Wdly Guide O 3 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"It is a stimulating idea told through a melodramatic medium. Adults & young people."

+ Christian Science Monitor p15 O 24 '36

"Lacking the primary essence of Liberty's change-of-heart story, the suggestion by the President, Nat Levine's new production has injected a new verve and punch which amply compensates for the misstep which was added by having Henry Wilcoxon read the 'President's Mystery' from which his own story is concocted, the idea and execution. The President, by his first opportunity to prove himself more than a costume mannikin. He turns out to be a splendid figure of a person of the best roles Hollywood can offer. [The film] is warmly recommended for its thorough workmanship."

Paul Jacobson

+ Hollywood Spec p23 O 10 '36

"Liberty readers will have an unusual desire to see this screen transcription of a feature they read with interest... The acting, particularly of Henry Wilcoxon as the big-business attorney who goes altruistic, is excellent throughout. ...it's told, even a Republican will like this." (3 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p55 N 14 '36

"The President's Mystery" ... introduces the belief that a new species of American film is on its way, if indeed it has not already arrived. It is not strictly new, since Europe has long been familiar with it, but in this particular form it has never before presented us; and suggested by the President, Nat Levine's new production has injected a new verve and punch which amply compensates for the misstep which was added by having Henry Wilcoxon read the 'President's Mystery' from which his own story is concocted, the idea and execution. The President, by his first opportunity to prove himself more than a costume mannikin. He turns out to be a splendid figure of a person of the best roles Hollywood can offer. [The film] is warmly recommended for its thorough workmanship."

Paul Van Dorpe

+ Nation p558 N 7 '36

"Naturally the picture is uneven in its telling and confused in substance, since six authors worked on the original idea, and then two more made a screen script of it. Moreover, it appears to have been produced in great haste and without deft technical skill. Even so, the high spots in the performance, during the mob scenes, for example, have a touch of the excitement 'Fury' had, and the object lesson, though crudely presented, is emphatic." Margaret Tutzel

— N Y Herald Tribune p12 O 19 '36

"In spite of, or because of, all those minds that contributed, at least in the writing of it, the picture is even more unreal than most films. It does, however, tell its tale in a straightforward manner, refraining from too much political discussion... The picture is fair melodrama, directed by Phil Rosen with authority if not with inspiration. The sound recording, rare in American films, is below standard. So, which is not so unusual, is the acting." Eileen Creelman

— N Y Sun p26 O 20 '36

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A & Y: fair; C: little interest."

Christian Century p1479 N 4 '36

"Mediocre." DAR

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
PRESIDENT'S MYSTERY—Continued

"It is so unusual to find a motion picture attuned to any serious aspect of the contemporary national scene that 'The President's Mystery' deserves to be treated as something more than just another melodrama. Although there is no disputing its propagandist intent, the film is a well-constructed essay on one means of achieving a more abundant life, and it is an interesting Supplement, S. Nugent, N Y Times p22 O 19 '36.

"You can't help enjoying 'The President's Mystery' . . . unless you're downright obtuse. A skillfully blended mixture of murder, mystique, romance and social comment, it is the surprise film of the week— one that is warranted to keep you interested from beginning to end with its exciting, engrossing story," William Boehm.

+ + New Yorker p78 O 24 '36

"Mr. Roosevelt has not suffered the fate of many men and folk who are grabbed up by the professional person and his own name lost in the shuffle. He receives full credit for the picture. This, instead of being 'The President's Mystery,' though it isn't a mystery and there's no president in it. . . Love and a mystery skulduggery are all included in a film that isn't, if one may take the liberty of saying so, very exciting. However, the major fault is something that suggests the social concern of Soviet films, and pictures of that sober sort may be the pleasure, course of the Administration, John Mosher.

+ + Variety p15 O 21 '36

"Republic has constructed an exciting film advocating producers' cooperatives financed by the government. The seemingly incongruous elements are skillfully combined to make the most vigorous propaganda Hollywood has yet produced."

+ News-Wk p29 O 17 '36

"[It is] an honest, exciting melodrama. The film uses an entirely conventional technique—yet it makes it an effective film. Yet Director Phil Rosen extracts from his material a pictorial reality that is usually found only in the more vivid news-reels—or in foreign pictures. A credible job, all 'round." Molly Lewin

Script p19 O 31 '36

"The President's Mystery Story was snapped up by Hollywood, which has made from it an adaptation which reeks of New Deal propaganda, L. Ballew. It has an exciting though hardly realistic end."

— Time p34 O 12 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"The most pretentious and laudable production yet to come from Republic. . . Produced at a timely moment, with a definite appeal for social justice, a story conceived by President FDR thought the Liberty magazine, it is headed for good box office grosses. Family."

+ + Box Office p27 O 3 '36

"Republic presents a timely subject in an exciting, interesting manner and, when enthusiastically sold, should attract the masses. The production shows that Nat Levine [has] spared no expense in achieving a production that can play anywhere. . . Exploitation will be necessary to get the picture off the flying start, but it should be well worth all efforts."

+ Film Daily p14 S 28 '36

"When the President of the United States suggests the story, when a national magazine hires six famous name writers to put it into words, when the nation's own Ides of March are made to coincide with a bloody murder, . . .[should make] 'The President's Mystery' a boxoffice natural, if properly exploited. Learning a little heavily toward sociological propaganda at times, the picture otherwise has been handsomely introduced."

+ Hollywood Reporter p4 S 24 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p8 S 25 '36

"Well directed by Phil Rosen, with strong angles, this is in the upper Republic bracket. Estimate: okay."

+ Phila Exhibitor p37 O 15 '36

"Chief mystery about 'The President's Mystery' is why the producers attempted to improve on the Liberty magazine version. [If it] had been transferred to the screen as a mystery yarn and nothing else, Republic might have had a good thing. As it is, the feature will have a tough job getting into many single spots. By heavy selling along the lines that Franklin D. Roosevelt conceived the original idea, it may grab some good opening days but after that its draw is highly doubtful. Added drawbacks are its length and lack of marquee sparkle."

— Variety p15 O 21 '36

"Figured for timeliness, both in title and content—when it deems it as much with politics and economics as with mystery, in plot and theme—'The President's Mystery' has exploitation ammunition in the buller and national selling campaign which should more than compensate for lack of marquee names in box office bid. . . It is in many respects less a mystery than an economic dissertation, and whatever faults it has as an entertainment stem from the combination of political elements with the melodrama, and generous inclusion of over much material in effort to insure its impressiveness."

— Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 24 '36

PUT ON THE SPOT. Victory 60min S 12 '36

Cast: Eddie Nugent, Maxine Doyle. Fuzzy Knight

Director: Bob Hill

Formerly titled Rio Grande Romance, Based on a novel Rio Grande Romance by Peter B. Kyne.

See issue of June 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film under title of Rio Grande Romance.

Trade Paper Reviews

"Some original twists have been given this standard type of G-Man yarn which, with the action, romance and comedy relief, might be worked in, results in lively program fare for the double-feature houses. Family."

+ + + + + Box Office p63 O 17 '37

"Though unpretentiously produced, this is a lively little crime picture that should do well in the intermediate spots either as single or second feature. Its screenplay has been devised, and while some of its basic situations have been used frequently, yet there is a definite originality to the story brought about by twists in plot."

— Film Daily p3 O 3 '36

"G-man gets his man and a girl once more but it's done in a rather entertaining fashion. While offering nothing in names to blaze a trail toward the box office, audiences should like Eddie Nugent and Maxine Doyle."

+ Variety p17 S 16 '36

RACING LADY. RKO 59min Ju 29 '37

Director: Wallace Fox

Based on two short stories, All Scarlet by Damon Runyon and Odds Are Even by J. Robert Eren and Norman Houston. "Ann Dvorak is the owner of a one-horse self-trained stable. Seeing the publicity she gets as such, and being in the racing game for the sole purpose of promoting his automobile business, Smith Ballew buys her horse in a claiming race and pays for the privilege of sticking to her nag and he can hire her and get some of her headlines." (Hollywood Reporter)

Trade Paper Reviews

"Offering an exciting horse race finish and some appealing comedy, for its basic price, 'Racing Lady,' hampered by a weak story and a cast lacking in draw names, stands as a secondary dualer. The screenplay, based on two originals . . . seems to have been written with little regard for the better features of either or both. Fortunately, it is unproblematically less to a thrilling climax which does a lot, but not enough to lessen the yarn's inertia. . . Miss Dvorak's performance is up to standards; given only a chance to be interested in horses, her acting was necessarily restricted. Ballew is an unassuming character actor. Although he doesn't figure in more than a few sequences, his delivery is not capable.

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 D 1 '36

+ + Motion Pict Daily p17 D 2 '36

"'Racing Lady' finishes a poor second in a race with itself. Despite the fact it is based on two originals and three adapters labored over the script, the result is simply a yarn, lacking in suspense and with a love theme purely platonic and indicated from the start of the film. Ann Dvorak, Harry Carey, Berton Churchill and a colored player, Willie Best, make a gallant but vain effort to put the picture over. Smith Ballew has the romantic lead, but he is too inconvincing and his acting borders on the amateurish. Direction is nothing above average. . . 'Racing Lady' will find its best results on the lower end of a neighborhood dualer.

- Variety (Hollywood) p3 D 1 '36

RAINBOW ON THE RIVER. RKO 81min D 25 '36

Director: Kurt Neumann

Music: directors: Hugo Riesenfeld. Abe Meyer

Based on the novel Toinette's Phillip by Mrs C. V. Jamison. 'The story is . . . laid in New Orleans during World War I. The boy, Bobby, son of a wealthy family who disappeared in the war, has been raised by Louise Beavers, an ex-slave, who has done her hero's best. The boy's first love comes when he must be given up to northern relatives. These include his immensely wealthy and, of course, bad-tempered grandmother, a feminine counterpart of Fauntleroy's Earl of Dorincourt. They also include a married daughter with a child, a boy, and a girl, who are 'basking at the family millions.' (Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency D 17 '36

"It is a sentimental and amusing story. . . Fine, appealing singing by the youthful star and plenty of pathos and comedy. Family-Juvenile." + Wkly Guide D 5 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This is a grand load of entertainment. It has been shrewdly tailored to fit Bobby Breen's talents in a first-rate, funny, witty drama that wins laughter and laughter. Bobby sings a wide range of numbers and scores with each. The numbers, nine in all, range from 'Ave Maria' to 'Rainbow on the River,' a popular piece. Stephen Foster's work at its best (at least as far as film is concerned) is his best to date and he has provided numerous touches that gain laughs and tears."

+ Film Daily p7 D 5 '36

"This second Bobby Breen picture outdoes the first on many counts. It is a sentimental comedy-drama of the Fauntleroy school, plentifully interspersed with song numbers and well-packed with laughter and tears. It will have wide appeal, except among the more sophisticated, and will be especially good box office where feminine and family trade is dominant. The production is excellent throughout and reflects special credit on Edward Gross, producer in charge, for whom this is a first production assignment, and on Kurt Neumann, director, who has given the limit for heart-throbs and captured them solidly.

+ + Hollywood Reporter p3 D 2 '36

+ + Motion Pict Daily p4 D 3 '36

"Here is the very essence of sentimental drama with music, so cannily aimed at the susceptible hearts of the masses that if it is bound to click for a showman's harvest. Second of the Bobby Breen starring pictures, it will emphasize the marquee value of the silver-voiced youngster. . . Breen sings a variety of songs with superb technique and persuasive feeling. . . It is a tearful heroine in the true Hollywood tradition . . . A tearful feminine preview audience amply attested the boy's power to reach the heart."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p5 D 2 '36

RAMONA. 20th century-Fox 90min S 25 '36

Cast: Loretta Young. Don Ameche. Kent Taylor. Pauline Frederick

Director: Henry King

Music: Alfred Newman

Based on the novel of the same title by Helen Hunt Jackson. Filmed in technicolor. This is the fourth remake of the story. "[It is] the gradual unfolding of tragedy in the marriage of the girl, reared as an aristocrat, to the Indian, Alassare. Shoveling the terrible responsibility of an Indian settlement by colonizing whites in a dark chapter of California's early days." [Variety (Hollywood)]

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Loretta Young's sensitivity and loveliness make the portrait memorable. Obviously destined for popular approval, the picture can be recommended for the change from the frequent banalities of the sophisticated dramas." T. J. Fitzmorris

+ America p624 O 3 '36

"A: fine of Kind; Yr very good; C: too strong." Christian Century p1433 O 7 '36

"A picture the whole family will enjoy. Family. Adults & 14-18: excellent; 8-14: mature." Calif Cong of Far & Teachers

"Mature-family. Excellent." DAR

"The color is exquisite and will do much to make more widely known the glories of the Golden State. Family." Nat Soc of New England Women

+ Fox W. Coast Bul S 26 '36

"The story has been tampered with and it is disappointing in spite of its colorful beauty. Perhaps it is the accompanying obligato of music, too obvious, too explicit, too strident, in such a symbolic, pastoral play. Family. Am Legion Auxiliary

"Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + - Fair; + + Mediocre; -- Poor; -- Exceptionally Poor
RAMONA—Continued

"An absorbing, highly dramatic, well directed picture which will hold the interest of the entire family," S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"This film is decidedly worth seeing. Family."—Walters Uni Calendar, Los Angeles

Fox W Coast Bul O 3 '36

"A poetic and artistic achievement. Family."—Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) 30 16 '36

"Family."—Jt Estimates S 15 16 '36

"The incredible 'happy ending' is not a matter of great moment. What is memorable and arresting about the film is its pictorial beauty. The new perfected Technicolor is a joy to the eye. Suitability: adults & adolescents."—Mo Film Bul p175 O 3 '36

"The pastoral beauty of California and the picturesque costumes and action of the period are ideal subject matter for color photography and add immeasurably to the charm of this picturization. The ending seems too abrupt, promising too sudden a release for the heroine. Those familiar with the story will have to add in imagination the stops which give her ultimate contentment... It is a charming story, always fresh and always worth seeing. Adolescents, ch-18: excellent; children, 5-12: depends on maturity."—Motion Pict R p8 O 3 '36

"Some of the outdoor scenes are superb, among the best color sequences that have yet appeared. Family."—Nat Bd of R M S 16 '36

"[It] is visually so beautiful that it stands as an artistic achievement in color photography. Perfect choice in casting and landse Mark direction are important factors in making this moving story into a lovely picture. Family."—Nat Council of Jewish Women S 21 '36

"General patronage."—Nat Legion of Decency S 24 '36

"A, Y and C: excellent."—Parents' M p44 N 3 '36

"Family."—Sel Motion Pict p3 O 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Tints are much less shrill in 'Ramona' than in some of its Technicolor predecessors, but the coloring's distressful concern with realism is inclined to slow up the story... The plight of the dispossessed Indians is not brought out until just before the end of the picture resulting in a solid jam of unrelieved tragedy, in contrast to the sort of travel adventure of the earlier part."—M. E. F.

"—Boston Transcript p7 O 17 '36

"Adults."—Christian Science Monitor p13 O 10 '36

"Here are strikingly depicted the early-California injustices inflicted by the incoming whites on the Indians, with all their typical shortcomings in story and dramatic values, but these are amply balanced by the artistry of scenic backgrounds. F. Cunningham

Commonweal p20 O 30 '36

"This lovely production, done in warm Technicolor, is marked by the finely restrained direction of Henry King. It will move you in some of its dramatic moments—and move you oddly enough, because it pulls its punches." (3 stars) Beverly Hills

Liberty p36 O 24 '36

"Only one worth-while scene—the extrapopulation of the widow's widow to your lands. Mark another failure for Technicolor. Film estimate: you could do worse."—New Theatre p35 N 3 '36

"Because of the tenderness Loretta Young puts into her performance as Ramona, the girl with the impossible Indian birth, the story has an emotional quality, that is often touching. Its color, the Technicolor pictures of colors, as entertainment, the long, dull stretches, pompous speeches and lack of climax, leave much to be desired. While this picture's direction is too slowly paced, the trouble seems to lie more with the colorless adaptation and the uninspired Technicolor writing."—NY Herald Tribune p21 O 8 '36

"Technicolor's strides have been swift; too swift, it would seem, for Hollywood's story department. It seems the 'Ramona' color films, the photographic technique runs ahead of its interference. Receiving but little from its support, this Technicolor production is stopped with only a slight gain to Broadway's entertainment seekers."—F. S. Nugent—NY Times p32 O 7 '36

"Since Mr. Zanuck is a skilled student in devices fertile at the box office, I hope he will forgive me today my failure last night to find this latest Zanuck production, although it is a gallant attempt to revive a literary antique with some stirringly beautiful technicolor photography as a pulmotor, the film lags in movement and speech and is commonplace in characterization."—William Boechtel

"—NY World-Telegram p37 O 7 '36

"Increasing excellence of technicolor photography is sufficient reason for resurrecting the semi-historical heroine of Helen Hunt Jackson's novel. This picture is less unrelievedly sentimental than the original... it is an incident of the semi-historical tragedy... survives its fourth picturization thanks to a fine cast and some of the most satisfying color yet photographed."—News-Wk p29 O 17 '36

"As beautifully acted and directed as it is, I still think 'Ramona' lost more than it gained in color. A Technicolor picture is an entertaining lie to incidental business by Lamar Trotti (screen play), direction by Henry King, and acting by a fine cast, especially Wagner Script p10 S 26 '36

"It is the fourth edition of this 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' of the redskin, and a little late to do those worthy people any good. It will, though, advance the technicolor argument a healthy notch, for the effects are subdued and properly apportioned. The picture is enriched by incisive composition throughout the picture, and intelligent pacing. Unless you are an incurable black and white, you will see lots of good in this."—Stage p26 O 3 '36

"Ramona herself is half-historical, half-fictional, half-white and half-Indian, but there is nothing to offend in the production. Twentieth-Century-Fox has handled her biography. It has used the simple framework as a bitter dissertation on the traditional whiteman's methods of dealing with Indians, civilized or raw. In addition, the cameraman gets a memorable love story, a handsom technicolor picture gallery of California's southern highlands... The attempt to froth a happy ending over Ramona's widow-woods is not a major flaw. The picture is so pictorially arresting it might almost do without a story."—Time p28 O 5 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Helen Hunt Jackson's widely-read, tragic romance comes to the screen as a formidable contender for top honors among this fall's Technicolor productions. An ever popular story, intelligently adapted, superbly produced and directed, and magnificently photographed, the Technicolor version will undoubtedly demand record-establishing grosses in all of its showings. Family."—Boo-Office p55 S 12 '36

"For sheer beauty alone, 'Ramona' should win a blue ribbon... It contains scenes that are breath-taking in color and composition, living paintings with Technicolor backgrounds, and a new interpretation of the story. But 'Ramona' has everything besides—romance, tragedy, comedy, a flawless cast, direction par excellence... 'Ramona' spells box-office success for all exhibitors. It has universal audience appeal."

+ Film Daily p1 O 12 '36

"This screen in color raises the artistic status of the screen by several degrees. It will be acclaimed the most beautiful motion picture ever filmed, and for that and several other sound reasons it will be a world-wide box-office success. The famous romance of early California brings in the capitalization a poetic tragedy of deeply moving appeal and markedly unlike any conventional picture type."

+ Hollywood Reporter p12 S 14 '36

"Motion Pic Daily p6 S 14 '36

"Estimate: good."

+ Phila Exhibitor p35 S 15 '36

"Colored photography, by Technicolor and other processes, despite the steady improvements being made, is no longer such novelty as to attract attention and business on its own. Therefore it needs help in the way of scenario. 'Ramona,' as background for this latest color effort, is not much help. The next step in the development of colored photography, it would seem, would be a fitting story for its presentation."

- Variety p15 O 14 '36

"[It] comes to the screen in its gorgeous Technicolor trappings as entertainment of high order. Much charming, moving emotional appeal and finest artistry. ... Approached with infinite care and taste, supported at every turn by sound craftsmanship and pictorial beauty and unerringly keyed to genuine heart interest in playing and direction, with enough aggregate name weight to have made a failure, 'Ramona' may stand sturdily alone for any audience."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 12 '36

RANGER COURAGE. Columbia 55min O 30 '36

Cast: Bob Allen. Martha Tibbetts

Director: Spencer Gordon Bennet

A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A trite plot and uninspired acting and direction. Some exceptionally fine riding and beautiful outdoor photography serve as a support for an otherwise mediocre production. Family." E Coast Preview Committee

+ Fox Coast Bull N 7 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency N 5 '36

"Family."

Sel Motion Pic p12 N 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Second Bob Allen Western, this continues in the style set by the first. ... Fast moving, this will please the open air addicts."

+ Phila Exhibitor p49 N 15 '36

REBELLION. Crescent 60min O 27 '36

Cast: Tom Keene. Rita Cansino. Duncan Renaldo

Director: Lynn Shores

"This is the second in a series of history Westerns by Tom Keene. 'Rebellion' dramatizes a chapter in early California's history (1850) between the time of its American occupation and becoming a state, when lawless bands of Americans were seizing the haciendas of the Spanish settlers in defiance of the terms of the Guadalupe-Hidalgo treaty and Washington was too far away to protect them." (Hollywood Reporter)

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor

Trade Paper Reviews

"This justifies the additional expenditures made to put out of the Western class. It is good entertainment and can hold its own in any situation in the market for which it is designed, particularly as it possesses exploitation possibilities not to be found in the usual action film. Family."

+ Box Office p27 O 24 '36

"Taking a page from history, E. B. Derr has produced a picture that is one of the better outdoor dramas. Its historical significance makes it highly interesting, and its forceful dramatic capabilities hold hold the audience. He sides that it has enough fighting, gun-play and hard riding to please the action fans, and it also has a nice bit of comedy."

+ Film Daily p7 O 19 '36

"[It] keeps lively step with [the] first [in the series], 'The Glory Trail,' and passes it on several counts. These carefully prepared transcripts from frontier records, though made on a limited budget, is containing all the ingredients dear to the action fans, and a higher rating. They will score profitably in the secondary duals where a combination of action and factual value will count."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 O 6 '36

+ Motion Pic Daily p13 O 9 '36

REMBRANDT. London films-United Artists 8min D 4 '36

Cast: Charles Laughton, Elsa Lanchester. Gertrude Lawrence. John Bryning

Director: Alexander Korda

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Objectionable in part. Objection: Questionable dialogue and promiscuous love affairs." Nat Legion of Decency D 10 '36

"[It] often rises to unusual importance. Beautifully photographed and acted, and done with a surprisingly light touch that at the same time does not make light of its subject. Suggested for schools and libraries. Mature. Outstanding."

+ Wkly Guide D 5 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"One of those lavish and highly polished productions to which we have become accustomed from Alexander Korda. Charles Laughton is not always convincing but the extensive cast is more than satisfactory. Audits & owns people."

Christian Science Monitor p19 D 5 '36

"Mr. Laughton fills out the sagged fabric of his character any which way or which way he might, something very like inspiration. Like Rembrandt's painting, his performance improves with the passage of time. The inexorable arrog- dance of the early scenes changes somehow to a very genial and moving maturity. Miss Elsa Lanchester did Hendrikje Stoffels well though a little archly. ... Miss Gertrude Law- rence's performance was out of place at Rembrandt's 17th cen- tury Amsterdam as you would expect. The set- tings are well designed but overworked. The tragedy of such pasteboard is that it can be photographed only from one angle. 'Kermesse Houses' is excellently studied, this time by a camera, and 'Rembrandt' as a whole is a fine conception with most of the details well carried out. But, viewed as a whole, it is woefully thin and straggling.
REMBRANDT—Continued

+ — New Statesmen & Nation p727 N 14 36

"[It] is picturously engaging and filled with delightful caricatures. In attempting to celebrate the life of one of the great artists of all time, it suffers from the futility of signing its insight that characterizes nearly every attempt to dramatize creative genius. The man himself is presented as somewhat of a single entity. Less melodramatic than his other roles, this portrait of a painter is surely his slightest and perhaps one of his most successful. It is doubtless kept it from being his most popular. 'Rembrandt' is designed for the carriage trade. How it is Charles Laughton acting in a picture revolves, as indeed it should... Mr. Laughton, with his unrivalled mastery of make-up, his own impersonation of the character, and startlingly like Herr Van Rinj. His characterization mounts steadily in power, revealing a mannerisms in that fine scene where he realizes that even his pictures are no longer his own. 'Rembrandt' is certainly a dog for every discriminating moviegoer." — Eileen Creelman

+ + — N Y Sun p33 D 3 '36

"Between the two of them, Charles Laughton and James Cagney provide a great deal of fine and rich, and glowing motion picture in 'Rembrandt,' a picture signed all over with distinct Laughton's own stamping vases... 'Rembrandt' is as much Mr. Korda's greatest production to date, as it is, at once, the boldest and the best approach, as far, at any rate—in Mr. Laughton's inspired gallery of historical portraits... It is hard to say how this film is about 'Rembrandt'... most inspires one to raise these perhaps un-dignified cheers. One might list the film's courageous indifference to pronunciamento, in the cheap Hollywood sense, its surprising, rather foreign awareness of the facts of life, and its resolute hewing to a line of the individual integrity and character." — B. R. C.

+ + — N Y Times p31 D 3 '36

"Alexander Korda... gives us a distinguished and beautiful film that bears the unmistakable stamp of his genius. To the film reviewer who passes his time chronicling the merits or demerits of the countless motion picture pictures, the beauty of 'Rembrandt' presents a peculiar hazard because adjectives like 'breath-taking,' 'haunting,' and 'stirring' are of small use. No matter how admirably they may have served their purpose in describing the grandeur of other outstanding films they come to him with his works, and hackneyed when applied to 'Rembrandt.' For the tragedy in 'Rembrandt' is, in its union of light and dark, like nothing the screen has ever before achieved and is as difficult to describe in terms of categories into which Korda's Laughton's paintings or etchings... In the title role Charles Laughton does his most brilliant acting since his incomparable 'Kermesse Houses.'

+ + — N Y World-Telegram p33 D 3 '36

"Very respectable and worthy, indicating that Alexander Korda and his staff have studied the life of the great artist—Charles Laughton 'Rembrandt'. The accuracy is there throughout, and the tendency is to make the film a fine education in the life of a great man. Perhaps the picture isn't overwhelmingly exciting... Certainly 'Rembrandt' is an ambitious student rather than for those nervous types who get spots in front of their eyes whenever they aren't entertained." — John Moirine

+ + — New Yorker p310 D 5 '36

"At the end of it must be stated emphatically that the photography and the settings in 'Rembrandt' have never before been seen on the screen. Technically, then, [it] is an excellent film, but when one comes to the story, about which all the achievement has been spun, it is not easy to praise... In this picture the more real the settings become the more life and blood there are in them seems to have... The spark of vitality is missing and Charles Laughton's emotion... raises it to a levels breech but an academic interest... Nevertheless, Mr. Korda's effort is a sincere one. With a different plot it makes his company money." — Mark Forrest

+ + — Sat R p640 N 14 '36

"Reverence and a good cameraman are not enough. Mr. Alexander Korda in his latest film has chosen his most serious and heroic subject, the life of an artist, and though he is indubitably on the side of Art with a capital A against its mortal enemy, he has not himself produced a film which one can treat as a work of art. There are some good scenes... But the film is too much lack of continuity: it has no drive. Like 'The Private Life of Henry the Eighth,' it is a series of unrelated tableaux... Have they called the film reverent, but pompous, I fear, would be nearer the mark. Emotions are too obviously forced us... but the story is further that how this picture should be described, and, in spite of Mr. Charles Laughton's amazing virtuosity and Mr. Elisha Cook, Jr.'s effective Flemish impersonation (her refined voice, alas! betrays the charming unajiliness of her appearance), is it is chivalrously remarkable for the lesson it teaches: that no amount of money spent on expensive sets, no careful photograph, will attain to the same racy story line, the continuity and drive of a well constructed plot." — Graham Greene

+ + — Screen Age Nov '36

"'Rembrandt' is, and will be for a long time, the epitome of biographical cinema. This is true for one commanding reason, and several secondary reasons. Mr. Laughton has assumed, more authentically than any other screen actor we know, the characteristics of the person he is portraying... In this film there is a period recreated that encompassed one of the world's immortals; and the members of his household, no matter how small a role they play, are part of this background..." — It is a majestic portrait, this Rembrandt." — + + Stage p16 D 3 '36

"Rembrandt by Laughton is almost identical in treatment with Rembrandt by Rembrandt. This excellence of make-up is surpassed only by the merit of the picture, which is one of the year's achievements and belongs wholeheartedly with the other Dutch sets, Actor Laughton dominates Rem'brandt' giving it a life that it lacks, and that is continuity and drive of a well constructed plot," — + + Time p28 D 14 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Alexander Korda's London Films enriches the screen with a feature comprising a series of exquisite photographs of still-life scenes highlighted with stirring music and directed with imagination and a knowledge of the life of one of the world's greatest painters, Korda's direction of Charles Laughton

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
in a biographical drama should prove this a masterpiece of screen art. The story's episodic quality and tragic underlining make it the film's excellent fare for the discriminating and art lovers. Average audiences may find it dull unless accompanied by children.

"This London Films production is a Roman holiday for Charles Laughton as the greatest living living lives there ever was. It is an artistic triumph and a beautiful series of pastel studies done in the charming film's picture. As a movie entertainment for the average audience it is lacking. We contend this is not film making, that it is a rather mass entertainment regardless of its undoubted artistic attainments. That also goes for the general story structure throughout, which moves leisurely, episodically and somewhat jerkily from one episode to another, and seldom hits a real dramatic note or anything resembling action. Here is fine material for a two-reeler, but certainly not intended for over an hour of entertainment for a mass audience. America, most of whom know little about Rembrandt and care less."

"[It] is disappointing. The story... is nebulous, rambling and episodic and the screenplay fails to develop any definite dramatic interest or any convincing method. Laughton, lacking due directorial control, struggles through the superficiality of script with an obviously unconvincing and humorless. A highspot is provided, however, by his superlative rendering of numerous lengthy biblical passages."

"There is something radically original in this latest British importation—a feature film without a dory plot, a novel, too successful effort to expand a characterization into full photoplay length. Of course, there is no good reason why the screen biography of Rembrandt shouldn't be done in this manner, if Alexander Korda wants to do it contrary to the generally accepted method, but neither Korda, who directed, nor Laughton, who acted, should be too disappointed if the reception of their joint effort is something less than enthusiastic. It's a rather disjointed, somewhat dull, undramatic and humorless portrait of a very ill-tempered, imperious man who was a complex for quoting scripture. It is never exciting and, only partly believable. To the credit of Korda... it can be said to be a beautifully produced film, excellently photographed, well staged, with interesting settings of Amsterdam in the 1600s, but the fans will leave the theatre confused and somewhat disappointed. In his transition over a period of years Laughton presents a masterful job of makeup and facial and physical change... Lack of story interest and dramatic situations place the film in a niche below the best biographical pictures of the past."

"It has for core—there is scarcely any plot—the reunion of several thousand men, women and children who have been cut off from the world by the kindly doctor. For comedy basis it stresses amusing paternal rivalry between the Quintuplets, underlined by John Qualen, and Slim Summerville whose hopes of fathering the sextuplets and thus breaking the world record are dashed when only a single child arrives." Variety (Hollywood)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"This film serves to reintroduce the Dionne quintuplets at a later stage of their development. It doesn't accomplish much else... The comedy in the picture is in too many instances vulgar and clinical and wholly unsuitable for telling again. As a matter of fact, the really little entertainment value to the production unless one is interested in vital statistics and the Dionne Quintuplets..."

American p216 D 5 '36

"A: poor; Y: not very good; C: hardly." Christian Century p159 D 2 '36

"The famous babies are adorable and the comedy is aptly handled by Slim Summerville and John Qualen. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

Adults & 14-15: good. Calif Cong of Par & Tobacco

The adorable Quints are the principal reason for this picture and undoubtedly they will be its chief drawing card, but they are not an essential part of the story, "A Country Doctor." Jean Hersholt is the center of a story that is more dramatic and sophisticated than the previous one, though not entirely so heart-warming and human in its appeal. Very good. Family-mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Good." DAR

"The noted babies are before the camera longer than in their previous film and are very entertaining... Dubious comedy between Slim Summerville and the father of the Quints tends to mar this otherwise pleasant vehicle in reintroducing these interesting children on the screen. Family—especially top-notch. Council of Jewish Women Fox W Coast Bul N 28 '36

"Production values are most satisfactory. Able work by a large capable cast; Jean Hersholt very fine; with the director adding many homely touches that enhance the quality of the picture. Family."

"This picture, the second featuring the Dionne Quintuplets, is worth seeing, if for no other reason than that it shows the growth and development of these remarkable babies. The story seems a good idea, but the development leaves much to be desired. It lacks the spontaneity and humor of the former picture and the ethics are somewhat questionable. The cast is good and the picture is well produced. Mature."

"A warm-hearted story and a good show, with the Nazis taking the sight of the children as favorites as Tom Moore, Esther Ralston and Hank Mann. Family."

"This picture, which features the Dionne Quintuplets once more show themselves to be utterly charming and completely unself-conscious performers... The photoplay itself is not as sturdy as 'The Country Doctor,' but it is mildly pleasant entertainment, peopled by many of the engaging players..."

REUNION. 20th century-Fox 80min N 20 '36

Cast: Jean Hersholt, Rochelle Hudson, Helen Vinson, George (Slim) Summerville, Robert Benchley, John Qualen

Director: Norman Taurog

"It has for core—there is scarcely any plot—the reunion of several thousand men, women and children who have been cut off from the world by the kindly doctor. For comedy basis it stresses amusing paternal rivalry between the Quintuplets, underlined by John Qualen, and Slim Summerville whose hopes of fathering the sextuplets and thus breaking the world record are dashed when only a single child arrives." Variety (Hollywood)
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

REUNION—Continued

who made the earlier film so heart-warming. Five of the celebrated infants are at top form and have a comparatively large share in the entertainment. Miss Zanuck carries off some of the sentimental sequences close to the breaking point, although his performance, on the whole, is amusingly carried forward." Howard Barnes

"These charming wards of Edward VIII and Darryl F. Zanuck, the Dionne quintuplets run through the five acting the part and have an amusingly fantastic répertoire.... They bring with them, perhaps, too many stereotyped cast of grown-ups, for the truth is that 'Reunion' is pretty regrettable, as much for the superfluous adult influences on the screen as for the too frequent and too long absences of the Callender glamour girls. Of course, it is almost impossible not to have story trouble with leading ladies who are 2 years and five in number. B. R. C.

"For pleasure seekers: The most popular enter-tainers in the world, the Dionne Quintu-plets, of course, are in 'Reunion.' The ladies made their screen appearances in the film and couldn't be more charming. The story, however, is concerned with adults.... Again there is Joaquin as a small, babyish, undoubt-ably one of the startling impersonations on the modern screen.

New Yorker p31 D 5 '36

"This sentimental film is notable for giving the five little Dionnes—at the advanced age of 2—another opportunity to mind their P's and Q's to the tune of admiring 'Ohs' and 'Ahs.'

News-Wk p22 D 5 '36

"The idea of viewing a film combining the reputed cuteness of the Dionne Quintuplets was intimidating. That psychiatrists kept me in my seat, amused and contented, must be laid to the adult cast, a good story, clever di-rection, and not the persuasiveness of the Canadian cuties." Herb Sterne

+ Script p16 N 21 '36

"In 'The Country Doctor'... the famed Five were the most important characters in the story. In 'Reunion' they are incidental.... All this leaves the audience with renewed conviction that sequels are rarely as good as the first instalment.

+ Time p23 D 7 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This picture is so loaded with comedy, drama and kindness that it cannot miss. It will do landslide business on the drawing power of the stars alone—and any exhibitor who gets behind it and sells it will have to push the theatre walls back to accommodate the crowds. Family." + Box Office p29 N 21 '36

"The cute and tricky Quintuplets highlight this comedy drama. With those five tiny stars, the picture should hit strongly at the box office. They are on near the opening of the show and are again presented close to the end.... Many a good gag makes for plenty of laughter, and with the doctor straightening out the lives of a few of the visitors, things are always interesting."

+ Film Daily p9 N 13 '36

"Darryl Zanuck and his flock have achieved the seemingly impossible, producing a sequel to 'The Country Doctor,' again starring the Dionne quintets, that is as enjoyable a piece of entertainment as the first. That, of course, is saying a great deal. Reunion is the picture that should yield large returns. The new picture has something of almost everything that made the other outstandingly successful, and much besides." + Hollywood Reporter p3 N 10 '36

+ Motion Pic Daily p8 N 11 '36

"20th Century-Fox’s second Dionne quintuplets [film] should do as well or better than the first. Because the quintets are spotted twice in the picture, once for about fours minutes, again for about eight, audiences will be more satisfied. Familly audiences will like it best but the appeal is there for all." + Phila Exhibitor p31 D 1 '36

"This follow-up on the first story of the Dionne quintets is too episodic to command interest or supply suspense, but it probably will appeal in no less measure to the same class of patrons as the first. In other words, to the enthusiast. But, although the famous babies are not nearly as famous as the famous babies. Probably a light night grosser in many spots, but looks promising. For business, it is. Result is passable, thanks largely to the playing and direction.... Some women may think it all very cute, but it will not appeal to the men.

+ Variety p18 D 2 '36

"It is a cinch that any picture featuring the Dionne quintets will score heavily at the box office as did the first one to exploit these youngsters—The Country Doctor." In 'Reunion,' the five considerably grown since the release of 'The Country Doctor,' are involved in a mellow human story with homespun humor which hands any exhibitor about all he could ask of family entertainment. Everyone who saw the quintets previously will want to see them again. They are the marquee magnet, but they are supported by a splendidly trouping cast."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 10 '36

RIDE 'EM COWBOY. Universal 60min S 20 '36

Cast: Buck Jones. Luana Walters. George Cooper

Director: Lester Selander

A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A, Y and C: improbable but entertaining." Parents' M p70 S '36

"A highly improbable Western about a cow- boy who becomes an automobile racer over-night, but full of excitement and suspense and a thoroughly entertaining picture of its type. Family-Children.-Wdy Guide J1 4 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

Film Daily p12 O 8 '36

"With racing cars replacing for the most part traditional western pintos, here is an opera, however, in the best Western manner, with plenty of action and thrills. Estimate: unusual Western." + Phila Exhibitor p38 O 1 '36

RIO GRANDE ROMANCE. See Put on the spot

ROMANCE RIDES THE RANGE. Spectrum 59min S 28 '36

Director: Harry Fraser

A western melodrama. This is the first of six musical Westerns starring Fred Scott.

Trade Paper Reviews

"In addition to a pleasing romance, some fast riding and several most realistic set-tos, this first Western in a new series follows the present production trend by introducing the handsome young star, Fred Scott, to display his baritone voice to advantage. Family." + Box Office p27 O 3 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; 0 Mediocre; Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
"Audiences liking clean-cut yarns of ranch life will enjoy this feature whose story gives Fred Scott, singing western star, ample opportunity to show vocal, pugilistic and riding skill."

Film Daily p8 S 22 '36

"This film is mildly amusing program fare suitable for kiddies and dried-in-the-wool Western fans. Fred Scott is a personable chap, built especially for action films. Given a less hackneyed yarn and a little support he will undoubtedly win high favor with all patrons of action pictures."

- Hollywood Reporter p4 S 24 '36
- Motion Pict Daily p4 S 22 '36

"Scott is personable, self possessed, a pleasant singer. The picture itself is routine entertainment with usual action quota, sure to satisfy when the stuff goes. Estima's oky."

Phil'a Exhibitor p39 O 1 '36

ROSE BOWL Paramount 75min O 30 '36

Cast: Tom Brown, Eleanor Whitney, Benny Baker, William Frawley, Larry Crable

Director: Charles Barton

Based on the novel O'Reilly of Notre Dame by Francis Wallace. "The small town team in the middle west makes good locally, thanks to the playing of Tom Brown and Benny Baker and the coaching of William Frawley. At the end of the season it is headed for the Rose Bowl, but needs some national publicity to put it the running. This is secured with stories of supposed romances of the two players which also involve Larry Crable of the rival coast team. On the strength of this O'Reilly juggling if public enthusiasm the team goes to the Bowl and wins."

(Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: stupid; Y & C: insane but harmless."

Christian Century p1574 N 25 '36

"Some unique angles in football tricks and splendid pictures of the game. A thoroughly enjoyable story of college life without a single drinking scene. Good light entertainment for the family."

Am Legion Auxiliary

"Although the theme is not new, the presentation entertaining, the actors well cast and the comedy fresh and amusing. Family."

Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Good entertainment, Family."

Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Good-family." DAR

"Family." E Coast Premiere Committee

"The film could stand some cutting. Benny Baker in a secondary comedy role merely steals the show. Good family entertainment."

Nat Soc of New England Women

"The clash situations are very realistic and the players are both keen humor and cleverly appropriate repartee. Especially appealing to all lovers of this sport. Entirely free from scenes of violence. Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"Family." Mrs T. G. Winter

Fox W Coast Bul N 1 '36

"This [is] a most enjoyable picture for the family. A junior matron's Log."

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)

O 30 '36

"This is outstanding as a football picture. All the old tricks are abandoned: no blustering, hard-boiled coach, no last minute victory by a Cinderella football hero, no rah! rah! college, routine football game. One feels that if the director must know college as it is. More than that the picture is cinematically good."

The scenes are brief, but complete or suggestive of completeness, and the photography is superb."

S. M. Mullen

Pict & Family p5 N 15 '36

"This innocuous football story is lacking in originality and includes too many football games to create suspense; however the sincere acting of the young cast and refreshing that the picture will please youngsters and football fans."

Family.

Cong of Council of Jewish Women O 28 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency O 29 '36

"A. Y & C: good."

Parents' M p46 Ja '37

"Family."

Sel Motion Pict p12 N 1 '36

"Family-juvenile."

Wdy Guide O 24 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"We can't pin any posies on this pigskin epic. Family."

- + Christian Science Monitor p17 O 31 '36

"Quite entertaining. Also unusual. There is no acting in 'Rose Bowl,' just a group of clean, refreshing young Americans, attending to the usual school affairs and football, and making us see the belief that we are having a good time watching them. That is all you can hope to get out of the picture. A genuine agreement. Entertainment. You will like all the people in it."

Hollywood Spec p30 O 24 '36

"On they come, the ingenuous melodramas of the gridiron, his one has an unusually adolescent plot (Pet role star) Beverly Hills Liberty p44 N 25 '36

"The title of the New Rialto offering, fails to carry out its rosy promise. A series of scrimmage football matches culminating in the Rose Bowl game, it is perhaps ideal entertainment for the Rover boys, but will have little mental intoxication for 'thoughtful reader.' Even the producers realized that six reels of unremitting struggle with a football might fail to fire the most ardent follower of the game, and so they have injected romance. The complications with which the couple's many misunderstandings and love interests are only juvenile but become fairly unbearable."

Margaret Tazelaar

- + N Y Herald Tribune p23 D 2 '36

"It is our considered opinion, after watching the Rose Bowl-Rose Bowl contest, that the Carnegie Foundation, in its threatened new scrutiny of football conditions, should inquire into the overemphasis on pigskin puppy love at Dear Old Hollywood. The alma mater of such gridiron stalwarts as Richard Dix, Dick Arlen and Stuart Erwin should be admonished, on pain of having to give the game back to the boys, against a repetition of the current Rose Bowl scandal, the perpetrators of which have presumed to warp the eternal triangle into a pernicious pentagon."

J. H.jsc

- + N Times p45 D 2 '36

"[It is] an amiable and diverting mixture of love and football that has a certain timeliness, because of the current mystery as to who Washington's opponent will be in the annual Rose Bowl game. . . Rose Bowl [is] acceptable, if not outstanding, film fare."

William's

- + N Y World-Telegram p83 D 2 '36

"Football stories, for the most part, are clipped from the same piece of pigskin and the penetrating odor of ham invades the celluloid transparent panna. This meat is one too, can be found to orient the thundering elevens on the screen was proved a few years back when Paramount made 'Touchdown.' This isn't." Herb Sterne

- Script p10 N 21 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; + Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
ROSE BOWL—Continued

"Rose Bowl's games are not composed of matched stock-shots in the accepted current technique. Instead, they are played partly in U. S. C.'s fields, partly in the Rose Bowl, partly on a gridiron built on the Paramount tank stage. The resulting action shots are the clearest of the current football picture cycle, a verismilitude unfortunately not shared by the plot."

- Time p16 N 9 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Producer A. M. Botsford's contribution to the annual cycle of pigment pictures turns out to be a highly pleasing comedy with just enough gridiron activity to make it seasonable."

+ Box Office p27 O 24 '36

"The lighter side of intercollegiate football, of minor college life and of smalltown puppy-love affairs is the chief ingredient of this mild addition to the 1936 crop of football pictures. Though it gets away from formula on some counts and is frequently funny, it is somehow lacking in the mounting excitement and the exuberant youthfulness that is so often expected in the fall. But it will serve its purpose in neighborhood programs with doubtless satisfaction to the more youthful devotees."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 O 13 '36

"Not all football, but with a collegiate background, this is highly exploitable at this season of the year. In small towns it should do best, as lack of name strength will handicap it unless the exploitation makes up for it."

+ Phila Exhibitor p33 N 1 '36

"The celluloid it's printed on is about the newest thing to 'Rose Bowl,' a rough stock football collegiate romance picture that's just fairly entertaining. But on its own it isn't box office, nor is the cast likely to help it along much on the business end."

+ Variety p13 D 9 '36

"The 'Rose Bowl' presumably (and its civic promoters certainly hope so) is wide enough known as the spot where one of the annual post-season grid-gigantics is played to have marquee value in selling it. It flashes enough light in the drive of a youthful fresh-scrubbed college team toward intersectional glory to invite the laugh-seekers and comedy contrived to amuse the mob. By, of and for youth, it will give the laugh-seekers a diverting homoece, the better dual programs."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 13 '36

S

SEA SPOILERS. Universal 62min S 27 '36

Cast: John Wayne. Nan Grey. William Bakewell. 'Fuzzy' Knight

Director: Frank Strayer

A western adventure tale of the Coast Guard's fight against seal poaching.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: hardly; Y: fair; C: no."

Christian Century p1824 N 18 '36

"This [is an] exciting picture which will prove entertaining for the family. Too exciting for children." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Family." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; +— Fair; +— Mediocre; Poor; — Exceptionally Poor

"[It is] a good entertainment for the family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

- Fox W Coast Bul S 12 '36

"Family. The film creates admiration for the Coast Guard and gives a clear understanding of their hazardous life. Pleasing background of blue sea, adequate direction and natural, convincing acting gives this picture unusual entertainment value."

+ Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 2 '36

"Fair entertainment of its kind. Family-mature." +— Motion Pict Guide D '36

"It is a program picture of no great value but fairly entertaining of its class; adolescents, 12-16: fair; children, S-12: no value."

+— Motion Pict R p8 O '36

"Beautiful Alaskan scenery well photographed, forms an interesting background for an otherwise ordinary picture. . . Fair direction. Adults."

+— Nat Council of Jewish Women S 2 '36

"[It is a] fine portrayal of the adventures of the Coast Guard. General patronage."

+— Nat Council of Women's Clubs E 17 '36

"A, Y and C: exciting and good."

Parents' M p41 N '36

"Family, except for young children." Sel Motion Pict p6 O 1 '36

"A good adventure story with many excellent twists and situations, and of course exciting. Family-Juvenile."

+— Wky Guide S 12 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Routine story receives novelty from Alaskan setting and the fact that it gives the Marines and G-men the go-by in favor of the Coast Guard patrol. Adults & young people."

+— Christian Science Monitor p15 N 7 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Outdoor adventure in a new setting will provide good entertainment for all who like their film fare packed with action and thrills. Family." +— Box Office p35 N 7 '36

"Using colorful equipment of Coast Guard, and the traditional romance of the service to lend glamour, Universal had succeeded in turning out a first-rate entertaining picture."

+— Daily Film p7 O 24 '36

"An exciting action melodrama of the coast guard has been very nicely brought to the screen by Trem Carr for Universal, the production having what it takes for an hour of family entertainment. In the neighborhood houses and on twin bills it will rate above what is generally offered for that class of trade."

— Hollywood Reporter p3 S 26 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p3 S 12 '36

"Estimate: okey action."

— Phila Exhibitor p33 O 1 '36

"Although the U. S. Coast Guard was enrolled to turn this picture out, it is by no means a flag-waver for anybody or anything. . . Okay for the neighborhoods, and fine for the adventure circuit when coupled with another film."

+— Variety p15 O 23 '36

"A swift-moving melodrama that whips to a swell finish, 'Sea Spoilers' is an entertaining melodrama and the family trade can be spotted nicely on any double-bill. Picture has action from fade-in to fade-out, retaining audience interest without being too blood and thunderish. . . While story and dialog are nothing to write home about, the picture never falters, is loaded with good old-fashioned box office荷篮. . . That certain something that makes the neighborhood trade sit on the seat edges. This same hokem makes the [children] cheer, only this time it is the coast guard instead of the marines.

+ — Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 25 '36

SECOND WIFE. RKO 60min Ag 21 '36
Director: Edward Kelly
See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The special perils awaiting the woman who marries a widower with a son are met and overcome in this human interest document on marriage. The direction is a shade inferior, running to heavy emphasis on the more sentimental moments." T. J. Fitzmorris

+ — America p525 S 5 '36

"An improbable story fairly well acted with good production values. Adults, family, young people: matter of taste; 8-14: too intense." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"The picture gets off to a slow start, but gathers momentum, and the sequence in which David steals the guns of the bandits is quite breath-taking. There is some pleasant photography of outdoor scenes, the direction is good and the cast well chosen." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

+ — Fox W Coast Bul S 12 '36

"Fair. Adults & young adults." + — Motion Pict Guide D '36

SING, BABY, SING. 20th century-Fox 90min Ag 21 '36
Director: Sidney Lanfield
Music director: Louis Silvers
See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The picture is for the more mature and, although there are some very funny moments, there is also a touch of vulgarity. The film belongs not to the realm of art but to the cruder regions of slapstick." T. J. Fitzmorris

+ — America p501 Ag 29 '36

"The story ... is not too clearly developed. It is generously padded with songs, in themselves good, and with burlesque acts by the Ritz brothers who bring a new type of crazy fooling to the screen. This crazy atmosphere runs through the film and Adolphe Menjou is in grand form in his caricature of a famous actor. Technically the film is good. Suitability: adults & adolescents."

+ — Mo Film Bul p176 O '36

"It is a noisy farce with musical interludes, inarticulate and overplayed. While the Ritz Brothers are never and unimpressively versatile, their strident voices and grotesque dances now become exhausting. Adolescents. 12-16: no; children, 12-11. No. — Motion Pict R p7 S '36

"A and Y: mad merriment; C: mature." Parents' M p13 O '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Adolphe Menjou, who can claim the enviable distinction of never disappointing his audiences, is at the peak of his form as an overworked, alcoholic actor in 'Sing, Baby, Sing.' The picture is wild and witty, a generous load of fun, sometimes farce and sometimes straight comedy. Perhaps it might come closer to the heading of intelligent nonsense of the rougher variety. There are even moments when the effervescence humor is spiced with subtilty." Mordaunt Hall

+ — Boston Transcript p4 S 19 '36

"Adults." Christian Science Monitor p13 S 26 '36

"'Sing, Baby, Sing' slipped into town with a modesty and an absence of silliness most unlike 'Swing Time' and at once established itself as the best semi-musical of the year, miles ahead of Twentieth Century's last attempts in the genre—'Thanks a Million' and 'King of Burlesque.'" Robert Stebbins

+ — New Theatre p17 O '36

"There is some entertainment to be found in a minor item called 'Sing, Baby, Sing,' thanks especially to the comic antics of Adolph Menjou." John Mosher

+ — New Yorker p83 S 26 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Sing, showmen, sing. For here comes something called 'Sing, Baby, Sing,' a melody for the box office that will keep the ticket machines whirring for ever. It is the best thing to come along in years. The cast, story and songs combine to remove any alibi that this picture isn't entertaining, as well as an alibi to the exhibitor excuse for using another feature with it. ... Ritz Bros., long in vaudeville, make their debut in this DeSylva musical comedy, and it is worth a shot. It wouldn't do any harm for exhibitors to start in right now to sell this trio of clowns." + — Variety p16 S 16 '36

SING ME A LOVE SONG. Warner-First national 75min Ja 9 '37
Director: Raymond Enright
Music director: Leo F. Forbstein

"The story rambles through James Melton's adventures as the youthful inheritor of a great department store. In order to learn the business, he works in the music department under an assumed name and wins his way into the hearts of the employees, not to mention the heart of Patricia Ellis, who is a sheet music plugger in the store. Variety (Hollywood)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"[It is] gay and rollicking. ... The continuity is poor and the youthful lead a little stiff in his love scenes, but the excellence of the cast make it good entertainment. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"This [is] excellent family entertainment. Adult & 14-18; excellent; 8-14; little interest." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Very good, Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Family but mature for children. Good." DAR

"Improbable and rather silly, this inoffensive plot offers a vehicle for James Melton's really fine voice which deserves a much better opportunity. Family." Nat Soc of New England Women's Clubs

"This semi-musical farce [is] good light entertainment." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul O 24 '36

"A very clever and amusing comedy interspersed with unique situations and romantic song. Family." California Federation of Women's Clubs (W Coast) O 14 '36

+ — Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
SING ME A LOVE SONG—Continued
"James Melton sings very well indeed, and he is not niggardly in displaying his talents. It is the absurd comedy however which really carried the show. Seldom does one see such delightful nonsense as Hugh Herbert's pantomime in the part of Hammerehl, the shoplifter, while Walter Catlett as the floorwalker and Zasu Pitts as the salesgirl who just cannot refrain from breaking things adds substantially to the fun. Adolescents, 12-15: good; children, 8-12: yes."

+ Motion Pic t R p8 N '36

This musical comedy is entertaining film fare, Family. + Nat Council of Jewish Women O 14 '36

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency D 10 '36

"A, Y & C: entertaining."

Parents' M p16 Ja '37

"Family, but mature for children."

Sel Motion Pic t p5 N 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Thematiclly trite, directorially spotty, melodiously pleasing, photographically competent and, from the standpoint of acting, not completely successful, 'Sing Me a Love Song' emerges as a production typical of the average Warner musical comedy, one expected to achieve not more than moderate commercial success... The romance depicted between James Melton and Patricia Ellis has all the earmarks of a purely unreal article, something manufactured for a motion picture, much blame for which goes to the writers, whose work requires both characters to do things that no intelligent persons, such as they, I presume, are intended to be, would do." Allan Hersholt — Hollywood Spec p11 O 24 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Starting mildly as a light musical romance, this suddenly develops into a comedy panic when Hugh Herbert throws himself into high and exhibits every trick of the comedy trade... Melton sings excellently but acts woefully. Family."

— Box office p63 O 17 '36

"Warner's 'Sing Me a Love Song' is a musical with more comedy than music. The humorous element involving the Warner Bros, stock company will afford some draw appeal, but the ordinary story and lack of big names will be detriments, which the comedy will remove to a degree."

— Hollywood Reporter p3 O 8 '36

+ Motion Pic t Daily p8 O 9 '36

"Warner's has a grand comedy musical in 'Sing Me a Love Song.' With shrewd showmanship, producers have surrounded the personable James Melton with a cast of established trouper who build the picture into class entertainment. The film contains genuine laughs and some real uproarious comedy, plus good tunes, two of which are definitely ticketed for the hit box office. Full of gags and expert comedy work, Warner's shouldn't have any trouble selling this one to John Public." + Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 8 '36

SMART BLONDE. Warner-First national 65min Ja 2 '37

Cast: Glenda Farrell, Barton MacLane, Winifred Shaw, Craig Reynolds

Director: Frank McDonald

This is the first of a new detective series. "Glenda Farrell is Torchy Blane, a smart, flip, well characterized newspaper reporter. She works with Barton MacLane of the police detective detail. They are friendly enemies, within the limits of their affection and respect for each other. Their first adventure is to crack the mystery of the murder of a sports tycoon." [Variety (Hollywood)]

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Witty dialogue and clever acting give the picture its entertainment value. Family-mature." Am Legion Auxiliary

"The suspense, for the most part, is well sustained. Adults: good; 11-18: possibly; 8-14: no." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"The picture is so expertly acted and so smoothly directed, and has such an unexpected denouement, it is rather better entertainment than the average film of this type. Good. Adult." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Capable leads, light, amusing treatment. Mature & 14-15: Mediocre." DAR

"The usual suspense prevails throughout, although there is nothing new or original in story and treatment. Adequately cast and directed. Mature." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul N 28 '36

"The direction is consistent and convincing, the settings appropriate, the large cast satisfactory with the work of Glenda Farrell most commendable. Mature audience." + Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 17 '36

"Smart dialogue and lively action in a well directed cleverly cast murder mystery." + Nat Council of Jewish Women N 16 '36

"Adults." Nat Legion of Decency D 3 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
“Mature.”
Sel Motion Pict p7 D 1 ’36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“One of the smoothest cinematic jobs of this or any other season. As perfect an example of the talkie form as one could wish for. Direction that has not been excelled by any of the big-time directors. . . . There are laughs in Snappy dialogue, but they are in smooth-ly . . . [in] the skilfully constructed screen play, and bob up only at permissible moments without interrupting the flow of the story. McDonald gets from his players a collection of the finest performances I ever saw in a class B picture, as fine as I ever saw in a class A picture. We rate a performance by the degree of conviction it attains, whether it be comedy, drama or tragedy.”
+ Hollywood Spec p7 D 5 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Splendid performances by a cast full of convincing characters, particularly Glenda Farrell and Barton MacLane, and a mile-a-minute screen play, well devised by its authors and well directed by Frank McDonald, make this a picture which will hold up its end of the gross on any bill. Film has suspense, logical plot development and heat of all, a hat full of sparkling dialogue. Family.”
+a Box Office p23 N 25 ’36

“This is a very satisfying program offering. It has much action, fresh comedy and has been well directed by Frank McDonald. Glenda Farrell, as a newspaper woman, is an ideal choice for the title role and does excellent work.”
+ Film Daily p7 N 21 ’36

“An undistinguished murder mystery whose chief reason for being is to give Glenda Farrell, reporter, the chance to be a Detective Lieutenant Barton MacLane as she tags after him through an intricate clue-hunt. . . . The formula crime story usually with neatness if not dispatch to make an average dual offering.”
+ Hollywood Reporter p8 N 18 ’36

“Presence of Miss Farrell should help but otherwise the show has nothing to distinguish it. . . . A Warner stock feature cast contributes fair performance while Miss Farrell’s observations supply plenty of comedy. Made for the program division, it holds to that standard all through the way.”
+ Phila Exhibitor p80 D 1 ’36

“Warrant herewith launches its Adventures of Torchy Blane series to a swift, exciting and wholly entertaining start. If the successors, to co-feature Glenda Farrell and Barton MacLane, can follow the pace set by ‘Smart Blonde,’ the series is a cinch to click as acceptable diversion on any dual program and should be a profitable venture, creditable to those who broached the idea and to Bryan Foy and his staff for ex- cellent production quality.”
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 15 ’36

SMARTEST GIRL IN TOWN. RKO 60min N 27 ’36

Director: Joseph Santley

“Ann models smart clothes for photographic purposes. Helen manages the studio. For a second charmer in the series, Eric Blore, valet to the immensely wealthy young Gene Raymond, to let them use Gene’s yacht as a background. The Blore model is late and when Gene shows up he is mistaken for the missing male model and put to work.” Hollywood Reporter

+ + Excellently Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; + Exceptionally Poor

Audience Suitability Ratings

“This is merely program entertainment, momentarily enlivened by the comic resources of Helen Broderick and Eric Blore. . . . There is little novelty in the plot, and the so-called humorous situations of humor are too infrequent to do any more than slightly break the fall of the production. As far as it goes, it is adult entertainment.”
T. J. Fitzmorris
+ America p182 N 25 ’36

“A amusing, light entertainment. Family.” Am Legion Weekly

“Family.” Calif Cong of Far & Teachers

“Mature & 14-18. Good.” DAR

“Family.” Nat Soc of New England Women

“This delightful picture [is] somewhat mature for the family.” S Cali Council of Fed Church Women

“You are more than likely to be amused by its vagaries, its freshness and its youthful zip. Family.” Mrs T. G. Winter

Fox W Coast Bul N 7 ’36

“This picture [has] high entertainment value. Family.”
+ Gen Fed of Women’s Clubs (W Coast) O 25 ’36

“Adolescents, 12-16: possible; children, 8-12: no.”
Motion Pict R p8 N ’36

“Mature.”
Nat Council of Jewish Women O 25 ’36

“Y & C: amusing.”
Parents’ M p46 Ja ’37

“This picture [has] high entertainment value. Family.”
+ Sel Motion Pict p6 D 1 ’36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“There is too much talk and not enough of it funny in this picture. The last 10 minutes are hilarious but that isn’t enough in an hour-long film.”
+ Christian Science Monitor p13 N 21 ’36

“If [is] handsomely staged by RKO, nicely acted by a competent cast, and mildly amusing. . . If motion picture brains had been applied to the solution of ‘Smartest Girl,’ it would have been an exceedingly bright little comedy that any audience would accept with satisfac-tion. It is not; however, another offering which reflects Hollywood’s complete misunderstanding of the nature of its medium.”
+ Hollywood Spec p9 N 7 ’36

“Although ‘Smartest Girl in Town’ . . . has no pretensions beyond the telling of a light-hearted variation of the Cinderella theme, the result is somewhat disappointing. The dis-appointment becomes more acute when one stops to consider that the film is not without some nice inventiveness of situations and some patches of engaging dialogue and that, further, it has some really pleasant people portraying its principal roles. . . . [It is] a farce which with a little more attention on the part of all concerned could have been converted from an indifferent entertainment into something frisky and enjoyable.”
+ N Y World-Telegram X 30 ’36

News-Wk p20 N 25 ’36

“Something to put Springtime in your heart . . . an ingratiating, unpretentious romantic comedy that’s light-headed as a chorine and quite as amusing. Gene Raymond (Broderick). A trenchant lass is Helen, one who knows how to call a salty quip effectively. Her best screen chance to date for she has not only wisely tailored material but also Eric Blore as partner. Gene Raymond and Ann Sothern have heretofore found greater favor with the fans than they have with this reviewer, but now I’m able to add my applause with that of the big
SMARTER GIRL IN TOWN—Continued
brigade. . . Mediocre process stuff marts an all "round. One almost expects the production mix pedicular, trick camera lensing spoils an other wise laudable film." Herb Sterne
— N Y 14 '36
"Open telegram to able screen comedians Broderick, D lore, and Rhodes: Sincerest con dolences Stop."
— Stage p18 D '36

Trade-Paper Reviews
"Consistently entertaining and often up roarious, this contains all the ingredients that shape a romantic comedy success, with smooth acting by the principals, Ann Sothern and Gene Raymond in lovingly."
+ Box Office p31 O 31 '36
"If you wanted to pick flaws in the plausibil ities missing in this story you could find plenty, for the plot construction is stretched for the fun to be found in it, and the writers found the fun in plenty—and the result is that any audience is in for one grand hour of enjoyment and light laughter."
+ Film Daily p7 N 10 '36
"Here's a jolly, artful and glib little romantic farce that will entice everyone with its amusing views. With pictures like these RKO is setting a high standard for B product and will do itself much good."
+ Hollywood Reporter p2 O 23 '36
+ Motion Pic Daily p2 O 24 '36
"Pleasant comedy . . . [that] ought to be pleasing program. Estimate: okay."
+ Phila Exhibitor p33 N 1 '36
"[The] film hasn't enough substance to be anything beyond the duds. Picture is quite amusing in an ordinary way, however. . . Harry Jans disports as the lazy hubby of Helen Broderick. It's a negligible role made less attractive by Jans. Erik Rhodes is a thick witted baron, not altogether impressive."
+ Variety p14 N '28 '36
"The Gene Raymond-Ann Sothern combina tion in a fast, flip comedy which exhibitors generally should find to the liking of folk who want their entertainment light and easy. Just the kind of offering which will supply either the cocktail or the cordial on any well arranged dual menu."
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 23 '36

A SON COMES HOME. Paramount 75min JI 31 '36
Cast: Mary Boland, Julie Haydon, Don ald Woods, Wallace Ford. Anthony Nace Director: E. A. Drexler. See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A: perhaps; Y: doubtful; C: no."
+ Christian Century p19 O 9 '36
"Suitability: adults & adolescents."
+ Mo Film Bul p154 S 30 '36
"Fair. Adults & young adults."
+ — Motion Pic Guide D '36
"Mary Boland's ingratiating comedy is insufficient to balance inept direction which has consciously played up the insincere and im possible. Too many complicated camera front photography. Adolescents, 12-16; no children, 8-12: no."
Motion Pic R p8 S '36

SON OF MONGOLIA. Amkino 105min N 20 '36
Director: Ilya Trauberg
Mongolian dialogue film with English sub titles produced by the Soviet with native Mongolan actors, the film was the first of its kind to be produced. "Tsseen, the shepherd, rides off across the tundra to find an enchanted garden and prove himself worthy of his love to his adopted, Pho, an attractive, brooding, Mongolian princess plotting to take over Mongolia, discloses the plot during a wild scuffle in a circus and lands in the enchanted garden—in chains. With the aid of a Man churian sympathizer he worsts his enemies and makes his way back to his own country, where he describes the forthcoming attack and is cheered no end by a display of Mongolian military strength." (N Y Herald Tribune)

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"'Son of Mongolia' is the only Russian film in a year which I have been able to enjoy without reservation. Even then I was uncertain about the future of the business having to do with the introduction of Dulma's three suitors looked very much like the horseplay which has directed the recent latest films from a similar source. . . But the uncertainty was soon over. . . [It is] a film packed full of wonderful and interesting novelties, and a story distinguished by the presence everywhere in it of a vast, happy, and primordial good-natured hero. 'Son of Mongolia' is nothing but a newereal and it would still be one of the finest of current films. . . [It] however, is more than a newereal. With Tsseen Rabdan playing the role of Tsseen, and with Ilya Trauberg doing an imaginative piece of directing, it grows into something picaresque if not epic. . . [Tsseen] is one of the best actors I have ever watched, just as this is one of the best films— an Oriental entertaining if you will mind the contradiction in terms."
Mark Van Doren
+ Nation p677 D 5 '36
"Crudely made, but effectively acted, the new Soviet film 'Tsseen Rabdan,' an engaging blend of fantasy and realism. Not that 'Son of Mongolia' is not a travegale of unique and authentic richness, an amusing Far Eastern horse opera of picaresque character, and a scientifically valuable anthropological document in which the Soviet film industry may well take pride." B. R. C.
+ N Y Trib p21 N 21 '36
"After a long list of mediocre films the Soviet motion picture industry . . . begins to show signs of coming back into its own again with Tsseen Rabdan, an engaging blend of fantasy and realism. Not that 'Son of Mongolia' is to be listed among such Russian film masterpieces as Potemkin, but it does pull no punches in describing one of the tinker-box spots of the world today. . . While frankly propagandistic, it achieves its most telling points through a picaresque tale about an ignorant but heroic herdsman. His exciting and colorful adventures make the work entertaining as well as provocative, and it is a pity that it could not have been directed and photographed more expertly."
Howard Estabrook
+ N Y Herald Tribune p10 N 21 '36
"A strange film as beautifully jumbled as the political environment out of which it sprang, like a hand grenade. "Son of Mongolia' is a travegale of unique and authentic richness, an amusing Far Eastern horse opera of picaresque character, and a scientifically valuable anthropological document in which the Soviet film industry may well take pride." B. R. C.
+ N Y Trib p21 N 21 '36

A: affords unusual character study; Y: mature; C: unsuitable.
+ Parents' M p43 O '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor wish it were better. This, however, should not mitigate against the film, because it deserves to be seen as it stands,... William Boehnel

Trade Paper Reviews

"Powerful, interesting production richly endowed with incident and acting highlights. Although crude technically, film is unusual and will appeal to discriminating audiences and those interested in romantic lands of Eastern Asia, their people and political problems. While essentially propaganda against the Japanese, it is a forceful entertainment with a hearteningly strong anti-Japanese sentiment. Fact that film is first Mongolian-made feature adds to interest."

+ Film Daily p14 N 24 '36

"Picture is stretched out interminably, perhaps a third of the footage coming more under the classification of manners and customs rather than plot narrative. Some of it is interesting but not for nearly an hour and a half... This is probably just what Mongolia wants, but it's a long distance from American standards in spite of admirable direction and occasionally picturesque single sets. The subtitles are incoherent and inadequate to tell the story, such as it is."

- Variety p13 N 25 '36

SONG OF CHINA. Douglas MacLean 65min N 9 '36

Cast: Lim Cho-cho, Shang Kwah-wu, Li Shoh-shoh

Director: Lo Ming-yau

See issues of June 29 and September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film.

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"'Song of China'... conveys a great deal of information about the other side of the earth and [is] heartily recommended... [It] is most interestingly acted by Chinese." Mark Van Doren

+ Nation p677 D 5 '36

"Because it was made in the Orient, written, scored, directed, produced and enacted by Chinese, it is really interesting. Technically, it is far behind Hollywood, no better plotted or directed than the usual Russian film. It does, however, bring the Orient a little closer to us. 'Song of China' offers nothing new technically, nor will the story or acting stack up against Hollywood quickies. Its principal interest and a real one, is its camera's eye view of modern China, a land which has not heretofore bothered much about exporting its motion pictures," Eileen Creelman

- N Y Sun p23 N 10 '36

"As the prologue explains, the Chinese always have been fond of drama extolling filial piety... There's definite proof of that in 'Song of China,' which goes to several sentimental extremes in its treatment of the wayward-children theme. Still, there is something hearteningly honest about it. Sincerity, simplicity, and sincerity—they all appeal because we have been schooled to distrust such frontier qualities, we prefer to call it 'quaint.' China's technical facilities obviously are limited, and the picture shows it in its weak lighting of interiors and in its generally static quality. But the outdoor photography frequently is excellent and the performances, once we adjust our eyes to the silhouette, are eloquent enough. Whatever else you think of it, 'Song of China' has a curiosity value. On that basis primarily, and not as general entertainment, it may be recommended." F. S. Nugent

+ N Y Times p31 N 10 '36

"A group of Chinese artists, ranging in efficiency from pretty good to pretty awful, acquaint us with some of the habits and traditions of the mysterious race from which the film springs in the form and incoherent photoplay entitled 'Song of China.' More interesting as a novelty than as a drama, it tells [its] tale in a slow and stylized manner, borrowed none-too-skilfully from the Russian motion picture producers... Although I do not wish to appear inhospitable to the cinematic efforts of our Orientals friends from across the sea, I should be lax in my duty as a defender of the cinema if I failed to point out that, while the film's intentions are laudable, the results are lamentable, and that some of the complaints that may safely be made against it in slow, tedious and feeble—a flimsy counterfeit having little value either as art or as entertainment." William Boehnel

- N Y World-Telegram p29 N 10 '36

Reviewed by John Mosher

New Yorker p101 N 21 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"'Song of China' is epigrammatic and frequently quite bromidic, but, in spite of its slowness and lack of action, it is fairly interesting. As against foreign-made material. Picture will draw the art crowd, and in some centers... it should benefit good support from Chinese and possibly other Orientals."

- Variety p14 N 11 '36

SONG OF THE GRINGO. Grand national 62min N 10 '36

Cast: Tex Ritter, Joan Woodbury, Fuzzy Knight, Monte Blue

Director: John P. McCarthy

A musical western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage."

Nat Legion of Decency D 10 '36

"Family."

Sel Motion Pict p11 D 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Tex Ritter's ingratiating personality and pleasing singing voice qualify him for popularity as a western star more than his riding and fighting talents. But Action is swift, particularly at the climax, but frequent interludes are given over to cowboy ballads in which Tex has proven himself a past master. Family."

+ Box Office p29 N 21 '36

"Via radio and rodeo, Tex Ritter makes his screen debut in this song-studded Western which is also first Grand National release from producer Edward F. Finney. Based on solid story, it is well above average outdoor drama on virtually every count. Ritter's singing ability, personality and natural flair for acting indicate a future of popularity and profit for him."

+ Film Daily p7 N 10 '36

"Producer Ed Finney in his first attempt, 'Song of the Gringo' has given a little more production value than is usually found in an independent of this type and the result, a tuneful entertaining Western, should find favor with patrons enjoying horse operas."

+ Hollywood Reporter p15 N 15 '36

- Motion Pict Daily p14 N 10 '36

"Ritter's lilting songs, pleasing personality are the high spot of the picture. He's a little self-conscious, but given a good vehicle, he will capture the Western fans. This picture is a fair start."

+ Phila Exhibitor p49 N 15 '36

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; + Exceptionally Poor
STAGE STRUCK. Warner-First national 90min S 28, '36
Cast: Dick Powell, Joan Blondell, Warren William, Frank McHugh, Jeanne Madden
Director: Busby Berkeley
Music & lyrics: E. Y. Harburg, Harold Arlen
Music director: Leo F. Forbstein
See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"This one looks and sounds just like all the others you have seen—or, happily, missed.... This is, in short, only the leaden echo of an overworked musical comedy cycle. If you concentrate very hard, you will probably be able to keep this picture distinct from '42 Street' and others." T. J. Fitzmorris.

- + America p552 S 12 '36

"A and Y: inane but amusing; C: probably good."
Christian Century p1270 S 23 '36

"A trivial and stereotyped bit of backstage nonsense which attempts to be different from the usual picture of this sort by omitting the plot, which affects which such a story usually includes. The attempt is unsuccessful because the story is not of sufficient importance to interest and the disjointed manner in which it is presented discourages even the most rabid Powell-Blondell fans. Adolescents, 12-16: depends on taste; children, 8-12: no."
Motion Pict R p8 S '36

"A, Y and C: entertaining." Parents' M p13 O '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

Reviewed by Laura Eliston
Canadian M p66 O '36

"Faces familiar in previous Warner Brothers 'backstage' musical spectacles do not make this the same familiar spectacle. It's well below par."

- + Christian Science Monitor p13 S 19 '36

"'Stage Struck,' the new song and dance photoplay is so lean in comic inventiveness that its pleasant score and lively chorus numbers do no more than make a palpably false front for a formula plot. The overcrude formula of the backstage formula [is performed] in something less than entertaining fashion.

It is a dull and muddled screen musical." Howard Barnes
- + N Y Herald Tribune p10 S 28 '36

"'It's cut from the same cloth that made 'Forty-Second Street' and all the Warner musicals which followed that hit. 'Stage Struck,' however, is funnier than most of the recent ones.... This is certainly Miss Blondell's best performance in a long time. The plot is none too new.... The Warners have intruded the chorus girl role, the romantic lead, to a girl who has never been in pictures before. This is Jeanne Madden, whose eyes are the merriest on the screen, but whose high soprano voice has not been flatteringly recorded." Eileen Creelman
- + N Y Sun p29 S 28 '36

"Stage Struck ... is a backstage item: a rather moldy slice off the loaf which produced '42nd Street' in better days. ... There are a few redeeming features: The Yacht Club Boys, who have better numbers—'The Body Beautiful' and 'The Income Tax'—through which they gyrate with their usual energy and the brave pretense that they are not criminals in a lost cause. ... Miss Madden, the newcomer of the picture, is a pert little ingenue with a slight but pleasant voice, but she speaks as though she is remembering every word her elocution teacher told her." F. S. Nugent
- + N Y Times p14 S 28 '36

STARRING FOR A NIGHT. 20th century-Fox 75min Ag 28 '36
Cast: Claire Trevor, Jane Darwell, Evelyn Venable, Arline Judge, J. Edward Bromberg
Director: Lewis S. Bero
Music & lyrics: Harry Akst, Sidney Clare
Music director: Samuel Kaylin
See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The acting of all is good, especially that of Jane Darwell as Mrs. Lind. The three chorus girls are great fun and relieve the film from too much pathos. Suitability: adults & adolescents."
- + Mo Film Bul p177 O '36

"This is an appealing story. ... The dialogue rings true, and all parts are sincerely taken. Adolescents, 12-16: yes; children, 8-12: probably mature."
- + Motion Pict R p8 S '36

"A and Y: pleasant sentimental comedy; C: little interest."
Parents' M p43 O '36

STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER. Paramount 65min Ag 28 '36
Cast: Ralph Bellamy, Katherine Locke, Andy Devine, David Holt
Director: Stuart Heisler
See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A mediocre picture that may appeal to David Holt fans. Family-mature." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Good. Family." DAR

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; ++ Exceptionally Poor
“This is definitely a gangster film with harrowing scenes no child should see and unwholesome crime situations which are offensive to most adults.” Nat Soc of New England Women’s News

Fox W Coast Bul S 12 ’36

“The story is well directed with many subtle touches, and the suspense is carefully sustained. The acting all round is very good. Suitability: adults & adolescents.”

+ Mo Film Bul p155 S 30 ’36

“There are some of the faults which usually accompany melodrama, and while this is a satirical picture, it has no great merit. Adolescents, 12-16; yes; children, 8-12; too tense.”

+ Motion Pict R p8 O ’36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Adults.” Christian Science Monitor O ’36

“A sturdily constructed programmer that strikes the entertainment balance to literate scripting, compact direction and the uniformly competent work of the acting talent. Not a pretentious offering, but a thoroughly diverting one. . . A father-and-son sub-plot is handled with restraint, never toddles toward the treacle moments, does understatement effectively in presenting an undergar’s woes as he views his dad contemplating a second wife.” Herb Sterne

+ Script p11 S 26 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

“(It has) inadequate regard for costuming accuracy, a hackneyed plot about a student who loves a princess, some British accents which might make the picture for the domestic spectator. However, the old German student, folk songs which run through the picture, the new ones wittily, are very tuneful; Grete Natzlir is beautiful; technique is fair. . . This is pleasant entertainment for class audiences in metropolitan areas.”

Phila Exhibitor p53 N 15 ’36

“Operetta, ‘I Lost My Heart in Heidelberg,’ presented filmization problems that obviously weren’t overcome. Original opus had one good song, a lot of colorful costumes and some boy-girl combinations that subsequently seem pretty amateurish. On the screen the good song isn’t too well recorded, while the scenery and scenery departments muffled the colorful end. Picture furthermore is draggy throughout. Doubtful seller for the general route. Some houses, with class trade as a specialty, might make the grade after a heavy haul, but results on the whole seem doubtful.”

+ Variety p23 O 21 ’36

STUDENT ROMANCE. British international O 10 ’36

Cast: Grete Natzlir, Patric Knowles, W. H. Berry, Carol Goodner

Director: Otto Kanturek

An operetta produced in England. It is based on the Continental operetta I Lost My Heart in Heidelberg. “This new study of life in the German university features not a student prince, but a prince who meets a penniless composer, who happens to be also a student, and promptly falls in love with him, to the refrain of half a dozen melodies.” (N Y Sun)

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“There has been little tampering with operetta conventions in The Student Romance.” The unhurried exposition is given considerable color and movement by the Alt Heidelberg settings and the excursions into song are pleasant. If this sort of thing is to your liking, you will find it one of the better shows of its kind. Altogether, ‘The Student Romance’ is an effective enough reworking of familiar devices. Howard Barnes

N Y Herald Tribune p14 O 12 ’36

“(It) is an English concoction based on a Viennese humor is a good deal more English music hall comedy than Viennese, with heavy puns serving as substitute for wit. The scene is generous and melodious, marked by tinnny recording. The general atmosphere is festive, foolish and reeking with theatrical romance. . . The picture, for all its airs and graces, cannot stack up with even the second-grade musicals turned out here.” Eileen Creelman

+ + N Y Sun p14 O 12 ’36

“[It re-exhumes the tinkling bones of a theme we thought had been safely interred in the family vault of ‘Student Prince,’ ‘In Old Heidelberg’ and their many descendants. The energy has not too dulled the swift, the romance not too depressing, the comedy not too silly. Call it just a pleasant but unimportant repetition of an old, old story which has been served with equally pleasant unimportance by its cast.” F. S. Nugent

— + N Y Times p23 O 12 ’36

“The film is somewhat in the vein of ‘The Student Prince’ and probably would have resulted in another feather in the British film producer’s cap if they had been able to turn the trick. But I am bound, regretfully, to testify that their experiment in Viennese operetta is not altogether satisfactory. The plot is scene and heavy, the humor is commonplace and the singing nothing on which to bestow bouquets. . . Although it does not call for a severe spanking, it is among the least interesting of the current screen events.” William Boehnle

— + N Y World-Telegram p25 O 15 ’36

SWING TIME. RKO 100min S 4 ’36

Cast: Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers. Victor Moore. Helen Broderick. Eric Elore

Music director: George Stevens

Dance director: Hermes Pan

Music & lyrics: Jerome Kern. Dorothy Fields

Music director: Nathaniel Shilkret

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film.

Audience Suitability Ratings

“A light, frothy story which never strives to do more than entertain. Family.” Am Legion Auxiliary “Truly delightful entertainment except for the story, the basis of which is gambling presented in such a manner that the picture can be recommended only for adults.” Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

“Family.” Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs

“Excellent. Mature-family.” DAR

“This is absolutely top notch film entertainment. Family.” Nat Soc of New England Women

— + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; — + Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor
SWING TIME—Continued

"Well cast and admirably directed, this outstanding picture should provide fine entertainment for the mature audience." — S Calif Council on Film and Television.

"The production sets a swift pace and is excellent entertainment. 12-16: excellent; children: excellent." — Women's Univ Club, Los Angeles

Fox W Coast Bul O 3 '36

"Excellent for all." — Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) 3/23 '36

"Well cast and admirably directed, this outstanding picture should provide fine entertainment for the whole family. (The P. T. A. and the Interfaith Church, Women object to the over-emphasis on gambling. Best of the month. Outstanding."

+ + Nat Council of Jewish Women S 21 '36

"A, Y and C: excellent." — Parents' M p14 N '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire are still swinging up new box office records with their latest song and dance act. Family." — Chicago Science Monitor p13 S 19 '36

"It is smart, sophisticated, and suave, and it steps along at a lively rhythm. Maybe it isn't the best of the Astaire-Rogers operas. Who am I to judge? They're my weak spot and I mustn't be too hard on them. The co-stars never danced better together. In fact, 'Swing Time' is a decidedly happy event." — (3 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p35 O 10 '36

"There are two reasons I am glad I happen to be alive right now, and they are: Mickey Mouse and Fred Astaire. I think every new Fred Astaire picture might well be the occasion for dancing in the streets. ... There is even a little swing in 'Swing Time' than in the usual Astaire picture, because this one has the advantage of a book by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse, and of the presence of those two stellar old fiddlers, Helen Broderick and Victor Moore. — San Francisco Herald — ed. Life p31 N 29 '36

" 'Swing Time' is an advance on anything this team has done before, the plot better constructed, and the 'book' wonderfully witty. The only falling off is in the music ... Mr. Astaire is a better comedian than ever, dancing more marvelously, and, Miss Rogers ... swirled on his wing almost as perfectly as Adele Astaire did in the old, old days. In addition to all these virtues, this is almost the funniest film we have seen." — New Statesman & Nation p625 O 21 '36

"Next to 'Anthony Adverse,' 'Swing Time' is the most publicized and over-rated film of the new season. Excellent principals, capable comedians and absolutely no click. Negligible story and paceless direction to blame. ... The Bojangles number discloses new dance possibilities in the free countermanship of person and shadow, and makes for considerable interest." — Robert Stebbins — New Theatre p17 O 3 '36

"The grace and rhythm Fred Astaire commands for his body, the exuberance he raised, the lowly tap dance into a Terpsichorean triumph. I thought the story exceptionally amusing, the comedy consistently good, the direction spirited and lively. ... Altogether a carking show with Fred Astaire at his best." — Rob Wagner — Script p10 S 19 '36

"The jubilation that always greets the joint appearance of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers breaks loose anew at 'Swing Time.' Since Victor Moore is irreparably lost to Broadway for all time, it is some consolation to see him at his futilo best in 'Swing Time.' ... He supplies most of the bewitching fun of the picture. The Astaire-Rogers dancing is as magnificent as ever, only more so, but there's nothing spectacularly new in the terpsichorean antics they indulge in so delightfully ... Before we forget it, as if we could, the Bojangles of Harlem number is something out of a book of magic. You won't believe your eyes. Believe us, though, and go." — Stage p26 O '36

Trade Paper Reviews

" 'Swing Time' has been rolling up such large grosses around the country that even the producers are surprised. Astaire and Rogers are still the biggest box-office draw in pictures. The Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers pictures are Entertainment Plus, and after all entertainment is what the public wants. Their pictures teach no great moral lesson, nor are they arty, but they do good direction, and this is supposed to be the entertainment world."

+ Canadian Moving Pict Digest p8 S 19 '36

SWORN ENEMY. MGM 75min S 11 '36

Cast: Robert Young, Florence Rice, Joseph Calleia, Lewis Stone, Nat Pendleton

Director: Edwin L. Marin

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: good of kind; Y: doubtful; C: no." — Christian Century p1303 S 30 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Adults." — Christian Science Monitor p15 O 17 '36

"This is a minor underworld sketch. ... There's nothing very novel in this bit, except, possibly, the performance of Joseph Calleia. ... Mr. Calleia is more and more turning out to be one of the expert interpreters of the small-time village and underworld type. — John Mosher — New Yorker p99 S 19 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"The time-worn racket theme and a [bad] title militate against this Lucien Hubbard melodrama, though it should prove entertainment for most audiences once they're inside ... If overlooking the now rather trite theme of the story and its title, film has much in its favor—good performance, good direction, and a well-conceived script." — Variety p16 S 15 '36

TARZAN ESCAPES. MGM 95min N 6 '36

Cast: Johnny Weissmuller, Maureen O'Sulli-van, John Buckler, Benita Hume, Herbert Mundin

Director: Richard Thorpe

Based on the character created by Edgar Rice Burroughs. This is the third of the series. Tarzan is trapped by an unethical big game hunter in Africa in order to be placed on display in England. He escapes by calling out the telegraph who breaks his cage. His mate who was returning to England for a legacy decides to remain with him in the jungle.

Audience Suitability Ratings

*A & Y: no value; C: no."

Christian Century p574 N 25 '36

"This next episode in the highly exciting life of the white ape, Tarzan, holds many thrills, fine jungle scenery, interesting shots of African native animals, and the thread of story which delights a young audience. Family & Junior matinee."

American Legion Auxiliary

"Were it not for the prolonged death scene of Captain Fry, it could be recommended for family, otherwise adults." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"An interesting film, very well produced. Any audience." Nat Soc of New England Women

"[It] presents the rather improbable situation of the ape-man, Tarzan, and his white mate far from civilization in Africa. The terrifying sequences of the picture make it unsuitable for young children, but to the popularity of Tarzan story, this film may be rated as a family film." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"By all means, family." Mrs T. G. Winter

National News Oct 18 '35 W Coast Bu N 7 '36

"Well cast and pleasingly entertaining. Family & junior matinee."

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)

"Good. Family-mature." + Motion Pict Guide D '36

"In a picture of this kind which uses an extremely fantastic plot and an impossible hero, it seems reasonable that the picture should introduce the shocking realism of death scenes, vividly pictured in all their horrid details. As either fairy stories or adventure tales the 'Tarzan' books have a large following of children and adults who like to be transported out of the world of reality by swift action and imaginative events, but the thrill of 'Tarzan's' amazing feats do not need actual horror to increase their appeal. Several scenes in this picture unfit it for the audiences with which it should have the greatest popularity. Audience 12-16: not recommended, children 8-12: no." — Motion Pict R p10 N '36

"There are some moments of beauty, some incompetence in production. This tale of adventure: but unfortunately some gruesome deaths mar its otherwise, exceptional value as juvenile entertainment."

Nat Council of Jewish Women O 28 '36

"Too exciting for very young children." General patronage.

Nat Legion of Decency N 5 '36

"A. Y & C: good adventure story."

Parents' M p48 Ja '37

"[It is] an engrossing sequel to the Tarzan films. Family."

Sel Motion Pict p11 D 1 '36

"[It is] a thrilling and exciting adventure story. Family."

Wkly Guide O 31 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Just who the devotees of Tarzan may be is open to perplexing speculation. On the one hand, they may all be the normal persons who pass the year-old-year-old-scare test with flying colors: again they may be escapists whom the African landscape captivates, or they may be the persons who find in the fabulous conjurings of M-G-M and Edgar Rice Burroughs a sedative. In any case, the Capitol theater was thronged yesterday with spellbound patrons who laughed like children... Maureen O'Sullivan brings such conviction to her role that at any minute this reviewer feels she will break up and wave for the South Seas."

Marguerite Tazelaar + N Y Herald Tribune p23 N 20 '36

"Tarzan Escapes" was two or three years in the making. Completed at last, it emerges as a super-thriller for juveniles—and quite a lot of fun for the grown-ups, too. It's got thrills enough, this 'Tarzan,' all well-photographed, ingeniously concocted. There is real imagination in this fantasy of adventure, and plenty of humor. The excellent Miss O'Sullivan contributes many of the laughs." Eileen Creelman + N Y Sun p30 N 20 '36

"From the adult viewpoint, if there is such a thing, where Tarzan is concerned, it is Africa that really saves the picture. The flavor and the monstrous spell, the strange and horrifying beauty of the Dark Continent are all there, carefully processed and sound-tracked, to offset the comical usalitations of the ape-man... In its wealth of animal sequences, Metro lavishly propitiated the sentimentalists and zoologists, with shots of cunning lion cubs, cute fawns, &c., while withholding nothing from the lovers of savage scenes of tiger-shooting, native war dances, sacrificial ceremonies..." B. R. C. + N Y Times p29 N 20 '36

"Whatever else you may think of 'Tarzan Escapes' you'll probably be inclined to think up a lot of unkind things to say about it if you've a mind to—you'll have to admit that it makes no pretense about being something it isn't. It neither solves, nor pretends to solve anything—but simply says 'here is some good fun; take it or leave it.' Frankly, this department prefers to take it... [It is the] sort of engaging adventure-comic-strip entertainment that relatively disinterested reviewers who sometimes like to boast that the cinema has reached the age of long trousers and discretion, are not disposed to the demands imposed upon it and helps to make 'Tarzan Escapes' fun, if not art." William Braden + N Y World-Telegram p31 N 20 '36

"It satisfies all the demands made of these classics... In this particular film, considerable precedence is given Chauvin, the chimpanzees, and you shouldn't miss the cave monsters of the climax." John Mosher + New Yorker p53 N 28 '36

News-Wk p20 N 28 '36

"Tarzan Escapes' has one striking difference from its predecessor: in 'Tarzan the Mate.' Mate Maureen O'Sullivan, who once frolicked through the jungle almost nude, now wears a tunic and far more modest, though equally bathing suits. Despite the Legion of Decency, however, Tarzan's mate is still Miss Jane Parker to the whites who journey into Africa to find her... Cinemaddicts with good memories of MGM's two previous Tarzan pictures, though they may feel that they have seen 'Tarzan Escapes' before, will find it richly entertaining."

Time p41 N '30 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Here is adventure supreme. Retaining all the thrills and spectacle of the earlier Tarzan production, this sequel has true Tarzan style, lavishly produced, coherently directed story of the jungle and its ruler, Tarzan, king of the apes. The new deal of 'Tarzan Escapes' is that the juvenile audience throughout the country will be tremendous, and its drawing power for Adults also may be underestimated. Family."

Box Office p31 O 31 '36

"The latestTarzan version should be enthusiastically welcomed by its followers. It is one of the best Tarzan yet. For the [juvenile] trade especially it is great stuff, and anyone who goes for this fantastic sort of thing should be satisfied."

Film Daily p13 O 27 '36
TARZAN ESCAPES—Continued

[It has all the box office attractions of the humans and humorous treatment which gives promise of an even wider public appeal. With these pictures always popular with adolescents, foreign audiences, and with the legion of Edgar Rice Burroughs fans, the current opus will be certain to appeal to new enthusiasts wherever shown.]

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 O 24 '36

"Metro spent time, money in remaking 'Tarnaz' but the result was worth it. In the best Tarzan tradition, this is plenty hokum but it will more than satisfy folks who liked the first Tarzan outings."

+ Phila Exhibitor p33 N 1 '36

"Two years of ribbing between the last 'Tarnaz' feature and this one, has left its mark on the subject. With the constant kidding having accentuated the absurdity of the highly imaginative jungle doings, the tree-top stuff has worn pretty thin for adult consumption. Appeal of 'Tarzan Escapes' will be mostly for [the children,] and that's not likely to mean more than mediocre returns. While at first the sight of Tarzan doing everything but playing pinocchio with his beast pal was a novelty, it's not so now. Devise laughter greeted the picture too often at the Capitol and it probably will run into similar difficulty everywhere."

- Variety p14 N 25 '36

"Production has size and appearance of much care in its making. Once under way, it keeps moving with enough interesting wild animal life to tighten the interest. Smash scene is a stampede of elephants. Good sound effects heighten the illusion. Weissmuller stayed within the definition of the character which he has originated. He did one bit of very beautiful underwater swimming. Leading woman again is Maureen O'Sullivan, who looked attractive and acted with spirit."

-Texas Ranger' is answer to the question how to get the children off the streets at matinee time."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 24 '36

TATTLEER. See Here comes Carter

TEXAS RANGERS. Paramount 90min Ag 28 '36

Cast: Fred MacMurray, Jack Oakie, Joan Parker, Lloyd Nolan. Edward Ellis

Director: King Vidor

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Good entertainment for all except young children." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"Scenic beauty, spirited music and action, and historical interest combine to make good entertainment. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Good. Family-mature." DAR

"Family, exclusive of young children for whom it is too exciting." Nat Soc of New England Women

"The change of motives of the leading characters gives ethical value to picture certain to gain in popularity." S Calif Council of Federation Church Women

"Too exciting for children. Otherwise, family."

- Variety O 24 '36

"Too exciting for children. Otherwise, family.

- Variety W 20 '36

"The morals of this story are very mixed. There is a noticeable romanticization of the Bad Man; while the tactics of the supporters of law are sometimes rather doubtful. In any case Fred MacMurray, good actor though he is, can never for a moment make us believe in him as an outlaw—he simply does not look the part... The virtues of the film are its excellent photography (photography is at times too static, through overdoses of dialogue), and the vigour of the various scenes of action, comedy and sentiment, trite."

+ Mo Film Bul p177 O '36

"The picture is exceptionally well cast. The direction is energetic, skillful, with some scenic backgrounds and action, and beautifully photographed. The story is dramatic, logical, without sentimentality."

-Texas Ranger p44 N '36

"The story is neither exceptional nor new but it is far better than the usual exaggerated Western. The film is sustained wholly by the acting of the principal characters and the competent direction of Vidor."}

- Variety p28 N '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"This is not a perfect picture, but it is a perfect example of how lively and exciting a cowboy film can be when it receives the same consideration in dialogue, direction, and playing that is usually reserved for only less vigorous pictures..."

- Liberty p51 O 3 '36

"It [is] one of those pictures... which Hollywood produces so well. Everyone concerned in this picture seems to have been dealing with something he understood, if only emotionally. The result is not only vigorous but naturalistic. These characters take their place in a picture full of sweeping action, brilliantly photographed. The riding is fast, the fight scenes desperate, and none after scene reminds us that it was in depicting active adventure and simple heroism of this nature that the cinema first came into its own. The Texas Rangers, however, revives as well as reminds. It makes the screen seem no longer tiresome."

- Variety p20 N 2 '36

"Paramount wastes still another distinguished director in this one. Vidor admitted grinding it out to test his new technique. We liked Nolan's performance. Film estimate: you could do worse."

- Variety Theatre p34 N '36

"King Vidor has turned from the social problem of feeding America in 'Our Daily Bread,' to a vigilante saga of the Southwest in his latest production, 'The Texas Rangers.' To say that it is disappointing is meant only in the larger sense, for with his flair for showmanship, he naturally offers a colorful, and at times epicale canvas... Despite its great length, the result is an absorbing picture. Yet, one cannot help but wish that, with his high talent, experience, and skill, a less stereotype, even commonplace, theme might now, in the full tide of his outstanding career, flow from Mr. Vidor's camera."

-Marguerite Tazelar

- Variety Theatre p34 N '36

"'The Texas Rangers' is a Western, old-fashioned, uneven, Western but a pretty good Western at that. It is housed at the Paramount, which usually doesn't show Westerns, but now one, or two, of Vidor's films are on. Directed by Fred MacMurray and Jack Oakie, and its director is King Vidor. This combination, along with a prologue, and epilogue delivered by an invisible narrator, may have fooled Paramount into thinking the film an epic, what with its epic music, but the delivery is unfortunate. The picture, as well as the audience, would be much happier without those educational epics, which are quite unnecessary. A good Western needs no excuse, even when cut strictly to formula."

-Eileen Creelman

- Variety Theatre p26 N '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; - Exceptionally Poor
"To come right out with it, 'The Texas Rangers' is pretty mauldin stuff. Except for a brave characterization by Jack Oakie and an equally pleasing sinister one by Lloyd Nolan, 'The Texas Rangers' is simply a revival of a decade-old character sketch, generally referred to as 'cops and robbers.' Things happen in accord with one of the screen's more archaic devices.

+ — N Y Times p29 S 24 '36

'The Texas Rangers' gives us some good Indian warfare in the thorough Vidor style, and lasts two hours, but isn't really inspired, first-rate Vidor. Jack Oakie's comic antics relieve the banditry and tussling.' John Mosher
+ — New Yorker p77 O 3 '36

News-Wk p80 S 19 '36

"[It is] more, I fancy to the taste of the children and adults of to-day than the scalprings and tomahawks of the Mohicans. ... There is plenty of action and plenty of killing which are the two things people go to a Western to see; but I wish that the advent of the talkie had brought in its train a tendency to shoot off propaganda as well as revolvers." Mark Forrest
+ — Sat R p480 O 10 '36

"Mr. Vidor is one of the best of the popular directors; D. W. Griffith, a much finer artist, is the only one. But in Vidor's 'epics,' just as in Cruze's somewhat overpraised picture, 'The Covered Wagon,' the story gets in the way; they bear about as much relation to epic drama as do the huge, artless, historical novels which have been so popular recently in the United States. The story of 'The Texas Rangers,' I should add, is a great deal better than that of 'The Covered Wagon.'" Graham Greene
Spec p582 O 9 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"What appears to have been intended as an epic of the Southwest is just a fancy hoss opera. It ends in more entertainment than the average Western, but its box office potentialities are not so hot unless the film is accompanied by a vigorous exploitation campaign. For [children], however, this picture is a natural — and this is where most of its gross will probably come from. Supposedly a saga of the Texas Rangers and their part in the creation of the state, the story is not sufficiently factual and, even more important, is deficient in glorifying the pioneer police force." + — Variety p17 S 30 '36

THANK YOU, JEEVES. 20th-century-Fox 57min O 9 '36

Cast: Arthur Treacher, Virginia Field, David Niven, Lester Matthews
Director: Arthur Greville Collins

Based on the novel of the same title by P. G. Wodehouse. 'Spec' says: "Oakie has Jeeves [gentleman's gentleman] and his master involved in an intrigue for possession of plans for a new airplane, with Virginia Field popping into the picture as possessor of half the construction blueprint and Lester Matthews holding the other half.' (Variety [Hollywood])

Audience Suitability Ratings

"That this is not the repeat performance of P. G. Wodehouse, who must certainly have been more inspired during his hiliarious period on the printed page will be disappointed by his screen materialization. If the studio plans to feature this character in successive films they'll have to adhere more strictly to the author's — and please the dandy of the Englishman. This [is a] tepid farce. ... There's dandy film material in the Wodehouse stories and it is to be hoped that future picture adaptations will be granted more conversant treatment." Herb Sterne
— Script p10 O 10 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; — — Exceptionally Poor

"Family." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Good acting on the part of Arthur Treacher and some amusing comedy fail to bring alive this literary, if fair, story. Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

A mildly entertaining and decidedly confusing English farce with a liberal amount of slapstick and social satire." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Mediocre. Mature-family." DAR

"Family." Nat Soc of New England Women

"Family." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul S 26 '36

"Family." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 16 '36

"Family." J: Estimates S 15 '36

"The picture is entertaining farce-comedy, well presented. Adolescents, 12-18; children, 8-12; yes. + — Motion Pict R p6 O '36

"This picture gave little opportunity to a cast which deserved a better chance. + — Nat Council of Jewish Women S 9 '36

"An inferior version of one of P. G. Wodehouse's stories. General patronage may be expected. + — Parents' M p32 D '36

"[It is] a mildly amusing farce. Family." + — Sel Motion Pict p7 O 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Family." Christian Science Monitor O 3 '36

"If [Wodehouse] intends to view the picture, I would advise him to take along all his sense of humor. Otherwise he may pull out all his hair and see Sol [Wurtzel]. ... The Wodehouse humor would seem to be good screen material. But Sol does not think so. Apparently he feels the Jeeves stories were popular because of the velvety quality of the word 'Jeeves' for that is all Wodehouse has to offer. And for the Wodehouse humor he has substituted as laugh provokers a colored saxophone player and a boy who 성 the people's necks through his teeth. You'd just die laughin'! ... Wodehouse's valet is an ideal choice for its stories, if he can live down the pitiful thing in which he is presented first." Hollywood Spec p10 S 26 '36

"[It is] mild entertainment at best. ... The youngsters may like it, but we prefer to take our Jeeves in less active doses." F. S. Nugent
— + N Y Times p25 O 5 '36

"Wodehouse enthusiasts, who begin to chuckle at the mere mention of the name Jeeves, are in for some gay moments if they drop into the Palace this week. ... Although Thank You, Jeeves, lacks the snap and dash and humor of 'Piccadilly Jim' another cinema gem based on a Wodehouse story, it has more than its share of moments that tickle the funny bone, as 'Thank You, Jeeves' may not be Wodehouse at his most side-splitting, but it is jolly fun." William Boehm
+ — N Y World-Telegram p17 O 5 '36

"Jeeves ... has collected a large and rabid following during his years in book form. Those who have savored his hilarity or who the printed page will be disappointed by his screen materialization. If the studio plans to feature this character in successive films they'll have to adhere more strictly to the author's — and please the dandy of the Englishman. This [is a] tepid farce. ... There's dandy film material in the Wodehouse stories and it is to be hoped that future picture adaptations will be granted more conversant treatment." Herb Sterne
— Script p10 O 10 '36

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST 129
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

THANK YOU, JEEVES—Continued

"Hampered by the fact that on the screen Jeeves is seen direct rather than through the medium of his dust jacket, the motion picture "Thank You, Jeeves," though sure to disappoint Wodehouse addicts, is still a passably amusing farce."
+ + + Time p36 O 12 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Disappointing in its interpretation of P. G. Wodehouse characters, Bertie Wooster and Jeeves, and losing much of the author's inimitable subtlety, this film emerges as more or less a slapstick affair. It will please those who like that variety of comedy but will be a let-down for Wodehouse fans. Family." — Box Office p36 S 13 '36

"Except for Arthur Treacher as the valet, the writers of this screenplay did not take much from P. G. Wodehouse, creator of Jeeves, but instead attempted to turn out a comedy of general appeal with enough British flavor to preserve the identity of the original. The result is a rather mixed affair."
+ + Film Daily p5 S 17 '36

"Missing fire on almost every count, this silly and confused English farce will not get far in America where sophisticated people are less able to dual support duty where it won't matter. Compounded of alternate dashes of very British or American humor, the film is, in its chief merits lie in a few individual performances, particularly spray of bright lines and winning British satire."
+ + Hollywood Reporter p3 S 10 '36
+ + Motion Picture Daily p4 S 11 '36

"Lightweight, this hasn't even good feature names to help it. Some may like English comedian Treacher but the show will probably wind up on double features."
+ + Phila Exhibitor p36 O 1 '36

"[It is] a tidy little bit for dual use. It's sound in the department and will satisfy all around in any type of house. Clipped running time shows there were no intentions to get out of the support class, but this in no way detracts from the picture's merits."
+ + Variety p16 S 23 '36

"G. Wodehouse's gentleman's gentleman, has been turned into a flavor of burlesque mystery. He bears only faint resemblance to the author's creation but presents a kind of entertainment which more literal translation of the original might have missed for general audience... [It is] strictly neighborhood program. Probably as good as any simple boodleyn. So conceived, written and directed, it will satisfy in these less-demanding spots where the Wodehouse tales are little known."
+ + Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 10 '36

THEODORA GOES WILD. Columbia 90min N 12 '36

Cast: Irene Dunne, Melvyn Douglas, Thomas Mitchell, Thurston Hall
Director: Richard Boleslawski
Based on a short story of same title by Mary McCarthy. Irene Dunne is a New England spinster, brought up under the stern supervision of a small town by two maiden aunts. Unknown to them, she writes a daring book and goes to see the New York publishers when it becomes a great success. There she meets the illustrator of the book who writes her about her princess. She decides to show him and she does by "running wild."

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Laughingly gay, this picture is excellent entertainment for mature audiences." Am Legion Auxiliary

"This delightedly amusing farce is so well produced, so perfectly cast and so finely directed that it ranks with the very best in light adult entertainment. The subtle satire on a small New England town, its people, its church and literary club, could not possibly offend. Adults." Calif Council of Film & Television

"This picture has every element that makes for excellent entertainment for intelligent, mature audiences. It maintains a high standard for even the most insolent show development, clever dialogue, excellence of production and deftness of direction. Outstanding. Mature." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Irene Dunne proves an excellent comedienne. Mature & 14-18. Excellent." DAR

"A gay, spontaneous comedy with clever dialogue, excellent photography, good direction and a capable cast. Mature. (It is to be deplored that church people are pictured as narrow, straight-laced and gossipy.)" S Calif Council of Fed Church Women
+ + Fox W Coast Bul N 14 '36

"A highly entertaining sophisticated comedy with enough underlying pathos to give the story body and makes it able to stand dual support duty. It gives fine characterization, with Irene Dunne and Melvyn Douglas, excellent. Adults & young people." + Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 13 '36

"Columbus scores another hit. Under the brilliant directorial guidance of Richard Boleslawski the entire production emerges sparkling with humor and clever repartee. Mature." + + Nat Council of Jewish Women N 3 '36

"Objectionable in part."

N Nat Legion of Decency N 19 '36
"Mature. Outstanding." + + Sel Motion Picr p4 D 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"A genially entertaining comedy, although the situations are forced at times and many of the lines are silly without being funny. Family." — Christian Science Monitor p17 N 14 '36

"[It is] a joy, not by virtue of the strength of the story, but because it has excellent direction and clever performances. Cleverness of something the screen should have in larger doses. ... The Theodora story is a crazy sort of thing, but Boleslawski gives it to us as one of the most delightful offerings of the season." + Hollywood Spec p7 N 7 '36

"The players deserve most of the credit for the very high quality that pervades 'Theodora Goes Wild.' The Purcell conceals that define the action of the film are not exactly sturdy and the comic byplay frequently betrays a ripe age. Irene Dunne and her expert assistants have contrived to keep the brightest facets of the production turned toward you, however. Under Richard Boleslawski's light touch, they make it a generally merry if rather inconsequential frolic."
+ N Y Herald Tribune p25 N 13 '36

"When Irene Dunne escapes from both heavy drama and elaborate musical she goes the whole way. In the new feature, a gay light comedy very much to be having as much fun as her audiences. That is quite a bit of fun, too, for all the film's festivity quality. Married, given a chance at real comedy, never hesitates. ... Director Richard Boleslawski's comedy casting, topping comedy cast makes the most of every opportunity, however slight."
Eileen Creelman
+ N Y Sun p34 N 13 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; + - Exceptionally P+"
"Columbia obviously was dreaming of a distinct edition of 'Mr. Deeds Goes to Town' when it produced 'Theodora Goes Wild.' ... We must puncture the toy balloon by proclaiming that the new film is a me-too concoction of Longfellow Deeds in sound, honest, homespun humor. Although she goes wild, she also goes silly; and farce is too well worked up to the lovely shoulders of Irene Dunne. The one thing we cannot overlook about the new box office comedy is that by lowering exacting standards than those of 'Mr. Deeds,' the new film is a rollicking piece with several moments of rollicking comedy. Although there is a noticeable slackening of pace in its midcareer, it introduces a new theme and it explodes. It is perhaps one of the most delightful comedies of the season. It is a good odd it is thoroughly silly, over-taxing even Miss Dunne's ability, but the honest New England comedy of it is astringent and wholesome. The Lynn Literary Society is magnificent. F. S. Nugent

- NY Times p27 N 13 '36

"Miss Irene Dunne turns to comedy and in the frisky, hilarious and nifty film called 'Theodora Goes Wild,' turns in a gay and spirited performance that does much to make this one of the season's most distracting and tonic entertainments. Although it is an intensely artistic and imaginative piece of light entertainment, it is replete with sparkling wisecracks, literate light comedy writing and delightful situations. If you fail to enjoy its brilliant frivolity, you will show only yourself to blame." William Boehein

N Y World-Telegram p33 N 13 '36

"Don't forget gentle little Irene Dunne. She's been bright and pleasant these many days in 'Theodora Goes Wild.' This is a film for all in the mood for a good laugh. I saw it, I thought first it might turn out to be just comedy about the publicity antics of lady authors, a droll theme, but it's really about a small-town girl on a rampage. In spite of too many antique jokes, it's bright and fresh enough." John Mosher

+ New Yorker p101 N 21 '36

"Miss Dunne had a lot of expert help. The assisting cast, led by Melvyn Douglas, entered into the spirit of this adventure, and Richard Boleslawski, whose screen work is even less associated with farce than his star's, directed with a light hand. Sidney Buchman's story refurbishes some old gags, but injects twice as many new ones into a plot that has no vain hope of making sense." News-Wk p60 N 14 '36

"[It is] a lively, I might say, hilarious female version of 'Mr. Deeds Goes to Town.' I don't know how many people have seen a picture of any sort, are not surprised, bright dialogue and ridiculous situations. Chalk up another knock-out for Hollywood, Columbia," Rob Wagner

+ Script p10 N 21 '36

"Somewhere in this idea is excellent farce. The situations are not believable enough. Miss Dunne is called upon to be too kittenish too long. What we mean is, 'Theodora Goes too wild.'" Stage p18 D '36

"For cinema patrons who like rollicking farce, 'Theodora Goes Wild' amounts to a feast. It begins rolling in Red One, rollsfcik faster and more furiously from there on." Time p26 N 23 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Audiences should go wild over 'Theodora Goes Wild.' It is easy to become enmeshed in a comedia of superlative charm and ability, and its delightfully rollicking comedy is reminiscent of 'Hurry Canyon Night.' From every angle the picture is practically flawless. Family." Box Office p61 N 14 '36

"[It is] hampered by a trite plot but is a fairly entertaining comedy. Adults & young people." Sel Motion Picture p10 O 1 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; - Exceptionally Poor

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST 131

"Columbia has again produced a comedy that should be in the top grosses when the returns are in... Everyone plays well, the result is swell." Phila Exhibitor p49 N 15 '36

"A comedy of steady tempo and deepening laughter, 'Theodora Goes Wild' is certain to attract big trade and small wood-of-mouth ballyhoo. It will be a logical holdover for many downtown spots. And it should strengthen the following for Irene Dunne. Film-goers will like the skittish results which achieve a certain heller-skelter lunacy while still not stooping to stagey and illusory. It is a comic stuff, made to seem real and plausible." Variety p12 N 15 '36

"For sustained interest, rollicking comedy and a star's, 'Theodora Goes Wild' is an outstanding picture and one that should certainly do big at the box office. Whatever a good picture needs, this has. A film masterpiece from the viewpoint, it reveals Director Richard Boleslawski as a master of comedy. Irene Dunne gives a top performance in a part that was most difficult, to say the least. Melvyn Douglas, as the romantic interest, does a superb job." Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 2 '36

THEY MET IN A TAXI. Columbia 70min S 1 '36

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

A and C: perhaps; Y: good;... Christian Century p1303 S 30 '36

"The story is novelistic but not unduly sentimental or sensational; good direction, and competent acting and casting, make it pleasant entertainment. Suitability: family."

Mo Film Bul p17 O '36

"Fair. Adults & young adults." + Motion Picture Guide D '36

"It is well acted and well directed. The story moves along at a rapid pace and is pleasant light entertainment. Adolescents, 12-16: yea; children, 8-12: no interest." Motion Picture R p9 O 3 '36

"A and Y: entertaining comedy melodrama; C: doubtful." Parents' M p44 N '36

"[It is] hampered by a trite plot but is a fairly entertaining comedy. Adults & young people." Sel Motion Picture p10 O 1 '36

"They Met in a Taxi," featuring the far from distinguished efforts of Chester Morris, Fay Wray and Raymond Hatton, in a rather limp frame and shows herself one of the screen's best comedion. The picture is a triumph for its

"Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Adults." Christian Science Monitor p32 S 26 '36

"They Met in a Taxi," featuring the far from distinguished efforts of Chester Morris, Fay Wray and Raymond Hatton, in a rather limp frame and shows herself one of the screen's best comedion. The picture is a triumph for its..." New Theatre p18 O '36

"Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; - Poor; - Exceptionally Poor
MOTION PICTURE

THEY MET IN A TAXI—Continued

Trade Paper Reviews

"They Met in a Taxi" is a modest little comedy, unpleasant for solo playing but in the duals it will stand on its own. While it totes no heavy box office draft, the cast is a capable one, and that's the picture's chief asset."

+ — Variety p16 S 16 '36

THREE-CORNERED HAT. See Il cappello a tre punte.

THREE MARRIED MEn. Paramount 60min S 11 '36

Cast: Roscoe Karns, William Frawley, Lynne Oveman, Mary Brian, George Barbier, Marjorie Gateson

Director: Eddie Buzzell

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"It aims at being a pleasant little comedy rather than a tract on domestic society and, with that good intention in its favor, one must not reproce it too hardly for being funny only part of the time." T. J. Fitzmorris

+ — America p576 S 19 '36

"A: hardly; Y: not the best; C: no."

— JT Estimates S 15 '36

"A delightful domestic comedy, packed with the human element and full of situations which, though familiar, will be appreciated by many audiences. . . It is a theme in which treatment is everything and the direction is admirable. It may well give more pleasure than a much more pretentious film. Suitability: adults & adolescents."

+ — Mo Film Bul p177 O '36

"The adventures and embarrassments of newlyweds often form a basis for an amusing comedy. . . The picture is amusing of its type, but the general atmosphere seems unhoolesome; 12-16: not recommended; children, 8-12: no interest."

+ — Motion Pict R p9 O '36

"Family. . .

Nat Bd of R M S '36

"A, Y and C: poor."

Parents' M p44 N '36

"Story only fair but held together by pertinent dialogue and humorous situations, resulting in many laughs. Mature."

+ — Sel Motion Pict p7 O 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"It certainly seems as though [Dorothy Parker] has steered clear of her usual wit, for while there are undoubtedly a few good moments in the film, the sum and substance is by no means above the average of such comedies. Although it is nothing to write home about, it at least is never irritating or actually boring. Morduant Hall"

+ — Boston Transcript p6 S 18 '36

"Freshness and laughter characterize this little comedy. Possibly because the clever Dorothy Parker worked on the screen version, giving sharpness and observation to the dialogue. (2½ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p31 O 24 '36

+ — Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

REVIEW DIGEST

"Writer Owen Davis has a long memory. It stood him in good stead while preparing this yarn. . . . Okky for audiences that have laughed at the same situations for twenty years . . . and still manage to find 'em funny."

Herb Stevens

+ — Script p12 N 11 36

Trade Paper Reviews

"It is light domestic comedy of newlywed troubles nicely diverting and carries laughs."

+ — Film Daily p8 S 25 '36

"Family picture, short on names, longer on entertainment, Three Married Men' should please in small towns, on twin bills. It lacks strength for the de luxeers."

+ — Phila Exhibitor p35 15 '36

"Adept performances and succinct comedy elevate this rather simple material to the accepted box office standard. But the absence of really box office names undoubtedly will force 'Three Married Men' to get most of its coin on double programmers. Story content, while graduated for high laugh results, is a triffe too light for film to stand alone in most spots. Dorothy Parker and Alan Campbell have done elegant work in transferring the Davis story to the screen and providing sparkling dialogue."

+ — Variety p17 S 30 '36

THREE MEN ON A HORSE. Warner-First national 105min N 31 '36

Cast: Frank McHugh, Joan Blondell, Carol Hughes, Sam Levene, Allen Jenkins, Guy Kibbee, Teddy Hart

Director: Mervyn LeRoy

Based on the novel of the same title by John Cecil Holm and George Abbott. "Frank McHugh is a gentle suburbanite who writes gift-card verses for Kibbee old faithful. His secret recreation is picking winning horses, for which he has some sort of psychic gift. But he never bets. That, he believes, would spoil the trick. Falling into the hands of a gang of unfortunates, his guesses are taken seriously and the money begins pouring in. They kidnap him just as his grie of Mother's Day poetry is needed by Kibbee's printers." (Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: depends on taste; Y: better not; C: no."

Christian Century p170 D 9 '36

"[I] follows the play, with just as few scenes, just as much talk, and just as much drinking. Adults. Am Legion Auxiliary"

"Too much gambling and drinking. Adults."

Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"The blunt humor of this farce will entertain men, but it is about as jargonized as will appeal to women. Adults. Mediocre. DAI"

"A highly diverting farce, improbable but well cast and with sustained interest. Good race track scenes. Much drinking. Adults."

Nat Soc of Calif Women Women

"A doubtful comedy filled with drinking, gambling and coarse language. Waste of time. Adults." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"Adults: Mrs T. G. Winter"

Fox Film Corp West Coast Bul p33 N '36

"The humor and dialogue though crude and coarse provoke laughter and will appeal especially to men. Adults."

Calif Soc of Women's Clubs (W Coast) O 26 '36

"This is the rollicking stage play, which is equally mirth-provoking on the screen, with its free-fireめ comedy and current dialogue. . . . It is somewhat rough and alcoholic as the theme implies; men will enjoy it most. Adolescents, 12-16: better not; children, 8-12: no."

+ — Motion Pict R p8 N '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
“This rauccous comedy makes funny screen entertainment in spite of a lack of spontaneity and overtraining for comedy effects. Adults.”
+ + National Council of Jewish Women O 28 '36

“Objectible in part.”
Nat Legion of Decency N 19 '36

“A: fair—face; Y: doubtful; C: no.”
Parents’ M p46 Ja '37

“Adults & young people.”
Sel Motion Pict p11 D 1 '36

“Family. Outstanding.”
+ + Wkly Guide N 14 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Erwin Trowbridge comes to life . . . in the person of Frank McHugh. He is the harmless little fellow of ‘Three Men on a Horse,’ from which play Alex Yokel made a fortune and the chances are that the Warner Brothers will amass even a greater profit from their investment.”
+ + Boston Transcript p4 N 14 '36

“Neither as rowdy nor as funny as the stage play. [It is] a noisy film farce. Adults.”
— + Christian Science Monitor p13 N 21 '36

“‘Three Men on a Horse’ is a failure, which goes without saying. The best of the three Australian directors can’t slip. . . . The characters shout at one another throughout the entire length of the picture, and not for fun. They shout because they feel they should do it in the screen silent. . . . The main weakness of the picture is fundamental. The story premise is so weak and fraught with possibilities, but none of its possibilities is realized. That McHugh has got this picture out of his system, we confidently can look forward to his giving us something more worthy of his established ability.”
— Hollywood Spec p8 O 24 '36

“It is fast and amusing. . . . Here, we’re sure, is a farce that will arouse your laughter. We like Frank McHugh as the timid Erwin; three small-time biters are briskly done by Sam Levene, Allen Jenkins, and Teddy Hart; there is an excellent scene with Eddy Kennedy, and Joan Blondell does the very much repressed (in the screen version) ex-Follies sweetie of one of the boys.” (3¼ stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p43 D 12 '36

“Although ‘Three Men on a Horse’ carries on the Fulton Theater stage in its ninety-sixth week, there is little reason to suppose that the Strand Theater screen will be vacated by the same racetrack comedy before the new year. For the film version of the play is every bit as spightly as the original. In fact, it differs from the drama very little. . . . The picture is spiced with those same wince-making lines which have kept New Yorkers so constantly entertained on the stage. . . . Perhaps because Sam Levene and Teddy Hart, who were the original Patsy and Frankie on Broadway, lend such authority to the performance, the company of its own character, yet the entire cast falls into the hilarious stride, resulting in smooth and expertrowdiness. McHugh is as exultant as Erwin, greeting-card poet and psychic.”
Marguerite Tasselar.
+ + N Y Herald Tribune p24 N 26 '36

“Little need be said except that it is just as funny as the stage original still running at the Fulton Theater. That really should be enough. Mr. McHugh is the gifted Oiwon, a part into which he steps with such ease that it is evident Mr. McHugh is at ease as Miss Blondell, in a smaller role than usual, is also much better than usual in fact with the latter. The scenes and her employers might profitably note.”
Eileen Creelman
+ + N Y Sun p30 N 27 '36

“[It] has been converted into an acceptably rauccous film fare. . . . [It] makes for an evening, or afternoon, of hilarious and extremely improbable screen entertainment.”
B. R. C.
+ + N Y Times p39 N 26 '36

“The screen version is every bit as hilarious as the play from which it stems. . . . McHugh plays this fabulous hero for all he is worth. . . . Frankly, I despair to describe ‘Three Men On A Horse’ in wordy detail. My job is only to advise you to hop over to the theater and see it for yourself and enjoy to the full its merry, cock-eyed, and truly natured fun and the work of a fine cast.”
William Boehm.
+ + N Y World-Telegram p39 N 27 '36

“Three Men on a Horse’ is an exact and careful picture of the play, and very funny. Frank McHugh and Oiwon Olwin are both of Nobel Prize caliber, if the Nobel Prize is some day to be given cinema performers. [It is] possibly not beautiful, but certainly never a dull film.”
John Mosher.
+ + New Yorker p131 D 5 '36

“In this laugh-for-laugh and almost word-for-word transcription of the Broadway hit, Frank McHugh comes into his comic own as a writer of original ‘gussied-up card versified’ lines. . . . McHugh and Sam Levene, whom Mervyn LeRoy—producer, director—has roped together as a ‘priceless’ added ingredient of the film—snatched from the Broadway production, come close to trotting off with the picture.”
+ + News-Wk p20 N 28 '36

“Some of the funniest vernacular that was ever written was given to these two in the original and this strung volume. Frank McHugh, as Erwin, seems to be walking in his sleep, which is just what Erwin would do. . . . Anyone with the slightest appreciation for artful idioms will find it all happily recorded in this screen version. ‘Three Men on a Horse’ is still a safe bet.”
— Stage p15 D '36

“Skillfully directed by Mervyn LeRoy, adorned with the varied talents of the stars (Teddy Hart and Sam Levene), ‘Three Men on a Horse’ is more than just a very funny picture. It has the authentic lift and shuffle of that Broadway half-world whose deflated, hard-packed mirth had had no equal interpretation since the days of Lang Halford.”
+ + Time p42 N 30 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Uparious as a stage play, this emerges as only mildly amusing screen fare, chiefly because of lengthy running time, lack of action, a too-weak building of the original in background and setting, and a script that is entirely too wordy. The robust, racy lines of the legitimate production could not be transposed into this screen version, making the whole affair a rather wishy-washy transcription of a play that was characterized by outspoken heartiness.”
Family.
— + Box Office p63 O 17 '36

“[It] is a riot of fun and laughter for young and old. . . . It kept capacity houses at the Strand, in continuous fits of laughter. The cast, while not filled with exceptional box-office names, is directly riveting. . . . [It] presents the exhibitor with dozens of ways for exploitation, almost any of which will sell the picture. The ‘ Circus’ Sell is the most likely picture as one of the biggest laughs in months.”
+ + Canadian Moving Pict Digest p6 N 38 '36

“We can’t see how they can miss wherever folks want to laugh. All the comedy of the stage version has been preserved, and some new material added. It’s all new scenes. Frank McHugh does a good job as Erwin, and what he adds to this production emphasizes the laugh angle, and if you play it up that way it can’t miss at your box-office, for it is one of the naturals when it comes to the heavy guffaws.”
Film Daily p9 N 13 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; + — Mediocre; — Poor; + Exceptionally Poor
THREE MEN ON A HORSE—Continued

"The highly successful stage farce about race track gambling, here brought to the screen by Mervyn LeRoy for Warners, is raucous and rife with a moderately high laugh content that will put it over for substantial returns in many quarters. Transference of the John Cecil Holm play to the screen somehow emphasizes its manlcal absurdities and the fact that every character is a caricature and not a person with a voice. But the snappy and slangy gag-lines and the wildly farced action come so fast that there is little too to go wrong with a laugh."

+ Hollywood Reporter p2 S 29 '36
+ Motion Picl Daily p6 S 30 '36

"Warners have taken the stage hit, cast it with pulling names, presented it almost exactly as in the stage version, with the result fast comedy that will probably have a bit more appeal to men than women that ought to land in upper grosses. Estimate: winner with plenty to spare."

+ Phila Exhibitor p36 O 15 '36

"Three Men on a Horse" on celluloid is an even better laugh-grabber than its stage counterpart. They have been practically no alterations and only a few additions, and whatever was added is on the profit side. 'Three Men' looked like a natural for the screen in legit form. Now there's no doubt of it."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 2 '36

"It has much of the rowdy pungency of 'The Front Page' and preserves all the best elements from its own stage progenitor. Lines are raucy, pace is fast and the atmosphere of the screen preview, because dialog fascinates and suspense is well built, and humor springs solidly out of main situation and its diverting side issues. When 1,000 feet have been cut from first assembly, as will be done before release, picture will spring the full distance with unflagging hilarity."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 29 '36

THREE MESQUITEERS. Republic 60 min S 10 '36

Director: Ray Taylor

This is the first of a series of eight outdoor Westerns. A western melodrama involving displaced world war veterans who seek homesteads in the west.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Excellent riding helps make this a stimulating and exciting Western. General patronage."

+ Nat Legion of Decency O 1 '36

"A, Y and C: good Western."

Parents' M p44 N '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Republic introduces a new cowboy trio. "The Three Mesquiteers," in a picture that has all the earmarks of being the forerunner in a series of popular western dramas. Family."

+ Box Office p23 S 12 '36

"This is much more than a routine Western for there is a very original and graphic story that builds up a fine characterization and plenty of human interest touches."

+ Film Daily p10 O 2 '36

"First of Republic's new series of eight Westerns in which a trio of riding and shooting pals will lead, this variant of the standard formula will satisfy in the standard action spots."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 S 2 '36
+ Motion Picl Daily p25 S 5 '36

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor

THREE SMART GIRLS. Universal 84 min D 20 '36

Director: Henry Koster

"A story of three girls who fight to get the hero in America between him from marrying a fortune hunter."

+ Wkly Guide

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage."

+ Nat Legion of Decency D 10 '36

"Well directed, good photography, and highly amusing. The film is a sort of stage version, the singing of Deanna Durbin, Universal's 13-year-old singing marvel, is very fine. Miss Durbin is really the leading lady and the picture is almost a starred production. Family."

+ Wkly Guide D 5 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"To Universal must go the acclaim of the whole picture industry for the production of 'Three Smart Girls,' not because it will turn out about the best gross of the year or the month; but because of the production of a great story; not because of the great assembly of stars; but because Universal has taken a story of little consequence and, through fine writing, acting, direction, and production, has made one of the best picture of the year. The picture has scenes, dialogue, acting, with a cast of players many of them unknown but who will be plenty known after the picture gets out. The three smart girls of the picture are Deanna Durbin, Nan Grey and Barbara Reed, all newcomers, all from the Universal stock company and all certain to go places, particularly Miss Durbin, who is assuredly the greatest find of the year... [She] is one of the most astonishing personalities to come to the screen in a long time. She can act, sings gloriously and is most pleasant to look at."

+ Hollywood Reporter p2 D 1 '36
+ Motion Picl Daily p6 D 1 '36

"Favored with unusual showmanship in production, direction and story, the trio of in-genues in Universal's 'Three Smart Girls' distinguishes this as one of the outstanding and surprise pictures of the season. Without discounting the other featured players the girls will get highest critical and popular acclaim for entertainment which will delight any audience and go to anyone exhibitor. Smartly said to create initial momentum, the picture should roll up handsome grosses... Sensational is the projection of the results. Deanna, her freshness and charm, Miss Durbin, in her screen bow. With astute handling to exploit the gifts and grace displayed by Miss Barre, Miss Grey and Miss Durbin, this youngster, still in her teens, will quickly reach the film pinnacle."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 D 1 '36
TRAITOR. Puritan 53min Ag 29 '36
Cast: Tim McCoy. Frances Grant. Carl Hackett Director: Sig Neufeld
A western melodrama.

Audience Suitability Ratings
"General patronage."
Nat Legion of Decency S 10 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"Plenty of action pervades this Western in which stalwart Tim McCoy plays the role of a Texas Ranger. . . Picture will please action fans."
+ Film Daily p13 N 6 '36
+ Motion Pic Daily p8 N 5 '36

"McCoy's Westerns have been of good standard. This is no exception. Estimate: okey."
+ Phila Exhibitor p40 O 15 '36

"Not the usual Western . . . Stage-coaches are up-to-date Detroit models, haciendas have clean glass windows and cowboy garb is natty. Plenty of riding, thought in spite of the advances. Okay for a dual bill. . . Plot gets blurred toward the end which is somewhat of a letdown. Otherwise handled in even manner."
+ Variety p19 N 4 '36

TROUBLE AHEAD. Atlantic 75min S 17 '36
Director: Monty Banks
A dialogue film produced in England. "It tells of the annoyances that beset an American film idol, lured to London by an enterprising press agent to make a film for a producer who wants to make a screen star out of a blonde cutie in whom he is interested." (N Y World-Telegram)

Audience Suitability Ratings
"This trite story has a most obvious ending. General patronage."
— Nat Legion of Decency O 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews
"We hope the reciprocal trade agreements will not encourage importation of tired little productions like this. . . Gregory Ratoff does his best to save the proceedings. Family."
+ Christian Science Monitor p17 O 31 '36

"Perhaps the most completely uninspired photoplay since the early flicker days is 'Trouble Ahead,' so jarring an importation of cinematic cliches that even a fervent interpretation by Gregory Ratoff of a rôle of the sort he does best cannot save it from almost immediate oblivion."
J. T. M.
— N Y Times p26 S 21 '36

"It is a shambling and bogus little weakling too feeble to withstand Broadway competition. It adds little to the stature of British film production, and will not, I feel safe in predicting, cause any uneasiness to any candidates for the best film of the year." William Boehnel
— N Y World-Telegram p16 S 21 '36

Trade Paper Reviews
"Produced in London by Pathe, this importation is light, pleasant entertainment as program pictures go. Though never rising to its potential heights, which sounder production and sharp supervision would have attained for it in capable Hollywood hands, it has frequent moments of charm in its late sequences that effectively play upon patrons' romantic emotions."
+ Film Daily p7 O 19 '36

TUGBOAT PRINCESS. Columbia 88min O 15 '36
Director: David Selman
"The differences between two tugboat captains are settled by an orphan girl and their rivalry is changed to a friendship."
Nat Legion of Decency

Audience Suitability Ratings
"The picture is a routine job and a bit too familiar to be continuously interesting. But Walter Kelly, forsaking his Virginia judgship to go to sea provides amusing interludes, and Edith Fellows and Valerie Hobson play well."
T. J. Fitzmorris
+ — America p14 N 14 '36

"An unpretentious story . . . is told with sympathy and understanding. . . Good acting, capable direction and a simple, heartwarming story are combined in a pleasant and interesting film. Family."
E Coast Preview Committee
+ — Fox W Coast Bul N 21 '36

"General patronage."
— Nat Legion of Decency N 5 '36

"A. Y & C: fair."
— Parents' M p16 Ja '37

"Family."
— Sel Motion Pic p11 D 1 '36

Tugboat Princess. Daily Variety P 9 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

TUNDRA. Burroughs-Tarzan 78min Ag 15 '36
Cast: Del Cambre
Director: Norman Dawn
See issue of September 29, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings
"Scenically beautiful and abounding in thrilling adventure, the picture will hold the interest of the entire family. . . Many interesting scenes of wild animal life add to the educational as well as the entertainment value of the picture. Excellent for type. Family."
— Calif Fed of Business Nat Legion of Decency Women's Clubs

"Excellent for schools because of pictures of wild life though not exactly accurate as to scenes or the tundra. Family. Good. DAR

"This film has entertainment values. . . Details of Alaskan life seem at times hardly authentic but the picture is thoroughly enjoyable for the romance from beginning to end."
— Nat Soc of New England Women
TUNDRA—Continued

"Superb, realistic photography, excellent shots of wild animals in their natural habitat, and a story full of drama and suspense add to the dramatic conclusions. The picture proceeds and becomes familiar with the adventures of 'the lying doctor' and his two bear cub companions, Tom and Jerry, who are forced, by circumstances, to make a momentous decision, the action of the piece which proves alluring, it is also the really beautiful photography, so clear and natural one could almost smell the frisson in the air." Marguerite Tazelaar

N Y Herald Tribune p33 D 3 '36

"'Tundra' is not a bad film for children. It might well have been adapted from a juvenile book, perhaps one called 'The Bear Cub Twins,' or 'How Tom and Jerry Helped the Doctor Escape.' It is a good yarn, a varied story, with no pretense at acting or plot....[It consists of] a long and varied series of well photographed, well directed outdoor thrills." Eileen Creeiman

N Y Sun p33 D 8 '36

"[It] is a series of awesome glimpses of the Norwegian wilderness, which has been woven into a not too intrusive story. The producers have succeeded in producing a remarkable document of the Alaskan wilds. As the doctor, Del Cumbre's calm performance during the weeks of isolation is a welcome departure from the crazed frenzy that Hollywood usually demands of its stranded men." J. T. M.

N Y Times p31 D 3 '36

"'Tundra' has isolated moments of fine photographic beauty and others of considerable excitement. The film is, of its kind, first rate entertainment. [It] is well worth seeing." William Randel

N Y World-Telegram p33 D 3 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"As a pictorial exposition, 'Tundra' has plenty to offer, but as entertainment it proves little except that the Alaskan environment is bad land to pick out for hitch-hiking. May help on a dual bill in a pinch, though the audience is probably lengthwise and handicaps. The main actor is given miserable lines and seldom gets the opportunity to prove anything but his lengths. That Big Bear takes it all is that it fails to measure up to preceding epics of this type. It lacks sustained action; the most dramatic and thrilling episodes are left hanging in mid-air. The picture is checkful of highly improbable feats and escapes, even the splendid photography and intimate shots of wild animals fail to offset it... Production has been generously budgeted and some scenes where he stumbles onto the epidemic-swept village, with only skeletons perched in the various houses, are a ghastly and interesting novelty. As is the phoney flight with a band of dogs." + Variety p13 D 9 '36

TWO IN A CROWD. Universal 85min Ag 30 '36

Cast: Joan Bennett, Joel McCrea, Elisha Cook, Jr., Alison Skipworth

Director: Alfred E. Green

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"That the halves of a thousand dollar bill should bring two young strangers together for no more exciting adventure than a stock horse race is the cruel tragedy of this picture. In grinding it out to its last, weatherbeaten reel, the producers have spoiled forever a perfectly good idea. Thus, the race solution is wearing rather thin and has no place in credible drama." T. J. Fitzmorris

Christian Century p1343 O 7 '36

"Mediocre. Mature and 14-18." D'AR

"Family." E Coast Preview Committee

"The story drugs a great deal of the time and lacks a coherent central plot. Altogether a few of the humorous situations call for a laugh, the majority seem forced, lack spontaneity, and fall rather flat. 12-16: passable; 8-12: no." Women's Unlv Club, Los Angeles

Fox W Coast Bul S 26 '36

"An improbable story, filled with absurd complications and far-fetched situations, which is redeemed by the laughs furnished by Henry Armetta, Andy Clyde, Nat Pendleton and Donald Meek. Family," Am Legion Auxiliary

"This is a weak and unconvincing story with casts that are simply not made for laughs. Adults: good; 14-18: poor; 8-14: no." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"This well-acted and smoothly directed comedy is a well mixed formula of comedy, romance and mild excitement. Amusing, Mature," Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"A mediocre picture with an unethetical plot and too many episodes in which the comedy element is slapstick and the atmosphere generally unwholesome. Waste of time. Mature," S Calif County Fed of Women's Clubs

Fox W Coast Bul O 24 '36

"This entertaining, rather unusual comedy is enhanced by many clever situations, pleasing characterisations and good direction. Family-mature." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) O 19 '36

"A cheerful picture with a good deal of fun in it which could have been improved by cutting out some of the scenes and by developing the humour in the takes which remained. Very well acted, especially in the smaller parts. Good, clear sound and adequate photography. Suitability: family; suitable for children over 10." + Mo Film Bul p155 S 30 '36

"Adolescents 12-16: passable; children, 8-12: no." Motion Picture Review Digest
"The plot is a bit complicated which makes the story drag at times, but there are plenty of amusing situations and a light comedy touch is retained throughout, Family."

"This is an entertaining comedy, perhaps somewhat too lengthy but with a 'different' story, light, frothy dialogue and slow-moving but capable direction. A spirit of justice and fair play pervades the entire production. Family."

- Nat Council of Jewish Women O 14 '36

"A and Y: passable; C: little interest." Parents' M p44 N '36

"Family."

Sel Motion Pict p11 O 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Two in a Crowd" is rampant with whimsy, hifalutin' dialogue and incredible situations.... The horse, whose name does not appear in the cast, is easily the most competent actor, though Andy Clyde, Donald Meek and Reginald Denny, are occasionally amusing." — Boston Transcript p6 S 18 '36

Christian Science Monitor p13 S 19 '36

"Two in a Crowd" with Joel McCrea and Joan Blondell is a Runyonque idea as a starter, but it worries them thin trying to build it into a feature-length picture. ... We were almost prepared with it as we were with the interminable trailer the Warners introduced to herald the arrival of 'Anthony Adverse.'" — ET Sapont

"N Y Times p25 O 5 '36

"A typical variation of 'Broadway Bill,' 'It Happened One Night' and other films of this genre, 'Two in a Crowd' is lightweight and amiable entertainment with no great punch." William Boehnel

— N Y World-Telegram p17 O 5 '36

News-Wk p27 S 26 '36

"G-men, gangsters, show business and a horse race have all been crammed into a yarn that never develops a focal point. In an effort to include every ingredient that's ever been dubbed box office, cohesion has been replaced by structural chaos. ... Alfred Green is a talented director, but after all a man needs more than just a capable cast if he's to turn out a satisfactory film." Herb Sterne

— Script p10 O 17 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Slovenly, scenario and indifferent dialog job condemn what might have been a bright comedy to the inferior half of the duals and defeat the efforts of a number of competent players to pull a promising idea over the handicap of bad writing. ... Writing is worse than inexpert; it's clumsy." — Variety p15 O 7 '36

UNDER YOUR SPELL.

20th century-Fox 62min N 6 '36

Cast: Lawrence Tibbett, Wendy Barrie. Gregory Ratoff, Arthur Treacher

Director: Otto Ludwig Preminger

Music & lyrics: Arthur Schwartz. Howard Dietz

Music Director: Arthur Lange

"Story hinges on the activities of opera star, Tibbett, who tires of publicity as the price of fame and hides away in New Mexico, where he was born, leaving behind him a batch of contracts that his manager made. One contract in particular, entered into with a self-willed and spoiled wealthy society girl to sing at a party in order that she may win a silly bet, causes all the trouble." Variety (Hollywood)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Lawrence Tibbett's singing is the highlight of the picture. Family. Am Legion Auxiliary

"Lawrence Tibbett's voice is brilliantly recorded and Wendy Barrie is excellent in a comedy role, as is also Arthur Treacher. The story is only so good as you like Lawrence Tibbett. Family." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"This picture, weighed down by artificial situations and hackneyed plot, is wholly lacking in distinction except for the glorious singing of Lawrence Tibbett." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

FOX W COAST BUL N 14 '36

"Lawrence Tibbett is given every opportunity to display his magnificent voice in this charming but light musical comedy. Enjoyable entertainment for all but a particular treat for music lovers. Family." Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 2 '36

"Judged from the musical viewpoint, this photoplay is delightful. Mr. Tibbett uses every opportunity to sing. The story, however, is trivial and the direction lacks distinction. Nevertheless, just the one scene of Mr. Tibbett as Mephistopheles is sufficient reason for the production." S. M. Mullen

— Motion Pict & Family p5 N 15 '36

"Mr. Tibbett's voice was never better, and he shows infinite talent as a comedian. The film is one of the best of the musical productions, perhaps because it is not overloaded with fantastic selections, so often dragged in to display the singer's virtuosity. Adolescents, 12-16: good; children, S-13: yes." — Variety Pict R p10 N '36

"The glorious voice and histrionic ability of Lawrence Tibbett, and the comedy of Gregory Ratoff and Arthur Treacher cannot save this picture from mediocrity. The producers seemed overwhelming to make use of Mr. Tibbett's voice since he is such a convincing performer of otherwise very poor picture. Lawrence Tibbett dominates it from the start with his superb voice. The direction, as a whole, is rather heavy and spotty, and too much time is spent in setting the scenes. . . . Wendy Barrie's picturesque beauty and obvious artistry are wasted on a role entirely unsuited to her. . . . To the writers of the screen play. . . . goes credit for clever and spirited handling of a trite and usual theme. Given bad material to start with, they improve it with dialogue that helps to make the plot lighter and more laughed at comedy situations that got laughs from the audience every time. John Christensen—Hollywood Spec p13 N 7 '36
UNDER YOUR SPELL—Continued

"By some unaccountable mishap, perhaps the strangely inept music of Arthur Schwartz or the mediocre lyrics by Howard Dietz, perhaps the well-worn theme by Vonberg Verdi or Leoncavallo, the new Lawrence Tibbett film, 'Under Your Spell,' has been conceived to run on the limbo of a second-hand clothing store. The picture itself is not nearly as black as that fortuitous circumstance has painted it, however, Mr. Tibbett has himself so plotted it through his own personalising of his voice that as just as good an account of himself vocally, in spite of the words and music, as he did in 'Metropolitan.' His manifest weakness as a screen artist has always been his essential incongruity in the conventional 'romantic' context."—Bosley C. Crowther—N Y Times p15 N 7 '36

"It is difficult to write with any degree of persuasiveness about 'Under Your Spell' . . . because even the most casual references to its plot likely offend your sensitiveness. Even so, 'Under Your Spell' possesses a really skilful physical production, has a certain freshness and original style to energize it a considerably more entertaining photoplay than you might suspect from a brief outline of its central theme."—N Y World Telegram p15 N 9 '36

"Movies, just movies." John Mosher—New Yorker p117 N 14 '36

"Lawrence Tibbett's first picture of the year is a very different concoction from any prepared for him in the past. While allowing a dash of opera for the arial lovers among the popular baritone's fans, the producers have provided a tuneful score, a swift, light comedy to roam through, and a chance for Tibbett to be himself. . . . Heh takes to the new type of vehicle with the greatest alacrity. With the best possible cast, anyone could wish, he is both personable and humorous in the role of Lawrence Tibbett in motion pictures."—News-Wk p41 N 7 '36

"Just to hear Lawrence Tibbett sing is worth the price of about six double features, but it does seem too bad that a fellow of his standing shouldn't be provided with a better story and a superproduction. . . . This fragile story is shot in jerky sequences and directed rather unnecessarily—until the last reel where it picks up and finishes with a bang. . . . If Lawrence Tibbett ever gets a story wherein he can complete a love story without abandon, he will panor the country. . . ."—Rob Wagner—Cliff Transit p11 N 7 '36

"'Under Your Spell' represents a determined effort to sell Lawrence Tibbett, whose appeal has hitherto been limited to music lovers, to the cinemasses. . . . Instead of warmed-over grand opera, the musical accomplishment consists mainly of popular airs. Unfortunately, the unpretentiousness intended to endear 'Under Your Spell' to large numbers of cinemaddicts is not enough to ensure it a second rating on double-feature programs."—Time p37 N 16 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Lawrence Tibbett's singing voice was never more magnificent—Gregory Ratoff never came closer to stealing a picture—Arthur Treacher was never more vociferously hilarious. Tibbett battles gaily through the rest of the unimportant story. Family."—Box Office p85 N 7 '36

"Lawrence Tibbett's glorious singing gives this picture its entertainment value. In addition there is the comedy by Gregory Ratoff and Arthur Treacher. The story itself, however, is light, weighty and hardly worthy of Tibbett's talents. In foreign markets it may mean more, due to the Tibbett voice and the easy going mood maintained. . . . In covering up on the weak story he is forced to sing too often. . . . The plot's real weakness is its lack of forceful situations."—Film Daily p11 N 4 '36

"Tibbett will have more popular appeal in this, with his very good music, good singing for his attention with his singing. His voice, of course, is tops, with music lovers certain to enjoy the picture. Able support is given him by a competent cast but the result will depend entirely on the Tibbett's draw."—Picture Exhibitor p7 N 16 '36

"Featherweight musical striving to present Lawrence Tibbett in a light, racy story with results summing up on the weaker side. Flynn yarn offers slim opportunity for any histrionics, even for comedy, and singing demands don't fit in any too snugly. . . . Direction by Otto Ludwig Preminger is spotty, not overcoming any of the story's shortcomings. . . . A sturdier story would serve his direction better. This is his first really long direction task."—Variety p12 N 18 '36

"'Under Your Spell' is a decidedly well-balanced class production. While naturally aimed to capitalize on Lawrence Tibbett's voice, picture contains a down-to-earth story and fast hokum comedy, cleverly balanced to satisfy all types. . . . The production value and colorfully mounted, it should do okay. . . . Tibbett is excellent. At his very best in his sing-songs, numbers, does well in the romantic sequences and lighter comedy moments."—Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 31 '36

IAVAAN POJKE. Europa 93min O 9 '36

Cast: Edvard Person, Nils Wahlborn. Tollef Zellman, Karin Ekelund

Direction: Thure Bornemisza

Swedish dialogue film produced in Sweden without English sub-titles. Also known as Our Boy. "It is the tale of a maid seeking the father of a child who was carried by another man and when the father of the child appears, amusing situations develop." (Film Daily)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"So full of talk that it could only interest someone acquainted with the language. . . ."—Wkly Guide O 31 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; Poor; --- Exceptionally Poor
The Gen
Contrary
Canadian America.

Nat
NY
Film
•

William Boehnel

N Y World-Telegram
p20
O 14
‘36

Tade
Paper
Reviews

"It is an amusing film."

"This lengthy Swedish-made film follows
the general pattern
of pictures made in that country, excepting that it
is more tedious, more talkative
and less active than its predecessors.
Supposed two-star
Edward Per
it offers
the unapposed center
of
the spotlight as he wanders through what is basically a monologue.
At times
the audience thought other or his word-gargling
fanny,
a commendable point
in such a monotonous production."

Variety
p23
O 21
‘36

VALENTIN IS THE WORD FOR CARRIE.
Paramount
109 min
O 2
‘36

Cast:
Gladys
George.
Arlene
Judge.
John
Howard.
Dudley
Digges.
Harry Cary.
Isabel
Jewell

Director:
Wesley
Ruggles

Based on
the novel
of
the same title by Barry
Hendfled.
It
is
the story
of a woman
of no questionable morals whose life
is altered
and rejuvenated
by
the unconventional adoption
of an orphaned boy
and a girl found in a train wreck.

Audience
Suitability
Ratings

"This film
is an excellent example
of Hollywood's salvaging powers.
Contrary
to the noisy assertions
of obstructionists
and die-hards,
the process
of cleaning up has once again proved this a more aesthetically but not absolutely.
Stripped
of all that was questionable,
the touching story
of Carrie
Snyder
is there
in approaching
a depth
and sympathetic impression on
the spectator.
There
is can be no quarrel with
the treatment
of
this production,
but
the nature
of
the story makes it obviously unsuited for young audiences."

T. J. Fitzmorris

+ America p24 O 10
‘36

A: very good;
Y: unsuitable;
C:
no.

Christian
Century
p1479
N 4
‘36

An outstanding production.
Adults
&
young people.
Am Legion
Auxiliary

This dubious screen material
is presented with a poor production value which lessens its offense.
Adults: interesting;
S-18:
no."

Calif Cong
of Par
&
Teachers

"Outstanding, Mature."
Calif Fed
of Business
&
Professional Women's Clubs

"Excellent.
This
very human, engrossing picture
is difficult
to evaluate. ([It is] expertly produced, skillfully enacted, with no offensive scenes."
Sensational exploitation
in this picture would make its emotional appeal insidious;
dignified advertising will keep it acceptable for adults."

DAIL

"The
melodramatic
 Conclusion,
in which
the heroine personally directs a jail break
and receives a prison term for her part
in it strains
the story's plausibility
and definitely weakens it.
Certain fine distinctions
in ethical values make this a film
for mature audiences only."

Nat
Soc
of New England
Women

This picture provides much food for thought.
Mature.

Women's Council
of Church
Women

Fox
W Coast
Bul
S
26
‘36

"The production
is slow paced depending much on dialogue
but holds
the interest throughout,
the subject matter having been handled
in good taste at all times.
... An hour
of interesting
and thoughtful entertainment.
Mature."

Gen
Fed
of Women's Clubs
(W Coast)
S
16
‘36

"Mature."

Jt
Estimates
S 15
‘36

Reviewed
by
H. M. Le
Sourd

Motion
Pic
&
Family
p8
N 15
‘36

"Very
good.
Adults."

+ Motion
Pic
Guide
D
36

"There
is nothing
in
the treatment
to offend good taste.
..."Here
is novel
and challenging subject matter.
... The first half
of
the picture
is exceptionally well done.
The latter half
is not so.
"The initiative
and direction avoid pitfalls
of sentimentality,
and unobtrusively retain
the vigor
and dramatic flavor
of
the original.
Great performances, 12-16: unsuitable;
children,
8-12:
no."

Motion
Pic
R
p10
O
36

"Those who read
and enjoyed this popular novel will be assured that this picture
is faithful
in both theme
and flavor
to the original, baring some minor changes
in
the ending.
Able direction
may counsel
the most of a fine script with dialogue that has been good
and clever.
Adults."

+ Nat Council
of Jewish Women
S
9 ‘36

"Adults."

Nat
Legion
of Decency
O
1 ‘36

"A
&
Y: interesting
and thought-provoking
entertainment;
C:
mature."

Parents' M
p32
D
36

"Mature."

Sea
Motion
Pic
p4
O
1 ‘36

"Mature."

Wkly
Guide
O
3 ‘36

Newspaper
and Magazine
Reviews

"The first half
of
the picture
is utterly beguiling.
The youngsters are as unlike
the reality picture would suggest as could be imagined.
When
the children are grown up,
the attention
is inclined to relax.
This final series
of jail time
in Carrie's unsuccessful efforts to arrange a jailbreak are somewhat implausible.
Whatever
the vagaries
of
the plot,
however,
Miss
George keeps all Carrie's actions
on a plane
of reality."

M. E. F.

Boston
Transcript
p3
O
31
‘36

"In transferring
the story
to the screen
there
has fortunately been no attempt to change
the nature
of
the story...
Gladys
George,
who plays
the role, gives to
the truthfulness that carries it along unqualified by
the emotionalism
of
the opening scenes, into
a regeneration
of these later changes.
There
are ears
in it,
but there
is a glow
in it too, for it
is a valiant story,
and one that is well worth
a tear or two."

Laura Ellston

+ Canadian M p37
N
3 ‘36

"[It] is a sincerely moving drama, especially in
the early scenes.
Later
the film runs ground
on melodramatic
shoals.
On
the whole
a tasteful
production, thoroughly
well cast.
Adults
&
young peers.
..."

Christian Science Monitor
p15
N
7 ‘36

"There
is not enough entertainment
in
the story
to warrant
a running time
of one hour
and fifty minutes.
The leading part
is played by a starred actress, unskilled
in portraying emotions
in such an intimate medium
as
the screen.
... The book
... had an exceedingly

+ + Exceptionally Good;
+ Good; + Fair;
+ Mediocre;
+ Poor;
+ Exceptionally Poor.
VALIANT IS THE WORD FOR CARRIE—Continued

large sale owing to the charming literary style in which the story is told. This romantic film, although motion picture can not be made by such a simple method as photographing the skeleton of the tells the story of a misplaced valiant soul. A book, not its bones, that makes it popular. ... The Paramount displays more bravery than wisdom in motion picture writing. The only portions of the valiant soul, and the flesh of the fable are rich in film possibilities and they have been ably exploited in the screen. Claude Binyon has followed the original's method and he has cluttered his adaptation with unnecessary dialogue. 'Valiant Is the Word for Carrie' is such excellent and engaging entertainment for much of the time that its lack of unity and sympathy become grave faults.

Howard Barnes

+— N Y Herald Tribune p21 O 8 '36

'The words 'ponderous' or 'static' or 'cumbersome' or 'pedestrian' might very easily be substituted for 'valiant' in 'Valiant Is the Word for Carrie' through the addition of a dignified and sober dramatic transcription of the novel of the same name, its pace is so lethargic, that it destroys much of the sympathetic and understanding treatment that the director and star have brought to the interpretation of character. Despite the sincerity of Wesley Ruggles' direction, 'Valiant' is only a fair to middling film. William Bozick

+— N Y World-Telegram p33 O 8 '36

Reviewed by John Mosher
New Yorker p95 O 17 '36

'Carrie' makes great demands; Miss George troups to such advantage that she is able to dominate every split-second of the hour-and-

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor

fifty-minute unrelenting. The Breen office, surprisingly enough, permitted this adventure of a fancy lady to pass its portals with fewer extractions than usual. Claude Binyon's adaptation job is smooth; the dialogue has naturalness, ably entices poignancy from the heart in honest style. It is a fine thing to see Wesley Ruggles' good taste in handling a subject considerable in essence, but did not seem quite up to the task of a pictures with strong emotional appeal. I do not mean that it is not worth seeing.'

Hollywood Spec p11 S 26 '36

'Miss George will win you as the ex-careless Carrie here as definitely as Belle Bennett won you in 'Stella Dallas.' There is only complaint against this portrayal of valiant spirit. And it is long. '(3½ stars) Beverly Hills
Liberty p43 O 22 '36

'A progression of heroic heart-tugs. In the opening sequences of the film and in his direction of John Wray, Wesley Ruggles displays a talent for harnessed realism that is thoroughly wasted in light of the deluge of cheap emotionalism that follows. Film estimate: you'll love it or despise it.'

+— New Theatre p34 N '36

'There is enough material for at least three screen dramas in 'Valiant Is the Word for Carrie.' The original is a whole length. The only portions of the fable are rich in film possibilities and they have been ably exploited in the screen. Claude Binyon has followed the original's method and he has cluttered his adaptation with unnecessary dialogue. 'Valiant Is the Word for Carrie' is such excellent and engaging entertainment for much of the time that its lack of unity and sympathy become grave faults.

Howard Barnes

+— N Y Herald Tribune p21 O 8 '36

'This is a surprisingly tender and quiet tale, set very definitely in a mood probably taken from the sudden flash of melodrama at the end is the only unconvincing moment of the whole film. ... 'Valiant is the Word for Carrie' is well made, intelligent and sympathetic.' Eileen Creelman

+— N Y Sun p19 O 8 '36

'The cold, harsh, critical opinion is that the number in the title adds up to two hours, or about thirty minutes overtime for a truly effective presentation of the story rested in the simplicity, tenderness and wisdom of its earlier scenes. ... After such a start to the proceedings, we cannot avoid a feeling of disappointment when the picture treats of the family's problems after the children reach maturity in the story. The misfortune is that 'valiant' is only one of the words for 'Carrie'; another would be 'dis-proportionate.' The picture takes too long, although doing it well, to introduce a little which is not well done at all.' F. S. Nugent

p7 O 8 '36

'The words 'ponderous' or 'static' or 'cumbersome' or 'pedestrian' might very easily be substituted for 'valiant' in 'Valiant Is the Word for Carrie' through the addition of a dignified and sober dramatic transcription of the novel of the same name, its pace is so lethargic, that it destroys much of the sympathetic and understanding treatment that the director and star have brought to the interpretation of character. Despite the sincerity of Wesley Ruggles' direction, 'Valiant' is only a fair to middling film. William Bozick

+— N Y World-Telegram p33 O 8 '36

Reviewed by John Mosher
New Yorker p95 O 17 '36

'Carrie' makes great demands; Miss George troups to such advantage that she is able to dominate every split-second of the hour-and-production standpoint highly commendable and dependable entertainment. ‘Valiant is the Word for Carrie’ is in its own right and its exploitation possible only off the season’s standout pictures... [It] is an offering of fine emotional appeal and impeccable character from a tale which has been lifted from films only [because of] Ruggles’ intelligence and courage.” Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 18 ’36

W

WALKING ON AIR. RKO 65min S 11 ’36
Cast: Gene Raymond, Ann Sotherton, Jessie Ralph, Henry Stephenson
Director: Joseph Santley
Music & lyrics: Bert Kalmar, Sid Silvers.
Music director: Nathaniel Shilkret
See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

“The only variations on an old theme are provided by the radio setting and by the method adopted to prevent the marriage, which is too ridiculous to be funny, and by the songs which are tuneful and well rendered, the acting is not subtle, but it is adequate to the demands of the story, and pleasant music runs through the film. These and the good technical qualities cannot conceal the commonplaces of the story, but they make it possible to accept them again. Suitability: family.” Variety p17 S 18 ’36

“innocent farce comedy concerning a wilful girl whose father tries to prevent an unsuitable marriage. Each tries to outwit the other, and the ensuing entanglements and absurdities combined with rather attractive music make acceptable entertainment of the lighter type. Adolscents, 12-16: good; children, 8-12: unobjectionable.” + Motion Pict R p8 S ’36

“A Y and C: gay comedy with music.” Parents’ M p11 N ’36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

Time p26 S 21 ’36

Trade Paper Reviews

“Thick plot and uninspired writing make this a risk as a solo, but it can hold its own on a dual bill in good company and get most of the laugh situations proven by long test. Most of the humor was pumped out of the bogus French count idea long ago and four scenarios and an author do not appear to have been able to give much novelty other than throwing some of the action into a radio station.” Variety p17 S 16 ’36

WANTED: JANE TURNER. RKO 65min D 4 ’36
Cas: Lee Tracy, Gloria Stuart, Judith Blake, John McGuire
Director: Edward Killy

“Story involves activities of postal department sleuths who succeed in tracing down a major offender after some hair-raising and dramatic incidents.” Variety (Hollywood)

Audience Suitability Ratings

“Exciting in spots, this story furnishes thrills when United States postal inspectors pursue and capture a gang of criminals. This picture will be good as a program filler. Family, but not for excitable children.” Am Legion Auxiliary

“The result is a fairly entertaining picture, with good suspense, clever dialogue, and some interesting post office interior settings. Adults & 11-18: Fair; 8-14: no.” Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

“The part that the postal inspection department plays in the detection of criminals gives this picture some novelty; in other respects it is a typical fast moving gangster film. There is some good photography and interesting sound effects in the scenes showing the use of monotonous repetition to persuade a stubborn witness to confess.” Variety Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women’s Clubs

“Family, but mature for children. Good.” DAR

“Good entertainment is furnished in a production which has much excitement and humor to recommend it. Adults & young people.” E Coast Preview Committee

“Mature audiences.” Nat Soc of New England Women

“A detective story with an original twist, snappy, fast moving and lively. Entirely free from drinking. Mature.” S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

“Mature.” Film World Coast Bul N 21 ’36

“Mature audience.” Gen Fed of Women’s Clubs (W Coast) N 10 ’36

“This is an interesting melodrama with a new and fascinating insight into the workings of the postoffice department. Lee Tracy in the leading role is most acceptable and Gloria Stuart is charming. Good direction, suspense maintained throughout. Family.” + Nat Council of Jewish Women N 11 ’36

“General patronage.” Nat Legion of Decency N 26 ’36

“A & Y: good murder mystery; C: possible.” Parents’ M p66 Ja ’37

“Mature.” Sel Motion Pict p8 D 1 ’36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

“Better than average comedy thriller, although one or two interludes of comic padding do not help the pace. Adults & young people.” + Christian Science Monitor p11 N 28 ’36

“Nothing outstanding, but nevertheless an exciting fast moving program picture that will break no box-office records, but will help carry an expensive major picture and will provide a good evening’s entertainment.” John Christensen

“— Hollywood Spec p11 N 7 ’36

“A tightly directed, coherent melodrama, ‘Wanted: Jane Turner,’ is currently at the Globe with an ideally suited cast acting out a postal service story that draws upon the famed depredations of the late Ira–William Crowley and Killer Cunniff for its inspiration and goes right on back to William Cowper for its atmospheric touches. The return of Lee Tracy to this type of thing, after a year or so of comparative idleness, is probably just the shot in the arm the postal service cycle in Hollywood needed.” J. T. M.

“— N Y Times p24 N 30 ’36

“Tracy, Miss Stuart and Guilfoyle do their best to convert this stereotyped narrative into meritorious entertainment, but their expert performances suffer from the weakness of the plot and the characterizations. The plot never quite succeeds in working itself up to any high pitch of excitement and as a result becomes less satisfactory as entertainment.” William Boehnel

“— N Y World–Telegram p7a N 28 ’36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; —+ Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
WANTED: JANE TURNER—Continued

"Melodramatic high-jinks rashly directed by Edward Killy who has turned out a top-ranking picture with a winning story. It is expertly handled and possesses no end of thrills."—Herb Sterne

+ Script p11 N 21 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Packed with thrills, gangsters and gunplay, plus a typically fast-talking, good-humored performance by Lee Tracy, this picture has but one fault—it's six months late. Varying from the run-of-the-mill G-men films in that the postal department replaces the sleuth of the murder of a mail truck driver, it is a well-balanced, skillfully directed production whose success as a program feature is only diminished because of the dropping-off of interest in the 'war against crime' saga. Family."—Box Office p85 N 7 '36

"[It is a] well-paced and nicely rounded melodrama of unrelenting fashion in which Post Office Department tracks down violators of its services. The dialogue and characters are true to life and thrilling and sordid happenings are deftly counterbalanced by humor."—Film Daily N 30 '36

"This is an exciting melodrama of the postal inspectors, well written, plotted and acted. As it stands it is above most of the stuff turned out for the usual program trade."—Hollywood Reporter p8 O 27 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p11 O 30 '36

"Made in the best melodrama vein, okey for the thrill houses this keeps moving all the way, should prove satisfactory for action followers."—Philia Exhibitor p52 N 15 '36

"Cliff Reid has needed a wheezy cops-and-robbers theme with just enough mounting and prodigious violence to make it into a program picture on the duals... Film is held together chiefly by the experience of Lee Tracy and Clara Stuart, plus pretty decent management at the hands of Director Killy... The plot is as old as Robins' barn, but in sparing over-strenuous blasts of gunfire, etc., in favor of an overlay of mild gagging, mixed with legitimate situations, a few new twists are acquired."—Variety (New York) L 25 '36

"Radio has a better-than-average comedy melodrama in 'Wanted: Jane Turner.'... Picture is nicely mounted and contains some excellent dialogue which is directly responsible for heavy chuckles... Production as a whole is nothing pretentious but has that something that gives entertainment... is a picture to a house that didn't know it was coming on the screen. 'Wanted: Jane Turner' was a complete surprise and the audience liked it."—Variety (Hollywood) p8 O 27 '36

WE WHO ARE ABOUT TO DIE. RKO 80min B

Director: Christy Cabanne

Based on the biography of the same title by David Low. A young man is framed by a gang of payroll thieves, who make it appear that a holdup and murder are his work. The condemned man is framed as a program picture on the duals and sent to join the tragic company of those awaiting the gallows. Meanwhile, his sweetheart has enlisted the sympathy and interest of a shrewd police detective and an intensive hunt is begun. Clues are slow in coming and there is little that can be done. There is evidence to secure a stay." (Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"[It is] a morbid and depressing picture. Matter of taste for adults."—Am Legion Auxiliary

"The subject is presented with strength and realism, but the picture has a tendency to arouse undue sympathy for the criminal element by stress on the terror visited upon one innocent victim among thousands of the guilty. Adults."—Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"This picture can hardly be classified as entertainment. It will quickly build up audience resistance due to the fact that it resembles the earlier gangster films. As presented here, the melodramatic entertainment fails of its effect for the reason that it is so sensational and illogically treated that whatever deterrent there is in the story has been definitely lost in its transmission to the screen. In controversial subjects of this kind, so little emphasis is put on the constructive side of the question, that it becomes almost a justification of the crime, rather than an effort of an outraged public to suppress and punish guilty prisoners. There is a dangerous precedent being established when this particular book by this particular author is purchased for the screen: it would seem a deliberate attempt to cash in on unpleasant notoriety. Not recommended for any audience. Adults."—Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"A preachment, somewhat exaggerated, against capital punishment, this arouses sympathy for even the most ruthless criminals, and is much too morbid for entertainment. Adults. Good."—DAR

"A disturbing and controversial film with an appalling, if necessary exposure of prison conditions. A tense and harrowing story."—Nat Soc of New England Women

"No touches of horror of the men in their last hours of life are left to the imagination in this grippingly convincing picture which could hardly appeal to any but a mature audience."—S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

"While the circumstances of the case may lead to some sympathy for the production is handled in good taste. Mature."—Mrs T. G. Winter

Fox W Coast Bul N 7 '36

"The direction is impressive, light and shadow effectively used. An exceptionally well chosen cast in which each member makes a worthy contribution. In all an unusual and interesting picture. Adults & young people."—Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) O 26 '36

"The film is unique in that the prison scenes seem more realistic and true than those in other films on the subject. They are immensely powerful and the production should have great interest for adult audiences. Adolescents, 12-16: no, too emotional; children, 8-12: no."—IR Movie Mine O 30 '36

"It is stark, virile, moving drama revealing life as complex, not a simple matter of good and bad; and provides food for thought. An able cast is directed brilliantly by Christy Cabanne. Adults only."—Nat Council of Jewish Women O 25 '36

"Adults."—Nat Legion of Decency N 19 '36

"A & Y: good; C: mature."—Parents' M p46 Ja 37

"Adults. Harrowing."—Sel Motion Pict p1 D 1 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Quite a powerful picture, one that will keep your attention on the screen. Just how many of us wish to sojourn in a cinematic shadow of death to see the fate of those who permitted themselves to be delivered with that meticulousness which robs scenes of their conviction. Christy Cabanne's treatment develops the power of the story material. The picture opens with an exceeding clever construction of a crime to point the finger of suspicion at an innocent man, and it ends on a bleak note devoid of cleverness here redolent of old and ineradicable decay. Mr. Mr. Lamson, with the trained aid of scenarist John Twiet; accomplishes a motion-picture sermon that is a grave and unconvincing political trifle. Wisely, too, the writers have avoided mawkish sentimentality. The use of grimness effectively, the prison scenes are unusually factual. Whole sequences are virtual invocations of the mind of a menacing caged and helpless awaiting death. The terrors through which he passes are shown without any pointless suspense.

Lit Digest p22 N 7 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This is powerful gripping drama. Although it is an indictment of self-seeking politicians and the prison system, it never becomes a preachment. John Twiet has fashioned a screenplay that has ample comedy relief, although practically all the action is laid in 'Death Row' and other parts of a state penitentiary."

Film Daily p7 O 23 '36

"The picture is a sombre and powerful portrayal of the methods in Death Row, with an appealing appeal, though by implication only, against capital punishment. On its merits as dramatic entertainment it will win considerable acclaim and will carry the heavy end of double bills to substantial returns."

Hollywood Reporter p4 O 5 '36

"[It] will get most attention from the males. Of an exploitable nature, what it does will depend on the handling... Melodramatic to an extreme, written by David Lamson, who served time in the death house before he was freed, the show is intensely saleable.

Phil Exhbitior p33 N 1 '36

"Now comes to the screen one of the most powerful. convincing preachments ever tossed against unscrupulous politicians, circumstantial evidence and policemen. What it is. is only on conviction, regardless of fact. 'We Who Are About to Die' is at once a powerful drama and a great sermon, devoid of any eye only on conviction. From the exhibitor's viewpoint, it should spell big profits. The book of the same title and the troubles of its author have been widely publicized. The picture will have a splendid word-of-mouth advertising value after its first performance and will be a money maker."

Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 5 '36

WEDDING PRESENT. Paramount 80min O 9 '36

Cast: Joan Bennett, Cary Grant, George Bancroft, Conrad Nagel

Director: Richard Wallace

Based on the short story of the same title by Paul Gallico, the film turns the romance of two erratic reporters, who delight in annoying their city-editor by silly, practical jokes and irresponsibility. A quarrel separates them but a series of innane pranks brings them together again."

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs

"This improbable story is banal and slow-moving despite a few humorous situations. Mature."

Hollywood Spec p8 N 7 '36

"This is a hodge-podge of gags and wild and improbable situations, but will furnish plenty of laughs for anyone wanting to be entertained—but not too serious."

Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Mediocre. Mature."

DAR

"Adults." Nat Soc of New England Women

"The picture is amusing but possesses almost no ethical value. Mature." S Calif Council of Fed of Women's Clubs

Fox W Coast Bui S 19 '36

"[It is] a frothy, ridiculous farce. The picture is interestingly photographed but this able cast merits very much better story material."

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast)

S 8 '36

"Adults."

Jt Estimates S 15 '36

"The production is not in the best of taste on account of its reliance on practical jokes for its humor, but will entertain those who are not too fastidious. Adults."

Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Spirited, +

Hollywood Reporter p4 O 3 '36

"[It] is the maddest farce of the year. I warn you that to enjoy the picture as I did, you have to go crazy and concede that its impossibilities are quite possible. If you can view it from that angle, you are in for an hour and a quarter of genuine, fast moving fun... An extended review of a picture so out of line is quite impossible. It is too mad for analysis, but it is a class of entertainment the screen could stand. It is often frequently funny, but there is nothing half-way about it; if you do not think it is good, you will think it is awful."

Hollywood Reporter p32 S 23 '36

"Newspaper work has taken it on the nose from the cinema on more than one occasion this season, but 'Wedding Present,' at the New Criterion, reaches a new high in factual distortion. We do not wish to destroy the 'movie' myth about journalism, but we suggest that the situations of the photo-play are implausible, dissociated, undramatic, prepos- terous and dreary. The film is not fortunate in its principals. Cary Grant plays the crazy reporter turned editor in a lackadaisical man- ner, neutering most of his lines and acting more like a dramatic caricature than a charac- ter. If he is not walking through his lines in this new series, we have never seen a more frequent boredom. Joan Bennett, for her part, does little to stay the complete demoralization of [the] plot. It makes you wish that a little slower and better story could be done."

Christian Science Monitor p15 N 7 '36

"[Wedding Present] is a bit of light-hearted entertainment. It is the brightest of this pretty little theater has enjoyed in several weeks. It tells a slightly goofy yarn about two slightly goofy people, who have just had a little more of a little madder, it would have been much funnier. This is a picture that needed the crackle of high tension pace, the sparkle of first-rate farceurs. It has not these."

- Howard Barnes

N Y Herald Tribune p20 N 18 '36

"Wedding Present" is a bit of light-hearted entertainment. It is the brightest of this pretty little theater has enjoyed in several weeks. It tells a slightly goofy yarn about two slightly goofy people, who have just had a little more of a little madder, it would have been much funnier. This is a picture that needed the crackle of high tension pace, the sparkle of first-rate farceurs. It has not these. Richard

- Richard

"Adults."

Spec Reporter S 26 '36

"Spirited, refreshing entertainment for family."

Am Legion Auxiliary
WEDDING PRESENT—Continued
Wallace's direction, competent enough, here lacks any touch of brilliance, and his cast is a little too gentle for these pleasant lunatics. ... "Wedding Present" is a farce bereft of the romantic farce, with several genuinely jolly moments. Eileen Creelman
- - - Variety p22 N 19 '36

"Paul Gallico's magazine story ... was perhaps not exactly art, but it was a masterpiece compared to the film version which bears the same name. The situation is far from being transparent to the people, Mr. Gallico, who is also responsible for the screen story, makes them seem even more painful invention of a smash hit climax than they did on the printed page." B. R. C.
- - - N Y Times p31 N 19 '36

"Many strange films about newspaper people have come out of Hollywood since some one first decided that reporters are a gay, dashing, romantic lot, but none quite so bewildering as 'Wedding Present.' [It] insists on being furiously and monotonously whimsical. However, say this much for it at least, it begins on a high note and continues it through to the bitter end. But the things the audience must listen to and watch during its unreeling are something else again." William Eyestone
- - - N Y World-Telegram p29 N 18 '36

"Two star reporters ... dash about Chicago and New York in a farce that sweats over its laughs and трудiscing through just enough to warrant the effort." - - News-Wk p60 N 14 '36

"Cinema newspaper people, merely drunken souls a few years ago, have here, tops all each other's efforts in irresponsibility. Currently newshawks on the screen are, with few exceptions, physically incapable of running the mills lunatics. 'Wedding Present' turns a couple of these creatures loose to follow the blissful liquidation of the tempest. The result, however, insulting to the dignity of the trade, is efficacious and at times uproarious comedy." - + Time p71 O 26 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Striking a high note of popular appeal, this one should get much favorable word-of-mouth publicity. With five gags, it moves smoothly and swiftly. Family." - - Box Office p35 N 7 '36

"As a laugh-loaded gyp piece of lunacy, B. W. Schulberg's comedy should be swell entertainment for any regular audience. The start may be slow, but proceedings pick up quickly, and before you know what hit you, it's a mad pace with plenty of goofy happenings, but it's all very enjoyable." - - Film Daily p11 S 24 '36

"This featherweight flight into the stratosphere of lunacy is a flip and frolicsome farce in the current moon-struck mode and it will make a diverting hour for a wide audience. With Joan Bennett and Cary Grant heading a capital cast, it stands a bright chance in single-bosomed note and it will certainly be good office." - - Hollywood Reporter p3 S 19 '36

"Estimate: pleasing comedy." - - Phila Exhibitor p35 O 1 '36

"It takes the final reel to save this one from developing into a complete void of entertainment. But even that final reel hasn't enough wallop to put 'Wedding Present' in the running for serious consideration. About the only persons who give the impression that they feel they've really got something in 'Present' are Cary Grant and Joan Bennett. They try hard, but the combination of story, direction and whatnot is pretty much against them." - - Variety p25 N 25 '36

"Slow to start and laboring over the intended laugh lines in the earlier sequences, the farcical doings get up steam after the first two reels and come through in a burst of hilarity to run up average for excellent box office business. Intended laugh lines in spots hamper both Miss Bennett and Grant, but when they're given clear sailing, Miss Bennett, peer romp through farcical and satirical episodes with gusto and play several outstandingly novel gags in newspaper office for sustained laughs. Screen play gives them too long maintained and unvaried saracisms in effort to sustain antagonism." - - Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 19 '36

WHITE HUNTER. 20th century-Fox N 27 '36
Director: Irving Cummings

"[It] is the story of a former Under Secretary in the British War Office, who has had to flee to Africa to escape arrest for the innocent part played in a munitions contract scandal engineered by the girl he thought he loved and her wealthy lover." N Y World-Telegram

Audience Suitability Ratings

"It is simply a variation on a too familiar theme but Mr. Baxter, June Lang and Wilfrid Lawson play their parts convincingly and the photography has been handled with telling effect." T. J. Fitzmorris
- - - American Weekly p240 D 12 '36

"General patronage." - - Nat Legion of Decency D 3 '36

"Family." - - Sel Motion Pict p12 D 1 '36

"A brooding intensity to the story that is effective, and the wild animal atmosphere of the African wilds. Family." - - Wkly Guide N 28 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"As Irving Cummings long ago established himself as a capable director, I refuse to believe the film has turned in a superior picture. 'White Hunter' may be assembled to better advantage. The fact that Irving asked for the termination of his contract with the producers after he had seen the picture, may be involved in some way with the slow pace it maintains. The individual scenes are directed capably, but the dialogue is ham-handed and no fault can be found with the performances as a whole, but the cutting leaves much to be desired. ... The story is purely negative. ... In every picture we have some meaningless close-ups, but not quite so many as 'White Hunter' contains. It is cutting which becomes ridiculous, particularly in the case of June Lang, a youngster who is nice looking in a negative sort of way, but whose facial expression can not compete with the heavy dose of white makeup which gives her the appearance of wearing a mask. ... Warner's ability is wasted in a picture with so little to recommend it." - - Hollywood Spec p10 D 5 '36

"It is neither an exciting nor dramatic safari that one is taken on in 'White Hunter.' The wild animal life of the Dark Continent has rarely been used to such poor advantage, however, in bolstering up the story, that the human players, they mark time in a rather embarrassing manner, struggling with vaguely defined situations and trying to hold up the central role Warner Baxter is more gung ho than amorous, but he does more than his share in keeping some semblance of suspense and movement in the work. Wilfrid Lawson over-accentuates his impersonation of a munitions maker. ... June Lang, on the other hand, does an extraordinarily inept job with the role of the heroine. She neither succeeds in making the part credible nor in charming you with her personality. She showed little promise in 'Road to Glory.' In 'White Hunter' she shows even less promise.

+ N Y Herald Tribune p18 N 25 '36

"The new Criterion, which deserves much better pictures than it is getting, hasn't great regard for 'White Hunter.' The names in its cast prove that Twentieth Century-Fox meant well by its production. Somehow, in the making, a lot of the ingredients, and probably in the writing, this goodwill was defeated. The plot is mechanical, the direction artificial, even the acting of Eileen Creelman—"

- N Y Sun p30 N 27 '36

"The Continent of Africa is being used so incontinent of late to buttress a number of saggingly secondary films that the hardened reviewer who gets wind of a safari being organized in some newly arrived picture may be excused for assuming that it is probably going out in search of a plot. The one uncovered by Mr. Zanuck's Central Avenue beaters in 'White Hunter' is very small game indeed, and the old California veldt it is scored in, could hardly lack less goodwill if it were covered with filling stations. A secondary film, as a rule, is tougher on its villain than on its hero, and therefore it is peculiarly enheartening to observe how nobly Wilfrid Lawson not only bears up under the effort to succeed in bringing to the screen a new 'sner.'"

B. R. C.

+ N Y Times p39 N 26 '36

"[It] is by no means uninteresting—it is a melodramatic and exciting intrigue and adventure—but nevertheless, manages to be generally unexciting and lacking in interest. Why, frankly, I can't tell. All the shot and staple elements of melodrama are here, but they mix into something quite bumbly and unpalatable. Perhaps it is because the narrative is carelessly fabricated, because the dialogue is commonplace and because the direction is uninspired."

William Bocheil

+ N Y World-Telegram p14 N 25 '36

News-WK p22 D 5 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Warner Baxter deserves better film fare than this flimsy, hackneyed story. Excellently played throughout by Baxter and Patrick. Despite the fact the cast, the production emerges as a poor adventure yarn with but few breathless moments. Family."

+ Box Office p21 D 5 '36

"Intrigue and romance pervade this fairly entertaining story which has Africa as its locale. Fans of the game are no doubt pin-pointed about authenticity of settings, will find its melodramatic sequences exciting and interesting, particularly a leopard's attack on Warner Baxter... [There are] numerous shots of the colorful beasts inhabiting the Dark Continent, and one such shot taken from an airplane shows enough fauna to fill many zoos. It is these views which give to the film enough real atmosphere to make one forget the un-African backgrounds of remaining footage."

+ Film Daily p3 N 25 '36

News-WK p22 D 5 '36

"Where an adventure story is indicated, one in which the emotional conflict is of equal range with the conflict with nature, this one will do as an hour's fair entertainment. Warner Baxter's role will generally be disappointed. The play, lacking a grand climax, has several small climaxes, which are approached tediously. Nothing is convincing and what were intended as dramatic moments are so thoroughly stereotype they lose most of their punch."

+ Hollywood Reporter p27 O 3 '36

+ Motion Pic Daily p14 N 27 '36

+ Phila Exhibitor p11 N 1 '36

"'White Hunter' is one of those films which, after unspooling a few glimpses of the cast and the South African veldt, leaves nothing to the audience. The anticipation of the fine partnership of Warner Baxter and June Lang don't back up the vaunted strength. Story is just one of those things, and the cast works as though it had a pretty clear idea of this situation; with the exception of Baxter, who turns in a steady chore somewhat superior to his assignment. Everything turns out as per expectation. That's what will confine the picture to the dancest."

- Variety p38 D 2 '36

"While this tries its level best to be thoroughly melodramatic 'White Hunter' is crammed with ancient film technique and emerges as a weak box office offering. A moth-eaten story, camouflaged with up-to-date trimmings, the film is neither thrilling nor romantic and attempted comedy fails to register. Multitudinous fans of Warner Baxter will be disappointed with this one as entertainment. However, Baxter gives as fine a performance as possible, considering the material."

- Variety (Hollywood) p3 N 30 '36

WHITE LEGION. Grand national $1min O 13 '36

Cast: Tala Birell. Ian Keith. Ferdinand Gottschalk

Director: Karl Brown

"Tell's the work of five medical scientists sent by the government to try to stamp out an epidemic. An officious Senator from Washington and his willful daughter are quarantined and forced to go through all the agonies and trials of the affair along with the doctors."

Films Daily

Audience Suitability Ratings

Parents' M p46 Ja '37

Trade Paper Reviews

"Sincere, impressive and absorbing, this dramatic tale of the courageous battle waged by a few heroic souls against the dread yellow fever germ will interest all who appreciate serious films. The romantic interest, however, is slight and the grim story is unrelieved by lighter touches, which may detract from its appeal to general audiences. Adults."

- Box Office p27 O 24 '36

"This one opens with a long sequence of yellow fever patients in a run-down hospital on Panama during construction of the Canal, with close-ups of one patient after another going through the agonies of fever. Interceded by the attendant delirium. From then on the production is unrelieved with anything that serves adequately to offset the depressing theme and the tragedy inherent in the subject matter. The general handling of the theme is heavy and uninspired. It is a director's picture in the sense that the director also is the author, which probably explains a lot."

- Daily p3 O 17 '36

"As much as it hurts and disappoints to have to report that this picture based on a high-minded theme, reflects credit on its producer and biographer in its delineation, it must be recorded that said producer 'hasn't done right by our Nell.'... This picture, inadequately done [does not] appeal to mass audiences. One cannot be certain, but it is perhaps that topics of disease and death do not fall into the realm of entertainment. The 'White Legion' will do as a filler on dual programs."

- Hollywood Reporter p3 O 23 '36

+ Motion Pic Daily p2 O 19 '36

"Well made, with the same selling angles as 'Pasteur,' this is worth attention. Players all turn in good performances. Estimate: interesting program can be sold."

+ Phila Exhibitor p55 O 1 '36

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; ++ Mediocre; Poor; Exceptionally Poor
WILD BRIAN KENT. Principal-20th century-Polygram N 17'36
Cast: Ralph Bellamy, Mae Clarke, Helen Lowell, Stanley Andrews.
Director: Howard Bretherton.
Based on the novel Re-creation of Brian Kent by Harold Wright. "Ralph Bellamy is a wastrel polo player, dropped by his team into the middle of the wheat and cattle country. Penniless, he is befriended by Mae Clarke and Aunt Helen Lowell, and in return for the favor, promises to raise the necessary three thousand dollars to save the cattle to market and the wheat harvested." (Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings
"A slow moving melodrama of little interest to anyone except children. Family." Am Legion Auxiliary.

"The country settings and the threshing machine in action are interesting. The production qualities are fair. Adults & 14-15: fair; 8-11: interesting." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers.

"Ralph Bellamy is too polished an actor for this type of picture as are other members of the cast. R-1. Family." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs.

"Mature & 14-18. Mediocre." DAR.

"Very natural acting and notably beautiful photography of the wheat and cattle country are the highlights of this otherwise undistinguished film. Family." Nat Soc of New England Women.

"A quick-moving Western drama with beautiful scenery. Interesting to all who like a picture of this type. Family." S Calif Council of Church Women.

"Fox W Coast Bul N 25 '36
This Western is nicely photographed, fairly well directed and acted and has plenty of action. Family." + — Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) D '36

"Fair. Adults & young adults." + — Motion Pict Guide D '36

"In the picture there are no outstanding scenes or dramatic incidents. The only appeal is to those who are interested in seeing a typical Harold Bell Wright story on the screen. Adolescents, 12-16: passable; children, 8-12: no interest at all. + — Motion Pict R p9 N '36

"A poorly edited filming of an obvious melodrama with adequate players cast as leads, but overdrawn characters in the supporting roles. Typical. The very good suspense of the fire and racing episodes is the only redeeming feature. Family." + — Nat Council of Jewish Women N 16 '36

"General patronage." Nat Legion of Decency N 26 '36

"A & Y: passable; C: little interest." Parents' M p16 Ja '37

"Family." Sel Motion Pict p8 D 1 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Aimed to please the Harold Bell Wright-Ralph Bellamy fans, this film hits its target, and is satisfactory fare, for any dual. Bellamy and Mae Clarke give their usual good performances. Family." + Box Office p27 O 24 '36

"[It is] satisfactory program fare for the action buff. + — Film Daily p13 O 22 '36

"[It fails to elicit much of the excitement inherent in the novel and will find its appeal in the subsequent-run houses and in the neighborhoods where Wright's novel output has been most popular. Sol Lesser's production has everything in it but the exciting ingredients which should characterize a true Western picture." + — Hollywood Reporter p5 O 17 '36

"The show is okey for the small towns, neighborhoods, twin bills. The players turn in satisfactory performances, but the structure and the scenic backgrounds also helping." + Phila Exhibitor p36 N 1 '36

"Harold Bell Wright story has little to commend, other than the fact that it is a fair duet. Ralph Bellamy and Mae Clarke both are miscast. Miss Clarke is hardlyfetching as a country lass and Bellamy is offside trying to be funny or social. Of the old gaslight drama school, it unwinds slowly." + — Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 17 '36

WINTERSET. RKO 75min N 20 '36
Director: Alfred Santell.
Music: Maurice De Pachk.
Musical director: Nathaniel Shilkret.

Based on the stage success of the same title by Maxwell Anderson. "The picture opens briefly with the railroading to the chair of a high-minded radical for a crime that he did not commit. He leaves an infant son and the boy grows to manhood possessed by the urge to clear his father's name. Drifting into New York on a rainy night he is drawn, as if by some invisible power, into the sordid circle that hides his true identity behind his prayer. Drawn there also is the judge who condemned his father, now broken in mind by the 15-year-old memory of his deed." (Hollywood Reporter)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"Maxwell Anderson's hard-bitten prize-winner comes to us in more frankly melodramatic terms in this screen version than in the stage play, and that is to say it has found its true level of theatre. It is a tensely engaging film, splendidly acted throughout, by Margo and Burgess, the obvious sort to offset its social indignation. Further, it has been relieved of its pretentious poetry and a happy ending has been contrived, so that no hindrance to popular success remains... this is not at all a pleasant film, its plot being relentless and unrelieved until the concluding moments, but it can be recommended to unflinching adults as a superior piece of work." J. Fitzmorris + — America p216 D 5 '36

"A; outstanding; Y & C: harrowing, unwholesome." Christian Century p1079 D 9 '36

"Distinguished is the screen presentation of Maxwell Anderson's tragic play with music, light and shadow intensifying its somberness... Thought-provoking fare for adults." + — Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 21 '36

"Grim, gripping drama, stark realism, and absorbing intense interest mark the production of this screen version of a very successful stage play. Surrounded by many of the original cast, Burgess Meredith and Margo give portrayals in the roles they created on the stage. Adults." + — Nat Council of Jewish Women N 25 '36

"[It is] an unforgettable production. The whole film is greatly enhanced by the authentic atmosphere of the background and the excel-
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

"[It is] a gripping story, unusual in its social implications... Fine acting gives many deeply moving moments to the picture, which has distinctly best celluloid character in the film, aside from John Carradine's brief moment as Romagnoli, in the Track Roberts of Edward Clannell.... Burgess Meredith's Mio is brilliant, expressive, embittered—a boy who sneers at the world that has done him wrong... The settings are beautiful and authentically executed according to the playwright's intentions, although they lay the screen production open to the criticism that it is static in the same way that a picture can be... fondly on its darkly glistening cobblestone backgrounds. The most inevitable criticism of the production, however, will probably be caused by the changed ending. It cannot be gainsaid, however, that a feeling of the triumph and the sense of the struggle is retained through the climax, whether or not it was devised as a bow to the box office." — J. T. M. DeGroot

"[It is] a stirring, superbly acted, bitter and eloquent photoplay... Mr. Anderson, you will remember, wrote his play for the most part in a tragedy house, giving it a limited appeal to a typically harrowing Elizabethan tragedy finale... While the photoplay resorts to a happy ending—the alternations have in no way detracted from the majesty and splendor of the original. 'Winterset' remains in screen form a beautifully written, nobly imagined, dynamic drama... Alfred Santell's direction is extraordinarily good, as is the screen play itself... The entire cast is brilliant. To single out any of the players for special commendation would be unfair, but just to mention Anthony Moscovitch in his bravura role, and the acting of the remainder of the cast is superlative. An exception must be made in the cases of Burgess Meredith, Margo, Eduardo Clannell, John Conoff, James Edward Ackerman, Maurice Moscovitch and Stanley Ridges, all of whom are superb." — William Boehnel

"Just as a picture, 'Winterset' is superb, a great, sombre pleasure. As a picture, the story is more effective than it was as a play, because James M. Morgan's screenplay exactly the same. That the movies can do on the grand scale. It's a beautiful piece of work. I think that you can say it's a splendidly written and directed piece of work in other ways, too... The public that wants its under-standing, its straight may be disappointed. Perhaps this film's not the kind that would win a lot of money for the R.K.O. people, but that's its own business... I, for one, found that I liked the film than I did the play. If I like the film because its acting is so forceful, I will be disappointed by the box-office results. Against the stone of the Bridge, prays to the 'bright, ironical gods.' — John Mosher

"[It is] one of the finest films to come out of Hollywood this year. But artistic merit is rarely the specific for anemic box-office receipts. 'Winterset,' though as a 'critically successful,' depends on the critics and on word-of-mouth advertising to marshal its audiences. As a screenplay, its intelligence and depth, 'Winterset' is uniquely successful—even if its commercial fate must rest in the laps of those bright, elegant gods.' — William Boehnel

"Exceptionally Good; + Good; — Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor"
WINTerset—Continued
happy ending is more logical and far less melodrama, although Mr. Armstrong's handling is visibly less exciting than the stage production. The chief actors, Burgess Meredith and Margo, whose screen characterizations are critically leave a great deal to be desired in their film characterizations. I found 'Winterset' tedious, static and uninteresting, a decision which may set me apart from my fellows, but after serious reflection I am unable to any honest admit to any honest enthusiam on behalf of Alfred Santell's production."
R. S. Ames

"Winterset" transferred to the screen by Producer Pandro S. Berman with such honesty, intelligence and skill that it better its original. By abbreviating some of Author Anderson's less appropriate flights of poetry, Anthony Veiller, who wrote the screen play, improved the highlights of the script, brilliantly directed by Alfred Santell, is a production that is sure to be listed among the best pictures of the year. That 'Winterset' will fail to appeal to the cinema's mass audience is likely. As an investment for RKO it can therefore be measured mainly as an introduction to the cinema public of several new faces. Margo's—which are the film's chief asset—have apparently not been transferred to the stage cast, but from Stanley Clavering's production we are warranted in looking for a better job than what Minnie delivers a horrifying bit. Family.

+ Box Office p29 N 21 '36

"This will rank with the really important pictures of the year. It will have a special appeal to those discriminating audiences. Alfred San-tell has done a masterly job of directing and produced a gripping picture... The acting is flawless, with Burgess Meredith, of the stage cast, scoring heavily. His performance is one of the best of the parts, the sad, wretched, villain, who delivers a horrible bit. Family."

+ Film Daily p9 N 17 '36

"Maxwell Anderson's grim and profoundly moving poetic drama of the underworld... is an artistic triumph. It's similarities to The Indestructible Man will be widely realized, but its value lies in its own complete personality. Its scape at the box office is less certain. Universal as its dramatic appeal, its portrait, is an astounding undertaking. The director and cast and the New York theater cast may yield only a moderate money draw. But it is a truly great picture and high honors are due its makers for the daring contribution to the roster of modern theatricals of the year."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 N 13 '36

+ Motion Pict Daily p2 N 14 '36

"This is excellent class. Characters are intelligent, dialogue literate, motivations sometimes too obscure. Estimate: excellent class job, but needs selling."

+ Phila Exhibitor p21 D 1 '36

"'Winterset' is not big box-office. It's a criticle's picture and, as such, the box office reaction will be favored through the kindly press this RKO filmization... is bound to receive. For the rank and file 'Winterset' will be hit at certain locales; they may even wonder what it's all about. As an artistic production it's tops. 'Winterset', if nothing else, will be a noteworthy in its handling Burgess Meredith cinematically, although this highly capable, legendarily [stage] Juvenile has yet to assert his fullest film potentialities. His next picture, or the one after that, will do the trick. Whatever it is definite, box office limber... Very nature of this drab melodilled interpretation of an ethereal stage theme—which even in [stage] atmosphere confused and confounded some patrons—is not conducive to the popular box office atmosphere. Directively 'Winterset' is confusing. Prolog set in the small town 16 years ago is disjointed. Generally speaking, the purpose is vaguely limned. Con-celvably, it's an obscurity which may be cen-sorially necessary, but lacking that definition, 'Winterset' is

Variety p12 D 9 '36

WITH LOVE AND KISSES. Melody 65min
Cast: Pinky Tomlin. Toby Wing. Kane
Richmond. Arthur Houseman
Director: Les Goodwins

"Pinky, a farm boy with a yen for composing, hears a radio singer, Kane Richmond, claim one of his songs. With the fifty dollars he has borrowed on his cow, Minnie, he goes to New York where he lands in jail and meets Arthur Houseman." Film Daily

Trade Paper Reviews

"Pinky Tomlin delivers a number of his own songs in the film, nec to which is a minor star. His songs should catch the public's fancy... Although unpretentious, the show has a lot of entertainment, and snacks up as one of the best independent productions. The family and suburban trade should find it much to their liking."

+ Hollywood Reporter p3 D 3 '36

"Although light and unpretentious, 'With Love and Kisses' is an amusing enough comedy musical to satisfy the neighborhoods and the sticks. It has sufficient entertainment for the independent market but lacks punch and names to carry elsewhere... Tomlin sings several songs in his distinctly individual manner and Miss Wing contributes several numbers her self, but the film is far from inferior. Including prevents them from putting over their tunes as well as they might have with improved sound."

+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 D 3 '36

WITHOUT ORDERS. RKO 65min O 30 '36
Frances Sage. Charley Grapewin. Vinton
Haworth

Director: Lew Landers

"The story... is built around the conflict between a seasoned and resourceful commercial air pilot and the weakening son of the owner of the line, a brilliant stunt flyer but unfit for responsibility. When the boy's adoring father for his good intentions gives him charge of a transport the opposition comes to a head. It is built up by the rivalry of the two men for the hand of Sally Eilers, air stewardess and trained as a pilot." Hollywood Reporter

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: mediocre; Y: better not; C: no."

Christian Century p1574 N 25 '36

"Good. Mature audience & 11-18." DAR

Fox W Coast Bul O 24 '32

"The long suffering airlines are again given bad publicity in this film. The photography is very fine indeed, and there is no death of action, however improbable it may seem. Adolescents, 12-16: questionable; children, 8-12: no.

- + Motion Pic R p10 O '36

"A film that gains momentum as it rushes toward a breath-taking climax. 'Family.'"

- + December O 15 '36

"A: improbable but exciting; Y: possible; C: no."

Parents' M p55 D '36

- "Family." "Sel Motion Pic p12 N 1 '36

"Some interesting characters, and the plot works up to an exciting climax. Family." "Wkly Guide O 10 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Sally Eilers makes this all appear wholly credible and the result is a very interesting picture, if one overloaded a bit with rhapsodic lines having to do with the safety of commercial aviation. It's just another picture that is capitalizing on the new vogue for flying, and, of its kind, it might be a lot worse. It is family fare." Laura Elston

+ - Canadian M p39 D '36

"There are some thrilling moments and good photography, but the film is not very believable. Adults: slow, young people." + - Christian Science Monitor p10 D 5 '36

"'Without Orders' is just another romantic melodrama about flyers. Some of the air shots in blizzards high above California's Sierras are picturesque and exciting, but the plot is so fantastic and surfeited with threadbare situations it is... Tack little tedious to stay the film through... Obviously manufactured as a thriller, the authors didn't bother to work out either plot or concrete characters. Moreover, the production appears to have been hasty, although the performers, especially Miss Eilers and Mr. Armstrong, do all they can to make the piece convincing." Marguerite Taze-Laar

+ - N Y Herald Tribune p20 N 5 '36

"Not exactly new in idea (it deals with that previously celebrated conflict between stunt and transport piloting) nor exactly revolutionary in treatment. Without Orders none of the less manages to be endurable and even fairly exciting asy-drama." B. R. "Some" p4 N '36

"Movies. just movies." John Mosher

New Yorker p177 N 14 '36

"The producers are inclined to rhapsodize over the safety of commercial flying, but soft-pedal, rather than exploit the interests of an exciting story which builds to a tuck-raising climax."

News-Wk p32 O 31 '36

"'Without Orders' contains one exciting sequence in which an airline stewardess takes over the controls of a transport plane in a storm... For the rest, one more minor-league investigation of air travel implying that this is an adventure rather than a convenience. 'Without Orders' is likely to arouse more indignation from airline executives than enthusiasm from lay audiences." Time p21 N 2 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Plenty of interest-sustaining action and some splendid air shots make this film, based on commercial aviation, good entertainment, depending rather unbelievably on story." + - Box Office p27 O 9 '36

"With thrills galore, this airplane picture should be meaty fare for the patrons who want excitement & you. "Low Landers, the director, has turned out a fast-moving, action-filled number. A newcomer, Vinton Haworth, who plays the pilot, in a part of the airplane operator, does a fine job in a difficult role, and much credit for his excellent performance should go to Landers." + - Film Daily p6 S 25 '36

"An exciting story of commercial aviation that goes straight to its melodramatic goal with pep punch and an undeviating straightforwardness that is refreshing. A well constructed screenplay and an honest and intelligent presentation lift it well above its limited budget, and, except for light name-draw, it would do some fancy soloing. As it is, it is good for solid satisfaction and profits on all dual levels." + - Hollywood Reporter p3 S 21 '36

+ - Motion Pic Dally p4 S 22 '36

"Estimate: program, best for neighborhoods. twin bills." + - Phila Exhibitor p38 O 1 '36

"By application of a commercial aviation background, this old-fashioned melodrama plot is brought up to date. But it's still the same old idea and the setting only provides a pair of atmospheric crutches for easier limping purposes. Picture is of secondary classification, both from entertainment and box office standpoint."

+ - Variety p14 N 11 '36

"Associate Producer Cliff Reid has turned out a film which, if properly exploited, will bring money into any exhibitor's till... Without Orders, with its airline background, should lend itself to profitable exploitation without heavy effort. Running only 68 minutes, it can be relied upon to carry anything else on a double." + - Variety (Hollywood) p8 S 21 '36

WIVES, NEVER KNOW. Paramount 70min S 25 '36

Cast: Charlie Ruggles, Mary Boland, Adolphe Menjou, Vivienne Osborne

Director: Elliott Nugent

A sophisticated novelist who preaches against marriage almost breaks up the household of a timid horticulturist.

Audience Suitability Ratings

"The idea that a wife must be allowed the privilege of forgiving her husband's misdeeds in order to be perfectly happy is amusingly exploited in this latest marital mix-up involving Mary Boland and Charlie Ruggles. Givens such a hilarious situation, these expert comedians could not fail to make the most of it and their brand of minor-comedy is continuously funny. It is, however, farce, that is best suited to an adult audience." T. J. Fitzmorris

+ - America p624 O 3 '36

"A: amusing; Y: mature; C: little interest." Christian Century p407 O 21 '36

"A well chosen cast and good direction make this a highly entertaining picture. Adults." Am Legion Auxiliary

Adults: good; 14-18: doubtful; 8-14: no. Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"[It is] a hilarious farce. Excellent for type." Calif Fed of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"Good. Mature." DAR

"Adults & young people." E Coast Prevew Committee

"A comedy with some clever characterizations which evolve into lanyard farce with many laughs for adult audiences." Nat Soc of New England Women

"A definitely disappointing vehicle for the favorite of the comedy type; the picture is negative in ethical value and suitable only for adults." S Calif Council of Fed Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul O 3 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; ++ Mediocre; Poor; --- Exceptionally Poor
WIVES NEVER KNOW—Continued

"[It] will provide many laughs for those who enjoy these comedians. Adults & young people."

Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) S 23 '36

"A first-class mirth-provoking comedy in the best Ruggles-Boland style. The humour is adroitly handled by experts and will be enjoyed by thousands of couples who realise that a stage farce is far easier and pleasanter to live in than its opposite number. The dialogue is good and the actors seize on all its points. Suitability: adults & adolescents." + Mo Film Bul p178 O '36

"Good. Adults & young adults." + Motion Pict Guide D '36

"Considering the plot, the picture is handled with no vulgarity, it is an amusing farce lampooning pseudo-Freudian literature, and making the most of the absurd situations that arise when a silly wife tries to remodel her domesticated husband. Adolescents, 12-16: unsuitable material for children, S-12: no." + Motion Pict R p19 O '36

"Adults." Nat Council of Jewish Women S 21 '36

"Adults." Nat Legion of Decency S 24 '36

"A, Y and C: entertaining farce." Parents' M p41 N '36

"Adults & young people." Sel Motion Pict p11 O 1 '36

"Family." Wkly Guide S 19 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Plausibility is tossed to the four winds in the course of the farce-comedy, 'Wives Never Know.' Had this story been told in a less rowdy fashion, it might have resulted in a sedate piece of drollery; but Elliott Nugent, the director, and those responsible for the script, saw fit to risk everything for the sake of hilarity. And the picture does give the spectators many a good laugh." Mordaunt Hall + Boston Transcript p6 O 3 '36

"Adults." Christian Science Monitor p13 O 10 '36

"From Vivienne Osborne and Claude Gillingwater to Copper Edward Gargan, 'Wives Never Know' is enacted in princely fashion, thus making the roll-call complete. From producer to bit-player it is perfectly handled. See it." Paul Jaskie + Hollywood Spec p15 S 12 '36

"Constructed on a tried and true farce formula, this must have looked hilarious on paper. And it is fairly amusing on the screen, thanks chiefly to Adolphe Menjou who is fast becoming our favorite farceur. . . This will divert you—if your tastes are simple." (2 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p44 O 31 '36

"The domestic establishment of Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland is holding what looks like a sacrifice auction sale, second-hand oddments of the old homestead—including a spare scene by Mr. Ruggles to his familiar timid-husband sequences, and the usual number of stock Bolandisms, are offered—at a considerable reduction in humour—tiller. The ambiguous, bargain-counter title, 'Wives Never Know.' The picture is merely an antiquated type of stage farce enacted before a camera. . . [It is] a series of almost wholly unamusing escapades." E. B. C. + New York Times p24 O 21 '36

"No permanent injury to the cinema has been accomplished by the production of 'Wives Never Know,' the amiable and inoffensive minor humor is laughable and the best of the staple elements of farce, it is pretty commonplace and tricky in plot, but there are also some funny moments and a good deal of excellent playing in it. The mixture results in fair-to-middling entertainment." William Boehnel + — N Y World-Telegram p23 N 2 '36

"Not intended to be exciting, 'Wives Never Know' is, however, funny in the way Mary Boland and Charles Ruggles manage to make their little situations characteristic of a married life. Adolphe Menjou is the figure who starts the trouble in this case. And it's a bright case, thanks to Mr. Ruggles. Boland is bright, too." John Mosher + New Yorker p90 N 7 '36

"[It is] unpretentious comedy." + — National RKO N 7 '36

"Comedy teams, when they're held together over a protracted period of time, tend to become monotonous. . . But Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland are the exceptions that redeem the rule; the longer they co-star the greater they develop in the eyes of other's particular brand of humor. I won't presume to tell you that Mr. Ruggles and Miss Boland are funny. . . Scripters already know that . . . but just take a peek at the current vehicle to see how funny they can be." + Script p10 O 3 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"A merry, mad, matrimonial mixup, this will be a riot with audiences who like their comedy straight with a dash of sophistication, and can hold their own in any situation. Family." + Box Office p63 S 19 '36

"[It is a] highly amusing comedy with Ruggles-Boland-Menjou scoring in domestic yarn of general appeal." + Film Daily p19 S 9 '36

"This new Ruggles-Boland comedy vehicle is a shining successor to 'Early to Bed.' It, too, is a hilarious farce concerned with domestic relations and it has an additional asset in the presence of Adolphe Menjou in another of the low-comedy roles to which he has recently been committed with so much success. The picture can safely be welcomed to the top rank of dual offerings, where it will have box office value beyond its predecessors." + Hollywood Reporter p3 S 3 '36

"Estimate: pleasing laugh program." + Motion Pict Daily p10 S 4 '36

"Light in story texture and unimportant as to plot, this domestic farce owes far more to the players and direction than to the author, who merely provided the pegs which two able farceurs hang their japes. But it is good entertainment once the premise is established and is kept moving at an agreeable pace." + Variety p19 N 4 '36

"Taking a theme almost as old as the theatre itself, Producer Harlan Thompson has given a different touch and new comedy to the ancient institution of wifely jealousy and turned out a rollicking farce. . . 'Wives Never Know' is not a pretentious picture, but it is one that can stand a good build-up from the exhibitor without fear of consequence." + Variety (Hollywood) p3 S 3 '36

A WOMAN REBELS. RKO 93min N 6 '36

Based on the novel Portrait of a Rebel by Nette Syrett. It is the story of a girl in England who, when refused against her father's domination and later against Victorian convention before the time of woman's emancipation.

+ — Exceptionally Good; + Good; + — Fair; + — Mediocre; + — Poor; + — Exceptionally Poor
Audience Suitability Ratings

A: excellent; Y: probably too mature; C: no.

Christian Century p1542 N 18 '36

"Charmingly pictured and dramatically developed, this strong, sui woman's right for adult rights. Katharine Hepburn gives a softly shining quality to the role in which she must adjust her childhood to the fine maturing of a woman of forty. Mature." Mrs. T. G. Winter

Fox W Coast Bul N 7 '36

"Katharine Hepburn was never more lovely than in this heart thrilling story of a woman who dared as desperately as she loved. Mature." Am Legion Auxiliary

"Outstanding. Katharine Hepburn gives a finely shaded performance except for the times when her own personality shines through too clearly and her decision becomes a little strident. The support players enter into the spirit of the production and the result is an outstanding and arresting picture. Adults." Calif Cong of Business & Professional Women's Clubs

"This [is a] beautifully photographed and smoothly directed picture in which Katharine Hepburn appears at her best. Adults 11-15; little interest; 8-14: no." Calif Cong of Par & Teachers

"A poignant, sympathetic role which Katharine Hepburn could have made stronger. Adults. Excellent." DAR

"An outstanding production, at times deeply poignant and always profoundly sympathetic. Adults & young people." E Coast Preview Committee

"An old plot, very sincerely acted and staged with notably careful attention to detail. Convincing and worth while for an adult audience." Nat Council of Jewish Women

"Rising to tense dramatic heights, with a distinguished cast, the whole is a gem of a production. Adults & young people." S Calif Council of Fed of Church Women

Fox W Coast Bul N 21 '36

"Mature" Gen Fed of Women's Clubs (W Coast) N 10 '36

Reviewed by H. M. Le Sourd

"This absorbing drama gives Miss Hepburn an opportunity for one of her finest portrayals. The supporting cast is a fine one each member adding a bit to the perfection of the whole. Adults.

+ Nat Council of Jewish Women N 3 '36

"Although sin is portrayed it is clearly, shown as sin and retribution follows. Adults."

Nat Legion of Decency N 5 '36

"A & Y: excellent; C: little interest."

Parents' M p46 Ja '37

"An outstanding production, at times deeply poignant and always profoundly sympathetic. Adults & young people.

+ Set Motion Pic N 13 '36

"A tense drama. . . Katharine Hepburn does a splendid piece of acting and the production is well directed. Mature."

+ Wky Guide O 24 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"[It is an amalgam of most of the theatrical stencil of the Victorian era. Katharine Hepburn is playing with such resourceful subtlety that the character actually alive." M. E. E.

+ — Boston Transcript p4 N 7 '36

Reviewed by Laura Elston

Canadian M p88 D '36

+ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; + Mediocre; — Poor; — Exceptionally Poor

"So highly polished is this record of a valiant Victorian lady in revolt that you may not immediately realize its phony qualities." Adults.

Christian Science Monitor p17 N 14 '36

"The picture is an engrossing social drama, in large part autobiographical, recital of incidents in the life of a woman, which is made convincingly by the intelligent direction of mid-Victorian era. Katharine Hepburn's performance is the most convincing of any player has contributed to the genre. There is an entire absence of the suggestion of extravaganzas in both voice and gesture which so marred previous appearances. She has never been a great box-office favorite, but her response to Sandrich's direction, of which picture should start her on the road to that distinction. . . The story does not give the picture its strength as entertainment. It opens well, the first sequence creating the necessary curiosity as to what will come next, but at least when it proceeds it seems too long to keep our interest from sagging with it."

+ Hollywood Spec p8 N 7 '36

"Pamela's passion play seems unduly long. Not that Miss Hepburn gives a bad performance, for she is a splendid heroine who bucks at convention and tradition. Probably it is a better characterization than she has contributed to Hollywood in some time."

(24 stars) Beverly Hills Liberty p44 D 12 '36

"Miss Katharine Hepburn's seemingly endless preoccupation with costume drama stumbles remarkably in "A Woman Rebels". Her chance for Miss Hepburn to be noble and brave, and once she has established those virtues, the film begins to slip downward. There is no doubt that 'A Woman Rebels' is an excellent period piece and that it gives Miss Hepburn's promising peek at Victorian England at its most exquisite. Also, Mark Sandrich, making his first deep-sea drama, has directed a picture, has studied it with an exceptionally shrewd bits of telling direction."

+ — Lit Digest p21 N 14 '36

"It is cunningly put together, ably acted and sometimes genuinely touching. If the idealized content of the play is generally obscured by an episodic and melodramatic romance, this was undoubtedly the intention of the producers. The Hepburn gives an appealing if not altogether believable portrayal of a young lady who is alternately shaking off the shackles of her sex and giving them back. The attractive Doris Dudley makes her screen debut. . . The part itself is so ill-defined that it would be charitable to consider Miss Dudley's cinematic talents, Mark Sandrich, in his direction, has ignored the preposterous aspects of the scenario, most of confused material in a good-looking production, chiefly, distinguished for Miss Hepburn's fine acting."

Edward Barnes

+ — NY Herald Tribune p23 O 30 '36

"As a portrait, frankly prejudiced, of the mid-Victorian era, 'A Woman Rebels' is amusing and exceptionally charming. As drama, it leaves something to be desired. It never, in spite of the extraordinarily vivid and detailed atmosphere (the picture gives an approach close to reality. . . 'A Woman Rebels' thanks mostly to the delightful atmosphere and to Mark Sandrich's direction, is interesting if not moving. It describes, with frequent bitterness but occasional light of comedy, an era the movies have left too long untouched." Eileen Creelman

+ — NY Sun p32 O 30 '36

"Aided by an excellent source book, Netta Syrett's 'Portrait of a Rebel,' and by a group of understanding players, [it has been] fashioned into a handsome period drama. . . Miss Hepburn has played every rebellious scene of it with a courage and a resolute spirit which kindles our admiration for Pamela. We have less respect for the stock dramatics. . . but this is merely by-play & theatrical."

MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST 151
A WOMAN REBELS—Continued accompaniment to the larger theme, and we may accept or reject it as melodramatic presence, without discrediting the success of a Victorian rebel. In any case, it has been delicately inserted into the picture and need not bore us by its familiarity. There is any number of capable performances besides that of Miss Hepburn, which is one of her best.'
F. N. Nittby
+ N Y Times p27 O 30 '36

"Miss Katharine Hepburn, the cinema's First Lady, is very successful in 'A Woman Rebels,'
"the notion is one of the best, but a decrepit little things manufactured from all the weather-beaten odds and ends known to the trade. However, it is easy to say Miss Hepburn's, Pamela, and Herbert Marshall is first-rate as her fair admirer. In fact, everything about the film is good except the narrative.'
William Boehnel
+ N Y World-Telegram p39 O 30 '36

"This is a rather sad little treatise on Women's Rights' represents an effort to do, and it rather seems to ask us to go over all that problem again. Miss Hepburn is stateless and couldn't if she tried. Of course. It's not exciting." John Mosher
+ New Yorker p80 N 7 '36

"It is Katharine Hepburn's picture. Her sympathy and skill go hand in hand to gether the melodramatic incidents which compose the story. In an age when the presence of the emancipated woman is new, there is no longer promises to snatch off their hats, a crusade for women's rights might be expected to awaken only academic interest. But, with Miss Hepburses us to expect. Her performance and Margaret Sandrich's direction, are more vital than that."

News-WK p49 N 7 '36

"A remarkable picture of the ugly Victorian mores at their worst. It is hard for a present-day audience to tolerate the amusings of such depression, or the equally depressing aestheticism of such godawful clothes, but it is a strong narrative story, acted to the hilt and directed by Marg Murdock with intelligence, taste and fine understanding.
Katharine Hepburn, the star, is superb."-Rob Wagner
+ Script p16 N 7 '36

"Not since Jo in 'Little Women' has Kathary Hepburn had a role that fits her immortal abilities so snugly as Pamela in 'A Woman Rebels.' Pamela is deserted, dramatically, and left to create a lone portrait, without framing background. This is bound to sure you, is no fault of Miss Hepburn's. She performs as valiantly as the script will allow, and makes her Pamela a person of dignity and courage. We might call this a moral victory for Miss Hepburn.

Stage p18 D '36

"Ever since Katharine Hepburn set the cinema industry by the ears with 'Little Women,' her employers have been trying doggedly to discover just what elusive factor is added to the stock formula of Lavender & Old Lace, made that picture so sensational success. 'A Woman
Rebels' is a film that presents an answer.
If the element was the revolt of a young girl against convention, that the experiment is conducted with painstaking care only make it the more apparent that the hypothesis is faulty.
. Marked by none of the vitality of its predecessors in Katharine Hepburn's Victorian series, 'A Woman Rebels' is saved from complete mediocrity by the well-nigh-modulated performance and the admirable feeling for background and atmosphere implicit in Marg Murdock's direction."
Time p16 N 9 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This problem play of the mid-Victorian era will have to lean heavily on the popularity of Katharine Hepburn for its returns. Although sincerely and convincingly enacted and bolstered by brilliant direction, the story is much too heavy and slow to have a general appeal to the average moviegoer. The result.

+ Box Office p35 N 7 '36

"This picture is obviously for adult audiences, mature both physically and mentally, but the picture is so carefully produced and directed that there is never anything which could be called 'objectionable.' Hepburn scores heavily in the dual role of the 'Rebel,' and her acting at all times is of the highest caliber."
+ Canadian Moving Pict Digest p15 N 15 '36

"Here is a feminine film that the ladies of all degrees and ages will revel in. It gives Katharine Hepburn her most poignant and sympathetic role. All things in the picture with it will bring joy to a showman's heart and shekels to his box-office. Can't miss with the [ladies] from Fifth or Tenth avenues, and from all the avenues and crossroads from here to the Coast."
+ Film Daily p7 O 28 '36

"A picture of superlative merits and some great defects, this narrative vehicle for Katharine Hepburn adds to her personal laurels and can probably be counted a better than average Hepburn business. Its appeal is largely to women. (It) takes the form of a fictional biography, and as such it has continuity of design and passages of moving beauty, but lacks the suspensive power of lightly-twined drama. In this character Miss Hepburn has, perhaps, her most fitting role.
From the girlhood episode to the moving end she commands sympathy and admiration. It is an impressive portrayal."
+ Hollywood Reporter p3 O 28 '36
+ Motion Pict Daily p12 O 26 '36

"Well made, directed, photographed, this belongs in the high group of successful stories. Although there is a class tinge, the appeal should be universal."
+ Picture Exhibitor p33 N 1 '36

"Just so-so. Not the best and not the worst of the Hepburn starring series. It offers the press agents lots of openings for stunts, but the story, as developed, is rambling and without cumulative sock. While individual segquences are attractive the picture in general is pretty lifeless. It will get by on the strength of Miss Hepburn's star rather than any merit in the story. . . .
All the characters ultimately become more sticks in a make-believe picture. Miss Hepburn in a series of fetching Victorian fashions which reveal her doing Dietrich poses for this character."

+ Variety p18 N 4 '36

"Katharine Hepburn, Herbert Marshall and an excellent support triumph immeasurably over an elaborate and complicated story of truc-structural difficulties. Result is spotty and loosely episodic, with strong emotional scenes alternating with academic statement of woman's estate in mid-Victorian England and considerable dialogic preachment alongside the tragic elements of the sustaining love story. Picture will probably not hurt Miss Hepburn, nor will it help her very much. It will ring up no record grosses, but it does promise a substantial business at the class houses. It is preponderantly Hepburn's picture."
+ Variety (Hollywood) p3 O 23 '36

Y

YELLOW CRUISE. French motion picture
Tmin N 15 '36

Director: Andre Sauvage

Music: Paris Opera Orchestra

This is a camera record of the third Citroen Central Asia Expedition of eight thousand miles made in 1931-32 under the leadership of the

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; + Fair; ++ Mediocre; - Poor; — Exceptionally Poor
famous French explorer Georges-Marie Haardt who died during the expedition. "Over the route which Marco Polo rote on camelback, through the deserts of Kazakhstan and the snow deserts of Tibet, in forgotten lamaseries, and along the corpse-strewn streets of Shanghai, the cameras clicked and the microphones listened." (News-Wk)

Audience Suitability Ratings

"General patronage.

Nat Legion of Decency D 10 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Yellow Cruise' . . . conveys a great deal of information about the other side of the earth and [is] heartily recommended. . . . (It) is a travel picture, following the third Citroen-Haardt expedition from Beirut to Peking—that is to say, over the Himalayas and through some of the most interesting countries in the world."

Mark Van Doren

+ Nation p677 D 5 '36

"(It) offers some remarkable scenes. For those who love adventure, or for the scholar, there are wonderful glimpses of Kurdistan in 'The Yellow Cruise.'" Marguerite Tazelaar

+ N Y Herald Tribune p18 N 19 '36

"The pictorial record of the odyssey, photographed with technical painstaking and an eye to the unusual . . . has been edited into a remarkable travel film by Léon Poirier: one which . . . definitely rescues the cinema travelogue from the ho-hum class." J. T. M.

+ + N Y Times p31 N 18 '36

"Couched in beautiful photography and colorful costumes after incident of great excitement, 'The Yellow Cruise' . . . is a graphic realization of man's inextinguishable curiosity about far-away places and his insatiable thirst for adventure. . . . The melodramatic nature of the accomplishment, is recaptured in haunting photography and in sequences that illustrate graphically the dangers and hardships the expedition experienced. . . . It is at once a film for educational and adventure entertainment." William Boehnel

+ + N Y World-Telegram p29 N 18 '36

"Subscribers to the National Geographic . . . will run in droves to see [it]. . . . Quite a trip! Scenery, landscapes, odd little natives. You may note that 'Kashmir 2' looks well on an automobile license, and you may thank your stars you're not in that part of the world where you have to protect your eyes with veils of yak hair." John Mosher

+ New Yorker p77 O 3 '36

"(It) is a sound film which the most conserva- tive Hollywood press agent would dub 'colossal.' . . . The picture is no dreamy travelogue. It is an exciting and beautiful record of a journey to legendary lands."

+ + News-Wk p27 S 19 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"This camera record of the Citroen-Haardt expedition into little-known parts of Central Asia will prove splendid film fare for art theatres and for selected audiences. The photog-raphy gives many vivid closeups of unusual native types and pictures numerous scenic vistas and long shots, the narration is clear and concise and the musical accompaniment effectively creates the necessary mood. Family."

+ Box Office p63 O 17 '36

"This is one of the most unusual travel pictures ever filmed. . . . (It) affords unusual views of these little-known countries, their agriculture, architecture, etc. The photography is breathtakingly beautiful. In crossing the countries, the expedition used special motor tractors, and made its way under tremendous difficulties at times."

+ Film Daily p10 O 30 '36

"This is an expedition film which is more likely to have performed an overgrown travelogue. For sheer pictorial effects it tops everything ever before attempted. . . Intelligent movie- goers will receive this picture with open arms. For the others—doubtful appeal. The only criticism that might be offered would be the poor sound recording of the Paris opera orchestra, and fuzzy photography at the start of the film."

+ Hollywood Reporter p4 My 9 '36

+ Motion Picr Daily p7 My 7 '36

"Scientific, detailed, 'The Yellow Cruise' offers a valuable contribution to the cinematog-raphic literature on geography, exploration, but in its present form has its intensely interesting passages marred by too separated, lengthy exposition of details. . . Cut to about three reels, 'The Yellow Cruise' would probably make a wonderful travelogue, but in its present form— with English narrative, English sub-titles where on-the-spot French was recorded—it is usable only in foreign, art houses where the clientele is geographically, exploring minded."

+ Phila Exhibitor p34 D 1 '36

"This is a travelog of much higher than average mettle, but well-nigh ruined for the American market by inept handling and editing. . . Even as is, intrinsic merit should make it a good bet for the arties. Had it been properly edited, however, it might have qualified as a feature for regular channels. . . Great deal of the footage is highly interesting and different from the usual run of thin stuff. Photography is unusually good and there is an interesting (though noisy) accompanying musical score. Lecture is in English with the speaker an un-credited Englishman. Good idea, his not being credited: there's no credit due; it's one of the picture's few weaknesses. He has a dull, tiring voice and an astonishingly constant misconception of diction. About a third of what he says is inaudible. His whole style is shaky in the cutting; it's inexpertly done and there isn't enough of it; taking out 15 or 20 minutes would help a lot."

+ + Variety p15 N 25 '36

YELLOWSTONE. Universal 62min Ag 30 '36

Cast: Henry Hunter, Judith Barratt. Andy Devine. Ralph Morgan

Director: Arthur Lubin

See issue of September 28, 1936 for other reviews of this film

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A: hardly; Y and C: little value."

+ Christian Century p135 O 14 '36

"Direction and dialogue are undistinguished; some attractive scenery is shown and the hot water scene is an interesting highlight. . . . The cinema's lethal weapons. Foster, a tragic and pathetic example of a man who has suffered and less much by his bad fortune is well played by Ralph Morgan. Suitability: adults & adolescents."

+ + M Film Bul p175 O 36

"Fair. Family-mature."

+ Motion Picr Guide D 36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; ++ Fair; — Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
YELLOWSTONE—Continued

"A murder melodrama laid in beautiful Yellowstone Park. This piquant combination will not be enjoyed by those who like the beauty of nature unmarred by bandits and sudden death. Most audiences, however, will enjoy the rather adroit interweaving of love and mystery against the superb background of falls, geysers, and high mountain trails. Adolescents, 12-16: matter of taste; children, 8-12: no."

Motion Pict R p9 S '36
"A and Y: mediocre; C: doubtful."
Parents' M p44 N '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"Adults."
Christian Science Monitor O 3 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"Far-fetched tale handicapped by the rather poor showing of Henry Hunter and Judith Barret in the leads, this emerges as weak second-feature farce. Family."
— Box Office p19 S 26 '36

"Fine Yellowstone Park background is enjoyable highlight of fairly good melodrama."
+ — Film Daily p3 S 19 '36

"Outside of a couple of fantastic sidelights on natural science, this [mystery] hits the deep-end in interest. With the scenic and underground phenomena of Yellowstone Park serving as the background, the narrative staggers along minus suspense, excitement or logic. 'Yellowstone' is strictly of minor dual rating, and can be counted on for anything but support."
— Variety p16 S 23 '36

++ Exceptionally Good; + Good; +— Fair; —+ Mediocre; — Poor; —— Exceptionally Poor
ANNUAL INDEX

Under the names of the leading actors and actresses will be found the productions in which they have taken part.

Under the director's name will be found a list of the films which he directed.

Under the headings Books, Plays and Short Stories (Adapted) will be found the author, title of published work and the title of the film. When the title of the film differs from the title of the book, the film's title is given in parenthesis, thus:

Eberhart, M. G.

From this dark stairway (Murder of Dr Harrigan)

An annual title index containing all films which have appeared in the various numbers from December 16, 1935 through December 28, 1936 follows the Annual Index.

ACTORS AND ACTRESSES

Abel, Walter
Allan, Carlson
Allan, doubly
Allan, Edward
Allan, Trainer
Albright, Walter
Ainley, Jack
Albertson, Jack
Adrien, Aline
Aherne, Brian
Abel, Myron

Three Guard
Three Rascals

Burning

Unknown

China

Here

Big

Thanks

Captain

Sutter's

Pension

Fury

East

Salute

Stir

Ladies

Ladies

In

Love

Ranger

Ameche, Alphonse

Walter

Under

Judith

Under

Director's

Under

December

1937

1936

this name

the living

character

director

Stir

the chair

of

the automobile

of

the

Shad

Tale

Tales

of

a woman rebels

Adrienne

Morals

Marcus

Allen, Bob

Ranger

courage

Unknown

ranger

Allen, Fred

Thanks

a million

Allen, Gracie

Big

broadcast

of 1936

Big

broadcast

of 1937

Here

comes Cookie

Allen, Jimmy

Sky

parade

Allen, Judith

Bathing

gold

Allen, Robert

Guard

that girl

Pride

of

the

Marines

Astor, Claude

Three

live ghosts

Allwyn, Astrid

Flying

hostess

Alpar, Gitta

I give my heart

Alvarado, Don

Red wagon

Spy

77

Ameche, Don

Ladies

in love

Ramona

Sins

of man

Ames, Adrienne

Abdul

the dammed

Anderson, Eddie

Green pastures

Andre, Lona

Lucky

terror

Skybound

Andrews, Stanley

Wild

Brian

Kent

Angel, Heather

Daniel

Boone

Last

of

the

Mohicans

Perfect

gentleman

Three

musketeers

Angel, Oscar

Fire

trap

Shadows

of

the

Orient

Appleby, Dorothy

North

of

Nome

Arledge, John

Two

in rebell

You

may be next

Arlen, Richard

Calling

of

Dan

Matthews

Mine

with

the iron door

Three

live

ghosts

Arllis, George

East

meets west

Mister

Hobo

Transatlantic tunnel

Armetta, Henry

Let's

sing

again

Magnificent

brute

Three

children

and

a queen

Armstrong, Edwina

Once

in

a blue moon

Armstrong, Louis

Pennies

from heaven

Armstrong, Robert

All

American

chump

Dangerous

waters

Ex-Mrs

Bradford

Public

enemy's wife

Without orders

Arnold, Edward

Come

and get it

Crime

and punishment

Diamond

Jim

Nest

Nero

Wolf

Remember

last night

Sutter's

gold

Arthur, Jean

Adventure

in Manhattan

Diamond

Jim

Ex-Mrs

Bradford

If

you could only cook

Mr

Deeds

goes to town

More than

a secretary

The

plainman

Public

menace

Ascroft, Peggy

Rhodes, the diamond master

Astaire, Fred

Follow

the fleets

Singing

time

Top hat

Ashner, Nils

Abdul

the dammed

Astor, Mary

And

so they were married

Doderworth

Lady

from nowhere

Man

of iron

Murder

of

Dr

Harrigan

Trapped

by television

Akins, Robert

Cardinal

Atwill, Lionel

Absolute

quiet

Captain

Blood

Lady

of secrets

Till

we meet again

Auer, Mischa

Gay

desperado

Three

smart

girls

Aumont, Jean-Pierre

Lac

Aux

Dames

Auryn, Gene

Big

show

Comin' round the mountain

Guns

and guitars

Melody

trail

Sagebrush

troubadour

Singing

cowboy

Singing

vagabond

Tumbling

tumbleweeds

Ayres, Low

Lady

be careful

Leathernecks

have landed

Murder

with pictures

Panic

on

the air

Shakedown

Babochkin, Boris

Three

women

Bacon, Irving

Drift

fence

Bacque, André

Maria

Chapdelaine

Baker, Benny

Drift

fence

Lady

be careful

Millions

in

the air

Murder

with pictures

Panic

on

the air

Rose

Bowl

Bakewell, William

Lady

luck

Sea

spoilers

Balfour, Betty

Born

for glory

Baihleff, Nikita

Once

in

a blue

moon

Ball, George

Men

of

the plains

Ballew, Smith

Palm

Springs

Racing

lady

Bancroft, George

Hell ship

Morgan

Mr

Deeds

goes to town

Wedding present

ACTORS AND ACTRESSES
—Continued

Banks, Leslie
Barnes, Maxine
Transatlantic tunnel
Barbiere, George
Early to bed
Here comes Cookie
Preview murder mystery
Spendthrift
Three married men
Barclay, Joan
Glory trail
Men of the plains
Prison shadows
West of Nevada
Barnes, Binnie
Diamon Jim
Last of the Mohicans
Magnificent brute
Rendezvous
Small town girl
Sutter’s gold
Three smart girls
Barnes, Jane
Frontier justice
Barrett, Vince
Captain calamity
Dancing feet
Rest cure
Yellow cargo
Barondess, Barbara
Easy money
Barrat, Robert
Dr Socrates
Draegerman courage
Trailin’ west
Barrott, Judith
Flying hostess
Yellowstone
Baxter, Mary Jane
Ladies love hats
Barrie, Mona
Here comes trouble
Love on the run
Melodyingers on Storm over the Andes
Barrie, Wendy
Love on a bet
Millions in the air
Scandals of Paris
Speed
Ticket to paradise
Under your spell
Barrymore, Dolores Costello
Little Lord Fauntleroy
Yours for the asking
Barrymore, John
Romeo and Juliet
Barrymore, Lionel
Ah, wilderness
Devil doll
Gorgeous hussy
Return of Peter Grimm
Road to glory
Voice of Bugle Ann
Bartholomew, Freddie
Anna Karenina
Devil is a sissy
Little Lord Fauntleroy
Lloyds of London
Professional soldier
Bartlett, Michael
Follow your heart
Music goes ‘round
She married her boss
Barton, Buzzy
Feud of the west
Riding avenger
Romance rides the range
Barton, Finis
Secret patrol
Barton, James
His family tree
Bassegio, Cesco
Alpine love
Bato-Ochir
Son of Mongolia
Batobrina, G.
Children of the revolution
Beauclé, André
Le Barbier de Seville
Baur, Harry
Crime et châtiment
I stand condemned
Les Misérables
Baxter, Alan
Case against Mrs Ames
Mary Burna, fugitive
Parole
Baxter, Jane
Thirteen hours by air
Baxter, Jane
Dusty ermine
Beer, Warner
King of burlesque
Prisoner of Shark Island
Road to glory
Robin Hood of El Dorado
To Mary—with love
White hunter
Bayer, Ferdinand
Don Bosco
Beat, John
M’iliss
We who are about to die
Behaves, Louise
Rainbow on the river
Beck, Thomas
Can this be Dixie?
Every Saturday night
Becker, Janet
I’d give my life
Love before breakfast
Red the rose
Beery, Noah
Crimson circle
King of the damned
Beery, Noah, Jr.
Parole
Stormy
Beery, Wallace
Ah, wilderness
Message to Garcia
Old dutch
O’Shaughnessy’s boy
Bell, Rex
Idaho kid
Men of the plains
Too much beef
West of Nevada
Bellamy, Ralph
Dangerous intrigue
Final hour
Hands across the table
Man who lived twice
Navy wife
Roaming lady
Straight from the shoulder
Wild Brian Kent
Belia, Aida
Gesuza, la sposa Garibal- dina
Benchley, Robert
How to behave
Piddicaddy Jim
Bennett, Constance
Everything is thunder
Ladies in love
Bennett, Joan
Big, brown eyes
Man who broke the bank
at Monte Carlo
She couldn’t take it
Thirteen hours by air
Two for tonight
Two in a crowd
Wedding present
Benny, Jack
Big broadcast of 1937
Broadway melody of 1926
It’s in the air
Benson, Elaine
Old curiosity shop
Berakova, Jarmla
Young love
Bergen, Connie
Too much beef
Bergman, Ingrid
Son of the aurora borealis
Bergner, Elisabeth
As you like it
Bernard, Armand
Amphitryon
Bernard, Nerio
Tempo Massimo
Bernard, Paul
Les Misérables
Berri, Mady
La Maternelle
Berriau, Simone
Ciboulette
Berry, W. H.
Once in a million
Bertace, Willie
Racing lady
Bettrini, Cesare
Wedding march
Bezan, Isla
Wolves of the underworld
Bickford, Charles
East of Java
The plainman
Pride of the Marines
Red wagon
Rose of the Rancho
Billiotti, Enzo
One hundred days of Napo- leon
Billotto, Camillo
Lorenzino de Medici
Bing, Herman
Adventure in Manhattan
Champagne Waltz
Come closer folks
Bird, Richard
Crouching beast
Brews, Tula
Crime and punishment
White legion
Blackmer, Sidney
False pretenses
Fire trap
Forced landing
Heart of the west
House of secrets
Missing girls
President’s mystery
Blake, Gladys
Racing blood
Blake, Judith
Wanted: Jane Turner
Blakely, James
Desperado
Blakely, Olive
Come out of the pantry
Blanch, Peter
Crime et châtiment
Blancy, Sally
This is the life
Blavette
Les Amours de Toni
Blondell, Joan
Bullets or ballots
Colleen
Gold diggers of 1937
Miss Pacific Fleet
Sons o’ guns
Stage struck
Three men on a horse
Blore, Eric
Diamond Jim
Ex-Mrs Brandt
I dream too much
Piddicaddy Jim
Seven keys to Baldpate
Smartest girl in town
Sons o’ guns
Swing time
Two in the dark
Blue, Monte
Nevada
Prison shadows
Song of the Gringo
Trails of the wildebeast
Treachery rides the range
Blumenthal-Tamarina, M. M.
Greater promise
Boardman, Virginia True
Crime patrol
Bogart, Humphrey
Bullets or ballots
China Clipper
Great O'Malley
Isle of fury
Petified forest
Two against the world
Bogda, Marja
Young forest
Bogolybov, N.
Seven brave men
Bohnen, Michael
Private life of Louis XIV
Boitel, Jeanne
Army of Ryan
Boland, Mary
Early to bed
A son comes home
Two for tonight
Wives never know
Boles, John
Craig's wife
Littlest rebel
Message to Garcia
Rose of the Rancho
Bollman, Hana Heinz
Praquita
Bolognesi, Gina
Milizia Territoriale
Bond, Ford
Hunters paradise
Thrills with daredevils
Bond, Ward
Avenging waters
Cattle thief
Conflict
Crash Donovan
Legion of terror
Pride of the Marines
Bondi, Beulah
Case against Mrs Ames
Gorgeous husky
Moon's our home
Bosworth, Robert
Dark hour
Wildcat trooper
Boucher, Chili
Mr Cohen takes a walk
Bourday, Simone
La porteuse de pain
Bourdelle, Thomy
Seven sinners
Bourne, Whitney
Once in a blue moon
Boyd, Bill
Eagle's brood
Racing Luck
Boyd, William
Bar 20 rides again
Burning gold
Call of the prairie
Federal agent
Go get 'em Haines
Heart of the west
Hopalong Cassidy returns
Three on the trail
Boyer, Charles
Le Bonheur
Garden of Allah
Bracey, Sidney
Changing of the guard
Bradley, Grace
Dangerous waters
E-man
Sitting on the moon
Brady, Alice
Go west young man
Harvester
Metropolitan
My man Godfrey
Three smart girls
Brandon, Henry
Killer at large
Brandt, Ivan
Forget me not
Brantford, Mickey
Last journey
Mr Cohen takes a walk
Breakston, George
Return of Peter Grimm
Breen, Bobby
Sing again
Rainbow on the river
Brennan, Walter
Banjo on my knee
Come and get it
Three good fathers
Brent, Evelyn
Forgotten woman
It couldn't have happened
President's mystery
Song of the trail
Brent, George
Case against Mrs Ames
Give me your heart
Golden arrow
In person
More than a secretary
Snowed under
Special agent
Brent, Romney
East meets west
Brian, Mary
Killer at large
Once in a million
Spendthrift
Three married men
Brice, Fanny
Great Ziegfeld
Brick, Ben
Itto
Bridge, Al
Fast bullets
Brignonne, Lilla
Il Serpente a Sonagli
Brissec, Virginia
Murder by an aristocrat
Brisson, Carl
Ship cafe
Broderick, Helen
Bride walks out
Love on a bet
Murder on a bridge path
Smartest girl in town
Swing time
To beat the band
Brodzisz, Adam
Young forest
Brokberg, J. Edward
Crime of Dr Forbes
Sins of man
Star for a night
Brook, Clive
Love in exile
Brooks, Louise
Empty saddles
Brooks, Marjorie
She shall have music
Brooks, Phyllis
Another face
Brophy, Edward
Kelly the second
Show them no mercy
Spendthrift
Brown, Joe E.
Earthworm tractors
Midsummer night's dream
Polo Joe
Sons o' guns
Brown, Johnny Mack
Between men
Courageous avenger
Crooked trail
Desert phantom
Everyman's law
Rogue of the range
Under cover man
Brown, Tom
And sudden death
Annapolis farewell
Freckles
Gentle Julia
I'd give my life
Rose Bowl
Brown, Charles A.
Federal agent
Brown, Lucille
Crooked trail
Tumbling tumbleweeds
Bruce, Nigel
Charge of the Light Brigade
Follow your heart
Bruce, Virginia
Born to dance
Garden murder case
Great Ziegfeld
Here comes the band
Metropolitan
Pirate party on Catalina Island
Brumis, Anne-Marie
Youth of today
Bryan, Jane
Captain's kid
Bryant, Nana
Blackmailer
Bryning, John
Rembrandt
Buchanan, Jack
Come out of the pantry
When knights were bold
Buck, Frank
Fang and claw
Buckler, John
Tarzan escapes
Bunchuk, Yasha
Moscow moods
Bupp, Tommy
Conflict
Roarin' guns
Burgess, Betty
Coronado
Burgess, Helen
The plainsman
Burke, Billie
Craig's wife
Feather in her hat
My American wife
Piccadilly Jim
She couldn't take it
Burke, James
Forgotten faces
Leathernecks have landed
Burke, Kathleen
Last outpost
Nevada
Burnette, Smiley
Big show
Comin' round the mountain
Guns and guitars
Melody trail
Sagebrush troubadour
Singing cowboy
Singing vagabond
Tumbling tumbleweeds
Burnier, Robert
Ciboulette
Burns, Bob
Big broadcast of 1937
Rhythm on the range
Burns, George
Big broadcast of 1938
Big broadcast of 1937
Here comes Cookie
Burud, Billy
Cowboy and the kid
Pride of the Marines
Burton, Frederick
Calling of Dan Matthews
Bush, Mae
Bohemian girl
Bushell, Anthony
Dusty ermine
Bushman, Francis X., Jr.
Caryl of the mountains
Bushuev, C.
We are from Kronstadt
Butterworth, Charles
Half angel
Magnificent obsession
Moon's our home
Rainbow on the river
We went to college
Byington, Spring
Back to nature
Educating father
Eve's Saturday night
Girl on the front page
Byron, Walter
Bridge of sighs
Ebsen, Buddy
Banjo on my knee
Born to dance
Captain January

Eberle, Maude
Doughnuts and society
Happiness C.O.D.
Leavenworth case

Eddy, Nelson
Rose Marie

Edwards, Alan
If you could only cook
Egbert, Marta
Divine spark
Ellers, Sally

Don't get personal
Florida special
Remember last night
Strike me pink
Without orders

Ekulund, Karin

Emam, Pooja

Elambarl, Paulette
La Maternelle

Eliot, John
Man of Iron
Muder of Dr. Harrigan

Elliot, Gordon
Case of the velvet claws

Elliot, John
Bulldog courage

Ellis, Edward
Chatterbox

Lady consents
Return of Peter Grimm
Texas Rangers

Wanderer of the waste-land
Winter set

Ellis, Mary
Patrol lady

Ellis, Patricia
Boulder dam
Case of the lucky legs
Down the stretch

Fleshman love
Love begins at twenty
Pay-Off
Postal inspector
Sing me a love song
Snowed under

Ellins, Jimmy
Bar 20 rides again
Call of the prairie

Eggie's brood
Heart of the west
Hitch hike lady
Leathernecks have landed

The plainsman
Three on the trail

Engela, Wera
Great impersonation
Hong Kong nights

Erickson, Glenn
Drift fence

Erickson, Helen
Courageous avenger

Erikson, Leif
Girl of the Ozarks

Ernest, George
Racing luck
Song of the saddle

Too many parents

Ernest, Harry
Heroes of the range

Errol, Leon
Coronado

Erm, Stuart
Absolute quiet
All American chump

Ceiling zero

Exclusive story
Pisskin parade

Women are trouble

Esmond, Carl
Invitation to the waltz

Evans, Clifford
Ourselves alone

Evans, Madge
Exclusive story
Moonlight murder

Pennies from heaven

Piccadilly Jim
Transatlantic tunnel
Evans, Muriel
Boss rider of Gun Creek
Call of the prairie
House of secrets
King of the Pecos
Missing

New frontier
Silver spurts

Three on the trail
Throwback

Everest, Barbara
Scrooge

Fairbanks, Douglas, Jr.
Amateur gentleman

Mimi

Fawcett, Armando
Il Re Buriione

Farebrother, Violet
Mr. Cohen takes a walk

Fares, Oreste
Passaporto Rosso

Farley, Dot
Gasooleos

Farley, Edward
Music goes round

Farmer, Frances
Border flight

Come and get it
Rhythm on the range
Too many parents

Farnum, Franklyn
Frontier Justice

Farnum, William
Betwixt men
Fighting cowboy

Farr, Patricia
Lady in scarlet
Lady luck

Farrar, Gwen
She shall have music

Farrell, Charles
Fighting youth
Flying doctor
Forbidden heaven
Trouble ahead

Farrell, Glenda
Gold diggers of 1933
Here comes Carter
High tension

Law in her hands
Miss Pacific Fleet
Nobody's fool
Smart blonde
Snowed under

Faye, Alice
King of burlesque
Music is magic
Poor little rich girl
Sing, baby, sing

Fazenda, Louise
Bad boy

Colleen
Doughnuts and society
Forgotten women

I married a doctor
Widow from Monte Carlo

Federova, Z.
Three women

Fellows, Edith
And so they were married

Pennies from heaven
She married her boss

Tugboat princess

Fenton, Leon
House of secrets
Muder on a bridge path

Two in the dark

Ferruson, Al
Roamin' wild

Ferida, Luisa
Il Re Buriione

Fernandel
La Porteuse de Pain

Fetchit, Stepin
Steamboat round the bend

Virginia Judge
Field, Virginia
Thank you, Jeeves
Fields, Stanley
Mine with the iron door
O'Malley of the Mounted
Fields, W. C.
Pappy
Finkenbeller, Hall
Royal waltz
Fiocello, Odette
Amphitryon
Flynn, Errol
Captain Blood
Charge of the Light Brigade
Ponda, Henry
I dream too much
Moon's our home
Spendthrift
Trail of the lonesome pine
Way Down East
Foran, Dick
Big noise
California mail
Earthworm tractors
Golden arrow
Guns of the Pecos
Moonlight on the prairie
Song of the saddle
Trailin' west
Treachery rides the range
Forbes, Ralph
Daniel Boone
I'll name the murderer
Love letters of a star
Ford, Francis
Charlie Chan at the circus
Ford, Wallace
Another face
Rogues' tavern
A son comes home
Forest, Frank
Big broadcast of 1937
Foresta, Franco
For love of you
Forst, Willi
Royal Waltz
Foster, Norman
Bishop misbehaves
Everybody's old man
Fatal lady
Fire trap
High tension
I cover Chinatown
Leavenworth case
Suicide squad
Superspeed
Foster, Preston
Annie Oakley
Last days of Pompeii
Love before breakfast
Murder 'em up
We who are about to die
We're only human
Fowley, Douchas
12 Maiden Lane
Navy born
36 hours to kill
Francis, Kay
Give me your heart
I found Stella Parish
White angel
Frances, Ingeborg
Der Kampf
Franklin, Irene
Along came love
Fraser, Phyllis
Winds of the wasteland
Frawley, William
Desperate
F-man
General died at dawn
Harmony Lane
It's a great life
Princess comes across
Rose Bowl
Ship cafe
Strike me pink
That's a thrill for love
Three married men
Frazier, Robert
Never too late
Frederick, Pauline
My marriage
Ramona
French, Charles
Western courage
Fritchie, Barbara
Thunder mountain
Wild mustang
Froman, Jane
Stars over Broadway
Frost, Philip
Berooge
Furness, Betty
All American chump
Here comes Cookie
Magnificent obsession
Mister Cinderella
President's mystery
Three wise guys
Gable, Clark
Cain and Mabel
Love on the run
Mutiny on the Bounty
San Francisco
Wife versus secretary
Gabriel, Lynn
Heart of the west
Gael, Josseline
Les Misérables
Gale, June
Heroes of the range
Riding avenger
Swifty
Gale, Roberta
No man's range
Gallagher, Richard 'Skeets'
Polo Joe
Galland, Jean
Le Barbier de Seville
Gallaudet, John
Alibi for murder
Gambarelli, Maria
Here's to romance
Garat, Henri
Amphitryon
Garbo, Greta
Anna Karenina
Gardner, Joan
Forget me not
Man who could work miracles
Garzan, William
Alibi for murder
Blackmaller
Flying hostess
Man hunt
Milky way
Navy born
Sky parade
Garraga, Martin
Lawless border
Garriick, John
Woman alone
Gateson, Marjorie
Gentleman from Louisiana
Three married men
Gaye, Gregory
Charlie Chan at the opera
Gaynor, Janet
Ladies in love
Small town girl
George, Gladys
Valiant is the word for Carrie Geray, Steve
Dance band
Gerrard, Gene
Mister Hobo
Scandals of Paris
Glacchetti, Musco
Crooked love
Giacchetti, Gino Franco
Gruzza, la Sposa Garibalda
Gibson, Diana
Dangerous waters
Gibson, Hoot
Cavalcade of the west
Feud of the west
Frontier Justice
Last outlaw
Lucky terror
Powdersmoke range
Riding avenger
Swifty
Gibson, Wynne
Come closer, folks
Crouching beast
Girard, John
Secret agent
Gigli, Beniamino
Forgot me not
Gilbert, John
Pirate party on Catalina Island
Gillingwater, Claude
Prisoner of Shark Island
Ticket to paradise
Girardot, Etiennette
Half angel
Gish, Dorothy
Wanted men
Gleason, James
Big game
Don't turn 'em loose
Ex-Bradford
Murder on a bridge path
Plot thickens
Wife only human
Yours for the asking
Gleason, Russell
Condemned to live
Wellington Pike goes west
Gloria, Leda
Il Cappello a tre Punte
Godard, Paulette
Modern times
Gog, Gregory
Der Kampf
Gombell, Minna
Miss Pacific Fleet
Two sinners
Gombo
Son of Mongolia
Goodner, Carol
Music hath charms
Student romance
Gordon, C. Henry
Hollywood Boulevard
Love letters of a star
Gordon, Del
Last of the Clintons
Wild mustang
Gorshin, Anatol
Anna
Gottschalk, Ferdinand
White legion
Gould, William
Desert guns
Trigger Tom
Wildcat Saunders
Goya, Mona
Juggernaut
Grable, Betty
Collegiate
Don't turn 'em loose
Grabley, Ursula
Annette in paradise
Graves, Paul
Bengal tiger
Hot money
Isle of Fury
Mr Cohen takes a walk
Graham, Margaret
Countertieft
Crime over London
Criminal lawyer
Make way for a lady
Night waitress
Three musketeers
Trouble and triumph
Two in the dark
Granach, Alexander
Gypies
ACTORS and ACTRESSES  —Continued

Grant, Cary
Jailbird's eyes
Last outpost
Pirate party on Catalina Is.
Our relations
Suzy
Sylvia Scarlett
Wedding present
Grant, Frances
Born to fight
Cavalry
Traitor
Granville, Bonita
Song of the saddle
These three
Grapewin, Charley
Without orders
Gray, Gilda
Rose Marie
Gray, Lawrence
Dizzy dames
Timber war
Greet, Clare
Murder in the red barn
Greetiel, Jacques
La Porteuse de Pain
Grey, Anne
Just my luck
Grey, Nan
Crash Donovan
Sea spotters
Three smart girls
Grey, Shirley
Mystery of the Marie Celeste
Griffith, Gordon
Blazing justice
Grossmith, George
Girl from Maxim's
Groves, Fred
Wolves of the underworld
Grundgens, Gustaf
Liebeherr
Guilfoyle, Paul
Winter set
Guitry, Sacha
Paster
Guitty, Madeleine
Ciboulette
La Porteuse de Pain
Gulino, Giuseppe
Gesuzza la Sposa Garibaldina
Gun, Judy
Last Journey
Private secretary
Gwenn, Edmund
All American champ
Anthony Adverse
Bishop misbehaves
Mad holiday
Sylvia Scarlett
Walking dead
Hans, Dolly
Broken blossoms
Hackett, Karl
Cavalry
Desert phantom
Traitor
Haden, Sara
'Can this be Dixie?'
Crime of Dr Forbes
Laughing at trouble
Little Miss Nobody
Maniacal obsession
Our Sauvignon's boy
Hale, Alan
Message to Garcia
Our relations
Hale, Sonnie
First a girl
She's love again
Haley, Jack
Coronado
F-man
Mister Cinderella
Pigskin parade
Poor little rich girl
Hall, Henry
Music hath charms

Hall, Porter
General died at dawn
Too many parents
Hall, Thurston
Case of the missing man
Lone wolf returns
Man who lived twice
Roaming lady
Shakedown
Theodora goes wild
Three wise guys
Hall, Warren
Freshman love
Hall, William
Flying hostesses
His significant brute
Halliday, John
Desire
Fatal lady
Hollywood Boulevard
Nineteenth fingers on
Peter Ibbetson
Hamilton, Margaret
Moon's our home
Hanley, Jimmy
Born for glory
Hanson, Lars
On the sunny side
Hardie, Russell
Down to the sea
Harvester
Killer at large
Nero Wolfe
Harding, Ann
Lady consents
Peter Ibbetson
Witness chair
Hardwicke, Sir Cedric
Nine days a queen
Pig of old Drury
Harley, Oliver
Bohemian girl
Our relations
Hare, J. Robertson
Jack of all trades
Harker, Gordon
Amateur gentleman
Harlow, Jean
Libeled lady
Riffraff
Suzy
Wife versus secretary
Harrigan, Nedda
Charlie Chan at the opera
Harrigan, William
His family tree
Harris, Mildred
Never too late
Hart, Gordon
Guns of the Pecos
Isle of fury
Hart, Teddy
Three men on a horse
Harley, Paul
Two hearts in harmony
Harvey, Lillian
Invocation to the waltz
Harwood, John
Once in a million
Hatton, Raymond
Arizona raiders
Hawkins, Jack
Pig of old Drury
Haworth, Vinton
Night watchman
Without orders
Haydon, Julian
Longest night
His son comes home
Hayes, Bernadine
Absolute quiet
Judgment book
Trigger Tom
Hayes, George
Call of the prairie
Heart of the west
Hopalong Cassidy returns
Hayward, Louis
Feather in her hat
Luckiest girl in the west
Hayward, Richard
Lucky of the Irish
Healy, Ted
It's in the air
Longest night
Mad holiday
San Francisco
Sing, baby, sing
Speed
Henderson, Charles
Seeing Nellie home
Henry, Dizzy
Unknown ranger
Henry, Charlotte
Forbidden heaven
Gentleman from Louisiana
Hearts in bondage
Mandarin mystery
Return of Jimmy Valentine
Three kids and a queen
Henry, Louis
End of the trail
Henson, Leslie
Girl from Maxim's
Hepburn, Katherine
Mary of Scotland
Sylvia Scarlett
A woman rebels
Herbert, Hugh
Colleen
Love begins at twenty
Miss Pacific Fleet
One rainy afternoon
Sing me a love song
To beat the devil
We went to college
Hersholt, Jean
Country doctor
His brother's wife
Reunion
Sins of man
Hervey, Irene
Absolute quiet
Along came love
Charlie Chan in Shanghai
His night out
Hicks, Scovini
Scrooge
Hilliard, Harriet
Follow the fleet
Hinz, Werner
Making of a king
Hobbs, Halliwell
Changing of the guard
Hobson, Valerie
August week-end
Great impersonation
Thugboat princesses
Hodges, Horace
Three maxims
Hoerbiger, Paul
Liebelei
Royal waltz
Hogan, Michael
Wolves of the underworld
Hohl, Arthur
Devil doll
Guard that girl
Lone wolf returns
Humphrey, Erskine
Supercharged
Holden, Gloria
Dracula's daughter
Holmes, Phillips
Chatterbox
Divine spark
General Spanky
House of a thousand candles
Holt, David
Straight from the shoulder
Trouble for two
Holt, Jack
Crash Donovan
Dangerous neighbors
End of the trail
Littlest rebel
North of Nome
San Francisco
Storm over the Andes
Homans, Robert
Easy money
Homolka, Oscar
Everything is thunder
Rhodes, the diamond master
Linden, Eric
Ah, wilderness
In his steps
Old hutch
Robin Hood of El Dorado
Voice of Eagle Ann
Lindsay, Margaret
Dangerous
Frisco kid
Isle of fury
Lady consents
Law in his hands
Personal maid’s secret
Public enemy’s wife
Lister, Bruce
Ourselves alone
Lister, Francis
Living dangerously
Livano, Boris
Dubovsky
Livingston, Robert
Three mesquittes
Lloyd, Alma
Big noise
Song of the saddle
Lloyd, Harold
Brilliant marriage
Kind lady
Lloyd, Harold
Milky way
Locchi, Pino
On hundred days of Napoleon
Locher, Charles
Charlie Chan in Shanghai
Locke, Katherine
Straight from the shoulder
Lockhart, Gene
Brides are like that
Career woman
Times Square playboy
Lockhart, Kathleen
Brides are like that
Times Square playboy
Lockwood, Margaret
Beloved vagabond
Loder, John
Daredevils of the earth
Man who changed his mind
Ourselves alone
Lodge, John
Ourselves alone
Loebinger, Lotte
Der Kampf
Leitfus, Cecilia
Once in a blue moon
Logan, Ella
Flying hostess
Lombard, Carole
Hands across the table
Love before breakfast
My man Godfrey
Princess comes across
London, Tom
Guns and guitars
Long, Lotus
Last of the pagans
Longden, John
Thoroughbred
Lloyd, Pauline
Feather in her hat
Loring, Ann
Robin Hood of El Dorado
Loring, Michael
Postal Inspector
Lorre, Peter
Crime and punishment
Secret agent
Losch, Tilly
Garden of Allah
Lime-light
Longstreet, Marianne
On the sunnyside
Louise, Anita
Anthony Adverse
Brides are like that
Midsummer night’s dream
Personal maid’s secret
Story of Louis Pasteur
Love, Edmund
Garden murder case
Girl on the front page
Grand exit
Great impersonation
King Solomon of Broadway
Mad holiday
Seven sinners
Thunder in the night
Lowell, Helen
Wild Brian Kent
Lo, Myra
After the thin man
Great Ziegfeld
Libeled lady
Petitcoat fever
To Mary—with love
Whipsaw
Wife versus secretary
Lugozi, Betia
Invincible ray
Mystery of the Marie Celeste
Postal Inspector
 Lukas, Paul
Doddsworth
I found Stella Parish
Ladies in love
Three musketeers
Luke, Keye
Charlie Chan at the circus
Charlie Chan at the race track
Charlie Chan in Shanghai
Lund, Lucille
Prison shadows
Timber war
Lupino, Ida
Anything goes
Daredevils of the earth
Gay desperado
One rainy afternoon
Yours for the asking
Lyon, Ben
Dancing feet
Down under the sea
Frisco waterfront
Navy wife
McCoy, Tim
Aces and eights
Border caballero
Bulldog courage
Ghost rancher
Lightnin’ Bill Carson
Lion’s den
Outlaw deputy
Prescott kid
Rooarin’ guns
Traitor
McCrea, Joel
Adventure in Manhattan
Banjo on my knee
Barbary Coast
Come and get it
Splendor
These three
Two in a crowd
MacDonald, J. Farrell
Excessive story
Florida special
Shadows of the Orient
Stormy
Waterfront lady
MacDonald, Jeanette
Rose Marie
San Francisco
MacFarland, Spanky
General Spanky
Trail of the lonesome pine
MacGinnis, Niall
Luck of the Irish
Ourselves alone
McGlynn, Frank, Sr.
King of the Royal Mounted
Littlest rebel
McGowan, J. P.
Secret patrol
MacGregor, Malcolm
I’ll name the murderer
McGuire, John
Steamboat round the bend
This is my life
Wanted: Jane Turner
Your Uncle Dudley
Couch, Frisco
Bullets or ballots
Freshman love
Moonlight murdor
Snowed under
Stage struck
Three men on a horse
Mack, Betty
Hair Trigger Casey
Last of the Climpson
Toll of the desert
Mack, Helen
Milky way
Return of Peter Grimm
MacKay, Barry
Born for glory
Private secretary
McCoy, George
Killer at large
Public menace
Two-listed gentleman
McKinney, Florine
Cappy Ricks returns
Dizzy damsels
McLaglen, Cliff
Mystery of the Marie Celeste
McLaglen, Cyril
Daredevils of the earth
McLaglen, Robert
Bengal tiger
Bullets or ballots
Dr Socrates
Foreign legionnaire
Jailbreak
Man of iron
Smart blonde
Times Square playboy
MacMahon, Aline
Ah, wilderness
Kind lady
MacMurray, Fred
Bride comes home
Champagne waltz
Hands across the table
Princess comes across
Texas Rangers
Thirteen hours by air
Trail of the lonesome pine
McNaughton, Charles
Three live ghosts
Macrae, Arthur
Dusty ermine
McRae, Robert
Bunker Bean
Cappy Ricks returns
Madden, Jeanne
Stage struck
Madison, Noel
Easy money
Missing girls
Morals of Marcus
Place that kills
Magnani, Anna
Blind girl of Sorrento
Tempo Massimo
Maguire, Mary
Flying doctor
Makarova, T.
Seven brave men
Mala
Jungle princess
Maleyef, Ikor
Anna
Mallory, Boots
Powdersmoke range
Malvo, Gina
Jack of all trades
Mander, Miles
Three masked men
Mann, Allen
Shake Mr Shakespeare
Manners, David
Hearts in bondage
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

ACTORS AND ACTRESSES

Mannheim, Lucie
East meets west

Thirty-nine steps

Manners, Sheila
Desert phantom

Kelly of the secret service

Lawless range

Moonlight on the prairie

Pigs that killed

Prescott kid

March, Fredric

Anna Karenina

Anthony Adverse

Dark angel

Mary of Scotland

Road to glory

Margaretson, Arthur

Bosh, Marion

Juggernaut

Mystery of the Marie Celeste

Margo

Winterset

Marion, Beth

Avenging waters

Between men

Everyman's law

For the service

Fugitive sheriff

Marlowe, June

Riddle Ranch

Marlowe, Hugh

If we couldn't have happened

Marlowe, John

Brilliant marriage

Marmont, Percy

Secret agent

Marquis, Margaret

Last of the Warrens

Marsh, Carolyn

Shake Mr Shakespeare

Marsh, Garry

When knights were bold

Marsh, Joan

Brilliant marriage

Dancing feet

Marsh, Mabel

Come closer, folks

Counterfeit

Crime and punishment

Lady of secrets

Marshall, Alan

After the thin man

Marshall, Everett

I live for love

Marshall, Herbert

Dark angel

Forgotten faces

Girls' dormitory

If you could only cook

Lady consents

Make way for a lady

Till we meet again

A woman rebels

Marston, Allen

Living dangerously

Martel, June

Fighting youth

Martin, Tony

Back to nature

Martini, Nina

Gay desperado

Here's to romance

Marx, Chico

Night at the opera

Marx, Groucho

Night at the opera

Marx, Harpo

Night at the opera

Mason, Roy

Border patrolman

Valley of wanted men

Massie, Raymond

Things to come

Matthews, Jessie

First a girl

It's love again

Matthews, Lester

Spy 77

Thank you, Jeeves

Too many parents

Mauch, Billy

Anthony Adverse

Maxwell, Edwin

Happiness C. O. D.

Mayerova, Vojtova

Young love

Maynard, Ken

Avening waters

Cattle thief

Fugitive sheriff

Heir to trouble

Heroes of the range

Lawless riders

Western courage

Maynard, Kermit

His fighting blood

Song of the trail

Timber war

Trails of the wild

Way out trooper

Mayo, Frank

Burning gold

Melodrama

Happiness C. O. D.

Kind lady

Messer, George

Tango

Mehaffey, Blanche

Wildcat Saunders

Mellette, Arthur

Lion's den

Melton, James

Sing me a love song

Stars over Broadway

Mendalle, Daniel

Maria Chapdelaine

Menjou, Adolphe

Out of the silent world

Merkel, Beryl

Three live ghosts

Meredith, Durges

Winterset

Merivale, Philip

Give us this world

Merkel, Una

Born to dance

Broadway melody of 1936

It's in the air

Riffraff

Spoede

We went to college

Merman, Ethel

Anything goes

Strike me pink

Messinger, Gertrude

Glazing justice

Metcalfe, Bradley

Millionaire kid

Michael, Gertrude

Forgotten faces

Last outpost

Make way for a lady

Return of Sophie Lang

Second wife

Till we meet again

Woman trap

Middleton, Charles

Song of the saddle

Sunset of power

Miljan, John

Criminal within

Gentleman from Louisiana

North of Nome

Milland, Ray

Big broadcast of 1937

Jungle princess

Next time we love

Return of Sophie Lang

Miller, Hugh

I give my heart

Miller, Walter

Fugitive sheriff

Ghost patrol

Night cargo

Mills, John

Born for glory

Nine days a queen

Milly

I love you only

Tempo Massimo

Milton, Billy

Music hath charms

Milton, Ernest

It's love again

Miranda, Isa

Passaporto Rosso

Mitchell, Frank

Music is magic

Mitchell, Geneva

Cattle thieves

Crime patrol

Lawless riders

Western courage

Mitchell, Grant

Next time we love

Parole

Seven keys to Beldane

Mitchell, Julien

Last journey

Mitchell, Thomas

Theodora goes wild

Mix, Art

Lucky terror

Mix, Ruth

Riding avenger

Mog, Albert

Eclasy

Molshi, Alessandro

Lorenzino de Medici

Monakoff, N.

Dubrovsky

Mong, William V.

Dark hour

Montalvan, Celia

Les Amours de Toni

Montgomery, Douglas

Everything is Thunder

Harmony lane

Montgomery, Robert

Petticoat jeer

Piccadilly Jim

Trouble for two

Moore, Carlyle, Jr.

Fugitive in the sky

Rood gang

Two against the world

Moore, Dennis

Down the stretch

Moore, Dickie

Little red schoolhouse

Timothy's quest

Moore, Grace

King steps out

Moore, Victor

Gold diggers of 1937

Swing time

Moran, Jackie

And so they were married

Vallant is the word for Carrie

Mordvinov, N.

Gypsies

Moreno, Antonio

Bohemian girl

Storm over the Andes

Moreno, Rosita

House of a thousand candles

Morgan, Frank

Dancing pirate

Dimples

Great Ziegfeld

I live my life

Perfect gentleman

Piccadilly

Trouble for two

Morgan, Gene

Alibi for murder

Morgan, Helen

Frankie and Johnny

Showboat

Morgan, Ralph

Condemned to live

General Spanky

Human rights

Little Miss Nobody

Yellowstone

Morley, Gaby

Le Bonheur

Morley, Karen

Devil's squadron

Littlest rebel

Thunder in the night

Morner, Stanley

I conquer the sea
Morris, Chester
Counterfeit
Frankie and Johnnie
Moonlight murder
Pirate party on Catalina Island
They met in a taxi
Three godfathers
Morris, Margaret
Desert guns
Morris, Wayne
King of hockey
Morrison, Joe
It's a great life
Moscovitch, Maurice
Winterset
Mulray, Alan
Fatal lady
Four days' wonder
Give us this night
Ladies in love
Miss 'em up
Rainbow on the river
Muir, Esther
Racing luck
Muir, Gavin
Charlie Chan at the race track
Muir, Jean
Pirater Charlie Three
Woman Counterfeit
Second Rainbow
King White Draegerman
They Ladies
Fatal Muss
Desert Fast
Wedding Dodge
Private of Louis XIV
Mundin, Herbert
Tarzan escapes
Muni, Paul
Dr Socrates
Story of Louis Pasteur
Murat, Jean
La Kermesse Heroique
The second bureau
Murphy, George
Public menace
Woman trap
Murray, Charlie
Dangerous waters
Musco, Angelo
Your troubles are mine
Nace, Anthony
A son comes home
Nace, Ann
Guns of the Pecos
Here comes Carter
King of hockey
Nagel, Conrad
Girl from Mandalay
Wedding present
Yellow cargo
Napier, Diana
For love of you
Land without music
Nares, Owen
I give my heart
Narof, N.
Grain
Nash, Mary
Come and get it
Natoli, Grete
Scotland Yard mystery
Student romance
Nazarro, Cliff
Romance rides the range
Neagle, Anna
Limelight
Peg of old Drury
Three maxims
Neal, Margaret
Fast bullets
Newell, William
Big show
Happy go lucky
Sitting on the moon
Nissen, Greta
Red wagon
Spy 77
Niven, David
Dodsworth
Palm Springs
Thank you, Jeeves
Nixon, Marian
Captain calamity
Dragnet
Reckless way
Tango
Nolan, Doris
The man I marry
Nolan, Lloyd
Counterfeit
Devil's squadron
15 Maiden Lane
One-way ticket
Texas Rangers
You may be next
Noland, Robert
Revol of the Zombies
Norriss, Edward
Show them no mercy
Novoseltzev, I.
Seven brave men
Novotna, Jarmla
Oakie, Jack
Big broadcast of 1936
Champagne waltz
Colleen
Collegiate
Florida special
King of burlesque
Texas Rangers
Oakman, Wheeler
Aces and eights
Oberon, Merle
Dark angel
These three
O'Brien, George
Border patrolman
Daniel Boone
O'Malley of the Mounted
Thunder mountain
Whispering Smith speaks
O'Brien, Pat
Ceiling zero
China Clipper
Great O'Malley
I married a doctor
Public enemy's wife
Stars over Broadway
O'Brien-Moore, Erin
Leavencworth case
Ring around the moon
Two in the dark
O'Connell, Hugh
Affair of Susan
O'Connell, Peggy
Too much beef
O'Connor, Una
Thunder in the night
O'Day, Molly
Lawless border
Skull and Crown
Offerman, George, Jr.
Chatterbox
Outlaw deputy
Olin, Anna
Razzen, Det Aar Jag Det
Oland, Warner
Charlie Chan at the circus
Charlie Chan at the opera
Charlie Chan at the race track
Charlie Chan in Shanghai
Charlie Chan's secret
Oliver, Edna May
Romeo and Juliet
Oliver, Gordon
Fugitive in the sky
Olivier, Laurence
As you like it
I stand condemned
Olsen, Moroni
Farmer in the dell
Grand Jury
M'liss
Mummy's boys
Two in revolt
Yellow dust
Olsen, Olo
Country gentlemen
Ondra, Ann
Knock-out
O'Neal, Zelma
Scandals of Paris
O'Neill, Sally
Too tough to kill
O'Neill, Henry
Pirater Charlie Graduate
Osborn, Bud
Outlaw deputy
Osborne, Vi
Let's sing again
Wives never know
Oscar, Heinz
Seven sinners
Osterman, Jack
Wanted men
O'Sullivan, Maureen
Blithe misbehaves
Devil doll
Tarzan escapes
Voice of Buggle Ann
Ottiano, Rafaela
Devil doll
Owsman, Lynne
Collegiate
Jungle princess
Poppie
Three married men
Owen, Regina
Adventure in Manhattan
Girl on the front page
Love on the run
Petticoat fever
Rose Marie
Yours for the asking
Overley, Monroe
Hideaway girl
Mister Cinderella
Ozerray, Madeleine
Crime et Châtiment
Page, Anita
Hitch hike to heaven
Page, Bradley
Three of a kind
Page, Dorothy
King Solomon of Broadway
Page, Lucille
Moonlight and melody
Pagnani, Andrea
Il Serpente a Sonata
Paley, Natalie
L'homme des Folies Bergere
Sylvia Scarlett
Pallette, Eugene
Easy to take
Ghost goes west
Golden arrow
Luckiest girl in the world
My man Godfrey
Palmer, Kiki
Wedding march
Paola, Dria
Blind girl of Sorrento
Paolieri, Germana
Lorenzino de Medici
Parker, Cecilia
Ah, wilderness
Below the deadline
In his steps
Mine with the iron door
Old hatch
Three live ghosts
Parker, Frank
Sweet surrender
Pigeon, Walter
Big brown eyes
Fadie lady
Pilbeam, Nova
Nine days a queen
Piloto, Camillo
Alpine love
Pisu, Mario
Il Re Bursione
Pitts, Zasu
Affair of Susan
Hail holiday
Plot thickens
Bring me a love song
Thirty hours by air
Pola, Isabella
Alpine love
Polk, Oscar
Green pastures
Pons, Lily
I dream too much
Portman, Eric
Cardinal
Poslavsky, Boris
Peasants
Post, Guy Bates
Fatal lady
Till we meet again
Potel, Victor
Last of the Clintons
Powell, Dick
Colleen
Gold diggers of 1937
Save the women
Post, Gay Bates
Midsummer night's dream
Shape struck
Thanks a million
Powell, Eleanor
Born to dance
Broadway melody of 1936
Powell, William
After the thin man
Ex-Mrs Bradford
Great Ziegfeld
Lebelde lady
My man Godfrey
Powell, William
Under the man
Ex-Mrs Bradford
Great Ziegfeld
Lebelde lady
My man Godfrey
Pryor, Roger
Case of the missing man
Miss Murphy
$1000 a minute
Return of Jimmy Valentine
Sitting on the moon
Ticket to paradise
Purcell, Richard
Jailbreak
King of hockey
Quallen, John
Reunion
Quartermaine, Leon
As you like it
Quensel, Isaac
Raggen, Det Aer Jag Det
Quigley, Charles
Charlie Chan's secret
King of burlesque
Lady from nowhere
Quigley, Juanita
Devil doll
Quillan, Eddie
Gentleman from Louisiana
Mandarin mystery
Rabdan, Tzeven
Son of Mongolia
Racca, Corrado
One hundred days of Napoleon
Rain, George
It had to happen
She couldn't take it
Yours for the asking
Raglan, James
Flying doctor
Raiter, Luise
Great Ziegfeld
Raines, Claude
Anthony Adverse
Hearts divided
Last outpost
Ralph, Jessie
After the thin man
Runkle, Bean
San Francisco
Walking on air
Ratoff, Gregory
Here comes trouble
King of burlesque
Road to glory
Sing, baby, sing
Trouble ahead
Under your spell
Rawlinson, Herbert
Hitch hike to heaven
Ray, Charles
Just my luck
Ray, Rene
Crime over London
Passing of the third floor back
Raye, Martha
Big broadcast of 1937
Hideaway girl
Rhythm on the range
Raymond, Gene
Bride walks out
Love on a dream
Seven keys to Baldpate
Smartest girl in town
Walking on air
Reed, Barbara
Three smart girls
Red, Florence
Frankie and Johnnie
Reed, Philip
Klonlacle Annie
Regan, Phil
Broadway hostess
Happy go lucky
Laughing Irish eyes
Renado, Duncan
Lady luck
Rebellion
Renault, Madeleine
Maria Chapelleina
La Maternelle
Reviyer, Dorothy
Cowboy and the kid
Eagle's brood
Lady in scarlet
Reynolds, Craig
Case of the black cat
Here comes Carter
Jailbreak
Smart blonde
Rhodes, Erik
Criminal lawyer
One rainy afternoon
Second wife
Shakedown Spy
Rhodes, Jane
Forgotten faces
Rice, Florence
Blackmailer
Escape from Devil's Island
Guard that girl
Loneliest night
Panic on the air
Pride of the Marines
Superspeed
Sworn enemy
Voyages are trouble
Rice, Frank
Ivory-handled gun
Rice, Jack
Gasoloons
Rich, Irene
Forgotten women
Richards, Addison
Draegerman courage
Song of a nation
Trailin' west
Richardson, Ralph
Man who could work miracles
Things to come
Richman, Charles
In his steps
Richman, Harry
Music goes 'round
Richmond, Kane
Born to fight
Racing blood
Reckless way
With love and kisses
Richmond, Warner
Courageous avenger
Ridgely, Stanley
Winterset
Riley, Michael
Music goes 'round
Riscoe, Arthur
For love of you
Kiss me goodbye
Risdon, Elizabeth
King steps out
Risome, Gluditta
I love you only
Ritter, Tex
Song of the Gringo
Rivero, Julian
Riddle Ranch
Robert, Helène
Le Barbier de Seville
Robert, Lyda
Bill Tilles
Roberts, Beverly
China Clipper
Hot money
Singing kid
Sons o' guns
Two against the world
Robeson, Paul
Showboat
Robinson, Bill
In old Kentucky
Littlest rebel
Robinson, Edward G.
Barbary Coast
Bullets or ballots
Robson, May
Captain's kid
Rainbow on the river
Three kids and a queen
War versus secretary
Rodon, Francois
Pasteur
Rogers, Buddy
Dance band
Once in a million
Private party on Catalina Island
Rogers, Ginger
Follow the fleet
In person
Swing time
Top hat
Rogers, Jean
Conflict
Sirony
Rogers, Will
In old Kentucky
Steamboat round the bend
Rogoz, Jaromír
Ecstasy
Romantsev, Igor
Children of the revolution
Romero, Cesar
Is Maiden Lane
Love before breakfast
Nobody's fool
Public enemy's wife
Show them no mercy
Rookey, Mickey
Devil is a sissy
Down the stretch
Midsummer night's dream
Rosay, Françoise
La Kermesse Herouque
Pension Mimosas
Rosmini, Gian Paolo
Don Bosco
Ross, Shirley
Big broadcast of 1937
Hideaway girl
Roverol, Jean
Bar 20 rides again
Leavensworth case
Rowlee, Polly
Love letters of a star
Roy, Gloria
Charley Chan at the race track
Rub, Christian
Muder on a bridge path
Rudens, Dyk
Mystic mountain
Ruehmann, Heinz
Frasquita
Ruggles, Charles
Anything goes
Early to bed
Hearts divided
Wives never know
Runman, Siegfried
East of Java
Russell, Elizabeth
Girl of the Ozarks
Russell, Harett
Crime of Dr Crespi
Russell, Rosalind
Cris's wife
It had to happen
Rendezvous
Trouble for two
Under two flags
Rutherford, Ann
Comin' round the mountain
Doughnuts and society
Down under the sea
Harvester
Lawless nineties
Lonely trail
Melody trail
Orogon trail
Singing vagabond
Waterfront lady
Sage, Frances
Without orders
St, John, Al
West of Nevada
Sale, Chic
Gentleman from Louisiana
It's a great life
Man hunt
The man I marry
Samarin-Elsky, E.
Dubrovsky
Sauers, Joseph
Prescott kid
Savo, Jimmy
Once in a blue moon
Sawyer, Joseph
Special investigator
Saylor, Syd
Three mesquites
Scollo, Filippo
Passaporto Rosso
Schildkraut, Joseph
Garden of Allah
Schmelgen, Max
Knock-out
Schmidt, L. A.
Greater promise
Schmitz, Bruno
Der Kampf
Schneider, Magda
Kisses me goodbye
Liebelei
Schonraut, Hans
Knock-out
Schumann-Heink, Mme.
Ernestein
Here's to romance
Scott, Douglas
Easy to take
Scott, Fred
Romance rides the range
Scott, Margaretta
Things to come
Scott, Randolph
And sudden death
Follow the fleet
Go west, young man
Last of the Mohicans
So red the rose
Searl, Jackie
Gentle Julia
Sellen, Charles
In old Kentucky
Seward, Billie
Trails of the wild
Shagaida, S.
Frontier
Shang, Kwan-wu
Song of China
Shannon, Percy
Ellis Island
Show, Winifred
Broadway hostess
Case of the velvet claws
Satan met a lady
Smart blonde
Sons o' guns
Shea, Gloria
Dangerous intrigue
Shearer, Norma
Romeo and Juliet
Shepard, Elaine
I cover Chinatown
Sheridan, Ann
Fighting youth
Great O'Malley
Sheridan, Frank
Conflict
Sheridan, Gall
Hopalong Cassidy returns
Shilling, Marion
Cavalcade of the west
Gun play
Idaho kid
I'll name the murderer
Romance rides the range
Shirley, Anne
Chatterbox
Make way for a lady
M'iss
Steambout round the bend
Shkurat, S.
Frontier
Shoemaker, Ann
Sins of man
Shotter, Winifred
Petitcoat favor
Sidney, Sylvia
Pury
Mary Burns, fugitive
Trail of the lonesome pine
Silvers, Sidney
Born to dance
Simon, Michel
Lac Aux Dames
Le Bonheur
Simon, Simone
Girls' dormitory
Lac Aux Dames
Ladies in love
Sinebnikova, M.
Gypsies
Skipworth, Alison
Dangerous
Duck
Hard luck dame
Hitch hike lady
Princess comes across
Satan met a lady
Two in a crowd
White hunter
Slaughter, Tod
Murder in the red barn
ACTORS AND ACTRESSES — Continued

Sleeper, Martha
From Many’s wonder
Two sinners
Smith, C. Aubrey
Garden of All
Little Lord Fauntleroy
Lloyd of London
Roméo and Juliet
Smith, Pete
Audioscopiks
Schoenicker, Hans
Annette in paradise
Taylor, Gale
Anthony Adverse
Sosor-Barna
Sissi of Mongolia
Sothen, Ann
Don’t gamble with love
Grand exit
Hell Ship Morgan
My American wife
Smartest girl in town
Walking on air
You may be next
Sparks, Ned
Bride walks out
Collegiate
Squinguel, Jose
Pasteur
Squire, Ronald
Come out of the pantry
Dusty ermine
Squire-Warley, Emil
Two hearts in harmony
Sander, Lionel
If you could only cook
Meet Nero Wolfe
Mr Deeds goes to town
More than a secretary
Music goes round
Soak the rich
They met in a taxi
Standing, Sir Guy
Annapolis farewell
‘I’d give my life
Lloyds of London
Palm Springs
Return of Sophie Lang
Stanwyck, Barbara
Anne Oakley
Bambo on my knee
Bride walks out
His brother’s wife
Message to Garcia
Red salute
Starrett, Charles
Along came love
Code of the range
Giant defender
Mysterious avenger
Secret patrol
Steele, Bob
Cavalry
Last of the Warrens
No man’s range
Powdertosome range
Sundown Saunders
Steele, Isobel
I was a captive of Nazi Germany
Sten, Anna
Woman alone
Stenri, Marie
Blind girl of Sorrento
Stephens, Harvey
Tough guy
Stehenson, Henry
Charge of the Light Brigade
Walking on air
Stevens, Onslow
Bridge of sighs
Easy money
Forced landing
Three on the trail
Yellow dust
Stewart, Athole
Jack of all trades
Stewart, James
After the thin man
Born to dance
Gorgeous hussy
Next time we love
Rose Marie
Speed
Stewart, Sophie
As you like it
Murder in the red barn
Stiff, Maria Vincenza
Don Bosco
Stockfeld, Betty
Beloved vagabond
Stockwell, Harry
Here comes the band
Stolarov, S.
Frontier
Stone, Carol
Freckles
Stone, Dorothy
Revolt of the Zombies
Stone, Fred
Farmer in the dell
Grand jury
My American wife
Trail of the lonesome pine
Stone, Lewis
Don’t turn ‘em loose
Shippmates forever
Small town girl
Suzy
Sworn enemy
Three godfathers
Unguarded hour
Stone, Paula
Train ‘em west
Treachery rides the range
Stradner, Rosa
One hundred days of Napoleon
Stuart, Gloria
Crime of Dr Forbes
Girl on the front page
Poor little rich girl
Prisoner of Shark Island
Professional soldier
36 hours to kill
Wanted: Jane Turner
Stuart, Jeanne
The shadow
Stuart, John
Abdi the damned
Bad masked men
Sullavan, Margaret
Moon’s our home
Next time we love
So red the rose
Summerville, George (Slim)
Can this be Dixie?
Captain January
Country doctor
Pepper
Reunion
Way Down East
White Fang
Swanstrom, Karin
On the sunny side
Swarthout, Gladys
Champagne waltz
Give us this night
Rose of the Rancho
Swickost, Joseph
Caryl of the mountains
Sydney, Basil
Accused
Crime over London
Rhodes, the diamond master
Taft, L. M.
Greater promise
Tablot, Lyle
Boulder dam
Broadway hostess
Go west, young man
Law in her hands
Murder by an aristocrat
Trapped by television
Talley, Marion
Follow your heart
Talmadge, Richard
Never too late
Speed reporter
Tamura
Sweet surrender
Tamiroff, Akim
General died at dawn
Jungle princess
Woman trap
Tashman, Lilyan
Frankie and Johnnie
Tauber, Richard
Land without music
Taylor, Forrest
Too much beef
Taylor, Kent
Accusing finger
Florida special
My marriage
Ramona
Sky parade
Taylor, Mary
Soak the rich
Taylor, Robert
Broadway melody of 1936
Gorgeous hussy
His brother’s wife
Magnificent obsession
Private number
Small town girl
Thirkof, Boris
Three women
Tearle, Conway
Desert guns
Judgment book
Tearle, Godfrey
East meets west
Last journey
Thirty-nine steps
Wolves of the underworld
Teasdale, Verree
Milky way
Temple, Shirley
Captain January
Dimples
Littlest rebel
Poor little rich girl
Tenen, Boris
Grain
Terry, Sheila
Go get ‘em Haines
Tester, Desmond
Beloved vaude
Nine days a queen
Thomson, Beatrix
Old curiosity shop
Thomson, Kenneth
Whispering Smith speaks
Thorpen, Edward
Game of Jai-alai
Winter magic
Thornike, Sybil
Nine days a queen
Thunder Cloud, Chief
Annie Oakley
Tibbett, Lawrence
Metropolitan
Under your spell
Tibbetts, Martha
Ranger court
Unknown ranger
Tobin, Genevieve
Broadway hostess
Case of the lucky legs
Here’s to romance
Snowed under Todd, Thelma
Bohemian girl
Two for tonight
Toley, Sidney
This is the life
Tombs, Andrew
Ticket to paradise
Tomlin, Pinky
Don’t get personal
King Solomon of Broadway
Paddy O’Day
With love and kisses
Tone, Franchot
Dangerous
Exclusive story
Gorgeous hussy
King steps out
Love on the run
Mutiny on the Bounty
Suzy
Unguarded hour
Toomey, Regis
Bulldog edition
Shadows of the Orient
Skull and Crown
Torrence, David
Captain Blood
Torr, Raquel
Red wagon
Tovar, Lupita
Old Spanish custom
Towy, Wendy
Invitation to the waltz
Tracy, Arthur
Lime light
Tracy, Lee
Criminal lawyer
Sutter’s gold
Two fisted
Wanted: Jane Turner
Tracy, Spencer
Fury
Libeled lady
Riffraff
San Francisco
Whipsaw
Travis, June
Bengal tiger
Big game
Case of the black cat
Ceiling zero
Earthworm tractors
Jailbreak
Times Square playboy
Treascher, Arthur
Case against Mrs Ames
Hard luck dame
Hearts divided
Hitch hike lady
Satan met a lady
Thank you, Jeeves
Under your spell
Tree, Dorothy
Bridge of sighs
Tree, Lady
Girl from Maxim’s
Trevor, Claire
Career woman
15 Maiden Lane
Human cargo
My marriage
Navy wife
Song and dance man
Star for a night
To Mary—with love
Trevor, Edward
Way Down East
Triquetra, Gabby
Les Misérables
Trux, Ernest
Ladies love hats
Tssarskaya, Emma
Grain
Twelvetrees, Helen
Frisco waterfront
Spanish Cape mystery
Thoroughbred
Tyler, Tom
East bullets
Last outlaw
Powdersmoke range
Roamin’ wild
Trigger Tom

Ulrich, Luis
Lieberle

Valli, Joe
Flying doctor
Vanel, Charles
Les Misérables
Van Riel, Raimondo
Crooked love
Varini, Emilia
One hundred days of Napoleon
Vaughan, Dorothy
Love begins at twenty
Veidt, Conrad
King of the damned
Passing of the third floor back

Velez, Lupe
Morals of Marcus
Venable, Evelyn
Happy go lucky
Harmony lane
North of Nome
Star for a night
Streamline express
Viarisco, Enrico
I love you only
Millaia Territoriale
Vincent, Alan
Love in exile
Vinson, Helen
King of the damned
Voitsik, Ada
L’homme des Folies Bergère
Waddington, Nils
Russen, Det Aer Jut
Varan Pojke
Youth of today
Wakefield, Hugh
Crimson circle
Forget me not
Walburn, Raymond
Accepts quiet
Mister Cinderella
They met in a taxi
Three wise guys
Walker, Ray
Brilliant marriage
Bulldog edition
Cappy Ricks returns
Crime patrol
Dark hour
Fighting coward
Music is magic
Walsh, Ray
Luck of the Irish
Walters, Luana
Aces and eights
Ride ‘em cowboy
Speed reporter
Walthall, Henry B.
China Clipper
Hearts in bondage
Last outlaw
Mine with the iron door
Tales of two cities
Walton, Douglas
Garden murder case
I conquer the sea
Mary of Scotland
Ward, Penelope Dudley
I stand condemned
Ward, Polly
Old curiosity shop
Ware, Irene
Criminal within
Dark hour
False pretenses
Federal agent
Happiness C. O. D.
O’Malley of the Mounted
Whisperin’, Smith speaks
Warner, H. B.
Along came love
Blackmailer
Rose of the Rancho
Warrener, Harold
Invitation to the waltz
Warwick, Robert
Return of Jimmy Valentine

Washburn, Bryant
Millionaire kid
Watson, Lucille
Bishop misbehaves
Wayne, John
Conflict
King of the Pecos
Lawless nineties
Lawless range
Lonely trail
New frontier
Oregon trail
Easy money
Winds of the wasteland
Wayne, Naunton
Kiss me goodbye
Weaver, Crawford
Legion of terror
Webster, Ben
Old curiosity shop
Welder, Virginia
Freckles
Girl of the Ozarks
Timothy’s quest
Trouble for two
Weissmuller, Johnny
Harzaan escape
Welden, Heyburn
Speed
Wells, Jacqueline
Bohemian girl
Night cargo
West, Buster
Moonlight and melody
West, Mae
Go west, young man
Konidike Annie
Westley, Helen
Banjo on my knee
Dimples
Halcyon
Splendor
Whalen, Michael
Career woman
Country doctor
The man I marry
Four little rich girl
Sing, baby, sing
Song and dance man
White Fang
Wheeler, Bert
Mummy’s boys
Silly Billies
White, Thelma
Never too late
Whiteman, Paul
Thanks a million
Whitman, Gee
Wild wings
Whitney, Eleanor
Rose Bowl
Three cheers for love
Timothy’s quest
Wick, Dorotha
Private life of Louis XIV
Wilcoxon, Henry
Crusades
Last of the Mohicans
President’s mystery
Woman alone
Wild, Lois
Caryl of the mountains
Singing cowboy
Wildcat trooper
Williams, Edward
Mystery of the Marie Celeste
Williams, Warren
Case of the lucky legs
Case of the velvet claws
Go west, young man
Hard luck dame
Satan met a lady
Stage struck
Times Square playboy
Widow from Monte Carlo
Williams, Walter
Muder in the red barn
Williams, Emil
Broken blossoms
Williams, Guinn
Gun play
Invitiation to the second
Muss ‘em up
Powdersmoke range
ACTORS AND ACTRESSES

- Continued

Williams, Herb
Willows, of the Rancho
Williams, Hugh
Last Journey
Williams, Roger
Cattle thief
Toll of the desert
Willis, Norman
Lady from nowhere
Wilson, Dorothy
Bad boy
In old Kentucky
Last days of Pompeii
Wilson, Frank
Green pastures
Wilson, Lois
Laughing at trouble
Society fever
Your Uncle Dudley
Wilson, Marie
King of hockey
Satan met a lady
Wilson, Toby
Forced landing
Hill Tillys
With love and kisses
Wingard, Karl G.
Ragman, Det. A. J.
Det. J.
Winninger, Charles
Showboat
Three smart girls
White Fang
Wispe, Ray
Last of the pagans
Withers, Grant
Lady be careful
Let's sing again
Skybound
Withers, Jane
Can this be Dixie?
Gentle Julia
Little Miss Nobody
Faddy O'Day
Pepper
This is the life
Whitecap, Cora
Ladies love hats
Labeled lady
Piccadilly Jim
Wood, Helen
Can this be Dixie?
Champagne Charlie
Charlie Chan at the race track
High tension
Woodbury, Joan
Bulldog coward
Fighting coward
Lion's den
Rogues' tavern
Song of the Gringo
Woods, Donald
Ise of Fury
Road gang
A son comes home
Song of a nation
Story of Louis Pasteur
Tale of two cities
White angel
Woods, Harry
Gallant defender
Heir to trouble
Heroes of the range
Lawless nineties
Silly Bilbies
Woolsey, Robert
Mummy's boys
Silly Bilbies
Worth, Barbara
Racing luck
Worth, David
Riddle Ranch
Wray, Fay
Come out of the pantry
Roaming lady
They met in a taxi
Wrestling talents were bold
Wuest, Ida
Annette in paradise
Wyatt, Charlene
Quaint is the word for Carrie
Wyatt, Jane
Luckiest girl in the world
We're only human
Wynham, Carol
Roamin' wild
Wynham, Joan
Juggernaut
Wynters, Charlotte
Calling of Dan Matthews
Ivory-handled gun
Yacanelli, Frank
Gun play
Lucky terror
Young, Elizabeth
East of Java
Young, Loretta
Crusades
Ladies in love
Private number
Ramona
Unguarded hour
Young, Polly Ann
Border patrolman
His fighting blood
Young, Robert
Bride comes home
Bride walks out
It's love again
Longest night
Red salute
Remember last night
Secret agent
Sworn enemy
Three wise guys
Young, Roland
Give me your heart
Man who could work miracles
One rainy afternoon
Unguarded hour
Younger, E.
Peasants
Youssef, Mohand
Itto
Yurka, Blanch
Tale of two cities
Zaichikov, V.
We are from Kronstadt
Zarubina, I.
Three women
Zellman, Tolle
Vaaran Pojke
Youth of today
Zhimo, Yanina
Three women
Zuskin, V. L.
Greater promise

BOOKS (Adapted)

Adams, S. H.
Gorgeous hussy
In person
Allen, H.
Anthony Adverse
Asbury, H.
Barbary Coast
Austin, F. R.
Drums (Last outpost)
Baldwin, F.
Moon's our home
Spinner dinner (Love before breakfast)
Wife versus secretary
Beaumont, G.
Making of O'Malley (Great O'Malley)
Benefield, B.
Valiant is the word for Carrie
Biggers, E. D.
Seven keys to Baldpate Booth, C. G.
General died at dawn

BRENTANO, L.
Melody lingers on
Brodie, J., & Gordon, A.
Beauty on the beat (Love on the run)
Bruss, K.
Maid of honor (Lady of secrets)
Buchan, J.
Thirty-nine steps
Bulwer-Lytton, E. G. E. L.
Last days of Pompeii
Burgess, G.
Two o'clock courage (Two in the dark)
Burman, B. L.
Steamboat round the bend
Burnett, F. H.
Little Lord Fauntleroy
Burnett, W. R.
Dr. Socrates
Burns, W. N.
Robin Hood of El Dorado
Campbell, R.
Tiger valley (Girl from Mandaly)
Cendrars, E.
Sutter's gold
Connolly, M.
Lady Smith (Palm Springs)
Cooper, J. F.
Last of the Mohicans
Cran, M.
Thin air (Stars over Broadway)
Curwood, J. O.
Country beyond
Song of the trail
Timber war
De Alarcon, P. A.
El Sombrero del Tesoro Picos (I Cappello a Tre Punte)
DeBenedetti, A.
Milizia Territoriale
Deeping, W.
Two black sheep (Two sinners)
Delmar, V.
Bracelets (Hands across the table)
Day never came (King of burlesque)
De Montepin, X., and Dornay, J.
La Forteuse de Pain
Dickens, C.
A Christmas carol (Srooge)
Old curiosity shop
Tale of two cities
Dostoevski, F. M.
Crime and punishment
Crime and punishment (Crime et Châtiment)
Douglas, L. C.
Magnificent obsession
Dumas, A.
Three musketeers
Du Maurier, G.
Peter Ibbetson
Eberhart, M. G.
From this dark stairway (Muder of Dr. Harrigan)
Muder by an aristocrat
Eden, R., pseud.
Dancing feet
Farnol, J.
Amateur gentleman
Forber, E.
Come and get it
Showboat
Finn, J.
Muder in the big house (Jailbreak)
Fitzsimmons, C.
Whispering window (Longest night)
Forester, C. S.
Born for glory
Fox, Jr., J.
Trail of the lonesome pine
Frappé, L.
La Maternelle
Furmans, J. C.
And sudden death [article]
Gardner, E. S.
Case of the caretaker's cat
(Case of the black cat)

Case of the lucky legs
Case of the velvet claws
Special investigator

Garth, D.
Cabin cruiser (Hideaway girl)

Gluck, S.
The last trap (Dark hour)

Gorman, H.

Suzy

Grant, J. E.
Green shadow (Muss 'em up)

Green, A. K.
Leavenworth case

Grey, Z.
Desert gold
Drift fence
King of the Royal Mounted
Nebraska.

Outlaws of Palouse (End of the trail)

Raiders of Spanish Peaks
(Arizona raiders)

Thunder mountain

Wanderer of the wasteland

Hamilton, H.
Banjo on my knee

Hamnett, D.
Maltese falcon (Satan met a lady)

Hardy, J. L.
Everything is thunder

Hatch, E.
My man Godfrey

Hemon, L.
Maria Chapdelaine

Hichens, R.
Garden of Allah

Hobart, V.
Ring around the moon

Hobhouse, A., pseud.
Hangover murders (Re- member last night)

Hubbard, E.
Message to Garcia

Hughes, R.
Canavan (It had to happen)

Hughes, R., and others
President's mystery

Hugo, V.
Les Misérables

Huston, V.
Tango

Jackson, H. H.
Hamamatsu

Jamison, Mrs. C. V.
Toinette's Phillip (Rainbow on the river)

Jesse, F. T.
Lightning strikes twice (Half angel)

Jope-Slade, C.
Forbidden heaven

Jordan, E.
Daddy and I (Make way for Baker lady)

Kantor, M.
Voice of Bugle Ann

Kelland, C. B.
Dreamland (Strike me pink)

Opera hat (Mr. Deeds goes to town)

Kellerman, B.
The tunnel (Transatlantic tunnel)

Kyne, P. B.
Born to fight

Cappy Ricks returns

Three godfathers

Kyeson, C.
Raw gold (West of Nevada)

Lamb, H.
Crusaders

Lanson, D.
We who are about to die

Lewis, S.
Dedworth

Main street (I married a doctor)

Lippincott, N.
Murder at Glen Athol
(Criminal within)

Locke, W. J.
Beloved vagabond

London, J.
Abyzmal brute (Conflicted)

White Fang

MacDonald, W. C.
Peake's smoke range

MacKenzie, C.
Sylvia Scarlett

Markey, G.
His majesty's pajamas
(Love in exile)

Mastrani, P.
La Cieca di Sorrento (Blind girl of Sorrento)

Maucham, S.
Narrow corner (Isle of fury)

Melville, H.
Tybee (Last of the pagans)

Merritt, A.
Burn, witch, burn (Devil doll)

Miller, A. D.
Come out of the pantry

Millin, S. G.
The life of Rhodes (Rhodes, the diamond master)

Milne, A. A.
Four days' wonder

Monroe, N. M.
Dr Samuel Mudd (Prisoner of Shark Island)

Moore, E.
Peacock feather (Pennies from heaven)

Morel, P.
Diamond Jim

Morris, G.
Tiger Island (East of Java)

Mulford, C.
Bar 20 rides again

Bar 20 Trail (Three on the trail)

Merger, H.
La vie de Bohème (Mimi)

Natali, M.
Tempo Massimo

Nicholson, M.
House of a thousand candles

Nordhoff, C. B., and Hall, J.
Men against the sea

(Mutiny on the Bounty)

Mutiny on the Bounty

Pitcairn's Island (Mutiny on the Bounty)

Norris, K.
Beauty's daughter (Navy wife)

Oppenheim, E. P.
Great impersonation

Ouida, pseud.

Under two flags

Palmer, S.
Case of the dangling pearl

(Pilot thicknes)

Mudger on a bridle path

Payne, S.
Tracks (Swifty)

Parrott, U.
Next time we live, or Say goodbye again (Next time we love)

Porter, G. S.
Freckles

Harvester

Powell, I.
Country boy (Man of iron)

Pushkin, A.
Dubrovskoy

Queen, E., pseud.
Chinese orange mystery

Omanarian mystery

Spanish Cape mystery

Reeves, T.
Glory hole (Dangerous waters)

Richards, L. E.
Captain January

Robert-Dumas, C.
Second bureau

Roche, A. S.
Case against Mrs Ames

Rogger, L. L.
The duchess (Princess comes across)

Roth, J.
Job (Sins of man)

Saxton, R.
Message to Garcia

Santley, J.
Murder in a Chinese theatre

(Mad holiday)

Saunders, L., pseud.
Snowed under

Sayre, G.
Sky fever (Flying hostess)

Sheldon, C. M.
In his steps

Shepard, K.
I will be faithful (Human doll)

Sherman, R.
To Mary—with love

Shuhov, L.
Enemies' paths (Grain)

Smith, E.
Red wagon

Spaak, C.
La Kermesse Heroique

Stone, F.
Farmer in the dell

Stuart, R.
Fer-de-Lance (Meet Nero Wolfe)

Strachey, L.
Eminent Victorians (White angel)

Sturt, D.
The shadow

Swift, J.
Gulliver's travels (New Gulfiver)

Syrrett, N.
Portrait of a rebel (A woman rebels)

Tarkington, B.
Boulder dam

Tennyson, A.
Charge of the Light Brigade

(Tolstoi)

D. N.
Anna Karenina

Turner, E.
One-way ticket

Vance, L. J.
Dickens

Van Dine, S. N.
Garden murder case

Wallace, E.
Crimson circle

Wallace, F.
Odds against honor (Big game)

W. O'Reilly of Notre Dame

(Beatle Bowl)

Webb, W. P.
Texas Rangers

Webster, M. C.
The man I marry

Weiman, R.
Witness chair

Wells, H. G.
Shape of things to come

(Things to come)

West, W.
Big Bend Buckaroo (Riding avenger)

Widegren, Gunner

(West)

Aer Jag Det

Wiggin, K. D.
Timothy's quest

Williams, B.
Small town girl

Williams, V.
Clubfoot (Crouching beast)

Wilson, C.
Empty saddles

Stormy
BOOKS (Adapted)—Continued

Wilson, H. L.
His majesty, Bunker Bean
(Wiker Bean)
Wodehouse, P. G.
Picaskey Jim
Thank you, Jeeves
Wright, H. B.
Alias Brian Kent (Road to glory)
Calling of Dan Matthews
Mine with the iron door
Re-creation of Brian Kent
(Wild Brian Kent)
Wyle, L. A. R.
Beather in her hat
Yardley, H. O.
American black chamber (Rendezvous)
Young, S.
So red the rose

DIRECTORS

Alessandrini, G.
Don Bosco
Alexandrite, R.
Cloistered
Allegret, M.
La Aux Dames
Archainbaut, G.
Hideaway girl
My marriage
Return of Sophire Lang
Thunder in the night
Arnstadt, L.
Three women
Azner, D.
Craig’s wife
Asquith, A.
I stand condemned
Atkins, T.
II Gauche
Auer, J. H.
Crime of Dr Creepi
Ayres, L.
Hearts in bondage
Bacon, L.
Cain and Mabel
Frisco Kid
Gold diggers of 1937
Sons o’ guns
Banks, M.
Trouble ahead
Barton, C.
And sudden death
Last outpost
Murder with pictures
Nevada
Rose Bowl
Timothy’s quest
Bauman, B.
Raagen, Det Aer Jag Det
Beaudine, W.
Forgotten women
Mr Cohen takes a walk
Two hearts in harmony
Beaumont, H.
Girl on the front page
Bennett, S. G.
Aveugling waters
Cattle thief
Fugitive sheriff
Heir to trouble
Heroes of the range
Ranger courage
Unknown ranger
Western course
Benoi-Livy, J.
Tito
La Maternelle
Bentley, P.
Music hath charms
Old curiosity shop
Scotland Yard mystery
Berkeley, B.
I live for love
Stage struck
Bernard, R.
Les Misérables
Bernhardt, K.
Beloved vagabond
Besozi, M.
La Canzone del Sole
Biberman, H. J.
Meet Nero Wolfe
One-way ticket
Billon, P.
Second bureau
Black, P.
Hot paprika
Blassetti, A.
Gesuza, la sposa Garmidina
Blystone, J.
Bad boy
Gentle Julia
Little Miss Nobody
Majnificent brute
Boleslawski, R.
Garden of Allah
Metropolitan
O’Shaunessy’s boy
Theodora goes wild
Three godfathers
Bond, R.
Forbidden heaven
Bonnard, M.
Miliza Territoriale
Wedding March
Bornebusch, A.
Skargaard-flirt
Vaaran Polje
Borzaage, F.
Desire
Hearts divided
Shipmates forever
Brubury, R. N.
Between men
Cavalry
Courageous avenger
Last of the Warrins
Lawless range
No man’s range
Sundown Saunders
Brahm, H.
Broken blossoms
Branner, P.
Youth of today
Bremen, H.
Living dangerously
Bretherton, H.
Bar 20 rides again
Call of the prairie
Eagle’s brood
Girl from Mandalay
Heart of the west
King of the Royal Mounted
Leathernecks have landed
Three on the trail
Wild Brian Kent
Brice, M.
Sweet surrender
Brigioni, G.
Passaporto Rosso
Brown, G.
Outlaw deputy
Postal Inspector
Sins of man
Brown, C.
Ah, wilderness
Anna Karenina
Gorgeous hussy
Wife versus secretary
Brown, K.
In his steps
White legion
Brown, M.
Forced landing
Browning, T.
Devil doll
Brunel, A.
Old Spanish custom
Buck, F.
Fang and claw
Burton, D.
Make way for a lady
Melody lingers on
Butler, D.
Captain January
Littlest rebel
Pigskin parade
White Fang
Buzzell, E.
Luckiest girl in the world
Three married men
Caban, C.
Another face
Criminal lawyer
Last outlaw
Storm over the Andes
We who are about to die
Cabr, E. L.
Confidential
Capra, F.
No deeds goes to town
Carruth, M.
Love letters of a star
Chaplin, C.
A.
Modern times
Chenal, P.
Crime et Châtiment
Christie, A.
Ladies love hats
Moonlight and melody
Clair, R.
Ghost goes west
Clemens, W.
Case of the velvet claws
Down the stretch
Here comes Carter
Law in her hands
Man hunt
Clift, D.
Mystery of the Marie Stelle
Clifton, E.
Skull and Crown
Wildcat trooper
Cline, E. F.
F-man
Congo is a great life
Coleman, C. C., Jr.
Code of the range
Legion of terror
Collins, A. G.
Nobody’s fool
Personal maid’s secret
Thank you, Jeeves
Widow from Monte Carlo
Collins, L.
Doughnuts and society
Down under the sea
Leavenworth case
Return of Jimmy Valentine
Spanish Cape mystery
Connelly, M.
Green pastures
Connolly, B.
Changing of the guard
Conway, J.
Lileted lady
Tale of two cities
Cooper, G.
The shadow
Wolves of the underworld
Corrigan, L.
Deerslayer
Cromwell, J.
Banjo on my knee
I dream to Damion
Little Lord Fauntleroy
To Mary—with love
Crosland, A.
Great impersonation
King Solomon of Broadway
Cruze, J.
Sutter’s gold
Two fisted
Cukor, G. D.
Romeo and Juliet
Sylvia Scarlett
Girls’ dormitory
Cummings, I.
Crime patrol
Girls’ dormitory
Poor little rich girl
White hunter
Curitz, M.
Captain Blood
Charge of the Light Brigade
Walking dead
Czinner, P.
As you like it
Dawn, N.
Tundra
De Courville, A.
Seven sinners
De La Falaise, Marquis H.
Legong
Del Ruth, R.
Bordino to dance
Broadway melody of 1936
L'homme des Follies Bergere
It had to happen
Private number
Thanks a million
De Mille, C. B.
Crusades
The plainsman
Deming, R.
Crimson circle
Desmond-Hurst, B.
Ourselves alone
Dieterle, W.
Dr. Socrates
Great O'Malley
Hard luck dame
Midsummer night's dream
Satan met a lady
Story of Louis Pasteur
White angel
Dilany, W.
Broken toys
Cock o' the walk
Moving day
On ice
Three little wolves
Three orphan kittens
Douglas, O.
General Spanky
Dovjenko, A.

Duvivier, J.
Maria Chapdelaine
Dwan, A.
16 Maiden Lane
High tension
Human cargo
Navy wife
Song and dance man
Drigan, E.
We are from Kronstadt
Edwards, H.
Juggernaut
Private secretary
Scribe
Ekck, N.
Nightinscale
Elvey, M.
Transatlantic tunnel
English, J. W.
His fighting blood
Enright, R.
China Clipper
Earthworm tractors
Mias Pacific Fleet
Sing me a love song
Snowed under
Epstein, M.
Ito
La Maternelle
Ermier, F.
Peasants
Erskine, C.
Frankie and Johnnie
Etted, M.
Alpine love
Faralla, D.
Little America
Feyder, J.
La Kermesse Heroique
Pension Mimosas
Fields, L.
Streamline express
Fitzmaurice, G.
Petticoat fever
Sunny
Fitzpatrick, J. A.
Sacred city of the Mayan Indians
Floord, J.
Everybody's old man
We're only human
Florey, R.
Hollywood Boulevard
Pay-Off
Preview murder mystery
Ship cafe
Till we meet again

Ford, J.
Mary of Scotland
Prisoner of Shark Island
Steamboat round the bend
Forde, E.
Country beyond
36 hours to kill
Your Uncle Dudley
Forde, W.
Born for glory
Mourning the damned
Land without music
Forzano, G.
One hundred days of Napoleon
Foster, J. R.
Love letters of a star
Foster, N.
I cover Chinatown
Fox, W.
Powdermoke range
Racing lady
Yellow dust
Franklin, C.
Touch guy
Franklin, S.
Dark angel
Fraser, H.
Cavalcade of the west
Feud of the west
Hair Trigger Casey
Last of the Clintons
Riding avenger
Romance rides the range
Wild mustang
Wildcat Saunders
Freeland, T.
Accused
Amateur gentleman
Frenke, E.
Woman alone
Friedlander, L.
Parole
Stormy
Froelich, C.
Private life of Louis XIV
Gallone, C.
Divine spark
For love of you
Kiss me goodbye
Garnett, T.
Professional soldier
She couldn't take it
Gaslier, N.
Last outpost
Gerasimov, S.
Seven brave men
Gering, M.
Lady of secrets
Rose of the Rancho
Goldblatt, M.
Gypies
Goodwins, L.
With love and kisses
Gordon, S.
Lawless riders
Green, A. E.
Colleen
Dangerous
Golden arrow
Here's to romance
More than a secretary
They met in a taxi
Two in a crowd
Griffith, E. H.
Ladies in love
Next time we love
Grinde, N.
Captain's kid
Fugitive in the sky
Public enemy's wife
Grune, K.
Abdul the damned
Guazzone, E.
Il Re Burlone
Guiol, F.
Mummy's boys
Gultry, L.
Pasteur
Hale, A.
Neighborhood house

Hale, R.
Racing blood
Hall, A.
Annapolis farewell
Give us this night
Your's for the asking
Hall, K. G.
Thorougghbred
Halperin, V.
I conquer the sea
Revolt of the Zombies
Hamilton, W.
Bunker Bean
Freddie
Murder on a bridge path
Seven keys to Baldpate
Hanbury, W. V.
Crouching beast
Scanda of Paris
Hathaway, H.
Go west, young man
Header, M.
Le Bonheur
Herman, A.
Blazing Justice
Gun play
Outlaws of the range
Hill, B.
Put on the spot
Hill, R.
Idaho kid
Kelly of the secret service
Men of the plains
Prison shadows
Rogues' tavern
Too much beef
West of Nevada
Hill, S.
Cardinal
Hillyer, L.
Dangerous waters
Dracula's daughter
Guard that girl
Invisible ray
Superspeed
Hiscott, L.
She shall have music
Hitchcock, A.
Secret agent
Thirty-nine steps
Hoavan, J.
Accusing finger
Arizona raiders
Desert gold
Holmes, B.
Farmer in the dell
Plot thickens
Hopper, E. M.
Hong Kong nights
Hopton, R.
Song of the trail
Horne, J.
Bohemian girl
Howard, D.
Border patrolman
Conflict
Daniel Boone
Mine with the iron door
O'Malley of the Mounted
Thunder mountain
Whispering Smith speaks
Howard, W. K.
Mary Burns, fugitive
Princes comes across
Rendezvous
Hubbert, J.
Jack of all trades
DIRECTORS—Continued
Humberstone, H. B.
Charlie Chan at the opera
Charlie Chan at the race track
Three live ghosts
Hutchinson, C.
Born to fight
Desert guns
Judgment book
Night cargo
Riddle Ranch
Ivanova, A. V.
Dubrovsky
James, A.
Lucky terror
Swiftly
Valley of wanted men
Jason, L.
Bride walks out
Love on a bet
Johnson, R. K.
I'll name the murderer
Reckless way
Skysound
Suicide squad
Jones, B.
For the service
Kane, J.
Guns and guitars
King of the Pecos
Lawless nineties
Lonely trail
Melody trail
Sagebrush troubadour
Tumbling tumbleweeds
Kanturek, O.
Student romance
Keighley, W.
Bullets or ballots
Green pastures
Singing kid
Special agent
Stars over Broadway
Kenton, E. C.
Counterfeit
Devil's squadron
End of the trail
Grand exit
Public menace
Killy, E.
Bunker Bean
Freckles
Murder on a bridge path
Second wife
Seven keys to Baldpate
Wanted: Jane Turner
King, H.
Country doctor
Lloyds of London
Ramona
Way Down East
King, L.
Bengal tiger
Dragerman courage
Road gang
Song of the saddle
Special investigator
Kirkwood, R.
Lawless border
Kirshnoff, D.
Mystic mountain
Korda, A.
Forget me not
Girl from Maxim's
Rembrandt
Koreh-Sablin, V.
Greater promise
Koster, H.
Three smart girls
La Cava, G.
My man Godfrey
She married her boss
Lachman, H.
Charlie Chan at the circus
Man who lived twice
Our relations
Lamac, C.
Frasquita
Knock-out
Lamont, C.
August week-end
Below the deadline
Bulldog edition
Dark hour
False pretenses
Grand slam opera
Happiness C. O. D.
Hitch hike to heaven
Lady in scarlet
Lady luck
Little red schoolhouse
Ring around the moon
Landers, L.
Night waitress
Without orders
Lanfield, S.
Half angel
Kiss of burlesque
Red salute
Sing, baby, sing
Lang, A.
Great Ziegfeld
Lang, F.
Fury
Lang, W.
Love before breakfast
Lara, C.
Ciboulette
Law, H.
Neighborhood house
Lederman, D. R.
Alibi for murder
Case of the missing man
Come closer, folks
Final hour
Hell Ship Morgan
Moonlight on the prairie
Panic on the air
Pride of the Marines
Too tough to kill
Law, W. V.
One rainy afternoon
Three musketeers
Leisen, M.
Big broadcast of 1937
Hands across the table
Thirteen hours by air
Leijes, J.
Young forest
Lein, J.
Land of promise
Leonard, R. Z.
Great Ziegfeld
Piccadilly Jim
LeRoy, M.
Anthony Adverse
I found Stella Parish
Three men on a horse
Lewyn, L.
Pirate party on Catalina Island
Lloyd, F.
Mutiny on the Bounty
Under two flags
Lo, M.
Song of China
Lord, D.
Trapped by television
Lovering, O.
Border flight
Drift fence
Sky parade
Wanderer of the wasteland
Lubin, A.
Frisco waterfront
House of a thousand candles
Two sinners
Yellowstone
Uncry, S. R.
Crooked trail
Desert phantom
Dungeon of the range
Ludwig, E.
Adventure in Manhattan
Fatal lady
Three kids and a queen
Lynwood, B.
Fire trap
Shadows of the Orient
Lytell, B.
Along came love
MacArthur, C.
Once in a blue moon
Soak the rich
McCarey, L.
Milky way
McCarey, R.
Millions in the air
Three cheers for love
McCarthy, J. P.
Song of the Grito
McDonald, F.
Big noise
Boulder dam
Broadway hostess
Isle of fury
Love begins at twenty
Murder by an aristocrat
Mugger of Dr Harrigan
Song of a nation
Treachery rides the range
MacMurray, J.
Fighting youth
McGann, W.
Brides are like that
Case of the black cat
Freshman love
Hot money
Man of iron
Polo Joe
Times Square playboy
Two against the world
McGowan, R.
Confront Justice
Too many parents
Machaty, G.
Ecstasy
Mack, R.
Shake Mr Shakespeare
McLeod, N.
Coronado
Early to bed
Here comes Cookie
Pennies from heaven
Manchester, H.
Royal Waltz
Malasomma, N.
Blind girl of Sorrento
Mamoulian, R.
Gay desperado
Mander, M. H.
Flying doctor
Morals of Marcus
Mannon, A. T.
I was a captive of Nazi Germany
Marin, E. L.
All American chump
Garner murder case
I'd give my life
Moonlight murder
Speed
Sworn enemy
Marshall, G.
Can this be Dixie?
Crime of Dr Forbes
In old Kentucky
Message to Garcia
Music is magic
Show them no mercy
Maslyukof, A.
Children of the revolution
Mason, H.
East meets west
Masson, L.
Le Barbier de Seville
Materrazo, R.
Il Serpente a Sonaglia
Mattioles, M.
I love you only
Mayo, A. L.
Case of the lucky legs
Give me your heart
I married a doctor
Petrified forest
Mays, G.
Kelly the second
Melford, G.
East of Java
Mendes, L.
Man who could work miracles
Menziez, W. C.
Things to come
Mersbach, P.
Invitation to the waltz
Milestone, L.
Anything goes
Miller, A.
Crooked love
Miller, D.
Fighting coward
Mintz, C.
Bon bon parade
Kannibal kapers
Molander, G.
On the sunnyside
Moore, V.
Drainet
Moser, F.
Mayflower
Murphy, R.
Don't gamble with love
Murphy, R.
Collegiate
Myerson, S.
The man I marry
Nattoli, M.
Tempo Massimo
Nelan, T.
This is the life
Neill, R. W.
Lone wolf returns
Neill, S.
Traitor
Neumann, K.
Affair of Susan
Let's sing again
Rainbow on the river
Newfield, S.
Aces and eights
Border caballero
Bulldog courage
Federal agent
Ghost patrol
Go get 'em Haines
Lightnin' Bill Carson
Lion's den
Racing luck
Roarin' guns
Timber war
Trails of the wild
Newman, E. M.
Steel and stone
Newmeyer, F.
General Spanky
Nicholls, G., Jr.
Big game
Chatterbox
Mlais
Return of Peter Grimm
Witness chair
Nigh, W.
Crash Donovan
Dizzy dames
Don't get personal
His night out
North of Nome
Nugent, E.
And so they were married
Splendor
Wives never know
Obal, M.
Annette in paradise
O'Connor, W.
Face that kills
O'Neill, M. G.
Wellington Pike goes west
Ophuels, M.
Liebeli
Palermi, A.
Your troubles are mine
Pearson, G.
Four masked men
Peddelty, D.
Lack of the Irish
Pember, C.
Wanted men
Pembroke, S.
Oregon trail
Pichel, I.
Guyman from Louisiana
Pichter, C.
New frontier
Singing vagabond
Plyof, I.
Anna
Preminger, O. L.
Under your spell
Preobrazhenskaya, O.
Grain
Pudshko, A.
New Gulliver
Ratoff, G.
Sins of man
Ray, A.
Everyman's law
Under cover man
Ray, B. B.
Caryl of the mountains
Midnight phantom
Millionaire kid
Roamin' wild
Speed reporter
Raymond, J.
Come out of the pantry
When knights were bold
Red, R.
House of secrets
Red, T.
Lady be careful
Reinhartd, J.
Captain calamity
Reinhartd, M.
Midsummer night's dream
Renoir, J.
Les amours de Toni
Riesner, C. F.
It's in the air
Roach, H.
Bill Tillyes
Roberts, S.
Ex-Mrs Bradford
Lady consents
Man who broke the bank
at Monte Carlo
Rogel, A.
Escape from Devil's Island
Grand jury
Roaming lady
You may be next
Rogers, C.
Bohemian girl
Rosen, P.
Bridge of sighs
Brilliant marriage
Calling of Dan Matthews
Easy money
Ella Island
It hadn't could have happened
Missing girls
President's mystery
Tango
Three of a kind
Rosmer, M.
Everything is thunder
Mister Hobo
Murder in the red barn
Roth, M.
Flying hostess
Rovensky, J.
Young love
Ruben, J. W.
Old hutch
Rifraft
Trouble for two
Ruggles, W.
Bride comes home
Vallant is the word for
Carrie
Salkow, S. M.
Four days' wonder
Samuels, H.
Fast bullets
Sandrich, M.
Follow the fleet
Top hat
A woman rebels
Santel, A.
Feather in her hat
Winterset
Santley, J.
Dancing feet
Harmony lane
Havster
Her master's voice
Laughing Irish eyes
Smallest girl in town
Walking on air
Waterfront lady
We went to college
Sauvage, A.
Yellow cruise
Saville, V.
First a girl
It's love again
Schnieder, E. gypsis
Schoedsack, E. B.
Last days of Pompeii
Schunzel, R.
Amphitrion
Scotto, A.
Follow your heart
Sedgwick, E.
Mister Cinderella
Virginia Judge
Seller, L.
Career woman
First baby
Here comes trouble
Paddy O'Day
Star for a night
Setler, W. A.
Case against Mrs Ames
Dimples
If you could only cook
In person
Moon's our home
Seitz, G. B.
Absolute quiet
Exclusive story
Kind lady
Last of the Mohicans
Mad holiday
Three wise guys
Selander, L.
Boas rider of Gun Creek
Empty saddles
Ride 'em cowboy
Selman, D.
Dangerous intrigue
Gallant defender
Killer at large
Mysterious avenger
Prescott kid
Secret patrol
Shakedown
Tugboat princess
Semmler, H.
Trigger Tom
Sevilla, R.
She-Devil Island
Shamroy, F.
Never too late
Shea, W.
Girl of the Ozarks
Schertzing, V.
Music goes 'round
Shores, L.
Glory trail
Rebellion
Sloane, P.
Here comes the band
Smith, N.
California mail
Guns of the Pecos
King of hockey
Trainin' west
Stahl, J. M.
Magnificent obsession
Staub, R.
Country gentlemen
Regular kids
Sitting on the moon
Stein, P.
Mimi
Red wagon
Steinbichler, H.
Making of a king
DIRECTORS—Continued

Stevens, G.         Annie Oakley
Stevenson, R.       Jack of all trades
Man who changed his mind
Nine days a queen
Sti, A. R.          La Porteuse de Pain
Stoffard, J.        Scandals of Paris
Stoloff, B.         Don’t turn ‘em loose
To beat the band
Two in the dark
Stone, R.           Mandarin mystery
Strayer, F. R.      Condemned to live
Criminal within
Laughing at trouble
Sea spoilers
Society fever
Summers, W.         Ourselves alone
Sanford, A. E.      Champagne Waltz
Diamond Jim Poppy
Taggart, E.         Longest night
Women are trouble
Talley, T.          Filming the feminine headliners
Winter magic
Tawog, N.           Big broadcast of 1936
Reunion
Rhythm on the range
Strike me pink
Taylor, R.          Cowboy and the kid
Ivory-handled gun
Silver spurs
Sunset of power
Three mesquites
Throwback
Terry, P.           Mayflower
Thiele, W.          Jungle princess
Thorp, R.           Last of the pagans
Tarzan escapes
Voice of Bugle Ann
Tintling, J.        Back to nature
Champagne Charlie
Chungking Shanghai
Educating father
Every Saturday night Pepper
Trauberg, I.        Son of Mongolia
Tryon, G.           Easy to take
Two in revolt
Tuttle, F.          Two for tonight
Valentin, A.        Amphitrion
Van Beuren, A. J.   Molly Moo Cow and the Indians
Van Dyke, W. S.     After the thin man
Devil is a sissy
His brother’s wife
I live my life
Love on the run
Rose Marie
San Francisco
Varnel, M.          Dance band
I give my heart
Vidor, C.           His family tree
Muss ’em up
Vidor, K.           So red the rose
Texas Rangers

PLAYS (Adapted)

Ade, G.            College widow (Freshman love)
Anderson, M.       Mary of Scotland
Winter set
Arlen, M.        Dream princess (Golden arrow)
Balfe, M. W.       Bohemian girl
Bataille, H.       La Marcia Nuziale (Wedding March)

Beaumarchais, P.   Barber of Seville (Le Barber d’Seville)
Marriage of Figaro (Le Barber d’Seville)
Belasco, D.        Return of Peter Grimm Benoit, P.         Nuits de Muscovie (I stand condemned)
Bernstein, H.      Le Bonheur
Bolton, G.         Dark angel
Burnett, F. H.     Little Lord Fauntleroy
Bus-Fekete, L.     Three girls (Ladies in love)
Carb, D.           Chatterbox
Carpenter, E. C.   Perfect gentleman
Chancellor, J.      King of the damned
Chodorow, E.       Kind lady
Cohan, G. M.       Home towners (Times Square playboy)
Seven keys to Baldpate
Song and dance man
Connelly, M.       Green pastures
Conners, B.        Apple sauce (Brides are like that) Crouse, R., and Lindsay, H. Anything goes
Davis, A.          Reunion (Till we meet again)
Dazey, C. T.       In old Kentucky
De Croiset, F.     Ciboulette (opera)
Decsey, E., and Hohn, G. Three (King steps out)
Dixon, C.          Secret agent
Dodd, L. W.        His majesty, Bunker Bean (Bunker Bean)
Donnelly, D.       Porky
Fargo, A., and Laszlo, A. The girl who dared (Top hat)
Fender, G.         Girl from Maxim’s
Flavin, M.         Broken dishes (Love begins at twenty) Podor, L.          Matura (Girls’ dormitory)
Gates, E.          Poor little rich girl
Geoffrey, W.       Scotland Yard mystery
Gleason, J., and Taber, R. Is zat so? (Two-fisted)
Grant, N.          Dusty ermine
Hammerstein, O.    Showboat
Hammerstein, O., and Harbach, O.
Rose Marie
Harte, B.          M’liss
Hay, L., and Mason, A. E. W. Present from Marzate (Widow from Monte Carlo)
Hellman, J.        Children’s hour (These three) Hichens, R.        Garden of Allah
Holm, J. C., and Abbott, G. Three men on a horse
Howard, S.         Dodsworth
Isham, F. S., and Marcin, M. Three live ghosts
Jackson, F.
Bishop misbehaves
Jerome, J. K.
Passing of the third floor
Kavanaugh, K.
Even Saturday night
Kelly, G.
Cra's wife
Kinkead, C.
Common clay (Private number)
Kirklane, D.
Frankie and Johnnie
Knepler, P., and Welleminski, J.
A DuBarry (I give my heart)
Kummer, C.
Her master's voice
Lehar, F.
Refrains [operetta]
Lief, J. O., and Lief, M.
Two for tonight
Lindsay, H., and Robinson, B. E.
Your Uncle Dudley
Locke, V. N.
Morals of Marcus
Mack, W.
Dregnet
Malbaun, R., Wallach, M., and Halicht, G.
Sweet mystery of life (Gold diggers of 1937)
Mallory, J. pseud.
Sweet aches (Give me your heart)
Marischka, H., and E.
Clasy (King steps out) [operetta]
Marlowe, C.
When knights were bold
Michaelis, K.
Die heilige Luege (Star for a night)
Miller, A. D., and Milton, R.
Charm School (Collegiate)
Mozart, W.
Marriage of Figaro (Le Barbier de Seville) [opera]
Nicholson, K., and Robinson, C.
Sailor beware (Lady be careful)
O'Neill, G., and Totheroh, D.
Mother lode (Yellow dust)
O'Neill, E.
Ah, wilderness
Osborne, J.
Shore leave (Follow the fleet)
Oulsnern, F.
All the king's men (Second wife)
Parker, L.
Cardinal
Parker, L. B.
Way Down East
Peple, E.
Littlest rebel
Pulil, P., and R.
Monseur sans gene (One rainy afternoon)
Raphael, J. N.
Peter Ibbetson
Reed, M.
Petticoat fever
Riley, A., and Mervilave, B.
Wrecker (Seven sinners)
Riley, L.
Personal appearance (Go west, young man)
Root, L., and Clark, H.
Milky way
Rossini, G.
Barber of Seville (Le Barbier de Seville) [opera]
Scudder, A.
Liebel
Shakespeare, W.
As you like it
Midsummer night's dream
Romeo and Juliet
Sherwood, R. E.
Petrified forest
Simpson, R., and Gregory, F.
Living dangerously
Sturrock, D., and Scott, N.
The trouble (Ourselves alone)
Szekely, H., and Stemmle, R. A.
Pearl necklace (Desire)
Thomas, A. E.
Lord Richard in the pantry (Come out of the pantry)
Thompson, F., and Donahue, J.
Tips hats (Sons o' guns)
Tully, R. W., and Belasco, D.
Rose of the Rancho
Unger, G., and Lasky, J., Jr.
Private beach (Music is much)
Van Loan, H. H., and Mack, W.
The noose (I'd give my life)
Vulpis, P.
Youth at the helm (Jack of all trades)
Wead, F.
King Zero
Weitenkorn, L.
Five star final (Two against the world)
Young, R. J.
Glorious Betsy (Hearts divided)

PUPPETEERS
Kranzey, F.
New Guliver

SHORT STORIES (Adapted)
Addington, S.
Bless their hearts (And so they were married)
Anderson, F. I.
Notorious Sophie Lang (Return of Sophie Lang)
Bourbon, D.
Roaming lady
Bradford, R.
O'l man Adam an' his chil-

lun (Green pastures)
Bren. J. E., and Houston, N.
Odds are even (Racing lady)
Brennan, F. H.
Matron's report (Little Miss Nobody)
Miss Pacific Fleet
Burke, T.
Chink and the child (Broken blossoms)
Burnett, W. R.
36 hours to kill
Carey, L.
Johnny gets his gun (Straight from the shoulder)
Cockrell, F. M.
Count Pete (Walking on air)
Curwood, J. O.
Caryl of the mountains (Trails of the wild)
Day, L.
Living up to Lizzie (Personal,זכזזאךל"נא secret)

Dodge, H. L.
Skinner's dress suit (His night out)
Edington, M.
Purple and fine linen (Adventure in Manhattan)

Francis, P.
Big (Magnificent brute)
Freeman, E.
$1000 a minute

Gallico, P.
Wedding present
Goodsue, A. C.
Clastrophobia (I live my life)
Grant, J. E.
Habits, Babe, and Big brown eyes (Big brown eyes)
Harlan, C.
The prodigal father (Perfect gentleman)

Harte, O. M.
M'Iss
Harvey, H.
A son comes home
Holding, E. S.
Bride comes home
Jacobs, W. W.
Money box (Our relations)
Jordan, A.
Kitchen privileges (Luckiest girl in the world)
Kelland, C. B.
Recreation car (Florida special)
Keown, Eric
Glourie Castle (Ghost goes west)
King, R.
Case of the Constant God (Love letters of a star)
Knop, P. B.
All for love (Valley of wanted men)
Kneisly, W., M.
Last assignment (Fighting coward)
Lionized (Racing blood)
On Irish hill (Kelly of the secret service)
Without orders
McCordell, R. L.
High hats (Ladies love hats)
McCarthy, M.
Theodora goes wild
McCulley, J.
King of Cactusville (Outlaw deputy)

Maughan, W. S.
Ashenden; or the British agent (Secret agent)
Poe, E. A.
Premature burial (Crime of Dr Crespi)
Rinehart, M. R.
Mr Cohen takes a walk
Runyon, D.
All scarlet (Racing lady) Gentlemen, the King (Professional soldier)

Three wise guys
Scott, E.
Border flight
Smith, G.
Old hatch
Souler, E. L.
Glorious buccaneer (Dancing pirate)

Stevenson, R. L.
Suicide club (Trouble for two)
Taylor, M.
Safari in Manhattan (More than a secretary)
Tinsley, T. A.
Five spot (Panic on the air)
Upson, W. H.
Earthworm tractors
Walpole, H.
Silver mask (Kind lady)
Walsh, T.
Homecoming (Don't turn 'em loose)
Husk (We're only human)
Wells, H. G.
Man who could work miracles

Wilcox, H. C.
Cain and Mabel
Wodehouse, P. G.
Watch dog (Dizzy dames)
Worts, G. F.
Absolute quiet
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Date</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Abdul the Damned</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Absolute Quiet</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Abyssinia (Amk)</td>
<td>Dec 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aces and Eights (Par)</td>
<td>Dec 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accused (Crit-UA)</td>
<td>Dec 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Accusing Finger (Par)</td>
<td>Dec 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Adventure in Manhattan (Col)</td>
<td>Dec 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Affair of Susan (Univ)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ah, Wilderness (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All for Murder (Col)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All American Chump (MGM)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Along Came Love (Par)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alpine Love (NM)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Amateur Gentleman (UA)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Les Amours de Tonio (FMP)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Amphitryon (LC)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>And So They Were Married (Col)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>And Sudden Death (Par)</td>
<td>Dec 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anna (Amk)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anna Karenina (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Annapolis Farewell</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Annette in Paradise (AAFA)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Annie Oakley (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Another Face (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anthony Adverse (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anything Goes (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Arizona Raiders (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>As You Like It (20th-C)</td>
<td>Dec 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(e) Audioscopiks</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August Week-End (Cheast)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Avenging Waters (Col)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Back to Nature (20th-C)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bad Boy (20th-C)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Banjo on My Knee (20th-C)</td>
<td>Dec 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bar 20 Rides Again (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barbary Coast (UA)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Le Barbier de Seville (Hak)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beloved Vagabond (T-Col)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Below the Deadline (Chest-GN)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bengal Tiger (War)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Between Men (Sup)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Big Broadcast of 1935</td>
<td>(Par)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Big Broadcast of 1937</td>
<td>(Par)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Big Brown Eyes (Par)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Big Game (RKO)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Big Noise (War)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Big Show (Rep)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bishop Misbehaves (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Blackmailer (Col)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Blazing Justice (Spec)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Blind Girl of Sorrento (NM)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bohemian Girl (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bold Caballero (Rep)</td>
<td>Dec 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(e) Bon Bon Parade (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Le Bonheur (Pathé)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Border Caballero (Pur)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Border Flight (Par)</td>
<td>Sept 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Born for Glory (GE)</td>
<td>Mar 30, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Born to Dance (MGM)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Born to Fight (Conn)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Boss Rider of Gun Creek (Univ)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Boulder Dam (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bride Comes Home (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bride Walks Out (RKO)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brides Are Like That (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bridge of Sighs (Inv)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brilliant Marriage (Inv)</td>
<td>June 29, Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Broadway Hostess (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Broadway Melody of 1936 (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Broadway Playboy (War)</td>
<td>Sept 28, Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Times Square Playboy</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Broken Blossoms (Twick)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(e) Broken Toys (UA)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Builders of Socialism (Amk)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bulldog Courage (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bulldog Edition (Rep)</td>
<td>Sept 28, Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bullets or Ballots (War)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bunker Bean (RKO)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burning Gold (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cain and Mabel (War)</td>
<td>Aug 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>California Mall (War)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Call of the Prairie (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Calling of Dan Matthews (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Can This Be Dixie?</td>
<td>(20th-C) Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>La Canzone del Sole (Capi)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Il Cappello a 'Tre Punte' (NM)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cappy Ricks Returns (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Captain Blood (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Captain Calamity (Regal)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Captain January (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Captain's Kid (War)</td>
<td>Sept 28, Dec 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cardinal (Gros)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cary of the Mountains (Rel)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Case Against Mrs Amer (War)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Case of the Black Cat (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Case of the Lucky Legs (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Case of the Missing Man (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Case of the Velvet Claws (War)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cattle Thief (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cavalcade of the West (Div)</td>
<td>Dec 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cavalry (Rep)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ceiling Zero (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Champagne Charlie (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Champagne Waltz (Par)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(e) Changing of the Guard (War)</td>
<td>Sept 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charge of the Light Brigade (War)</td>
<td>Dec 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charlie Chan at the Circus (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charlie Chan at the Opera (20th-C)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charlie Chan at the Race Track (20th-C)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charlie Chan in Shanghai (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charlie Chan's Secret (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chatterbox (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Children of the Revolution (Ukr)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>China Clipper (War)</td>
<td>Sept 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ciboulette (Cipar)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cloistered (Pathé)</td>
<td>June 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(e) Cook of the Walk (UA)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Code of the Range (Col)</td>
<td>Dec 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Come Out of the Pantry (B&amp;D-UA)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Comin' Round the Mountain (Rep)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Condemned to Live (Chest)</td>
<td>Mar 20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Confidential (Mas)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Confined (Univ)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Coronado (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Counterfeit (Col)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Title</td>
<td>Date</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>--------------------------------------------</td>
<td>------------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eagle's Brood (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gallant Defender (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Early to Bed (Par)</td>
<td>Feb 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(©) Game of Jai-Alai (Ed)</td>
<td>Mar 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Earthworm Tractors (War)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Garden Murder Case (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>East Meets West (GE)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Garden of Allah (UA)</td>
<td>Mar 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>East of Java (Univ)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(©) Gasolinos (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Easy Money (Inv)</td>
<td>Sep 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gay Decipher (20th-C)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Easy to Take (Par)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gay Desperado (UA)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ecstasy (Eu)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>General Died at Dawn (Par)</td>
<td>Dec 27</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Educating Father (20th-C)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>General Spanky (Roach-MGM)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>End of the Trail (Col)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gentle Julia (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Escape from Devil's Island (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gentleman from Mars (Col)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Every Saturday Night (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Girl from Mandalay (Rep)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Everybody's Old Man (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Girl from Maxims (Hoff)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Everyman's Law (S)</td>
<td>Sep 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Give Me Your Heart (War)</td>
<td>Mar 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Everything Is Thunder (GH)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Give Us This Night (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ex-Mrs Bradford (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Glory Trail (Cres)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Exclusive Story (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Go Get-'Em Haines (Rep)</td>
<td>Sep 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F-Man (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Go West, Young Man (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>False Pretenses (Chest)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gold Diggers of 1937 (War)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pang and Clay (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Golden Arrow (War)</td>
<td>Jun 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Farmer in the Dell (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gorgous Hussy (MGM)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fast Bullets (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grain (Amk)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fatal Lady (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grand Exit (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Feather in Her Hat (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grand Jury (RKO)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dangerous Waters (Univ)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(©) Grand Slam Opera (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dangerous Intrigue (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Great Impersonation (Univ)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Daniel Boone (RKO)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Great O'Malley (War)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Daredevils of the Earth (Hall)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Great Ziefield (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dark Angel (UA)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Greater Promise (Amk)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dark Devour (Chest)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dance Feet (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dark Horse (Chin)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dancing Pirates (RKO)</td>
<td>Jun 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dancing Feet (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dangerous (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dancing Pals (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dangerous Intrigue (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dancing Pals (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dangerous Waters (Univ)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dancing Pals (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Daniel Boone (RKO)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Daredevils of the Earth (Hall)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dark Angel (UA)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dad aus devils of the Earth (Hall)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Desert Gold (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Devil's Squadron (Col)</td>
<td>Jun 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Desert Guns (Beau)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Devil's Crown (Col)</td>
<td>Jun 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Desert Justice (All)</td>
<td>Jun 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Diamond Jim (Univ)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deserted (19th-C)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Diamond Jim (Univ)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deserting Point (Sup)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Divine Spark (GB)</td>
<td>Apr 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Desire (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Divine Spark (GB)</td>
<td>Apr 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Devil Doll (MGM)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dizzy Dames (Lab)</td>
<td>Sep 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Devil Is a Sissy (MGM)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dr Socrates (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Devil on Horseback (GN)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Don Bosco (Luca)</td>
<td>Jun 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Devils' Squadron (Col)</td>
<td>Jun 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Don't Gamble With Love (Col)</td>
<td>Jun 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Diamond Jim (Univ)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Don't Get Personal (Univ)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dimples (20th-C)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Don't Turn 'Em Loose (RKO)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Divine Spark (GB)</td>
<td>Apr 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Down Under the Sea (Mar)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Don't Turn 'Em Loose (RKO)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do Not Count (Par)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Don't Turn 'Em Loose (RKO)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Do Not Count (Par)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Don't Turn 'Em Loose (RKO)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Doughnuts and Society (Mas)</td>
<td>Jun 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Down Under the Sea (Mar)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Doughnuts and Society (Mas)</td>
<td>Jun 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Down the Stretch (War)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dracul's Daughter (Univ)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Down the Stretch (War)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dragsteiner Courage (War)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>After the Sea (Par)</td>
<td>Sep 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dragstar (B-T)</td>
<td>Jun 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dragnet (Col)</td>
<td>Jun 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dragnet (B-T)</td>
<td>Jun 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Drift Fence (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dubrovsky (Len)</td>
<td>Jun 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Drift Fence (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dusty Ermine (Twick)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dusty Ermine (Twick)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dusty Ermine (Twick)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Note: The above table lists film titles and their respective release dates.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PICTURE</th>
<th>RELEASE DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>It's Love Again (GB)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Law in Her Hands (War)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Llanto de Medellin (Col)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lawless Range (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lawless Riders (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leeds in London (20th-C)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>L'Homme des Félés (June)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Liddled Lady (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lied and Loved (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Levenworth Case (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Legion of Terror (Col)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leonora (DuV)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leatherheads Have Landed (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Little American (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Little Lord Fauntleroy (UA)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Little Miss Nobody (20th-C)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Little Red Schoolhouse (Chap)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(s) Little Stranger (Par)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lillie textile (20th-C)</td>
<td>June 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Living Dangerously (AB)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lloyds of London (20th-C)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lone Wolf Returns (Col)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Loneliness Trail (Rep)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Longest Night (MGM)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lorenzo de Medici (NM)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Love Before Breakfast (MGM)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Love Begins at Twenty (War)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Love in Exile (Cap)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Love Letters of a Star (Univ)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Love on a Bet (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Love on the Run (MGM)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Luck of the Irish (Guar)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Luckiest Girl in the World (Univ)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lucky Terror (FD)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>PICTURE</th>
<th>RELEASE DATE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Her Master's Voice (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Her Comes Carter (War)</td>
<td>Sept 28, Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Her Comes Cookie (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Her Comes the Band (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Her Comes Trouble (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Her's to Romance (MGM)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>It's Love Again (GB)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ivory-Handled Gun (Univ)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jack of All Trades (GB)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jailbreak (War)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Judgment Book (Beau)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jungle Princess (Par)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Just My Luck (NC)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(s) Just Speeding (Col)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>His Family Tree (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>His Fighting Blood (Amb)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>His Night Out (Univ)</td>
<td>(Rep) Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hitch Hike Lady (Film) (Inv)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hollywood Boulevard (Par)</td>
<td>Sept 28, Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>L'Homme des Félés (June)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kong Kong Nights (F)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hot Spots (War)</td>
<td>(Par) June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>House of a Thousand Candles (Rep)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>House of Secrets (Chap)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(s) How to Behave (MGM)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Human Cargo (20th-C)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(s) Hunters' Paradise</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Conquer the Sea (Acad)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Cover Chinatown (Gun)</td>
<td>Dec 23</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Dream Too Much (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Found Stella Parish (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Give My Heart (AB)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Live for Love (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Love My Life (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Love You Only (NM)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Married a Doctor (War)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Stand Condemned (UA)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I Was a Captive of Nazi Germany (Mal)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I'd Give My Life (Par)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Idaho Kid (GN)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>If You Could Only Cook (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I'll Name the Murderer (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>In His Steps (GN)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>In Old Kentucky (20th-C)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>In Person (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Invisible Ray (Univ)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Invitation to the Waltz (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Isle of Fury (War)</td>
<td>Sept 28, Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>It Couldn't Have Happened (Chap)</td>
<td>Sept 28, Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>It Had to Happen (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>It's a Great Life (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>It's in the Air (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Title</td>
<td>Year/Studio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-------</td>
<td>-------------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>La Maternelle (SP)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(s) Mayflower (Ed)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meet Nero Wolfe (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Melody Lindgren On (UA)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Melody Trail (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Men of the Plains (GN)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Message to Garola (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Metropolitan (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Midnight Phantom (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Midsummer Night's Dream (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Milizia Territoriale (Caes)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Milky Way (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Millionaire Kid (Rep)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Millions in the Air</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mimi (FD)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mine with the Iron Door (Col)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Les Misérables (Pathé)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Miss Pacific Fleet (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Missing Girls (Chest)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mister Cinderella (MGM)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mr Cohen Takes a Walk (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mr Deeds Goes to Town (Col)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mister Hobo (GB)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M'Liss (RKO)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Modern Times (UA)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moonlight Moo Cow and the Indians (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moonlight Murder (MGM)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moonlight on the Prairie (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moon's Our Home (Par)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morals of Marcus (GH)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>More Than a Secretary (Col)</td>
<td>Dec 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(s) Moscow Moods (Par)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moscow Nights (UA)</td>
<td>See I Stand Condemned (s) Moving Day (UA)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mummy's Boys (RKO)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Murder at a Glen Athol (Inv)</td>
<td>See Criminal Within</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Murder by an Aristocrat (War)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Murder in the Red Barn (Col)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Murder of Dr Harrigan (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Murder on a Bridle Path (RKO)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Murder with Pictures (Par)</td>
<td>Sept 28, Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Music Goes Round (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Music Hath Charms (AB)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Music Is Magic (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Muss 'Em Up (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mutiny on the Bounty (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>My American Wife (Par)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>My Man Godfrey (Univ)</td>
<td>Sept 28, Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>My Marriage (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mysteries of Notre Dame (DuW)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mysterious Avenger (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mystery of the Marie Celeste (UA)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mystic Mountain (Le)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Navy Born (Rep)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Navy Wife (20th-C) (AB)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Neighborhood House (MGM)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nevada (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Never Too Late (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>New Frontier (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>New Gunliner (Amk)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>News of the U.S.S.R. (Amk)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Next Time We Love</td>
<td>(Univ)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Night at the Opera (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Night Cargo (Peer)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Night Watchress (RKO)</td>
<td>Nightingale (Amk)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nine Days a Queen (GH)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>No Man's Range (Sup)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>No More Yesterdays (Col)</td>
<td>See Lady of Secrets</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nobody's Fool (Univ)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>North of Home (Col)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Old Curiosity Shop (HIF)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Old Hutch (MGM)</td>
<td>Sept 28, Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Old Spanish Custom (Hol)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>O'Malley of the Mounted (20th-C)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(s) On Ice (UA)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Once in a Blue Moon</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Once in a Million (Col)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>One Hundred Days of Napoleon (NM)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>One Rainy Afternoon (UA)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>$1,000 a Minute (Rep)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>One-Way Ticket (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oregon Trail (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>O'Shaughnessy's Boy (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Our Relations (MGM)</td>
<td>Sept 28, Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ourselves Alone (AB)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Outlaw Deputy (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Outlaws of the Range (Spec)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paa Solisidan. (8-FI)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pace that Kills (Wk)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paddy O'Day (20th-C)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Palm Springs (Par)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Panic on the Air (Col)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parole (Univ)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Passaporto Rosso (NM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Passing of the Third Floor Back (GB)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pateur (Le)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pay-Off (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Peasants (Lon)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Peg of Old Drury (B &amp; D)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pennies from Heaven (Col)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pension Mimosa (F-Am)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pepper (20th-C)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Perfect Gentleman (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Personal Maid's Secret (War)</td>
<td>See Far From the Spot Road Gang (War)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Peter Ibbetson (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Petrified Forest (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Petticoat Fever (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Piccadilly Jim (MGM)</td>
<td>Sept 28, Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pigskin Parade (20th-C)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(s) Pirate Party on Catalina Island (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Plimsoul (Par)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Plot Thickens (RKO)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Polo Jockey (Col)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Poor Little Rich Girl (20th-C)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Poppy (Par)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>La Porteuse de Pain (Le)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Postal Inspector (Univ)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Powdersmoke Range (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Prescott Kid (Col)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>President's Mystery (Rep)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Preview Murder Mystery (Par)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pride of the Marines (Col)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Princess Comes Across (Par)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Prison Shadows (Fur)</td>
<td>Col 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Prisoner of Shark Island (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Life of Louis XIV (GFS)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Number (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Private Secretary (Twick)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Professional Soldier (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Public Enemy's Wife (War)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Public Menace (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Put on the Spot (War)</td>
<td>June 29, Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Racing Blood (Conn)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Racing Luck (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Raggen, Det Aer Jag Det (Eur)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rainbow on the River (RKO)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rainmakers (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ramona (20th-C)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ranger (Col)</td>
<td>See II Burelone (Capi)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rebellion (Cres)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reckless Way (Fur)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Red Salute (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Red Wagon (FD)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(s) Reg'lar Kids (Vit)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rembrandt (UA)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Remember Last Night? (Univ)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rendezvous (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Daddy O'Day (20th-C)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Return of Jimmy Valentine (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Return of Peter Grimm (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Return of Sophie Lang (Par)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reunion (20th-C)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Revolt of the Zombies (Acad)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rhodes, the Diamond Master (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rhythm on the Range (Par)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rider Ranch (Beau)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ride 'Em Cowboy (Univ)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Riding Avenger (Dix)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Riffraff (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ring Around the Moon (Chast)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rio Grande Romance (Vic)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>See Far From the Spot Road Gang (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Road to Glory (20th-C)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Roamin' Wild (Rep)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Roaming Lady (RKO)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Roarin' Gaby (Par)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Robin Hood of El Dorado (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rio Grande Romance (Vic)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rio Grande Romance (Vic)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST

184

Rogues' Tavern (Par) Sept 28
Romance Rides the Range (Spec) Dec 28
Romeo and Juliet (MG M) Mar 30
Rose Bowl (Par) Sept 28
Ross Marie (MG M) Mar 30
Rose of the Rancho (Par) Mar 30
Royal Waltz (UA) June 28

Song and Dance Man (20th-C) Mar 30
(s) Song of a Nation (War) Dec 28
Song of China (DM) June 29, Sept 28, Dec 28
Song of the Gringo (GN) Dec 28
Song of the Saddle (War) Mar 30, June 29
Song of the Trail (Amb) June 29
Sons o' Guns (War) June 29
Soviet News (Asg) June 29
Spanish Cape Mystery (Rep) Mar 30
Special Agent (War) Mar 30
Special Investigator (RKO) Mar 30
Speed (MG M) Sept 28
Speed Reporter (Rel) June 29
Spending Off (Par) Sept 28
Splendor (UA) Mar 30
Spy 77 (FD) Mar 30
Stage Struck (War) Sept 28, Dec 28
Star for a Night (20th-C) Sept 28, Dec 28
Stars Over Broadway (War) Mar 30
Steamboat 'Round the Bend (M-G-C) Mar 30
(3) Steel and Stone (VII) Mar 30
Storm Over the Andes (Univ) March 30
Stormy (Univ) Story of Louis Pasteur (War) Mar 30
Straight from the Shoulder (Par) Sept 28, Dec 28
Streamline Express (M-G) Mar 30
Strike Me Pink (UA) Mar 30
Student Romance (Imp) Dec 28
Suicide Squad (Par) Mar 30
Sundown Saunders (Sup) June 29
Sunset of Power (Univ) Mar 30
Superspeed (Col) Mar 30
Sutter's Gold (Univ) June 29
Swing Time (RKO) Sept 28, Dec 28
Sworn Enemy (MG M) Dec 28
Sylvia Scarlett (RKO) Mar 30

Tale of Two Cities (MG M) Mar 30
Tango (Inv) Mar 30
Tarzan Escapes (MG M) Dec 28
Tattler (War) See Here
t Comes Carter
Tempo Massimo (World) Mar 30
Texas Rangers (Par) Sept 25, Dec 28
Thank You, Jeeves (20th-C) Dec 28
Thanks a Million (20th-C) June 30
Theodora Goes Wild (Col) Dec 28
These Three (UA) June 29
They Met in a Taxi (Col) Mar 30, June 29
Things to Come (UA) Sept 28, Dec 28
This Is the Land (Aga) Mar 30
This Is the Life (20th-C) Mar 30
Thoroughbred (B-Emp) Sept 28
Three Cheers for Love (Par) Mar 30
Three Godfathers (MG M) Mar 30
Three Kids and a Queen (Univ) March 30
(3) Three Little Wolves (UA) Sept 28
Three Live Ghosts (MG M) Mar 30
Three Married Men (Par) Sept 28, Dec 28
Three Maxims (Will) Sept 28
Three Men on a Horse Dec 28
Three Mesquites (Rep) Dec 28
Three Musketeers (RKO) Mar 30
Three of a Kind (Inv) June 29, Sept 28
Three on the Trail (Par) June 29, Sept 28
(3) Three Orphan Kittens (UA) Dec 28
Three Smart Girls (Univ) Dec 28
Three Wise Guys (M-G-M) June 29, Sept 28
Three Women (Amk) Mar 30
(3) Thrills with D'Arcey (Col) June 29
Throwback (Univ) Mar 30
Thunder in the Night (20th-C) Mar 30
Thunder Mountain (20th-C) Mar 30
Ticket to Paradise (Rep) Sept 28
Till We Meet Again (Par) June 29
Timber War (Amb) Mar 30
Times Square Playboy (W-A) Mar 30, June 29
Timothy's Quest (Par) Mar 30
To Beat the Band (RKO) Mar 30
To Mary—with Love (20th-C) Sept 28
Toll of the Desert (Col) Mar 30
Too Many Parents (Par) Mar 30, June 29
Too Much Beef (B-T) June 29
Too Tough to Kill (Col) Mar 30
Top Hat (RKO) Mar 30
Tough Guy (MG M) Mar 30
Trail of the Lonesome Pine (Par) Mar 30, June 29
Trailin' West (War) Sept 28
Trais of the Wild (Amb) Mar 30
Trapeze (Par) Dec 28
Transatlantic Tunnel (GB) Mar 30
Trapped by Television (Col) Sept 28
Treachery Rides the Range (War) Mar 30, June 29
Trigger Tom (Rel) Mar 30
Trouble Ahead (Atl) Dec 28
Trouble for Two (MG M) June 29
Tugboat Princess (Col) Dec 28
Tumbling Tumbleweeds (Par) Sept 28
Tundra (B-T) Sept 28, Dec 28
Two Against the World (War) Sept 28, Dec 28
Two Fisted (Par) Mar 30
Two-Fisted Gentleman (Col) Dec 28
Two for Tonight (Par) Mar 30
Two Hearts in Harmony (AE) Mar 30
Two in a Crowd (Univ) Sept 28, Dec 28
Two in a Home (MG M) Sept 28, Dec 28
Two in the Haunt (War) June 29
Two in the Night (Col) Sept 28, Dec 28
Two in the World (MG M) June 29, Sept 28
Two in the Wind (War) Sept 28, Dec 28
Two Jakes (Par) Sept 28, Dec 28
Two of a Kind (MG M) Sept 28, Dec 28
Two of a Kind (Par) Dec 28
Two of a Kind (Rep) Dec 28
Two of a Kind (War) Mar 30
Two of a Kind (Univ) Dec 28
Two of a Kind (UA) Dec 28
Two of a Kind (War) Mar 30
Two of a Kind (War) Sept 28, Dec 28
Two of a Kind (War) June 29, Sept 28
Two of a Kind (War) June 29, Sept 28
Two of a Kind (War) June 29, Sept 28
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Motion Picture</th>
<th>Release Date</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Two in Revolt (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Two in the Dark (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Two Sinners (Rep)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Under Cover Man (Rep)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Under Two Flags (20th-C)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Under Your Spell (20th-C)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unguarded Hour (MGM)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Unknown Ranger (Col)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vaaren Pojke (Eur)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Valiant Is the Word for Carrie (Par)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Valley of Wanted Men (Conn)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Virginia Judge (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Voice of Bugle Ann (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walking Dead (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walking on Air (RKO)</td>
<td>Sept 28, Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wanderer of the Wasteland (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wanted: Jane Turner (RKO)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wanted Men (Hoff)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Waterfront Lady (Mas)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Way Down East (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>We Are from Kronstadt (Mos)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>We Went to College (MGM)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>We Who Are About to Die (RKO)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wedding March (F-Am)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wedding Present (Par)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wellington Pike Goes West (O-SR)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>We're Only Human (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>West of Nevada (Colo)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Western Courage (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>When Knights Were Bold (Cap)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Whispersaw (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Whispering Smith Speaks (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White Angel (War)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White Fang (20th-C)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White Hunter (20th-C)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White Legion (GN)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Widow from Monte Carlo (War)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wife Versus Secretary (MGM)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wild Brian Kent (Prin-20th-C)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wild Mustang (Com)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(s) Wild Wings (Vit)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wildcat Saunders (Atl)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wildcat Trooper (Amb)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Winds of the Wasteland (Rep)</td>
<td>Sept 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(s) Winged Champions (Par)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wings over Ethiopia (Par)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(s) Winter Magic (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Winteraret (RKO)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>With Love and Kisses (Mel)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Without Orders (RKO)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Witness Chair (RKO)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wives Never Know (Par)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wolves of the Underworld (Regal)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Woman Alone (GK-B)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A Woman Rebels (RKO)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Woman Trap (Par)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Women Are Trouble (MGM)</td>
<td>June 29, Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yellow Cargo (P-GN)</td>
<td>June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yellow Cruise (FMP)</td>
<td>Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yellow Dust (RKO)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yellowstone (Univ)</td>
<td>Sept 28, Dec 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You May Be Next (Col)</td>
<td>Mar 30, June 23</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Youre Forest (Lib)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Young Love (E-F)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Your Troubles Are Mine (NM)</td>
<td>Sept 25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Your Uncle Dudley (20th-C)</td>
<td>Mar 30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yours for the Asking (Par)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Youth of Today (Par)</td>
<td>Sept 28</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
KEY TO PRODUCERS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>AB</th>
<th>Associated British</th>
<th>Eu</th>
<th>Eureka</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Acad</td>
<td>Academy</td>
<td>Eur</td>
<td>Europa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Acme</td>
<td>Acme</td>
<td>F-Am</td>
<td>Franco-American</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aga</td>
<td>Aga</td>
<td>FD</td>
<td>First Division</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ajax</td>
<td>Ajax</td>
<td>F-F</td>
<td>France-Film</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Al</td>
<td>Alliance</td>
<td>FMP</td>
<td>French Motion Picture</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Amb</td>
<td>Ambassador</td>
<td>Fu</td>
<td>Futter</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Amk</td>
<td>Amkino</td>
<td>Gains</td>
<td>Gainsborough</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Atl</td>
<td>Atlantic</td>
<td>GB</td>
<td>Gaumont British</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B Emp</td>
<td>British Empire</td>
<td>GFS</td>
<td>General Foreign Sales</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B&amp;D</td>
<td>British &amp; Dominions</td>
<td>GK</td>
<td>Garrett Klement</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ban</td>
<td>Banner</td>
<td>Globe</td>
<td>Globe</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bav</td>
<td>Bavaria</td>
<td>GN</td>
<td>Grand National</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Be</td>
<td>Beacon</td>
<td>Gros</td>
<td>Grosvenor</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beau</td>
<td>Beaumont</td>
<td>Guar</td>
<td>Guaranteed</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BIP</td>
<td>British International Pictures</td>
<td>Ha</td>
<td>Hammer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B-T</td>
<td>Burroughs-Tarzan</td>
<td>Hak</td>
<td>Hakim</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Caes</td>
<td>Caesar</td>
<td>Hall</td>
<td>Hallmark</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cap</td>
<td>Capitol</td>
<td>Hoff</td>
<td>Hoffberg</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Capi</td>
<td>Capitani</td>
<td>Imp</td>
<td>Imperial</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cel</td>
<td>Celebrity</td>
<td>Inv</td>
<td>Invincible</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chest</td>
<td>Chesterfield</td>
<td>LC</td>
<td>L'Alliance Cinematographique</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cin-P</td>
<td>Cines Pittaluga</td>
<td>Le</td>
<td>Lenauer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cipar</td>
<td>Cipar</td>
<td>Len</td>
<td>Lenfilm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Col</td>
<td>Columbia</td>
<td>LF</td>
<td>London Films</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Colo</td>
<td>Colony</td>
<td>Lib</td>
<td>Liberty</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Com</td>
<td>Commodore</td>
<td>Libk</td>
<td>Libkow</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Conn</td>
<td>Conn</td>
<td>LP</td>
<td>Le Pelletier</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cres</td>
<td>Crescent</td>
<td>Lux</td>
<td>Lux</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crit</td>
<td>Criterion</td>
<td>Mal</td>
<td>Malvina</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dar</td>
<td>Darmour</td>
<td>Mas</td>
<td>Mascot</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deka</td>
<td>Deka</td>
<td>Mel</td>
<td>Melody</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Div</td>
<td>Diversion</td>
<td>MGM</td>
<td>Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>DM</td>
<td>Douglas MacLean</td>
<td>Mos</td>
<td>Mosfilm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>DuW</td>
<td>DuWorld</td>
<td>N</td>
<td>National</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ed</td>
<td>Educational</td>
<td>NC</td>
<td>New Century</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E-F</td>
<td>Elekta-Films</td>
<td>NM</td>
<td>Nuovo Mondo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Emp</td>
<td>Empire</td>
<td>O</td>
<td>O'Neill</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ET</td>
<td>Elite Tonfilm</td>
<td>Oly</td>
<td>Olympic</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F</td>
<td>Pacific</td>
<td>Pal</td>
<td>Palestine Picture</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F-A</td>
<td>F-A</td>
<td>Par</td>
<td>Paramount</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F-P</td>
<td>F-P</td>
<td>Pathé</td>
<td>Pathé Natan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F-T</td>
<td>F-T</td>
<td>Peer</td>
<td>Peerless</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F-U</td>
<td>F-U</td>
<td>Prin</td>
<td>Principal</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>G</td>
<td>Regal</td>
<td>Rel</td>
<td>Reliable</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>G-A</td>
<td>G-A</td>
<td>Relia</td>
<td>Reliance</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>G-F</td>
<td>G-F</td>
<td>Rep</td>
<td>Republic</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GMP</td>
<td>GMP</td>
<td>RKO</td>
<td>RKO Radio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ha</td>
<td>Roach</td>
<td>Roach</td>
<td>Roach</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>H</td>
<td>Svensk Film Industri</td>
<td>SFI</td>
<td>Svensk Film Industri</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ham</td>
<td>Sherman</td>
<td>Sher</td>
<td>Sherman</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hak</td>
<td>Sp</td>
<td>SP</td>
<td>Studios Photosonor</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hall</td>
<td>SR</td>
<td>SR</td>
<td>State Rights</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hoff</td>
<td>Spec</td>
<td>Spec</td>
<td>Spectrum</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hoffberg</td>
<td>Sup</td>
<td>Sup</td>
<td>Supreme</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Imp</td>
<td>Sw-P</td>
<td>Sw-P</td>
<td>Swiss-Praesens</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Inv</td>
<td>T</td>
<td>T</td>
<td>Toepplitz</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Invincible</td>
<td>Tobis</td>
<td>Tobis</td>
<td>Toepplitz</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LC</td>
<td>20th-C</td>
<td>20th-C</td>
<td>20th-Century-Fox</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>L'Alliance Cinematographique</td>
<td>Twick</td>
<td>Twick</td>
<td>Twickenham</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Le</td>
<td>UA</td>
<td>UA</td>
<td>United Artists</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Len</td>
<td>UFA</td>
<td>UFA</td>
<td>UFA Films</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lenfilm</td>
<td>Ukr</td>
<td>Ukr</td>
<td>Ukrainfilm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>London Films</td>
<td>Univ</td>
<td>Univ</td>
<td>Universal</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Liberty</td>
<td>VB</td>
<td>VB</td>
<td>Van Beuren</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Libkow</td>
<td>Vic</td>
<td>Vic</td>
<td>Victory</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Le Pelletier</td>
<td>Vit</td>
<td>Vit</td>
<td>Vitaphone</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lux</td>
<td>Wan</td>
<td>Wan</td>
<td>Wanger</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Malvina</td>
<td>War</td>
<td>War</td>
<td>Warner</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mascot</td>
<td>Wil</td>
<td>Wil</td>
<td>Wilcox</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Melody</td>
<td>WK</td>
<td>WK</td>
<td>Willis Kent</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mosfilm</td>
<td>World</td>
<td>World</td>
<td>World</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Directory of Producers

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Producer</th>
<th>Address</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Academy</td>
<td>Academy Pictures, Inc, 4516 Sunset Blvd, Hollywood, Calif.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ajax</td>
<td>Ajax Pictures Corp, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alliance</td>
<td>Alliance Films Corp, 1276 7th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Amkino</td>
<td>Amkino Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Associated British</td>
<td>Associated British Pictures, Ltd, Film House, Wardour St, London, W. 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Atlantic</td>
<td>Atlantic Pictures Corp, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beacon</td>
<td>Beacon Films, Inc, 729 7th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beaumont</td>
<td>Beaumont Pictures, Inc, 846 E 6th St, Los Angeles</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>British &amp; Dominions</td>
<td>British &amp; Dominions Film Corp, Ltd, Empire House, 117 Regent St, London, W. 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Burrougha-Tarzan</td>
<td>Burrougha-Tarzan Enterprises, Inc, 1270 6th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Capitani</td>
<td>Capitani-Films, Via XX Settembre, Rome</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Capitol</td>
<td>Capitol Film Productions, Ltd, 28 Brook St, London W. 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Celebrity</td>
<td>Celebrity Productions, Inc, 723 7th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chesterfield</td>
<td>Chesterfield Motion Pictures Corp, 1540 Broadway, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Columbia</td>
<td>Columbia Pictures Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Commodore</td>
<td>Commodore Pictures Corp, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Conn</td>
<td>Conn Pictures Corp, Talisman Studios, 4516 Sunset Blvd, Hollywood, Calif.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Criterion</td>
<td>Criterion Film Productions, Ltd, 28 Brook St, London, W. 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Darmour</td>
<td>Darmour Studios, 5823 Santa Monica Blvd, Hollywood, Calif.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deka</td>
<td>Deka-Film, Berlin SW 68, Hedemannstrasse 13</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Diversioon</td>
<td>Diversioon Pictures, Inc, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>DuWorld</td>
<td>DuWorld Pictures, Inc, 729 7th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Educational</td>
<td>Educational Pictures, Inc, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Empire</td>
<td>Empire Film Distributors, Inc, 723 7th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>First division</td>
<td>First Division Pictures, Inc, RKO Bldg, Radio City, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>First national</td>
<td>See Warner Fox. See 20th century-Fox</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Franco-American</td>
<td>Franco-American Film Corp 66 6th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Futter</td>
<td>Futter-Walsh, Inc, and The Futter Corp, 1426 N Bedford Drive, Hollywood, Calif; Paramount Bldg, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gainsborough</td>
<td>Gainsborough Studios, Poole St, Islington, N. 1, London</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gaumont</td>
<td>Gaumont British, Gaumont British Picture Corp of America, 1500 Broadway, N.Y. Gaumont British Picture Corp, Ltd, 142-180 Wardour St, London, W. 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>General foreign sales</td>
<td>General Foreign Sales Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Goldwyn-United Artists</td>
<td>See United Artists</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grand National</td>
<td>Grand National Film, Inc, 1270 6th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hoffberg</td>
<td>Hoffberg, J. H. Hoffberg, Co, Inc, 729 7th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Imperial</td>
<td>Imperial Distributing Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Invincible</td>
<td>See Chesterfield Lenauer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leinfilm</td>
<td>Leinfilm, Leningrad, U.S.S.R.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Libkob</td>
<td>Libkob Film, Marszalkowska 94, Warsaw</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>London films</td>
<td>London Film, London Film Productions, Ltd, 22 Grosvenor St, London, W. 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mascot</td>
<td>Mascot Pictures Corp, 1776 Broadway, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MG K</td>
<td>Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corp, 1540 Broadway, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Moscow film studios</td>
<td>See Amkino</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nuovo mondo</td>
<td>Nuovo Mondo Motion Pictures, Inc, 1270 6th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Olympic</td>
<td>Olympic Motion Picture Corp, 325 W 44th St, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paramount</td>
<td>Paramount Pictures, Inc, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pathé</td>
<td>Pathé Cinema, 6 Rue Francoeur, Paris</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pickford-Lasky</td>
<td>Pickford-Lasky, 729 7th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Principal</td>
<td>Principal Distributing Corp, RKO Bldg, Radio City, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reliable</td>
<td>Reliable Pictures Corp, 6048 Sunset Blvd, Hollywood, Calif.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reliance</td>
<td>Reliance Pictures, Inc, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Republic</td>
<td>Republic Pictures Corp, RKO Bldg, Rockefeller Center, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RKO</td>
<td>RKO Radio Pictures, Inc, 1270 6th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Roach</td>
<td>Hal Roach Studios, Inc, 3822 Washington Blvd, Culver City, Calif.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Seznick international</td>
<td>Seznick International Films, Inc, 8336 Washington Blvd, Culver City, Calif.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spectrum</td>
<td>Spectrum Pictures Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Studios Photosonor</td>
<td>Studios Photosonor, 17 bis Quai de Seine, Courbevoie, Paris</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supreme</td>
<td>Supreme Pictures, 1501 Broadway, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Swiss-Praesens Films</td>
<td>Praesens Film A. G., Zurich, Switzerland</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20th century-Fox</td>
<td>20th Century-Fox Film Corp, 44 W 55th St, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Twickenham</td>
<td>Twickenham Film Studios, Ltd, Alliance Studios, St Margaret's, Middlesex, Eng.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UFA</td>
<td>UFA Films, Inc, 729 7th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>United artists</td>
<td>United Artists Corp, 729 7th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Universal</td>
<td>Universal Pictures, Inc, 1250 6th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Van Beuren</td>
<td>Van Beuren Corp, 1270 6th Av, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Victory</td>
<td>Victory Pictures Corp, Foy Studios, Culver City, Calif.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vitaphone</td>
<td>Vitaphone Corp, 1277 E 14th St, Brooklyn, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Warner</td>
<td>Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc, 321 W 44th St, N.Y.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Title</td>
<td>Page</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>--------------------------------------------</td>
<td>------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>North of Nome</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Old Hutch</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Once in a Blue Moon</td>
<td>102</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>One Hundred Days of Napoleon</td>
<td>102</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Our Relations</td>
<td>103</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pennies from Heaven</td>
<td>103</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Piccadilly Jim</td>
<td>104</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pigskin Parade</td>
<td>105</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Plainsman</td>
<td>106</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Plot Thickens</td>
<td>107</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Polo Joe</td>
<td>108</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Prescott Kid</td>
<td>109</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>President's Mystery</td>
<td>109</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Put on the Spot</td>
<td>110</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Racing Lady</td>
<td>110</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rainbow on the River</td>
<td>111</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ramona</td>
<td>111</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ranger Courage</td>
<td>113</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rebellion</td>
<td>113</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rembrandt</td>
<td>113</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reunion</td>
<td>115</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ride 'Em Cowboy</td>
<td>116</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Romance Rides the Range</td>
<td>116</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rose Bowl</td>
<td>117</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sea Spoilers</td>
<td>118</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Second Wife</td>
<td>119</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sing, Baby, Sing</td>
<td>119</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sing Me a Love Song</td>
<td>119</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sitting on the Moon</td>
<td>120</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smart Blonde</td>
<td>120</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smartest Girl in Town</td>
<td>121</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A Son Comes Home</td>
<td>122</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Son of Mongolia</td>
<td>122</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Song of China</td>
<td>123</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Song of the Gringo</td>
<td>123</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stage Struck</td>
<td>124</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Star for a Night</td>
<td>124</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Straight from the Shoulder</td>
<td>124</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Student Romance</td>
<td>125</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Swing Time</td>
<td>125</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sworn Enemy</td>
<td>126</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tarzan Escapes</td>
<td>126</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Texas Rangers</td>
<td>128</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thank You, Jeeves</td>
<td>129</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Theodora Goes Wild</td>
<td>130</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>They Met in a Taxi</td>
<td>131</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Three Married Men</td>
<td>132</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Three Men on a Horse</td>
<td>132</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Three Mesquiteers</td>
<td>134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Three Smart Girls</td>
<td>134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Traitor</td>
<td>135</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trouble Ahead</td>
<td>135</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tugboat Princess</td>
<td>135</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tundra</td>
<td>135</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Two in a Crowd</td>
<td>136</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Under Cover Man</td>
<td>137</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Under Your Spell</td>
<td>137</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vaaran Pojke</td>
<td>138</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Valiant Is the Word for Carrie</td>
<td>139</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walking on Air</td>
<td>141</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wanted: Jane Turner</td>
<td>141</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>We Who Are About to Die</td>
<td>142</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wedding Present</td>
<td>143</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White Hunter</td>
<td>144</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>White Legion</td>
<td>145</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wild Brian Kent</td>
<td>146</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Winterset</td>
<td>146</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>With Love and Kisses</td>
<td>148</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Without Orders</td>
<td>148</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wives Never Know</td>
<td>149</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A Woman Rebels</td>
<td>150</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yellow Cruise</td>
<td>152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yellowstone</td>
<td>153</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
How to Use the Motion Picture Review Digest

Sample Entry

FURY. MGM 90min My 29 '36
Cast: Spencer Tracy, Sylvia Sidney, Walter Abel, Frank Albertson, Bruce Cabot
Director: Fritz Lang

"Tracy is peace-loving, hard working. He and Sylvia are engaged. On circumstantial evidence, Tracy is arrested as a kidnapper in a Middle-western village. Led by rowdies, the villagers storm the jail, bent on lynching Tracy. Unable to enter Tracy's cell, the mob dynamites the jail. Tracy is believed killed, but the explosion tears off his cell door and he escapes, although injured." Film Daily

Audience Suitability Ratings

"A sometimes horrific indictment against the abuse of law and order. In a clear, unbiased manner the social problems of lynching and mob fury are presented. Adults." + Nat Legion of Decency Je 11 '36

"No locality is indicated, and the plot is cleverly contrived not to arouse controversy and to avoid ultimate tragedy, but the case against lawlessness is presented with surprising force. . . Suggested for church use. Recommended to the Committee on Exceptional Photoplays. Family." + + Wkly Guide Je 6 '36

Newspaper and Magazine Reviews

"How to disturb an audience is of course a big problem in the cinema. Director Fritz Lang has been highly successful with the problem. . . One might say too successful, for 'Fury' is disturbing for the wrong reason: the problem it poses is entirely unresolved at the close. . . It is regrettable that [Director Lang] did not, or could not, make 'Fury' the first-rate tragedy it might have been." Robert Giroux + Nation p21 Je 24 '36

"Although the film becomes top-heavy with an individual plot in the final sequence, it remains a compelling and terrifying document. . . So magnificent is it in its unwavering denunciation of mob rule that one regrets that it has had to fall back on courtroom melodramatics and plot manipulation before it ends." Howard Barnes + N Y Herald Tribune p8 Je 6 '36

Trade Paper Reviews

"From directing, writing, acting standpoints, 'Fury,' is a topnotch job. For audiences, however, it may prove too dramatic for better than fair returns. . . Well done, it is however, a type picture that doesn't always realize its possibilities at the box office. Exploitation may aid it." + + Phila Exhibitor p22 Je 1 '36

Starting at the beginning, the title of this picture is Fury. The producing company is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. It is 90 minutes in length. It was released on May 29, 1936.

The list of principal players and the director will require no explanation.

Next comes a brief note describing the picture, its nature, and plot. Sometimes these notes are written by our staff. In other cases they are quoted from a published source. In such cases the source is given.

Following the descriptive note, the excerpts from reviews begin. Following each review the source is given, with date of issue and number of the page on which the review appears.

It will be noticed that plus and minus signs sometimes precede the sources. These indicate the degree of favor or disfavor of the review as a whole (not just of the quoted excerpt). The meaning of the various combinations of these signs is as follows:

+ + Exceptionally Good; + Good; + - Fair; - + Mediocre; - Poor; - - Exceptionally Poor

The signs are omitted when a review merely reports on a film without expressing a definite critical opinion.

In interpreting these signs, it will be well to remember that their precise significance will vary somewhat according to the source. In general there are three types of sources represented in the MOTION PICTURE REVIEW DIGEST: (1) audience suitability ratings by special reviewing organizations (women's clubs, religious groups and the like); (2) general newspapers and magazines; and (3) trade papers. The purpose of the audience suitability ratings by the special reviewing organizations is chiefly to pass on questions of morality and propriety and to report on suitability for children of various ages. The purpose of the reviews in general magazines and newspapers is to inform the adult patron of artistic and entertainment qualities. The purpose of the trade paper reviews is to inform the exhibitor of probable commercial value.